The American Steel & Wire Company, maker of American Fence control every process from selection of ore to the finished product. They know what AMERICAN FENCE is and stand back of it with this unqualified guarantee, based on their past record of more than 25 years for producing QUALITY PRODUCTS.

Zinc Insulated AMERICAN FENCE

Northern Lumber Co.

"EVERYTHING TO BUILD ANYTHING"

Klemme, Iowa

WAR THREATENS BULGAR STATES

Russia and Rumania Mobilize—Bulgaria King Held Prisoner.

Berlin.—The bomb that shattered the Sofia cathedral and killed 200 people last week threatens to raise the same specter of a general war as did the shots that killed the Austrian archduke at Sarajevo. Russia is mobilizing its troops in southern Ukrainia. Yugo-Slavia is preparing a sharp note to Bulgaria demanding satisfaction for charges made by Bulgarian minister that Yugo-Slavia is encouraging the Bulgarian revolutionists.

Bucharest.—The Rumanian press is receiving sensational accounts of the Bulgarian situation. Revolutionary disturbances are reported. Rumania is moving troops toward both the Russian and Bulgarian frontiers.

Rome.—A dispatch from Belgrade to the Tribuna says that King Boris of Bulgaria has been imprisoned in the royal palace by the order of General Lazareff because the nationalist military element objected to the sovereign's request that Premier Tzankoff resign to permit the formation of a coalition cabinet including opposition elements.

Another dispatch from Belgrade, but sent by way of Vienna, declares that Yugo-Slavia, offended by Minister of Interior Russeff's declarations before the Bulgarian national assembly regarding the activities of the Yugo-Slav legation at Sofia, has demanded an explanation and is threatening to break off diplomatic relations.

Reports have reached here that a portion of the Greek army is mobilizing.

Sofia.—The revolutionist Tehountouioff, one of the principal terrorists under Ninkoff, the alleged Communist leader in the recent cathedral bomb outrage, who was shot and killed by the police, met death in much the same manner as his chief. Discovered by the police, he refused to surrender.

The Bulgarian government began to enlist the additional 7,000 militia authorized by the council of ambassadors.

Moscow.—Much excitement is manifested in the Soviet press and government circles over statements circulated abroad fixing responsibility for the terrorism in Sofia upon Moscow.

Vice President Requests Public Aid on Senate Rule

New York.—In an address before the annual luncheon of the Associated Press, his views on senate reform were presented by Vice President Charles G. Dawes. He declared that the agitation for limitation of debate in the senate was patriotic, nonsectarian and nonpartisan.

"The issue," said the vice president, "is this: Shall the senate continue unchanged its existing rules which admittedly make possible at times the exercise by a minority or even one senator of power to block the purpose of the majority of the senate to legislate?

"It is important that the senate's rules give every senator a square deal but it is imperative that they also give the American people a square deal," he added.

He insisted that the powers of senators in this regard are subversive to the principles of representative and constitutional government. He appealed to individuals to make known their desires in this connection direct to the senators themselves.

Publishers representing 575 member newspapers were in attendance at the luncheon. About 450 women friends and relatives of the publishers were in the galleries.

Big Merchant Marine Urged by Gen. Pershing

Washington.—General Pershing, in a radio address from the Pan-American building, asserted that an adequate merchant marine is as necessary in the defense of this country as are navies and armies.

"Unless we wish to find ourselves again impotent as we were in 1917," he declared, "we must take measures now to prevent it."

General Pershing further declared that our trade with South America would never flourish as it should until a strong merchant marine was built up in this country.

The expansion of our trade with South American countries during the last ten years has been partly due to the war and partly through natural growth, he said.

"We are taking a limited amount of their material, but we are not exporting to them our due proportion of manufactured goods," the general continued. "With a careful study of their needs and an improvement in our own methods, the total trade could readily be increased."

$50,000 Gems Stolen

New York.—Mrs. T. C. Jenkins, said to be the former wife of a millionaire wholesaler of Pittsburgh, was robbed of $50,000 worth of jewels in the Hotel Ambassador.

Capital Curbs Fast Autoist

Washington.—A new traffic code imposing severe regulations upon motorists and giving pedestrians the right of way at intersections, will become effective May 3, it is announced here.

LUCILLE ATCHERSON

New portrait of Miss Lucille Atcherson, the first woman to enter the American diplomatic service, who has been appointed third secretary of the legation at Berne, Switzerland. Miss Atcherson was born in Columbus, Ohio, and is a graduate of Smith college.

DAWES TRACES RIDE OF REVERE AND KIN

Vice President Takes Part in Celebration at Concord

Boston.—The vice president of the United States rode with the spirits of his ancestors through Middlesex, rousing village and farm in a new outpouring of patriotism with a plea for the perpetuation of American ideals.

Beginning at ten in the morning in John Elliot square, Roxbury, where he dispatched a horseman impersonating his great-great-grandfather, William Dawes, on a re-enactment of his immortal ride as the aid and companion of Paul Revere, and ending at eight o'clock in the evening with a reverent visit to the old North bridge at Concord, where French's eager minute man stands forever in bronze to mark the spot where the first American fell, Charles G. Dawes carried his message through the countryside to uncounted thousands at the roadside, in school yards and in town halls.

Clattering sometimes ahead of him, sometimes behind, rode the cavalryman impersonating the Dawes who helped Revere spread his alarm.

Gen. John J. Pershing and numerous dignitaries of the government were in the motor-car cavalcade which traversed the separate routes of Revere and William Dawes to Lexington, where Revere was captured and Dawes left to complete the journey to Concord with the news that the British were coming.

Wilbur Orders Six Naval Men Tried on Rum Charge

Washington.—Orders were signed by Secretary Wilbur for court-martial of six officers on charges growing out of the raid on the naval transport Beaufort at Norfolk, Va., on February 24, when a quantity of liquor was seized on its arrival from the West Indies.

The board is expected to be designated soon and will convene for the trial at Hampton Roads.

Commander D. W. Fuller of Rockland, Maine, who was in command of the Beaufort, is charged with neglect in that he did not discover the presence of liquor on board and allowed liquor to leave the ship.

Charges against the other officers allege possession of liquor on board and smuggling liquor into the United States. The officers are Lieut. Fred M. Rohow, Sturgeon Bay, Wis.; Lieut. R. D. Hill, Jr., Norwich, Conn.; Lieut. Clarence W. Baker, Newport, R. I.; Machinist Frank M. Hendricks, New Haven, Conn., and Chief Pay Clerk J. P. Gallagher, Norfolk, Va.

Collins' Body Removed From Trap in Sand Cave

Cave City, Ky.—There was no dirge, save the creaking of the hoist, when Floyd Collins' body was hauled up from the trap in Sand Cave, where he perished when trapped by a rock two months ago, while exploring for new ones. Not more than 100 persons, mostly Sand Cave natives, saw the liberation of the body. The rock that held Collins' leg did not weigh over 75 pounds.

Wrapped like a mummy and hanging starkly from a rope slung beneath the shoulders, the body was elevated to the surface.

Part of the cloth then was cut away from the face and chest, and lifelong friends of the cave explorer identified the body.

The body was removed to an undertaking establishment here.

U. S. Marines Quit Honduras

Washington.—The landing detachment of 165 officers and men from the light cruiser Denver has been withdrawn from Ceiba, Honduras, and was made possible by the arrival of Honduran troops.

Fire Threatens Oakland

Oakland, Cal.—Ten blocks in the heart of Oakland were threatened by fire. Three were injured, one fireman sustaining serious burns. Property damage totaled $100,000.

SENATOR DENIES ALL U. S. CHARGES

Wheeler Gives Alibi to Disprove Charge He Offered to Split Fees.

Great Falls, Mont.—Taking the stand in his own defense, Senator Burton K. Wheeler made a sweeping denial of the charges made against him by the government.

He outlined in detail the nature of the legal services he performed for Gordon Campbell, who was exploiting oil and gas properties in northern Montana, and denied that he employed his office as senator to promote the interests of his client in land-permit controversies pending in Washington.

The senator also made a categorical denial of the story told on the witness stand by George B. Hayes of New York, the government's star witness, in which was described an alleged meeting between Senator Wheeler and Mr. Hayes in the Waldorf-Astoria hotel on March 16, 1923, the day before Senator and Mrs. Wheeler sailed for Europe.

Mr. Hayes swore that Senator Wheeler invited him to take over Mr. Campbell's business with the land office and split with him the fees, which were estimated, Hayes said, to run into millions.

Senator Wheeler accounted for every hour of his last day in New York before sailing for Europe and left no gap into which Mr. Hayes might have slipped for the meeting in the Waldorf-Astoria lobby.

In corroboration Mr. Wheeler made public the following telegram, sent to him from Washington by Mrs. Wheeler:

"I was with you all day in New York on March 16, 1923, and you met no Mr. Hayes that day. We shopped until the stores closed, then went to dine at seven o'clock with Mrs. Griswold. Colonel House and Colonel Stone were there."

Explaining the absence of Mrs. Wheeler from the trial, the senator told the court that she is now awaiting the arrival of a baby at their home in Washington.

Office files containing papers important to the defense of Senator Wheeler have been ransacked by Department of Justice agents here since the trial began, members of the defense staff charged.

Coolidge Tells D. A. R. Benefits of Alien Law

Washington.—Restriction of immigration, a revolutionary policy in American government, has been of benefit not only to this country and the nations of Europe, but also to the immigrants themselves, President Coolidge told the assembled Daughters of the American Revolution, in the huge Washington auditorium.

The President acclaimed the work of the patriotic organization, especially its accomplishments in educational and Americanization fields and at Ellis island, during the 35 years of its existence. He praised the efforts of the D. A. R. in raising civic ideals, but pointed out that until the citizenry attains an almost perfect self-government "from within," the continued intrusion of the federal government into business and private life will be a necessity.

Chicago Grain Elevators Burn; Loss at $2,500,000

Chicago.—Fire destroyed two great grain elevators with a loss estimated by the owners at $2,500,000, and for a time threatened to wipe out dozens of homes and industrial establishments in the Bridgeport district around South Halsted and Twenty-second streets.

Firemen said it was the worst grain elevator fire Chicago has had in 20 or more years. The two elevators, containing more than 2,000,000 bushels of corn and oats, were burned out. They were under lease by the Grain Marketing company, a co-operative association of farmers, millers and small elevator operators.

Fire Destroys $150,000 Love Nest of F. L. Wright

Spring Green, Wis.—Lightning set fire to and destroyed the famous $150,000 bungalow Taliesen of Frank Lloyd Wright, Chicago architect.

Taliesen—recently christened that in place of Hillside, its former name—was the love nest of two famous liaisons in Wright's career that won him notoriety in every civilized nation.

Beverley Bayne, Actress, Sues Bushman for Divorce

Los Angeles.—Beverley Bayne filed suit for divorce against Francis X. Bushman, charging desertion, and asking custody of five-year-old Richard Stanbury Bushman.

Duelists Kill Each Other

Mexico City.—Facing each other with pistols at only four yards distance, Carlos Carrilo, an engineer, and Professor Jose Izquierdo shot each other to death.

Slayer Tries to End Life

Manila.—Private William Johnson, U. S. A., attempted suicide shortly after being sentenced to hang for the murder of Private William Willoughby, slashing his neck and wrists with a razor.

DR. RAFAEL ABALLI

Dr. Rafael Sanchez Abalil, who accompanied President-Elect Machado of Cuba on his visit to Washington, will be the next ambassador from the island to the United States.

MARKET QUOTATIONS BY U. S. GOVERNMENT

Washington.—For the week ending April 18.—LIVE STOCK—Chicago hog prices closed at $12.80 for top, $12.40@12.75 for bulk. Medium and good beef steers, $8.75@11.25; butcher cows and heifers, $4.50@11.25; feeder steers, $5.50@8.50; light and medium weight veal calves, $7.25@11.50. Fat lambs, $13.65@15.25; feeding lambs, $13.25@14.50; yearlings, $9.50@12.25; fat ewes, $7.25@11.50.

DAIRY PRODUCTS—Closing prices of 92-score butter: New York, 45c; Chicago, 43¾c; Philadelphia, 46c; Boston, 45c. Wholesale prices at Wisconsin primary cheese markets April 17: Twins, 22¾c; single daisies, 22½c; double daisies, 22c; longhorns, 22¾c; square prints, 23c.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES—New York sacked round white potatoes, $1.00@1.15 per 100 pounds in eastern cities, low as 85c in Philadelphia. Texas yellow Bermuda onions, commercial pack, $1.50@2.00 per crate in eastern markets, $1.25@1.50 in Chicago. $1.00@1.10 f. o. b. Laredo; New York yellows, $3.00@4.00 per 100-pound sack. Klondike strawberries, $5.50@5.75 per 24-pint crate in the Middle West, $4.50@5.10 f. o. b. Hammond.

HAY—Quoted April 18: No. 1 timothy: Chicago, $22.00. No. 1 alfalfa: Omaha, $16.00. No. 1 prairie: Chicago, $16.00.

GRAIN—Quoted April 18: No. 1 dark northern wheat: Minneapolis, $1.42½@1.73½. No. 2 red winter wheat: St. Louis, $1.85. No. 2 hard winter wheat: St. Louis, $1.53¼. No. 2 mixed corn: Chicago, $1.04¾. No. 3 mixed corn: Minneapolis, 97@99c. No. 2 yellow corn: Chicago, $1.12@1.13½. No. 3 yellow corn: Chicago, $1.11; Minneapolis, $1.00@1.02; St. Louis, $1.06. No. 3 white corn: Chicago, $1.07@1.08. No. 3 white oats: Chicago, 42@43¼c; Minneapolis, 38⅞@39⅞c; St. Louis, 44½@45½c.

Jap Freighter Goes Down With Crew of Thirty-Eight

New York.—The Japanese freighter Raifuku Maru, her plates sprung by a 36-hour battle with crashing seas, sunk 180 miles southwest of Halifax at a few minutes before noon, carrying to their death her whole crew of 38 officers and men.

The Homeric of the White Star fleet led the dash of passenger liners and other vessels to her rescue, but arrived too late. The crew was trapped aboard the doomed ship by the destruction of the lifeboats, crushed by the waves which washed the low decks of the vessel.

The Homeric was within sight of the freighter when she went down.

May Change Rules for Aliens on Ellis Island

Washington.—Ellis Island will be made a real gateway to America, and not simply a detention place for those seeking liberty in the United States, under a new procedure of handling immigration, about to be agreed upon between the three executive departments concerned, it is announced.

A formal conference on the plan was begun in the office of Secretary of Labor Davis.

Four Go to Prison in $1,600,000 Stock Swindle

East St. Louis, Ill.—Four officers of the Moore Motor Vehicle company of Danville, Ill., convicted in 1921 in an alleged $1,600,000 stock swindle, were committed by Judge English to terms in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth. They will start for prison at once.

Wisconsin Mother Kills Two Daughters and Self

Aberdeen, Wis.—Despondent over her ill health, which she said in a note had also spoiled her children's health, Mrs. Maria Taskinenen, forty, a farm woman living about six miles east of here, killed her two young daughters and then cut her own throat.

Woman Slayer Beheaded

Gera, Germany.—Frau Schellhardt, convicted of murdering her ten-year-old daughter, was decapitated here. It was the first decapitation in Gera in seventeen years and was witnessed by a large crowd.

Suffragists Meet to Disband

Washington.—The National Suffrage association, organized before the Civil war to obtain the vote for women, called a meeting here on Thursday to disband.

.. Hawkeye .. State News

Interesting Items Gathered From all Parts of Iowa

Coal drillers near Bedford struck an an artesian well which is sending up a steady stream of water.

The $40,000 bond issue of the Newburg consolidated school was sold to the highest bidder at 4¼ per cent and a $90 premium.

The number of cattle on feed in Iowa on April 1st was about 15 per cent less than the number on feed on the same date last year.

The state is making auto plates. They say the plates turned out by convicts are the best we have ever had submitted to us in Iowa.

Floyd county board of supervisors have sold $335,000 refunding bonds bearing 4½ per cent interest with accrued interest and at a premium of $4,350.

Notwithstanding its defects the recent legislature, after all, is to be congratulated upon its session. It is said that the last assembly killed more bills than any other body ever.

Unless they have a run of unusually bad luck Iowa farmers will this year harvest a "bumper" crop of wheat according to the federal department of agriculture.

Churches were advised to advertise and take advantage of the news columns of newspapers by Dr. P. H. Martin, of Davenport, in an address before the Des Moines Advertising Club.

The average Iowa farm tenant this year, for the first time since the depression, has an income which is about the same as that of the railroad worker or the factory hand in the city.

Visiting tourists at Sioux City will get tags which will give them parking privileges not enjoyed by citizens of the city this summer. Signs on the highway will inform tourists of the privilege.

The Elks state convention will be held at Burlington June 3rd and 4th, according to an announcement made by J. G. Clark, member of the Waterloo lodge and president of the state association.

Fort Dodge, Waterloo and Cedar Rapids led all other cities in Iowa in that order in the lower percentages of deaths during 1924, according to the report of Dr. Rodney P. Fagan, health commissioner.

The city council of Sioux City has appropriated $25,000 to buy a site for the proposed public market, which is to be conducted along the line of the old French markets of New Orleans and other southern cities.

Ackley, a town of only 1,700 inhabitants will lay approximately thirty-two blocks of paving this summer. This will bring the amount of paving in Ackley to seventy-two blocks, more than in any other town the same size in the state, it is believed.

The Alex Getz company, shippers of poultry and eggs in carload lots, is preparing to erect a new plant in Mapleton, 80 by 125, to cost $12,000, to take the place of the present leased quarters. The Mapleton Community club is giving financial assistance to the project.

More than 400 bankers and their wives are expected to be the guests of the Des Moines Clearing House association at th emeeting of Group 6 of the Iowa Bankers' association to be held here May 6th. Group 6 includes the bankers of Greene, Boone, Story, Marshall, Guthrie, Dallas, Polk, Jasper, Poweshiek, Madison, Warren and Marion counties.

Ten group meetings of the Iowa Bankers 'association will be held next month, the first at Davenport on May 4th. Other dates are Ottumwa, May 5; Des Moines, Chariton and Red Oak following in succession. These comprise the southern district. The northern group meetings open at Cherokee May 18th with Fort Dodge, Hampton, Vinton and Lansing in the order named.

In a statement by Postmaster General New showing figures on appointments of postmasters of the presidential class Iowa ranked first as to the number of former service men appointed, with 149. The total appointments of presidential postmasters in Iowa in the four years were 677. Women appointed were 110. Iowa was fifth in the number of women appointed.

What Iowa will have in the way of new road legislation when the law the legislature passed goes into effect near the end of the year is the virtual transfer from ninety-nine county boards of supervisors to the state highway commission of jurisdiction of the main state highways. With $7,000,000 of a primary road fund of $11,500,000 at its disposal, the state highway commission can manage the larger portion of the primary roads with the same general point of view of the whole undertaking as would a business house executive board.

The state department of agriculture has figured out that automobiles which are used extensively can be operated at a less cost per mile than those allowed to stand around much of the time. At least this has proved true with the cars used by state inspectors working under the agricultural department.

★ ★ ★

Genuine BAYER
ASPIRIN
Say "Bayer Aspirin"
INSIST! Unless you see the "Bayer Cross" on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for 24 years.
Safe — Accept only a Bayer package
which contains proven directions
Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets
Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists
Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

Love May Yet Be Put on Scientific Basis

The matrimonial reports of our day undertaking to put love on a nd, scientific basis. Let us skip a hundred years and behold the syntic romance of youth and a maid of e generations to come. The young n, armed with a stethoscope, a tape sure and the means of making a od test, goes to call upon the lady se charms have attracted him, tures the Toledo Blade.

He taps a vein, listens to the thump her heart and to the wind whistling ough her bronchial tubes, and ends labors with a careful examination the soles of her feet.

atisfied with the showing, he makes equest for a kiss and obtains one, hygienized through a strainer pped from a vanity bag. That is, does unless the young woman wals him instead.

Fresh Strawberry Shortcake.

ift 4 cups of flour in large mixing l, add 4 teaspoons Calumet Baking wder and 2 teaspoons butter, pinch two eggs and enough milk to e a soft dough. Place the dough layer cake pan and bake in hot n for 20 minutes. Cool and split 2 layers. Spread 3 tablespoons butbetween the layers and let cool. cake in desired size and pour fresh shed strawberries over cake. Serve h whipped cream.

f the mustache is coming back, why sn't it come back courageously inch of a hair at a time?

ive up your most expensive fad your income will seem to have bled.

How to build up your Weight

TO BE under weight often proves low fighting-power in the body. often means you are minus nerver, minus red-cells in your blood, minus health, minus vitality. It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become plus. That's why S. S. S., since 1826, meant to thousands of underweight and women, a plus in their length. Your fills to the t of power, flesh becomes mer, the age that come thinness disear. You look ger, firmer, happier, and you feel oo, all over your body. More red-cells! S. S. S. will build them.

Free Booklet
Send name and address to S. S. S. Co., 111 S. S. S. Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for special booklet on the Blood.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

S.S.S. The World's Best Blood Medicine

FOR OVER 200 YEARS
Haarlem oil has been a world-wide remedy for kidney, liver and bladder disorders, rheumatism, lumbago and uric acid conditions.
GOLD MEDAL HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES
Correct internal troubles, stimulate vital organs. Three sizes. All druggists. Insist on the original genuine GOLD MEDAL.

SAVE YOUR EYES? Dr. Thompson's Eyewater. Buy at your druggist's or Oliver Troy N. Y. Booklet.

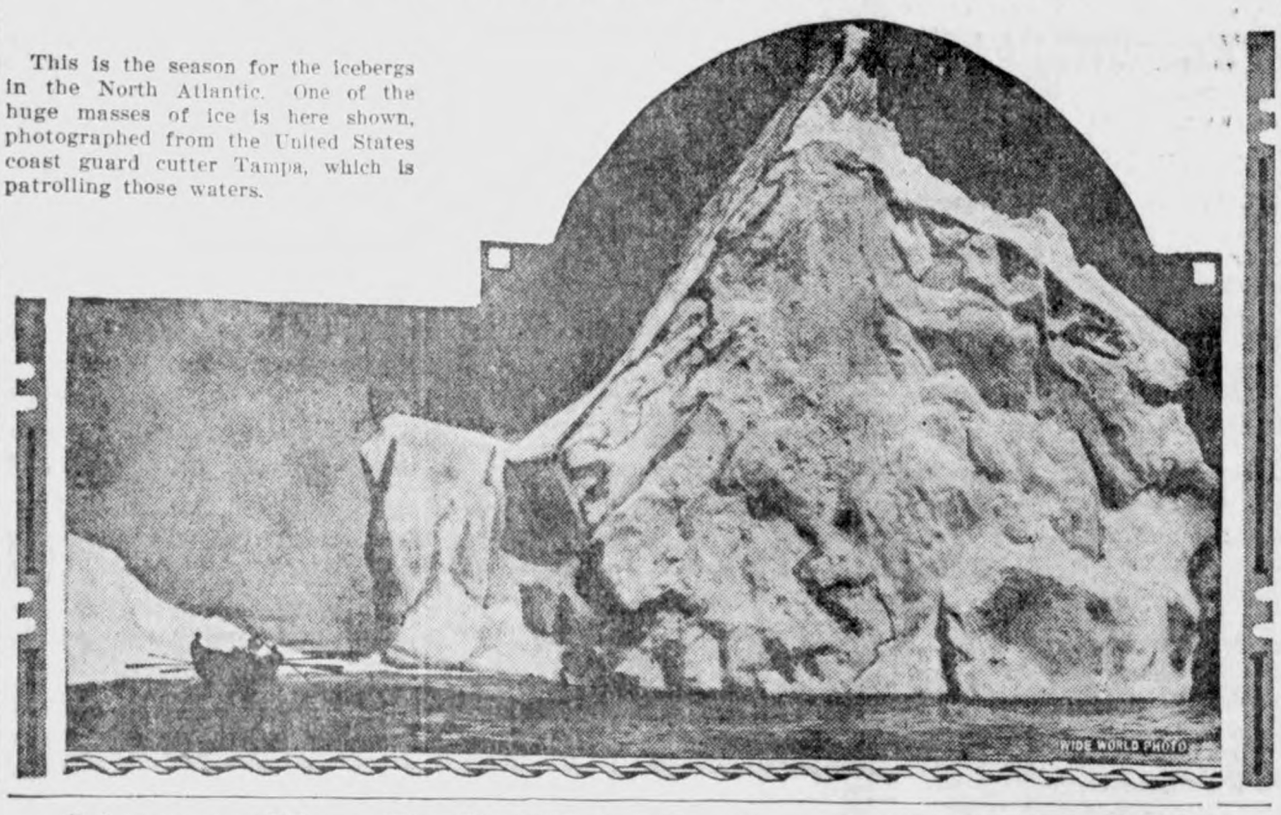
ABSORBINE
TRADE MARK REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.
Stops Lameness from a Bone Spavin, Ring Bone, Splint, Curb, Side Bone, or similar troubles and gets horse going sound. It acts mildly but quickly and good results are lasting. Does not blister or remove the hair and horse can be worked. Page 17 in pamphlet with each bottle tells how. $2.50 a bottle delivered. Horse Book 9 A free.
W. F. YOUNG, Inc., 510 Lyman St., Springfield, Mass.

Illinois Again Swept by Destructive Storm

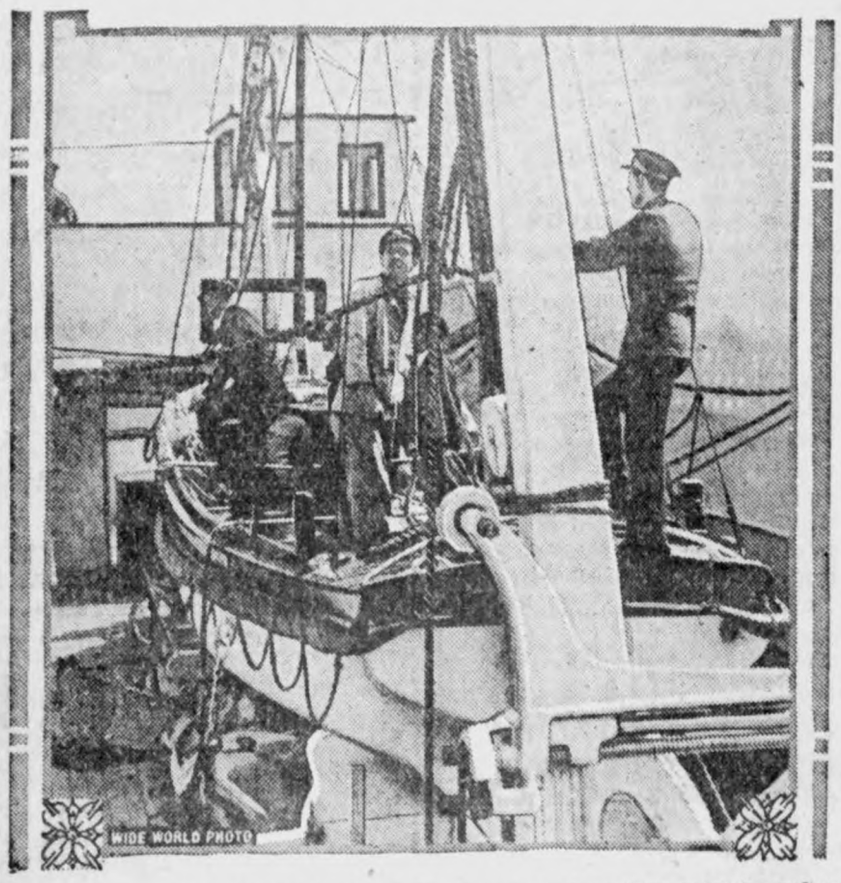
Two men were killed and damage in the millions of dollars was caused when a 60-mile gale swept through central Illinois. Peoria was the hardest hit city and when lightning struck the Isaac Walker hardware store of Peoria it took the two lives. The photograph was made in Peoria.

One of the Terrors of the North Atlantic

This is the season for the icebergs in the North Atlantic. One of the huge masses of ice is here shown, photographed from the United States coast guard cutter Tampa, which is patrolling those waters.



Liners to Have Radio Motor Boats



By order of the British Board of Trade, every ocean liner must hereafter carry one wireless motor boat for every ten lifeboats. It will have a talking radius of 100 miles and will be provided with a direction finder. Above is a radio boat of the S. S. Orbita.

Child of 4 and Man of 112 Baptized

Lawrence Boersch, four years old, and Lorenzo Dow Grace, one hundred and twelve years old, who were baptized together at St. Paul's church, Atlanta, Ga., together with 300 others.

MAKES RAIN, COLLECTS

Charles M. Hatfield of Glendale, Cal., who has just received a check for $8,000 from W. H. Elliget of Tulare Lake for rainmaking operations from March 15 to April 15. Hatfield is famous for his secret process of making rain. During operations the public is kept at a distance from his tower, on which chemicals are mixed and exploded.

BORGLUM'S SUCCESSOR

Augustus Lukeman, New York sculptor, was appointed to resume work on the Stone Mountain Confederate memorial, near Atlanta, Ga., in succession to Gutzon Borglum.

The American Legion

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

CONGRESS ACTS TO AID WAR VETERANS

Strenuous efforts by American Legion rehabilitation and legislative committee representatives obtained the passage in the closing days of the congress session of a $10,000,000 appropriation for new hospital construction and of the Johnson bill amending the World war veterans' act of 1924 in the interest of the disabled.

The hospital appropriation makes provision for 3,000 additional beds. The Johnson bill includes a number of features improving rehabilitation administration. It also carries provisions benefiting some 5,000 disabled men who have heretofore been denied compensation because of the so-called willful misconduct provisions of the Reed-Johnson bill.

These bills were caught with many others in a legislative jam as the session approached its close. Only quick action by the Legion succeeded in saving them. Legion insistence resulted in the passage of the Johnson bill by the house, which was in no mood to accept senate amendments emasculating the provisions of the bill as sent to that body and was disposed to abandon the measure.

Among the beneficial features of the Johnson bill which were stricken out were provisions for a Veterans' Bureau medical corps, added benefits for tuberculosis beneficiaries, reinstatement benefits on insurance for the disabled and extension beyond June 30, 1926, of the time limit for training nonfeasible veterans. This action of the senate shows, Legion officials declare, that it is essential that a special veterans' committee be created in the upper body to handle all World war veterans' legislation, as was done in the house in 1924.

Provision for hospital construction is also declared by Legion rehabilitation officials to be inadequate. The former high water mark of 33,000 veterans of the World war hospitalized by the Veterans' Bureau is expected to be surpassed in the very near future. The number has been growing recently at the rate of approximately 500 admissions a week.

In view of these conditions, rehabilitation officials of the Legion recommended a hospital construction appropriation of $15,000,000, calling for 6,000 additional beds. There is already a serious shortage of proper beds for tuberculosis and neuro-psychiatric cases, according to reports from almost every district.

DAVIS PROUD TO HELP

WHEN the American Legion asked John W. Davis, former ambassador to England, to serve on the Legion's honorary committee to raise the $5,000,000 endowment fund for orphans of the World war and disabled veterans, he responded:

"May I express at this time my profound sense of gratitude for the privilege of joining with the Legion in its worthy endeavor to raise an endowment fund for the care and cure of the disabled men of the United States forces during the World war, and the care of the orphaned children of those who so bravely died in the conflict? Compared to the sacrifices which they made for us, the largest contributions to your project must seem small, indeed."

Is Hailed as "The Most Typical American Boy"

Robert Mueller's father was born in Germany, his mother in Hungary. That's why they were doubly elated when their fifteen-year-old son was presented with a bronze medal by American Legion post No. 241, of Philadelphia, Pa., for being "the most typical American boy" to graduate from grammar school. The medal was awarded on qualifications of "honor, courage, scholarship, leadership and service."

"The folks are particularly glad over the honor that has come to me," said Robert. "They both believe in American ideals and they are happy that an American Legion post should have selected me. It means a lot to them; really, I suppose, more than it does to me."

Legionnaires Come to Aid of Ball Players

When the Giants-White Sox baseball clubs played in London during their tour abroad, their lack of foresight in one vital detail threatened the success of the tour until they called upon London post of the American Legion to help them out. The programs for the games contained no description of baseball for the elucidation of the uninitiated Englishman. This Legionnaires of London post pointed out. The managers of the tour obtained a lot of old American Legion programs, annexed the descriptive pages and passed them out with the result that the attendance picked up immediately.

"How I Suffered with my Stomach and Catarrh of the Head"

Took Four bottles of PE-RU-NA and now cannot praise it enough

Miss Emelie A. Haberkorn, 2251 Gravois Ave., St. Louis, Mo., writes: "For over two years I was troubled with internal catarrh. I read a Pe-nu-na booklet and began taking the treatment. Tongue cannot describe how I suffered with my stomach and the catarrh in my head. I began to feel better as soon as I had used four bottles and now I cannot praise it enough. I now enjoy as good health as ever and would not think of doing without Pe-ru-na."

Dr. Hartman's famous remedy has become the standby in thousands of American homes for the relief of coughs, colds, catarrh and every catarrhal disease.

Insist upon genuine Pe-ru-na and enjoy satisfaction.

Tablets or liquid and sold everywhere.

SPOHN'S
Best for 30 Years for Distemper, Pink-Eye, Influenza, Laryngitis, Cataarhal Fever, Epizootic, Coughs or Colds.
For Horses, Mules & Dogs.
SPOHN MEDICAL CO. GOSHEN, IND.
DISTEMPER COMPOUND

Fish Used as Money

Fishing is so predominantly the industry along the seacoast of Labrador that there is a scarcity of money in circulation and the result is that fish are being used as a token of commercial exchange. On account of poor fishing seasons which recur frequently, the problem is one that is being met by the officials in plans for establishing industries which would bring money into those communities. The residents also are subjected to diseases of malnutrition, due to eating too much fish without balancing rations. Beriberi is one of the common diseases there.

To make another person hold his tongue, be you first silent.

Reading often makes a man full of words that he is unable to pronounce.

For he that once is good, is ever great.—Ben Jonson.

Sure Relief FOR INDIGESTION

6 BELL-ANS Hot water Sure Relief
BELL-ANS
25¢ AND 75¢ PACKAGES EVERYWHERE

If people only knew the facts about their skin

THE real cause of skin trouble—rashes, blackheads, excessive oiliness, etc.—is way down in the lower layers of the skin. It cannot be expected therefore that mere surface remedies can reach the disorder.

Thousands of physicians are daily prescribing Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap. They know this gentle, yet effective treatment does sink deep, and will often soothe away in a few days the most stubborn rash as well as a trifling blemish. No home should be without these products—the soap for general toilet use—the ointment to check the first bit of skin eruption. At all druggists.

RESINOL

Keep Stomach and Bowels Right
By giving baby the harmless, purely vegetable, infants' and children's regulator.
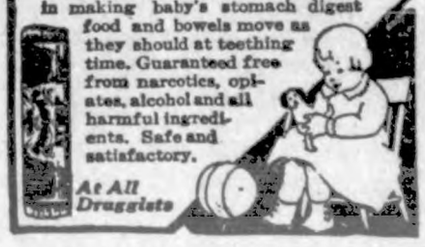
MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP brings astonishing, gratifying results in making baby's stomach digest food and bowels move as they should at teething time. Guaranteed free from narcotics, opiates, alcohol and all harmful ingredients. Safe and satisfactory.
At All Druggists



Better Lemon Pies? Easy.

WATKINS EXTRACT of LEMON

Ask the best cook

Order from

The Watkins Retailer

Floyd Fraser

1

WATKINS 137 PRODUCTS

Jig Jog Jags

A Little Joshing Now and Then Will Get the Goat of Many Men

Sambo—Look-a-heah, black boy; if you takes my girl out again I'll shoot you full-a-holes.

The Black Boy—Brothah, ah hope you does.

He had fallen for her. They were in classes together but she didn't speak to him. By desperate means he had finally met her. They were alone. His dream had come true.

'How's your Math?" she asked.

"Good," he replied. "How's your Anatomy?"

"I think you're horrid," she exclaimed.

Dumb—You know, I can speak every language, but Greek.

Bell—That so? Translate this: Comment vous portez vous ce matin m'iseu?

Dumb— Hum. That's Greek to me.

"Se your husband won't allow you to keep ducks ' '

Doctor's Wife—N . He says they make too many personal remarks.

Voice from Next Room—George, are yu teaching that parrot to swear

George—No ,mother, I'm only tell ing him what not' to say.

THE STRENUOUS LIFE

First— What's the matter, old top? You look all bunged up.

Second—I strained myself.

First— How?

Second Oh, Mabel and I were—enjoying ourelves in the parlor and her father walked in. I jumped thru the window screen.

Kitty—I've had a shower every day this week.

Catty—I suppose you're getting married?

Kitty—Gosh, no. Doctor's orders.

Oh, boy what a keen, high-toned dresser! Absolutely could not be beat—had a perfect shape with well-rounded corners and graceful lines —superb legs that always attracted attention.

There was one drawback, through. Every morning my collar button invariably rolled under it.

And He Meant It

"Is my wife forward?" asked the middle aged man of the conductor who entered the club car on the Pennsy Limited.

"She wasn't to me Sir,' 'politely replied the conductor.

SPECIFIC PLEASE

He—"I'm an artist. I illustrate love stories."

She—" Did you say illustrate or demonstrate?' '

Never borrow if you can help it but if you must then from a pessi mist, because he never expects to get it back.

Blonde Bess Opines— Maurice wanted me to become his dancing partner in vaudeville, but I turned it down. I told him it was too shaky a business for me.

A MAN WHO THOUGHT

Ruth— I hear Fred has taken up classical dancing?

Fred's Wife— Yes— he got the idea while trying to get into a union suit in a Pullman berth.

ALL SET

Millie— Freddy, don't you think you'd better go to bed now.?"

Freddy—No, I want to see Mr. Caller explode before I go.

Mr. Caller— Good gracious! What ever can the child mean?' '

Freddy—I heard Millie tell mamma you were about ready to pop."

T HE CAT

I'm very careful; I always send my children out of the house before I quarrel with my husband.' '

"The little dears; they look so healthy from spending their time in the open air.' '

Sh-h-h

Ronnie— I tell you my love for you is making me mad—mad.

Anna— Well, keep quiet about it. It's had the same effect on father.

THE BOOSTERS

"How's your baby getting on?" asked Green. "Can he talk yet?"

"No, he's only beginning to," replied Black.

"He's a bit backward surely," said Green. "He's older than ours and ours can talk splendidly."

"Well, ours can walk across the room without being held," counterd the other.

"My dear chap, ours toddles up the street every evening. How's your baby's teeth?"

"Well, he's got a few."

"Ours has got them all but three, and h's—"

Here he was interrupted by the extsperated Black. "I say," he exclaimed, "does your use a safety razor or an ordinary one?"

THE GIRL WORTH WHILE

Any girl can be gay
In a classy coupe,
In a taxi they can be jolly.
But the girl worth while,
Is the girl who can smile,
When you're bringing her home on a trolley.

THE VILLAGE JESTER

Struck by the notice, "Iron Sinks' in a hardware store window, the village cutup went inside and said that he was perfectly aware of the fact that "iron sinks.' '

The shopkeeper retaliated:—"Yes and time flies, wine vaults ,sulphur springs, jelly rolls, music stands, Niagara Falls, moonlight, scandal spreads standard weights , rubber tires, the organ stops, the world goes round, trade returns, and. "

But the visitor was three blocks away from there and was gaining rapidly.

DISKING HELPS ORCHARD

Cultivate Young Orchards Till August 1, says Specialist

Owners of old orchards which are covered with heavy bluegrass sod will find that a thoro disking early in thes pring will stimulate wood growth and fruit production considerably, according to C. E. Nichols,, Iowa Statee College, extension service.

If the sod in between the roys is plowed it should not be plowed to a depth of more than four inches, since plowing will cut off many of the feeder roots which come close to the surface.

Young orchards should be kept cultivated up until the first of August and if desired some intercrop may be grown. This should be off the ground early. This should always be a cultivated crop, such as early potatoes garden crops or sweet corn. Corn should not be planted close enough to the arees to shade them.

German Skyscroper Lacks Height and Grace

Cologne, Germany— Cologne soon will have the highest office building on the continent of Europe. Tho it will be only nineteen stories high, the German press speaks of it as a "skyscraper on the American model," and tourists travel across the city to view it.

The new building, however bears little resemblance to its American counterparts. It is devoid of all ornament and, reared in heavy red brick, it is more like a forbidding medieval castle than thee artistic structures which make up the famous skyline of New York's water front.

HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Henry W Brandt had an experience Saturday that he will not forget. After the heavy rain he went out to the well. About ten feet from the well he noticed a small hole in the ground and was curious to know what caused it. Just as be began examining it the ground gave away at his feet and instead of a small hole he was on the edge of ahole about eighteen inches in diameter, with no bottom in sight. Nine or ten years ago when the well was made the first hole had to be abandoned after a depth of 70 feet had been reached and another well was made about ten feet away and the first hole filled with the dirt taken out of the second place. The dirt had evidently settled and only a crust was left on top which was soaked up with the rain of Saturday morning. Water was within six inches of the top of this hole and it was over 25 feet deep. Henry was lucky to escape with a scare —Titonka Topic.

If the Father designs to touch with divine power the cold and pulse less heart of the buried acorn and make it to burst forth again from its prison wall,s will He leave neglected in the earth the soul of man who was made in the image of his Creator? If He stoops to give the rose bush whose withered blossoms float upon the freeze, the sweet assurance of another springtime, will He withhold the words of hope from the sons of men when the frost of winter come? If Matter, mute and inanimate, through changed by forces of Nature into a multitude of forms, can never die, will the imperial spirit of man suffer annihilation after it has paid a brief visit like a royal guest to this tenement of clay? Rather let us believe that He who, in His apparent prodigality wastes not a raindrop, the blade of grass, or the evening's sigh ing zephyr, but makes them all carry out His eternal plans, has given immortality to the mortal, and gathered to Himself the spirit of our friends.—W. J. Byran.

THIS IS THE RIGHT PLACE

To buy your Cigars, Cigarettes, Smoking and Chewing Tobacco—our stock is always nice and fresh.

We carry a complete line of box and bulk fancy candy.

Refreshing soft drings.

And, why not step in and play a social game of pool while in town?

SMITH'S BILLARD HALL

Patton Brothers Co.
the store that's "in between"

When we say that this is the store that's "in between" we mean it is the store for all the people all the time.

When you come to PATTON'S you won't find any "cheap" clothing. Anything you find here is always good regardless of it's low price, because we never handle anything that is not thoroly good in every respect.

New Spring styles in men and young mens suits are here. Plenty to choose from— and every suit is an outstanding value at the price. We would like to show you.

$30 to $60

Patton Brothers Co.

Where a Dollar Does It's Duty
Mason City, Iowa.

WHY NOT NOW?

Eventually you will want to own an interest in the ELECTRIC COMPANY, and if you INVEST NOW you won't have to pay a premium for the priveledge.

There is no question about the Saftey of the Money you invest in this Company, and the INCOME is assured.

REASONS! Here They Are

The Company furnishes public service that is postively necessary and has been doing this a number of years;

It collects monthly for this service;

Its service effects everyone in each of the 63 communities served;

Its property is actually fixed to the soil by Power Plants pole lines, etc., and is as much a part of your community as your ownhome;

Its business is growing because everyone wants Electric Light and new uses for Electricity are being found almost da y;

Its property is amply insured, and the business is protected by franchises and contracts extending over a period of years;

It is managed in the interest of the public, and that is one reason why you are offered the opportunity NOW of INVESTING in the,

7 PERCENT PREFERRED STOCK

The Investment is Tax Free, and pays a REGULAR INCOME to the investor EVERY THREE MONTHS. The Income is sent to you by check so you have no bother collecting, and if you should desire to dispose of the investment you will have no trouble doing so because we have re-sale facilities for the benifit of our customers.

The investment is now available at $100 per share, and the Income starts from the day you invest.

As there are only 1,000 shares of this Original Issue, and many of them have already been taken by our customers, we urge you to send in the Coupon for the full particulars because we are sure that you will be interested if looking for a SAFE 7% INVESTMENT

Central States Electric Co.

(Over) 215 South Second Street
CEDAR RAPIDS IOWA

Fill in this Coupon

Send it to:

SECURITIES DEPARTMENT,
CENTRAL STATES ELECTRIS COMPANY
Over 215 South 2nd Street,
Cedar Rapids, Iowa.
Gentlemen:
Without obligating me in any way, please send me your Circular describing the 7 percent PREFERRED STOCK.

Name .....

Klme Tms . Address .....
Week 4-26-25

The Money You Need When You Need It

If you are in need of some ready money a little more than you happen to have in your Savings Account with this bank, you will always find us ready and willing to grant you the courtesy of a loan, and want to see you prosper, and want you to make it a habit to talk over your financial problems with us.

State Savings Bank

Klemme Iowa

Fishing Tackle

The Fishing Season is here, and you will want to get your tackle fixed up and be ready to go.

We have just received our new and large line of Fishing Tackle and supplies, and we have everything you need to hook the big ones.

Look over this list:—
STEEL RODS, all kinds
REELS, at all prices
FISH LINES, all grades
SPOON HOOKS, BAITS
WOBBLER BAITS, etc.
HOOKS, LEADERS, FLOATS
TACKLE BOXES, all kinds
STRINGERS, Etc.

Jacobs & Son

In the Race to Win

How about your race in life? Are you trying to win? Begin the race right by starting an account with this bank.

You will soon get out of the slow plodding class, and the finish will mean—the pleasure of having the joys and comforts of life.

First National Bank,

KLEMME, IOWA.

THE KLEMME TIMES

enty-ninth Year—Number 35. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, MAY 7, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

R. N. A. CONVENTION

mme Ladies to Put On Degree Work

The Fifth District Convention of val Neighbors of America will be d at the Masonic Hall in Garner, Wednesday, May 20. Following he program.

MORNING

istration—10:00 a. m.
0 p. m.
eting opened by President Mrs. E. Barnes. mmunity singing
ocation—Rev. Van. Metre.
dress of Welcome—Mayor D. D. Ross.
Response—Mrs. Allie White, Jr., emme. oduction of Supreme Officers ading of Minutes by Distrcit Secretary Lucille Owens.
venile Work—Eight Children llot March—Clear Lake Drill
m. artette—High school girls.
er—Mrs. M. H. Cannon, Nora Springs.
ng.
ating of Supreme and other Officers dress—Supreme officer.
ssword Drill—Forest City Team.
estion Box.
ver Offering.
siness.
journment.
pper in R. N. A. Hall, price 50c.

EVENING—7:30

ening of camp by Garner Team.
o-minute reports by delegates.
cers.
mp opened in regular Form.
ng—Mr. C. E. Barnes.
gree Work—Klemme Team
ading— Betty Pritchard.
o-minute talks by Visiting Neighbors.
gular closing.

Draws $60 Bounty for 12 Wolves

Algona—Alden Thompson of Britt ought twelve timber wolves, that shot, in to County Auditor Bera Johnson for bounty Saturday. e shot two old ones, male and female, and captured ten little ones, a den near Wesley. The male easured over 5 feet long. He will ceive $60 in bounty. Three men d eight dogs ran down the old ones

IMINATES 50 BIRD CALLS

Ornithologists who have heard ohn Liffring of Waterloo, Iowa, age seven years, give the fifty differr bird calls he knows, have marelled and said he is the youngest rson they have ever heard who ad such powers of bird imitation. John has learned all the songs from e birds themselves, and imitates em so perfectly that many of the mmoner Iowa birds will answer im when he calls them.

One day he gave the mother's call f the rose-breasted grosbeak and a aby grosbeck in a nearby bush flew o him and lit on his hand.

John loves the outdoors, particularly the woods, and with his mother nd older brother Frederick, spends ll the time he can following, watchng and listening to the birds. Frequently he learns a new song, by earing it only three or four times. e has a robin which for four successive summers has come back from he southland early in thes pring and uilt a nest in the Liffring yard. He omes daily to the window sill of e roms of the Liffring home, and here he and John talk "bird talk" ogether.—Iowa Magazine.

Dynamite Blast Blinds

N. P. Hanson, of Forest City, was linded for life, when a charge of ynamite exploded. Mr. Hanson, a armer, was blasting stumps, and when a charge failed to go off, he went up to see what was the cause. Just as he stooped over the stump the charge went off, the blast blowing out both eyes and fracturing the skull.

Tear up Church at Clear Lake

One Sunday morning recently the congregation at the Lakeside church at Clear Lake found that unknown vandals had entered the church and torn up things in general. Seats were upside down, pictures torn from the walls and various articles strewn over the floor. No reason is known for the act being committed.

ORDINANCE 40

An Ordinance Prohibiting the Manufacture and Sale and the Keeping for Sale of Intoxicating Liquors and Defining Bootlegging and Prescribing a Penalty Therfor

Be it ordained by the Town Council of the Incorporated town of Klemme, Hancock County, Iowa:

SECTION ONE, Manufacture, Distilling, Sale or Keeping for Sale Prohibited. No one, by himself, clerk, servant, employe or agent, shall, for himself or any person else, directly or indirectly, or upon any pretense, or any device, manufacture, distill, sell, exchange, barter, dispense, give in consideration of the purchase of any property or of any services or in evasion of this ordinance, or keep for sale, any intoxicating liquor, which term shall be construed to mean alcohol, ale, wine, beer, spirituous vinous and malt liquor, or intoxicating liquor made from grains or fruit, and all intoxicating liquor whatever, except as provided in this ordinance, or solicit, take or accept any order for the purchase, sale, shipment, or delivery of any such liquor, or aid in the delivery and distribution of any intoxicating liquor so ordered or shipped, or own, keep, or be in any way concerned, engaged or employed in owning or keeping any intoxicating liquor with intent to violate any provision of this ordinance, or authorize or permit the same to be done; and any clerk, servant, employe or agent engaged or aiding in any violation of this ordinace shall be charged and convicted as principal.

SECTION TWO. In case of sale in which a shipment or delivery of such liquors defined in Section One hereof, is made by a common or other carrier, the sale thereof shall be deemed to have been made in the place where the delivery thereof is made by such carrier to the consignee, his or her agent or employe.

SECTION THREE Defining Bootlegging Any person, who shall by himself or his employe, servant or agent, for himself or any person, company, or corporation keep or carry around on his person or in a vehicle or leave in a place for another to secure, any intoxicating liquor as defined in Section One hereof with intent to sell or dispose of the same by gift or otherwise, or who shall within the incorporated town of Klemme, in any manner, directly or indirectly, solicit, take or accept any order for the sale, shipment or delivery of intoxicating liquors defined in Section One herof, in violation of this ordinance, shall be termed a bootlegger and shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

SECTION FOUR. Penalty. Any person, persons, firm, company or corporation found guilty of violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be punished by a fine not to exceed one hundred ($100.00) Dollars, and costs, and in default thereof shall be imprisoned not to exceed thirty days.

SECTION FIVE. This ordinance shall take effect and be in full force from and after its passage and publication in the Klemme Times as provided by law.

Dated at Klemme, Iowa, this 4th day of May, 1925.

F. GRUETZMACHER, Mayor

Attest:
A. J. Kudje, Town Clerk
(SEAL)

FIND STONE AXES 23 FEET UNDER SURFACE

The finding of some stone axes in excavations made by the Adel Clay Products company, just west of Adel brought to that place Dr. J. W. Gigley, assistant director of the department of technology of the Smithsonian museum, Washington, D. C and Dr. James H. Lees, of Des Moines, assistant state geologist. They approximately 23 feet below the ground. The two men, who are authorities in their line, took account of the size of the stream and the watershed it served and from that were able to determine the approximate length of time the axes had been in position as placed many thousands of years ago. R. Linton of the department of anthropology of the Field Museum of Chicago, is expected in Adel soon to assist in the direction of the excavations now under way.

Real Estate Transfers

Mary A. [illegible]ehy hu to Henri[illegible]a Malloch W D date 5-1-25, $400.00 lots 5-6 blk 21, Garner.

Chas. Eugene Merrick wf to LeRoy Herrick, W D date 4-8-2, $1.00 a tract of land in NW¼ of NW¼ 1-97-24—lot 5 of Auditors Sub-Div. of NE¼ 2- 97-24.

Carl H. Woiwod wf to Carl Woiwod Sr. W D date 1-15-25, $1.00 W½ NW¼ & W 35 a of E½ NW¼ 22-95-23.

E. P. Hanson, Shff to Elizabeth J Meinders, Sheriff's Deed date 4-27 25, $13,857.20, NW¼ 25-96-24.

E. P. Hanson, Shff to A. Kelly, Sheriff's deed date 4-27-25, $2170.-66 lots 1-2-3-4 blk 4 Miller.

A. T. Wherry wf to Guy Geo. Gabrielson Q C D date 4-18-25 $1.00 SE¼ 14 & W½ SW¼ 13-97-25.

E. P. Hanson, Shff to Mary E. Donahue. Sheriff's deed date 4-27-25, $2804.15, lots 11-12 & S 6 ft of lot 10 blk 4, Andersons Add to Britt.

CAMP FIRE NOTES

The Camp Fire meeting was he'd Tuesday, April 28th at the home of Adela Schroeder.

A letter of thanks was received the Orphan's Home at Mason City for the Easter Box.

A Special meeting will be held next Thursday evening, May 7th at 6 o'clock with Beatrice Busch as hostess. After giving this dinner, she will be ready to become a Fire Maker, the second rank, which a Camp Fire Girl may obtain.

The next regular meeting will be held at Elvira Stille's home, May 14.

HANCOCK COUNTY S. S. CONVENTION MAY 31ST

The Hancock County Sunday school Association will convene at the annual convention Sunday May 31 st at 2:30 p. m. at the Congregational Church at Garner. There will be two union services held in the evening, one at Britt and the other in Garner giving all the Sunday Schools throughout the county a priviledge to attend the evening services at the place most conveniently located.

Mr. Walter Hutton and Mr. Herb rect, both state S. S. Workers will be the principle speakers. Complete programs of the convention will be published in a later issue.

CHURCH NOTES

A. W. Gauger, Pastor

This year Mother's Day comes on Sunday, May 10. Welcome, Mother's Day! We greet it with all the tenderness of our being. If mother still abides, we have the gracious priviledge of giving her renewed assurance of our appreciation and love, pledging again our devotion to the ideals by which she has lived. If she has gone to her eternal home we honor ourselves as we honor her memory. We are made stronger in the fight against temptations as we meditate upon the brave fight she made for us. We are purer in mind and heart as we recall the purity of her life, and the granduer of her faith. We become less selfish as we think of her unselfishness. We again encircle her brow with a halo of love and gratitude, as we think of what she has meant, and still means to us.

We will observe next Sunday in honor of Mother. Both the morning and evening services will be devoted to her.

At the morning service we have a place of honor for both Father and Mother. All will wear the emblem—the white or red flower as is appropriate.

Our evening service will be in the form of a program. On Mother's Day, when again in song, in reading and in brief addresses, Mother comes in for her just dues.

We welcome all mothers to the program.

Ladies Aid Society meets on Thursday afternoon, May 14, at the Parish House, with Mrs. Kirkwood and Mrs Frank Kluckhohn as hostesses. An urgent invitation to all members to attend.

Child Caught in Wash Machine

Elkader, Iowa, April 25—Bayd, the 2 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Huggins, of this place narrowly escaped serious injury when his dress caught in the pulley of a wash ing washing and he was whirled bodily, his head striking the cement floor several times.

"Oh! mother, get the listerine. Jimmy's just caught a skunk and I think it's got halitosis.

Changes in Harvesting the Wool Crop

Wool with a long, fine fibre brings the highest price. LEFT—Doing a smooth job with a machine shear.

There have been many changes in the operations of securing the wool crop. It has not been many years since it was considered necessary to clean the wool before it was taken from the sheep. This used to be done by driving the flock to a lake or stream where each animal was thoroughly washed. Modern methods of wool scouring have made sheep-washing unnecessary, although even today, a very dirty fleece is discriminated against by the buyer.

There are certain precautions observed by successful sheep owners at shearing time which have been found to increase the value of the clip. For example, bright days are selected on which to shear, as this will avoid obtaining fleeces wet with dew or rain. Do not shear sheep on the ground, but rather use a clean platform upon which to do the shearing operation. Keep the fleece in one piece, and clip off some of the inferior tags.

Changes have taken place in the method of removing the fleece from the sheep's body. Shearing sheep now is easy and simple compared with the old days of hand blades. Mechanics has done wonders towards solving many of the farm labor problems. Today, the automatic shearer, either hand or power operated, provides a quick and efficient method of harvesting the wool crop on the average farm as well as on the large sheep ranches. Machine shearing leaves no ridges and secures the maximum amount of fleece which is very important with wool at present prices.

For tying up each fleece, use, if possible, a paper twine. If binder twine is used, experience has shown that the fibres of the twine get into the wool, and as they cannot be removed, they are a damage to the resulting manufactured woolen goods. In preparing wool for shipment, large sacks which will hold several fleeces are used.

The program of sheep owners should include plans for most effectively harvesting a quality wool. The wool crop will be a large source of income this year, as it will be for years to come. High prices are being offered for the 1925 clip, and extremely satisfactory returns are assured. The changes that have taken place in the methods of harvesting wool are of great value to the sheep industry.

Prof. Neese and Miss Woods Go To Titonka School; Mr. Blue To Head The Goodell School This Coming Year

We are informed that Prof. Levi Neese has signed a contract to head the Titonka Schools next year as Superintendent, and Miss Woods is also to teach at Titonka as Prnicipal of the high school there.

Mr. Neese has been at the head of the Klemme schools for a number of years as Superintendent and has had many years of experience in a number of good schools. Titonka will find Mr. Neese a good superintendent.

Miss Woods has been at Klemme but a short time and came here to fill a vacancy in the high school department; but during the time she has been here she has shown fine management and teaching ability.

We understand that the Goodell school has accepted Mr. Earl Blue's application for Superintendent there for the coming year. Mr. Blue is a young man of excellent character who is working up in the school profession and has been doing excellent teaching and coaching and thus has gained much valuable experience that should fit him for a superintendent. We beleive the Goodell schools will find Mr. Blue a valuable man as their superintendent.

The first government fish hatchery to be established in Iowa was near Manchester. Water from springs in that section even in the hottest summer weather is almost ice cold. This facilitates the hatching of what are known as mountain trout, a cold water variety. The Maqueketa river running through Backbone Pork, Iowa's first state park, is fed by springs in that vicinity that e[illegible] cold water and here another trout hatchery is to be constructed. There is fine trout fishing in the swifty running streams of northeastern Iowa.

WARNING TO VEHICLE OPERATORS

1. Have two white lighted lamps upon the front of each automobile., one-half hour after sunset.
2. Speed Limit, 15 miles per hour.
3. Do not run a motor vehicle in an intoxicated condition.
4. Use muffler for silencing the noise caused by the exhaust.
5. Drive and park on the right side of the street.
6 Turn around, only in the intersection of streets.

Obey these orders; they will be enforced:

F. Gruetzmacher, Mayor.

BREAKING UP BROODY HENS

When hens that are not needed for setting become broody the producer has a problem on his hands of inducing them to start laying again with as little loss of time as possible. The favorite method of many people is to put them in a pen and give them treatment which corresponds to the bread and water treatment sometimes given to certain individuals of the human race.

The part of this treatment which puts the broody hen in a slatted pen which offers no oppurtunity for nesting is satisfactory. If the hens are well fed and cared for it will shorten the time which the hens will be idle from laying. The best results come from continuing the same ration which has been fed previously Starvation and mistreatment are not only inhuman but are a losing practice from the standpoint of production.

American farms produced $12,404 000000 in 1924, according to estimates prepared by the department of agriculture indicating an increase of $56,000,000 over 1923. The department attributed the increase to higher market values for certain crops as contracted with reduced values of live stock profits.

Cereals accounted for $5,220,000,-000 or 45.8 percent of the total compared with 39.8 percent in 1923. Corn was valued at $2,890,000,000 cotton at $1,701,000,00 and they and forage at $1733,000,000.

A decrease of $66,00 in the farm value of dairy products in 1924 was noted by the survey the gross value for the year being $2585,148,000.

P. T. A. BASKET SOCIAL POSTPONED UNTIL NEXT TUESDAY, MAL 12

Th Parent-Teacher Basket social has been post-poned until next Tuesday evening, on account of conflicting arrangements. An excellent program has been arranged and it will be well worth your time to attend.

Program

Orchestra
Ladies Quartet.
Reading
Saxaphone Solo.
Duet
One act Play by Class of 1924.
Solo—Gladys Wilson.
Orchestra.
Remarks by Prof. Neese.

Free coffee will be served. The baskets will be sold in thre eseparate groups, Married ladies, young ladies and school childrens'.

The money obtained from this entertainment will be used to beautify and keep up the school grounds.

Everyone is invited and urged to come.

TRACE MAN'S ORIGIN INTO DIM ANTIQUITY BY QUEER RECORDS

Oakland, Cal.—Weird prehistoric figures, chisled into the red sandstone of the deeper recesses of the Hava Supai canyon, an unsurveyed region in northern Arizona, and the object of a scientific expedition last year, reveal man in existance during the dionosaur age, in the opinion of Samuel Hubbard, curator of archaeology of the Oakland museum who acted as director of the party.

Photographs taken from the engraved figures on the canyon walls lead Mr. Hubbard to the conclusion "that some prehistoric man made a pitograph of a dionosaur on the walls of this canyon. This completely upsets all our theoriees regard ing the antiquity of man.' '

SPEEDING UP

After July 4th the speed limit on country roads in Iowa will be 35 miles an hour. The limit now is 30 miles, the change having been made by the legislature in its recent session. Thirty fifty miles seems more reasonable than the present restriction. And being more reasonable it stands a much better chance of being enforced. Of course the main thing is for motorists to drive sensibly. There are times when 35 miles might be dangerous, just as there are times when a somewhat faster speed might bes afe. Take all in all, however 35 miles an hour is a sane and sensible limit and motorists should be glad to comply with it.

BANCROFT YOUTHS IN BAD

Sold Liquor that Got Two Girls Drunk at Dance

According to the Fairmont Sentinel two lads from Bancroft, Leonard Cutler and Sylvester Robinson, 19 and 20 years old, have gotten themselves in a tight place because of selling booze at the Ritz dance pavilion at Westford, near Truman. Relatives of the boys from Bancroft went to Fairmont and engaged an attorney to do what he can for the boys. They decided to waive examination and let the case take its course before the district court in October. Justice Nelson fixed the bail at one thousand dollars for each defendant. Robinson's mother deposited two thousand dollars in a Fairmont bank and turned the certificates of deposit as bail for her son and his friend. The girls Dagmer Rasmussen and Bernice Palmer both became intoxicated at a dance and one of them was in such bad shape that she fell to the floor. Both were arrested. They were very reluctant to give evidence where they got the moonshine, but after a third degree examination finally came through.—Fenton Reporter

She—What were you doing after the accident.?

He—Scrapping up an old acquaintance.

EUROPE FREE OF RIOTS MAY DAY

Russia Holds Big Military Review—One Killed, Several Hurt in Mexico.

London.—Moscow propaganda for May day collapsed utterly throughout Europe. In nearly every section government machinery went ahead as usual and no challenge was heard throughout an unusually uneventful day.

Trade unionists in nearly every country stopped work for the day and held street parades and peaceful demonstrations. Police preparations prevented outbreaks in the few countries in which Red activities had been expected to be prominent.

A number of Left Wing Socialists and Communists in London marched to Hyde park to stage demonstrations, but returned soon in bedraggled condition because of heavy showers. They then tried to march to the Bulgarian legation to demand the liberation of political prisoners, but police turned them aside without any trouble.

Mexico City.—A girl was shot and killed and several persons were wounded in a clash between Communists and labor union paraders which climaxed the Mexican capital's May day. The Communists had devoted the day to denouncing the government.

Moscow.—All the ordinary activities of Russia stood still on Friday while endless legions of workers, soldiers, Communists, and boy and girl scouts, forming mile long battalions and carrying inflammatory banners, celebrated May day in true Bolshevik fashion.

Government offices, stores, and factories were closed, the workers being given a three-day holiday. Moscow was a riot of red, and every public building flaunted flaming lithographs of Karl Marx, Lenin, Rykoff, Kalinin, and other Bolshevik leaders. At night the city was aglow with red electric lamps, dazzling banners of red and white, and huge illuminated signs.

In Red square a great parade embracing all branches of the army and navy filed past Lenin's tomb.

Red army recruits took the oath of allegiance in front of Lenin's tomb to support the revolution.

Income Tax Figures Show Decline in Last Year

Washington.—Income-tax collection from the state of Illinois in the first quarter of 1925 totaled $45,679,458, as compared with $49,166,999 in the same period last year. The decline was due to the reduction of tax rates.

Of the total collections $42,936,488 was from the district with headquarters at Chicago.

Income tax collections in Indiana totaled $7,093,150, as against 8,448,782 last year; Wisconsin, $8,544,619 this year as against $9,367,980 last year; Michigan, $30,649,202 this year as against $38,276,039 last year, and Iowa, $3,357,659 this year as against $4,563,184 last year.

Total collections in the entire country amounted to $519,238,820.98, as compared with $586,780,190.39 last year. The collections of the last part represent the March 15 income tax payment.

Name First U. S. Woman to Academy of Sciences

Washington.—Science for the first time in America officially crowned a woman with its laurels by the election of Miss Florence Rena Sabin, physiologist at Johns Hopkins Medical school at Baltimore, to life membership in the National Academy of Sciences, which terminated its annual meeting. Miss Sabin has done notable research work with blood cells. Others elected to membership included Ralph Modeski, Chicago engineer, who is building the Delaware river bridge at Philadelphia, and Harry Gideon Wells, pathologist at the University of Chicago.

Slain Woman Identified as Mrs. Desidera of Gary

Chesterton, Ind.—After more than 1,000 persons seeking missing girls had visited the Chesterton (Ind.) morgue and viewed the partly burned body of a slender young woman found dead Sunday night, Gary police were convinced that the murdered girl was Mrs. Josephine Desidera of Gary.

W. S. Culbertson of Tariff Body Is Envoy to Rumania

Washington.—William S. Culbertson of Kansas, vice chairman of the tariff commission, has been appointed minister to Rumania, and has accepted the post, it was announced at the White House. He will succeed Peter A. Jay, who has been transferred to Argentina.

W. A. Tilden, Banker, Dies

Chicago.—William A. Tilden, for years one of Chicago's leading bankers, is dead. Mr. Tilden was president of the Fort Dearborn National bank from 1908 until 1922, when the institution was consolidated with the Continental & Commercial bank.

Jardine Names N. A. Olsen

Washington.—Secretary Jardine has appointed Nils A. Olsen of Herscher, Ill., assistant chief of the bureau of agricultural economics.

MRS. AIDA ROOT

Mrs. Aida de Acosta Root of New York is called "The May Day Lady" because she originated the plan of observing May 1 as National Child Health day and induced various welfare organizations to support it.

$300,000,000 LOAN TO GREAT BRITAIN

Gold Credit Given by Federal Reserve and Morgan.

New York.—Coinciding with England's official return to the gold standard and establishment of the pound sterling at the highest price in ten years, it was announced officially that the Bank of England, fiscal agent for the British government, has arranged two credits in the United States aggregating $300,000,000.

Two-thirds of the credit has been established with the Federal Reserve Bank of New York in behalf of the entire federal reserve system. The other $100,000,000 is through J. P. Morgan & Co., fiscal agent for Great Britain.

The private credits, the largest ever granted in peace time to any nation, emphasize the position of the United States, as the supreme power in the finances of the world.

These credits mean that England, before the war financial center of the earth and controlling factor in monetary affairs throughout the world, is depending on the United States to help her maintain her pound sterling at the gold parity.

Thousands Vaccinated in War on Smallpox

Washington.—Thousands of Washintonians have sore arms, and it is reported that not the least of these is the one belonging to President Coolidge. This situation is the result of a smallpox scare of such proportions that the United States public health service requested all government employees to submit to vaccination.

Since January 1 there have been 19 deaths from smallpox in Washington and 54 cases. Surgeon General Hugh S. Cummings of the public health service declares the disease is appearing in a specially virulent form. Doctor Cummings said, however, that he did not believe it had as yet reached the epidemic stage here.

He pointed out that smallpox had been prevalent in many eastern centers. Philadelphia, he said, had had a bad scare, and Detroit had been visited by a bad epidemic last winter. Other cities which have suffered within the year are Denver, LosAngeles, Kansas City, St. Paul and Minneapolis.

Congressman Williams of Battle Creek, Mich., Dies

Baltimore, Md.—Representative Arthur B. Williams of Battle Creek, Mich., died at Johns Hopkins hospital.

Mr. Williams' death was unexpected. He had been improving steadily since an operation for gall stone performed on April 15.

Congressman Williams, who represented the Third Michigan district as a Republican, was born at Ashland, Ohio, fifty-three years ago. He was elected to fill the vacancy in his congressional district in 1923 and was reelected to the Sixty-ninth congress. He leaves a widow.

Judge Rules Seized Autos Belong to U. S.

Atlanta, Ga.—Automobiles seized as liquor carriers can be confiscated by the government, regardless of mortgages, liens and other claims, except when liquor on which tax has been paid is being conveyed, Judge Samuel H. Sibley ruled in a decision handed down in United States District court.

Co-Op Must Get Permit

Columbus, Ohio.—The Grain Marketing company of Chicago has to comply with the Ohio blue sky law and get a permit before selling its stock in this state, the attorney general has ruled.

4 Die, 2 Hurt in Crash

Frankfort, Ind.—Four persons were killed and two others seriously injured near here on Friday night when a southbound Indianapolis and Eastern traction car struck their automobile.

U. S. TRADE BODY ENDS PUBLICITY

Business Firms Will Be Given Private Hearing —Thompson Protests.

Washington. — Final action of the reorganized federal trade commission was taken with respect to the long troublesome question of publicity regarding complaints against American business firms.

Hereafter business firms will not be subjected to publicity regarding complaints of illegal practices until they have had a chance to be heard.

Huston Thompson, one of the members of the commission, objected strenuously to the new policy and charged that it would permit "star chamber" proceedings. The commission, however, adopted the following rule:

"From and after this date, in the settlement of any matter by stipulation before the complaint is issued, no statement in reference thereto shall be made by the commission for publication. After a complaint is issued, no statement in regard to the case shall be made by the commission for publication until after the final determination of the case.

"After a complaint has been issued and the answer of the respondent has been filed, or in case the respondent fails to file an answer by the rules provided, the papers in the case shall be open to the public for inspection, under such rules and regulations as the secretary may prescribe."

"It has been the rule," said a statement issued by the commission, "which is now abolished, to issue a statement upon the filing of a complaint stating the charges against a respondent. In the opinion of the majority of the commission, this statement, which is given wide publicity, has resulted in many cases in damage to the respondent, and if such a case is later dismissed, the publicity given the dismissal does not repair the damage thus resulting in injustice. Of course, proceedings in the case must become public, but the majority believe it to be fair to withhold publicity until the respondent's answer is filed, and then to make the complaint and the respondent's answer available to the press and the public at the same time."

Kidnaped Girl Declares Convict Was Kind to Her

Middlebury, Vt.—Earl Woodward, ex-convict, is in jail here awaiting a hearing on the charge of kidnaping. He had been hunted for a week by more than a thousand armed persons. Rewards were offered for his seizure, dead or alive, and the mountains for miles around had been searched by posses and militiamen ready to fire on sight, for Woodward was supposed to be a desperate fiend.

In other quarters in jail is eleven-year-old Lucille Chatterton, daughter of Woodward's former employer. She was the supposed victim. But the story she tells has turned the anger of the populace against Woodward to sympathy. She says the ex-convict—the quarry of the hundreds of pursuers—took her from home to protect her from cruelty and guarded her as a brother would in all the long flight. They were brought here from East Brookfield.

Physicians who examined the girl and officials who questioned her say she was unharmed, physically or mentally.

The fugitives were trailed to their hiding place in an abandoned barn in South Brookfield by a police dog.

Father of President Is Examined by Specialists

Boston, Mass.—John C. Coolidge, eighty, father of the President, submitted to examination by two Boston specialists. Then he took the first train for Plymouth, Vt. His personal physician, Dr. Albert M. Cram of Bridgewater, Vt., who accompanied Colonel Coolidge, said the examination had disclosed nothing more than slight weaknesses incidental to advancing age.

The statement of the examining physicians, Drs. Paul D. White of the Massachusetts General hospital and Arthur L. Chute, said the patient showed a slow pulse, varying from 38 to 56 per minute, and that this condition, known as "heart block," is sometimes found with advancing age. Doctor Cram added that nothing of a serious nature had been discovered.

Cabinet Members Declare Business Is Picking Up

Washington. — President Coolidge's cabinet members reported to him encouraging features of the present business situation.

DeForest Gets Injunction

Trenton, N. J.—In a suit filed here the DeForest Radio corporation obtained an injunction against the Radio Corporation of America after charging that its plant had been subjected to widespread espionage by agents of the defendant.

Announce Tire Price Increase

Akron, Ohio.—Increases of from 5 to 10 per cent in the prices of automobile tires, were announced at five of the six largest Akron factories.

GENERAL LAZAROFF

General Lazaroff is the military dictator of Bulgaria, having been empowered by King Boris to take the necesssary steps to crush the attempted Communist revolution.

MARKET QUOTATIONS BY U. S. GOVERNMENT

Washington.—For the week ending April 30.—FRUITS AND VEGETABLES Potato market dull and weak. Florida Spaulding Rose closed at $4.50@5.50 per barrel in leading city markets; northern sacked stock, 70@80c on Chicago carlot market. Texas yellow Bermuda onions, $2.00@2.40 per crate in consuming centers. North Carolina Klondikes, 15@20c quart basis, top of 22@28c for best strawberries in New York; Jesse Klondikes, $4.50@4.75 per 24-quart crate in Chicago, $4.00 f. o. b.

HAY—Quoted April 30: No. 1 timothy: Chicago, $22.00. No. 1 prairie: Chicago, $16.00; St. Louis, $15.00; Minneapolis, $16.00.

LIVE STOCK—Chicago hog prices closed at $11.55 for top, $11.10@11.40 for bulk. Medium and good beef steers, $8.50@10.90; butcher cows and heifers, $4.50@10.75; feeder steers, $5.90@8.90; light and medium weight veal calves, $7.50@11.00. Fat lambs, $14.00@16.00; feeding lambs, $13.00@14.50; yearlings, $9.75@13.00; fat ewes, $6.25@9.25.

DAIRY PRODUCTS—Closing prices of 92-score butter: New York, 42c; Chicago, 40½@40¾c; Philadelphia, 42½c; Boston, 44c. Wholesale prices on Wisconsin primary cheese markets April 29: Single daisies, 21½c; double daisies, 21¼c; longhorns, 21½c; square prints, 21¾c.

GRAIN—Quoted April 30: No. 1 dark northern wheat: Minneapolis, $1.46@1.73. No. 2 red winter wheat: St. Louis, $1.80@1.82; Kansas City, $1.65@1.71. No. 2 hard winter wheat: Chicago, $1.59¾; St. Louis, $1.62; Kansas City, $1.52@1.56. No. 2 mixed corn: Kansas City, 97½@99¼c. No. 2 yellow corn: Chicago, $1.06¾@1.09; Kansas City, $1.05½@1.06. No. 3 yellow corn: Chicago, $1.02@1.06; Minneapolis, 98½c@1.00½; St. Louis, $1.09. No. 3 white corn: Chicago, $1.04½; St. Louis, $1.06. No. 3 white oats: Chicago, 40¼@42¼c; Minneapolis, 37⅝@38⅝c; St. Louis, 43½@44½c; Kansas City, 43@43½c.

U. S. Gets $12,000,000 From Sale of Auto Firm

New York.—A certified check for $146,000,000, the largest ever drawn by an American banking house, changed hands in payment for Dodge Bros., in the board room of the Central Union Trust company at 80 Broadway.

The check, drawn by Dillon, Read & Co., the bankers who purchased the company, on the Central Union Trust company, was to the order of "Dodge Bros.," that being the designation of the old company. The new company, formed by Dillon, Read & Co., is known as Dodge Bros., Inc.

Uncle Sam's share of the $146,000,000 will be about $12,000,000. That represents approximately the tax liability of the Dodge heirs.

Solicitor General Beck's Resignation Is Accepted

Washington.—Formal announcement that the resignation of James M. Beck as solicitor general has been accepted by President Coolidge was made at the White House.

In his letter, made public here, Mr. Beck pointed out that through force of circumstances he had often been forced to perform the double duty of acting attorney general and solicitor general. This, he said, had resulted in a very great strain on his eyesight, which has never been of the best.

President Coolidge, in accepting his resignation, highly complimented Mr. Beck.

3 Bank Robbers Die in Sing Sing for Murder

Ossining, N. Y.—Morris Diamond and Joseph Diamond, brothers, and John Farina, went to the electric chair in Sing Sing prison for the murder in Brooklyn of two bank messengers in 1923. The Diamonds and Farina were convicted of murdering William Barlow and William McLaughlin on the morning of November 14, 1923, in Brooklyn. The bandits escaped with $43,607 in cash.

U. S. O. K.'s Bulgar Envoy

Sofia.—It was announced here that the United States has approved appointment of Simeon Radeff as Bulgarian minister to Washington. M. Radeff now is in Angora, where he is negotiating a Turco-Bulgarian treaty of friendship.

Canada Plans Alien Bill

Ottawa.—A Conservative member of parliament gave notice he will present a bill calling for the exclusion of all Asiatic immigration.

.. Hawkeye .. State News

Interesting Items Gathered From all Parts of Iowa

C. E. Howard, chairman of the board of trustees of Tabor college has denied the report recently sent out from Shenandoah that Grinnell college would take over Tabor college.

A church plant worth more than half a million dollars is to be erected at Des Moines by the combined congregations of Plymouth Congregational and Greenwood Congregational churches.

George Goodale of Lenox was in Des Moines recently perfecting plans for the annual convention of the Iowa Optometrists of which he is secretary. The optometrists will meet at Des Moines in June.

County far mbureau picnics will be the order of the day for the Fourth of July observance throughout the state this year, it is announced by President Charles E. Hearst of the Iowa Farm bureau federation.

Washington county will spend nearly $50,000 on new bridges in this county during the next few months. Four bids were received by the board of supervisors for the thirty-two culverts and bridges to be replaced.

The law recently passed by the Iowa legislature for the control of foulbrood in bees provides, among other things, that the state apiarist may prohibit the shipment of bees in or out of a territory badly infested with the disease.

Commissioners appointed by Governor Blain of Wisconsin and Governor Hammill of Iowa met at McGregor recently on the matter of an interstate highway bridge over the Mississippi. There is no bridge at present on the 130 mile stretch.

Iowa nurses will meet at Iowa City May 7 and 8 for the third annual institute of the Iowa State League of Nursing Education, sponsored by the college of medicine, school of nursing, school of public health and extension division of the University of Iowa.

Two new Iowa cow test associations have been organized and will begin operations early in May, the West Pottawattamie association of Council Bluffs and the Allamakee county association, according to J. N. Spencer, extension dairy production specialist.

Two hundred sixty-six of the 12,928 cows tested in the 51 cow testing associations of Iowa last March were sold to the butcher because they had failed to show profit as dairy producers. Association members also sold 251 cows for dairy purposes and purchased 221.

Change of the federal reserve banking system so that every federal reserve district should have at least two representatives on the directing board, making twenty-four instead of six, was advocated by Howard J. Clark, Des Moines attorney, in an address on "Moneys and Credits."

The state's automobile license plate factory has begun operations on the state reformatory property at Anamosa. Fifty convicts are employed and they are turning out 10,000 plates daily, and the entire million and a half needed for 1926 will be ready by next December, according to Warden Baumel.

The latest Iowa Health Bulletin, a periodical issued by the Iowa Board of Health is devoted entirely to tourists camps with suggestions as to sanitation and health accompanied by a set of rules which under board of health procedure in this state are practically law unless disapproved by the legislature.

Steps to establish a central peace organization office in Des Moines were taken at a meeting of the city's peace foundation society. Frederick Libbey, executive secretary of the National Council for the Prevention of War, outlined a peace program for this city and a committee was appointed to carry on the work.

Counsel for six bond companies have begun an effort in district court at Des Moines to test the validity of the Iowa preference law and recent supreme court decision that public funds are not preferred accounts in failed banks. They contend the law enacted by the Fortieth general assembly, and which the supreme court held had invalidated the preference act, is void.

Plans are being made, according to prominent members of house and senate, to drive through a big public building bill at the next session of congress. Efforts will be made to include a number of projects in every state which have been long hanging fire, and which have been held back largely by the treasury department. A number of proposed public buildings in Iowa are likely to be included. One of them is the Des Moines federal courthouse.

The value of products of manufacturing establishments in the state of Iowa, at factory prices, in 1923, were shown in biennial census figures of the department of commerce to have reached $690,043,000 an increase of 32.3 per cent over the 1921 value of $521,446,000. The figures, announced recently, covered all establishments with an output in excess of $5,000.

★ ★ ★

The AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

STIBOLT SUFFERED FORTY LEG WOUNDS

More than forty wounds in the legs d Noble Stibolt from the paths of a raveling salesman to those of the law. oday he is succeeding as an attorney the capacity of inspector for the merican Surety company of New York ity, is highly pleased with his position nd says he has better prospects of etting ahead than he would have had the World war had not changed the ourse of his career.

Stibolt was wounded by fragments a high explosive shell in the St. ihiel drive of Sept. 12, 1918. After eturning to civilian life, he attempted cover his old territory as a hat lesman. But his legs couldn't stand under the strain of walking all day. Stibolt, who is a member of North ore post of the American Legion in cago, declares that the conscien- us efforts of the government agen- s given the herculean task of re- ilitating the disabled will surely appreciated by the men more and e as time goes on.

Noble Stibolt.

The American Legion is in a great sure responsible for this wonder- work, and they certainly deserve support of the citizenry for the ortant role which they have played elping rehabilitate the thousands ncapacitated men, thereby fitting n for life's battle on an equal basis their fellowmen," he wrote to na- l headquarters in Indianapolis re- y.

ans for Monuments Laid Before Congress

nal plans of the American Legion le Monuments commission towards ing the battlefields abroad and memorating the activities of Amer- troops overseas have been laid e congress, according to legisla- officials of the American Legion in hington.

e plans call for beautification of American cemeteries, commemora- monuments to the members of all rican organizations which partici- in the major American opera- historical monuments to record rtant operations of American di- ns, a monument at home to com- orate the activities of the army naval forces of the United States ly and surrounding waters, erec- of tablets to mark locations of quarters of the American expedi- y force and two memorials and monuments to commemorate activities.

e commission contemplates the ex- ture of $3,000,000 to carry out its e Legion has taken a leading part e work of the commission since it reated by act of congress in 1922. al Legionnaires are on the com- n, including Gen. John J. Per- chairman; and Thomas W. Mil- resident of the Fidac, organiza- of inter-allied veterans.

mon Playgrounds Are warded to Many Cities

y cities throughout the country recently been awarded Harmon ation playgrounds through the mentality of their local American posts. The latest instances of s being made were in Dillon and n, S. C., where the Legion posts a leading part in securing the ounds. The post officials had working for the gifts ever since Harmon Foundation published about a year ago that 50 awards be made to qualified cities. More 1,000 applications were made ll parts of the United States.

Patience Is a Virtue

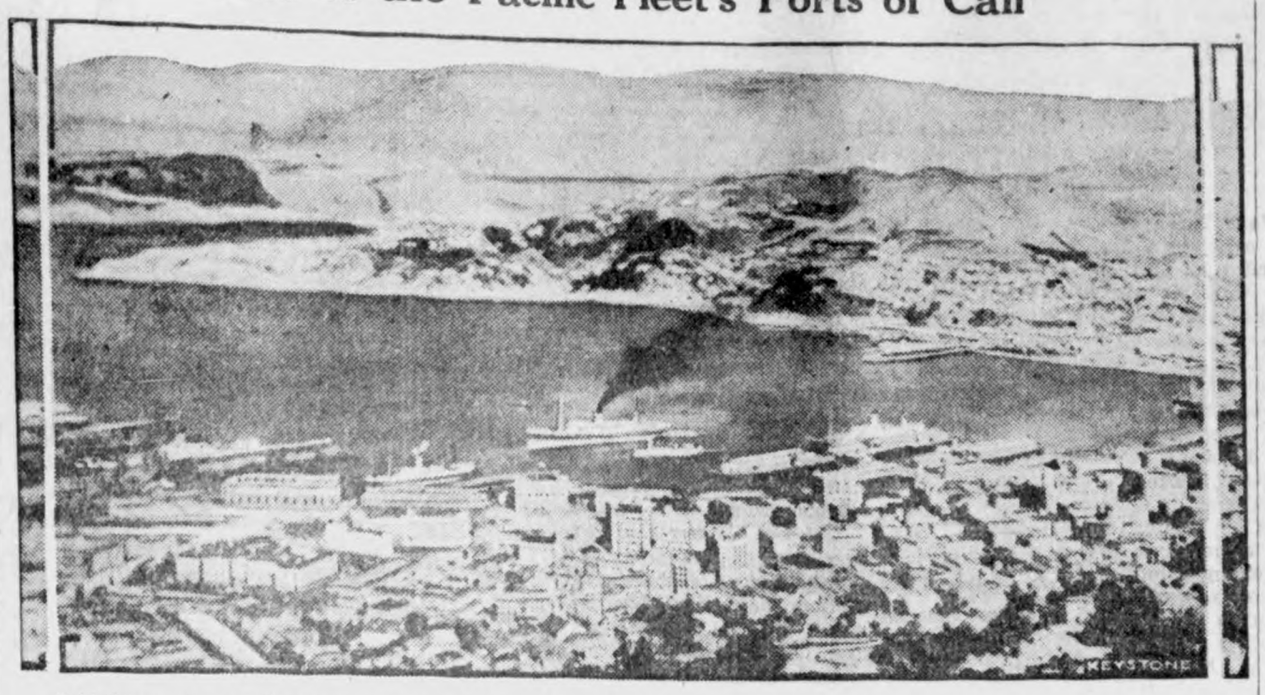
r wife is surely taking on ."

't see how she does it, staying three or four o'clock in the g."

el heavens! Why does she stay t late?"

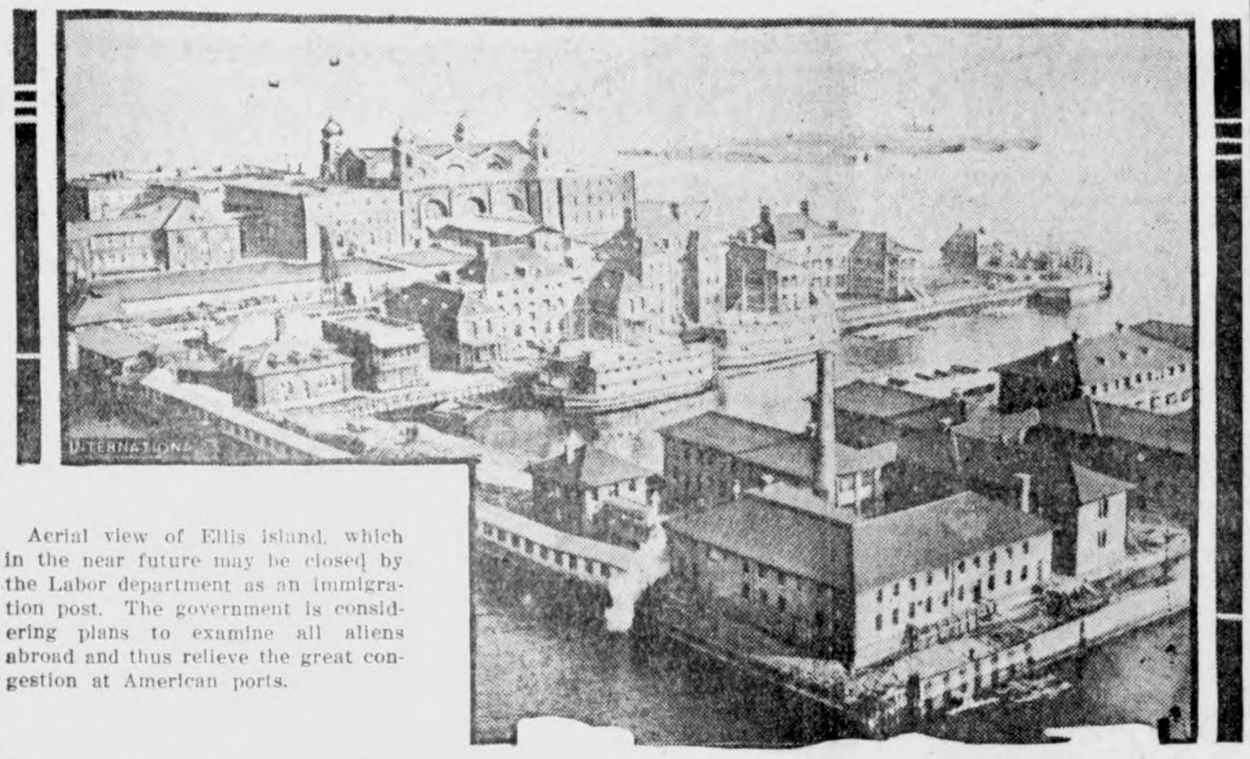
ting for me."—American Legion

One of the Pacific Fleet's Ports of Call



A birdseye view of Wellington harbor, New Zealand, one of the ports which the American Pacific fleet will stop at in its western tour.

Government May Drop Use of Ellis Island

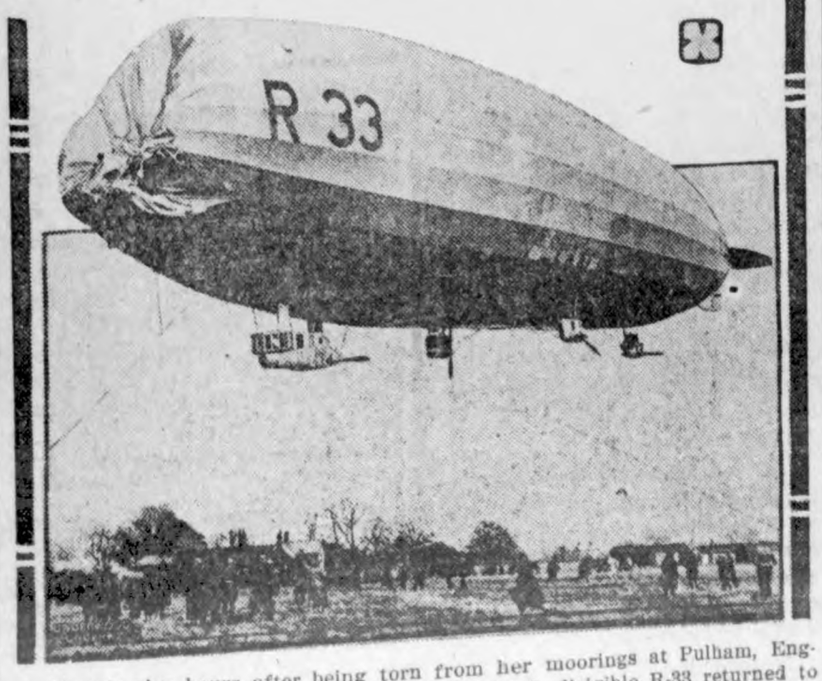


Aerial view of Ellis island, which in the near future may be closed by the Labor department as an immigration post. The government is considering plans to examine all aliens abroad and thus relieve the great congestion at American ports.

Hindenburg President of Germany

New portrait of Field Marshal von Hindenburg, who was elected President of the German republic.

Dirigible Safe but Nose Smashed



Twenty-nine hours after being torn from her moorings at Pulham, England, and blown across the North sea, the British dirigible R-33 returned to her hangar with her bow badly crumpled. She is shown coming down.

TEACHER IS NOVELIST

Miss Mathilde Eiker, a Washington school teacher, has just had published her first novel, "Mrs. Mason's Daughters," which is called one of the four best books of the year. It is Miss Elker's first book, but now she intends to write another.

CAMP FIRE MESSENGER

Katherine Hayden, camp fire girl, is shown holding "Radio," the pigeon which brought the message which she is reading from Chicago to New York. The pigeon was dispatched from the Chicago conference and made nearly as good time as the Twentieth Century train.

Community Building

Some Advantages That "Hick Town" Boy Has

The so-called hick town has lately become a source of great inspiration to our professional humorists. If you read comic weeklies and newspaper quips you have doubtless noticed many in the last year which began like this: "A hick town is a place where—"

A hick town, say the various users of this convenient formula, is a place where a backfire is never mistaken for a pistol shot; where bedtime is orthodox; where woodpeckers eat up the depot; where central can tell you whether it was a girl or a boy; where the folks build a yellow brick gym but no sidewalks; where the neighbors will supply you with a conscience if you lack one; where there is no parking problem; where a curfew disturbs the residents' rest; where a bachelor of 35 needs a bodyguard; where fine-cut tobacco is no handicap socially; where $50,000 is as good as a million, and so on and on.

With no intention of becoming terribly heavy over the matter, we want to add that a hick town is a place where 26 of our 29 Presidents were born and where 7 out of 10 of the immortals in New York's National hall of fame originated. A hick town that didn't have a name produced Lincoln. Hick towns gave us most of our great literary figures of the past and practically all of those now living. Hick towns produce our Edisons; one produced a great university president just lost to Michigan. If we may, then we would like to suggest that a hick town is a place where a boy has an excellent opportunity to lay the foundation of future greatness.—Detroit News.

Tells Property Owners Importance of Paint

Chicago property owners throw away millions of dollars every year, because they fail to paint correctly, according to S. H. Stewart, president of the Chicago Paint, Oil and Varnish club, who spoke at a general conference of paint men.

This sum, he announced, is but part of the billion and a half dollars' waste which represents the national annual loss from neglect of property.

"Not only do the property owners themselves suffer an actual cash loss in depreciation of property values, repairs and more expensive paint bills when they finally do decide to call in the painter," he said, "but they put a premium upon the principal wealth of a nation, which is its physical property." In the United States there are $90,000,000,000 worth of physical property.

This waste is prevented by paint only, according to Mr. Stewart. Paint forms an elastic coating over materials susceptible to the fungus spores of rot and the chemical action of air which results in rust. Paint is impervious to them, therefore the substance which is covered with paint is immune.

For Garden Walls

"Grow your own berries" is a slogan worthy of the attention of every person who has even a small piece of ground, for it is an easy matter to grow good crops of delicious berries in a small space. Berry growing is interesting and the time spent in cultivating and watering is a pleasure. This frequently is overlooked with the result that berries are not served as often or as fresh as they should be. In a few minutes one may pick sufficient berries for breakfast, lunch or dinner, fresh from the vines and full of rich flavor and healthful juices.—Farm and Orchard.

Newspaper's Duties

The place of the newspaper in city planning is vital. Never before in history have newspapers gone so far in playing fair with their readers. He who talks of the good old days of journalism should be sent to a lunatic asylum. Horace Greeley, in spite of his fame, didn't play fair with his readers. He gave them what he wanted them to know. But even now, the newspaper has not reached its real development in serving the city by planning for the future.—New York Times.

Plant Nut Trees

The time is not far off, according to nut-growing enthusiasts, when nut trees will replace most shade trees. Nut breeding is said to be 150 years behind that of apples and other fruits, but it is fast catching up; some day we may have a larger black walnut with a paper shell. Among the varieties recommended for orchards are black walnuts, butternuts, hickory nuts, hazel nuts, pecans and those sorts of chestnuts which are resistant to blight.

Small Principalities

The five smallest countries in the world are: Monaco, 8 square miles; San Marino, 46 square miles; Leichtenstein, 65 square miles; Andorra, 140 square miles, and Danzig (free city), 720 square miles.

Best Form of Speech

Discretion in speech is more than eloquence, and to speak agreeably to him with whom we deal is more than to speak in good words or in good order.—Exchange.

"Hello Daddy - don't forget my Wrigley's"

Slip a package in your pocket when you go home tonight.

Give the youngsters this wholesome, long-lasting sweet - for pleasure and benefit.

Use it yourself after smoking or when work drags. It's a great little freshener!

WRIGLEY'S "after every meal"

MONARCH COCOA

The secret of Monarch Cocoa flavor is in the blend. Taste Monarch once and you'll never be satisfied with any other kind. Choicest cocoa beans and a blend that brings out all the goodness make Monarch the favorite everywhere. Try it today.

REID, MURDOCH & CO.
Established 1858
General Offices, Chicago, U. S. A.
Branches: Boston • New York • Pittsburgh

QUALITY FOR 70 YEARS

When You Buy Shoes for Hard Service See that they have

USKIDE SOLES

The Wonder Sole for Wear—
Wears twice as long as best leather!
—and for a Better Heel
"U. S." SPRING-STEP Heels
United States Rubber Company

Do you realize

The oil in your motor must stand the intense heat of 350 degrees. It must stand dilution by gas and water.

Bearings burn out, cylinders are scored unless the oil remains good under these tests. MonaMotor Oil stands every test and meets every need.

The question of lubrication is rightly settled when you decide to give your motor the oil it needs— MonaMotor Oil.

Monarch Manufacturing Co.
Council Bluffs, Iowa Toledo, Ohio

MonaMotor Oils & Greases

A Godsend to the Bilious!

"I take great pleasure in telling you what a Godsend are Beecham's Pills. I am a woman twenty-five years of age. For years I suffered from bilious headaches. Ten years ago I tried Beecham's Pills, I have never been without them since.

"I hope all persons who suffer in this manner will not hesitate to try them."

Mrs. Edna Dean, Providence, R. I.

Take Beecham's Pills for biliousness, constipation, sick headaches and other digestive ailments.

For FREE SAMPLE—write
B. F. Allen Co., 417 Canal Street, New York
Buy from your druggist in 25 and 50c boxes

Beecham's Pills

RESINOL

Soothing and Healing For Skin and Scalp Troubles

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Removes Dandruff-Stops Hair Falling
Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Wks., Patchogue, N.Y.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c by mail or at Druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

The Methodist Sunday School party at the high school gym Friday evening was a big success. The program was given by the Klemme Band who furnished an hour's entertainment of music, and also played a number of new popular hits. The "Studebaker" Class of girls were the guests of honor and were seated at a long table and marched to their places while the band played. Rev. Gauger gave a brief prayer and Supt. P. M. Greisemer gave an address in honor of the girls and also extended honors to the entire Sunday school for the inteest all had taken in the contest which was now brought to a close. All had an enjoyable time at the party.

LuVerne Smith narrowly escaped from death Saturday. He went down in the basement of his pool room to stoke up the fire in the furnace and struck a match on his trousers to light the fire. He had a patent cigar lighter in his hip pocket and the inflamable liquid had leaked out of it and saturated the seat of his pants. When LuVerne struck the match—whoof! He was all ablaze. He tried to brush it out and roll but had to run up stairs for help and his brother-in-law jerked his clothes off. Lu Verne was badly burned around his hips, back and right hand and has been confined to his bed since.

The BULL'S EYE

Editor and General Manager
WILL ROGERS

Another 'Bull' Durham advertisement by Will Rogers, Ziegfeld Follies and screen star, and leading American Humorist. More coming. Watch for them.

NEW YORK is building some more of those subways under the ground. No use building any more, people can't find their way out of the ones they got now. There's people down underground in New York that haven't been up for years. New York people are just like a lot of Gophers; every time they see a hole in the ground they grab a nickel and duck for it. If they keep on living underground, in two more generations their children will have fur like a rat

What's this Subway got to do with 'Bull' Durham?

Nothing.

What do people outside New York care about how New Yorkers live?

Nothing.

But there is an old saying that one half the world don't know how the other half live, so I am telling you how they live, not as an Ad but as a fact. Five million Ground Hogs in New York rush through missing one Train and being shot into the next. The real trouble is that they can't smoke 'Bull' Durham down there.

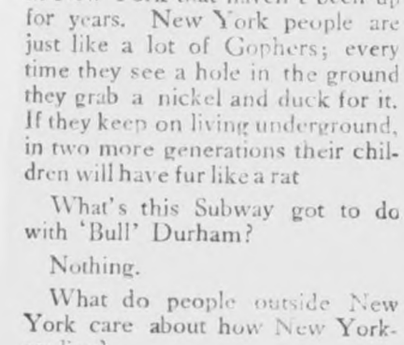
Will Rogers

P. S. I'm going to write some more pieces that will appear in this paper. Keep looking for them.

SIXTY-FIVE YEARS AGO!

In 1860 a blend of tobacco was born—'Bull' Durham. On quality alone it has won recognition wherever tobacco is known. It still offers the public this—more flavor, more enjoyment and a lot more money left at the end of a week's smoking.

TWO BAGS for 15 cents
100 cigarettes for 15 cents



'BULL' DURHAM

Guaranteed by
The American Tobacco Co.
INCORPORATED
111 Fifth Avenue, New York City

Idle Hour Theatre

SATURDAY NITE—May9.

"The Law Forbids," with an all star cast including Baby Peggy. Is packed from end eo end with tremendous, gripping moments of drama. A picture for every member of the family.

WEDNESDAY, May 13.

.."The King if Wild Horses," with Rex, the most magnificent animal that ever acted. A picture that stirs the emotions to he very dephs. . . . .Comedy boh shows. . . . . .

FORMER KLEMME MAN FELL AND BROKE NECK

Died At Home Of E. P. Schaefer At Hebron, Ill., Following Fatal Fall At Schaefer Home

A clipping from the Hebron, Ill., Tribune informs us that Mr. Albert Lembgren, of Milwaukee, died Tuesday, April 28.

Mr. Lembgren, wife and daughter were visiting at the Schaefer home and Mr. Lembgren got up Sunday morning to take an early walk. He missed the stair step and fell headlong to the floor beneath and the fall brike his neck at the base of the skull. He died Tuesday night at a Milwaukee hospital.

Mr. Lembgren was employed by Mr. Schaefer when he conducted a store here a number of years ago. He was 49 years old.

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

On Signing Papers for Strangers

"Did you hear about the terrible thing that happened to Mrs. Thompson, Aunt Emmy?" asked Maud. "It seems that a man came to see her to ask her to invest in some securities his firm was selling, and she said she did not have any ready money. He asked her if she had some Liberty Bonds, and she showed him her one Liberty Bond, a thousand dollar one. He told her that there were a number of counterfeit bonds about and upon examining her bond said there were some marks that indicated it might be spurious. Poor Mrs. Thompson nearly fainted and begged the stranger to tell her what to do about it.

"He told her not to be unduly alarmed, that there was a chance that he was mistaken. His firm was indignant, he said, about the counterfeit bonds that had been foisted on the public and intended to do everything in its power to run down the culprits. They employed a man who was an authority on counterfeits and he could tell in a minute if her bond was good or not. So Mrs. Thompson let him have the bond to take to his office for examination."

"And, of course, he didn't bring it back," commented Aunt Emmy.

"Worse than that!" Maud went on. "He said that, being a widow, she should be very careful in her business dealings, so he made her sign what he called a receipt, although she didn't read it. About a week after his visit she received a number of shares of stock that she says she never heard of and certainly never bought. So she wrote to the investment house the stock came from and said she thought a mistake had been made. Imagine her surprise when she was informed that she had signed an order for those shares of stock in exchange for a $1,000 Liberty Bond!

"First she was coming right over to see you and then decided not to, because she felt ashamed when she remembered that you had warned her about being taken in, now that Mr. Thompson is dead and she has to handle her own business affairs. My brother Tom says he thinks nothing can be done about it, as the receipt bearing her signature is really an order for the stock."

"I am sorry to hear this, Maud," said Aunt Emmy. "What a pity she did not take her bond to the bank to have it examined if that slick salesman aroused suspicions in her mind as to its genuineness. She would have been dealing with people of integrity, whom she could trust absolutely. And yet she allowed herself to be duped by a perfect stranger!

"Yet there must be a lot of that sort of thing when you consider that over $600,000,000 a year is being taken away from the honest people in the United States by stock swindlers. If the people would only learn to trust the guidance of their financial affairs to their banks and never sign anything they have not read and do not understand, there would be less unhappiness about money matters."—Anne B. Aymes.

NEW ERA FOR AGRICULTURE

New York.—A new era lies ahead for agriculture because it now commands the best economic thought of the business world directed on its prime requirements of better distribution and marketing, President W. C. Gordon of the State Bank Division, American Bankers Association, declares in a recent communication to the thirteen thousand members of the division. He seeks to enlist their interest in the work of improving the marketing of farm products.

"The farmer today finds himself far removed from his consumer-customer by a long line of intermediate agencies, which often leave him in a position of disadvantage as an individual producer," Mr. Gordon says. "It is, therefore, not strange that he should seek to apply to agriculture those principles of production and distribution found successful in industry. His rightful ambition is to make, where feasible, a general application of successful business experience to the marketing of agricultural products. Commanding the best economic thought of the business world, agriculture undoubtedly stands on the threshold of a new era. In lieu of fantastic panaceas, agricultural welfare—which, after all, is the Nation's welfare—has need of a sane, long range program that is at once practical, constructive and economically sound."

He goes on to call attention to the "long view program suggested for agricultural distribution" at Washington by the Agricultural Conference, urging study of it.

CO-OPS

There are many small co-operatives throughout the United States, handling wool, peanuts, watermelons, strawberries, beans, syrup, and other products. The government reports that there are at least 10,000 local co-operative organizations in the United States. The Iowa Fleece and Wool Growers' Association does an annual business of $2,836,259; the Ohio Sheep and Wool Growers, $1,500,000; the Oregon wool growers, $500,000; while the New York, Texas and South Dakota Associations are said to be handling about a quarter of a million dollars' business each.

Church Authority Runs Along National Lines

Authority in the eastern orthodox churches is divided along national lines. There is a Russian church, a Rumanian church, a Greek church and so on, with primates, metropolitans or patriarchs of their own nationality at the head of each.

Four offices to which a great and ancient prestige attaches are the patriarchates of Constantinople, Alexandria Antioch and Jerusalem, and that of the ecumenical patriarch of Constantinople has the most weight of all; his influence extends throughout the eastern churches; though his authority does not.

But the Russian church, for instance, is a sister church to that of Constantinople and not at all a subsidiary. Nor is this a result of recent events in Russia, the autonomy of the Russian orthodox faith dating to 1721.

Under the czars this was the established church. Soviet Russia has disestablished it and appropriated certain of its properties, and the government policy includes a propaganda against all religion. But any faith whatever may be freely professed in Russia, so far as Soviet law is concerned.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Moravian Church Has School in Far North

At Makkovik, in the ice-bound peninsula of the North American continent known as Labrador, a country where one may travel hundreds of miles without seeing a human habitation, and where the temperature in winter is often 60 degrees below zero, there is a boarding school kept by two Englishwomen.

It is under the control of the Moravian church; and is one of the most remarkable as well as the least accessible schools in the world. A mission steamer goes out once a year with goods for the Eskimos, and on her last trip along the coast, prior to her return, she takes both Eskimo children and the few white children available to the Makkovik boarding school.

There they must remain until the long winter is over, for in such terrible cold, and with no conveyance but dog-sledges, it is impossible for children to travel. That they are happy goes without saying, and with a gramophone, a piano, and a fine selection of lantern slides, as well as an excellent library, the children get not only a good education but also a good time.

Service Has Many Duties

The United States coast guard service was created by an act of congress of January 28, 1915, by combining therein the revenue-cutter service and the life-saving service. Its duties are to render assistance to vessels in distress, saving life and property; destruction or removal of wrecks and other floating dangers to navigation; extension of medical aid to American vessels engaged in deep-sea fisheries; protection of the customs revenue; operation as a part of the navy in time of war or when the President shall so direct; enforcement of laws and regulations governing anchorage of vessels in navigable waters, and quarantine and neutrality; suppressing mutinies on merchant vessels; enforcement of navigation and other laws governing merchant vessels, etc.; protection of game and seal and other fisheries in Alaska and work as an international ice patrol off Newfoundland.

Insects and Scientists

Scientists are making a special study of animal and insect life as a means of determining changes which have taken place in the earth. The relations insects of one region bear to those of another indicate that certain islands were once connected. In Jamaica, recently, they explored a very ancient section of that country that has been above the sea for a longer time than its neighboring land and which shelters insect tribes of great age. This discovery leads authorities to believe that animal life of that isle is more closely associated with those of Haiti or Cuba, and that it originally found its way from the mainland over a land bridge long since engulfed by the ocean.—Family Herald.

Gas From Flower Gardens

The great development of natural gas in the industries around Pittsburgh, Pa., is in a considerable measure due to George Westinghouse of airbrake fame. He finally induced his wife to let him sink a shaft in her flower garden, his labor being rewarded by a geyser when he had gone about 1,600 feet. From this came the development of the Pittsburgh supply. Westinghouse himself worked out the system of piping that enabled it to be distributed without leakage, at the same time reducing the pressure by the use of gradually larger pipes, until it could be safely handled by the time it reached a customer.

Earliest Known Letters

It was formerly believed that the earliest extant collection of formal letters was the series of about 150 Greek epistles professing to have been written by the tyrant Phalaris of the Sixth century B. C. A controversy arose, however, and Richard Bentley in his famous "Dissertation on the Letters of Phalaris," in 1699, demonstrated, as is now universally admitted, that they are of comparatively late origin, about the Second century A. D. Among the early genuine letters of the Greek period are those of Isocrates (died 338 B. C.), nine in number.

Designed for Convenience

The position of the hands of a clock is one which has been selected for the reason that it furnishes the greatest facility to meet the requirement for painting the longer name above the hands and the shorter word below. The minute hand has been varied in position from 17 to 25 minutes after 8. Sometimes the longer name requires to be written in a semi-circle above the hands. There have been stories connected with the death of Lincoln, that the position of the hands is commemorative of the hour of the death but this is not true.

Not Really Profanity

It is perfectly correct when you say that "darn" got into bad company and took some of the color of "damn." But what is the origin of the word? "Darn" is not an intensive adjective meaning "very most," as you assume, but is an offspring of the Shakespearean word "dearn, dern" which signified "terrible," originally "darkened, soiled." A cognate verb is "tarnish" (to soil).—New York Herald Tribune.

In the Edible Class

"Yes," said the teacher, "we have several plants and flowers named with the prefix 'dog.' Of course, the 'dog-rose' and 'dog-violet' are well known to you all. Can any of you tell me others?"

For some seconds the class remained dumb. Then a bright idea illuminated the face of an urchin, and up went his hand.

"Collie flowers, Miss!"

NOTICE OF BUILDING SCHOOL HOUSE

Notice is hereby given that the proposals for the erection of a school house in the township of Ell, in the county of Hancock, will be received by the undersigned at his office in Ell Township, where plans and specifications may be seen until 1 o'clock P. M., May 22, 1925, at which time the contract will be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder. The board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

Peter Josten, Sec'y:
Apr. 27, 1925, Klemme, Ia.
A 30 - M 21

Goodell News

J. W. Griggs spent this last week at Elm Bend at Ventura.

Mrs. Wm. Allaben returned from a two weeks visit with her son, Vincent and family who live at Solon.

Mrs. Allaben, Mrs. Okrug and Mrs Thada attended a Missionary Convention near Cedar Rapids.

Mr. and Mrs. Ludrick Johnson visited at the Lewis Johnson home Sunday

Jay Griggs and W. R. Prelipp were Clarion business callers Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Griggs were Miller and Garner callers Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Quigley and family were Mason City callers Monday

Confirmation and dedication took place at the St. John's Catholic Church at Goodell Sunday. The Archbishop of Dubuque and several other other priests were present.

The Avery Township Farm Bureau meeting was held at the Griggs school house Monday night. A large crowd attended and a fine program was given by a number of school girls from Goodell. Afterwards Mr. Nutty shown his pictures and the refreshment committee served cookies, coffee and sandwitches.

Dale Chase closed his first term of school at District No. 5, Thursday His small school enjoyed a picnic at noon.

Agnes Fuller gave her pupils a pic nice Friday as it was their last day of school.

Presley Griggs of Miller was delivering mops at Goodell Friday.

Martin Kearney and daughter Margaret spent the week-end at Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Peters spent Sunday at the J. Griggs home

Miss Arlene Orr was called to Salem on business Monday evening.

Mr. O. T. Landsverk is the owner of a new Ford Coupe.

Goodell will put on their Senior Play "Clarence Decides" Friday night.

Goodell's grade and high school played a game of base ball Friday afternoon. The scores were 4 - 3 in favor of the High School.

The Choir is practicing for the Baccalaureate services which will be held at the U. B. Church May 17.

Jay T. Griggs and Ray Stille of Garner transacted business at Spirit Lake Monday.

Francis Quigley of Belmond was a Goodell caller Friday.

The mail carriers time has been changed so that they wait until after the noon train before going out on the route.

Nettie and Iola Chase of Belmond spent the week-end at home with their mother.

QUAKER
State Oil
GUARANTEED
100 Per Cent PURE
PENNSYLVANIA OIL
Sold under a Guarantee to go farther and give perfect satisfaction.
Beware of Imitation!
PAVEY'S
STORMIZING SHOP

The Reward of Carelessness

Many fine homes have been lost to lightning merely because rodding was one of the things their owners were going to do "some day."

Loss of your home may be the reward of similar carelessness.

The DODD System of Lightning Protection makes loss by lightning impossible and is so guaranteed in writing.

The cost? Nothing compared with the possible saving.

Let's talk about it.

H. Lau Sons

CONTROLS TRADE D&S MARK LIGHTNING

Just Received

A carload, 600 Sacks of fine, pure for our three stores. This is a good time to buy Sugar for canning, as this is the lowest price on sugar for many years.

CANE SUGAR

Our price per 100 lb. sack $6.75

Abraham & Sons

Garner Iowa

Dr. Hess Stock Tonic

The Springtime Conditioner

A LONG winter diet on dry feed tells in ill condition; blood out of order and worm pestilence.

Dr. Hess Stock Tonic puts cows in trim for summer milking. Excellent for cows at calving. Feed it before freshing. It relieves brood sows of constipation; all hogs of worms. Fit your team for spring work with a course of Dr. Hess Stock Tonic. You can feel it on the lines.

Wilson's Pharmacy

Dr. Hess Dip and Disinfectant
For Sheep Ticks - for Hog Lice - for Health

THE KANAWHA AUXILLIARY PRESENTS

A 4 ACT HOME TALENT PLAY

Dust of the Earth'

At the Idle Hour Theatre

TUES. MAY 12

KLEMME, IOWA
8:15 P. M.

Legion Benefit!

This Home Talent Play is being put on under the Auspices of the Klemme Legion Post and the proceeds will be used as a benefit fund.

A Real 4-act Play

"DUST OF THE EARTH" was put on at Kanawha and drew large crowds. THIS IS NOT A MOVIE, but a real live wire drama.

Everybody Come

Admission 35c and 50c.

Spring Goods---

Have you seen the new Spring Goods at Day's? The new colorde Indian Heads are very practical and pretty because they are guaranteed fast colors.

Also a nice new lot of Ginghams, Sun Tub Cloth, Voiles, etc to select your Summer Dress from.

This is the time of year you will need new curtains. Be sure to inspect our line before buying for our prices are RIGHT!

Saturday Special

2 lbs. Large Prunes 23c

"PAY CASH and PAY LESS"

Jno. N. Day's Cash Store

News of Klemme and Vicinity

See the Northern for screen doors.

DANCE at Stokesbary's May 14th.

Miss Esther Yante spend Sunday at her home at Garner.

J. Jorgenson, of Garner, was in Klemme Tuesday.

Mrs. John Spitler, of Belmond, was a Klemme caller yesterday.

FOR SALE—House in Klemme. L. D. Byers, Garner, Iowa. tfc

FOUND—Auto headlight lens. Call at Times Office

Harry Gibbs has been quite sick this past week.

Dance, May 14th at the Stokesbary Barn. Good music. Come! 1tc

Buy your screen doors at the Northern Lumber Co. Big stock on hand.

Let us measure your porch for screens. Northern Lumber Co. tc

Screen Doors on hand at the Northern Lumber Co. tc

Band rehearsal next Monday instead of Tuesday night.

Court is in session this week with Judge Kelly in the bench.

W. H. Trafford, of Belmond, was a Klemme caller, Friday.

Mrs. Reichardt is visiting her grand daughter at Olheyedan, Iowa.

Silver's Fun Show has been drawing a big crowd every night they show.

The eighth grade pupils of the country schools took their examinations here yesterday.

W. F. Lau is driving a new Flint Coach, which he purchased of his brother, August, of Mason City.

Mr and Mrs. Frank Clark and Mrs. Conklin, of Goodell, visited at the Sumner Trumbel home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Smith and Miss Mabel, were Mason City visitors on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Poort and Mrs. P. M. Wilson were Mason City visitors yesterday

Mr. Fred Oxley, of Corwith, supervisor, was looking after county business here Tuesday.

The kiddies about town were exceedingly busy Friday evening as that is a red letter date on their calendar—May Basket night.

The Juniors and Seniors of the Klemme High School had a picnic at Bayside Park, yesterday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Griesemer, and Mr. Ed. Steil, of Garner, spent Sunday at the P. M. Griesemer home in this city.

Mr. C. M, Westerfield, of Cedar Rapids called at the Times Office yesterday. He sold us a linotype four years ago.

Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Hesselhuus went to Des Moines to attend a dental convention there Tuesday and Wednesday.

Aaron Greimann, Chris Gram and Harvey Stille went to Des Moines on business Thursday and returned to Klemme Saturday.

The R. N. A. are going to hold a convention at Garner May 20th. afternoon and evening. All Royal Neighbors be there.

A Big Dance at Stokesbary's Barn Thursday evening, May 14th. Come and have a good time and enjoy the good music 1tc

Will Roswag and family, and Martin Peterson and family, of Garner, were visiting at the Wm. Wenz home last week, Monday evening.

Bonnie Jean is the yound lady's name and she arrived at the Clint Stokesbary home Sunday evening. Clint says she is some fine baby.

This vicinity had several rather severe frosts the past week and no doubt the fruit crop is damaged, as well as some of the less hardy garden vegetables.

Hatching Eggs; Paynes Exhibition highest bred to lay S. C. Reds Pen No. 1 $1.25 fo 15 or $7.00 per 100. Pen No. 2 50c for 15 or $3.00 per 100. Mrs. John Josten. 1tc

Mr. and Mrs. Kyle and children have moved into the Tom Blank house, recently occupied by Louie Stupke and family.

The Dance at the Idle Hour Tuesday night put on by the Legion was well attended and all had a good time.

Next Friday you can go after the game fish, Friday, May 15th. But, don't forget you must have a license this year to fish at Clear Lake, or any other stocked lake in Iowa.

Mrs. P. M. Wilson and daughter, Gladys, went to Clarion Sunday for a visit with the former's father who was there for the day. Mrs. Wilson's brother came for them and brought them back to Klemme.

Rev. and Mrs. Gauger and son, Eugene, drove to Garner Friday for a visit with Mrs. Gauger's mother, Mrs. Josten, who had just returned from Prairie Du Chien, where she had been taking treatments.

The Times Print Shop has just finished printing the new telephone directories for the Koerner Telephone Company and each telephone subscriber will have a copy in a few days.

Adolph Lauritsen and Charles Gibbs came from Fayette last Friday for a few days visit at home. The boys came with a young man of Fayette in his car. Monday all three of the boys returned to school.

The W. C. Keraus, C. G. Waterman, J. J. Poort, Frank Kluckhohn and R. A. Jorgenson families, of this place and Mr. and Mrs. T. F Mitchell of Swea City, all drove over to Clear Lake Sunday to celebrate the birthday of Mrs. C. F. Keraus at their cottage there. All had a fine time.

WANTED—To buy a couple of brood sows. Wm. Ax. 2p

KLEMME MARKETS

Thurs. May 7, 1925

Wheat	1.40
OATS	.36
CORN	.80—.90
Barley	.75
Rye	1.00
HOGS	$10.50—$11.00
Eggs (cash)	.24
Eggs (trade)	.25
HENS	.18
Stags	15
Old Roosters	.07
Ducks	.10
Geese	.08
Butter	.47
Butterfat	.47

While many are idling away the summer months, a number of more ambitious young people will attend the Hamilton University summer school beginning June 1. Mason City, Iowa. 1tcF

The Ladies Aid Society will meet at the Parish House next Thursday May 14th. Every member is requested to come and bring your embroidery kit with you. There will be sewing for each one to do. Anyone wishing to become an Aid member will have a most hearty reception. Mesdames Frank Kluckhohn and Kirkwood are hostesses.

The members of the Recreation Club had a surprise party on Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Poort Monday evening. The occasion being their 15th wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Poort were presented with gifts of glass in remembrance of the event. All had a fine time.

CULTIVATORS

We have on hand a few: — M. H. John Deere Two-row Cultivators; V. B.Leverless Deere 6 Shovel; R. C. Hammock seat Deere, 6 shovel, corn plows.

How about new shovels and shovel points for your old corn plow?

BARGAINS

1—150 tooth Boss Harrow	$27.00
1—160 tooth Flexible 20 Ft. Harrow	$43.00
1—160 tooth Flexible 20 Ft. Harrow	$45.00
1—Hoosier End-gate Seeder	$20.00
1—10 Ft. M. C. Disc Harrow	$75.00

OPEN EVERY EVENING

L. W. WESENBERG

GOODELL, IOWA

NOTICE

To Our Customers

All those who are indebted to the undersigned firm are requested to call and settle all old accounts before our Annual Meeting Date, at which time we close our books for the past business year and must have all accounts paid in order to pay annual dividends.

Respectfully,

Klemme Co-Op. Grain Company

MOTHER'S DAY

"The noblest thoughts my soul can claim, the holies words my tongue can frame, unworthy are to praise the name more precious than all other; an infant when her love first came, a man I find it just the same; reverently I breathe the name, the blessed name of mother."

—Gorge Giffith Fetter

IN Extending our greetings to Mothers, on Mothers Day, Sunday, May 10, we can only add that here they will always find a welcome and a desire to serve and protect you in every way.

State Savings Bank

Klemme Iowa

Fast Color Dresses

Materials for summer wear of every kind, and it may be laundered freely without danger of fading colors, for each and every piece is fully guaranteed fast color.
We suggest:

FRENCH GINGHAMS
TISSUE GINGHAMS
KALBURNI GINGHAMS
PETER PAN
SILK CREPES
NORMANDY FABRIC

G.W. Kluckhohn & Sons

THE BLUE CIRCLE

By Elizabeth Jordan

(© by The Century Co.)
WNU Service.

CHAPTER X—Continued

—18—

"Then is there any use going on turning it?"

He laughed a little, and the sound surprised her even more than his voice had done.

"I suppose not," he admitted. "But, of course, I wanted to be sure. If I had any tools—but I haven't even a penknife."

"Would a hairpin help?"

"It would in fiction. In real life, and with a stout old lock like this, I'm afraid it won't. But we will try it."

She fumbled in her hair and handed him a few hairpins of the fine, so-called "invisible" variety. They were useless for his purpose. "Most of my hairpins are shell," she ruefully confessed.

Renshaw experimented patiently but fruitlessly.

"I think the best thing for me to do is to bang on the door till some one hears us," he said at last.

"I'm afraid no one will. We're so far from everybody here."

"One of the servants may pass along the hall. Anyway, I'll try it. If that doesn't work, I'll see if I can break down the door. You're not minding this very much, are you?"

She felt him turn toward her in the blackness.

"I—think not. Of course—it isn't pleasant."

Her breath had caught again, but she spoke with an effort at a laugh.

"No, it isn't pleasant," he cheerfully agreed in those new, robust tones; "but it might be a whole lot worse. Now I'll start a tattoo and see if we can't attract attention."

He assailed the stout panels of the oak door with a pair of vigorous fists, varying this by kicking the panels. After a long time Verity put her hands over her ears to deaden the din. At last he felt her touch on his arm.

"Do stop a while," she begged. "You will wear yourself out."

"I'm more apt to wear you out," he laughed. "I can keep this up indefinitely, but it's rather hard on your nerves."

"It does make me feel as if I were in a nightmare," she confessed. "And—I'm afraid it isn't doing any good. No one ever comes up here in the afternoon."

She spoke with a dejection she did not try to conceal. The whole experience was increasingly like a bad dream.

"We'll try something else," said Renshaw. "As soon as your nerves are rested I'll show you a human battering-ram in full action. In the meantime, I will try quieter methods."

She felt him kneel down on a level with the lock, and heard again the futile turning and twisting of the doorknob.

"Have you any matches?" she asked at last, almost in a whisper.

"I'm ashamed to say I haven't. Matches were the first thing I looked for in my pockets. I think this is about the only time I've ever been without them. That's what novelists would call 'the irony of fate.'"

He continued to work at the lock, whistling softly under his breath. The air he whistled was a Rumanian folk-song that he had heard her sing. She was still sufficiently mistress of herself to observe that every note in it was correct and true to pitch.

"I'm getting horribly tired of this frightful blackness," she said at last.

"I was afraid you would."

"Don't you—hate it?" In spite of her effort to keep it steady, Verity's voice vibrated.

"Good gracious, no! Why should I? But I know lots of women don't like being in dark places—" He checked himself. "This doesn't work," he admitted, ceasing his efforts on the lock. "Now for the human battering-ram. Get off into the corner, please, as far as you can, and I'll let myself out."

She retreated into the corner. The closet was so narrow that with her arms outstretched she could have touched its opposite shelves as she moved, but its length put her eight feet away from him. She seemed to feel him gathering himself for a supreme effort. The next moment the very walls shook under the force of the impact of his powerful shoulder against the wood. But the bolt held.

"I can't get any momentum in this shallow closet," he briefly commented half a minute later. "I can only back away a few feet from the door."

He attacked the panels again. To the girl in the darkness beside him it seemed as if the force of that impact should have brought down the house, but the old door and lock seemed built to resist any assault.

"Mighty solid house you've got here," he commented rather breathlessly. "Was it built for your grandfather?"

"No; my great-grandfather had it built about a hundred years ago. That is, this main building; which is not large. He gave it the gypsy name, Tawno Ker, which means 'little home.' But half a dozen wings have been added since then."

"They don't build houses like this nowadays. I wish they hadn't been so conscientious then." He checked himself, as if he had suddenly thought of something else. "You were born here, I suppose?" he asked, with an interest designed to draw out and keep her talking. He was again working on the lock, feebly assisted by the last hairpin.

"Yes; I was born in my own bedroom—in the one I have had ever since."

There was a quality in her voice that seriously disturbed him. He whirled toward her quickly.

"Come out of that corner now," he directed. "You'll be better here by the door."

"How much air do you suppose there is in this closet?"

He laughed. "So that's what's worrying you? Well, there's plenty—all we can possibly need."

"Are you sure? It seems to me to be getting close."

"That's because you are nervous and thinking about air and imagining things."

"And it's not—really close?"

"Not a bit of it. I'll figure out our air supply in cubic feet, if you like."

She laughed a little in the sudden relief born of the words. "That wouldn't mean anything to me," she confessed. "I know less about mathematics than anyone you ever met. I shall never forget how horrified grandfather was when he discovered, a few years ago, that I couldn't even figure up my income."

"Have you ever bent your intellect on your income tax?"

Renshaw did not care what they talked about, as long as they talked. He wished to occupy the girl's mind, but he did not care to talk about anything that would occupy his own mind. He wanted to think, if he could. For Verity Campbell was quite right about the atmosphere in that closet. The infernal place was almost air-tight. They would be all right for a time, of course; but in the interval he must not be wearing himself out against the door, and gulping in all the air there was in his subsequent exhaustion.

"No; grandfather's lawyer attends to all that for us." Verity's voice returned to the note that had startled him. "How long do you think we have been in here now?"

"Not more than half an hour, I should say."

"It seems a century." Her next words showed that her thoughts were taking the direction in which Renshaw's had turned at once. "They won't be apt to miss us till dinner-time," she said slowly. "They will look for us then. But they may think it is natural for us not to come to tea today, with the house so upset; and dinner is hours off. Mr. Renshaw"—her voice took on a note of barely controlled hysteria—"I know it's very hard for you, with me here on your hands. I don't want to make it harder. But—I am horribly frightened." The last words came out with a deep gasp.

"I know. It's awfully unpleasant for you." Again she was conscious that he was speaking to her as he would have spoken to We-wee. "I wish there were something I could do. But we'll just have to be patient till they hear us. In the meantime there's nothing, absolutely nothing, to be afraid of. Now I'll go on trying to rouse the household."

He acted on the resolution even as he spoke; and Verity's reply, if she made any, was lost in the persistent rhythm of the terrific double tattoo he kept up. After a long time he felt her light touch on his arm.

"I'm afraid I can't stand any more of it just now," she almost whispered.

"Then we'll talk a while. Sit down on the floor; you must be tired."

"No, I'm not tired. But—Mr. Renshaw—I'm perfectly sure the air is close."

"That's natural enough. We are in a small place."

Renshaw himself would gladly have ceased breathing at that moment, but to do so would certainly have alarmed instead of helping the girl.

"If you will sit down you will find the air better," he contented himself with saying.

"That's why you wanted me to sit down, isn't it?" she asked dully. "It's very good of you—but I won't sit down."

"Your imagination is working overtime. Let me tell you a little experience of my own that shows what one's imagination can do."

Renshaw's voice was too careless now. He was overdoing the pose of the indifferent raconteur. But his companion, who would have realized this half an hour earlier, was past such distinctions now.

"I was on a steamer one night, cruising in a tropical sea," he began, keeping up a fist tattoo as a running accompaniment to his reminiscence. "It was a stormy night, and I woke up with the feeling that I was suffocating. There was a big sea running, and the stewards had locked down both my stateroom windows. I noticed that when I came in. I had meant to open the windows after I turned off the light, but I forgot to do it."

He was not sure she was listening, but he felt her growing terror. She was past any comfort that lay in idle chatter. Nevertheless he went on:

"I got up and tried to turn on the light, but the switch didn't work. I fumbled at one of the windows, but couldn't find the catch. I had never in my life felt such a horrible sense of oppression. In groping around my hand touched a heavy military brush, and in desperation I finally picked up that brush and drove it straight through a window. There was a tremendous crash, of course, and a lot of flying glass, but no one heard the noise, because of the storm."

He was not sure that she was even listening. Instead, he was listening to her, trying to tell by her breathing and the sound of her movements how far her panic had gone.

"I stood by the broken window several minutes," he resumed, "gulping in the fresh air that poured through. It braced me up completely, and I went back to my berth and fell asleep. When I awoke the next morning, both my windows were still hermetically sealed, and the stateroom was as hot as the dickens; but the mirror over the wash bowl was smashed to atoms!"

Something that was half a laugh and half a sob came to him out of the darkness. His sense of pity for the girl became so intense as to be painful. She was a thoroughbred. She was going through this beastly experience mighty well. They had been prisoners full an hour now, he estimated. God alone knew how much longer they might be there. He set his teeth. Then, his thoughts returning to the girl, he spoke persuasively.

"If you would sit down and close your eyes and try to take a nap," he suggested, "the time would pass a lot quicker."

She laughed again. He did not like the sound at all. He wished he could see her. This Stygian darkness was the turn of the screw. Throughout his story he had not stopped his effort to attract attention. He increased it now, battering at the door with fists and feet as long as he thought she could endure the noise.

"I'm horribly frightened." The words reached him in a breathless whisper.

"I am so sorry." His voice was very gentle. "But you must keep steady, you know. Hang on to the fact that there is nothing to be afraid of. Would you feel better if you called out? Try it, if you like. Some one might hear you, too," he added.

"No. If I began, I'm afraid I might not be able to stop. I might have hysterics."

"Nonsense! You're too well poised for that sort of thing. Why not look at the situation sensibly?" Renshaw felt that a little brutality might be a good tonic just now. "We're inconvenienced for a short time—an hour more, at the most. What's the use of making a fuss about it?"

"Please don't take that tone. I know you are doing it to help me, but it doesn't help."

He laughed.

"I thought I'd get a flash out of you. And, you see, it did help, after all."

"No, it didn't—it didn't! It made things worse. It made me afraid of you!"

He was silent for a moment.

"That hurts, Miss Campbell," he said, at last. "Is there anything in the world that I can say or do to reassure you?"

She gulped like a penitent child.

"Yes," she said. "You can forgive me."

"For what?"

"For saying I was afraid of you. I'm not. I haven't been, for a single moment. But I'm so horribly nervous, I don't know what I'm saying. I'm a coward—I've just discovered it."

"You're nothing of the sort. You're mighty plucky. Most girls would make a lot more fuss over this than you do."

"Do you really think so?" For a moment she seemed to pull herself together. "Suppose you were here alone?" she asked suddenly. "Wouldn't you—mind it?"

"Not in the least," Renshaw lied cheerfully. "I'd be disgusted, of course. I'm horribly disgusted as it is, because you are having this annoyance. I understand how any girl would feel about it."

"But you're not—afraid?"

"Afraid?" Renshaw threw in the simple word more surprise than he had ever really felt over anything. "What is there to be afraid of?" He stopped with the effect of studying her in the darkness, and then went on slowly, as if trying with difficulty to take in a new idea: "You don't mean that you are really seriously frightened?"

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Heart Massage Is One of Surgical Marvels

The heart is a pump, and its work can be done for it quite well for a little while by hand, while its own power fails, and it takes a rest. One has to remember that, normally it never has a rest from the moment of life until death. And what happens in cases of heart massage is that the surgeon rapidly makes his way to the organ, and, taking it firmly and gently in the hand, squeezes it so many times to the minute, thus keeping the stream of the blood circulating. If all goes well, the heart gradually recovers itself, and begins to beat of its own accord.

Thus it practically amounts to this—that a person may actually die and be brought to life again.

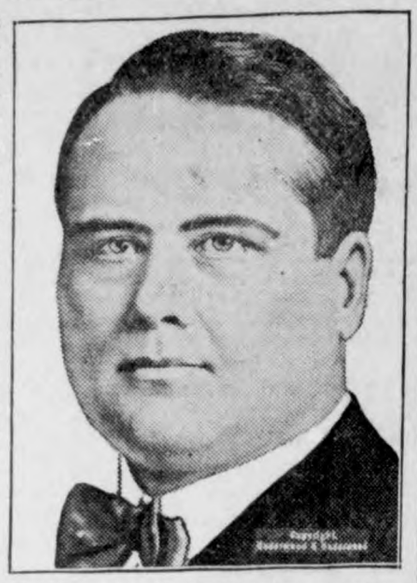
There was a time when it would have been thought madness to touch the heart. Yet wonderful things were done in the World war in removing bullets and shrapnel and in repairing heart rents, though often it is better to let sleeping dogs lie undisturbed, and the surgeon is still very chary of touching the great vital organ. For, though the heart is not so fragile as we once fancied, it has a queer temper. Its nervous mechanism is not a little touchy, and easily thrown out of gear.—London Times.

Bamboo's Short Life

Most species of bamboo live for from four to thirty years, bear a single crop of seeds at the end of that time, and then die back to the roots.

Prominent People

Stewart Returns to the Limelight



When the federal government's Teapot Dome oil case against Sinclair was on recently, Col. Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of directors of the Standard Oil company of Indiana (portrait herewith), just couldn't be found anywhere. It now appears that he wasn't really missing; he was simply on a business trip to Mexico, taking a look at the Doheny oil properties. And as soon as he came back he was very much in evidence through the purchase from Doheny of his control of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company. The deal covers 501,000 shares of the voting stock and amounts to something like $38,000,000, according to current market quotations. The consolidation gives the Standard Oil company of Indiana control not only of the Mexican properties of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company, its pipe lines and refineries, but also its tanker fleet of 31 vessels and the company's California properties.

Stewart will act as chairman of the purchased company's board. He now bulks large as one of the biggest figures in the oil business. The combined assets are about $584,000,000 and their securities are valued at $787,000,000.

U. S. Grant's Granddaughter to Marry

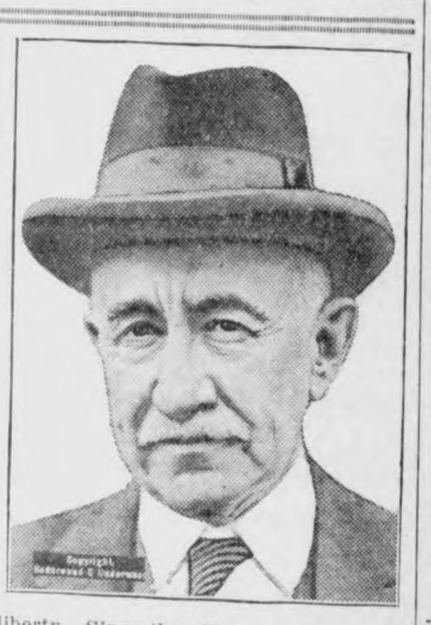
Announcement has been made in Washington of the engagement of Princess Bertha Cantacuzene, a great-granddaughter of Gen. U. S. Grant, to Bruce Smith of Louisville, Ky., by her parents, Prince Michael Cantacuzene and Princess Cantacuzene. The date of the wedding has not been fixed but it will be this summer.

The Princess Bertha's brother, the junior Prince Michael Cantacuzene, and his wife, who was Miss Clarissa Curtis of Boston, made their home in Chicago. During the autumn of 1917 the junior prince escorted his two sisters, the Princess Bertha and the Princess Ida from Russia to the hospice offered by the home of their grandaunt, the late Mrs. Potter Palmer. A coterie of nurses chaperoned the three children, "the long way round by Siberia."

The Princess Bertha maintains the reputation for beauty for which her mother's family—the Honore family of Kentucky—has long been celebrated. Mrs. Frederick Dent Grant, formerly Miss Ida Honore, and widow of Gen. Frederick Dent Grant, a son of U. S. Grant, is her maternal grandmother. Mr. Smith is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Floyd Smith.

The Cantacuzene family was founded in the middle of the Fourteenth century by John Cantacuzene VI, emperor of Constantinople. In the middle of the Seventeenth century the family became Russian princes. The family name of the Cantacuzenes is Speransky. The marriage of the former Miss Grant and the Prince Cantacuzene took place in 1900 at Newport, R. I. The Princess Bertha is about twenty years of age.

John Hays Hammond at 40 and at 70



The seventieth birthday of John Hays Hammond came around the other day and found him comfortable in a mansion that dominates the Rock Creek park, Washington. Pretty easy, that, for a man who in 1896 was under sentence of death in South Africa! Hammond's experiences have covered the earth and at forty he was a genuine soldier of fortune. The year 1895 found him in the employ of Cecil Rhodes, the "empire-builder," and in charge of the great gold mines at Johannesburg, South Africa. The Uitlanders (foreigners) had few privileges under the Boer president, Oom Paul Kruger. They were goaded into a rebellion of sorts, which resulted in the "Jameson Raid." Captured by the Boers, Hammond and three others were condemned to death for high treason and sentenced to be hanged. It was only after desperate efforts and the payment of a fine of $125,000 each that the four regained liberty. Since then Hammond has done important engineering jobs all over the world. He has lectured at half a dozen of the leading American universities. He has been abroad as special representative of the government several times. At home he has been president of Panama-Pacific exposition commission, chairman of the United States coal commission, president of the American Institute of Mining Engineers and what not. He is a leading spirit in several movements to promote Americanism.

Pinchots to Go to Congress Together?

Gov. and Mrs. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania are ambitious to be the first "family" to go into congress together, according to reports in Republican political circles. This has been current gossip in Washington for some time and now the same story comes from Pennsylvania. Governor Pinchot is planning to enter the race for the United States senate against Senator Pepper and Representative William S. Vare. Mrs. Pinchot, it is reported, will seek the seat in the house of representatives now held by Representative Louis T. McFadden of the Fifteenth district.

The Pinchots will make their joint campaign on a "bone-dry" platform, with prohibition enforcement as the bulwark of their battle. Governor Pinchot's decision to enter the senatorial race came as a result of Representative Vare's determination to run against Senator Pepper, it is said, and the three-cornered fight in prospect is expected to be one of the liveliest the Keystone state Republicans have staged in several years.

It is an open secret among the governor's friends that if he should manage to win the election to the senate he is to be put forward as a candidate for President in 1928.

Mrs. Pinchot has made no announcement of her plans, but persistent reports that she will become a candidate have gone undenied. She is a skilled campaigner.

Is Your Work Hard?

Is your work wearing you out? Are you tortured with throbbing backache—feel tired, weak and worn out? Then look to your kidneys! Many occupations tend to weaken the kidneys. Constant backache, headaches, dizziness and rheumatic pains result. One suffers annoying kidney irregularities; feels nervous, irritable and worn out. Don't wait! Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Workers everywhere recommend Doan's. They should help you, too. Ask your neighbor!

An Iowa Case

Z. T. Moore, 2nd St., Traer, Iowa, says: "My kidneys got out of order and acted too freely at times. I had a dull aching back that pained when I stooped. I used Doan's Pills and the backache left and my kidneys were regulated."

DOAN'S PILLS 60c

STIMULANT DIURETIC TO THE KIDNEYS

Foster-Milburn Co., Mfg. Chem., Buffalo, N. Y.

Lawyer Presidents

Twenty of the twenty-nine of our Presidents have been lawyers. They were the two Adamses, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Jackson, Van Buren, Tyler, Polk, Pierce, Buchanan, Lincoln, Hayes, Garfield, Cleveland, Benjamin Harrison, McKinley, Taft, Wilson and Coolidge.

A little mind courts notoriety to illustrate its puny self.

BRINGS YOUTH TO OLD FOLKS

One of Tanlac's greatest blessings is the new life and vigor it brings to old folks. Men and women up in the seventies and eighties are writing to us every day to thank us for Tanlac's wondrous benefits.

Tanlac is a natural tonic. It drives poisons from the blood, stirs up the lazy liver and puts digestive organs in working order.

Made after the famous Tanlac formula from roots, barks and rare herbs, it is nature's own tonic and builder—harmless to man or child.

If your body is weakened and run-down, if you lack ambition, can't eat or sleep, you'll be delighted with Tanlac's quick results

Take Tanlac Vegetable Pills for Constipation

TANLAC
FOR YOUR HEALTH

He who intends to do an injury has already done it.

How He Discovered Best Constipation Relief

Mr. Joseph F. Glus of Brooklyn, N. Y., writes "In the past 20 years I have been constantly troubled with constipation. Every remedy I tried would work O.K. for a while—but soon failed. The only remedy I have been able to use steadily with good results have been Carter's Little Liver Pills. I don't guess when I take them—I know I'm going to feel relieved." 25c at all druggists.

Thirty Running Sores

Remember, I stand back of every box. Every druggist guarantees to refund the purchase price (35 cents) if Peterson's Ointment doesn't do all I claim.

I guarantee it for eczema, old sores, running sores, salt rheum, ulcers, sore nipples, broken breasts, itching skin, skin diseases, blind, bleeding and itching piles, as well as for chafing, burns, scalds, cuts, bruises and sunburn.

"I had 30 running sores on my leg for 11 years, was in three different hospitals. Amputation was advised. Skin grafting was tried. I was cured by using Peterson's Ointment."—Mrs. F. E. Root, 287 Michigan Street, Buffalo, N. Y. Mail orders filled by Peterson Ointment Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Cuticura Talcum Unadulterated Exquisitely Scented

SAVE YOUR EYES! Use Dr. Thompson's Eyewater. Buy at your druggist's or 1167 River, Troy, N. Y. Booklet.

PARTY FROCK THAT IS IN FAVOR; STAMP BLOUSE WITH GAY COLOR

THE crystal globe of fashion-destiny reveals the future truly to those who peer into its depths to learn the "styles to be," then assuredly this summer will see chiffon enthroned as the reigning fabric for evening frocks. At this very moment dance and party dresses are unfolding a continuous and fascinating story of diaphanous georgette crepes and chiffons, always with the shoulder bouquet playing its part in coquetry and loveliness. It is peach-

Perhaps the tunic blouse is indebted to the ensemble suit for the honors showered upon it this season. This much is sure, the blouse and the tunic are topics supreme in the season's modes. Paris is content to keep coats and matching skirts severely simple, letting the blouse receive the full force of lavish touches and decorative features.

The French couturier has the gift of saying much in little. That is why red georgette, touched with the tic of the stylist's art which acts for the charm of the party s in the picture. Even our party ses flaunt a flowing necktie, for ties are a very important trim- item this season. Artificial or- are worn on the shoulder.

Use Chiffon and Shoulder Bouquet.

eer materials reign supreme ughout advance costume collec- Billowy masses of chiffon man- in tiered circular ruffles on eve- frocks, in insets of circular por- that make the skirt measure around the bottom; in volumi- bows of chiffon at the left hip- nd in countless other entrancing Notwithstanding all this super- of transparent fabric, the effect whole is of extreme simplicity, here is little or no trimming save inevitable never-to-be-omitted der bouquet. Another item, very tant is the satin costume slip which these frocks of transpar- are posed. It must be nothing than perfect, both as to color t.

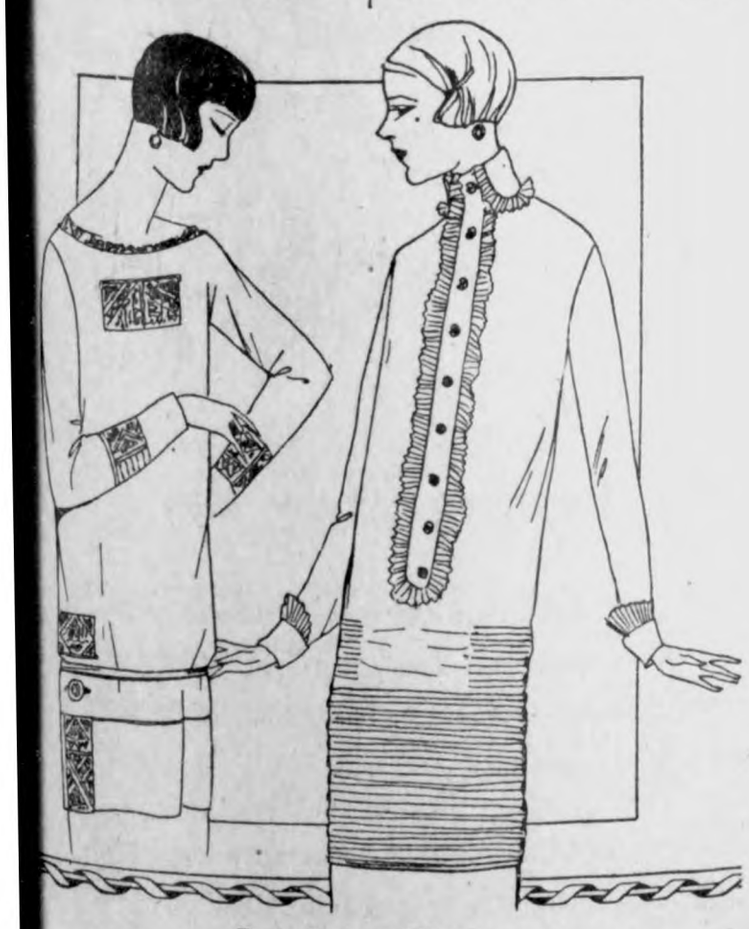
y many of the new chiffon frocks rimmed in lace dyed an accurate . Not only are airy-fairy delimeshed silk laces used, but the woman of fashion takes joy in owning a blouse "from Paris." It is sure to have a cunning touch here and there which stamps its artistic origin. Even the simplest tailored blouse is not immune from a delightful appeal of subtle detail. Per example, note the blouse to the right in this picture. In this model the artist resorts to tiny horizontal plaitings for molding the blouse to the figure. It is an excellent suggestion to carry out in one's tailored blouse, that is if one is not so favored as to be in a position to indulge in the purchase of the "original model." The thought is particularly valuable as it illustrates the tendency to get away from the short hip-band effect. The high turnover collar, with its plaitings, likewise the box plait down the front and the cuffs, are tailored-looking without being severe.

The dressier blouse to the left shows the inevitable touch of embroidery. It also has a graceful way of evading the now passe high hip band, by means of an abbreviated skirt effect buttoned at the side.

Color is a subject of vital importance when it comes to the blouse or tunic. There is no such thing, this season, as overindulgence in gay hues. The solid shades may be yellow, scarlet or startling green, or they may be conveyed in prints, which qualify as the mode only when they are bizarre.

The woman who knows how to dress well, without extravagance, will acquire a handsome topcoat and skirt to match, supplementing these with a collection of blouses both tailored and fanciful, selected with a viewpoint of creating ensemble effects.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.



Paris Style in Blouses.

f the heavier sort are employed es, bandings and insets.

nounced is the vogue for sheer s, that even our daytime are being made of georgette New wood tones are especially ized, also beige in these exfrocks. A new note is sounded chiffon shawl which accompais sleeveless dress of like ma- These scarf-like shawls use the th of the georgette or chiffon. e fringed on three sides with d floss, the selfsame color.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

WOMAN'S INTUITION THING OVERRATED?

Writer Questions Idea Concerning Sixth Sense.

Only an arch-heretic would cast doubt on woman's intuition. I confess to heresy. Unquestionably this sixth sense exists, but I think that it is overrated, Lydia Haig writes in the Washington Post.

If woman's intuition were so uncannily developed as it is commonly represented to be, her advantage over man would be incalculable. In emergencies her decisions would be more prompt and wise than his, she would more readily detect false logic, she would judge character unerringly, and so be better protected against the designs of the unscrupulous. In reality, more women than men are victimized by suave impostors.

If women were so highly intuitive they would excel in the law courts. Intuitional perception being a natural force, women would leap to swift but sound conclusions while trained and experienced men were stumblingly endeavoring to sift evidence.

As speculators they would achieve riches, or by their advice enable men to achieve them, yet in truth any trader, man or woman, who bought and sold by intuition without studying the markets would be ruined.

Had women this divining gift no politician would make a move without consulting some accomplished woman. Many men have, indeed, acknowledged the aid rendered by their wives and mothers, but always the women possessed superior intelligence and they helped by the exercise of reason and judgment, not by mysterious short cuts.

In domestic and social life women's superior intuition is seldom apparent. They do not secure more faithful friends than men do, they are not more successful in selecting servants, they do not adjust themselves more happily to the caprices and tempers of their associates, nor more quickly perceive the consequences of unwise words. In all these things there are great individual differences, but the differences are a matter of temperament, not sex.

In that crucial test, the selection of a husband, women's mistakes are frequent and lamentable. Men, who are confessedly devoid of intuition, are often fascinated by unworthy women, but rarely are they so blind as a woman enamored of an unworthy man. In whatever guise the deceiver comes she cannot use the mask or detect the character behind it.

I believe that to overestimate her power of intuition does woman a grave injury. It prevents her from cultivating judgment and relying on it. From her youth she is encouraged to believe that she is endowed with a special talisman, that she possesses occult methods of getting at facts, and as a result she makes frequent and disastrous mistakes.

Suspicious

"This feller is a suspicious character!" announced Constable Sam T. Slackputter, the well-known sleuth of Petunia, dragging a thin and harmless-looking stranger up before Esquire Ramsbottom.

"How do you make that out?" asked the official.

"Well, he's from Kay See, and you'll say yourself he looks so innercent that he's prob'ly a bandit or holdup of some kind. I've searched him through and through and emptied him out, and I'll be johnbrowned if he's got a single deadly weapon concealed about his person. So I say he's a suspicious character!"—Kansas City Star.

Camera as Detective

An interesting discovery in photography is now being used by the French police in their work of criminal investigation. It has been found useful to impregnate the skin of the fingers of criminals, or other suspected persons, with a preparation containing a lead compound. This remains on the lines of the skin.

When an X-ray photograph is taken, not only is the finger-print shown in detail, but also the structure of the bones. The bones of the fingers furnish even more possible clews to the identification of criminals than finger prints. —Detroit Free Press.

Fire-Fighting Aid

During many great fires, fire-fighting equipment from neighboring cities has proved useless because the threads in the hose couplings did not fit the local hydrants. In order to remedy this, the United States bureau of standards has perfected a set of tools enabling new threads to be cut on the spot. Fire departments in many large cities now are being equipped with these.—Popular Science Monthly.

Inkwell Covers Itself

The annoyance of removing the cover of an inkwell every time a pen is to be used has been obviated by an ingenious cover that is closed by a small glass ball rolling on a runway, says Popular Science Monthly. When a pen is inserted the ball is pushed back easily. As the pen is removed the ball rolls forward, closing the well from dust and air.

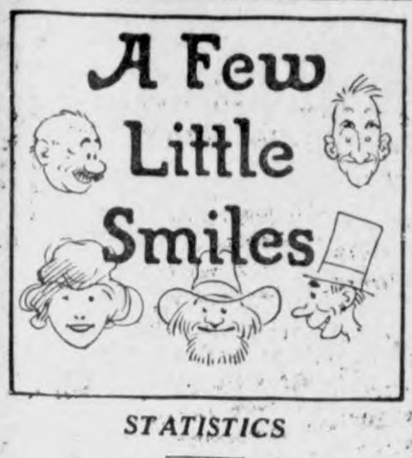
Can Move Tall Trees

Tall trees are now successfully transplanted by means of a newly invented machine.

Traffic in Human Hair

Ninety-nine tons of human hair was exported from Hongkong in 1923.

A Few Little Smiles



STATISTICS

Old Uncle Eben Jones went into a life insurance office and requested a policy.

"Why, uncle," said the president, "you are too old for us to take the risk. How old are you?"

"Ninety-seven come next August," said the old man and added testily, "If you folks will take the trouble to look up your statistics, you'll find that mighty few men die after they're ninety-seven."—London Telegraph.

Speaking of Hash

"The study of the occult sciences interests me very much," remarked the new boarder. "I love to explore the dark depths of the mysterious, to delve into the regions of the unknown, to fathom the unfathomable, as it were, and to—"

"May I help you to some of this hash, professor?" interrupted the landlady.

Hard Luck

"Women—speak no more to me about them. The only one I ever loved is married."

"To whom?"

"Alas—to me.—Le Monde Illustre, Paris.

NOW IT'LL STOP

"I got sick and tired of Dick coming around every night and getting mushy."

"Well, what did you do about it?"

"I simply went ahead and married him."

Smell Orange Blossoms

Love may be blind and hard to move,
And may be deaf as well;
But orange blossoms always prove
That love at least can smell.

His Solar Help

"I worked on that problem until five o'clock this morning."

"Did you finally get the idea?"

"Yes, it began to dawn on me."

A Subtle Invitation

George—Do you know that I'm something of a mind-reader?

Nellie—So? Then why do you sit at the other end of the davenport?

Bright Dog

"That's an intelligent dog!"

"Yes, he barks every time my wife goes near the piano!"

Much the Same

"What has become of that actress? She was a joke in stock."

"She is now playing in repartee."

DIDN'T QUITE RUN THINGS

Friend—Do you run things at home?

Mr. Meeks (cautiously)—Well, I wouldnt speak of it quite as running—there're retarding influences y' know.

Hastens Death

I've heard it said often
By those who are wise,
That the more a man eats
The faster he dies.

Should Be Introduced

Mrs. Gossip—Yes, that's what happened, and you can take it from me it's an absolute fact.

Mrs. Gill—Well, I never! But I've always said that truth was more of a stranger than fiction.

Old Wine in a New Keg

Comic Artist—This joke oughta be good. I've had it in my head for ten years.

Heartless Editor—Sorta aged in the wood, as it were.

AFTER HER BABY CAME

Mrs. Hollister Unable To Do Her Work for Six Months

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health

MRS. HENRY HOLLISTER
WYANDOTTE, MICHIGAN

Wyandotte, Michigan.—"After my baby was born I did not do my own work for six months and could hardly take care of my own baby. I always had a pain in my right side and it was so bad I was getting round shoulders. I would feel well one day and then feel so bad for three or four days that I would be in bed. One Sunday my mother came to see how I was, and she said a friend told her to tell me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So the next day I got a bottle and before it was half taken I got relief. After I was well again I went to the doctor and he asked me how I was getting along. I told him I was taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and he said it did not hurt any one to take it. I am always recommending the Vegetable Compound to others and I always have a bottle of it on hand."—Mrs. HENRY HOLLISTER, R. F. D. No. 1, Box 7, Wyandotte, Michigan.

Another Woman's Case

St. Paul, Minnesota.—"I have a little girl three years old and ever since her birth I have suffered with my back as if it were breaking in two, and bearing-down pains all the time. I also had dizzy spells. I had read several letters of women in the newspapers, and the druggist recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to my husband for me. As a result of taking it my back has stopped aching and the awful bearing-down feeling is gone. I feel stronger and do all of my housework and tend to my little girl. I have also taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills for constipation. I have recommended these medicines to some of my friends and you may use this letter as a testimonial if you wish. I will be pleased to answer letters of other women if I can help them by telling them what this medicine has done for me."—Mrs. PRICE, 147 West Summit Avenue, St. Paul, Minnesota.

Advertising Wasted

The city council of Santa Barbara, Calif., read a letter from a Cleveland (Ohio) manufacturer with mingled emotions. "You will find that our rotary plow will be a great saving," the letter read. "After each snowstorm you can send the motor plow through the streets and rapidly have a path cleared wide enough for two lines of traffic." The council sent the letter to the Santa Barbara Museum of Natural History.

WHY DRUGGISTS RECOMMEND SWAMP-ROOT

For many years druggists have watched with much interest the remarkable record maintained by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine.

It is a physician's prescription.

Swamp-Root is a strengthening medicine. It helps the kidneys, liver and bladder do the work nature intended they should do.

Swamp-Root has stood the test of years. It is sold by all druggists on its merit and it should help you. No other kidney medicine has so many friends.

Be sure to get Swamp-Root and start treatment at once.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.

Present for Wilhelmina

Although Queen Wilhelmina has expressed a desire to celebrate her silver wedding next year within her domestic circle, plans are on foot throughout the country to make her a splendid present. The gift will be a painted portrait of the queen, the prince consort and Princess Juliana. The frame for the picture will be sculptured and will bear the arms of the royal family and all the Dutch provinces.

Shave With Cuticura Soap

And double your razor efficiency as well as promote skin purity, skin comfort and skin health. No mug, no slimy soap, no germs, no waste, no irritation even when shaved twice daily. One soap for all uses—shaving, bathing and shampooing.—Advertisement.

Tap Big Electrical Supply

Florence lake tunnel, thirteen and a half miles long, in the California Sierras, will provide electricity enough for 200,000 homes, pump water to 620,000 acres and run 5,000 factories.

Seeing More of Her

Rich—Did you know her back home?

Richer—No. She didn't wear opera gowns there.

Playing Safe

Gertrude—Are you married?

Theodore—I am sorry to say I am not, thank goodness!—American Legion Weekly.

Genuine BAYER

ASPIRIN

Say "Bayer"-Insist!

For Colds Headache
Pain Lumbago
Neuralgia Rheumatism

Safe — Accept only a Bayer package which contains proven directions

Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets
Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

FITS STOPPED FREE TRIAL TREATMENT

to any sufferer from Epilepsy or falling sickness. Write us today, giving age. EMMERLEPTO REMEDY CO., Dept. E, 381 Third Street, MILWAUKEE WIS.

Monster Gooseberry

A new gooseberry as large as a plum has been discovered in the woods of northern Florida.

CHILDREN CRY FOR

Fletcher's CASTORIA

MOTHER:— Fletcher's Castoria is a pleasant, harmless Substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Teething Drops and Soothing Syrups, especially prepared for Infants in arms and Children all ages.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

MORE TALES FROM LAPLAND.

That she's a peach you can't dispute
But it is most distressing,
Each night I call to press my suit,
Next day my suit needs pressing.

Better Lemon Pies? Easy.

WATKINS EXTRACT of LEMON

Ask the best cook
Order from
The Watkins Retailer
Floyd Fraser

1

WATKINS 137 PRODUCTS

Jig Jog Jags

A Little Joshing Now and Then Will Get the Goat of Many Men

PAT'S A DIFFERENT MAN. NOW

Pat arrived in the city late, and had to share a bedroom with a darkey. This was unfortunate, because, during the night, a couple of his friends smeared Pat's sleeping face with burnt cork.

In the morning, after being awakened by his landlady, he looked into the mirror, and exclaimed. "Begorrah, an' she's called the wrong man!

CRACKING CHESTNUTS ...

Poppa, give me a nickel," requested Ikey Goldstein.

"My boy, what do you do with all your money?" asked his father. "Only last week, I give it to you five cents. My boy, tell me, the truth. Vas you keeping mit it a girl?' '

When it comes to being stupid, this guy wins the barbed wire powder puff. We recently heard of a man so stupid that if brains were ostriches he couldn't kiss the port side of a humming bird's right-hand ear. We also heard of a man who had a favorite spitoon in his private den, and not seein git he told his wife he missed it. This story reminds me of the absent-minded man holding a cigar in his right hand trying to draw on his thumb and cursing the rotten ropes the cigar man sold him.

"As a man thinketh so is he."—Now we know why we can't tell what some people are. They don't think.

One night her father appeared sud denly at the doorway as she was in the act of bidding "sweet daddy" good night.

"How is it, young man," he barke, 'that I find you kissing my daughter? How is it, young man?"

"Great! Great!" Was the joyful response.

A farmer living in a state not far from California, had been pestered to death by hunters trespassing on his property. When all ordinary means failed to give relief he posted the following sign:

"Tresspassers will be persekuted to the full extent of 2 mean mongrel dogs, which aint never been ovarly soshibil with strangers, and 1 dubbled barit shotgun, which ain't loaded with no sophy pillers. Dam if I aint tired of ths hel raisin' on my property.

WILLIE ALWAYS MAKES A GOOD IMPRESSION

After Billy White had missed dinner and supper, Mrs. White became a larmed. During her search for the missing youngster she ran across another little boy

'Timmie, have you seen Willie?" she inquired.

"Yes ma'am," answered Timmie, "and the steam roller man if raisin cain."

"Why is he raisin cain "

"The steam roller just ran over Willie, and some marbles he had in his pocket dented up the new street

His "flat tire"—Funny, isn't it, but Ford made most of his fortune just out of nuts and bolts.' '

He—I didn't know about the bolts before.' '

'!Madam, what is the complexion of your new baby, dark or fair?' '

"To tell you the truth, he is a little yeller."

Insulted Maiden—Oh, sir, catch that man! He tried to kiss me."

Genial Passerby—That's all right. There'll be another one along in a minute.' '

He rocked the boat,
Did Erza Shank;
These bubbles mark
O
O
O
O
Where Ezra sank,

One reason why some of the girls are called radio flappers is because they are easy to pick up.

WILLIE'S NOT SO SILLY

"Now, Willie, watch the photographer closely, and you'll see a little dicky-bird come out of that black box."

"Rats, ma! Let's get over this without that guff. He's too big to play with dicky-birds!' '

SOME SATISFACTION ANYWAY

He had arrived at the station just as the train was pulling out. He chased it a quarter of a mile and then walked back disconsolately.

"Could'nt you catch it," asked the station agent.

"No,' 'said the man, "but I made it puff."

AND NO QUESTIONS ASKED

"Try a sample of this gin before you buy it, sir."

"But sunppose it kills me?"

"Well, it's my loss then, ain't it?

"Pat, you had no right to touch that wire. Don't you know you might have been killed by the shock

'Sure, I felt it carefully before I took hold of it."

"Mike, you are doing fine, and I am going to raise your wages.' '

"Like, hell, boss! I lose enough now when I'm off a day."

WILLFUL MISS

"May I kiss you good night?
"I should say not."
But she didn't—

What really counts is not how many girls you kiss, but how many times you kiss one of them.

GIVE HER A SPOONHOLDER

Scissor—I gave her a souvenir spoon last night, and she kissed me."

Bill—Why don't you give her a scoop shovel, toight?' '

"So you go to school now, Willie And tell me, dear, do you love yur teacher?' ' Rats! She's too ancient for me."

Use Electric Shocks for Regulating Hearts

One of the most remarkable of recent medical inventions is the static wave device.

Its purpose is to regulate the beating of the heart, should it be too fast or too slow. The patient sits in an insulated chair connected with a machine which passes an electric current through the body.

Outside the machine is a revolving ball, fixed to the end of a metal rod. Every time this ball passes another stationary ball, electricity is discharged from the body, causing the muscles to relax.

If the heart should be beating 74 times a minute, but is six beats fast, says the Detroit News, the revolving ball is timed to go around at 74 revolutions a minute and the heart is thus slowed down to its correct time. In the same way, the heart can be quickened.

This wonderful machine was exhibited at a recent medical exhibition in London. The force of the current is such that a person putting his hand within six inches of the chair receives a powerful shock.

Turned From Smithy to Watch Designing

The first Swiss watch was made by a blacksmith. In 1680 a distinguished Englishman was traveling through Switzerland when his watch failed him and the nearest approach he could find to a watchmaker was a young blacksmith, Daniel Jean Richard. This young man undertook to repair the watch, which he did successfully. He profited so greatly by this experience in the knowledge he acquired of the design and construction of watches that he became the first watchmaker of the country and the pioneer of a great industry. According to a Swiss watchmaker visiting this country, the district of Neuchatel produces more watches than any similar locality in the world.

When to Find Acorns

Many members of the tree-planting army like the oak. As a group, oaks carry general marks of distinction from other trees. One of these marks is the bearing of acorns, in which the oak has no competition, says the American Tree association of Washing, which for a two-cent stamp will send you tree-planting suggestions.

All of the oaks may be grouped as either white or black. To the former group belong the white oak proper and the bur oak, swamp white oak, chestnut oak, overcup oak, the post oak, and live oak, which may be recognised by the rounded lobes of their leaves, with the exception of the post oak and live oak, which have no lobes; and by their light gray or light buffish-brown bark, which breaks off into loose, flaky scales. The bur oak is distinguished from its close kinsmen by its corklike branches. The trees of this group mature their acorns in a single year, and for this reason acorns of old and new crops are never found on the same tree.

Relic of Feudal Days

The old Norman tower of Holy Trinity church, at Richmond, in Yorkshire, England, dates back to the Eleventh century. It is one of the few, if not the only church where the old custom of ringing the curfew still survives. The tower contains two bells. For centuries the larger bell has been rung every day at six o'clock in the morning and again at curfew hour—eight o'clock in the evening. The smaller bell is rung at eleven o'clock on Shrove Tuesday morning "to bid the housewives tend the fires and cook the pancakes well." Another quaint survival at this church is the practice of ringing the "gathering bell" on the occasion of a funeral to give the mourners an hour's notice to prepare. Unless speedy restoration work is undertaken this ancient tower is said to be doomed.—Family Herald.

His Own Death Notice

Mike was working diligently in his potato patch when he saw the postman coming up the road, bringing a black-edged envelope.

Mike became uneasy, and showed it.

"Hope it's not bad news," said the postman.

"It is that," said Mike, looking at the address. "It's upset I am entoirely. My brother, Pat's dead. I can tell by his handwriting."—From Everybody's Magazine.

Gave Name to Vogue

The name "silhouette" is derived from Etienne de Silhouette, a French minister of finance, who was famous for his measures of economy in 1759. All business was stripped of unnecessary detail. Paintings were reduced to mere outlines. Whether this was in conformance with the spirit of economy or because it was coincidence that black and white outline portraits became popular at this time, the name "Silhouette" was applied to them and has clung.

Animal Highly Valued

The water buffalo is valued highly in China, especially in the fields, where it is used for the cultivation of the rice crop. It is said that they are more powerful than the ox and capable of dragging or carrying a heavier load. The female yields a much greater quantity of milk than a cow, and of excellent quality, from which the ghee or semi-fluid butter of India is made. The hide is valued for its strength and durability.

Governor Hammil will be called upon within the next few days to make arrangements for the shipment to some central point in the state of German war trophies for which thousands of requests have been recieved from the ordinance department, from American Legion posts, cities and towns all over Iowa.

The Esterville newspapers are poking fun at the city of Emmetsburg for requiring trains to run through that city at a speed of only five miles an hour while autoes are driven at a speed of thirty miles an hour. The train engineer is experienced while many auto drivers are not. It does look a little ridiculous.

THIS IS THE RIGHT PLACE

To buy your Cigars, Cigarettes, Smoking and Chewing Tobacco—our stock is always nice and fresh.

We carry a complete line of box and bulk fancy candy.

Refreshing soft drings.

And, why not step in and play a social game of pool while in town?

SMITH'S BILLARD HALL

fares surprisingly low

Rock Island

tours of the Scenic West

Colorado Yellowstone California

You can visit any one or all of the West's great scenic regions in one low-fare tour. Route of the ROCKY MOUNTAIN LIMITED to Colorado [direct line to both Denver and Colorado Springs] and the all-Pullman GOLDEN STATE LIMITED to California. All meals in dining cars.

Choice of routes. Go one way; return another. Stop over anywhere. A go-as-you-please vacation.

Ask for illustrated books and full information. It will help you in your planning.

M. O. BARR, AGENT

C. C. Gardner, As'st Gen'l Pass. Ag't
..... Rock Island Lines .....
600 Royal Life Bldg, Des Moines, Ia.

Rock Island Lines

Good News to Our Customers

We'll Let You Do the Advertising

Word of mouth advertising is the only kind we cannot buy. It must be won through unusual merit.

Since putting in our store in Garner we have had more favorable comment, more personal advertising, more boosting for this store than would seem possible for so short a space of time.

Success or failure for us depends on whether or not the public knows values. What we have done is due to WORD OF MOUTH ADVERTISING by those who are using our merchandise, and learning our form of doing business.

LADIES!

We are in position to offer to our friends throughout the communty some very nice dresses which are arriving daily, in patterns and styles in the latest material and tailoring. With prices so low that it means real values.

Our Men's Furnishing Department

We have real good values in Men, Young Men and Boy's Suits. Very distinctive Styles and Models.
You who appreciate economy; must investigate our values before buying. Our clerks are glad to give you their individual attention.

You are under no obligation to buy unless you find our merchandise the best for the least money.

To every customer that brings 30 dozen or more eggs in our Store Friday and Satuday. May 8 and 9 and trades for same, we will give a nice salad bowl absolutely free.
Remember we are here to stay and to accommodate each and every one.

Large assortment of Silk Dresses .
For Saturday $9.98

OUR STORE IS OPEN EVENINGS

Chas. Abraham & Sons

S. E. Adams, Mgr. Garner, Iowa

Wash Day Supplies--

Make your work on wash days easier by having good equipment for quick work. Here we list some good suggestions:—

VOSS WASHERS—— Single and double tub, hand power, or electric

ONE MINUTE WASHER—— Single tub power .

WASH BOILERS—— Extra heavy copper and tin
WRINGERS—— A good assortment.
SUPPLIES—— Clothes Baskets, Clothes Lines, Clothes Pins, all kinds of tubs, etc.

IRONING BOARDS—— We carry in stock the best boards for the money.

ELECTRIC IRONS—— We have a dandy electric iron that will give you real service. Also regular style irons.

STOVES—— A kerosene or gasoline stove is handy both for wash day ad regular service. We have a full line of popular makes. Ask for demonstration.

Jacobs & Son

Enjoying Every Day

You feel happy, are cheerful, and people like to meet you. You get more contentment out of life—are able to enjoy some of its luxuries if you work and save.

Begin an Account today with the First National—add to it and enjoy life.

First National Bank.

KLEMME, IOWA.

THE KLEMME TIMES

Twenty-ninth Year—Number 36. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, MAY 14, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

THIS IS A BUSY WEEK FOR THE SENIORS

Ten In the Graduating Class of the Klemme Schools This Year

This is the busiest time of all the high school year for the seniors. The seniors of the Klemme schools have been no less busy than the average senior is just before commence ment. There is practice every day, for the class play, picincs, details for this and details for that to attend to, which always makes the days before graduation one great rush.

There are ten in the graduating class this year, which is several more than was in the graduating class of last year.

Class Roll

Faith Ax
Glen Busch
Hilary Greimann
Maurine Hake
Gerald Koerner
Leona Lau
Neota Ridder
Adela Schroeder
Silvanus Wacker
Andrew Wellemeyer

Class Officers

President—Andrew Wellemeyer
Sec.-Treas.—Leona Lau
Class Sponsor— Miss Louise Abel

CLASS MOTTO—
"Tonight We Launch—Where Shall We Anchor"

CLASS COLORS—
Scarlet and White

CLASS FLOWER—
Lily of the Valley

Junior-Senior Picnic

The Junior Class entertained the seniors at a picnic at Bayside Amusement park, last Wednesday. The two classes left Klemme about 4:15 and arrived at Bayside in time enough to look the place over thoroly before supper.

The juniors served a wonderful picnic supper, which everyone enjoyed a great deal. A special feature was an angel food cake, baked by Mrs. Busch, which had the words "Class of 1925" written on the top and the name of a senior on each section of cake. Each senior received a section of cake with his or her name on it. After the supper, they roller skated, went to a show and had a very good time.

Class Day

Wednesday morning was senior class day. At 10:30, the Seniors, put on a very good program, which lasted until noon. The Class History was read by Leona Lau, which enumerated the important events from the first grade up to the last year. Faith Ax read the class phophecy, of the future of the class of 1925, ten years hence. It was very entertaining. Hilary Greimann read the class will, a very well drawn up document and also very important. Vernon Turgasen played a saxophone solo and Glen Busch and Andrew Wellemeyer sang a duet. The freshman class presented a clever little comedy by the name of "Gathering Nuts"

Class Play

Tomorrow night thec lass play will be given at the High School Auditorium at 8:15 o'clock. It is an uproarously funny three act comedy, by the name of 'MARY'S MILLIONS' The scene is laid in a small New England village, and has some typical characters. Be sure to see it.

Baccalaureate Sermon

On Sunday evening, May 17th, the class sermon will be delivered to the class, in the Methodist church at 7:30 o'clock. Rev. Gauger will give the address, and Rev. Depping will assist him. There will special instrumental and vocal music.

Commencement

Commencement Exercises will take place in the High school auditorium on Thursday evening, May 21. Prof. Waterman, of the Education department, State University of Iowa, will deliver the address. He is a very able speaker and one that everyone should hear.

Students Receiving K's

The Graduating class has made a good record in athletics during their high school carrer, and seven of them graduate with letters for athletic prowness. They are:

Adela Schroeder
Leona Lau
Maurine Hake
Neota Ridder
Andrew Wellemeyer
Gerald Koerner.
Glenn Busch.

Klemme can well feel proud of her graduates. They are a fine class of young people, who will without a doubt make their mark in the world. We extend every good wish to their success and happiness in the future.

PRUNINGS TOPS TOP GROWTH

Also Promotes Growth of Lateral Branches, Says Holsinger

About the middle of May, when the new shoots are 12 to 15 inches high, blackcap raspberries should be pruned at the tops of the shoots, says C. V. Holsinger, small fruits specialist, extension service, Iowa State College. This will check growth and cause the production of lateral branches.

Two year old plants should have the growing points removed at a height of 20 to 24 inches and three year old plants at 24 to 30 inches. In no case should the lateral branches be cut back the same season, as there is danger of them freezing back during the winter. The following spring while the wood is dormant, the lateral branches should be cut back to stubs 4 to 8 inches in length. Red raspberries should never be pruned in summer.

HERE IS A NEW SCHEME

Children playing on thes hore of Twin Lakes, in Calhoun county, discovered a Big Ben alarm clock, partly concealed behind a bunch of grass near the edge of the water. They took the clock home and reported the matter to their father who discovered that the alarm was set for 5:30. He accompanied thec hildren back to the lake and thew showed him where the clock was hidden. The parties then secreted themselves and promptly at 5:30 a couple of men came upon the scene and waited a few minutes, expecting the alarm would go off and thus direct them to thes pot they were seeking Not hearing the alarm the men proceeded to investigae on their own account and soon discovered that a jug had been placed in shallow water. They took this and departed. The farmer who witnessed the removed of the jug recognized the men and upon his return to his residence telephoned the county attoney at Rockwell City who swore out a warrant and the next day the sheriff made the arrest.

BELMOND SCOUTS TO HAVE CABIN IN GROVE

BELMOND—Plans are under way for the erection in Franklin grove of a log cabin for the Boy Scouts. The outline of the plan is to have a cabin 18 by 30 feet with a stone fire place. The "dads" as well as other men of Belmond have become greatly interested in this work for the helping of the boys and the outlook is for many profitable and enjyoble times with the boys in the future.

OUTLOOK FOR LARGE BEEA CROP BRIGHT

BELMOND—The outlook for a good beet year for farmer and factory is very good. Carloads of beet workers have arrived and nearly all have been assigned to different stations. The beet planting is over half completed now and something over 8,700 acres will bep lanted.

Mrs. Carrie Brede of Concord township, is the only lady rural school director in Hancock county, and so far as our information goes, the only one in the state. Mrs. Brede is a regularly elected, qualified, and acting school director, and we are informed that she is one of the very capable school directors of this county.—Garner Leader.

THE SENIOR CLASS PRESENTS

"Mary's Millions"

FRIDAY, MAY 15, 1925

High School Auditorium

8:15 P. M.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

Jack Henderson ..... Andrew Wellemeyer
(A Civil Engineer)
Mary Manners ..... Leona Lau
Jimmie Barnes ..... Gerald Koerner
(Jack's Friend from New York)
Betty Barlowe ..... Maurine Hake
Ezra Stoneham ..... Silvanus Wacker
Mrs. Jane Stoneham ..... Adela Schroeder
Abija Boggs ..... Hilary Greimann
Audora Smith ..... Faith Ax
Mrs. Mudge ..... Faith Ax
Countess De Selles ..... Neota Ridder
Count De Selles ..... Glen Busch
(A Brother to the Countess)
THE CHOIR— (From the Class of 1926.)

Ruth Johnson — Dora Swanson
Blanche Hulse — Mabel Schaefer

TIME—— The Present.

PLACE—— Rocky Hollow; A New England Village

SYNOPSIS OF SCENES——

ACT I—Rocky Hollow Post Office and General Store.
ACT II—Strawberry festival on Village Green: that same evening.
ACT III—Same as Act I; Two days later.

MAKING JAIL BIRDS WORK

Traer Star Clipper—Law violators will be apt to give Palo Alto county and thec ity of Emmetsburg in particular a wide berth hereafter. Laws especially liquor laws, are enforced up there, and the violators who are fined and "lay it out" are required to work for a living instead of spending the time idly in jail at the expense of the taxpayers. There is no jealously or disagreement among the officers in Palo Alto county. The sheriff, mayors, constables and judges are working in harmony They became disgusted with the open violation of the liquor laws and tightened the screws. The judges have been fining guilty parties $500 In numerous cases the guilty fellows are put to work on roads and streets being required to labor nine hours a day. If they refuse to work they get nothing but bread and water.

Is there anything inhuman or unjust in this practice? Taxes are high; they are, in fact, oppressive. It costs money to convict these boot leggers and it costs money to feed them through jail sentences. The taxpayers pay the bills. The streets and the public highways are sorely in need of improvement. Every day's labor from jail birds means a saving to the taxpayers and a benefit to the public. Convicts are better off working than loafing in the county jail. Inefficient as some of them may be at the labor imposed, they will more than earn their keep. The Palo Alto program is one well worth consideration by other counties.

SHEFFIELLD BANKER OUT ON PAROLE

C. C. Storck, former-cashier of the Farmers and Merchants Bank at Sheffield, sent to the penitentiary two years ago after being convicted on a fradulent banking charge, has been given parole and is now at Sheffield. His friends anticipate and absolute pardon as the result of the parole. He is now with his family, and is seeking employment. Another member of the bank C. J. LeValley, was sentenced at the same time, being unable to get a parole.

A hick town is one in which the traffic officers are polite to motorists.

CHICKS THRIVE ON THIS

Either Dry or Liquid Buttermilk Is Valuable in Ration

Fresh buttermilk is very satisfactory for starting young chicks out properly and may be provided after the chicks are two or three days old according to H. A. Bittenbender, chief in poultry husbandry, Iowa State College. Chicks started on buttermilk instead of water are usually stronger and have better digestion.

After the chicks are three days old it is a good practice to feed rolled oats and a self made mash consisting of 2 pounds bran, 2 pounds standard middlings, 2 pounds cornmeal, 1 pound dried buttermilk and three-fourts pound bone meal. If liquid buttermilk will be needed in the mash.

No grain except rolled oats should be fed the first week, but after that a scratch grain may beg iven. This should consist of cracked corn and whole wheat. Cleanliness is of prime importance both in the feed which is given and the brooder and pens. Watch the appetites of the chicks and avoid overfeeding.

CASHIER BOUND OVER FOR TAKING CATTLE

SWEA CITY— Cashier Paul Wessman has been bound over to the October term of court in Martin county, Minnesota on a charge of taking cattle, belonging to a man at Armstrong, while trying to get cattle that had strayed into Minnesota, on which the State bank of this place and the National bank held heavy mortgages. The alleged crime, it is claimed, was not intentional on the part of the banker. He says he was only carrying out his duties.. The cattle had belonged to Paul Johnson, who left the country with out notice and let the cattle run loose. The is considerable feeling over the case here.

A severe thunderclap in New York last week shook several buildings and broke hundreds of windows in the Bronx. A lot of peple ran into the streets thinking that the Democratic convenion had come back to town.

Real Estate Transfers

Anna Fohrman to Guy G. Hinrichs, W D date 5-4-25,$1250.00, W½ lost 3 and 4, blk. 2 Brown & Hills add Britt.

C. W. Erwin, Admr. Guy G. Hinrichs Admr Deed date 5-4-25, $1250 W½ lots 3-4 blk 2, Brown & Hills add Britt.

Chas. Earl Ruka, et al to Eva Rees, Q C D date 4-16-25, $1.00 Und 1-3 int in N½ NW¼ & N½ NW¼ 34-94-24.

Eva Rees hus to Chas. Earl Ruka, et al. Q C D date 4-16-25 ,$1.00 Und 2-3 int in N½ NW¼ & N½ SE¼ NW¼ 34-94-24.

B. W. Olson wf to The State of Iowa, W D date 4-23-25, $7500.00 W 50 a of NE¼, 3-97-23.

Barbara Hanzlik et al ti Rudolph P. Hejlik W D date 3-2-25, $50.00 lot 15, blk 1, Ducan.

First National Bk, Britt to Katherine Quinn, W D date 4-25-25, $5,000 a tract of land in lot 19 of Stubbins 2nd add Britt.

Fred G. Hunsley wf to Katherine Quinn, Q C D date 5-2-25, $1.00 a tract of land in lot 19 of Stubbins 2nd add Britt.

John Suurballe, Admr to A. G. Schultz, Administrators Deed date 5-8-25, $816.67, Und 2-3 part of lot 4 blk 15, Garner.

Ruth Eireman husto A. G. Schultx, Q C D date 4-10-25, lot 4 blk 16, Garner.

COMMENCEMENT TIME

Some schools have passed the great day— commencement— but others are still in session and the students are in the throes of preparation for the big event of their lives, which is a stepping stone to new experiences.

No other occasion in life, save possibly marriage, seems of such tremendous importance to these young people.

They now approach a great landmark of life, a time of fresh beginnings, and face untried issues. But young folks negotiate these sharp breaks with ease. Most of them are delighted to try their inexperienced wings.

Preparing for graduation, in the minds of some young women, means mainly long sessions with the dressmaker and a gorgeous display of fine feathers. The gir of the struggling home sometimes makes more show than one from the abde f wealth.

In the case of the poor girl, her parents may feel that this is her one chance to show that she is as good as anybody, and according to true American standards she is. Her father and mother may make sacrifices on the necessities of life, to give her the one big send-off of her life.

Such a thing is to be discouraged and those who are able to make a big show at commencement time can be of great service by setting the pac so that the burden of expenses will be of great service by setting a pace afford it.

The necessity for providing costly graduating clothes and incidental has deterred some parents from sending their children through high school. The principles of American democracy would have every girl graduate in a simple, inexpensive gown, not necessarily uniform in design or color.

Those who adopt such ideas show that school training has put something into their heads. Young people preparing to graduate should have their hearts on higher purposes than dress. They may need to keep their minds on the high plane of sucessful achievement so that they may continue ther preparation for life in higher schools of learning—Hampton Recorder.

DICKINSON OUT FOR SENATE, IF . . CUMMINS ISN'T

Congressman L. J. Dickinson if the Tenth Iowa district will be a candidate for the United States senate next year if Senator Cummins decides not to seek-re-election, he stated after a conference with the senator on political situation. Dickinson said, however, that Senator Cummins would seek re-election if his health permited.

"As long as he is a candidate, I will support him and will not enter the race myself," said the Congressman.

FISHING SEASON TO OPEN TOMORROW

Fishing season in northern Iowa opens Friday morning of this week, May 15. On and after that date, fisherman may take out of lakes and streams any game fish of legal length, except black bass, the season on which does not open until June 15.

Fishing licenses are required this year. All male persons are required to have a license to fish, who are over 18 years of age. Hunting licenses procured before the fish licenses went into effect will serve for fishing licenses provided they are for the current year, which expires July 1.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

March 31st, 1925.

Adjourned meeting of regular meeting of Town Council held in Mayor Gruetjmacher's office with all members of council present.

Motion made and seconded to allow the following bills:

Ed. Jacobs; Supplies	$26.90
Community S. S. Co.,; 80 Gallons gas	14.80
John H. Suckow; Labor on town Hall	6.90
Northern Lumber Co; Lumber	21.65
Klemme Times; Pub. Council Proceedings, Printing Ballots	17.09
Members Town Council;; Election Expense	20.00
P. M. Wilson; Election Supplies	.20
Benn J. Coobs; March Salary	75.00

Bills allowed.

The following were declared elected at the Municipal election of the Town of Klemme, Iowa.

For Mayor—Frank Gruetzmacher; For Assessor—Louis Sampson; For Treasurer—C. G. Waterman; For Councilmen—F. A. Arnold, Wm. Smith, Valentine Josten, UesterL Stille, and H. L. Suckow.

Motion made and seconded that meeting be adjourned.

A. J. Kudje, Clerk

April 6, 1925.

Meeting of Board of Equalization held at town hall. Present—Frank Gruetzmacher, Mayor; F. A. Arnold, Wm. Smith, Valentine Josten, and H. L. Suckow, Councilmen who qualified for office by taking oath. Bond of Mayor Gruetzmached approved F. A. Arnold appointed secretary Pro Tem.

At one o'clock Lester Stille takes oath of office.

Motion made by Suckow that assessor's books be accepted.

Meeting adjourned to 7:30 P. M

F. A. Arnold, Sec. Pro Tem

7:30 P. M.

Adjourned meeting of Board of Equalization held at the Mayor's office. All members present.

Motion made and seconded that Council shall meet the 1st and 3rd Mondays of each month and the Mayor's office designated as the place of meeting.

Motion made and seconded to allow the following bills:

Darley & Son; Fire Siren	$375.00
Iowa Falls Electric Co.; March Street Lights	45.40

Motion made and seconded that H. S. Schwartz be allowed a refund of $4.27 on water tax. Motion carried.

Upon motion A. J. Kudje retained as clerk at $60.00 per annum.

Petitions for and against the fire siren were presented with 2 to 1 in favor as the result.

Meeting adjourned.

A. J. Kudje, Clerk

BIBLES DISTRIBUTED

Shanghai, May 9,— Slightly less than 9,500,000 bibles were distributed throughout China in 1924, thee report of the American bilble society shows. The total is nearly 2,000,000 more than the preceding year. The American society co-operates in China with the British and Foreign Bible society and the National Bible society of Scotland.

Another Case of Rabies

A case of rabies has been reported at Lou Schaller's southeast of town. The dog has been killed, but it is not known whether it bit other dogs or stock. John Camelin who lives near Schaller's has lost three calves and he fears that they are victims of a mad dog.— Corwith Hustler.

U. S. BOAT SINKS; 4 DEAD, 14 MISSING

Fifty Persons Hurled Into Mississippi When Craft Turns Over.

Memphis, Tenn.—Four excursionists are known to be dead and fourteen are missing as a result of the capsizing of the United States government steamer Norman in the Mississippi river 16 miles south of Memphis. The survivors arrived here on board the steamer Mississippi.

The Norman sank as it was returning from Cow island with a party of engineers here attending the convention of the Mid-South Association of Engineers. It was moving along smoothly, according to survivors, when it suddenly began rocking from side to side. This continued for perhaps five minutes, when it careened far over and failed to recover. Three minutes later the vessel had virtually gone from sight.

Two bodies were recovered later. They were those of:

Prof. Walter G. Kirkpatrick, engineering department of the University of Mississippi.

Maj. W. M. Gardner, engineer corps of the United States army.

The other two known to have been drowned, but whose bodies were not found, are:

Mrs. Walter G. Kirkpatrick, wife of Professor Kirkpatrick.

Mrs. J. F. Dorroh, wife of the dean of the engineering department of the University of Mississippi.

The names of those who are missing are: C. E. Shearer, Memphis; E. H. Powser, Memphis; Paul H. Norcross, Atlanta; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bosard and son, Memphis; Mrs. Lydia Hiddinger, Memphis; Maj. Charles Miller, Little Rock, Ark.; G. L. Anderson, Memphis; W. M. Hammon, Memphis; Roy Thompson, Memphis, member of the crew; Jack Cothran, Memphis, engineer on the Norman; Will Moore, member of the crew; Tom Plunkett, member of the crew.

The steamer, a 150-foot government vessel, had 50 persons on board. The Norman and its sister ship, the Choctaw, had been given over by the government to convey delegates to the convention to an outing for the day at Cow Island bend.

Just opposite Josie Harris island the vessel ran into an extremely swift current and got into trouble.

As the boat continued to list persons on board began to run from one side to the other in an effort to remain on the high side of the boat. This added to the swaying of the vessel so that finally she careened so far that she could not recover and sank.

Captain Fenton said that before leaving Memphis he had arranged for life preservers to be placed on top of the boat and not tied. When the boat turned over these life preservers were thrown into the water. Captain Fenton said that without a doubt some owed their lives to the fact that they could grasp these life preservers and remain afloat until the motor boat came along.

When the supply of life preservers was exhausted, passengers tore away screen doors and planks to help keep afloat.

There was no explosion when the boat sank, the survivors said. Jack Cothran, engineer, turned off the fuel oil under the boilers when the boat began to misbehave.

President Declares U. S. Must Point Way to Peace

Washington. — President Coolidge believes that America should do its utmost toward organizing the nations of the world in the way of peace.

This was emphasized by the President in the strongest terms in a speech opening the national oratorical contest at the Washington Auditorium.

International problems to which America must give thought, the President said, are:

1. Assuring justice alike to the weak and strong.

2. Assuring peace with honor.

3. Enthroning conscience in places of authority too long usurped by mere force.

The President's speech, delivered on the occasion of the awarding prizes to a group of high school students in the occasion of awarding prizes impression on his audience.

Von Hindenburg Victory Confirmed by Court

Berlin.—The election of Field Marshal von Hindenburg was finally confirmed when the Socialist protest against his confirmation was rejected by the election court. In spite of Hindenburg's plea for simplicity the reception to the old warrior when he arrives in Berlin Monday afternoon promises to become a triumphal entry surpassing anything ever prepared for emperors in the past.

S. B. Amidon Is Dead

Wichita, Kans.—Samuel B. Amidon, Democratic national committeeman from Kansas, and one of the leading criminal attorneys in the Southwest, died of heart disease in his office in this city.

Mrs. G. M. Hitchcock Is Dead

Washington.—Mrs. Gilbert M. Hitchcock, wife of the former senator from Nebraska, died here. She had been an invalid for five years. Mr. Hitchcock is head of the Omaha World-Herald.

ANTTI TULENHEIMO

Antti Tulenheimo is the new premier of Finland. He is one of the most popular and highly esteemed men in the country.

FOR 300 MILLION CUT IN BUDGET

President's Economy to Result in Tax Reduction.

Washington. — President Coolidge's drive for economy on federal expenditures will result in another substantial cut in the annual budget. He hopes the reduction will be as great as $300,000,000, making total estimates to be submitted to the next congress around $3,000,000,000.

Present budget estimates for the year beginning next June 30 are for $3,267,000,000, exclusive of the Post-Office department, but including public debt requirements. These appropriations already have been made.

The treasury soon can supply the budget with additional figures as to the probable surplus for the current fiscal year, a surplus that now promises to be about $100,000,000. It likewise will be in a position to forecast more definitely the receipts that may be counted on from taxes in the fiscal year beginning July 1. The treasury already counts on a cut of about $60,000,000 in expenditures through additional retirement of war bonds.

The question of tax reduction is intimately connected with the surplus. Unofficial estimates now indicate that the total volume of tax receipts may be cut by 12 per cent. The method will be determined by congress, but Secretary Mellon has suggested reduction of surtaxes and elimination of, or material reduction in, the rates on estates taxes.

Women Burn Pamphlets of Peace Advocates

Washington.—Officers of the International Council of Women not only disavowed but also made a bonfire of ultra-pacifist literature placed in the auditorium where the council is holding it quinquennial sessions here.

The pamphlets destroyed advocated immediate total disarmament of all nations, the outlawing of war by prohibiting appropriations of money for purchase of arms and payment of armed forces, described war as legalized murder and urged complete nonresistance.

One of the pamphlets was written by Mrs. Henry Villard of New York and all were publications placed for distribution in the hall by the Woman's Peace union, a New York organization, not affiliated with the international council.

Butler Would Make Hawaii Strongest Military Outpost

Washington.—Fortification of the Hawaiian islands to make them "the strongest military outpost in the world," was recommended by Chairman Butler of the house naval committee.

Mr. Butler said he favored making Pearl Harbor impregnable, and would urge enactment of legislation at the next session of congress to accomplish this purpose.

As chairman of the naval committee, Mr. Butler has arranged with Secretary Wilbur for its members to leave Annapolis June 4 on the transport Henderson for a visit to the islands to obtain first-hand information as to the needs for their defense.

Ex-Husband Rewins Engaged Wife's Hand

New York.—Mrs. Laura Merriam Curtis, daughter of ex-Gov. William R. Merriam of Minnesota, whose engagement to Harrison Williams, New York scientist, was announced, was married here to her divorced husband, James Freeman Curtis. The marriage was admitted at Mr. Curtis' home at 67 East Fifty-third street, by a woman who said she was his housekeeper.

Duke of Rutland Dies

London.—The duke of Rutland died here from heart failure. He was born in 1852 and was the eighth duke of his line. He is survived by three daughters, one of whom is Lady Diana Manners Duff Cooper, and a son, the marquis of Granby.

Fire Destroys Canada Village

Quebec.—Fire destroyed 45 houses in the village of St. Joseph D'Alma, with a total loss estimated at $1,250,000.

GARY SEES GOOD TIMES FOR U. S.

Declares Business Is Booming, but Taxes Are Too High.

Chicago.—When the steel mills drone their chant of industry night and day, day in and day out, Elbert H. Gary says, all is well with the land, the people are prosperous and content, business is booming along and there is no reason why any man may not be what he himself remains—"a conservative optimist."

Talking in terms of bookings and shipments and balances, steel and tubing and tinplate, the chairman of the board of the United States Steel corporation yet managed to get into his pronouncements that business is strong and healthy and vigorous; that there is now plenty of reason for expecting it to continue so, perhaps to get even better.

Mr. Gary, perhaps the highest authority in the country on business and economic conditions, was in Chicago for the corner stone laying for the building he is giving to Northwestern university. During the day he made an inspection trip over the far-flung properties of the steel industry. He asserted he found conditions everywhere looking up.

"I found most of our properties running pretty near to full capacity," he said. "The Gary mills and plants and those down in Birmingham, Ala., are running full sway. The South Chicago plants are running about 90 per cent of capacity. Some of our eastern mills also are running a little below what they can do. But that, all things considered, is nothing to worry about.

"Yes, steel is a pretty good business barometer. I will say that since it is a basic industry, its conditions reflect the general industrial situation. Thus when the steel mills keep rolling we may know that conditions all around are good.

"Indications are that business in the country is strong, healthy and vigorous, and we may expect it so to continue. And this in spite of the fact that some things are not quite satisfactory. One of the chief troubles is taxes. Taxes are too high, much too high, all the taxes—national, state and local.

"Another thing," he continued, "is building costs. Building costs are still too high—much too high.

"But all these things will adjust themselves. On the whole everything looks very bright, and I think I may say that I remain a conservative optimist."

With Mr. Gary on his inspection trip are a dozen other officials of various branches of the steel corporation.

$12,000,000 Antitrust Suit Filed Against Ford

Jackson, Miss.—The suit of the state of Mississippi against the Ford Motor company, charging criminal conspiracy to violate the state anti trust laws and seeking to collect penalties of $12,000,000, filed by W. J. Miller, state revenue agent, threw a surprise bomb into legal and financial circles.

All Ford dealers in the state, together with banking institutions with which they do business, are made co-defendants. The suit seeks to attach funds of the Ford Motor company on deposit in various banks to guarantee payment of penalties in event the action is sustained.

The suit alleges that the Ford company and its district distributors, the Bluff City Motor company of Natchez, Miss., require an agreement with local Ford dealers fixing the resale price of Ford automobiles; that the dealers are forced to sell cars at the price thus fixed in the agreement.

Maj. Gen. Bandholtz Dies; Served in World War

Three Rivers, Mich.—Maj. Gen. Harry H. Bandholtz, United States army, retired, died in his home at Constantine, Mich. Death was due to heart disease.

Major General Bandholtz was born in 1864. He was graduated from West Point in 1890, entered the army, and was later stationed in the Philippines, where he served for 13 years. He was sent to France during the World war, where he was appointed provost marshal general. He retired two years ago.

Bulgar King May Spare Score in Plot

Sofia.—Bulgarian military courts have passed 20 death sentences on the conspirators against the state in the recent outrages. The sentences have not yet been approved by the king, and it is believed they will be commuted to life imprisonment.

Miners Win Injunction Fight

Wheeling, W. Va.—Federal Judge W. E. Baker ruled that the United Mine Workers of America had not violated an injunction issued in 1923 when they persuaded miners to join the union by peaceful means.

Mussolini Heads Navy

Rome.—Premier Mussolini has accepter the navy portfolio, tendered him by King Victor Emmanuel, following the resignation of Minister Thaon de Revel.

MRS. THOMAS J. PRESTON

Recent portrait of Mrs. Thomas J. Preston, who was Mrs. Grover Cleveland. She has been elected president of the Needlework Guild of America to succeed Mrs. J. H. Newberry of Detroit.

MARKET QUOTATIONS BY U. S. GOVERNMENT

Washington.—For the week ending May 7.—LIVE STOCK—Chicago hog prices closed at $12.10 for top, $11.75@12.00 for bulk. Medium and good beef steers, $8.65@11.15; butcher cows and heifers, $4.75@11.25; feeder steers, $5.90@9.00; light and medium weight veal calves, $7.50@10.75. No comparisons made on sheep prices on acount of change to shorn basis, effective May 1.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES—Florida Spaulding Rose potatoes closed at $5.50@5.75 per bbl., low as $5.00 in Cincinnati; $4.25 f. o. b Hastings. Northern round whites, 90c@$1.15 on the Chicago carlot market; 65@90c f. o. b. Texas yellow Bermuda onions closed at $2.75@3.25 per crate in consuming centers, top of $3.50 in Baltimore; $2.35@2.50 f. o. b. North Carolina and Virginia Klondike strawberries, 15@18c quart basis in New York; Tennessee-Arkansas Klondikes mostly $3.50@4.50 per 24-quart crate in the Middle West; $3.00@3.25 f. o. b.

HAY—Quoted May 7: Cincinnati, $18.50; Chicago, $21.00. No. 1 alfalfa: Kansas City, $19.50. No1 prairie: Chicago, $16.00.

GRAIN—Private reports indicate increased acreage of oats and corn. Quoted May 7: No. 1 dark northern wheat: Minneapolis, $1.60½@1.85½; No. 2 red winter wheat: St. Louis, $1.90@1.93; Kansas City, $1.72@1.80. No. 2 hard winter wheat: Chicago, $1.66¾; St. Louis, $1.66; Kansas City, $1.63@1.72. No. 2 mixed corn: Kansas City, $1.07. No. 3 mixed corn: Chicago, $1.09¾; Minneapolis, $1.02@1.04. No. 2 yellow corn: Chicago, $1.16; St. Louis, $1.15@1.16; Kansas City, $1.13@1.15. No. 3 yellow corn: Chicago, $1.14. No. 2 white corn: St. Louis, $1.15@1.15½; Kansas City, $1.10@1.13. No. 3 white corn: Chicago, $1.11. No. 3 white oats: Chicago, 42½@46¼c; Minneapolis, 43¾@42¼c; St. Louis, 47@47½c; Kansas City, 46½c.

DAIRY PRODUCTS—Closing wholesale prices on 92-score butter: New York, 42c; Chicago, 40c; Philadelphia, 43c; Boston, 43c. Wholesale prices on Wisconsin primary cheese markets May 6: Flats, 21c; single Daisies, 21¼c; Young Americas, 21½c; Longhorns, 21½c; square prints, 22c.

Canada Will Not Act to Stop Dry Fleet on Lakes

Ottawa, Ont.—The Canadian government will take no action to prevent the United States from placing armed craft on the Great Lakes to halt the flow of Canadian liquor until it is officially notified from Washington that the United States intends to make this move, officials announced.

Since the United States dry navy centered its attack on the rum row off New York the Great Lakes have been the scene of unprecedented activity for Canadian rum runners.

One crown attorney, John H. Rodd, says the United States government has no right to use firearms beyond its three-mile limit to enforce purely sumptuary laws.

Wheeler's Oil Client Is Found Guilty of Fraud

Great Falls, Mont.—Gordon Campbell, discoverer of the Kelvin-Sunburst oil field, and the man who employed Senator B. K. Wheeler at $10,000 a year as his attorney following Wheeler's election to the senate, was found guilty by a Federal court jury of fraudulent oil promotion and using the mails to defraud.

The oil operator was sentenced at once by Judge Bourquin to two years in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth and was fined $1,000.

Florida Moves to Bar Jap Laborers in State

Tallahassee, Fla.—A resolution calling for an amendment to the constitution to exclude Japanese from ownership of land in Florida was adopted by the house by a vote of 69 to 0.

Named Minister to Finland

Washington.—John B. Stetson, Jr., of Philadelphia, son of the hat manufacturer, has been appointed minister to Finland. He will succeed Charles L. Cagey, who has asked to be relieved.

"Uncle Joe" at 89th Milestone

Danville, Ill.—"Uncle Joe" Cannon, former speaker of the United States house of representatives, celebrated his eighty-ninth birthday at his home here.

.. Hawkeye .. State News

Interesting Items Gathered From all Parts of Iowa

A campaign is under way at Nevada to raise funds for a new $125,000 hotel.

Governor Hammill will deliver the commencement address for the Cherokee high school May 28.

A gift of $25,000 for the Coe college library fund has been announced by the Carnegie corporation.

The state Luther league of the Iowa Lutheran conference will meet at Boone June 24th to July 3rd.

President Main has announced a Carnegie gift of $50,000 for the fine arts department of Grinnell college.

The Sioux City Humane society's new home for homeless or injured domestic animals has been formally opened.

Sunday, May 17th, has been suggested as daughters' day in the churches when special services will be conducted.

Des Moines ranks among the first six cities of over 100,000 persons in purification of drinking water from a bacteria standpoint.

A Business and Professional Woman's club has recently been organized in Hampton with a charter membership of seventy.

Pottawattamie county supervisors and the state high commission plan to spend $92,000 for better roads in the county this year.

Sioux City packing houses, during the four months just ended paid out $235,000 more for labor than during the corresponding period last year.

Iowa leads the world in acreage, yield and value of her corn crop, area considered. The center of American corn production is near Keokuk.

Plans for the establishment of a government air mail field at Des Moines do not involve the abandonment of Iowa City as a stopping point on the air mail route.

Thies Sindt, Davenport's oldest resident, is dead at the age of 100 years, 5 months and 14 days. His brother, Henry Sindt, died recently at the age of 100 years and 12 days.

Des Moines bank clearings for April were more than $4,000,000 in excess of April one year ago. This year the clearings were $51,346,101 and in 1924 they were $47,288,880.42.

When the manager of a Hamburg theater offered a free show for each five tin cans and $2 for the one who brought in the highest number 15,000 cans was the response.

A proposed change in the course of Whiteway 7 highway known as the "White Pole" to eliminate two crossings east of Stuart, is being considered by the state highway commission.

War veterans from Page, Fremont, Pottawattamie, Mills and Montgomery counties will hold a joint meeting at Sidney Memorial day. Ben Webster, state commander, will be orator of the day.

Extensive development of the packing industry in Des Moines was forecast when the Iowa Packing Company, which went into voluntary receivership a year ago, was sold to Swift & Co. for $405,000.

Webster City has sold $15,000 worth of water bonds, 4¼ per cent, at par. This is the best sale of municipal bonds ever made in the history of the city. The bond issue was voted for the digging of a well.

To Mason City this year goes the honor of entertaining the members of the Grand Army of the Republic, veterans of the civil war, when they convene here for their fifty-first annual state encampment, June 9, 10 and 11.

The new Iowa credit union law, passed by the forty-first general assembly, will become effective July 4; but several inquries as to the utilization of the law have already been made, Senator Charles J. Fulton, its author, reports.

Gift of an all steel stadium to seat from 1,000 to 1,500 persons has been announced by Frank J. and Louis Iten, manufacturers, for Coan field of the Clinton independent school district. The Itens' gift has been accepted by the school board.

Ten contested claims for Iowa soldier bonuses have been allowed by the state bonus board. There now remain about 1,800 claims to pass upon. The amount remaining in the bonus fund after all claims are paid, which is estimated at about $1,500,000, will be used for rehabilitation of disabled veterans.

Iowa is the nineteenth state to permit the organization of credit unions, which ar esimilar to building and loan associations. The stock is held by members of the union and the investments create a fund from which members may borrow for improvement of homes, education of children, purchase of livestock and farming equipment, sickness, etc.

Columbia university's $1,200 Roberts' traveling fellowship has been awarded to Ralph K. Turner of the University of Iowa faculty. He is an alumnus of Columbia and Iowa.

Farmers of Iowa will have opportunity to hear first hand the views of the new secretary of agriculture some time in July, when he has promised to pay a visit to Iowa State College.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★
★ ★
★ Iowa is first in total value ★
★ of farm products. ★
★ ★
★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

It Builds Strength

Just the remedy to aid the system in throwing off catarrhal wastes, help the functional organs, restore digestion and bring back the perfect balance.

Pe-ru-na meets the need which we all feel at this season of the year.

Sold Everywhere

Tablets or Liquid

PE-RU-NA

Strained

A man of the soil went into the city for a wife. He was blessed on his mission and brought her back to the farm. As it happened she was not versed in the arts of farming and as a result made many mistakes as she was learning.

One day, as her husband was returning from the field, she met him at the door and said: "Old Lead (a dog) got in the cream jar, but I strained it."

Cuticura for Sore Hands.

Soak hands on retiring in the hot suds of Cuticura Soap, dry and rub in Cuticura Ointment. Remove surplus Ointment with tissue paper. This is only one of the things Cuticura will do. If Soap, Ointment and Talcum are used for all toilet purposes.—Advertisement.

The Chivalrous Male

Conductor—Watch your step, miss.

Edith—It is not necessary; there are several sapheads behind doing that.

Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN

Say "Bayer Aspirin"

INSIST! Unless you see the "Bayer Cross" on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for 24 years.

Safe — Accept only a Bayer package

which contains proven directions

Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets
Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

Pimples

BLOOD impurities are pumped by the heart into the face. That is what causes that grainy appearance, that muddiness, sallowness, pimples, blackheads, acne, red spots, and the impossible "something" which no face cream, massage or face powder can cover up or beautify! The foundation for a beautiful skin simply is not there, and no face treatment can give it to you. But increase your red blood-cells, — and quickly the ruby tint of purity begins to glow in the cheeks, the complexion becomes Venus-like and immaculate! Try it.

Free Booklet
Send name and address to S. S. S. Co., 111 S. S. S. Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for special booklet on the Blood.

It will do it every time. S. S. S. builds the red-blood-cells you need for beautiful complexion. Begin using S. S. S. at once, and give yourself what you have been working for, for years.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

S.S.S. The World's Best Blood Medicine

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT

The Roosevelts Go Hunting Ovis Poli

with "T. R." in the "River of Doubt" expedition. The Roosevelts are just about now meeting Cherrie—he went ahead to arrange for an outfit—in Srinagar, Vale of Kashmir, India. Thence, with yaks, ponies, about fifty natives and food supplies, they will travel for a month or so on dangerous mountain trails averaging 17,000 feet and beset by avalanches before they get to the hunting grounds on the Pamir plateau. Hunting for the Ovis Poli is doubtless sport, but it is also just about the hardest work in the world.

Herewith is reproduced a new portrait of Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, who is popular in Washington society and is in the public eye just now because her husband's gone a-hunting in far-off Asia and is likely to be lost from civilization for six months—and longer, if winter catches him in the mountains of Turkestan. Mrs. Roosevelt was Miss Eleanor Butler Alexander of New York and she and Theodore were married in 1910.

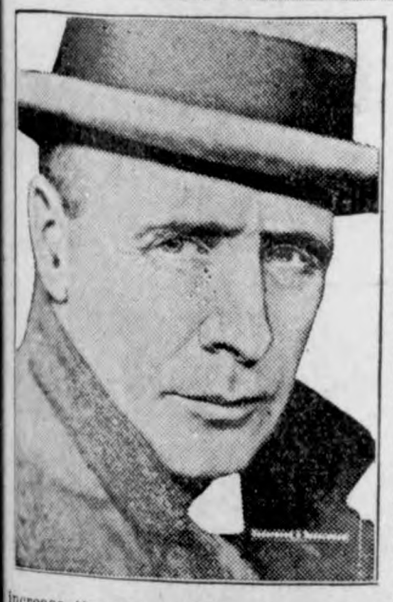
Theodore and Kermit Roosevelt, with George K. Cherrie, constitute an "American Scientific Expedition" in the interest of the Field museum of Chicago. Its purpose is to collect rare big-game specimens. Most wanted is the Ovis Poli, the "sheep of large size" of Marco Polo, long considered fabulous and now nearly extinct. Kermit is an experienced explorer and hunter. Theodore is the tenderfoot of the party. Cherrie is a veteran who was

"Fighting Daughters" Would Be Ready

Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook is president general of the D. A. R., popularly known as "The Fighting Daughters"—for more reasons than one. Their recent annual congress in their beautiful headquarters in Washington was a national event. It was marked by two noteworthy addresses—that of President Coolidge and that of Mrs. Cook. That of Mrs. Cook is especially interesting in that it makes clear the D. A. R. attitude on preparedness and pacifism. She said, among other things:

"We Americans are a peace-loving people, whose history is one of avoiding warfare until forced into it. Unfortunately, though, there is at present too great a tendency among many of our people to have America lead the world in readiness to promote peace by disarmament, without due consideration of the necessary provisions for our security and defense. Nothing could be farther from the aims of our society than to commit our nation to a militaristic program, but it is the duty of every citizen to safeguard the United States against aggression by helping to support and maintain land, sea and air forces for our reasonable protection. To this policy Daughters of the American Revolution are solemnly committed. We furthermore believe that it is our duty and that of every American citizen to be fully informed as to the measure of national protection which is necessary—and to be unceasing in our efforts to see that it is provided by the congress of the United States."

"MacMillan" Will Be a Familiar Name



The name of Donald B. MacMillan will be as familiar next winter to Americans as that of President Coolidge. Why? Because thousands of radio enthusiasts in the United States will be trying to get him from the frozen North and everyone with any kind of an outfit will listen in. For positive assertions are made that radio reports of the expedition's progress will be sent back daily on a wave length of 20 meters for general dissemination by the United States navy and the National Geographic society, under the auspices of which the expedition will operate.

Navy plans for co-operation in the ninth expedition into the Arctic zone of MacMillan next June have been practically completed. The expedition will leave Boston in June and base at Etah, with an advance plane base at the northern tip of Axel Heiberg land, or, if the ice permits, even farther to increase the range of the planes by use of which it is hoped to do in days more than previously has been accomplished only through months of arduous toil.

Each of the three airplanes will be equipped with map-making cameras capable of mapping 750 miles of shore line at a width of ten miles and through their aid it is expected that new lands will be put on world maps and much of the vast unknown area between the Arctic circle and the North pole will be eliminated.

A. G. Wilson to Wed Rich Dodge Widow

Alfred G. Wilson, a Detroit lumberman, has stepped into the limelight. He is to marry Mrs. John F. Dodge, widow of one of the founders of Dodge Brothers. The engagement came as a surprise to Mrs. Dodge's wide circle of friends. Even her own children were unaware of it.

Mr. Wilson is a deacon in the First Presbyterian church, where Mrs. Dodge is president of the Women's Foreign Missionary society. Previous to his connection with the Wilson Lumber company Mr. Wilson was sales manager for a period of ten years for the Mason Donaldson company of Rhinelander, Wis. He is forty-two years old. He is a member of the University, Detroit Athletic, and Detroit Golf clubs and is a graduate of Beloit college.

Mrs. Matilda R. Dodge inherited the bulk of the vast estate left by her husband, sharing it with five of his six children. The extent of Mrs. Dodge's fortune has never been estimated. The recent sale of the Dodge Bros. plant indicated the heirs of John F. Dodge would have approximately $75,000,000 to divide.

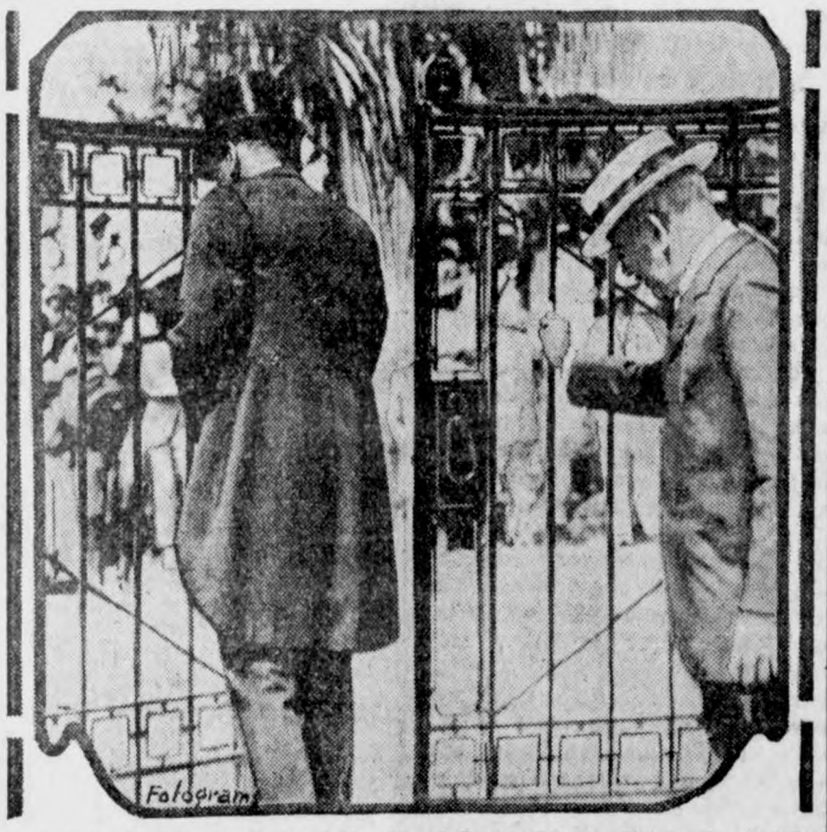
These College Girls Prefer Long Hair

Here is a group of long-haired girls at William Woods college, Fulton, Mo. Each of them has some good reason for not following the prevailing style and bobbing her locks.

Workers of Japan Object to Manhood Suffrage

A group of the members of the "Sekishin" Labor league, who started an anti-universal manhood suffrage movement, seen storming the imperial diet in Tokyo, where the suffrage bill was being debated.

Trinidad's Memorial to Perry



Charles E. Pierre, mayor of the city of Port of Spain, Trinidad, officially opening the Perry Memorial gateway with the key presented to him by the American consul. The gateway is a memorial to Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry.

Only One Killed in This Wreck

The wreck of the Santa Fe passenger train running between San Diego and Los Angeles which was derailed on a curve at the foot of a steep grade. The engineer was the only one killed.

ARRESTED LAWYER

Rush Meadows, prominent Los Angeles and Hollywood attorney, was arrested by city and federal officers with other members of an alleged narcotic and bond theft gang. Liberty bonds totaling $16,000, part of a large amount taken from a Nebraska bank, were recovered.

PRINCE HER SUITOR

The youthful countess of Seafield, only nineteen years old and heiress to the thirty-million-dollar estate left by her father, the late earl of Seafield. She is being sought as the bride for Prince Nicholas of Rumania.

$715
f.o.b. Toledo
World's Lowest Priced Sedan with Sliding Gear Transmission EASY TERMS OVERLAND
ALL STEEL FOUR DOOR
SEDAN
DEALERS EVERYWHERE

Champion is outselling throughout the world because it is the better spark plug.
Champion X for Fords 60c. Blue Box for all other cars, 75c. More than 95,000 dealers sell Champions. You will know the genuine by the double-ribbed core.
Champion Spark Plug Co.
Toledo, Ohio
Windsor, Ont., London, Paris
CHAMPION

Walk with Spring and Comfort in Every Step
"U.S." SPRING-STEP
Rubber Heels
A Better Heel to Walk On
And for the best shoe sole you ever had—
USKIDE
—the Wonder Sole for Wear
United States Rubber Company

Banned by British

British army doctors are rejecting 82 out of every 100 men who apply for enlistment. Two years ago the percentage rejected was 58 per cent.

After proceeding through the courts for 300 years a lawsuit involving a large tract of forest land in Bohemia has just reached a final settlement.

Sure Relief FOR INDIGESTION

6 BELL-ANS Hot water Sure Relief
BELL-ANS
25¢ AND 75¢ PACKAGES EVERYWHERE

BAND INSTRUMENTS
—Second-Hand—
Standard makes rebuilt like new. Saxophones, cornets, trombones, etc., for sale cheap; free trial given. We do repair work. Write for bargains.
MUSICAL INSTRUMENT EXCHANGE
AMES, IOWA

FITS STOPPED FREE TRIAL TREATMENT
to any sufferer from Epilepsy or falling sickness. Write us today, giving age. EMMERLEPTO REMEDY CO., Dept. B, 881 Third Street, MILWAUKEE WIS

BATHE TIRED EYES
with Dr. Thompson's Eyewater. Buy at your druggist's or 1169 River, Troy, N. Y. Booklet.

Idle Hour Theatre

WEDNESDAY, MAY 20th—

"The Shooting of Dan McGrew," with Barabara La Marr, Lew Cody, Mae Busch and other stars.

"One of you is a hound of hell!" Then I ducked my head, the lights went out and pistols cracked. And a woman screamed, the lights went up, and two men lay stiff and stark—It's a hurricane of thrills. Don't miss this picture.

CHANGE IN ROCK ISLAND TRAIN SCHEDULE

New Schedule Goes Into Effect Monday, May 18

Agent M. O. Barr announces the following new change in train service beginning Monday. With the new time Klemme will again have a morning passenger and mail train, but the noon and early afternoon train will not run. Here is the correct time table:

NORTH BOUND

Passenger No. 435	8:10 A. M.
Freight No. 821	11:10 A. M.
(Frgt. Tues. Thurs. and Sat.)

SOUTH BOUND

Passenger No. 436	4:35 P. M.
Freight No. 820	12:15 P. M.
(Frgt. Mon. Wed. and Fri.)

Mail Route Leaves In Morning

Beginning Monday the rural mail carrier will again leave in the morning with mail from No. 435 and will leave the post office at 9:00 A. M.

With the new change it will give us better mail service as the morning train will bring in a lot of outside mail.

ELL TWP. CLOTHING COURSE HELD MEETING

The leaders of the Ell township Clothing Course met at the home of Mrs. James Morrissey on Wednesday May 13th. Fourteen ladies were present; the work was planning and making a dress. The follow up meeting for the north half of the township will be held at the home of Mrs. T. H. Greimann, Jr., Wednesday, May 27. For the south half at the home of Mrs Albert Barz, on June 3 All ladies interested are urged to attend.

GOODELL AND VICINITY

J. W. Griggs and daughter, Maude are spending the week at Ventura.

Word has been received here that Mrs. Letch is seriously ill at the home of her son, Finis, in Morova, Minn.

Mother's Day was observed in the U. B. Church Sunday. A fine programme was enjoyed by a large crowd.

The Farm Bureau Ladies of Avery Township held their third lesson in Sewing at the home of Mrs. Jay Griggs. All the sub-leaders were present, and also a few guests. Miss McIlrath, of Ames, demonstrated their color scheme and the planning of dress styles. These metings are very beneficial and greatly enjoyed by those who attend. At the noon hour lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. J. J. Cook.

Casey Blank was a Goodell caller Monday.

The Senior Class play was given to a full house Friday night and was greatly enjoyed by all present

Prof. and Mrs. Peters entertained the Seniors at a six o'clock dinner Wednesday.

Miss Elsie Knoll spent the week end at Ventura.

Dennie Conlan had the misfortune to fall and break his collar bone. He is getting along quite well. His many friends hope for a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Tony Boller was called to Minnesota on account of the illness of her mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenseth, of Belmond spent Sunday at the Avery home.

Ray Clark and Ed. Hemingway were transacting business in Charles City, Tuesday.

Charles Halfpop and family were shopping in Clear Lake, Saturday.

A. C. Carpenter and Maude Griggs spent Sunday evening at the Jay Griggs home.

Fishing season is right at hand. Can we have a bite, or will it be just a little nibble

J. T. Griggs and W. R. Prelipp were Belmond callers, Monday.

Klemme, Iowa,
ON FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 22

SPANISH GOVERNMENT BUYS WHEAT DIRECT

CHICAGO—For the first time in the history of the grain trade, farmers have sold their products direct to a foreign government. Grain Marketing company officials announced today of one and one quarter million bushels of wheat to the Spanish government. According to the records, it is the first time that any co-operative grain marketing organization has been able to participate in the direct sale of wheat to a foreign government, and the farmers are highly elated over the accomplishment.

THE BUSY CITIZEN

I have not time to hear the birds,
The seasons bring along,
For I must rush to operas
For prima donna song.

I have not time to look at bloom
In orchard, wood and field,
For I must hunt the movie flms
To eye their latest yield.

I have not time to notice stars
In galaxy at night,
For I must hold my steering wheel
And watch with all my might.

I have not time to cast my vote
On next election day,
For I have dates at our golf links—
I must take time to play.

I have not time to be a friend
To those whom I should cheer,
For I must use my time to pluck
When Mammon's plums appear.

I have not time for folks at home,
I think they ought to know,
For why should I wait for their talk
And miss the radio

I have not time to go to church,
Or ponder on God's plan,
For seven days each week I trot
In hurried ways of man.

I have not time—it's sadly true—
To really live and think,
When I have all the time there is Between now and the brink.

By Schyler E. Sears.

Men's and Young Men's New Spring Suits At $35 and $40

More new models than you'll find in any other North Iowa Store. More smart patterns—newest styles.

It's mighty interesting to select your clothes at this store. You have such extensive stocks from which to choose—and such sterling qualities—such smart styles that buying is a real pleasure.

Patton Brothers Co.

Where a Dollar Does It's Duty
Mason City, Iowa.

PROFITS GAUGE GRAIN RATION

Dairy Cows First of All Should Have Good Roughages

With the return of summer and pastures comes the problem to the dairyman of what to do about feeding grain. The policy of the wise dairyman on this question will not differ greatly in summer feeding from that pursued in winter, says John M. Shaw, dairy husbandry specialist Iowa State College. The rule is always to use good roughages as far as possible.

Grain should be fed merely to supplement the ration where the demands for production are greater than can be obtainel by feeding the cows to capacity on such roughages as pasture, silage or good leguminous hay. If summer pastures are inadequate, try feeding some silage or legume hay, restorting to grain if these are not available or if they do not bring up the productin to the desired point.

For the first six weeks in spring while pastures are good, probably no grain should be necessary except for heavy producers. Unless pastures are very luxuriant, it seems good practice to feed grain at the rate of two pounds per day for cows producing 20 t 25 pounds milk per day, or three pounds grain for cows producing 25 to 30 pounds milk.

Above all, keep close watch on profits, since this is the final test in any feeding program. Don't let the enthusiasm for a record influence the feeding of grain beyond the limits set by economy.

AYP IN CHARLES CITY GIVEN NEW DUST PREVENTATIVE

CHARLES CITY—A section of the AY P highway inside the city limits of Charles City is being treated to a new process that takes the place of oil. The city has purchased of carload of calcium chloride and the experiment is being made on the AY P highway from St. Mary's bridge to Blunt street and from Blunt street west to Wisconsin sreet. The calcium chloride absorbs moisture from the air and acts as a sort of binder for the road and does away with the dust. The price is very reasonable, about $32 a ton and taking about two pounds to the square yard. A ton will take care of a block of roadway. Two applications are being used, the first one and three fourth pounds to the sq. yard and the next three-fourths of a pound per square yard. This treatment works better than oil and is cleaner. City Engineer, James S. Dawson states that wherever it has been used it is highly reccommended. The streets now being treated are for test purposes and no more streets will be handled unless petitioned by the property owners, and then the expense is paid by them.

NARCISSUS AND DAFFODIL OUT

Humboldt, Ia.,—What possible chance could a dainty, airy, fairy-like narcissus expect to have against an onion when it comes to grips between them?

None, whatever.

At any rate narcissus bulbs have been excluded from importation into the United States because in part they are suspected of harboring a bug or a germ of some kind of organism inimical to the onion.

Mrs. Genevieve Savage of this city heard the rumor that narcissus bulbs had been or would be excluded ed from America and started an inquiry. She wrote to the United States department of agriculture about it and the federal horticultural board promptly answered.

Yes, it was true. The order had been issued and will go into effect Jan. 1. The order does not include all blubs, as reported, and tulips, hyacinths, crocuses, lilies and lilies of the valley will not be stopped at the Ellis Island of flowerdom. But the narcissus and the daffodil will be arrested and deported just like any red.

The bulb fly and the ellworm are the culprits. Sometimes 12 percent of the bulbs have been found infected. In Europe the fly has been known to destroy entire crops of onions. It has got a footing in this country, even and has destroy at least one onion field. But the eelworm is more dangerous than the fly, for it infests clover, oats, rye, onions and potatoes. It has done damage already in five western states.

Moreover, on account of the embargo there is an additional damaging complication. Europe threatens retaliation, putting an embargo on American fruit and potatoes.

One more Christmas with narcissus and then the tradegy. But if it will save the clover fields and the onions and the oats, who in Iowa can protest beyond shedding a silent tear?—Des Moines Register

NOTICE OF BUILDING SCHOOL HOUSE

Notice is hereby given that the proposals for the erection of a school house in the township of Ell, in the county of Hancock, will be received by the undersigned at his office in Ell Township, where plans and specifications may be seen until 1 o'clock P. M., May 22, 1925, at which time the contract will be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder. The board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

Peter Josten, Sec'y:
Apr. 27, 1925, Klemme, Ia.
A 30 - M 21

ENORMOUS BUSINESS INDUSTRY

Broadcasting radio programs and manufacturing radio equipment has become one of the biggest American industries.

This was plainly indicated in a western city recently where 400 radio manufacturers jobbers and dealers sat down to a public banquet.

It was surely a night in radio land when that many business men could meet on short notice and celebrate the arrival of a new invention that has become in a few years one of the five largest national industries of Our Country.

When radio transmission shall have been developed in its fullest extent in its possible relation to education, church service, news dissemination and civic, social, musical and dramatic possibilities it is not a wild prophecy that it will become the largest American industry.

TOTEM POLE GIVEN TO REFORMATORY

ROCKWELL CITY— A big totem pole now adornes the lawn in front of the administration buildings at the state womens reformatory here. It may be seen for miles around. The totem is a gift from several Alaska Indian prisoners serving federal sentences at Anamosa reformatory, and sent here, according to Superintendent Elenor B. Hutchinson.

HOG FASTS 210 DAYS

Peter Johhannes of Osceola county claims he has a hog that fasted for seven months and is still living. In threshing last August, an old straw stack was covered over with fresh straw. Some time later the hog, which weighed 340 pounds, was missed. The animal was dug out March 21. It will probably live, but is blind. The story does not seem credible, but is is vouched for by reliable parties.

False reports have been current in Iowa concerning revisions of the Minnesota fishing lows, according to the Ten Thousand lakes association of Minnesota, and the sypopsis of the new laws as outlined by the organization should bring a "grraand and glorrrious feelin' " to some of the anglers who have heard that license rates have been boosted to an unreasonable amount.

The license fee for nonresident anglers in Minnesota is $3 for 1925, or exactly one-tenth of what some of the reports have claimed it to be. The bag limits have been reduced in a few instances, but only whee absolutely necessary and to no great extent.

SKELETON FOUND IN EXCAVATION AT CARROLL

Carrol,— While excavating for the basement of the garage in the the court house yard workmen unearthed the skeleton of a human being.

The skull, arm and leg bones as well as others were found. There was no trace of a coffin. It is the belief that the bnes are those of an Indian and that they have been buried there perhaps a hundred years or more.

Indiana's new prohibition law makes the smell of liquor on the breath prima facia evidence of boot legging. This ought to boost the demand for onions in the Hoosier state.

It is said that La Follette polices are inducing a great many big business concerns to leave Wisconsin. But maybe Bob wants the state to himself, altogether.

Klemme, Iowa,
ON FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 22

The modern girl also belives that "save the surface and you save all."

Better be an aggressive goat than a scrubby sheep.

QUAKER
State Oil

GUARANTEED
100 Per Cent PURE
PENNSYLVANIA OIL
Sold under a Guarantee to go farther and give perfect satisfaction.

Beware of Imitation!

PAVEY'S
STORMIZING SHOP

The Reward of Carelessness

Many fine homes have been lost to lightning merely because rodding was one of the things their owners were going to do "some day."

Loss of your home may be the reward of similar carelessness.

The DODD System of Lightning Protection makes loss by lightning impossible and is so guaranteed in writing.

The cost? Nothing compared with the possible saving.

Let's talk about it.

H. Lau Sons

TRADE CONTROLS D&S MARK LIGHTNING

Great Shoe Sale!

Friday & Saturday

Shoes Shoes Shoes

FRIDAY and SATURDAY of this week we are puting on a BIG SHOE SALE of MEN'S, WOMEN'S AND CHILDRENS' FOOTWEAR of all kinds. This is all new stock and the styles are the very latest.

This is the GREATEST SHOE SALE event ever before held in Garner and it will pay you to buy shoes for the entire family during this sale. Buy shoes now and save Money. We are giving you the benefit of our buying in large quantities for our three big stores.

Abraham & Sons

GARNER, IOWA

News of Klemme and Vicinity

ry Lewis' house is now all up with new fire-proof shingles

sents for Graduates at G. W. hohn's Store. 1tc

F. Pavey was at Garner on ss Saturday afternoon.

riff Peck Hanson was in this n business Monday.

on Greimann was a business at Garner Saturday.

't forget to read Day's Cash adv for big Saturday special.

rry Gibbs, who is on the sick improving slowly.

E. H. Philips, of Garner, was tor with Klemme friends Sat- afternoon.

TICE BANDMEN! Regular re- al Monday evening at 8:00 o'- sharp. Everybody be there on

Klemme, Iowa,
FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 22

SWEET CREAM—25c per pint, 40c per quart delivered to your door R. W. Elder.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Elder and daughter, Reva, were Mason City visitors Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Griffen and children spent Sunday with friends at Goodell.

WANTED—Cattle or horses to pasture for the season. G. W. Hewett, Ventura, Ia., Route 2. 1tp

Emil Barz, of Waterloo, spent Sunday in Klemme at the Lena Schroeder home with his son, Max.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Davis, of Mason City, were visitors at the Happy Johnson home Sunday.

Lou Davis and family, of Mason City, spent Sunday at the Henry Freie home.

Sam Larsen was a Chicago visitor this week. He took in a shipment of stock to the market.

Mrs. Josten came from Garner Sunday for a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Gauger.

Mrs. Henry Christensen and Mrs. Chas. Chelsvig, of Goodell, visited with Mrs. Sumner Trumbel Friday.

FOR SALE—House in Klemme. L. D. Byers, Garner, Iowa. tfc

Buy your Graduation Gifts at G. W. Kluckhohn's Store. Nice selection to choose from. 1tc

Rev. and Mrs. Gauger and children drove to Forest City and Hayfield Monday evening for a visit.

Holly Lewis and family, of Mason City, visited at the Lew Lewis home Sunday.

Screen Doors on hand at the Northern Lumber Co. tc

Mrs. Gee, of Goodell, was visiting her daughter, Mrs. Chris Gram last evening.

Cabinet Work

I have a good cabinet worker employed and anyone wanting work of this kind see me for cabinet work large or small. Ing. Lauritsen. 1tc

Grandpa Gimer spent part of the past week in the country visiting with his granddaughter, Mrs. Clarence Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Fouts, of Sioux City, Iowa, were over Sunday visitors at the A. D. Gimer home. Mr. Fouts is a nephew if Mrs. Gimer.

WANTED—To buy a couple of brood sows. Wm. Ax. 2p

New Bungalow For Sale

Anyone interested in buying a new, modern, up-to-date bungalow just finished, see me at once before I move in. Ing. Lauritsen. 1tc

Band rehearsal Monday eveing at 8:00 o'clock sharp. Be there on the dot.

Miss Anna Merkel was judged the most popular young lady and was presented a diamond ring by the Silver Fun Show, Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Schlawin and Grandma Schlawin were at Garner on business Monday.

Postmaster C. A. Frisbee and wife of Garner, were Klemme callers on Tuesday evening.

R. A. Jorgenson and family, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Jorgenson, of Garner, spent Sunday at the Sam Rasmussen home at Forest City.

The Senior Class will present their class play, "Mary's Millions" at the school gym Friday evening of this week.

LOST—On the road west of Albert Schmidt's place, Tuesday, a pair of new OsKosk overalls and a good brown sweater. Finder leave at Times Office for reward. 1tc

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Wilson and son, Bruce, of Charles City, were visiting at the P. M. Wilson home here Sunday.

Miss Annabell Cralson was visiting at the Benn Coobs home Tuesday. She leaves tomorrow for her home at Ingram, Wisconsin.

Miss Anna Griewe came over from Mason City Saturday morning to be home for Mothers Day. Mr. Griewe drove to Garner to get her in his car.

There was a bunch of gypsies in town Friday afternoon. Marshall B. Coobs told them to hit the trail and they left in a few minutes for greener pastures.

DANCE!

Thursday, May 14th, at Nelson Bros. New Pavillion, Britt. Music by Deans Orchestra, of Cresco, broadcasting from W. C. C. O. Minneapolis, Monday 18th 11:00 to 12:30 P. M. Tune in! Nelson Bros., Mgr. 1p

C. G. Waterman and family and W. C. Keraus spent Mothers Day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C F. Keraus and were guests at a six o'clock dinner.

Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Hesselhuus, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Lau, drove to Minneapolis Saturday for an over Sunday visit with relatives.

J. J. Poort and family left Friday morning in their car for Minneapolis to spend the week end with relatives. An aunt of Mrs. Poort returned to Klemme with them Monday for a visit.

Mrs. John Tanner received the sad news that her brother, Aug. Schaper had died at a Freeport, Ill. hospital Tuesday. Mrs. Tanner left yesterday for Freeport to attend the funeral. Mr. Schaper was well known in Klemme.

Mrs. Mary Waterman and C. G. Waterman and family ate Sunday dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Cullinan, at Belmond.

Mr. and Mrs. Kahl enjoyed a visit from his mother, Mrs. Kahl of St. Paul who came Friday and remained until Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Kahl was accompanied by Mrs. Sears and Mr. Regan, also of St. Paul.

The constitution insures us the right to the pursuit of happiness but doesn't guarantee success. Pursue a systematic course of training at The Hamilton University, Mason City, Iowa, and your chances for success and happiness are both assured. Summer school opens June 1. 1wcF.

Fred Haupt returned from a Mason City hospital Monday where he had been for a tonsil operation.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. McConn drove to Minneapolis for an over Sunday visit.

The Town of Klemme has put a guard rail on each sile of the highway leading out west from town at the deep ditch near the end of the street. This is a good improvement. Now if they will go ahead and widen the turn onto the Wilson Highway we will have a fine road leading into town from the west.

Following are the teachers who have signed contracts to teach in the Klemme schools the coming school year: Mr. Penrod, of Lattimer who will be the superintendent; Miss Abel, high school; Miss Thompson, 5th and 6th grades; Miss Lovreine, 3rd and 4th grades; Miss Buchan, 1st and 2nd grades. The balance of the faculty have not yet been signed up.

Miss Marie O'Neill has accepted a position as instructor of the eighth grade pupils in the Dumont, Iowa, school for the coming year. Miss O'Neil has been a faithful worker in the Klemme schools the past year and is a teacher of more than the average ability and management. She has a pleasing personality that will make her friends wherever she goes and the Dumont school is to be congratulated on their selection for an eighth grade teacher and we are sure of Miss O'Neil's success as a capable teacher.

Eagle Lake was stocked with pike last week from the Clear Lake fish hatchery. Game Warden R. P. Monpleasure took two cans, about 200,000 young pike to the lake and in a few years there should be good fishing in this small lake northwest of Duncan.

KLEMME MARKETS

Thurs. May 14, 1925

Wheat	1.40
OATS	.36
CORN	.85—.90
Barley	.75
Rye	1.00
HOGS	$10.75—$11.25
Eggs cash	.26
Eggs trade	.27
HENS	.16
LIGHT HENS	.13
BROILERS	.35
Ducks	.10
Geese	.08
Butter	.47
BUTTERFAT	.46

CHURCH NOTES

Mother's Day Sunday found a responsive note in the hearts of all church attendants. We believe that some resolved to serve father's and mother's God better than before.

Next Sunday we will have two special services with a special message in each service. On Sunday morning we will consider "The Element of Worship in Religion." 'Tis true that this should be an element in all church and religious services—but we fear that only too often religion is cheapened and vulgarized. This should not be so!

On Sunday evening the Baccalaureate sermon will be preached. This is thec lass rermon to a class of our splendid young people who have finished our our High School course This service begins at 8:00 'clock.

Boys and Girls

Get this Complete First Aid Kit FREE!

Thousands of boys and girls throughout the land are joining the Junior First Aid Legion this week.

Uncle Dan Beard, the beloved leader of The Boy Scouts, says:—"It's a splendid idea! Every boy and girl should study First Aid work."

And it costs only 12c to join.

This store is an enrolling station. Join up here—and by early mail, you will receive from Bauer & Black, who are sponsoring the Junior First Aid Legion, a handsome membership button, a book of First Aid instruction and the complete handy pocket First Aid Kit shown above.

Think of it! A course of lessons that may some day enable you to save a life—your own or your best pal's! And you get a Kit of first aid supplies free—which alone is worth many times the membership fee.

Wilson's Pharmacy

P. M. Wilson, Prop.

The Cash Store

—Has on hand for his week a nice line of Men's Women's and Children's Oxfords.

Don't fail to see our selection and be sure to get our prices.

Nice assortment of LADIES' SILK HOSE, per pair ..... 90c.

Saturday Special

LARGE SIZE PACKAGE OATMEAL... 19c

PRIZE PACKAGE OATMEAL 23c

"PAY CASH and PAY LESS"

Jno. N. Day's Cash Store

K. H. S. Graduates

To the Class of 1925 of the Klemme High School we extend congratulations and best wishes for your future.

It is easy to save and to acquire habits of thrift which means so much to one's future.

Without thrift and some systematic Savings Plan, fame and fortune and success are almost unattainable.

You can start an account here with any sum you may have on hand.

If you want to start right, you will start at your earliest opportunity.

State Savings Bank

Klemme Iowa

Plans for Your Home

Planning your home completely from basement to attic before you start to buiid is not only a sensible thing to do, but it is an economical plan to follow. We can save you many dollars if you will let us aid you in this work.

Northern Lumber Co.

"EVERYTHING TO BUILD ANYTHING"

Klemme, Iowa,
ON FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 22

Work Shoes

We have a real value in a SHOE, guaranteed to be all le stitched thruought, long wearin are selling for only——

$1.95

We carry a full line of Work to $5.00. You will be satisfied shoes we sell for heavy duty w kinds. You can save money by this store.

Spe

Here's a real Ladies Low Cut er with one strap which we are selli

$2.

G.W. Kluckh

The BLUE CIRCLE

BY Elizabeth Jordan

COPYRIGHT BY THE CENTURY CO.

WNU Service.

CHAPTER X—Continued

—19—

"Yes, I am." The girl's voice was defiant but miserable. "I have always hated the dark. I always have a dim light in my room at night. It's the darkness I mind now—the utter blackness, and the closeness. I feel as if we were shut up in a tomb."

"Like Aida and her young man," Renshaw frivolously commented. He was so sorry for the girl that his throat ached, so anxious about her that the pit of his stomach felt cold; but he went on cheerfully: "Let them be a lesson to you. All the reprisal they offered was to sing."

"I'm afraid you don't appreciate 'Aida.'"

The girl was pathetically trying to play up. Again his throat contracted.

"Not especially. I've always seen some elephantine prima donna in the leading role, and it has been hard to take her sufferings seriously. But I like the music. We might try the duet now, if you like," he ended lightly.

"Please don't laugh at me."

"I won't—if you will admit that you are foolish to mind a gay little adventure like this."

"You call it gay?"

"Oh, well,"—he appeared to give his mind to the problem while he battered the oak door—"I will substitute the word 'amusing,' if you like that better."

"Do you mind if I—if I—" there was a very long pause; "—if I hold your hand?" she brought out at last.

"You may hold the right one," he graciously conceded, accepting the request as the most natural one in the world. "I've got to keep on banging with the left." He extended his hand in the darkness, found the small one that was groping toward him, and took it in a firm, close grasp.

Again he felt the odd contraction of the throat he had experienced before. He knew what it had been to Verity Campbell to make that request. He knew that, having made it, her pride was in the dust, like a trailing flag. He seemed suddenly to know a great many other things about her as he felt the quiver if that small cold hand in his own.

"I'll keep on beating with the left," he repeated, efficiently combining the words with the action, "because about this time Morris ought to be getting back from his calls. I've seen him use the main staircase several times; and if he does it to-day—unless he's more absent-minded than I think he is—he's going to realize that some one would appreciate the honor of his attention."

"Oh—do you think he'll come soon?"

The hand in his was growing warmer and more steady. The human contact was doing its work. Now, under the hope aroused by his words, Verity grasped his arm with her other hand and was clinging to him.

"Of course he'll come soon. Morris is not the man to neglect the most important patient he has ever had. Also, the incomparable Jenks has told him that tea is served at five o'clock, and that your cook's specialty is toasted muffins. It must be about five now," he added with conscious pathos; "I wouldn't mind having a buttered muffin myself."

All the while he banged, kicked, and battered, stopping occasionally to turn the doorknob experimentally. He had not for a moment forgotten that the impish or malicious force that had so suddenly closed the door might open it as suddenly. He did not intend to be caught napping, or to have the girl remain in that trap one instant longer than was necessary.

Verity released her grasp of his arm and slipped her left hand further into his right one. He held it comfortingly, but as impersonally as he could. It was a nice job, he suddenly realized, quite a delicate job, in fact, to hold that hand in exactly the right way. Under the force of this discovery he again rushed into speech.

"Morris is sure to come, and he is sure to hear us," he went on easily. "I don't know why I didn't mention that sooner. It would have spared you all your anxiety."

A long, trembling sigh from the darkness told him that the anxiety was not lost. He exerted himself to interest the girl. He spoke of villages she had mentioned in her table talks with Madame Hvoeslef, and which he also knew. He, too, had wandered over the world, and had sought its outlying way places. As he talked he punctuated his sentences with blows upon the unyielding door, and as he beat and kicked he was conscious of the increasing close of the atmosphere.

His heart fluttered with new anxiety for the girl. She must be feeling it, too. She must. Yes, her slender figure, which of the open closet door, swayed weakly and blinked at him in dawning, incredulous understanding and relief. Facing them both, the incomparable Jenks, all self-control and presence of mind departed, helplessly gasped and stuttered.

Suddenly, Head First, He Pitched Into the Outer Corridor With Such Force That He Struck and Recoiled From the Opposite Wall.

"My Gawd!" he said, over and over. "And you in there, too, Miss Campbell, and 'most suffocated—"

Renshaw put him aside and caught the girl's arm as she blinked and swayed.

"It was pretty bad while it lasted, but it's over now," he said cheerfully. "Steady her on the other side, Jenks, and we'll get her to her room. Here, hurry up!"

For Jenks was examining the door to discover the cause of the accident. His face had an odd, chalky look that, even in the excitement of the moment, Renshaw noticed. At the latter's crisp order he found his wits, and hurried to the other side of Verity to take her arm.

"It might of killed her," he dazedly muttered.

"Nothing of the sort!" Renshaw shot a warning look at him over her head. "Some one was bound to hear the noise we kept up. I can't understand why you didn't hear it sooner."

"I did hear it sooner, sir," Jenks confessed, abject under the shock he had received. "I heard it for more than an hour. But I didn't pay any attention to it, because I thought it came from somewhere outside." He returned to his original refrain: "She might have suffocated!"

"Well, she's all right now. Here you are, Miss Campbell, safe at the door of your own room. Better lie down for a while."

He opened the door for her, watched her walk unsteadily across the threshold, closed the door, and looked at Jenks.

"Get a glass of sherry for Miss Campbell, and then bring a whisky and soda to my room," he directed.

Jenks did not return his usual brisk affirmative. He did not even move from the spot where he stood. The fact that the secretary's peril had at least been equal to that of his young mistress obviously did not interest or concern him. Renshaw watched him with a tolerant understanding of his viewpoint.

"She might of been suffocated," Jenks slowly repeated.

Chapter XI

Uncertainties.

Ten minutes later a deferential tap on Renshaw's door showed that Jenks had recalled himself to the high duties of his office. He entered without waiting for a response, and, finding the secretary in a big chair before the unlit fire, set down the tray he carried and moved around the room for a moment with characteristically noiseless activity. At the end of the brief interval a small table was at the young man's elbow, and from the decanter and siphon he had brought Jenks had poured a stiff and welcome drink. He set this before the secretary in silence, and, producing a box of cigars, maintained a perfect pose of respectful service till Renshaw had selected one. Jenks certainly knew how to make a man comfortable. Jenks spoke:

"All right now, sir?" His voice, as always, was smoothly respectful.

"All right, thanks. Did Miss Campbell drink her sherry?"

"Yes, sir." Jenks hesitated. Then, "Might I ask just how it happened, sir?" he mellowly inquired.

Renshaw welcomed the question. He desired the servants to know just how it had happened, if Jenks intended to discuss the matter below stairs.

"Simplest thing in the world," he said lightly. "Miss Campbell was showing me through the house. When we reached this hall, I said something about not having enough towels. You know, I've mentioned that to you, too. She went into the closet to show me where they were. I followed her across the threshold, and the door suddenly slammed shut behind us."

Jenks gazed at the floor.

"That was odd, sir, wasn't it?" he asked gently.

Renshaw looked at him until the butler's glance lifted from the floor to his eyes.

"It was very odd," he then said, holding the look. "In fact, it was so odd that it simply could not have happened."

Jenks seemed startled.

"I don't quite follow you, sir."

"I will be clearer. What I mean is"—Renshaw spoke very slowly—"that door did not shut by itself."

To this, at first, Jenks made no reply. He seemed slightly disturbed and greatly puzzled.

"You mean, sir, that it didn't blow shut?" he asked at last through the mental mist that appeared to have settled over him.

"Of course it didn't blow shut. How could it have blown shut? There was no draft. What I mean is that some one, or something, intentionally shut it."

Jenks now looked frankly incredulous; but his reply, as always, was deferential:

"That could hardly be, sir, could it? Why would anyone shut it? Who would want to? And even if anyone wanted to, how could it be done without you seeing, sir?"

"That's what I'd like to know myself." Renshaw spoke wearily. The after-strain of the episode was telling on him. Jenks nodded and took up the tray.

"It was a regrettable incident, sir," he said quietly but firmly, "due to the unfortunate condition of the knob. I have given orders to have the knob repaired in the morning."

Renshaw did not answer. Every word Jenks had uttered had convinced him that the butler knew all about that door; but he was also aware that Jenks did not intend to share his knowledge. The solution that suggested itself seemed preposterous. His brief sense of well-being departed under the mental jolt of the conversation. Tawno Ker was taking a lot out of him. He wondered what comments Jenks would make on other recent episodes that had occurred. Probably they, too, were "regrettable incidents."

Jenks oozed from the room, carrying his tray.

Renshaw's thoughts swung back to Verity. How plucky the girl had been! She would actually have suffiocated rather than take what she considered more than her "share" of the diminishing air supply!

He wondered how much longer she could have held her self-control, and what would have happened if Jenks had not heard him for, say, another hour. That was not a reflection his mind cared to dwell upon. He switched from it to the memory of the butler's genuine consternation when he discovered that Miss Campbell, as well as Renshaw, had been a prisoner. Her discomfort, her possible danger, had affected him. Renshaw was glad of that.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Apples Once Grew Wild

Apples, as we know them today, in ancient times grew wild in parts of Europe and Asia, and their cultivation began in Europe centuries ago, but it remained for Americans to make the greatest progress in this direction.

One of the first of these benefactors was Loammi Baldwin. While prominent in his capacity as an engineer, he would long since have been forgotten except for his horticultural experiments, which resulted in the production of the famous apple which bears his name.

The United States now produces the bulk of the world's apple crop and Canada adds to North American supremacy. The European belt extends from Norway to southern France. The fruit is also cultivated in New Zealand, Tasmania and other countries.—Detroit News.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

CONNER WILL HELP PLAN PARIS MEET

Benjamin H. Conner, commander of the department of France of the American Legion, delivered to the national convention of the Legion at St. Paul, last September, an official invitation to the Legion to hold a national convention in Paris. At that time it was suggested that the convention for 1928 be held "in Paree," in celebration of the tenth anniversary of the armistice.

Plans are now being considered for holding the 1927 convention in the gay city, which it is the ambition of every veteran to see once more. National Commander James A. Drain has appointed a committee, headed by Past Department Commander John J. Wicker, of Virginia, to investigate and work out plans for the migration of this great body of American veterans to the scene of their battles.

Upon Mr. Conner and his associates in the department of France will fall a great deal of responsibility, if the national convention, which has the final power to make a decision, votes to go to Paris.

Mr. Conner, a Kentuckian by birth, is a lawyer by profession. Born at Connersville, Ky., on November 28, Benjamin H. Conner.

1878, he has practiced his profession for 22 years or more in his native state, in New York and in Paris.

He has been vice president of the American chamber of commerce in France, honorary secretary of the American Navy league in France, member of the board of trustees of the American hospital and vice president of the Association of International Jurists in Paris. Mr. Conner is a member of many professional bodies, including the American Bar association, the American Society of International Law and the American Economic association. He is a writer on legal and economic subjects.

Entering the service as a captain of infantry at Paris on August 14, 1917, Mr. Conner served on the staff of the First division and the Second army corps. He was later counter-espionage officer in the First army of the A. E. F. until the armistice. From December, 1918, to March, 1919, he was chief of the legal department in the bureau of war damages at the peace conference. He was promoted to major on February 22, 1919, and was discharged at St. Aignan on March 13 following.

Gavel for Dawes

American Legionnaires of Marietta, Ohio, recently presented their comrade, Vice President Dawes, who was born in Marietta, with a gavel made from the piano stool Dawes used as a boy. The gavel has a gold plate on each end with the engraving, "Made from a piano stool used by C. G. D. as a boy," and "To Legionnaire Charles G. Dawes, Vice President of the U. S., March 4, 1925, Marietta Post No. 64, American Legion, Marietta, Ohio."

Plural

"You are charged with being disorderly," accused the judge.

The prisoner stared glassily at him. "Not guilty, your—ah—honors," he finally answered.—American Legion Weekly.

The One Objection

"It was because of her past that I didn't marry Helen."

"What's the matter with her past?"

"Too long."—American Legion Weekly.

Hill Once a Temple

In 1814 the British discovered in Java the vast temple of "The Thousand Buddhas," which had been buried under such an accumulation of rubbish for six centuries that it had become a tree-covered hill.

Frenchman Looked Ahead

The colonization of Canada by the French is said to have been first suggested by Philippe de Chabot, called also Admiral de Brion, the celebrated French general and admiral, who died in 1543.

Yeast Foam makes bread that tastes better

Nothing has such hunger-satisfying flavor as the home loaf made with Yeast Foam.

Send for free booklet "The Art of Baking Bread"

"No wonder the men folks eat twice as much of it"

Northwestern Yeast Co.
1730 North Ashland Ave.
Chicago, Ill.

Insure Your Complexion!
USE
Marcelle Face Creams and Cold Cream Powder
Their fragrance is charming and they impart that delightful feeling of well-being so much appreciated by every dainty woman. Best dealers everywhere sell it.
Write for liberal FREE SAMPLE today
C. W. Beggs Sons & Co., 1744 N. Richmond St., Chicago, Ill.

Use for Plugged Nickels

Natives of the Gold coast, pocketless and wearing few clothes, have a specially minted nickel with a hole in it so that they may string and wear them about their necks. The coins are made at the royal mint in London.

Most of the advice given is about disagreeable duties. This is why it isn't taken.

Artificial Eye Expert

Regarded as one of the finest makers of artificial eyes in the world, Millauro, a London girl, twenty-two years of age, can make a perfect specimen in 15 minutes.

Special paint which will not reflect light is being used on night-flying planes to protect pilots from the glare of searchlights fixed to the wings.

CHILDREN CRY FOR

MOTHER:— Fletcher's Castoria is especially prepared to relieve Infants in arms and Children all ages of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and, by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Absolutely Harmless - No Opiates. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

Men Dance Partners

More than thirty young men are earning nearly $5,000 a year by acting as professional partners for women in fashionable cabarets. One South American woman, desiring to display her wealth, is said to have paid more than $500 for one dance.

Comparatively Modern

Noting the proposal in London to replace No. 10 Downing street with a modern building, the Lawrence Journal-World says the British should hesitate before taking the radical step. The old building is only about two hundred years old.

Tanlac puts solid flesh on scrawny bones

HOW can you expect to get back your health and strength as long as your body is scrawny and underweight? Let Tanlac put some good, solid flesh on your bones, put your stomach in shape to digest your food, purify your poisoned blood! Then see how much better you feel.

In our files are one hundred thousand glowing letters of thanks from men and women who have been helped back to health and strength by Tanlac. What it has done for these folks it can surely do for you.

Tanlac is Nature's greatest tonic and builder. It is compounded after the famous Tanlac formula from roots, barks and curative herbs. It gets right down to the seat of trouble and makes you feel right from the first dose.

Don't put off taking Tanlac another day. Don't go on dragging your poor, tired-out, sickly body around when this great remedy can bring you quick relief.

In cases of torpid liver, rheumatism, stomach complaint, lowered resistance, indigestion and malnutrition Tanlac will work wonders. Get a bottle this very day and start feeling better tonight.

Got Rid of Neuralgic Pains

"I suffered four years from indigestion and neuralgic pain. Now, thanks to Tanlac I am in perfect health."
A. R. Anderson
1505 Austin Street
Houston, Texas

TAKE TANLAC VEGETABLE PILLS FOR CONSTIPATION

TANLAC
FOR YOUR HEALTH

After eating or smoking Wrigley's freshens the mouth and sweetens the breath. Nerves are soothed, throat is refreshed and digestion aided. So easy to carry the little packet!

WRIGLEY'S
-after every meal!

MONARCH COCOA

The blend is what makes this cocoa so unusually good. Try MONARCH today and see how good cocoa really can be.

REID, MURDOCH & CO.
Established 1853
General Offices, Chicago, U. S. A.
Branches: Boston • New York • Pittsburgh

QUALITY FOR 70 YEARS

Dog Given Decoration

The mayor of Torquay, England, decorated a fox terrier who tore burning cotton wool from the bandaged leg of his injured master, saving his life.

Do You Know

That one-fourth teaspoonful of Magnet Baking Powder adds texture and body to a meringue, especially because of its slow rising qualities, which makes it unusually satisfactory because of the slow oven necessary for meringue?

The university buildings costing $3,000,000 are being built at Johannesburg, South Africa.

FREE To Housewives

Send us your name and we will send you, FREE and POSTPAID a 10 cent can of LIQUID VENEER. Wonderful for daily dusting. Cleans, dusts and polishes in one sweep of your dust cloth. Renews piano, furniture, woodwork, automobiles. Makes anything look like new. Makes dusting a pleasure. Moreover, we will tell you how to get, FREE, a

$2.00 LIQUID VENEER MOP

Large removable swab for washing and all yarn mops. You'll be delighted. Nothing to sell or orders to take—just building up a little business will for Liquid Veneer Polishing Products in your neighborhood. Write now for FREE sample and particulars.

LIQUID VENEER

Let's be conservative and truthful!

Acting just as conservative as the makers of MonaMotor Oil permits, we submit these facts to every car owner. MonaMotor Oil is better than 95% of all oils on the market. MonaMotor Oil is equal to the other 5% of Better Oils. There are none better.

These conservative and truthful facts mean only one thing to the careful car owner—MonaMotor Oil from

Monarch Manufacturing Co.
Council Bluffs, Iowa Toledo, Ohio

MonaMotor Oils & Greases

FIRST AID TO BEAUTY AND CHARM

Nothing so mars an otherwise beautiful face as the inevitable lines of fatigue and suffering caused by tired, aching feet. ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE, the Antiseptic, Healing Powder, insures foot comfort. It is a Toilet Necessity. Shake it in your shoes in the morning. Shop all day—Dance all evening—then let your mirror tell the story. Trial package and a Foot-Ease Walking Doll sent free. Address Allen's Foot-Ease, Le Roy, N. Y. Sold at Drug and Department Stores.

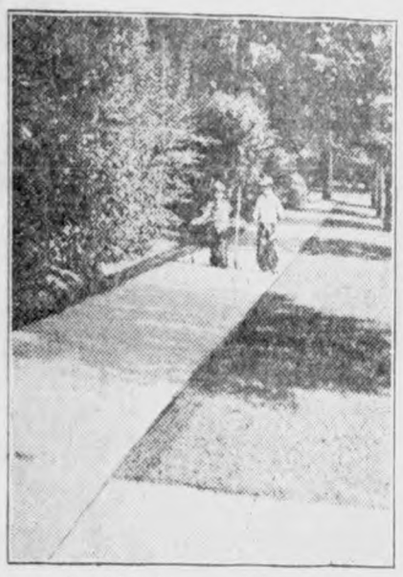
Cuticura Loveliness A Clear Healthy Skin
Insured by Every-day Use of Cuticura Soap

Community Building

Concrete Sidewalks Finding Much Favor

The use of concrete for sidewalks has become so universal throughout the cities and towns of this country that a town or city of any appreciable size is rarely found in which the sidewalks are not all made of this favored material.

Concrete is now universally accepted as the ideal sidewalk material. Properly built concrete walks meet all the requirements of a good footway. They are durable, smooth without being slippery, and are pleasing and clean in appearance. Good walks are easy to build. It is only necessary to follow a few, easily understood principles, to build concrete walks that are practically everlasting.



Good-Looking and Durable.

Just four materials enter into a concrete walk—portland cement, sand, crushed stone or pebbles and water. When these are combined in certain definite proportions, placed on a prepared foundation and allowed to harden the walk is complete. But the materials must be suitable; the foundation must be properly prepared; and the mixing and placing of the concrete must meet the requirements of sound construction principles. Failure to meet one or more of the above conditions in the early days of concrete-making was the cause of occasional poor walks being constructed.

Future "Old Home" Weeks

The "antiquated" past is not so far in the rear after all. In America it is hardly sufficiently remote to be regarded as historical in the strictest sense of that term. And yet the inclination too often is to believe that all that is worth while in American annals has been written by those of previous generations. It might not be an extravagant statement that at no time since the coming of the first white settlers to American shores has the responsibility of the individual been greater than at the present moment. There are still many old home weeks to be observed, a decade hence, a century farther on. Those who participate in such gatherings will look back upon the building which is now being done, just as we of today look back upon the structure we have received as a legacy from sturdy and high-minded forebears. — Christian Science Monitor.

Time to Plant Trees

Whatever trees we want to plant—and everybody ought to plant trees—should be planted now. The early planted trees get the best chance at making satisfactory growth. If we are going to grow a lawn—and everybody ought to grow a lawn—this is the best time to get the seed in the ground. Hot dry weather is not conducive to growing grass. It takes the cool, moist season of spring to get a new growth for a lawn started. Then if we expect to garden, plant flowers, paint the premises or otherwise let the world know that we are among those present in the world's activities, it is also time to get going. It is the time to leave our hibernating mental attitude and get into the wide-awake swing of real action.—Florence News.

City's Opportunity

Cities have the ambition to aspire to great heights when they have built their foundation with an understanding of the main essentials which go into the development of prestige and good will. Without these attributes, some cities may become richer and greater, but they do not and cannot become better. Troy has the opportunity. Troy may never become the city of half a million people; but Troy may become better and more favorably known than any city twice or three times its size if new standards are adopted and applied.—Troy Herald.

Rattler Need Not Coil

The commonly accepted belief that a rattler will not strike until after it has sounded its warning is false. If the reptile is trodden on while asleep it will strike first and do its rattling afterward.

That's Different

"Men are peculiar," hackneys Mrs. Ottoknow. "I know a lot of them who boast of their wonderful swing with a golf club that can't wield a carpet beater worth a darn."

TOGS FOR THE FLOWER GIRL; BRIDE'S SUMMER TROUSSEAU

FROM the pictorial viewpoint, almost as important as the bride herself is the little flower girl who attends her. Since the mission of this adorable miss is to "add to the picture" not only must she be befrocked in charming fashion, but she must contribute in her costuming a harmonious note to the color symphony expressed in the wedding scene.

In the fashioning of a winsome frock for the little flower maiden, as with the artist who produces a lovely picture, it is not the medium used to produce the masterpiece, but is genius that counts. Which applied to the styling of picturesque costume for the tiny flower attendant means that the modest home dressmaker who has the fire of imagination within her and the cunning to do will create a frock of as enchanting grace for the wee flower girl from inexpensive yet colorful cotton voile or organdie as will Madame-of-renown who insists on using only fabrics most costly.

This is especially true in regard to the exquisitely colorful voiles shown this season. They come in loveliest flower colorings, sheer unto the point of transparency. Best of all they are washable, they cost but a few cents a yard. As to effectiveness, not even the most expensive silks can surpass them. While the beautiful little dress in the picture was fashioned of peach-colored silk crepe, it would be just as attractive developed of sheer voile or organdie. It is the clever placement which float out like butterfly wings, adds charm to the flower-girl frock.

Carrying a large leghorn hat filled with roses adds a picturesque feature to the tiny tot's costumes.

The season of the bride and her trousseau is upon us. Therefore are the ateliers of the most famous couturiers, likewise the workrooms of the humblest seamstress and home dressmaker buzzing with pleasurable excitement. Under the magic spell of radiant brides-to-be, who flutter in and out giving their joyous orders, genius becomes inspired to create raiment of transcendent loveliness.

Helps the Wedding Picture.

Assuming that the hope chest is filled to overflowing with dainty lingerie and lovely bits of finery, and that the bridal gown and veil are safely reposing ready for the supreme moment midst orange blossoms and tissue paper wrappings the next logical number on the trousseau program is the "going away" costume. What shall it be? An ensemble of course, consisting of frock and coat to match. Since it solves, not only a dress problem, but that of a wrap as well, it behooves the bride-to-be to give most careful forethought to this all-important ensemble costume.

Material? That depends—of course if one is going to motor across country or indulge in outdoor sports then flannel, kasha cloth, fine wool twill or things knitted are the proper thing and the two-piece jumper suit superbly tailored is recommended, with a long coat to match. If, however, one wishes to begin the journey in a costume of simple elegance, yet of more formal aspect, why not choose one of the new stylish silk weaves? The mode enthusiastically endorses crepe faille, crepe satin and bengaline.

Ensemble of Crepe Faille.

The model in the picture suggests a delightsome honeymoon costume. The fact that it is crepe faille silk makes it ideal for summer time wear. In either wood-brown or navy blue, one might tastefully develop this ensemble. The simplicity of the coat insures a practical wrap with other frocks as well as with the one it complements. The manner in which the embroidered pocket-like panel holds the fullness of the skirt in place, is unique.

of the narrow valenciennes lace ruffings which gives it charm, together with an inset of wider lace.

A unique collar effect forming streamers at the back of the neck,

JULIA BOTTOMLEY

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Taken Too Lightly

There were 22,000 persons killed and 700,000 injured on American highways last year, 85 per cent of these accidents being due to the automobile.

"The road hog is too leniently treated," said Secretary Hoover, in a discussion of traffic conditions at a banquet. "We take his crimes in too light a manner.

"A road hog in a crimson racer upset Smith, and then came back to see if he was dead.

"'Are you dead, man?' he yelled.

"Smith answered with a gay laugh from the ditch where he lay with a broken leg:

"'Oh, no, not dead, dear boy—only run down.'"

Luxuries and Luxuries

Bulgaria has a special law to prevent the import of "luxury" goods. Under the heading of "luxury" come such things as perfumes, wines and expensive silks. But that is not all. Recently an American lady wishing to make a tour in the provinces, and having been warned that hotel rooms were not always of the cleanest, went to a chemist and asked for a bottle of insect powder. Judge of her astonishment when the salesman replied, "I am sorry, madam, but that is a luxury!"

CORNS

Lift Off—No Pain!

Doesn't hurt one bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers.

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the foot calluses, without soreness or irritation.

Museum for Tourists

Yosemite National park is going to have a museum for its tourists, where specimens and other exhibits from the park will be on view.

Universal Lament

Clothes Shape Our Ends.—Fashion caption. Possibly, but they make them harder to meet.—Exchange.

Important to All Women Readers of This Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition.

Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be despondent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine will do for them. By inclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., you may receive sample size bottle by Parcel Post. You can purchase medium and large size bottles at all drug stores.

Men have a touchstone whereby to try gold, but gold is the touchstone whereby to try men.—Fuller.

NEARLY INSANE AT TIMES

Mrs. Saunders Tells how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Relieved Troubles of Change of Life

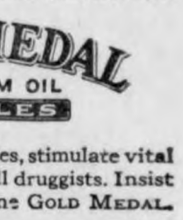
Knoxville, Tenn.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound while going through the Change of Life. I was very nervous, could not sleep and had melancholy spells. In fact, I was nearly insane at times and my memory was almost a blank. I was so weak I could not do my housework half of the time and suffered dreadfully with my back. My doctor said I would have to worry it out and I went through this for three years before I began taking the Vegetable Compound which I saw advertised. I think it was eight bottles that I took. It has been two years since I took any and I haven't had a doctor since for that trouble, I do all my washing and ironing and I have gained from 116 to 138 pounds. I feel so well I think I do not need any medicine now, but I advise all women who suffer physically and mentally as I did to give the Vegetable Compound a fair trial. I hope it will do as much for them as it did for me."—Mrs. T. A. SAUNDERS, 711 E. Depot Street, Knoxville, Tenn.

SPOHN'S DISTEMPER COMPOUND

Don't take chances of your horses or mules being laid up with Distemper, Influenza, Pink Eye, Laryngitis, Heaves, Coughs or Colds. Give "SPOHN'S" to both the sick and the well ones. The standard remedy for 30 years. Give "SPOHN'S" for Dog Distemper. 60 cents and $1.20 at drug stores. SPOHN MEDICAL CO. GOSHEN, IND.

Serious operation avoided
Resinol healed stubborn sore

Elyria, Ohio, March 1:—"I feel it my duty and pleasure to thank you for the wonderful cure your Resinol salve has wrought for my husband, who suffered from an open sore on the back of his neck for four years. Several doctors said that it was a cancer and advised its removal, but it was so near the base of the brain that we feared an operation. I had found Resinol Ointment so effective for cuts, burns and similar things that I induced my husband to try that. After using only two jars of Resinol, the sore entirely healed—every trace of it has disappeared. Resinol certainly was a God-send to us!" (Signed) Mrs. E. E. Kennedy, 243 E. 8th St.



FOR OVER 200 YEARS

haarlem oil has been a world-wide remedy for kidney, liver and bladder disorders, rheumatism, lumbago and uric acid conditions.

GOLD MEDAL HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES

correct internal troubles, stimulate vital organs. Three sizes. All druggists. Insist on the original genuine GOLD MEDAL.

Kill All Flies! THEY SPREAD DISEASE

Placed anywhere, DAISY FLY KILLER attracts and kills all flies. Neat, clean, ornamental, convenient and cheap. Lasts all season. Made of metal, can't spill or tip over; will not soil or injure anything. Guaranteed.

DAISY FLY KILLER at your dealer or 5 by EXPRESS, prepaid, $1.25.
HAROLD SOMERS, 150 De Kalb Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"ELECTRO-MEDICATED BATHS" Try them at home. Write your case for FREE TREATMENT, with full directions. Address DR. BAIR, DES MOINES, IA.

Mus—What purpose does that bridge serve on your violin?

Jean—Oh, that's to get the music across.

Priscilla Dean
the Favorite Universal Film Star says of the mysterious, distinctive
NEW GARDA ODOR
"Its strange, clinging delicacy always Is a source of delight."
Have you tried the NEW Garda Toiletries? If not, try them now. You will be charmed. This complete line of products issued by the great
HOUSE OF WATKINS
(Established 1868.)
WINONA, MINNESOTA.
consists of seven rich creations:
GARDA FACE POWDER, ROUGE, FACE CREAM, PERFUME, TOILET WATER, NAIL POLISH, TALCUM
Learn to know and love Garda, as millions of women are doing. Ask information about Garda Toilet Preparations and 137 other Products from
THE WATKINS RETAILER

Floyd Fraser

Jig Jog Jags

A Little Joshing Now and Then Will Get the Goat of Many Men

HONESTY

Mark Twain was called upon to speak at a club, and took for his subject "honesty". He said that when he was a boy at home he one day saw a cart of melons. He was a boy, and tempted; besides he liked melons.

"I sneaked up to that cart," he said, "and stole a melon. I went into an alley to devour it. But—I did no sooner set my teeth into it than I paused. A strange feeling came over me. I came to a quick conclusion. Firmly, I walked up to that cart, replaced the melon—and took a ripe one"

BREAKING TH ENEWS

A Scotchman woke up one morning to find that in the night his wife had passed away. He leaped from h s bed and ran horror stricken into the hall.

'Nellie," he called down stairs to the servant, "come to the foot of the stairs quick,"

"Yes, yes," shec ried, "What is it? What is it?"

"Boil only one egg for breakfast this morning,' 'he said.

LAST AND HARDEST

Teacher—What were the different ages in history?

Willie The stone age, bronze age, iron age.

Teacher—What age are we living in now?

Willie— The hardboiled age.

NOTHING SAID

Bng—What did your wife say when you got home last night?

Bng— She never said a word. And I was going to have those two front teeth pulled anyway.

Conductor—Say, young man, you can't ride to New York on this ticket. It's marked New Haven.

Young Man—That's all right. I'll ride backwards.

"Yeh, my sister had an awful fright last night.

"How was that "

"A big black spider ran up her arm."

"That's nothing. I've had a sewing machine run up the seam of my pants.

Our girl is so dumb she thinks that a baseball fan is a cooling device.

Guest—What's the matter with this coffee? It looks like mud.

Waiter—Yes, sir it was ground this morning.

Drain-pipes are in demand in darkest Africa. The natives use them as collars for giraffes.

"Catch me, Clarence, I'm dizzy.

"Wassamatter?"

'I been readin' a circular letter."

"Say, you can't smoke in this building."

"Who's smoking?"

"Welll, you got your ppe in your mouth."

"Yes and you got your pants on, but you ain't panting."

"Hey, bozo, why don't you brush your shoes once in a while?' '

"There's no hair on my shoes!"

Lux may come and Lux may go, but an unchanged roller towel goes on forever.

"Hey, black man, how come you high-hat me lately "

"Ain't you got no brains, low nigger, I'se jus' got a new razor, and I is itchin' and flirtin' fo' an opportunity to try it out.' '

The light was dim and the man crouched over the dial as he turned it cautoiously. A policeman passed by, glanced in the window, and then continued his slow walk.

No, the man did not finally get station WOOF. He was trying to open a safe. He did. After picking up a small box in the vault he hurridly left the building.

It was the bank president in search of a box of his favorite cigars.

No, the joke isn' t on anybody. Who said this was a joke?

She—Do you think a girl should learn to love before twenty?.

He—Nope, too large an audience.

Left—My shoes am tight.

Right—Kwit rubbin yo feet wif alkahol.

"You say you flunked in German? Why, I can't understand it."

"Same her. That's why I funked.'

VOICE FROM A "FIERCE SPARROW"

Sheik—Hello kid, tired walking?

Sheba—Yeh!

Sheik—Then try sitting on the curbstone a while."

A pretzel is a doughnut gone crazy.

"I know my eggs," said the hen as she scratched the china egg out of the nest.

"Katherine, George brought you home very late last night."

"Yes, it was late, mother. Did the noise disturb you?"

"No, dear, it wasn't the noise. It was the silence.

Nig I—Boy, Ah comes from a tough family. Mah ole man done cut his nails wif an ax, and brush his teef wif a file."

Nig II— Huh, that ain't so tough. Mah old man am a plumber, and de done shaves hisself wif a blow-torch.

Klemme, Iowa,
ON FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 22

ORDINANCE 40

An Ordinance Prohibiting the Manufacture and Sale and the Keeping for Sale of Intoxicating Liquors and Defining Bootlegging and Prescribing a Penalty Therfor

Be it ordained by the Town Council of the Incorporated town of Klemme, Hancock County, Iowa:

SECTION ONE, Manufacture, Distilling, Sale or Keeping for Sale Prohibited. No one, by himself, clerk, servant, employe or agent, shall, for himself or any person else, directly or indirectly, or upon any pretense, or any device, manufacture, distill, sell, exchange, barter, dispense, give in consideration of the purchase of any property or of any services or in evasion of this ordinance, or keep for sale, any intoxicating liquor, which term shall be construed to mean alcohol, ale, wine, beer, spirituous vinous and malt liquor, or intoxicating liquor made from grains or fruit, and all intoxicating liquor whatever, except as provided in this ordinance, or solicit, take or accept any order for the purchase, sale, shipment, or delivery of any such liquor, or aid in the delivery and distribution of any intoxicating liquor so ordered or shipped, or own, keep, or be in any way concerned, engaged or employed in owning or keeping any intoxicating liquor with intent to violate any provision of this ordinance, or authorize or permit the same to be done; and any clerk, servant, employe or agent engaged or aiding in any violation of this ordinace shall be charged and convicted as principal.

SECTION TWO. In case of sale in which a shipment or delivery of such liquors defined in Section One hereof, is made by a common or other carrier, the sale thereof shall be deemed to have been made in the place where the delivery thereof is made by such carrier to the consignee, his or her agent or employe.

SECTION THREE Defining Bootlegging Any person, who shall by himself or his employe, servant or agent, for himself or any person, company, or corporation keep or carry around on his person or in a vehicle or leave in a place for another to secure, any intoxicating liquor as defined in Section One hereof with intent to sell or dispose of the same by gift or otherwise, or who shall within the incorporated town of Klemme, in any manner, directly or indirectly, solicit, take or accept any order for the sale, shipment or delivery of intoxicating liquors defined in Section One herof, in violation of this ordinance, shall be termed a bootlegger and shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

SECTION FOUR. Penalty. Any person, persons, firm, company or corporation found guilty of violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be punished by a fine not to exceed one hundred ($100.00) Dollars, and costs, and in default thereof shall be imprisoned not to exceed thirty days.

SECTION FIVE. This ordinance shall take effect and be in full force from and after its passage and publication in the Klemme Times as provided by law.

Dated at Klemme, Iowa, this 4th day of May, 1925.

F. GRUETZMACHER, Mayor

Attest:

A. J. Kudje, Town Clerk

(SEAL)

ADVERTISING IS

Telling otthers things you would like them to know.

Speakin g to the multitude instead of to a few.

Telling a story in a day that would otherwise take a year.

Saving time by multiplying your sales-appeal.

Letting everybody know what only a few know about your goods.

Going to the public instead of waiting for the public to come to you.

Making you business safe for success.

Sowing the seeds of ideas that grow into sales and what is more—good will.

A wholesale reminder to the public of what you have to offer.

Telling again and again the things that the public ought to know.

Re-creating in the minds of the public the sales idea in your own mind.

Increasing the radius of your suc cess by increasing the radius of your sales-appead.

Telling thes try in print instead of in person.

A method of multiplied telling of the facts that is the most economical.

By means of making personal effort more productive.

Making your voice reach from house to house.

In Washington 62,000 goevrnment clerks are to be vaccinated against smallpox, which may be another way of seeing that they come up to scratch.

In trying to act as umpire between Germany and France Great Britain is liable to find out what usually happens to the umpire.

Some health authorities claim that tera-ethyl gasoline is poisonous and unsafe but if this were true wouldn't the bootleggers have been using it long ago?

Up in New York they now have what they call milk bootleggers, which shows that they are not even neglecting the children.

Telephone service in Chicago requires 2,250,000 miles of wire, enough to go 90 times around the earth.

THIS IS THE RIGHT PLACE

To buy your Cigars, Cigarettes, Smoking and Chewing Tobacco—our stock is always nice and fresh.

We carry a complete line of box and bulk fancy candy.

Refreshing soft drings.

And, why not step in and play a social game of pool while in town?

SMITH'S BILLARD HALL

Fares surprisingly low

Rock Island

tours of the Scenic West

Colorado Yellowstone California

You can visit any one or all of the West's great scenic regions in one low-fare tour. Route of the ROCKY MOUNTAIN LIMITED to Colorado [direct line to both Denver and Colorado Springs] and the all-Pullman GOLDEN STATE LIMITED to California. All meals in dining cars.

Choice of routes. Go one way; return another. Stop over anywhere. A go-as-you-please vacation.

Ask for illustrated books and full information. It will help you in your planning.

M. O. BARR, AGENT

C. C. Gardner, As'st Gen'l Pass. Ag't
Rock Island Lines
600 Royal Life Bldg, Des Moines, Ia.

Rock Island Lines

One Hour
Sugar Special

Saturday Afternoon

Buy your cane sugar now at the lowest price in years, at the following price while the supply lasts

100 pound sack $6.39

From 3:00 to 4:00 o'clock only
One sack to a customer

Abraham & Sons

Garner Iowa

CULTIVATORS

We have on hand a few: — M. H. John Deere Two-row Cultivators; V. B.Leverless Deere 6 Shovel; R. C. Hammock seat Deere, 6 shovel, corn plows.

How about new shovels and shovel points for your old corn plow?

BARGAINS

1—150 tooth Boss Harrow	$27.00
1—160 tooth Flexible 20 Ft. Harrow	$43.00
1—160 tooth Flexible 20 Ft. Harrow	$45.00
1—Hoosier End-gate Seeder	$20.00
1—10 Ft. M. C. Disc Harrow	$75.00

OPEN EVERY EVENING

L. W. WESENBERG
GOODELL, IOWA

Fishing and Camping Supplies--

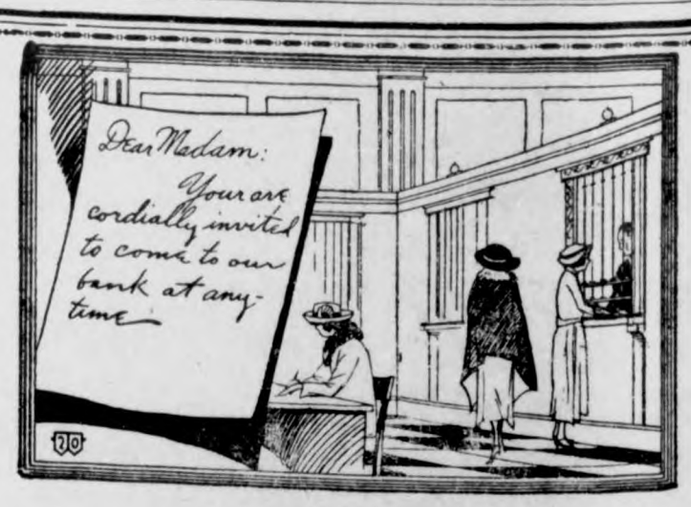
We are headquarters for Fishing and Camping Supplies and you will find a full line at this store:

RODS and REELS, all kinds.
REEL LINES, all stengths and kinds.
HOOKS, ARTIFICIAL BAITS, ETC.
STRINGERS, BUCKETS, SCALERS.
FLOATS, SINKERS, LEADERS.
PORK RINE, SPINNERS, ETC.
BAMBOO POLES, big assortment.

CAMPING SUPPLIES

KAMP KOOK, the ideal gas stove.
FOLDING CHAIRS.
COLEMAN LANTERNS.
CAMP COOKING UTENSILS.
FLASH LIGHTS, Etc.

Jacobs & Son



An Invitation

Women get much satisfaction from managing their own affairs.

Every day ladies come to this bank. Whatever business you may have to transact will be taken care of in an efficient manner.

You are cordially invited to come in at any time.

First National Bank,
KLEMME, IOWA.

THE KLEMME TIMES

Twenty-ninth Year—Number 37. Klemme, Iowa, Thursday, May 21, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

THE CLASS OF 1925

CLASS HISTORY OF CLASS OF 1925

was sitting 'round and thinking,
What a fine world this would be there wasn't any the studies,
Such as dry old history.

nd O! How very happy,
Would be this world of ours,
there wasn't any physics
To fill our leisure hours.

wish that all these languages,
We try so hard to expound,
ch as Latin, French and Spanish,
Had never been handed down.

t what could be worse than Geometry,
And stuff along that line?
d the man who doped out Chemistry
Surely wasted a lot of time.

t I bet just the same, we'll be sad
When the long school year is through.
pecially those who graduate,
When '25 is through.

As we look back over the years ich this occasion closes, among many memories which come wding to our minds; of success failure, victory and defeat, work pleasure; only the outstanding tures will we try to record.

Twelve years ago seven of our ss started to school in the first de in this building, with Mrs Levi ese as our teacher. Another mem of our class started at the Bel-nd school the same year and the maining two started in the rural rict. After eight years this class, er passing the county examina-ns, made their debut into High ool, eight starting in Klemme, e in Garner and One in Belmond.
This year, being our fisrt in High ool holds the most pleasant memes of all. With Professor Wilson
Miss McKahan as our teachers, began in the ninth grade. Of the subjects, which we took that r, perhaps the most interesting was community civics, under fessor Wilson, with debates givevery two weeks. And during this e year in biology under the same ructor, we became champion but-fly catchers and pursuers of rare cimens which we mounted. About time we challenged the Seniors
'21 to a Debate on the question:
solved, that the resources of the ted States should be owned and rated by the Federal Governn-nt," with Howard Wiles, Adolph ritzen, and Edwin Bock repre-
ting the seniors on the negative and Neota Ridder, Leona Lau,
John Baumgartner, who left K.
S. at the close of the Freshman , representing the Freshmen, on affirmative side. The decision two to one in fovar of the Sen-

'e observed Arbor Day this year planting a walnut tree, which we ed York in honor of the World veteran.
'e also sent two of our class to County Declamatory contest, placing.
his year was also the first year school had basket ball teams, e of the class being on the first ns, two girls, Neota and Leona one boy, Gerald. Our gym was t is now the Greimann Motor Co.
ee of the boys eere also on the ball team, Andrew, Glen and Ger his eventful year closed with the ual picnic.

'e started our sophomore year,
Mr. Neese as our Superintend-and Miss Mc Kahan remaining rincipal, in the room, which is occupied by the 7th and 8th les.
his year two of our class took place in the preliminaries of Declamatory contest, Adela and rine.
High school debate was held, hich Gerald, Andrew, Neota and a took part. The question was:
solved: That Labor unions
ld be abolished.
everal parties were held under
First National Bank, each class rtaining.
here were no basket ball teams, year, as we had no coach, but same boys playing on the ball team as did the previous year.

This eventful year closed with the annual picnic.

The next year started in the remodeled building with three new teachers under Superintendent Neese Principal Esther Stacy, Miss Edna Sharlarch, and last but best liked by all the pupils was Earl Perrin Trigilgus, who was mathamatics teacher and coach.

This year, for the first time in the Klemme school, Home Economics and Manual training were taught as a part of the regular schedule.

The Public Speaking class gave two plays under the direction of Miss Stacy for the benefit. Five Juniors also had important parts in the Senior Class play, "Clarence".

This year one of our class took first in the preliminaries of the Declamatory contest also. As a part of our public speaking course we gave a high school party in the gym.

The ninth grade gave a party for their class at which the ice cream mysteriously vanished. The Seniors wonder where it disappeared.

This year under the able coaching of Coach Tregilgus our boys entered the basket ball tournament at Britt and brought home a cup. It was bright, shining tin, with the names of the team and coach beautifully engraved on it with a lovely blue crayon.

The boys also went to a baseball tournament at Kanawha and track meet at Britt, getting nothing but experience.

The girls basket ball team was under the coaching of Miss Stacy. The team winning a majority of its' games, having 165 points to their op ponents 120. Our best game was with Britt, with a score of41 to 4.

The home Economics girls gave a four course luncheon to the manuel training boys and Coach Tregilgus as their semester test. The menu was as follows:

FIRST COURSE
Fruit Cocktail.
SECOND COURSE
Riced Potatoes Creamed Peas
Roast Chicken and Dressing
Celery . Pickles Olives
THIRD COURSE
Waldorf Salad Wafers
FOURTH COURSE
Banana Ice Nut Cake
Chocolate

And this eventful year closed with the annual picnic.

The Senior class of 1924 gave and bequeathed all the rights and name as serious seniors to the Jolly Juniors which we, with all dignity, accept. The main activity of this year was a Hallowe'en party, given by the Seniors.

The basket ball teams under the coaching of Miss Able and Mr. Blue were about the same line-up as the year before. Three changes on the girls' team and one on the boys'.

The boys attended two tournament the state sectional at Britt and the county at Cowith. Both teams got new suits this year, white with green trimming, making the best appearance of any teams around Klemme.

At the close of the season, letters were awarded for baseball as well as basket ball. Gerald was given a letter for being captain of the baseball team. Glen and Andrew also re ceived letters and Neota, Leona, Maurine and Adela received letters for basket ball.

For the second time ou boys enter ed the county track meet at Britt getting seven points or, second in Shot Put, Third in Discus and Third in Mile.

The last part of the year the Seniors were very busy. Play practice, preparation for baccaulaureate and Commencement kept them busy.

At this time the Juniors entertain ed the Seniors at Bayside Amusement with a picnic.

A very delicious lunch was served after which the time was spent in skating and other amusements. The Seniors also enjoyed the lunches given by the class at play practice

And as this eventful year nears its close, we sincerely hope it shall close with the annual picnic.

Written by Neota Ridder and Leona Lau.

Just a little touch of sadness,
Just a tear drop in the eye,
When we think that on the morrow
'25 must say Good-bye.

Say Good-bye, but not forever,
For we hope to meet some day,
In the nearer distant future,
On life's road along the way.

Maybe in some palatial mansion,
Maybe in some Hall of Fame,
We shall meet and greet some classmate
With a stateman's honored name

Or perhaps in patchs more lowly,
Some will live out their whole span
In some "house beside the roadway"
And be just a "friend to man".

So the little touch of sadness
Lingers in our hearts today,
As we part with much loved teachers,
Moulders of the potters clay.

SENIOR CLASS PROPHCEY

"How remarkable that so many of the Class of 1925 should be sitting here at this table" , someone remarked. "But we were always a remarkable class", came the answer.

It was a wonderful June evening in 1935 and our class had assembled for a reunion at the beautiful summer home of the Wellemeyer's at Rockway Beach, New York. Andrew had met his wife at Princeton Univer sity and she was an ideal hostess. Andrew was as busy as ever with his scientific research on sources of electricity. He had written a great many books and was visited yearly by scientists from all over the world.

But there was one vacant chair. Sylvanus Wacker was in China and headed a Missionary party.

Adela Schroeder had been abroad studying music, but had returned for the class Reunion.

Maurine Hake and Faith Ax were able to enjoy the company of the Wellemeyer's oftener than the rest of us because Maurine was head nurse at a prominent New York City hospital. Her work for the suffering humanity had made her a second Florence Nightingale. Faith was Superintendent of public instruction of New York and had just completed a book on "Child Welfare."

It was pleasant surprise to all of us when we learned that Leona Lau had in the course of ten years, married a Congregational minister, none other than our old class mate, Glen Busch. Their pastorial work in thec ity of Des Moines was so extensive than an assistant was needed

Neota Ridder was there and gave us many new ideas on latest designs of hair and dress as she had just returned from Paris with her husband where she had been teaching at the

Continued on Back Page

KLEMME HIGH SCHOOL

Commencement Program

AUDITORIUM

Thursday Evening, May 21, 1925

8:00 P. M.

—'25—

Processional

Music ..... Girls Chorus

Address ..... Dr. Waterman
University Of Iowa, Iowa City.

Music ..... Girls Chorus

Presentation of Diplomas ..... A. D. Gimer
President of the School Board

Class Song ..... Graduating Class
Written by Adela Schroeder

Benediction ..... Rev. Gauger

Recessional

(This space contributed by The Klemme Times.)

Real Estate Transfers

H. J. Bailey wf to A. D. Gimer, W d date 4-29-25, $600.00 a tract of land 103 ft N & S by 225 ft 1 & W in out lot 1 of Klemmes add to Klem me.

John Jordan, Referre et al to Jacob F. Henn, Referees deed, date 2-28 35, $19,200.00 SE¼ 34-94-23.

John Jordan et al to Jacob F. Henn, Refer es deed, date 2-82-25, $19,200.00 SE¼ 34-94-25.

N. P Nelson, Guardian to Chas Anderson, Guardjan's deed date 4-1 25, $400.00 lots 10-11-12, blk. 11, Britt.

B.. F. Lew wf to Hancock county Easement for public highway, of 02 a in N¼ cor. of 28-96-25, date 5-9-25, $50.00.

B. F. Leff wife to Hancock County Easement for public highway, of 02 a N of center line in 28-96-25, date 5-9-25, $25.00.

Mary Williams to Agn s M Korn Q C D date 3-28-25, $100 lot 4, Aud itors Plat Britt

C. F. Chapman wf et al to C. M. Chapman Q C D date 5-5-25 $100 lots 18-19-20-21 blk Way & Carpenters add Britt

Isaac Sweigard, Guardian to W F Millard Guardians Deed date 5-23-25, $280.50 lot 17 blk 47 Garner.

ELL TOWNSHIP FORM BUREAU MEETING

There will be a regular monthly Farm bureau meeting at the Ell Center School house, Thursday evening, May 28.

A program has been arranged for. Moving pictures will bes hown.

Everybody come!

INVENTS 4-ROW CORN PLANTER

Robert. J. Lee, who lives 3½ miles south of Wesley, has in operation a four-row corn planter of his own invention, and is doing all of his planting this season with the machine. Four horses are required to operate the planter, but one man does the work of two. The new invention works perfectly and undoubtedly is the coming planter for large farmers. One man and four horses can plant a lot of corn in one day.—Wesley News-World.

CITY DADS PLAN WATER WORKS IMPROVEMENTS

Mayor Gruetzmacher informed us the other day that the Town Council were figuring on making some needed improvements on the city water system. They plan to add another air pressure tank to the system similar to the one now at the pumping station. The cost of such a tank will cost less than $2,000, whereas a water tower will cost approximately $13,000 according to the figures received.

They also plan to install another well some time in the future as the present well is hardly large enough to take care of the increased demand for city water.

These improvements are needed, as the present system is inadequate, especially in case of fire as the one tank will not take care of an emergency.

The council have as yet done nothing definite and are only laying out plans and get cost figures.

INVENTS NEW STYLE RADIUS ROD FOR FORDS

Mr. Prilipp, of Meservey, was a business caller at the Times Office Monday evening to have some printing done. Mr. Prilipp recently invented and patented a new style radius rod for a Ford car which is a great improvement over the old od. Jay Griggs and Mr. Prilipp are having the rods manufactured and are finding a ready sale for them.

MEMORIAL DAY TO BE OBSERVED HERE SUNDAY, MAY 31

Memorial Day will be observed in Klemme on Sunday, May 31st this year. Rev. Van Meter, of Garner will deliver the address. The services will be held at the Park beginning at 2:00 P. M. and will be under the auspices of the Klemme Legion. A complete program will be published in the Times next week.

FIND TUBERCULOSIS IN HORSE

Only Three Cases Have Ever Come to Attention at Ames

Tuberculosis in horses is a disease rarely occurring and probably still less frequently diagnosed as such, according to Dr. C. D. Rice, veterinorian, Iowa State College. The third case ever to come to the attention of the college division of veterinary medicine has recently been unearthed by Dr. P. O. Dorweiler of West Bend, Palo Alto county.

Dr. Dorweiler performed an autopsy on a horse and sent a speciman of the liver to Ames for an investigation, which confirmed his suspicion that tuberculosis was present. An attempt is now being made by Dr. Rice to isolate the organism and establish its identity as being of the bovine or ovian type. He is also attempting to trace the history of the case to discover how the animal contracted the disease.

Besides demonstrating the value of the autopsy, this case is of special signifance because its suggests the danger from feeding diseased carcasses of hogs or chickens, and demonstrates the importance of considering the health of the horse along with the eradication of tuberculosis from cattle, Says Dr. Rice.

DR. RUEBER BUILDING NEW OFFICE AT SHEFFIELD

Sheffield, May 15.—Dr. Rueber is having a new office erected on the old site. It is to be strictly modern, 32x18 feet with basement. It is to be of fireproof consruction, consisting of three rooms and a small store room for drugs.

Fifty inmates were transfered rebeeble-minded at Glenwood to the epileptic colony at Woodward. A special car was provided and several guards and nurses occompanied the inmates to their new home. Train schedules were so utilized that the journey was made in daylight. It was a novel experience with the unfortunates.

FIRST MONTHLY REPORT OF THE COW TEST ASSOCIATION

Fred Kothenbeutal Takes Honors; B. H. Katter's Seven Cows Produce most Fat per Average

The Hancock County Cow Test Association Number 3, which started up between Klemme and Garner, about the first of April has made a very favorable report for the first month.

There are twenty-five members in the association at the present time, and these members had 254 cows under test for the month of April.

Twenty-four cows produced over 40 pounds of butterfat and four produced over fifty The average production of all the cows milked this month was 691.054 pounds milk and 25 pounds butterfat.

"Whitichin" a grade Guernsey, owned by Fred Kothenbeutal, was high producer for the month. She produced 1,455 pounds of milk, at a test of 4.4% which gave her a butterfat production of 64 pounds.

B. H. Katter had the highest average of any one in the association, but owing to the fact that there must be eight cows under test before it can be called a "herd", the honor of best "herd production" also goes to Mr. Kothenbeutal.

Five High Herds for Month of April

Owner	Breed	Milk	Fat
Fred Kothenbeutal	G. G.
W. H Greiman	G & P H
John Bock	G & P H
E G .Beier	G & P H
Art Upmeyer	G H &G Sh
No. Cows		Milk	Fat
14		751.28	34.5
16		1049.1	33.2
10		911.1	30.9
15		950.96	30.7
8		763.13	30.7

B. H. Katter and Victor Hueneman both had high averages, but owing to the fact that they did not have enough cattle to come under the herd heading we will give their averaged below:

Owner	Breed	Milk	Fat
B. H. Katter	P. H.
Victor Hueneman	PBH&GS
No. Cows		Milk	Fat
7		976.3	35.11
5		885.3	32.7

Cows Producing Over 50 Pounds Butterfat

Owners Name	Cow's Name
Fred Kothenbeutal	Whitichin
Fred Kothenbeutal	Big Teater
Fred Kothenbeautal	Scarecrow
R. W. Elder	Hick
Breed	Milk	Test	Fat
G. G.	1455	4.4	64
G. G.	1470	3.7	54.4
G G	996	5.2	52
G H	1275	4.1	52.3

Joseph Stritar, Official Tester.

KLEMME YOUNG MEN ATTEND AMES VEISHEA

Clarence Elder, Jack Wellemeyer, Glenn Busch, and Frank Gibbs left early Saturday morning for Ames to take in the "Veishea" doings staged by the college. This event is the annual open house for visitors at Iowa State College. The word "Veishea" is made up from the first letters of the courses offered as: Veterinary, Engineering, Industrial Science, Home Economics and Agriculture. The boys returned home Sunday and were greatly pleased with their trip to this beautiful and practical Iowa College.

NEW TRAIN SCHEDULE TOOK EFFECT MONDAY

The new time schedule of the C. R. I. & P. went into effect Monday and now we are just getting accustomed to the change of trains and the arrival of mail. The first train now arrives from the south at 8:10 A. M. and the mail route leaves with morning mail from this train about 9:00 o'clock. The noon train and early afternoon train has been taken off and replaced with the new schedule in time. The afternoon train goes south at 4:35 o'clock. Remember the change in time. A schedule will be found elsewhere in this issue for both passenger and freight trains.

THE BLUE CIRCLE

CHAPTER XI—Continued

—20—

By Elizabeth Jordan

(© by The Century Co.)
WNU Service.

He looked at his watch. It was half-past five. He and Verity Campbell must have been in that infernal closet almost two hours. Would she come down to dinner? He hoped and believed she would. The strength of his wish to see her at the table was, though he did not realize it, the unconscious repudiation of the foreigner's hothouse charm. He did not care to repeat that tea hour tete-a-tete. It had been a fascinating experience—one that largely owed its charm to its unexpectedness. Now he wanted to see the young loveliness of Verity at the table, to discover whether the color had come back to her beautiful face, to watch her and to listen to her voice. He did not ask himself why he desired these things, but if he had the answer would have been prompt enough. He merely wished to be certain that the girl was herself again—that she felt no ill effects of the afternoon experience.

His first glance at her as they entered the dining room and took their places at the table was reassuring. She looked exactly as usual, though possibly even lovelier. The evening gown she wore was one he had not seen before, a shimmering thing of white and silver, set off by a long, double-looped chain of pearls, over the beauty of which Madame Hvoeslef at once exclaimed.

"But I love you in those, cherie," she said. "I always rejoice when you wear them. Pearls were made for you. You should wear no other jewels."

"These were Aunt Katharine's," Verity explained. "She gave them to me on my last birthday. They came down to her from her great-grandmother, and every generation since has added to the necklace, until now there is really too much of it. I feel like a Christmas tree festooned with popcorn when I have it on."

"But it is perfect. It is one of the finest I have seen—and that says much."

Verity changed the subject. "Did you see grandfather before you came down?" she asked Renshaw.

"I looked in for a moment, but he was asleep or still unconscious—I don't know which."

Doctor Morris momentarily suspended the vigorous operation of his knife and fork.

"He's very restless in his semi-conscious intervals," he remarked. "There's something on his mind. He's apprehensive—thinks he's too old to get over this, I suppose. It will be better if he doesn't fully regain consciousness for a day or two. Worry is the worst thing in the world for him, as I've said before."

"Can he speak yet?"

Renshaw asked the question. He observed that Jenks, busy at the sideboard, remained motionless till he heard the answer.

"He tried to, but we won't let him. Everything depends on keeping him quiet."

The manner of Morris was less assured than it had been in the morning. Apparently he had not been wholly satisfied with the report of the day nurse, who had arrived after luncheon and had spent the intervals with his patient.

Seeing the eyes of Verity widen in alarm, Renshaw broke in on the reflections that Morris seemed to be addressing to himself rather than to his table companions.

"All that is natural enough," he casually contributed. "Mr. Campbell is always anxious about his health. He is the type to take his illness very seriously for a day or two, till you convince him that he is on the mend."

"I suppose so." Morris' words were non-committal, but his expression brightened. He ate his dinner with his usual appreciation and strict attention to the enterprise.

Catching Verity's glance, Renshaw smiled at her reassuringly, and received a rather tremulous smile in return. No reference whatever had been made to the closet episode. It was clear that neither Morris nor Madame Hvoeslef had heard of it. It became clear that they were not to hear of it—that an unspoken but understood order to that effect had been issued. No one would know of it save Jenks, and the discretion of Jenks, as far as members of the family were concerned, could be relied upon.

After dinner Morris found time for a short aside to the secretary:

"The old man's worrying about something. I don't know just what—but it isn't good for him."

Renshaw nodded.

"I was afraid he would. If you will let me speak to him, and if he understands, I think I may help to quiet him."

"Know what he's worrying about?"

"Not entirely, but I have a suspicion. Anyway, let me see what I can do."

"All right. Come in with me now."

Morris led the way to the sick room with long strides, which Renshaw easily matched. They found the patient lying very still, with his eyes closed. An efficient-looking trained nurse rose from her chair by the bedside as they approached.

"He's not asleep," she said softly. "He has been asking for someone—Renshaw, I think the name was."

Renshaw leaned over the thin figure stretched out in such pathetic helplessness. The features of the fine old face were drawn into a pucker, as if by taut nerves.

"Mr. Campbell," he said, speaking very clearly.

The blue eyes of David Campbell opened and fixed themselves on the eyes above them. Something flashed in them—a light, a question, an appeal. Whatever it was, the secretary tried to respond to it.

"You're getting on finely, sir," he said, very slowly and distinctly. "We are all so glad. And I want to report that I am keeping my eyes wide open. I think I understand what you meant. I have taken precautions. I am on the job. Please leave everything to me."

The childish pucker died out of the face. The look in the blue eyes—a look made up of anxiety, of fear, with even a suggestion of terror, changed to one of acquiescence. The stiff lips tried to speak, and finally brought out a word:

"Right!"

One of the old man's hands groped toward him. Renshaw took it and pressed it warmly.

"Trust me," he said. "Don't worry. Good-night."

The hand in his responded to his pressure with unexpected strength. He nodded to the nurse and doctor, and left the room. In the hall, however, he discovered that Morris had followed him.

"What's he worrying about?" the physician abruptly demanded.

"Probably just the little mystery that concerned Madame Hvoeslef, and that's all over now."

Morris shook his head.

"It's nothing small," he maintained. "That look in the old fellow's eyes is unmistakable. It's fear. By Jove—" he thrust his hands in his trousers pockets, took a turn in the hall, and, coming back to Renshaw, gave him the rest of the sentence face to face—"it amounts to terror! Didn't you see it?"

"Isn't it, perhaps, the fear of death?"

Renshaw was thinking fast. How much, if anything, could he tell this man? He would make an experiment.

"Possibly he's heard or seen something he doesn't like," he said guardedly. "This is an old house, and odd things—"

Morris impatiently shook his head.

"Nonsense," he interrupted. "Stanley told me about that foreign manuscript business. I don't think a man as sane as Campbell would let himself get fussed up over anything of that sort. Even if he did, he'd get a local constable or someone to keep watch—and then he'd forget it."

Chapter XII

John R. Hamilton.

Following the arrival of Doctor Stanley, who breezed into the sick room at noon the next day, the strained atmosphere of Tawno Ker lightened still more. Doctor Stanley was gratified by the condition of his patient, and said so. He approved of the nurses, and was careful to let them see that he did. He liked Morris as a man and considered him a good type of common-sense, country practitioner; and he allowed Morris to infer that his opinion was much more enthusiastic than this.

Morris felt on such intimate terms with the world in general, and the great Stanley in particular, that after the professional consultation in the study, which followed an excellent luncheon, he felt privileged to refer to the case of Renshaw. Isn't he still rather—well—rather hipped?"

"Only on one point. He's got, or had, just one obsession left. He is, or was, afraid he can't make a living. He'll get over that in a hurry. It's particularly idiotic when one considers his record." He stopped and glanced quizzically at the other man. "Have you any idea who he is?"

"No. Is he anyone in particular?"

"Rather!"

Stanley's eyes twinkled. He enjoyed getting a rise out of the country doctor, especially since the latter had put on this know-it-all and man-of-the-world air.

"He's John R. Hamilton," he added casually. "I suppose the 'R' stands for Renshaw, though he never used the name till he went to the sanatorium and dropped the Hamilton."

Morris gazed at him, goggle-eyed.

"John R. Hamilton, the financial expert and amateur athlete?"

"Yep. Unusual combination, isn't it? Prodigy at eighteen. Wrote most of our authoritative works on banking and finance before he was thirty. Financial advisor to the government. Treasurer of one of the biggest trust companies. Helped to establish the currency system of half a dozen countries. Has had standard coins named after him by grateful nations. Incidentally, found time to carry off all sorts of honors in sports. That's Renshaw!"

"Good Lord! Of course it was the Adenic tragedy that knocked him out. Didn't he and his mother and sister and little niece drift around in a lifeboat all night, after their ship was torpedoed? I remember reading about it at the time—"

"Yes; and he had to watch his mother and sister and the child die slowly of cold and exhaustion. They were his entire family. His twin sister was Mrs. Richard Vandewater, you know. She was a young widow, and incidentally the most beautiful woman I ever knew," Stanley mused, "as well as about the most charming. The devotion between her and her brother was unique. They were inseparable. They say he worked like a demon that night to keep her alive—even made her get out of the lifeboat with him and swim for a time—that kind of thing. But when the mother and the child died, toward dawn, Mrs. Vandewater's nerve went, and she lived only two hours longer. Did you ever hear what Renshaw did after his rescue?"

Morris shook his head.

"He pulled some wires, entered the secret service, and went to Germany to meet up with the submarine commander on one of his shore leaves. It seems that the fellow had remained upon the surface, laughing at the passengers in the lifeboats. Also, he had invited Mrs. Vandewater into the submarine—his idea of a little joke. The story is that Renshaw finally got him and killed him in an open fight. I don't know whether that part of the yarn is true. Anyhow, they got Renshaw. He escaped within a year, but the things they put him through, added to the Adenic tragedy, landed him in the sanatorium. They would have landed anyone else in his grave."

"They would." Morris spoke with rare humility. "It's amazing that he has come through."

"His father was an old friend of mine," Stanley went on, "so I did what I could for the son. I promised him," he added robustly, "that he would be as well as he ever was, and he is. The only difficulty is to make him realize it. His company has a twenty-five-thousand-dollar-a-year job for him when he is ready to begin real work. You're going back home today. I hear?"

"Yes, if you think it is safe." Morris spoke with obvious regret. "With two nurses in the house and the patient getting on so well, I really have no excuse for staying longer—and a lot of my patients are feeling injured. But I'll come over every day, of course."

"Better make it twice a day, for a week or two. Look in early every morning and late every afternoon—say around tea time," he added without malice. "There's not more than one chance in a hundred that anything will go wrong, but we don't want to take that. I'll be out again Sunday—in time for lunch," he added with a twinkle.

The house seemed unexpectedly lonely without Morris' homely but comforting presence. Renshaw, working in the study all afternoon, and not stopping for tea, did not observe the change until the dinner hour. Then he found at the table only Verity and a wan Mrs. Pardee, whose heroic upward struggle from a couch of pain had been made possible, it appeared, only by the lady's unselfish devotion to others.

Verity, Renshaw observed with satisfaction, showed no evidence of the ordeal of the previous day. It was increasingly plain that the episode was to remain her secret and his, unless one counted Jenks. Renshaw did count Jenks. He also counted James and Annie. Hart might or might not be included in the little coterie that, in the servants' quarters, discussed the incident.

When the meal was over, Renshaw accompanied the two women to the door and held it open for them. Then, returning to the table, he took a cigarette from the box Jenks offered him, lit it at the flame the attentive servitor also provided, and leaned back in his chair, ostentatiously abstracted, but in reality alert and watchful. That the two servants resented his presence he was quite aware. He drank his coffee, sipped cordial with calm enjoyment, and followed to their hinterlands the mental processes of the men in the room with an accuracy that would have amazed them if they had been able to follow his.

Renshaw prolonged his smoke and cordial-sipping to the last possible moment. He was intrigued by this atmosphere of intense but controlled resentment, by glimpses of unlooked-for expression in previously expressionless faces whose masks were slipping aside.

He returned to the living room with a reluctance due to his expectation of finding Mrs. Pardee there. But the strain of the dinner hour had been the limit of her endurance. Verity, alone before the fire, was buried in the depths of her grandfather's pet chair.

"I have not had a chance to thank you for—for—the way you acted yesterday," she said in a low tone. "You were splendid. I shall never forget it."

He found his voice.

"You exaggerated that little episode at the time," he said gently, "and you are exaggerating it still."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

First Coinage of Silver

Silver was first coined on the Isle of Aegina. Here the ancient Greeks stamped a turtle on their first silver coins over 700 years before the Christian era. The first silver coins in the United States were issued by the Massachusetts colony, which minted small silver coins, familiarly known as the pine-tree shillings. The mint was closed by order of the crown in 1684. The first coins made by the United States government were in 1793.

Papal Triple Crown

The tiara, a high cap of gold cloth, encircled by three coronets, with a mound and cross of gold at the top, is the triple crown of the pope. It is ornamented with precious stones and pearls, and is decorated with three royal diadems. It is without inscription. A symbolic meaning has been found in the triple crown, as representing the authority of the pope over the church "militant, expectant and triumphant."

STYLISTS POINT WITH PRIDE TO SUMMER FROCKS OF VOILE

IF GENTLE spring were to come walking in, with a frown on her face and no daffodils, apple blossoms or lilacs in her arms, she would hear some grumbling on every hand. But if she were to arrive without a train of sheer, dainty, colorful cotton fabrics, a riot of protest would storm about her. But she doesn't take any such chance—always lovely voiles, organdies, mulls and the like drift in and are usually well launched before even the peach trees have put on their spring pink. Sometimes one of these fabrics and sometimes another dominates the styles created for midsummer's gayeties—and worn almost anywhere.

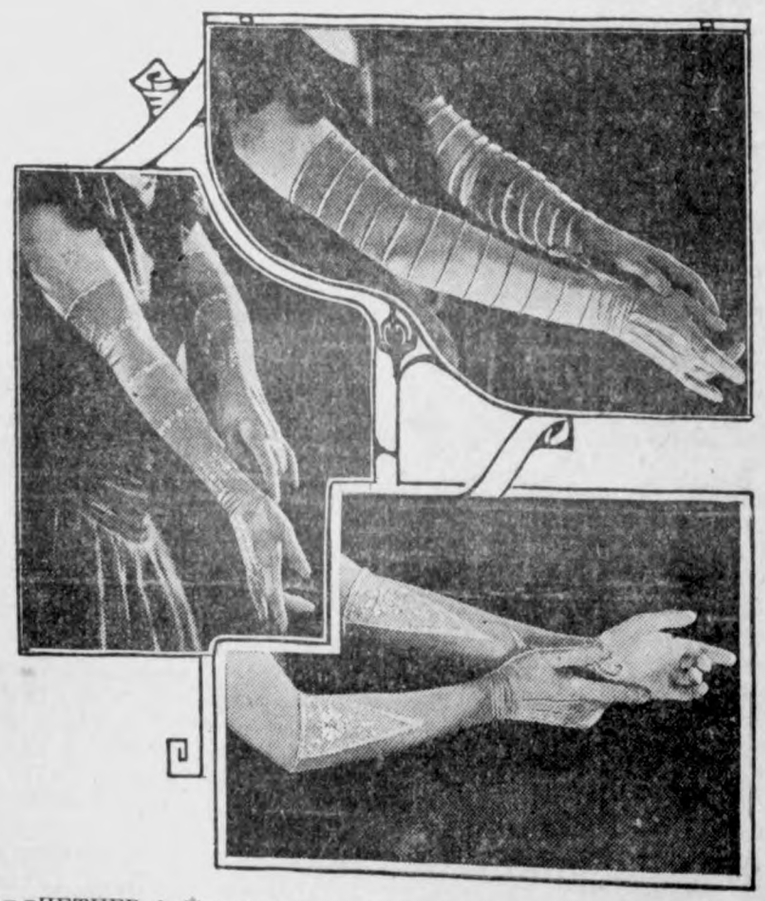
The colors in voiles, which are scheduled to be popular this season, are entrancing, in shades that prove wonderfully becoming. Many of the pinks have a mellow, yellow cast. Greens are delicate, in light or pale tones; blues are stronger but soft with powder blue, periwinkle and bluet well represented. Yellow is either of the canary kind or has the greenish, citron tone and there are a number of beautiful orchid shades. These are usually livelier under artificial light, but the joyous career of the voile frock is usually sunlit, like the butterflies.

In charming adornments for cotton dresses, good taste gravitates toward simple stitchery, tucks, hemstitching, and drawn work, in keeping with the character of the material, whose charm lies in its daintiness and color. Narrow lingerie laces fit in many schemes of adornment also. Both needlework and lace appear on the frock pictured—narrow val lace in double frills about neck and sleeves and as an outline for the yoke and front panel in the bodice, with outline embroidery in flower design. The girdle is of narrow ribbon slipped through slashes, at a low waistline. Picot edging finishes the slashes and is useful in making many kinds of trimming.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

THE MODERN GLOVE REVELS IN WHIMSICAL ELABORATION



WHETHER fashion is more interested in our hands or our feet, is a question this season. It is indeed a close competition between our shoes and our gloves as to which shall attain to greater extremes of fantastic interpretation. No longer does a window display of footwear prove a magnet to draw all of passing feminine kind unto itself, at least not if a glove store happen to be next door.

Silk gloves, which to catch a glimpse of is to covet, carry the cunningest of cuffs, some cut in petals, lapped one over another, lined with contrasting color and spreading about the wrist like a full-blown flower. Then there are cuffs perforated as effectively as the paper frill about milady's colonial bouquet. Plaited ruffles, flare cuffs with colorful silk pipings, cuffs so heavily embroidered as to almost conceal the background, cuffs narrow, cuffs wide, cuffs in two-tone effects—these and many more feature the short gloves of today.

If you are looking for something which eclipses every other short glove in point of the unusual, consider the same in black, beige or brown with gold kidskin inset into bright red suede to form the cuff, the embroidery on the backs repeating the gay colorings. Silk gloves in the neutral shades are the practical selection now that warm weather is upon us. The cuffs of these indulge in delightsome color contrasts, which impart chic to the entire costume.

Even the longer gloves are reflecting fashion's whimsical mood. In some instances the new colored and white silk gloves are boasting tucks throughout their length, as the picture shows. Others show introduction of wee plaitings, ofttimes alternated with tucks. However, it is the short glove which has the monopoly, just now, on originality of design.

Among the wrist-length gloves of striking design are white kid ones, with narrow hand-painted cuffs. Other glove types accorded an important place in the accessories for spring and summer, stress exquisite petit-point embroidery. These are found among the more expensive types. Indeed, so handsome are some of the new cuffs, and so worth while, when the glove wears out, these are renewed and stitched onto a new pair. There is a pronounced tendency to match the gloves and hosiery.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

EXPERIENCE OF NERVOUS WOMAN

Weak, Blue, Discouraged—Relieved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Medicine

Cincinnati, Ohio. — "I was nervous and could not sleep, had crying spells and the blues, and didn't care if I lived or died. My right side was very bad and I had backache and a weakness. I read about your medicines in the papers and wrote for further information. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Blood Medicine and Liver Pills, and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanitive Wash. I have had good results in every way and am able to do my work again and can eat anything that comes along. My friends tell me how well I am looking."—Mrs. F. K. Coriell, 129 Peete Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Willing to Answer Letters

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I have used your medicines for nervousness and a run-down system with a severe weakness. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and using Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanitive Wash I feel like a different woman and have gained in every way. I am willing to answer letters asking about the medicines."—Dora Holt, 2649 S. 11th St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Sold by druggists everywhere.

Teamster's Life Saved

"Peterson Ointment Co., Inc. I had a very severe sore on my leg for years. I am a teamster. I tried all medicines and salves, but without success. I tried doctors, but they failed to cure me. I couldn't sleep for many nights from pain. Doctors said I could not live for more than two years. Finally Peterson's Ointment was recommended to me and by its use the sore was entirely healed. Thankfully yours, William Haase, West Park, Ohio, March 22, 1915, care P. G. Reitz, Box 198."

Peterson says: "I am proud of the above letter and have hundreds of others that tell of wonderful cures of Eczema, Piles and Skin Diseases."

Peterson's Ointment is 35 cents a box. Mail orders filled by Peterson Ointment Co., Buffalo.

Found of No Use

Tutor—Of course, I admit your son is extravagant. But you must make allowances. He's young.

Father—That's all right! But the more allowances I make the quicker he spends them.—Stray Stories.

SWAMP-ROOT FOR KIDNEY AILMENTS

There is only one medicine that really stands out pre-eminent as a medicine for curable ailments of the kidneys, liver and bladder.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root stands the highest for the reason that it has proven to be just the remedy needed in thousands upon thousands of distressing cases. Swamp-Root makes friends quickly because its mild and immediate effect is soon realized in most cases. It is a gentle, healing vegetable compound.

Start treatment at once. Sold at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.

Certainly bookkeeping can be learned at home! All you need do is refuse to lend them.

How Robert M. Koenig Found Remedy for Pimply Skin

For years my skin would break out every once in a while—and ointments did very little to help me.

I read a doctor's article stating that pimply skin usually comes from the stomach—and bowels not getting rid of the poisons.

I tried Carter's Little Liver Pills for a few days—and since that time my skin is smooth and clear. Now I put my friends the right way of getting rid of a broken out skin—and also of steering clear of upset stomach and sick headache. Carter's are all we claim for them.

Cuticura Soap Is Pure and Sweet Ideal for Children

Sample Soap, Ointment, Talcum free. Address: Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. M, Malden, Mass.

KEEP EYES WELL! Dr. Thompson's Eye Water will strengthen them. At druggists or 1157 River Troy, N. Y. Booklet.

Battery Charger (bulb); for 110 v. cycles. Safe; 16-18 hrs. If not, money in 10 days. $13 east of Miss.; $14 west. Macko, 871 E. 154th St., Cleveland.

"ELECTRO-MEDICATED BATHS" Write your case for FREE TREATMENT directions. Address: DR. BAIR, DES MOINES

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT

William E. Hull, Good Roads Advocate

Congressman William E. Hull of the Peoria district has been selected by President Coolidge to represent the United States at the international good roads conference which opens next October in Buenos Aires, Argentina. He has wired his acceptance. It is expected that every nation on the globe will be represented and the leading engineers of every nation will be asked to appear upon the program.

South America is planning an extensive program in road construction. Last summer a delegation from the continent spent several months going over the roads of the United States and studying methods of construction. Considerable time was devoted to Illinois and the party was entertained by the state highway department and a number of cities located upon the principal bond issue hard roads. The October international conference is the sequel to this tour.

As far back as 1910, when most of the farmers and land owners and many city residents were lukewarm or openly hostile to hard roads, Hull risked his political existence by advocating the bond issue for concrete highways. He was one of the leading advisers and strongest supporters of Governor Lowden in the latter's effort to launch the state bond issue. The credit for the formation of the Illinois State Highway Improvement association goes largely to Hull.

Augustus Lukeman Succeeds Borglum

Augustus Lukeman of New York has been employed as the sculptor of the Stone Mountain Confederate memorial by the executive committee. He succeeds Gutzon Borglum. Mr. Lukeman is a native of Richmond, Va. A statement issued by the committee said that Mr. Lukeman was highly recommended. It continued:

"Mr. Lukeman is a member of the National Sculpture society, and was formerly secretary and a member of the council of the society. Mr. Lukeman began his education for sculpture as a boy eleven years old, when he secured employment in the studio of Launt Thompson, a noted sculptor of New York. He learned casting in a bronze foundry as an apprentice and as a molder. He learned granite carving by mastering the trade and working at it. With his earnings he paid his way through the National Academy of Design of New York and a course in architecture at Columbia university.

"When the World's Fair at Chicago was under construction, Mr. Lukeman was studio foreman for Daniel Chester French, the renowned sculptor who had charge of the sculpture." Among the works of sculpture, the statement continued, that Mr. Lukeman has to his credit are: Statues of William McKinley for Adams, Mass., and Dayton, Ohio; equestrian statue of Bishop Francis Asbury in Washington; Strauss memorial fountain in New York; memorial to the returning doughboys, in Red Hook park, Brooklyn.

Julius Kruttschnitt Will Retire at 71

Julius Kruttschnitt, closely associated with E. H. Harriman in an epochal railroad development and since 1913 chairman of the executive committee of the Southern Pacific railway, will soon quit the ranks of active railroad men under the pension plan of that road. After forty-eight years of service he will retire on the eve of his seventy-first birthday, which falls on July 30. Mr. Kruttschnitt once belonged to that host of American boys who have found a locomotive whistle the sweetest of music. He was born in New Orleans before the Civil war and learned the scale of railroad whistles on a plantation near the Mississippi levees. He began work as a rodman on the old New Orleans & Great Western railroad, which ran from New Orleans to Morgan City, La., 80 miles away. Now the Southern Pacific has a capitalization of nearly $800,000,000.

His retirement necessitates a complete reorganization in the executive management of the system. The present plan has been changed so that the supervision of operations will, after May 31, be under the direction of William Sproule, president of the company, who will make his office in San Francisco. The general office and the financial headquarters of the company will remain in New York, with Henry W. De Forest succeeding Kruttschnitt as chairman of the executive committee and the board of directors.

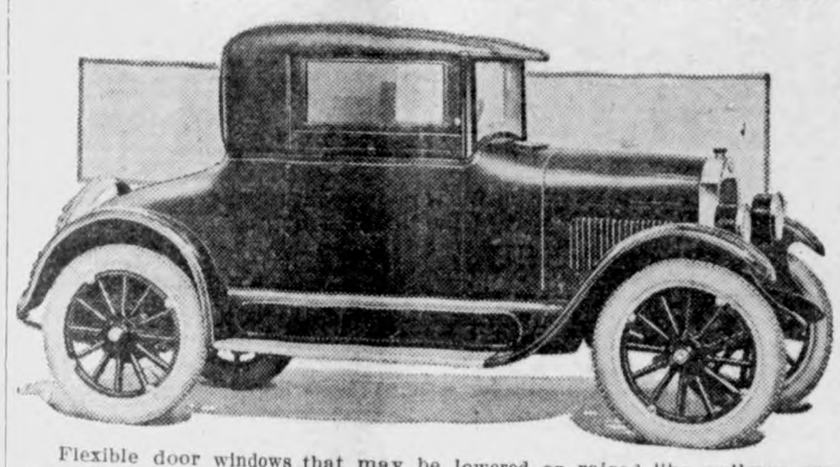
In Charge of Federal Women Prisoners

A departure in federal government methods in handling prisoners will take place with the completion of the federal industrial institution for women at Alderson, W. Va. Congress has appropriated $909,100 for the prison and government architects are preparing plans for a cottage system under which prisoners will live in communities. Its capacity is 500.

A farm of 200 acres already has been obtained, and negotiations are under way for an additional 300 acres. Federal woman prisoners are now being sent to state jails, and the states are protesting.

Dr. Mary B. Harris, who will head the new institution, is the daughter of Dr. John Howard Harris, president emeritus of Bucknell university. She is a graduate of the University of Chicago. After several years spent in teaching and foreign travel, she became superintendent of women at the workhouse on Blackwell's island, N. Y. She was made superintendent of the New Jersey State Reformatory for Women in February, 1918. During the war and until 1919 Doctor Harris served as assistant director in the section of reformatories and detention houses in the law enforcement division of the camp activities. She then assumed the superintendency of the State Home for Girls of New Jersey, until January, 1925, when she became field executive secretary of the International Association of Policewomen.

STRIKING FEATURES OF NEW STAR COUPSTER



Flexible door windows that may be lowered or raised like pullman car curtains and that disappear within the top of the body when raised are a striking feature of the new Star coupster.

In reality the coupster is a convertible car, affording all the comforts of closed car transportation, yet convertible into an open car by the simple expedient of raising two disappearing windows—a five-second operation. For all practical purposes it is two cars in one.

EFFICIENCY AND SAFETY OF CARS

Numerous Devices Add to Comfort and Satisfaction of Owner.

It is difficult to believe that the oil pressure gauges and the ampere-meters which now appear on the instrument boards of virtually all makes of cars were once regarded by many as unnecessary frills. Today there are a number of accessories being offered which are similarly regarded, which is the same as saying that they would be appreciated if only their advantages were better known.

By equipping a car with some of these fitments, greater satisfaction, efficiency and safety will result. Add front and rear bumpers to the car, attach one of the many rear signaling devices, keep a set of anti-skid chains handy and the car will be enormously benefited in proportion to the cost of the protection. Frequently such safety devices add to the car's appearance and thus not only help protect the owner's original investment, but add to it. A spotlight attached to the windshield and played upon the road may prevent wrecking the car in a ditch.

Take efficiency as another instance. A car that is operated without proper regulation of the cooling system is at all times running inefficiently. This is especially true in winter when the engine is constantly operated at the wrong temperature, either boiling over because the radiator is covered with the lap-robe or running cold because there is no covering at all. The market now offers several radiator covers with openings which can be operated from the dash.

Along the efficiency line are other devices which are destined to filter the gasoline before it is admitted to the carburetor, thus preventing the entrance of dirty or watered gasoline to the carburetor or engine. A device of this character may pay for itself within a month after it is installed.

Then there are shock absorbers, which in addition to giving greater riding comfort, save the springs from breakage on the rebound and thus increase the usefulness of the car by preventing breakdowns. Even cut-outs which were at one time regarded as toys for the speed maniacs are now shown to have a very important use.

Regardless of the selling points of each accessory or all of them as a group, it is a fact that any one of them adds to the second-hand value of a car. So the motorist not only has the use of the accessories with which he equips his car and the savings on insurance, inconvenience, repair bills, etc., but he gets a return premium when he goes to sell the car.

Good Advice Is to Give Machine the Once-Over

There's economy, also satisfaction in giving your car the once-over in the spring, then if it needs replacements or anything else to bring it back to perfect form, have it done as quickly as possible.

Naturally the toll of a year's driving is most severe, and generally there is a reminder or two. Right here the old stitch in time principle works out. When the car is restored to its best shape, almost as good as the day it was bought, riding in it is far more enjoyable, also it will bring a much better price if you care to sell or expect to trade it in on a new car.

Letting your motor car run down is false economy. Eventually it costs you more and in the interim you are not happiest when riding along the highways.

Even little things which you may think are of no special consequence develop into big items in repair bills if allowed to run on without interruption.

WATER INJURY TO TIRES IS SMALL

Running Through Stream Is Not Injurious.

Now and then in the course of an automobile trip a car has to pass through a stream, and the question is sometimes discussed whether the action of the water is harmful to the tires. The same question arises when the car is out in a heavy rain.

Such a wetting is practically nothing at all, either for damage or improvement. At any rate, the effect on the tire is not harmful. Two chief constituents of a tire are rubber and cotton, both vegetable substances, and as a rule water does not injure vegetable matter. As illustrative of this point, there is the old but true story of the farmer who, when one of his rubber boots fell into a well, placed the other on a shelf in a closet. Twelve years later when the well was cleaned the lost boot was found to be in excellent condition, but the boot on the shelf had fallen into ruin.

If running through a brook resulted in cooling a tire the effect would be decidedly beneficial, but a quick dash through the water has little effect on the heated air within the tire and consequently the temperature change in the tire after its bath is negligible.

Water itself apparently does no harm to tires, but the combination of air and moisture commonly known as humidity is very destructive, especially on the cotton in ordinary fabric tires. The moist air works in between the layers of the fabric and rots them out, sometimes even before the tires leave the dealer's storeroom. Cord tires stand humidity better.

The harmful effect of moist air is the chief reason why, when tires are stored, they should be kept in a dry atmosphere. As sunlight is also harmful, the storage place should be darkened.

Shabby Tires Are Not Favored for Any Car

Shabby tires on a good-looking car! Yet stand on any street corner today and count the number of patched-up, dilapidated tires which are being used to the last mile. The cost of keeping these tires running for a few thousand miles would nearly pay for new ones. Mileage such as this comes high.

Tire conservation does not mean picking up a decrepit tire and putting it back into service at a big repair cost just to save a little rubber left in the tread. It means taking care of the tire from the first so that it will be able to deliver all the mileage built into it by the maker. When tires are so far worn that they are soon to blow, it is poor economy to repair them. Such a course means sacrifice of the inner tube as well.

Cheap, makeshift patches, boots and temporary repairs of all kinds are now being called into use as never before, but patching up an old casing in which separation of fabric plies has already begun, cannot give the freedom from tire trouble on which the pleasure in motoring so largely depends.

Tying in Spring Leaves Will Prevent Spreading

Since the leaves in a spring have a tendency to spread apart, it is often hard to replace the spring tie-bolt in autos or trucks.

The easy way is to grip the head of the tie-bolt in a vise, and put all but the last four leaves one on top of the other. The last four leaves are put on crosswise, or spread around like the ribs of an umbrella, which allows the nut to be easily started on the bolt.

With the nut on the bolt, swing the bottom cross leaf into place. Then each succeeding leaf will slide easily into position. Then tighten the tie-bolt nut. Of course, the clamps on each end will have to be removed until the spring is assembled.

Short Items of Interest

About half the watches bought by Chinese are of Swiss make.

In early times beach sand was melted to make glass.

The total trade union membership in Mexico is estimated to be around 800,000.

Miss Betty Deem of Reading, Pa., gave a dinner at her home to the six men she has selected to be pallbearers at her funeral.

White reflects the heat rays from the sun.

A railroad is being built through Sherwood forest the rendezvous of Robin Hood.

Statistics show that there are 10,000 local building and loan associations in the United States.

After years of experimenting government chemists have perfected a process of extracting rubber from corn.

The American Legion

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

DEVELOPMENTS IN FUND ACTIVITIES

Recent major developments of the American Legion campaign to raise a $5,000,000 endowment fund for disabled veterans and orphans of the World war have been: Organization of the American Legion Endowment Fund corporation to administer the fund, selection of the Fletcher-American National bank at Indianapolis as a depository for the fund, extension of the campaign to include every state in the country and the final clean-up campaign in the South.

National Commander James A. Drain, announcing the formation of the endowment fund corporation, said that it was established solely to administer the fund. It is not authorized by its articles of incorporation to do anything else, he said.

"The corporation was created," the commander declared, "in order to provide absolutely for the safekeeping and proper administration of the fund in perpetuity. The fund is a sacred trust. The Legion has left no stone unturned to insure that the income derived from it shall be used for the relief of the disabled veterans and the orphans of the war and for that purpose only."

Commander Drain is president of the corporation. Gen. John R. McQuigg of Cleveland, banker and member of the Legion's national finance committee, is vice president. National Judge Advocate Robert A. Adams is secretary and John H. Hilkene, director of administration at national headquarters, treasurer of the corporation.

Directors are, besides the president and the vice president: Gov. James G. Scrugham of Nevada, Judge Royal A. Stone of the Minnesota Supreme court, Alexander Fitz-Hugh, Mississippi business man; Gen. Charles H. Cole, Massachusetts; Wilder S. Metcalf, Kansas, member of the Legion's national finance committee; Edgar B. Dunlap, Georgia, also a member of the finance committee; and National Adjt. Russell Creviston, Indiana.

At the same time, the campaign for the fund was extended from the states in the South and Middle West, where it was first launched to include every state. In the East it was extended into Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia and Ohio.

The Western group was composed of Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, Wyoming, Idaho, Washington, Oregon, California, Nevada, Utah, Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, Iowa, Missouri, Colorado and Nebraska.

Urges Continuation of American Legion Sports

Charles W. Paddock, of Los Angeles, sprint champion, who has been called "the world's fastest human" is interested in "world athletics." With Loren Murchison he started recently to tour the world under the auspices of many athletic associations and governments to create a more definite interest in track and field competition. Speaking of the value of athletics in promoting world peace, Mr. Paddock said:

"In ancient times, the several Greek states were brought into a bond of fellowship surpassed by no similar international treaty that exists today. And if those people could accomplish this through the spirit of sport, more than two thousand years ago, it would seem that in this enlightened age, the whole world might come to share a similar feeling.

"The American Legion, for example, has fostered sport unceasingly since its creation and a continuation of this same policy will greatly increase our percentage of athletes, remove the spirit that creates war and will hasten the day when men the world over can say, 'We are brothers.'"

Legion Aids in Finding Places for Unemployed

During the past year no fewer than 2,000,000 men found employment through the federal government working in co-operation with state agencies and the American Legion, according to a report by the United States employment service of the Department of Labor at Washington.

In states not having public employment service to co-operate with the federal government, liaison is maintained between the "jobless man and the manless job" through the agency of the Legion.

Unskilled day laborers and trained executives alike secured jobs through the government and its allied agencies.

A Legion service official, commenting on the work of finding men jobs, said:

"The finding of employment for men out of work is a necessary public function. Nothing on earth is so important to a man as a job. As it is, too little attention is paid to the assembling and distribution of human labor."

Pass it around after every meal. Give the family the benefit of its aid to digestion. Cleans teeth too. Keep it always in the house.

"Costs little—helps much"

WRIGLEY'S

One Thing He's Sure Of

A writer says one thing about heaven he is certain of is that there are no alarm clocks there. "There is no alarm clock in my home, either," observes J. Fuller Gloom, "but it isn't heaven."

MONARCH COCOA

Choicest cocoa beans to start with—careful roasting and blending. There you have the reason why MONARCH COCOA is a favorite everywhere.

REID, MURDOCH & CO.
Established 1855
General Offices, Chicago, U. S. A.
Branches: Boston • New York • Pittsburgh

QUALITY FOR 70 YEARS

Tell Your Shoe Dealer You Want Shoes with Genuine USKIDE SOLES

The Wonder Sole for Wear—Wears twice as long as best leather!

—and for a Better Heel "U. S." SPRING-STEP Heels

United States Rubber Company

Dick, it was terribly embarrassing

"There I was with a car full of friends and the motor knocking along without a bit of power. Dick, can't you do something about it?"

Yes! He can buy MonaMotor Oil and give his motor a chance to stage a come-back.

Perfect lubrication is one of the secrets of a reliable and powerful motor.

Monarch Manufacturing Co.
Council Bluffs, Iowa Toledo, Ohio

MonaMotor Oils & Greases

Severe Headache and Constipation Relieved Over Night

"After a serious illness I became very constipated and suffered from awful headaches. One day I bought a box of Beecham's and found that if I took them on going to bed I would feel fine in the morning. I never have a headache now.

"I am 53 years old and have taken Beecham's Pills for 29 years."

Mrs. W. C. Staub, Bethlehem, Pa.

For FREE SAMPLE—write B. F. Allen Co., 417 Canal Street, New York

Buy from your druggist in 25 cent and 50c boxes

For constipation, biliousness, sick headaches and other digestive ailments take

Beecham's Pills

BAND INSTRUMENTS
—Second-Hand—
Standard makes rebuilt like new. Saxophones, cornets, trombones, etc., for sale cheap; free trial given. We do repair work. Write for bargains.
MUSICAL INSTRUMENT EXCHANGE
AMES, IOWA

Infertile eggs from an incubator make good chick feed.

The crossword puzzle has just invaded Mexico. Another border outrage, they can say with justice.

Reboring
—And—
Rehoning

"The Better Method of Cylinder Re - conditioning.

McQuay Norris Quality Rings
Sales & Service

PAVEY'S
STORMIZING SHOP

The BULL'S EYE
Editor and General Manager
WILL ROGERS

An Unknown Historical Fact

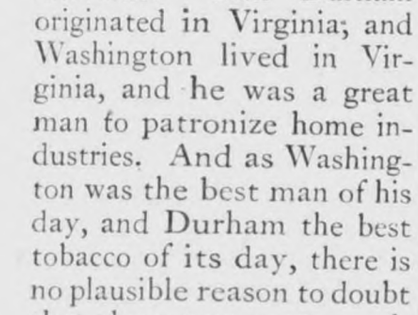
DID you know that George Washington, The adopted Father of our Country, just before he got on the Ferry to cross the Delaware for the Photographing of that now famous Picture, Did you know that he smoked two sacks of 'Bull' Durham while he was waiting for the Ferry? (things were just as late in his War, as they were in our last one). Now I have never heard of this 'Bull' Durham episode before, neither have I ever heard it denied. So if it's never either been affirmed or denied, there is no reason to disbelieve that it's not true. 'Bull' Durham originated in Virginia; and Washington lived in Virginia, and he was a great man to patronize home industries. And as Washington was the best man of his day, and Durham the best tobacco of its day, there is no plausible reason to doubt that these two most excellent Institutions didn't readily recognize the good in each other and get together.

Will Rogers

SIXTY-FIVE YEARS AGO!

In 1860 a blend of tobacco was born—'Bull' Durham. On quality alone it has won recognition wherever tobacco is known. It still offers the public this—more flavor, more enjoyment and a lot more money left at the end of a week's smoking.

TWO BAGS for 15 cents
100 cigarettes for 15 cents



'BULL' DURHAM
Guaranteed by
The American Tobacco Co.
INCORPORATED
111 Fifth Avenue, New York City

Jig Jog Jags

A Little Joshing Now and Then Will Get the Goat of Many Men

Judge—Did you kill this man?
Convict—Yer honor, I'll be hanged of I did.

She—And what do you think Sir Walter Raleigh said when he placed his cloak at Queen I. feet?
He—Step on it, kid—step on it!

Lolly—That girl has Franklin teeth.
Pop—How come?
Lolly—Air-cooled.

Steamboat Captain (who had just fallen overboard)—Don't stand there like a dumbbell. Give a yell, can't you.
New Deckhand — Certainly, Sir! Captain! Rah! Rah! Rah! Rah! Captain.

Fond Mother—Yes, Genevieve is studying French and Algebra. Say "Good morning" to the lady in Algebra, Genevieve.

"Talk about tortue—'
"Yes?"
"Nothing is worse than sitting in a barber's chair with you mouth full of lather, watching the boy trying to give another your new panama hat."

OLD MAID'S PRAYER
"Pa"
"Yes, my son."
"What is a flapper?"
"A flapper my son, is a woman who does what an old maid would like to do and hasn't the constitution to stand it."

"Say, old man, how's the best way to approach you for a loan ' '
"Well, if you are sensitive, you had better write and when you get the reply, tear it up without reading it."

Prof—What do you know about the Carribeans?
Stude: Hoe 'em and water 'em regularly.

."Why is a woman unlike a mirror Jasper?"
"You know best, Osbert."
"A mirror reflects without speaking and a woman speaks without reflecting.' '

Saph—Do you charge for water in your coffee?
Wajter—No, that's thrown in.

Visitor—Jimmie, do you get good marks at school?
Jimmie— Yes'm but I can't show 'em.

Prof—Take Jane Austin, for instance.—
Stude—You take her; I gotta a girl.

"I call my girl Litmus."
"How come "
"Because she turns pink when she gets soaked.' '

Doctor—Well, and how did you find yourself this morning?
Patient—Oh, I just opened my eyes and there I was.

Wil— What are those holes in the fence?"
Mil— Why, they are knotholes."
Wil—Why, those are too holes.

Teacher—Johnny, I'm only punishing you because I love you.
Johnny—I wish I was big enough to return your love.

Old Resident— What in your opinion is the most striking thing in town?
Visitor—Well, it seems to be a tie between the clocks, the labor unions and the autos.
O. R.—No, you don't understand. What about the town appeals to you the most.
Visitor—Oh, I see The Salvation Army.

Bum—Say, boss, can you give me a job where I con keep dressed up all the time and won't have to work?
Boss— I'll remember you and when I find two jobs like that you can have the other.

Willie—Gimme me a bite of your apple.
Jimmie—Wait a minute, will ye, till I come to a worm?

"Hiram, why didn't you tell me this Ford didn't run afore I bought it?"
"Wal, the feller thet sold her to me didn't say nothin' about it so I thought it was a secret"

Lady (in butcher shop): "Is that the head cheese over there?
Butcher—No, ma'am, the boss ain't in.' '

He—Ah, dearest, could we fly together, you and I, to the ends of the earth—discover the Garden of Eden.
She—But deary, I haven't a thing to wear.

NEVER
—strike a man when he's down. You can't tell how big he'll be when he gets up —make love in a buggy Even horses carry tales.
—bite your finger nails. Remember what happened to Venus.
—serenade your girl. You can't tell what her father may not need around the house

Quick and Dirty—I ordered straw berry shortcake. Where are the strawberries Just Dirty—That's what we're short of.

Mrs. Newlywed (to the buthcher) —"I want some lard."
Butcher—"Pail"
Mrs N W— "Oh, does it come in different shades?

Lady (at Times Square):—Boy, how do I get to Washington Square?
Urchin—"Aw, get the 'L' downtown."
Lady (retreating hastily)—Brat!

WELL, HE AND CLEO
First Student—I wonder how old Mrs. Jones is."
Second Student—Quite old, I imagine. They tell me she used to teach Caesar."

"Three hair nets, please"
"What strength, please?' '
Three dances and ac ar ride."

NOTICE OF APPOINTMENT OF ADMINISTRATRIX

Notice is Hereby Given, That the undersigned has been duly appointed and qualified as Administratrix of the Estate of E. H. Lenz late of Hancock county, State of Iowa, deceased. All persons indebted to the estate are requested to make immediate payment; and those having claims against the same will present them, duly authenticated, to the undersigned, for allowance.

Dated May 19, 1925, A. D.

Minnie Lenz
Administratrix

M21-J 4

SPECIAL MEETING OF VOTERS OF LIBERTY TOWNSHIP

—Monday, May 25, at 1:00 P. M. at the Center School House. All voters requested to be present as this is important. Joseph Schuldt, Sec.

Miss Leota Yost visited at the Ross home at Garner last week from Friday until Sunday, when the Ross family brought her back to Klemme.

ROCK ISLAND NEW SCHEDULE

NORTH BOUND

Passenger No. 435	8:10 A. M.
Freight No. 821	11:10 A. M.
(Frgt. Tues. Thurs. and Sat.)

SOUTH BOUND

Passenger No. 436	4:35 P. M.
Freight No. 820	12:15 P. M.
(Frgt. Mon. Wed. and Fri.)

SCHOOL PICNIC

The annual school picnic of the Klemme school will be held Friday at the City Pak. Come early and have a good time. Big picnic dinner at noon. A. D. Gimer, President School Board.

NOTICE OF BUILDING SCHOOL HOUSE

Notice is hereby given that the proposals for the erection of a school house in the township of Ell, in the county of Hancock, will be received by the undersigned at his office in Ell Township, where plans and specifications may be seen until 1 o'clock P. M., May 22, 1925, at which time the contract will be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder. The board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

Peter Josten, Sec'y:
Apr. 27, 1925, Klemme, Ia.
A 30 - M 21

MODERNIZES THE FARM HOME

Housewives Try on Modern Electrical Appliances at Garner

While the average modern man in his business uses twentieth century equipment his wife in the home uses equipment which dates back as far as the fifteenth or sixteenth centuries. For various reasons modern homes have not accepted the mechanical means of performing some of the heavy household tasks. This is especially true of the farm home, according to Miss Eloise Davison, household equipment specialist Iowa Iowa State College.

One of the reasons why less equipment is found in the country is because electricity is not as easily available as it is in town. A number is being doneu nder the supervision of high tension lines are springing up throughout the country and the question of their practicability is one one which needs consideration. To find out how practical and economical electricity from this source is for home use a field project is being carried out near Garner, Iowa's rural community for the application of electricity to agriculture.

This project includes three high tension lines, which serve, at present about 65 rural families. The work is being done under thes upervision of Iowa State College. The local community, the public utility companiec of the state and equipment manuacturers are co-operating to find out whether this type of service in practical and economical.

Refrigeration plants, ironing machines, washing machines, incubators, motors electric ranges electric cookers, waffle irons, percolators, toasters, in fact all kinds of electrical appliances are under test in this field labratory. Out of these field tests have grown some tests which require especially careful regulation. These are being run in the household equipment labratory at Iowa State College.

SEVERAL CASES OE HYDROPHOBIA FOUND

Dr. H. H. Stewart reports that he has discovered several cases of hydrophobja in domestic animals west of Kanawha and that he has a suspicious case south of town. In another column appears a warning issued by him that all people in this neighborhood should watch their domestic animals for signs of the disease. He sent the heads of several dogs to Iowa City and the report was received Monday that they had hydrophobia. The disease is a serious menace to humans as well as animals and too much percaution cannot be taken to keep it from spreading. —Kanawha Reporter.

The above clipping from the Kanawha paper should be a warning to everyone. Rabies or Mad Dog is a fatal disease to man or animal and treatment is useless in animals after symptoms show. Be careful with your dog and watch him daily. If he should act peculiar notify the authorities at once and lock him up so he cannot bite other animals or persons. A dog with rabies should not be killed in the early stage of the disease but should be kept under observation until the disease is fully developed. If you do kill them do not shoot them in the head as that is the part necessary to make diagnosis. The disease is generally spread by the dog. Any veterinarian can immunize your dog against rabies at a nominal cost. Safeguard your livestock and the welfare of your community. Dr. D. P. Anderson, Veterinarian, Klemme, Iowa.

Dress Up For Memorial Day

MEMORIAL DAY has always been the official opening for "Dress Up For Summer" and that custom is more in vogue each year. You will find a complete line of Summer Goods for eMn, Women and Children at our store. Dress up for Memorial and start the summer in the ight way.

HERE ARE SOME GOOD SUGGESTIONS

For The Children

We carry a complete line of Shoes, Oxfords, Stockings, Caps and Hats, Hosiery, Play Suits, etc., for the Boys and Girls. Tog them out here with shoes and clothing that give most wear and satisfaction.

GROCERIES

For Memorial Day as well as all other days in the year you will find our grocery department complete with fresh groceries, fruits and vegetables. And our prices are always right at——

FOR THE LADIES	FOR THE MEN
Summer Dress Goods	Oxfords and Shoes
Silk Hosiery	Silk Hosiey
Dainty Lingerie	Ties, Soft Collars
Oxfords and Slippers	Felt Hats, New Caps
Summer Sweaters	New Straw Hats
House Dresses, Aprons	Silk and Dress Shirts
Toilet Articles	Athletic Underwear
Silks, Ribbons, Etc.	Belts, Etc.

G.W. Kluckhohn & Sons

$1 Day Bargains!
Saturday, May 23

27	Bars P. & G. Soap	$1
27	Bars Big Four Soap	$1
5	Cans 25c Peaches	$1
3	50 cent Brooms	$1
7	yards 36 inch Percale	$1
15 lbs.	Cane Sugar	$1

1 BOX CHIPSO	25c	All For $1
3 Bars Medium IVORY SOAP	30c
2 Bars GUEST IVORY SOAP	10c
14 Bars P. &. G. SOAP	70c
Total regular price	$1.35

Many other bargains for Saturday!

Abraham & Sons
GARNER, IOWA

News of Klemme and Vicinity

hool picnic Friday.

ss Esther Jante spent Sunday at r with her mother.

hool closes this week Friday the annual school picnic.

Miller, of Mason City, was in me Tuesday on business.

me hail fell here Tuesday night g the storm. No damage was by the hail.

Hesselhuus has purchased a Overland sedan.

number of Klemme Odd Fellows ded lodge at Garner Monday ing.

EET 'CREAM—25c per pint, per quart delivered to your R. W. Elder.

e have a good supply of Lowe House and Barn Paint. Ja- & Son, Klemme, Iowa. tfc

s. Ernest Helps returned from son City hospital Thursday ev- g.

ank Kluckhohn and family were tained at the Arthur Kudje e Sunday.

e State Savings Bank have a ment of condition in this weeks issue.

Mr. Jim Trumbell, of Mason City, was visiting here at the home of his son, Sumner, Monday.

M. N. Zeiger, of Garner, was in Klemme Tuesday evening on business.

I sell the WOLVERINE WORK SHOE—the best in the world for the money. Frank Gruetzmacher. tfc

Eureka Poultry Products sold by Gilbert Schaeper. Full stock on hand at all times. tfc

W. C. Keraus and family spent Sunday at the C. F. Keraus cottage at the Lake.

J. J. Poort and family, and Mrs. Mason drove to West Bend, Sunday, to take in the sights at the Grotto.

We are glad to report that Harry Gibbs is able to be up and about a little now. Harry has been laid up for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Jorgenson and son, Buster, and Mrs. P M Wilson were calling on Garner friends Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wiles and Mrs. Phil Behringer, of Ames, were visiting Klemme friends Saturday and Sunday.

NOTICE BANDMEN! Regular rehearsal Monday evening at 8:00 o'clock sharp. Everybody be there on time.

There is only a short time left to make your arrangements to enter summer school. Term begins June 1. The Hamilton University, Mason City, Iowa. 1wcF.

FOR SALE—House in Klemme. L. D. Byers, Garner, Iowa. tfc

Screen Doors on hand at the Northern Lumber Co. tc

The Klemme degree team of the R. N. A. put on the work at the convention at Garner yesterday. Klemme's lodge had a prominent part in the program.

Mr. John Josten will teach the Young Married Peoples Class of the Methodist Sunday School this week. All members of the class are requested to be present.

There will be work in the Second Degree, tonight, Thursday, May 21, at Bethel Lodge, A. F. & A. M., at Garner.

NOTICE—I am going away in a few weeks to visit my father in Canada, and all who owe me are requested to call at my okice and settle. Dr. George Zinn. tfc

J. J. Poort will direct the Garner Band Saturday for their Memorial services, May 30th. He was at Garner Tuesday night to rehearse with the band.

The W. F. M. S. will hold their regular meeting next Thursday, May 28th in the afternoon. Everyone to bring paper bag lunch at 2:30 o'clock.

H. J. Bailey and family, and Tom Nelson, Jr., and family, attended the corner stone laying ceremony of the new Methodist Church at Williams, Sunday. Rev. Howdeshell, a former Klemme pastor, is the pastor of the congregation at Williams now.

Mrs. Mason, of Minneapolis, who has been visiting her neice, Mrs. J. J. Poort for the past week, left for Omaha Monday for a visit. Mr. and Mrs Poort took her to Webster City in their car from which place she took the train for Omaha.

The Senior Class presented their play, "Mary's Millions," to a packed house at the school auditorjum last Friday evening. The play was given exceptionally well and the class has some excellent theatrical talent.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Waterman, Mr. and Mrs R A Jorgenson, Mrs Sumner Trumbell and Mrs. Ed. Jacobs attended Eastern Star lodge at Garner last Friday evening.

Jennings Anderson is having a fine new brick house built on his farm north of Klemme. Ing. Lauritsen and his crew are the builders. This will be one of the nicest country homes in Hancock County when it has been completed.

Ben Greimann is building a large new barn on his place northwest of Klemme to replace the building destroyed by fire a few weeks ago. He is also building a new chicken house as the old one was also burned to the ground. Rhine Schlawjn lives on this farm.

The following were guests at the A. D. Gimer home, Sunday: L. G. and Cligord Gimer, and Master Woodrow Homon, of Abbott, Iowa, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Johnson and little son, Robert, and Miss Marie O'Neil, of this city.

The Recreation Club held a surprise on Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kluckhohn last Thursday evening, it being their eleventh wedding anniversary. The evenjng was spent playing cards after which refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs Kluckhohn were presented with gifts in remembrance of the event.

Quite a number of high school girls, chaperoned by Mrs. McConn and Miss Abel had a picnic at Bayside Tuesday evening. They had a big time roller skating at the rink. Bert Mathews was also with the gang as he took some of the girls over in his car and we presume he also acted as a chaperone. The girls report a fine time.

There has been a lot of speculation as to the nature of the building we constructed back of the Print Shop next to the alley. Many thot it a dog house, some guessed a garage and we were going to park a small fliver in it; others guessed jt was to be a new church as it is large enough to accomodate some of the "crowds" we have seen in a church; others said it was a smoke house, but that's wrong, as we don't sneak in the house to smoke any more; and one guy even asked the editor jf we were going to plant a still there, Nope! we just made it for fun!

KLEMME MARKETS

Thursday, May 21, 1925

Wheat	1.40
OATS	.36
CORN	.85—.90
Barley	.75
Rye	1.00
HOGS	$10.75—$11.25
Eggs (Cash)	.29
Eggs (Trade)	.30
Eggs trade	.27
HENS	.16
LIGHT HENS	.13
BROILERS	.35
Ducks	.10
Geese	.08
Butter (Creamery)	.45
BUTTERFAT	.46

COW TESTING SHOWS PROGRESS

Iowa State Extension Dairymen Visit 31 Associations

Cow test association work in Iowa is much improved and interest is keener than ever before, according to reports brought by J. N. Spencer, extension dairyman, Iowa State College, who in company with C. B. Finley, head of the extension dairy work, recenly visited 31 of Iowa's 56 cow testing associations, their tour taking them thru north and northeastern Iowa.

The exension men bring back many stories of increased production and better profits as the direct result of cow testing associations. At McGregor, Iowa, they visied the farm of John Gerahy & Sons which firm for three years straight has won the Kildee cup for theh jghest herd production of butter fat of any herd composed of at least three-fourths grade cows. Gerahtys at present have a grade Jersey cow which they purchased for $100 and which in 11 months has made a record of 738 pounds of butterfat and her estimated annual production is 775 pounds.

As a result of economical feeding balanced rations and culling, O. W. Oxley of Ossain, who started in cow testing association work two years ago, has been able to increase his average production per cow from 225 to 300 pounds.

One cow testing association member who in 1923, his first year of membership, had seven cows which produced less than 80 pounds of butterfat in one month, in March this year had two grade Holsteins which produced more than 80 pounds of butterfat.

If you can't laugh at the jokes of the age, then laugh at the age of the jokes.

FINONCIA L REPORT
Town of Klemme

Receipts

Balance on hand April 1, 1924	$ 3,757.63
Received from County Treasurer	11,228.17
Received from Mayor	1,654.20
Received Int. from First National Bank	63.55
TOTAL	$16,703.55

Disburs ements

Orders Paid	$10,030.04
Balance on hand April 2, 1925	6,673.51
TOTAL	$16,703.55

Balance on Hand in General Fund	$ 1,267.04
Balance on hand in Water Fund	1,537.55
Balance on hand in Bond Fund	944.33
Balance on hand in Light Fund	11.53
Balance on hand in Park Fund	209.18
Balance on hand in Sewer Fund	2,673.19
Balance on hand in Pest House Fund	105.85
TOTAL	$6,748.67
Interest on Bond Fund Overdrawn	$ 75.16
Cash on hand April 2, 1925	6,673.51
TOTAL	$6,748.67

C. G Waterman, Treasurer.

STATEMENT OF CONDITION OF

STATE SAVINGS BANK

organized under the laws of Iowa, located at Klemme, in the County of Hancock, at the close of business on the 1st day of May, A. D. 1925.

RESOURCES

Loans and discounts, Bonds and Securities		483,878.59
Overdrafts		1,870.98
Stock Agricultural Organizations		500.00
Banking House	10,200.00
Furniture and Fixtures	750.00	10,950.00
Other real estate owned		14,671.43
Due from banks and bankers, cash and cash items		54,222.97
Total Resources		$566,093.97

LIABILITIES

Capital Stock	30,000.00
Surplus fund	10,000.00	40,000.00
Undivided profits (after deducting expenses	1,061.04	1,061.04
Individual Deposits subject to check	126,648.07
Time certificates of deposit	307,178.93	433,827.00
Bills Payable other than with Federal Reserve Bank	37,000.00
Rediscounts	54,205.93	91,205.93
Total Liabilities		$566,093.97

STATE OF IOWA
Hancock County—ss.

We, P. M. Griesemer, President; and Henry Suckow, Asst. Cashier of the bank above named, do solemnly swear that the foregoing statement is full, true and correct, to the best of our knowledge and belief.

P. M. GRIESEMER, President.
(SEAL)
HENRY SUCKOW, Asst. Cashier.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence by P. M. Griesemer and Henry Suckow this 12 day of May, 1925.

ATTESTED BY—
Joe E. Johnson
H. J. Stille, Directors.

W. C. Keraus
Notary in and for Hancock County
(SEAL)

The Cash Store

—Has on hand for his week a nice line of Men's Women's and Children's Oxfords.

Don't fail to see our selection and be sure to get our prices.

Nice assortment of LADIES' SILK HOSE, per pair ..... 90c.

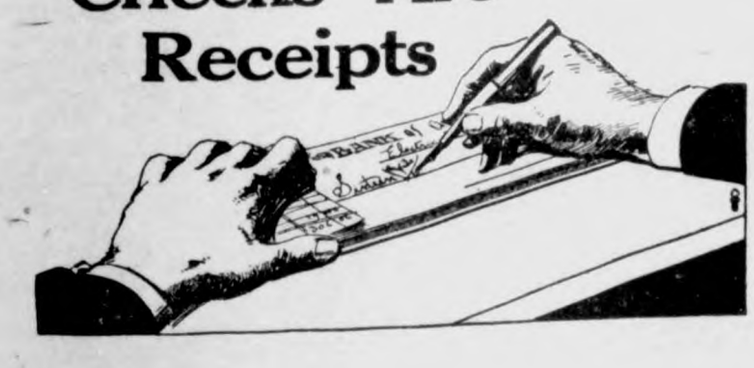
Saturday Special

6 Bars P. & G. White Naptha Soap 25c

"PAY CASH and PAY LESS"

Jno. N. Day's Cash Store

Checks Are Receipts



Checks are the best receipts in the world for paid bills. Our record of the cancelled check as it is paid and passes through our books forms a chain of evidence that cannot be surpassed or disputed. Starting a CHECKING ACCOUNT with us is a simple matter. Let us tell you how.

Drop in some time and we'll talk the matter over with you.

5 Per Cent Interest Paid On Time Deposits

State Savings Bank

Klemme Iowa

"Old Homes Made New"

When you first came here, dad, this house was mighty fine,
But styles have changed since then, from this old fashioned line
To the pretty sunlit home, where mother'd like to sit and sew,
And not only a house, a place to live and grow,
But a place of joy, and comfort, and beauty, too;
Such as we might have, if the old home were made new.

I have a simple plan, that I have studied in a book,
That shows hiw to take from home that old fashioned look,
And how to add conveniences, comforts, and beauty, and joys,
Which make jt easy for mother, and nice for "Sis" and we boys.
We'd get more air and sunshine, and the skies would seem more blue
If we should get together, dad, and make the old home new.

I am jpst a plain old man, my boy, but I can see you're right,
I know how happy mother'd be, if the kitchen were more bright,
And we had a cozy room, a place for the rainy day,
And the kjds had a nice new porch on which to romp and play.
So where is the book you spoke of? Let me see it, too,
And we'll get together, my boy, and make the old home new.

(By James Pierson, Chicago, 14-year old High School Boy.)

Northern Lumber Co.

"EVERYTHING TO BUILD ANYTHING"

GEN. MILES DIES WHILE AT CIRCUS

Veteran of Three Wars Falls Dead During Show at Washington.

Washington.—Lieut. Gen. Nelson A. Miles, retired, famous American soldier, dropped dead of heart disease here.

Death occurred while General Miles was attending a circus performance, at which Mrs. Coolidge also was present.

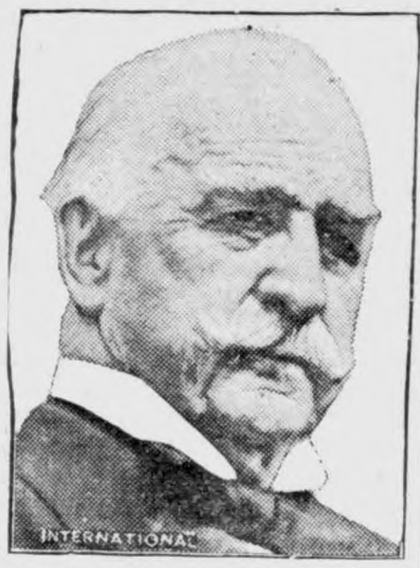
His old foes, the Indians, were just entering the arena as he was stricken.

The general had apparently been in the best of health. He was eighty-six years old.

The old Indian fighter was sitting on the third row of the circus stands when he fainted, falling into the arms of Dr. Arthur W. Craig, who was immediately behind him. Doctor Craig and others removed him to a position under the seats and then to a point outside the tents, where he died.

The general was accompanied by Mrs. W. B. Noble, mother of his daughter-in-law, and several of his grandchildren. The opening of the pageant of the circus had just begun when he collapsed.

The body was removed to the Casualty hospital, where Acting Coroner



Lieut. Gen. Nelson A. Miles.

Martyn issued a certificate of death due to myo-carditis and acute dilation of the heart.

"I shall never miss a circus," he told one of the owners, an old friend, as he entered.

General Miles left a clerical job to join the army in the Civil war at the age of twenty-two. At twenty-five he was a general commanding 25,000 men. He fought Indians on the plains for twenty years, led the army of occupation into Porto Rico during the Spanish-American war. His greatest disappointment was when he was not permitted a part in the World war. He had been retired for age in 1903. He was born in Westminster, Mass., April 8, 1839, of an old American family. He was made lieutenant general at the age of sixty.

Iowa "Gas Tax Marshals" Try to Halt Law Evaders

Des Moines, Iowa.—Wholesale evasion of the gasoline tax law on the Iowa-Illinois border led State Treasurer Ray E. Johnson to take steps to break up the practice of numerous residents of border cities, particularly Davenport, of purchasing their motor fuel in Illinois, where it is not taxed.

The activities of the gas tax collection division of the state treasury were confined to collection of license numbers of Iowans who drove across the free bridge at Davenport, filled their tanks and returned to this state.

Slayers of Messenger Get 25 Years in Prison

Waukegan, Ill. — Bernhardt Mylin and Edward P. Smith, both of Milwaukee, to whom a jury at Waukegan gave twenty-five years' imprisonment for murder, will accept the penalty without making a further fight, their attorneys said. They were taken to Joliet by Sheriff Edwin Ahlstrom. The two were convicted of slaying Russell Sage Dickey, express messenger on the Viking, fast train of the Chcago & Northwestern railway, in an attempted holdup.

Mrs. Day, Acid Thrower, Gets 1 to 14 Years in Prison

Los Angeles.—Bernice Day, recently convicted of disfiguring, with acid, the face of her husband, Darby Day, Jr., son of a Chicago capitalist, was sentenced to serve from one to fourteen years in San Quentin prison after Judge Carlos Hardy had denied the motion of her attorneys for a new trial. The defense served notive of appeal.

6,500 Killed in Chinese Quake

Peking.—The earthquake at Talifu, Yunnan province, on March 16, killed 6,500 persons, according to an estimate received by the famine relief commission. The number of persons destitute is placed at 100,000.

Three Killed in Powder Blast

Faversham, England.—Three persons were killed and many others were injured on Friday afternoon in two explosions at the powder works in this place.

CAPT. A. F. DORN

Capt. A. F. Dorn of Chicago, sixty years old, who brings back memories of the days of Captain Kidd. He leaves in August for the Straits of Mackinac to attempt to raise a ship sunk there in 1863, the cargo of which is valued at $50,000. The ship long ago was abandoned by its owners.

GRAIN EXCHANGES TOLD TO STOP RAIDS

Jardine Asks Them to Prevent Price Manipulation.

Washington.—Adoption of rules by the grain exchanges limiting the spread in daily quotations was recommended by Secretary Jardine as a means of preventing unreasonable fluctuations and manipulation of grain prices.

The recommendations were contained in a report on the preliminary investigation by the Department of Agriculture, under the grain futures act, of the sharp fluctuations in future grain quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade beginning in January.

Secretary Jardine declared in the report that unless the exchanges of their own accord took some effective action, he would be obliged, in the public interest, to suggest legislation giving to the department additional authority to meet the situation.

The investigation so far, he said, has brought out "indications that evidence did exist which would show an attempted or actual manipulation of the market, but proof necessary for the conviction of those who might be charged with violation of the act had not thus far been obtained."

He emphasized that the inquiry had not been concluded and that he was "determined to utilize the results of this investigation for the purpose of instituting whatever prosecutions may be justified under the law."

He added, however, that he was concerned more particularly in the development of some method by which a repetition of "such erratic and destructive" price changes may be obviated.

Lytell-Windsor Bridal Attendants Also Wed

Los Angeles.—It became known that Edwin Carewe, director, and Mary Akin, well-known star, were married at Juarez, Mexico, following the ceremony which made Bert Lytell and Claire Windsor man and wife. Information as to the Carewe-Akin nuptials came in a telegram from the bridegroom to friends here. The couple had gone to Mexico as best man and matron of honor at the Lytell-Windsor wedding.

Mrs. Lillian Duke Loses Suit to Discard Divorce

New York.—Supreme Court Justice Giegerich dismissed the divorce suit brought by Mrs. Lillian N. Duke against James Buchanan Duke, tobacco magnate. She had raised the question of the finality of a decree granted to Mr. Duke after a trial in New Jersey 20 years ago. The justice held that this decree must be recognized as final.

Glenn Frank Selected to Head Wisconsin University

Madison, Wis.—Glenn Frank of New York, editor of the Century magazine, has been selected as president of the University of Wisconsin.

Mr. Frank is thirty-eight years old. He was born in Queen City, Mo., October 1, 1887, and received his bachelor of arts degree from Northwestern university in 1912 and a doctor's degree from Lincoln Memorial university in 1922.

Funeral of Gen. Mangin Held

Paris.—The funeral of Gen. Charles Mangin, the hero of Verdun, who died, was held here. Marshal Joffre and many of the highest military officials, government heads, members of the diplomatic corps and of the American Legion formed a part of the funeral procession.

Oil Strike Threatened

Mexico City.—Labor headquarters report that a general strike is threatened in the oil regions.

FRENCH TROOPS CAPTURE HEIGHTS

Moors Are Driven From Stronghold—Big Losses on Both Sides.

Paris. — General de Chambrun's men, in cleaning out a strong position of the Riffians on the heights of Bibane, in Morocco, in one day, are declared to have administered a "salutary lesson" to the invaders. It was said that it required close fighting with cold steel to dislodge Abd-El-Krim's followers.

Through the capture of Bibane the French may proceed to a flanking move against a series of Riffian fortifications threatening the Ouergha passages over a thirty-mile front. With this line of defense gone there is no further safety for the Riffians except within the Riff mountain chain, twenty-five miles to their rear and within the Spanish zone.

This reveals the significance of General de Chambrun's strategy in striking an immediate blow at the pivot of the whole Riffian defense, which is likely to oblige Abd-El-Krim's forces to retreat within the Spanish zone.

Tetuan, Spanish Morocco.—Advices received from the French zone are to the effect that fighting between the French forces and the rebel tribesmen continues, with heavy losses on both sides. The French military hospitals are reported filled to capacity, making necessary the evacuation of wounded to other hospitals.

It is asserted that the French high command is using native Moroccans in the operations, and that they are receiving high praise for their conduct in battle in view of the fact that some of them fought the French for twelve years, and only last year submitted to French rule.

French reinforcements with heavy artillery continue to come in from Algeria. The Riffians have captured French airplanes, which had to land in rebel territory because of damages.

Abby Rockefeller Drops 'Obey' From Wedding Vow

New York. — Abby Rockefeller, a granddaughter of John D. Rockefeller, knelt at a white satin altar, smilingly placed a steady hand in the somewhat trembling one held out to her, and was married to David Meriwether Milton with a ceremony from which the words "obey and serve" had been stricken at her behest.

The wedding was simple, yet touched with splendor. Only about fifty blood relatives of the bride and bridegroom and thirty servants who have been with the Rockefeller family for years were present.

Behind them, as they faced the altar, was John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who gave his daughter away. Behind them were the guests, surrounding the senior Rockefeller, who brushed his eyes as if removing a tear. Mr. and Mrs. Milton departed for a destination not made known, while the crowd and cameramen waited.

Miss Rockefeller wore a gown of silver colored net, embroidered, with a train of point de Paris lace which had a silver covered border. Her veil was of net with a narrow honiton lace border. The bridal bouquet was a spray bunch of white orchids clustered with gardenias and white satin ribbon.

H. Rider Haggard, Author, Dies in London Hospital

London.—Sir H. Rider Haggard, author, died here.

Sir Rider had been ill for four months, and recently was taken to a private hospital in London, where he died.

Although he achieved world reputation as a maker of fiction, it was known to but few that the real work of Sir H. Rider Haggard was in the field of practical agriculture, in which he gained the highest reputation among experts.

Jack Dempsey's Bride Seriously Ill in London

London.—Jack Dempsey's wife is dangerously ill. London specialists who were summoned to the Savoy hotel stated that the champion's film star bride had burst a blood vessel in her stomach and they ordered a complete rest, without food of any sort, for 48 hours.

War Veterans Warned to Speed Up Claims

Washington.—A warning was given all World war veterans to hasten filing of applications under the adjusted compensation act, in a ruling issued by Comptroller General McCarl, which disallowed payment on an application started, but not completed, at the time of the applicant's death.

Roads Move to New Station

Chicago.—Railroads occupying the Union station moved into the new $80,000,000 structure that has been building for several years. As soon as everything is out of the old station it will be razed.

Women Get Limited Vote

Rome.—The bill granting the vote to women in municipal elections received unanimous approval in the chamber of deputies. The measure was backed by the Fascisti and Mussolini.

EDGAR L. G. PROCHNIK

Above is pictured the Hon. Edgar L. G. Prochnik, the new Austrian minister to the United States, as he called at the White House to present his credentials and to formally enter upon his new duties.

MARKET QUOTATIONS BY U. S. GOVERNMENT

Washington.—For the week ending May 14.—HAY—Quoted May 14: No. 1 timothy: Cincinnati, $19.00; Chicago, $24.00. No. 1 alfalfa: Omaha, $15.50. No. 1 prairie: Chicago, $16.00.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES—New York sacked round white potatoes, $1.35@1.50 per 100 pounds in eastern terminals; northern stock, $1.20@1.45 on the Chicago carlot market. Texas yellow Bermuda onions, $3.50@3.75 per crate in consuming centers. Virginia and Maryland strawberries, 16@22c quart basis in eastern markets.

DAIRY PRODUCTS—Closing prices of 92-score butter: New York, 44c; Chicago, 41c; Philadelphia, 45c; Boston, 43½c. Wholesale prices on Wisconsin primary markets May 13: Single daisies, 21½c; longhorns, 21½c; square prints, 21¾c.

LIVE STOCK—Chicago hog prices closed $12.30 for the top, $11.90@12.15 for the bulk. Medium and good beef steers, $8.75@11.25; butcher cows and heifers, $4.65@11.35; feeder steers, $6.00@$9.00; light and medium weight veal calves, $7.75@11.25. Fat lambs, $12.06@13.70; spring lambs, $14.00@16.50; yearlings, $8.50@12.00; fat ewes, $5.25@8.85.

GRAIN—Quoted May 14: No. 1 dark northern wheat: Minneapolis, $1.60½@1.85½. No. 2 red winter wheat: St. Louis, $1.85@1.87. No. 2 hard winter wheat: St. Louis, $1.67@1.68. No. 3 hard winter wheat: Chicago, $1.66¾. No. 2 mixed corn: Kansas City, $1.08½. No. 3 mixed corn: Chicago, $1.13; Minneapolis, $1.05¾@1.06¾. No. 2 yellow corn: Chicago, $1.20@1.21; St. Louis, $1.17@1.17½; Kansas City, $1.12. No. 3 yellow corn: Chicago, $1.14@1.18; Minneapolis, $1.09¾@1.12¾. No. 2 white corn: Chicago, $1.16¾; St. Louis, $1.15½@1.16½; Kansas City, $1.10@1.11. No. 3 white oats: Chicago, 44½@46½c; Minneapolis, 42¾@43¼c; St. Louis, 47@48c. No. 2 white oats: Kansas City, 48¾@49c.

Coolidge Would Limit Sale of Poison Gas

Washington.—President Coolidge is firmly in favor of some limitations on the sale of poison gases, a question now being discussed at the Geneva conference on control of traffic in arms, it was stated at the White House. While the President is not sure as to just what plan should be adopted, he believes it can be arranged without interference with legitimate business.

Whatever agreement is reached, should interfere as little as possible, he holds with the sale for legitimate uses of chemicals which enter into the composition of poison gases, or which might be used for their manufacture.

Wisconsin Troops Called to Halt Forest Fires

Madison, Wis.—National Guard companies, composed of 300 men, were ordered into the brush fire area near Laon and in northern Oconto county. Fire has been burning in the cutover land in northern Oconto county for the last week and had covered 1,000 acres, according to word here. Only a heavy rain offers hope for checking the fire, rangers reported.

Cuban Congressman Who Killed Man, Assassinated

Havan , Cuba.—Representative Joseph R. (Pepe) Cano, leader of the Liberal party, was assassinated shortly before midnight by one of three men. Two years ago Cano killed Congressman Hanuel Alonso and fled to Europe. After an amnesty bill was signed he returned.

Three Burn to Death When Airplane Crashes

Trenton. Neb.—Lloyd L. Hefling of San Francisco, pilot, and two passengers, Mrs. Harry Gibson and Floyd Eakins of McCook, Neb., were burned to death near here when the airplane in which they were riding crashed to earth and burst into flames.

Gold Withdrawals in England

London.—Bar gold valued at $503,915,000 has been withdrawn from the Bank of England since the removal of the embargo on the export of gold, Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, announced in parliament.

Indorsed for Idaho Post

Washington.—Gov. C .C. Moore of Idaho called on President Coolidge to indorse H. E. Ray of Pocatello, Idaho, for United States attorney of the state.

.. Hawkeye .. State News

Interesting Items Gathered From all Parts of Iowa

The twenty-second annual Iowa Bakers association convention will meet at Muscatine May 19th and 20th.

The necessary funds have been raised and steps are being taken to incorporate a company to build a swimming pool in Hawarden.

The Church of Christ at Winterset has contracted for a new $40,000 building on the site of the old church which has been razed.

All legion posts of Crawford county have united to give a dance May 30th. Funds will go for orphans and placing markers on highways.

The Iowa Federation of Colored Women will meet in Keokuk for the twenty-fourth annual session of the organization, May 25, 26 and 27.

Motor vehicle operation, the chief factor in cost of highway transportation, costs Iowans over $300,000,000 a year.

Dedication of the new $275,000 addition to the St. Joseph's Mercy hospital at Sioux City will take place soon.

Shenandoah winners of the district typing and stenography contest will attend the state contest in Des Moines May 30th.

By increasing classes from twenty-five to thirty pupils, the school board at Sioux City plans to save $42,000 next year.

The town of Newell will have a community golf course, thirty acres of suitable land having been leased, and the greens will be prepared at once.

Manufacturers and shippers of Keokuk are watching with interest the efforts to revive freight traffic on the upper Mississippi by means of barge lines.

Iowa musical circles are making plans to send delegations to the national convention of the Federation of Music Clubs to be held in Portland, Ore., June 6th, 1925.

The condition of Iowa winter wheat is estimated to be 82 per cent of the normal on May 1. A production of 7,942,000 bushels is forecast compared with 8,078,000 last fall.

Instead of spending the $1,200 subscribed by Sigourney business men on hired bands the entire amount will be given to home talent this year. Concerts will be started in June.

Law students at Drake university will be given the state bar examination June 2nd, 3rd and 4th. University of Iowa law students will take the examinations June 14th, 15th and 16th.

Farmers in eastern and northeastern Iowa will not be troubled with white grubs this year as they were during 1924, according to Dr. Carl J. Drake, state entomologist, Iowa State College.

The first prize of $300 offered by Armour & Co. to the county farm bureau which made the most points in the better beef bulls campaign during the past year, has been awarded to Tama county.

Fifteen banks of Iowa which were closed wthn the last two years have either been reorganized or have been liquidated upon a satisfactory basis, R. L. Leach, state banking superintendent announced.

A $3,000,000 order calling for the manufacture of 1,000 freight cars and several thousand car trucks has been received by the Bettendorf company, Davenport, from the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway company.

Sixteen houses on property condemned by the state for the use of the University of Iowa as a site for the $1,000,000 memorial union building, were sold at public auction by the university for a total of $11,240.

Twenty-nine and one-half per cent of the population of Iowa is of school age, between the ages of 5 and 21. Nearly 22 per cent of the total enrollment is in the high schools and about 78 per cent in the elementary grades.

About 50,000,000 pike eggs were hatched this spring at the Ansing hatchery. These were distributed in West and East Okoboji, Spirit, Storm, Solar, Medium, Lost Island, Brown, Blue and Banowa lakes and the Des Moines, Coon and Cedar rivers.

Over 300 bankers of group five of the Iowa Bankers' association met at Red Oak recently in the largest convention ever held by the association. Leo J. Wegman of Carroll was elected chairman and E. H. Howe secretary. The next meeting will be at Carroll.

On April 1st, the Iowa Branch of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers had reached a total of 33,191, and was still going up. That is a gain of 8,065 or 33 per cent over one year ago, when the membership was 25,126, and of 12,000 or 60 per cent over two years ago. There were on April 1st about 420 affiliated associations in the state.

Not enough buggies were found in Decatur county to convey all the couples, when a Graceland college young men's club, decided to take their girls for an old fashioned buggy ride. A spring wagon was pressed into service to carry those for whom no buggies were available. Twenty years ago buggies were as common as house flies, old settlers said.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★
★ ★
★ Iowa is first in value of ★ ★ farm lands and buildings. ★
★ ★
★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Why That Bad Back

Is backache keeping you upset? all tired out—so nervous and disc you can hardly keep going? Then to your kidneys! Your kidneys the body of poisonous waste. B they lag, impurities accumulate poison the whole system. Then o apt to suffer backache, stabbing headaches, dizziness, and other a ing kidney irregularities. If your neys are sluggish, help them wi diuretic. Use Doan's Pills. They praised the world over. Ask neighbor!

An Iowa Case

Mrs. P. H. McAvinchey, 319 Second St., N., Oelwein, Iowa, says: "A cold settled in my kidneys and I had backache. I could hardly turn in bed. My back was sore and stiff and I felt tired and worn out. Dizziness bothered me and my kidneys acted too frequently. Doan's rid me of the trouble."

DOAN'S PILLS 60c

STIMULANT DIURETIC TO THE KIDNEYS

Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs. Chem., Buffalo, N.

One thing that keeps America of revolution is the fact that one citing sport season blends into an er.—Vancouver Sun.

GET FEELIN WELL AGAI

From Mother Nature's storeho we have gathered the roots, ba and herbs which are compound under the famous Tanlac formu to make Tanlac. This great to and builder has brought health strength to millions.

If your body is weak and und nourished, if you can't sleep or have stomach trouble or burni rheumatism, just you see h quickly Tanlac can help you b to health and strength.

Most people notice a big cha for the better after the very f bottle. They have better appeti and more pep. The sparkle co back to their dull eyes and color their faded cheeks.

Don't delay taking Tanlac other precious day. Stop at y druggist's now and get a bo of this, the greatest of all ton

Take Tanlac Vegetable Pills for Constipation

TANLAC FOR YOUR HEALT

He who can take advice is s times superior to him who can gi

Genuine BAYER

ASPIRIN

Say "Bayer" - Insis

For Colds Headache
Pain Lumbago
Neuralgia Rheumatism

Safe — Accept only Bayer packa which contains proven directio

Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tab
Also bottles of 24 and 100—Drugg

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylica

Know thine opportunity.—Pitt of Mitylene.

Cuticura Soothes Baby Rashes That itch and burn, by hot b of Cuticura Soap followed by g anointings of Cuticura Ointm Nothing better, purer, sweeter, cially if a little of the fragrant cura Talcum is dusted on at the ish. 25c each.—Advertisement.

Nature admits no lie.

Sure Relie FOR INDIGESTION

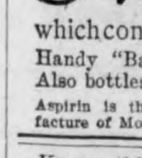
6 BELL-AN Hot wate Sure Relie

BELL-ANS

25¢ AND 75¢ PACKAGES EVERYWHE

RESINOL

Soothing and Healing Clears Away Blotche



PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Removes Dandruff-Stops Hair Fal
Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Ha
60c and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Wks., Patchogue, N.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, louses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort t feet, makes walking easy. 15c by mail or at gists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N.

FITS STOPPED FREE TRI TREATME

to any sufferer from Epilepsy or falling sick Write us today, giving age. EMMERLEPTO RE Co., Dept. E, 381 Third Street, MILWAUKEE

lent Adieu to Noted Matador ans Pay Tribute to eatest of Bullfighters on Retirement.

o City.—With 40,000 specta- ing a silent tribute of admira- ile the memory-stirring notes Golondrina" ("When the Swal- eturn") sounded over the rena, Rodolfo Gaona, matador ellence, made his last bow in ring recently. At the feet of illy arrayed figure lay the final 20 years, a huge animal with al sword thrust through his rs. The death struggle had the bull's head to the feet of nqueror. For a few seconds stood spellbound, then stooped htly caressed the once cruel it was his farewell to a life tching peril before he strode out of an existence which had m fame the world over. Tears hed freely by those assistants d fought near him for two s as the gate closed on the last from the field.

as a fitting climax to the end of the most remarkable public s of any entertainer of modern ably no American film star or ll player can lay claim to any- like the height of glory Gaona ched in the eyes of the Mexican Gaona fought bulls perfectly he Mexicans love bullfighting than any other diversion. Gaona exican and in the estimation of international critics the best in rofession, either in Spain or o.

Begin Life as Bootblack.

na's career has been a remark- one. He started life as an un- ted bootblack. He is more popu- Mexico today than any Presi- and has a fortune estimated at 000. On one occasion he was nted with a bishop's tiara after d displayed extraordinary skill ourage and had killed his animal a single thrust, a difficult feat.

the recent day of his retirement which ordinarily sell for from $5 went for $25 to $100. The rmance started at three in the noon. At noon practically every in the arena was taken except reserved. It began to rain, but gh it all there was music and spectators prayed that Pluvius t cut off the water in time to al- the performance to begin. Five tes before the indicated hour, as magic, the dark clouds cleared as the clock at the top of the hitheater chimed three o'clock, the broke through and perfect weath- er prevailed. A mighty roar rose from 40,000 throats.

"Caliph of the Arena."

Gaona, the "Caliph of the Arena," as he is termed, the unequaled, appeared and the fight was on. He played and fought his first enemy with all cunning and killed the beast with a single thrust. His second victim suffered a similar fate. His third animal was uncontrollable, known to bullfightdom as "tame." The beast did not lend himself to art and gracefulness on the part of the man. The multitude roared for an extra bull. Gaona, the spectacular, turned to the judge's stand and asked that the request be granted. It was.

The substitute bull turned out to be all that the rules of the game required and "obeyed" the red cape to perfection, making it possible for Gaona to display the best in him. Within inches of the sharp horns, he played with the brute, caressed his forehead, knelt and turned his back to the sharp horns, touched the dangerous points. Like a hypnotist he controlled the animal. He "threw" himself "into the kill," his sword struck home clean through the shoulder blades to the heart.

The animal gave up the struggle, the last note sounded from the band. Gaona bowed his head and moved to the exit from the arena. The multitude, sorrow choked, uttered no sound whatever. Generally when "kills" such as Gaona had just registered take place there is a roaring cry of approval such as only a Latin audience can emit.

Owns Old Clock

Detroit.—The oldest clock in Detroit belongs to Howard Graves Meredith, British consul, here for years. Though made in 1610, this old timepiece, having been overhauled, runs right to the dot. It is one of the first clocks ever made with a minute hand; before that time, and even afterward, the clocks in general use had only an hour hand. The venerable relic was made in Paris and intended to be used, as desired, either as a clock or watch.

Arab Fashion on Links

Paris.—Chiseled leather coats, edged and lined with wool, are to be the fashion for women's wear on the golf links and tennis courts this spring. The idea comes from the skilfully worked saddles of some Arab chiefs, and the delicate leather work is being done by Moorish artists.

Sun Not So Hot, 3,000 Above Zero

Scientists Revise Theories After Studying Recent Total Eclipse.

Washington.—A summarization of scientific knowledge gathered from the sun's eclipse January 24 has led the bureau of standards to three main conclusions. These are:

That the sun's corona, which is the scientific term for the radiant mantle of material stretching to great distances from the main orb, is in part composed of solid or liquid material, and not entirely of gas.

That the existence of an element in the sun, provisionally dubbed "coronium," which has never been encountered on the earth's globe, is fairly well established.

That a new method of timing eclipses, based on the phenomena of light, can be worked out and applied on June 28, 1927, when the next great eclipse of the sun, visible in Europe, is due.

Dr. George K. Burgess, director of the bureau, and his staff of experts who made a variety of investigations during the few moments the sun was veiled, reached these conclusions at a meeting at which they brought their preliminary compilations together. They are continuing comparisons with the findings of other scientists.

Coronium Signs Detected.

Dr. C. C. Kiess, who took a spectra observation from the airship Los Angeles, detected again in his photographs the green and red lines which are believed to denote the existence of "coronium."

The conclusions as to the solid and liquid matter in the corona rest largely upon the experiments of Drs. H. T. Staetson and W. Coblenz, aimed at establishing the exact temperature of the sun. Doctor Coblenz, using better instruments than his predecessors, found the corona temperature to be 3,000 degrees above absolute zero, in spite of the fact that previous observations have indicated the temperature to be about 6,000 degrees. The difference in the two temperatures gives ground for the inference that the corona is made up in part of dense matter, because if it were all incandescent gas, the temperature would be higher.

In measuring the time of the eclipse, or rather the time of duration of obscuration, I. G. Priest, another bureau expert, sought to give astronomers better data for calculating the movement of the moon.

Several Seconds Out.

There is a gap in proven data which makes the time of the coming of eclipses uncertain by several seconds, and although this circumstance is philosophically accepted by ordinary humanity, it is annoying to scientists.

The bureau also was concerned in a general attempt to establish the influence exerted upon wireless transmission by the sun's obscuration, but its decisions on that point await the assembling of a very large number of observations.

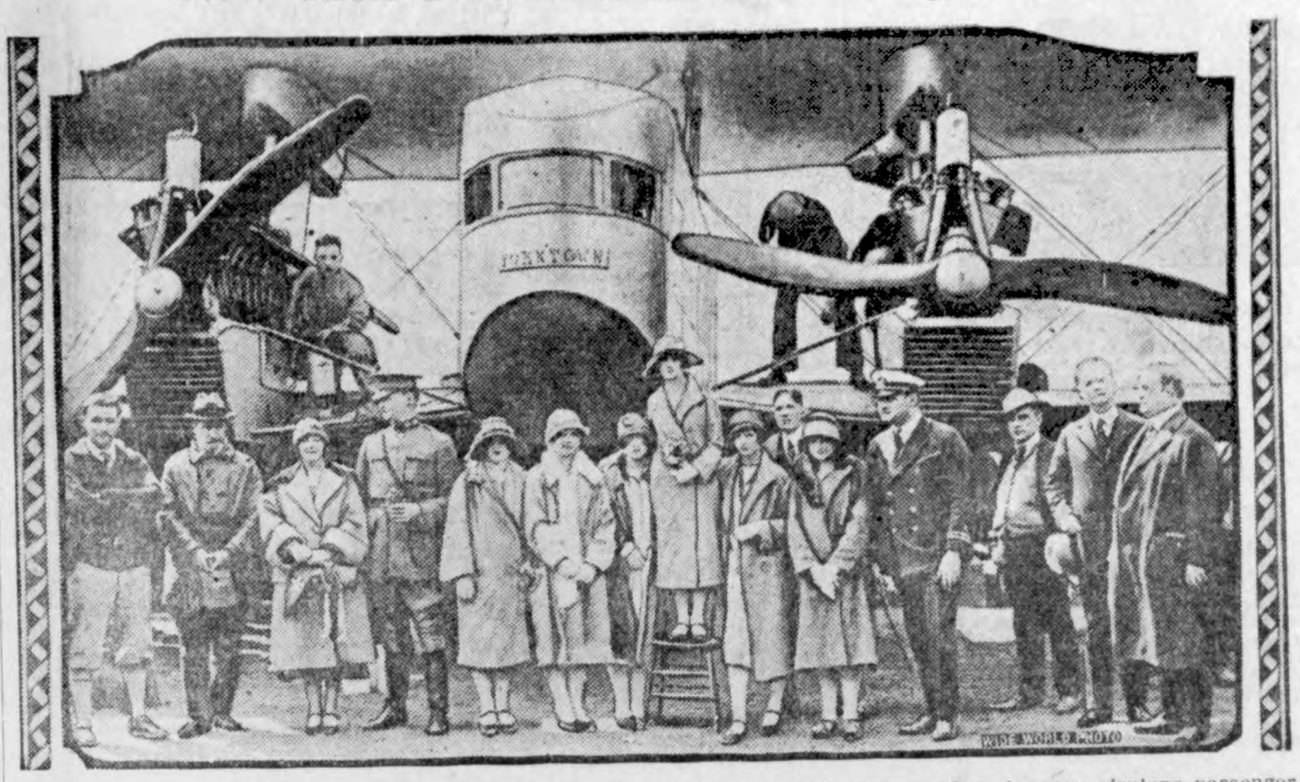
Greatest Lighthouse in World Is Started

Paris.—What is stated to be the most powerful lighthouse in the world was inaugurated on the summit of Mont Afrique in Burgundy for the purpose of facilitating night trips on the Paris-Marseilles air line.

The lighthouse has eight lights, with a total of 1,000,000,000 candlepower. If atmospheric conditions are favorable its powerful rays will be seen from Lille, Brussels, Frankfort and Milan.

Despite the heavy expense incurred for building the lighthouse, which cost the government over $100,000, it is expected that four more will be put up during the year in order to enable the air lines to run day and night services throughout the country.

New York-Yorktown Air-Line in Operation



Christening of the giant twin-motored transport plane at Bowling field, inaugurating the new airplane passenger service between New York and Yorktown, Va. Miss Elizabeth Owens, daughter of Clarence J. Owens, director general of the Yorktown forum, is standing on a chair, from which she christened the ship.

Establishing Signal Post in Attack on Hawaii

This, one of the first pictures of the war game in Hawaii to arrive, shows a landing party from the Blue fleet establishing a signal post on the shore.

Unveiling Zeebrugge Memorial

Scene when King Albert of Belgium unveiled the Zeebrugge monument erected to the memory of British heroes who carried out the dramatic raid on the seaport when it was held by the Germans.

SHE'S GOING CALLING

Miss Eleanor McCarthy, New Orleans society girl, at her airplane. She is piloting it to make social calls. "I see nothing unusual in a woman driving an airplane," said Miss McCarthy. "It is just as easy to operate as an automobile and is certainly more pleasant and speedier. While in France I learned to fly from Charles Nungesser, the French ace. This summer I intend to fly to several American resorts and will later tour Europe in my machine."

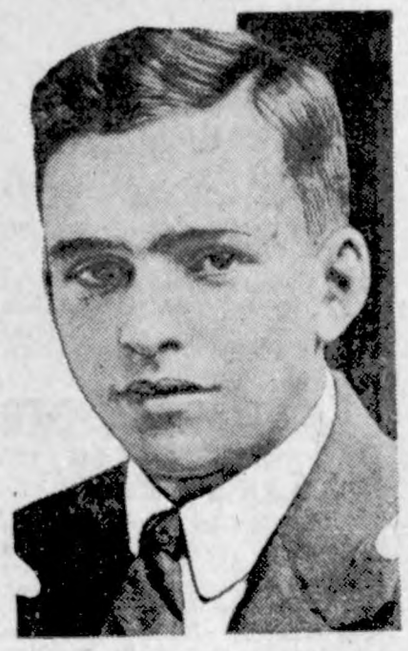
University of Kansas Roses

Here is a bouquet of nine Kansas roses, said to be the prettiest in the garden of the state university at Lawrence.

Smith's Best Bunch of Girls

The six most all-around girls at Smith college, who have been awarded "S" pins in recognition of physical and mental development and of highest sportsmanship. Left to right—Gertrude Benedict, '26; Virginia Thieme, '25; Barbara Churchill, '25; Caroline Bedell, '25; Lavina Fyke, '25, and Marjorie Boomer, '25.

WRITES PRIZE ESSAY



Robert Krumholtz, seventeen, of Springfield, Ohio, won first prize of $750 in the national essay contest conducted by the American Legion. More than 200,000 essays were submitted on the subject: "Why Communism Is a Menace to Americanism."

NATIONAL CAMPAIGN IS NOW ON TO PREVENT DROWNINGS

afety Council Plans Comprehensive Effort to Reduce the Annual Toll of Lives.

Chicago.—"Help to prevent drown- gs."

That is the slogan which will be roadcast throughout the country this ummer by the National Safety Coun- il in a comprehensive effort to reduce he toll of lives in accidental drown- ngs.

Approximately 6,500 persons were rowned in continental United States ast year, the council estimates. Mod- rn educational methods and public- ty on the subject have reduced the nnual toll from 8,800, the number rowned in 1911. A large part of the redit for this reduction is due the American Red Cross, which has pro- noted life-saving activities of various orts in communities large and small.

This summer the National Safety Council will add the organized effort of 60 large cities having a total population in excess of 30,000,000 which have affiliated community safety councils.

The safety councils of these cities will extend the campaign into the public and parochial schools, into the homes and into the industries. Swimming posters will be displayed the country over in an effort to interest people in learning how to swim. The prone-pressure method of resuscitation, recognized as the most efficient system of restoring breathing in the apparently drowned will be taught along with ways and means of rescuing helpless persons from lakes and rivers.

Thirty of the country's largest radio stations will broadcast talks on the prevention of drownings.

"There is no doubt but that the ability to swim is of first importance if the drownings in this country are to be reduced," says W. F. Cameron, managing director of the council. "Everyone, young and old, should get out this summer and learn how. Especially should children be taught because swimming becomes harder to learn as the person grows older. Besides, swimming is wonderful exercise and develops the muscles and tissues of the body into a suppleness not accomplished by most other forms of recreation."

Ban Billboards

Harrisburg, Pa.—Senator Clarence Buckman appreciates beauty in all forms, but he fears that billboards which display in garish colors and alluring pose, hosiery and underwear models distract the attention of motorists. Accordingly he has presented a bill in the senate prohibiting the erection of billboards on state highways.

An inventor in Australia has perfected an electrical device for measuring the depth of water in wells.

Priscilla Dean
the Favorite Universal Film Star says of the mysterious, distinctive
NEW GARDA ODOR
"Its strange, clinging delicacy always is a source of delight."
Have you tried the NEW Garda Toiletries? If not, try them now. You will be charmed. This complete line of products issued by the great
HOUSE OF WATKINS
(Established 1868.)
WINONA, MINNESOTA.
consists of seven rich creations:
GARDA FACE POWDER, ROUGE, FACE CREAM, PERFUME, TOILET WATER, NAIL POLISH, TALCUM
Learn to know and love Garda, as millions of women are doing. Ask information about Garda Toilet Preparations and 137 other Products from
THE WATKINS RETAILER

Floyd Fraser

THE CALSS OF 1925

Continued from Front Page

largest school of Cosmopolitry.

Gerald Koerner had just returned from Egypt, where he had completed a contract with the famous Laska Players. Rudolph Valentino and all the other stars look up to this great star and every man, woman, and child hearld with delight, a picture starring Gerald Koerner.

There was another, who had grown to be a very famous surgeon. He was in a very great hurry to get back to his work as his duties would allow little time for pleasure. This remarkable man was none other than Hilary Greimann.

In the wee, small hours of the night, the program drew to a close. Then with a few old familiar High school songs, we parted, each one back to his vocation, promising that we should meet again at the end of a nother ten years. The beautifully lighted room, the sweet scent of the Lily-of-the Valley, the colors, Scarlet and White, and the motto "To-night we launch, where shall be Anchor?" will linger long in our hearts.

CLASS SONG

We will tell you now a story, Of a class of '25.

That started in a High School, with the colors green and white
Full of laughing lads and lassies, is that class of '25.
That started in a high school, with the colors green and white.

Through the Four long years of High School,
Mid'st the scenes we know so well,
We have worked our way to knowledge,
And of this we love to tell.
We have had our joys and sorrows,
But at last we've won the fight,
Still we'll work for Dear old Klem-
me,
And the good old green and white,

Now we'll launch our ship to seaward,
Oh where shall the harbor be,
Shall it be a quiet harbor,
Or be a stranded out to sea?
But lets banish care and sadness,
As we sing our song tonight,
And recall those days of gladness
Neath the bands of green and white.
CHORUS—
Now we hope you will remember,
The message that we bring,
Just remember we're the people
Of the class of which we sing.

SENIOR CLASS WILL

Whereas, we the class of 1925, of K. H. S. Township of Ell, County of Hancock, state of Iowa, U. S. A., realize that our days with you are numbered and we shall soon be in the "Happy Hunting Ground" of the Alumni; being of charitable mind, and fair memory; feeling that we should leave to the lower classmen all our worldly possessions and priveledges which we shall need no longer, do hereby draw up, form, write, make, advertise, publish and circulate, this our last will and estament. And we do hereby bequeath the understated articles to the beneficiariers mentioned below:

I We, the Senior class of 1925, give and bequeath to our hard working successors, the Junior class, the dignified, respectable and highly honored title of Seniors.

To the aforementioned class we give and bequeath our two rows of comfortable, beautiful finished seats on the west side of the assembly.

To the aforementioned Junior Class we give and bequeath all our power over erring emerald Freshmen. Together with this we give the Juniors all the special privildges taken by us.

Of the aforementioned Junior Class, we demand a promise that they will maintain the brilliant scholastic record attained and held by us.

II We give to the class of 1927, of the aforesaid school, city, county, state and nation the right to cast off the tile of "Silly Sophomores" and accept the title of "Jolly Juniors" We also give them our best wishes in their upward march to Senoric excellence and attainment.

III To those at the bottom of the ladder, and are just starting to climb upward, when they will gain the title and priveledges of Seniors, we give and bequeath the right to cast off their gaudy green garments and assume the title of "Silly Sophomores.

IV To the Faculty of the said school, the joy and duty of instructing the aforementioned classes, as well as they have instructed us, although, in our old age we see the coming generations are inferior mentally to the present generation.

We, the undersigned individuals do hereby bequeath:

1. My manly physique to Donald Turgasen—Hilary Greimann.
2. My Solemn Manner to Russel Beil. —Sylvanus Wacker.
3. My ability to grow a mustache to Harvey Nelson—Gerald Koerner
4. My Bluff to whoever can get by with it.—Glen Busch.
5. My poetic nature to Edmund Josten.—Adela Schroeder.
6. My ability to play on the linoleum to Milo Patet—Neota Ridder
7. My natural curly hair to Gladys Wilson.—Faith Ax.
9. My ability to chew gum to Martin Barz—Leona Lau.
10. My Irish disposition to Alvin Theiman—Maurine Hake.

We do hereby assign to the Faculty the sacred duty of sole executor of this, our Last Will and Testament, knowing on our dying day that they will see that our last wishes will be carried out to the last leter.

We hereby, in he presence of the Faculty, no annual, revoke, make void and cancel all previous wills, promises and bequests made by us heretofore and disclose this to be our last will and Testament and to contain final commands, requests and befuests.

IN TESTAMONY WHEREOF we, the Senior Class of 1925, hereunto set our hands and seal this eleventh day of May in, the year of our Lord 1925.

Class of 1925

Signed, sealed, declared and published by the said class of 1925, as and for their last will and testament, in the presence of us who at their requests and in their presence and in the presence of each other do attach our names hereto.

A. AWFUL IDIOT, Notory Public

Witnesses.
W. E. Meanwell
Heeza Nut
Ima Nut

OUR CLASS

There is a class in our school,
And it is wondrous wise!
In language, alive and dead
It always takes a prize

Admired Leona heads the class,
Whose laughter bright and gay;
Has cheered our weary, burdened hearts,
And brightened many a day

Then Neota, a musician great,
Who plays the latest airs,
Her nimble fingers drive away,
Dull thoughts and school-room cares

Nert Andrew, who's a radio fan,
And experiments every day;
He will have out-worked Edison,
When he is old and grey

And next in nobleness is Faith,
A faithful student she,
She'll cure this sinful human race
When she a nurse will me

Next Gerald whose ambition is civil engineer
He is also a great athlete,
'Twill help in his career

And Hilary, who'se a farmer's son—
But it is very true;
That no one has a theory
What he will ever do

Silvanus' forehead's wrinkled
From thinking, so they say;
He'll spend his precious moments
In nothing less than play

There is another in our class,
And this is Glen you see,
We'll all await the happy day
When he a Prof will be

RURAL SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT

A dozen years ago this term was not in use in Iowa. Ahen the rural school was ungraded and the pupils did not graduate from the course. but merely stopped attending. For the large majority, too, this meant the end of the educational career for the pupil. Today, every county has graded rural schools and graduation exercises for those who complete the course ending with the completion of the eighth grade work. This change has come because of the law providing high school tuition payment by the district. It is estimated that the counties of the state will average one hundred fifty rural eigh th grade graduates, which would total approximately fifteen thousand such to graduate in May or June this year. No doubt this growth in rural school graduates may account largely for the rapid increase in high school enrollment in Iowa, which enrollment has been estimated to have doubled in the past ten years. The fact, too, illustrates the extension of school priviledges to the rural child.

It becomes more evident every day that the Leaugue of Nations is as big a help in abolishing wars in Europe as Charley Byran was in elect Davis President of the United States.

NO WHITE GRUB DANGER

This is an "Off" Year for Pest—"Crop Protectors" Not Needed

Iowa farmers who find white grubs in their corn fields this spring need feel no alarm from this cause, says Dr. C. J. Drake, state entomologist, Iowa State College. These grubs are the ones which did the damage last year, he explains, and will feed for only a short time now before going into the harmless pupae stage.

When it is possible that some of the early planted corn fields may suf fer slight damage from these pests, nothing in the way of preventive measures are necessary. Applying "crop protectors" is unnecessary and would be a waste of money, declares, Dr. Drake.

Farmers are advised, however, that the year 1927 will be another season when damage may be exppected and thec ropping system should be so managed that corn will not be planted on sod land that year.

We often wonder whether the contractor who built the Leaning Tower of Pisa made it that way on purpose or whether it was a government job.

Presjdent Coolidge is in favor of world peace, and now all that remains is for the world to be in favor of it.

THIS IS THE RIGHT PLACE

To buy your Cigars, Cigarettes, Smoking and Chewing Tobacco—our stock is always nice and fresh.

We carry a complete line of box and bulk fancy candy.

Refreshing soft drings.

And, why not step in and play a social game of pool while in town?

SMITH'S BILLARD HALL

CULTIVATORS

We have on hand a few: — M. H. John Deere Two-row Cultivators; V. B.Leverless Deere 6 Shovel; R. C. Hammock seat Deere, 6 shovel, corn plows.

How about new shovels and shovel points for your old corn plow?

BARGAINS

1—150 tooth Boss Harrow	$27.00
1—160 tooth Flexible 20 Ft. Harrow	$43.00
1—160 tooth Flexible 20 Ft. Harrow	$45.00
1—Hoosier End-gate Seeder	$20.00
1—10 Ft. M. C. Disc Harrow	$75.00

OPEN EVERY EVENING

L. W. WESENBERG
GOODELL, IOWA

Central States Electric Co.

Employees Want To Talk to You

SHOULD ANY OF OUR EMPLOYES CALL ON YOU REGARDING THE COMPANY'S STOCK, please listen to them because they will have something interesting to tell you.

THESE EMPLOYEES ARE INTERESTED IN THEIR COMPANY and have volunteered to sell its stock because it helps you as well as them.

THEY ARE NOT STOCK SALESMEN, BUT THEY KNOW WHAT THE STOCK PAYS, and why it is a good safe investment.

LET THEM TELL YOUWHY THEY ARE INVESTING THEIR OWN SAVINGS, in the 7% PREFERRED STOCK and WHY EVERY Customer should own this stock.

These EMPLOYEES CANNOT AFFORD TO SPECULATE And THEY INVEST THEIR SAVINGS in the COMPANY'S STOCK for just that reason.

REMEMBER THE 7% PREFERRED STOCK is issued FULLY PAID and NON-ASSESSABLE, and FREE OF IOWA TAXES, and the NORMAL FEDERAL INCOME TAX.

ALSO IT IS THE INVESTMENT THAT HAS THE QUICK MARKET FOR CASH if you should find yourself in need of the money invested.

ASK ANY EMPLOYEE FOR THE APPLICATION BLANKS and CIRCULAR describing the new investment, or fill out the attached Coupon.

Central States Electric Company
(Dows, Smith Reed Organization)
GENERAL OFFICES
CEDAR RAPIDS, IOWA.

FILL IN THIS COUPON! Send it to:

Securities Department
CENTRAL STATES ELECTRIC COMPANY
Over 215 South 2nd St., Cedar Rapids, Iowa

Gentlemen:—
Without obligating me in any way please send me your Circular describing the 7 Per Cent Preferred Stock.

NAME .....

Address .....

(Klemme Times) Week 5-17-'25.

Have a Purpose in Mind

It is easy to save if you have a purpose in mind. There are always so many things you would like to have. Select one. Save until you are able to possess it. Then start saving again for something else.

You will learn the value of the saved dollar which leads to independence and happiness.

First National Bank.
KLEMME, IOWA.

Lawn Supplies

NEEDS NO SHARPENING

The Johnston lawn mower is always sharp. Its crucible steel blades retain their keen edge by working against the die steel bed-knife.

That makes Johnston easy running. Cutting requires far less force than tearing. The Johnston cuts every blade of grass off clean.

THE Johnston PRESSED GEAR Lawn Mower

is built to last for years. There is not a bit of cast iron in it. The big drive wheels and the gears are pressed steel. You can't break them, you can't even hurt them. Besides being always sharp, the Johnston is always in working order.

Mowers
Lawn Rakes
Grass Catcher
Lawn Hose
Sprinklers
Grass Seed
Grass Shears

JACOBS & SON

Don't Let The Rest Of The World Go By!

Buy A Ford And Go With Them!

See us soon and let us talk it over with you. We'll demonstrate.

Exclusive dealers for NORTHLAND OIL.

Authorized FORD Sales and Service.

Greimann Motor Company

THE KLEMME TIMES

enty-ninth Year—Number 38. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, MAY 28, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

EMORIAL PROGRAM TO BE GIVEN SUNDAY

rvices Will Be Held At The Park Beginning At 2:30 O'clock

Klemme will observe Memorial y on Sunday, May 31st, with an propriate service at the Park beinning at 2:30 o'clock P. M., after hich the procession will form and arch to the cemetery for the decating of graves and Legion ritual. The Memorial program and all of e arrangements are in charge of e Adam-Schaefer Post, American gion, of Klemme.

Following is the program of the y as it will be carried out here nday:

PROGRAM AT THE PARK

usic The Klemme Band
(a) March—The Outlook.
(b) Overture—Radiant.
vocation Rev. Gauger.
ng "AMERICA."
Audience, Band Accompaniment
ddress Rev. C. H. Van Metre (State Chaplin, American Legion
usic Klemme Band
March—Our Mascot.
enediction

FORMATION

rocession will form at the southest corner of the Park in the follwing order and march to the Cemery:

olors and Guard, Civil War Veterns and Speaker, Band, Firing quad, American Legion, Boy Scouts, amp Fire Girls, School Children, ty Officials, Citizens and all patriic bodies.

PROGRAM AT CEMETERY . .

ecoration of Graves by the Camp Fire Girls.
itual American Legion
alute Firing Squad
Taps
aising Flag to full mast at Park
Boy Scouts
(All ex-service men are to appear in niform.)

By having the memorial services re Sunday it was possible to seure Chaplin Van Metre to deliver e address. Rev. Van Metre is an -soldier and is widely known as e of the best speakers to be obined. Attend the services Sunay and take a part in them.

925 MARKS 100 ANNIVERSARY OF NORSE IMMIGRATION

The year 1925 marks the on hunredth anniversary of the real beginning of Norse immigration to this ountry. At this time the "Restaurtarieum" arrived which brot the irst large group of Norwegion imigrants. In commemoration of his event an internation celebration s to be held at the Minnesota state air grounds, June 6th, 7th, 8th and th. The issuance of special series f postal stamps for the occasion as been ordered by postmaster gen ral and are on sale in seven places the United States, St. Paul, Minnapolis, Venson, Minn, Northfield, Minn, Decorah Iowa Algona and Washington D. C. Many orders for he stamps have already been received at those places.

The stamps are of the size of an ordinary stamp and are printed in two colors. The 2 cent tamp has a picture of the Restauratioriem on it with a small vessel in the background. At the top appears the words "Norse American" and below "Centennial" . The 5 cent stamps has a viking ship on it, with words "Norse American 1824, 1925 and Sentennial" on it.

"REMEMBER WHEN"

If you break faith with us who die, we shall not sleep, though poppies grow in Flanders Field.

Sleep on Buddies. Sleep in peace. Klemme will keep faith with you. It has not forgotten your supreme sacrifice. It will always remember your love for your Country and fellow man, as evidence of which you so unselfishly laid down your lives on the Altar of Patriotism.

H. G. Miller, Ex-Soldier.

THE STORY OF THE POPPY

In France and Belgium, the countries you have heard so much about, the people lived happily, enjoying the freedom of their beautiful country, when one day came vast numbers of German soldiers who laid waste their land. The huge guns of the Germans did not spare anything, homes were wiped out, families separated, and thousands gave their lives at this time. The United States entered into this conflict, sending our boys across to help turn the enemy back that liberty might prevail in the world. As we all know, many of our men were killed or died in service over there and now lie buried in the soil they helped to save.

In the spring of 1919 after the war, on Flanders Field, where the firing had been terrific and thousands of our boys had fallen in battle in the midst of complete devastation the poppies came up in abundance. The French women tell you today that the poppy is significant of the sacrificial blood of the boys who fell on Flander's Field. Those who have traveled through France since the war, tell us that it is pecularily true. That where the battle was fiercest and the bloodshed the greatest, the poppies to this day grow more profuse.

From this beautiful superstition comes the true message of the poppy—the mesage from the boys who fell, as expressed most beautifully in Colonel McRae's verse; "We Shall Not Sleep."

Because of this close association to the supreme sacrifice made by the boys who fell in France, the poppy has become the Memorial Flower of the American Legion and the Auxiliary—the emblem of faith that is being kept through service to the living.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

May 4, 1925.

Town council met in regular session at the Mayor's office. All members present.

Motion made and sec. to allow the following bills:

Benn J. Coobs; April Salary	$75.00
Walter Johnson; Rolling Park	2.50
Matt Parrott & Sons; Ledger Leaves	2.30
Klemme Times; Publishing Council Proceedings	1.40
Community Service St. Co., 30 gallons Oil	22.50
Geo. M. Bechtel Co.; Funding Bond Int.	135.00
Harry Gram; Hauling rubbish	.75
John H. Suckow; Labor Town Hall	10.10
Central States Elec. Co., April Light	36.10

Bills allowed.

Motion made and sec. to read Ordinance number 40. An ordinance Prohibiting the Manufacture and Sale and the Keeping for Sale of Intoxicating Liquors and Defining Bootlegging and Prescribing a Penalty therefor was read the first time.

Motion made and seconded that the rules be suspended that Ordinance number 40 be read the second time.

Carried by the following vote: F. A. Arnold—Yea; Val. Josten—Yea, Lester Stille—Yea; Wm. Smith—Yea; & H. L. Suckow—Yea.

Ordinance number 40 was read the second time.

Motion made and seconded that the rules be suspended and that Ordinance number 40 be read the third time.

Carried by the following vote: F. A. Arnold—Yea; Val. Josten—Yea; Lester Stille—Yea; Wm. Smith—Yea; & H. L. Suckow—Yea.

Moved and seconded that Ordinance be passed carried by the following vote.

F. A. Arnold—Yea; Val. Josten—Yea; Lester Stille— Yea; Wm. Smith—Yea; and H. L. Suckow—Yea.

A majority of the council having voted, therefore Ordinance number 40 was declared duly adopted by the Mayor and was approved by him.

Motion made to adjourn.

A. J. Kudje, Clerk.

FOR SALE AT PUBLIC AUCTION

—old School House in District No. 9, Liberty twp., to the highest bidder, on Monday, June 1, 1925, at 1:00 P. M. E. H. Ludeke, President; Joseph Schuldt, Sec. 1wc

In Their Memory

We Shall Not Sleep

In Flanders' Field the poppies blow,
Between the crosses, row on row
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks still bravely singing fly,
Scarce heard admist the guns below

We are the dead.
Short days ago we lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Lived and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders' Field

Take up your quarrel with the foe.
To you from failing hands we throw
The Torch—be yours to hold it high;
If ye break faith with those who die,
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders' Field.

—Colonel McRae

TIME YET TO PLANT FLOWERS

This May be Done If Plants Do Not Need to Be Transplanted

For those who neglected to put out flower gardens early this spring, there is still time to plant certain varieties of annuals so that they will bloom this fall, says E. C. Valz, specialist in floriculture, Iowa State College.

The following are some good varieties for this late planting: sweet alysum, balsam, calendula, calliopsis, Chinese aster, four o'clock, gyp sophilo or annual baby's wreath, nasturtium, portulacea, African Marigold, French marigold, Virginia stock and zinna.

The seed should be planted where the flowers are wanted to bloom, since transplanting will cause delay. Planting in informal clumps in a border in front of a hedge or wall is reccomended, rather than planting in the middle of the lawn. The borders show off the flowers to better advantage and are easier to tend, whereas a bed in the middle of the lawn detracts from the appearance of the latter.

Kindly visitor: I'd like to see convict 515, please warden, 'f he's in.

We know a man who is so thin that he makes a living by diving in bottles and pulling out corks.

REPLANT OLD STRAWBERRIES

Timely Tips on Celery and Spinach Given by Specialist

New beds or plantations of strawberries may be set out any time up to the end of the fruiting season with good results, according to C. V. Holsinger, small fruit specialist, Iowa State College extension service If an old strawberry bed is available, simply dig up the plants with a spade and set them out about 20 inches apart in rows. Follow the usual clean culture methods in caring for the plants and when the new runners are well established, remove the old plants with a sharp knife.

Celery for the early crop will be ready for transplanting from now on up to the middle of June. Avoid checking the growth of the plants when they are set out, by transplanting them in the evening, watering well, and protecting them from the sun for a day or two by covering with old newspapers or boards held up by bricks. Thorough cutivation should be followed and, if possible, put on a good dressing of well-rotted manure. Seed for a later celery crop should be planted now in beds and the ground kept moist by watering and by covering with burlap until the plants come up. These plants will be ready to set out about the middle of July.

New Zealand spinach, if planted before June 10, will furnish a supply of tender shoots up until freezing time, next fall.

CHICK MORTALITY IS HIGH

Poultryment May Need to Resort to Late Hatches This Year

Due to the cold weather this spring, the mortality rate among young chickens has been very high, and many poultrymen will find it necessary to resort to later hatches in order to get enough chickens. Late hatched chickens are harder to raise because bacteria and parasites are more troublesome during the late summer, according to H. A. Bittenbender, chief in poultry husbandry, Iowa State College.

Late chicks may be successfully grown, however, if special precautions are taken to keep them off infested ground, to provide plenty of shade, fresh water, milk, good mash and to avoid overcrowding. July and August chicks are not advisable for the average poultrymen and June hatches are recommended only to meet an emergency.

The lesson of last winter ,when so many chickens died, should tend to discourge late hatches, which was undoubtedly the greatest single cause, say poultry expert.

Those having flags should remember that on Decoration Day the flag should be hoisted to the peak for an instant and then lowered to the half mast position until noon. At noon the flag should be raised to the peak and allowed to fly there until sunset. This is to show that our country still lives.

LAST DAYS OF SCHOOL MADE A BUSY WEEK

The graduation exercises at the high school auditorium Thursday evening was well attended. We have heard many complimentary remarks in regard to the excellent singing of the high school chorus. This was an especially attractive part of the program. Prof. Waterman, of Iowa City gave the commencement address in a forceful manner to the class. On Friday the annual school picnic was held at the Park and all enjoyed the last big get-to-gether meeting of the year and all had a good time. On account of the hot, windy weather no program was given and at an early hour in the afternoon the picnic broke up. All of the teachers have now left for their respective homes to spend the summer, some are attending summer school and others are enjoying their vacation. Mr. Neese and family will leave the first of the month to spend the summer at their Ventura home and Mr. Blue and family expect to leave in a short time for Iowa City where Mr. Blue will continue his studies before taking charge of the Goodell school in the fall.

EIGHTH GRADERS OF HANCOCK COUNTY TO GRADUATE SOON

GARNER—The graduating exercises of the eighth grade pupils of the Hancock county schools, not including those of Britt or Garner, are scheduled to take place in the Methodist church in Garner Tuesday morning, May 26, beginning at 10 o'clock. The class numbers 140 boys and girls, and this will be the twenty-first such graduation in the county. Prof. Macey Campbell of Cedar Falls has been engaged as chief speaker and County Superintendent J. R. Baggs will present the 140 diplomas. The young eighth graduates are distributed among the various townships as follows: Amsterdam, 4; Avery 8; Bingham, 19; Boone, 3; Britt: 3, Concord 4, Crystal 3, Ell 5, Ellington 7, Erin 5; Garfield 43 Liberty 9, Madison, 3; Magor 6, Orthel 6, Twin Lake 1, Crystal Lake 10, Hayfield 8, Goodell 4 Klemme8, Corwith 20.

Were the graduates from the Britt and Garner eighth grades included they would each add about 50 to the total of the county eighth graders who will receive diplomas this year.

The following students are the graduates from around Klemme.

Klemme

Lela Bachman
Irene Johnson
Charles Busch
Albert Keeper
Lucille Kraus
Elmer Larson ffi
Esther Larson
Mabel Schuldt.

Goodell

Harold Boren
Joseph Burgess
Fannie Dorenkamp.
Verner Hamilton.

Ell

Theodore Albers.
Karsjens Christians.
Lawrence Greimann.
Irving Mitchell.
Harold Radloff.

Liberty

Kenneth Gast ffi
Lydia Haberkamp
Vicent Kopacek
Adeline Kumsher
Glenn Lange
Roy Lange
Helen Lemke
Rueben Lemke
Miner Schrader

Avery

Lois Church
Ruth Fuller
Sumner Fuller
Barbara Gealow
Andrew Lauen
Nina Schumacher
Doris Waddingham
Albert White.

Real Estate Transfers

E. F. King wf to W. F. Hunter, W D date 5-20-25, $1.00, Und 3-10 int. in S½ 16-94-24.

Ella Moir hus to Adolph Holck, Q C D date 4-8-25, $1.00 lots 1-2-7-8, blk 17 Lattimores add to Britt.

F. A. Gabrielson et al t oGuy Geo Gabrielson, Q C D date 5-18-25, W ½ SW¼ 13 & SE¼ 14-97-25.

LESSON FOR BOYS

THE boy or girl in school can honor Memorial Day by a quiet resolution to prove a patriot of peace. It is no mere figure of speech to assure the high school boy that peace can offer him as true a challenge as war offered to the doughboy going over the top. To see to it that a spirit of chivalry from boys toward girls marks our schoolhouse and our town; to keep the graduating class clean from jealous bickering politics; to insist on fair work in class and fair play everywhere—will not those opportunities for right dealing call out the soldier tone? Indeed they will! If every family caught the spirit of valiant living that marks Memorial Day, should not America witness a new generation of fearless patriots of peace?—Youth's Companion.

Memorial Day Observance

WHAT does "memorial" signify? The answer is, in memory of our dead or a day to decorate the graves of those we love and friends we respected, not forgetting our unknown soldier.

All nationalities and different religious denominations in churches and out in the open pay religious tribute to those who have departed to meet their Maker through the most fervent prayers, and the laying of flowers and flags on the graves of our dead is a most solemn duty accompanied by joy and tears—a joy on that day if we are in close proximity to those we loved and tears when our recollections of the past are so vividly fresh in our minds.

Memorial day is the one day in the year when the good and bad, the rich and poor, the haughty and humble, through their grief at the resting place of their beloved forget the difference of their stations in life, because here is the time and the place where only through the name on the tombstones is there any distinction.

Little children assist in decorating the graves of those they love—perhaps a schoolmate, sister or brother, mother or father. Of all times in their lives this is the most solemn, their faces plainly indicating their seriousness, proving that the heartaches of all vary but little.

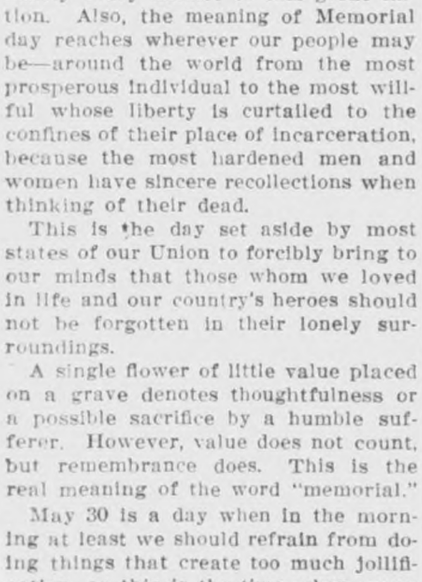
All these most human labors of love for the departed ones take place in nearly every hamlet of this great nation. Also, the meaning of Memorial day reaches wherever our people may be—around the world from the most prosperous individual to the most willful whose liberty is curtailed to the confines of their place of incarceration, because the most hardened men and women have sincere recollections when thinking of their dead.

This is the day set aside by most states of our Union to forcibly bring to our minds that those whom we loved in life and our country's heroes should not be forgotten in their lonely surroundings.

A single flower of little value placed on a grave denotes thoughtfulness or a possible sacrifice by a humble sufferer. However, value does not count, but remembrance does. This is the real meaning of the word "memorial."

May 30 is a day when in the morning at least we should refrain from doing things that create too much jollification, as this is the time when many in an official capacity and otherwise are visiting the homes of our dead, performing a most sacred duty. A little serious thought on what the day represents would mean more reverence for our dead.—J. P. Brophy, in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Impressive Tribute



One of the most striking pieces of statuary on the famous battlefield of Gettysburg. It surmounts the monument erected to the One Hundred and Twenty-third New York Regiment on Culp's hill.

Chimes in Tower of World War Memorial

Beauty to eye and ear is embodied in a carillon tower designed as a memorial to the sacrifices and ideals of the American people during the World war. Containing 54 bells said to be able to produce 270 tones, the monument is to be erected in Washington by the National Carillon association at a cost of $3,000,000. Columns near the top of the tower will provide openings so that the chimes may be heard at a considerable distance. It is planned to have masters in carillon performance give concerts on the set at appropriate occasions.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Monument to Be Erected That Will Have Bells in Tower for Playing Chimes.

Memorials Worthy of America's Great

Strikingly in contrast are the two memorials by the banks of the Potomac to two great American Presidents. The tall shaft which expresses the nation's tribute to George Washington is wholly different from the lower, square, temple-like memorial to Abraham Lincoln a short distance to the west. Each is a perfect example of its style. Each is a complete expression of the nation's thought.

The Washington obelisk rises high above all other structures in the capital. It is simple, pure and stately. It dominates the landscape. For many miles it is visible, the first mark of Washington, the city. It is of a form that in the ancient days was adopted to perpetuate the fame of the rulers of Egypt, a classic type, geometrically perfect, architecturally complete.

The Lincoln memorial could not have been effective if similar to its loftier neighbor. There could be no second tall shaft without lessening the significance of each.

Between Lincoln and Washington stretched a space of 64 years, from the end of the former's term to the beginning of the latter's, a little less than the space that has elapsed since Lincoln's death to this day. Thus in a way the Lincoln memorial marks the midpoint of the national career to the present from the first administration under the Constitution.

Other memorials will doubtless arise to the great men of the nation who have rendered valuable services, but none will be more eloquent than these two.

Day of Peace

On Memorial day the republic honors the memory of its heroes of three wars. Yet the day is distinctly a day of peace. We are grateful for peace, and we are grateful to the men who died to assure us peace with liberty and honor.

HIS DECORATION

By Gertrude West

The whole little village far and wide was gleaning bloom for its honored dead,
With tears for those who had bled and died, but I—had only beld.
The scent of the roses so wind-blown sweet went billowing by like God's caress,
And I saw a son and a mother meet—and ached with loneliness.
So my eyes were blurred till I could not see the wreath-bright crowd's advance,
Until one little flower girl ran to me—"Oh, buy a poppy for France," said she;
"For Flanders Field and France."

For France—and my face stung sharply hot,
This May day sweet with its blossom strewn
To be a soldier and be forgot—a few short years—so soon!
She looked up sweetly and said, "Don't grieve.
Perhaps you've your own cross Over There?"
I smiled and showed her my empty sleeve and said, "My cross I bear!"
And, "Alone?" she murmured. "Beneath the flag your blood was spilled to lift?"
Then she tore out the bloom from her hair at that
And thrust it into my ragged hat—
All day I wore her gift.
—Youth's Companion.

ENSEMBLE SUITS GO STRONG; MANNISH COATS FOR JUNIORS

THE ensemble suit, from the time of its introduction, has been a success with discerning women of fashion. As a result of increased variety in design, it shows signs of becoming an established rival of the plain, mannish tailored suit, and is making a wider appeal than ever this spring. The ensemble is especially well adapted to styles in formal suits, but it has been developed lately along those very practical lines that lead to unanimous approval.

In these late versions of the ensemble, practical suitings are used for the coats which are cut on simple

Of interest alike to youth and its elders are the handsome gayly plaided soft wool coats, which feature so definitely for sports and travel this season. Grownups are pleased to refer to their new double-breasted woolen coats, so smartly tailored, as prince of Wales models. Little folks are wearing topcoats similar in design, for an outstanding feature of children's apparel today is that it is almost amusingly a reproduction of the styles worn by mother and big sister.

The same mannish topcoats which stand for latest style to grown folks are being repeated for juniors. All the lines and long enough to either cover the frocks worn underneath or to allow a few inches to show. Interesting details of tailoring are introduced in these straight-hanging, practical coats, as in the large patch pockets on the coat at the right of the picture given here. These are covered with tucks, which probably contribute to the tailored finish of the frock also. Frocks to be worn with these very useful coats are made of printed silk, of plain crepe, of the material in the coat, or they reveal silk or crepe in combination with the cloth used in the coat. The frock shown in the figure at the left of the picture is severely tailored, with fashionable slit pockets at each side and bone buttons by way of finish on the skirt. These buttons emphasize the introduction of fullness characteristic details are stressed, especially the notched collar, the double breast, with either slash or patch pockets. Yes! even the tiny boutonniere on the lapel is worn by little girls. They tiny felt hat imparts a finishing touch.

Two of the Late Versions.

Not only is the style and cut of topcoats for children similar to that of older folks, but the materials are the same. The scope of the fabrics extends from smooth finished fabrics to softest woolens. Listed in the former are covert rep, suede-finished cloth, kasha and fine twills. Camel's-hair cloth, tweed and cheviot weaves register among the more sportslike woolens, pastel tints in these offering distinct appeal.

In some of the newer models there is some attempt to introduce a godet in the skirt and this additional fullness and slit pockets are two late style points in the tailored mode. But the most popular frock for ensemble suits is made of printed silk and it has comfort and cheerful color to recommend it for summer wear.

Follow Style for Older Folks.

The coat shown in the picture introduces a little color in the simple embroidered pattern that finishes the flaring sleeves and collar and both coats are of the sort that are useful for all-round wear.

fullness at the front, but this idea is perhaps not as popular as the inverted plait which is often inserted at each side of the lighter-weight cloth coats. Lightweight colorful flannel coats in such shades as copenhagen, china and madonna blue, lanvin green, and that very much talked-of shade, bois de rose, are being exploited for summer wear over dainty tub frocks. Black satin-tailored types are also included in fashionable coats for juniors.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

AFRICAN GOLF

A woman recently wished to dispose of a mah-jongg set of which she had grown tired, and asked a colored porter in her employ:

"Do you play mah-jongg?"

"What's that?"

"Oh, that's a game you play with little ivory blocks."

"Oh, yes, I play that," exclaimed the porter. "But why don't you say what you mean?"—Chelsea Record.

Ignorant of One Thing

Two friends were having an indignation meeting of their own. Both had suffered domestic strife and now they were comparing notes.

"Aren't women the limit?" growled the first. "We husbands don't know anything at all and our wives know everything."

"Well," said his companion in misery, reluctantly, "there's one thing my wife admits she doesn't know."

"What on earth is that?"

"Why she married me."

Telling 'Em

Rastus—When Ah had de influenza Ah had a chill dat was so cold dat it done froze all the water pipes in de horsepittle!

Sambo—Ain't nothin'. Once Ah had a fever, and mah mouth was so hot Ah melted the doctor's thumometh, and Ah had to wear asbestos pajamas to keep from buhnin' the bed clothes!

NOT EVEN ACQUAINTED

"How does that girl strike you?"

"Good heavens, man! You talk like I was her husband."

Breeding Places

The cistern breeds the skeeters, the garbage breeds the flies
That walk upon the ceiling
And buzz around the pies.

Motley Crew

Old Lady (to chorister)—And how many are there in the choir?

Chorister—Twenty-five.

Old Lady—Is it a mixed choir?

Chorister—Yes, all boys.

Old Lady—How can it be a mixed choir if they are all boys?

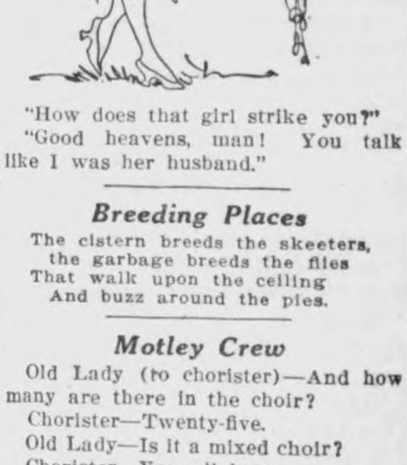
Chorister—It is; there is some as can sing, and some as can't.

How He Knows

"How does the bashaw know how many wives he has?"

"Oh, he takes stock at the first of the year regularly."

NOT ALTOGETHER



"I understand you got rid of your loud speaker."

"Well, not exactly! I'm still paying her alimony."

Fell Into Debt

'Twas in a restaurant they met,
Romeo and Juliet.
And there he first fell into debt,
For Romeo'd what Juli-et.

Soaked

Wife—Mrs. Jones sent over to borrow some sugar, some eggs and some flour. Evidently going to make some sponge cake.

Hub—Sponge cake is right. But why sponge entirely on us?

A Chuckle From Copenhagen

Customer—Ah, here's another of those hideous portraits you call works of art.

Dealer—Oh, no, madam! That's a mirror.

Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN

Say "Bayer Aspirin"

INSIST! Unless you see the "Bayer Cross" on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for 24 years.

Safe — Accept only a Bayer package

which contains proven directions
Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets
Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists
Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

Indispensable

As a safe, soothing and healing dressing for cuts, scalds, burns, roughened, dry and chapped skin and for all common skin troubles, "Vaseline" Petroleum Jelly has been indispensable to medical men and mothers for over half a century. Keep a jar or a tube handy.

Look for the trade-mark "Vaseline." It is your protection.

CHESEBROUGH MFG. COMPANY (Consolidated)
17 State Street New York

Vaseline
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.
PETROLEUM JELLY

FOR OVER 200 YEARS

haarlem oil has been a world-wide remedy for kidney, liver and bladder disorders, rheumatism, lumbago and uric acid conditions.

GOLD MEDAL HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES

correct internal troubles, stimulate vital organs. Three sizes. All druggists. Insist on the original genuine GOLD MEDAL.

Don't be annoyed by ugly blemishes, when red, irritated, blotchy skins can be quickly cleared by

Resinol

As It Seemed to Him

An old New York farmer attended a big picnic at Birmingham and stayed over to watch the dancing at night, says Town Topics. He hadn't been out in the world much, and he was deeply impressed with the girls' clothes at that dance.

"Some of the ladies' clothes I see here," he said, "plumb puts me in mind of a barbwire fence."

Somebody asked him why.

"Well," said he, "it's this way—they appear to protect the property without obstructin' the view."

Big Canadian Lakes

The largest lake within the borders of Canada is the Great Bear, 11,8[illegible] square miles in area. The Great Slave lake is second with 10,7[illegible] square miles.

And Sprinkle in the Foot-Bath
ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE
The Antiseptic, Healing Powder for tired, swollen, smarting, sweating feet. It takes the friction from the shoe, prevents blisters and sore spots and takes the sting out of corns and bunions. Always use Allen's Foot-Ease to break in new shoes. Sold everywhere. Trial package Free. Address ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE, Le Roy, N. Y.

Have Good Hair And Clean Scalp
Cuticura
Soap and Ointment
Work Wonders
Try Our New Shaving Stick.

Save Your Poultry and Hogs

Use Carbon Monoxide to kill lice, mites and disease. We also handle Creosote Dip. Write for special delivered prices.

CARBON MONOXIDE THE DISINFECTANT

Rogers Family Products
2925 Forest Ave., Des Moines, [illegible]

WRIGLEY'S
"after every meal"
Parents:- encourage the children to care for their teeth!
Give them Wrigley's. It removes food particles from the teeth. Strengthens the gums. Combats acid mouth.
Refreshing and beneficial!
SEALED TIGHT KEPT RIGHT

Fines for Bobbed Hair

In a town near Sao Paulo, Brazil, the mayor decreed that any barber cutting a woman's hair without permission from the father, husband or the male member of the family having authority over her would be fined 50 milreis (about $6).

MONARCH
Breakfast
COCOA
QUALITY for 70 years
REID, MURDOCH & CO.
Established 1853
CHICAGO - BOSTON
PITTSBURGH
NEW YORK

Slam at Agriculturalists

A scientist predicts that by the use of a new rapid-growth serum with which he is experimenting, the farmer will plant wheat one day and harvest the crop the next. That will leave 363 glorious days in which to grumble.—Humorist (London).

Because of its great dependability, Champion X has been standard equipment on Ford Cars and Trucks for more than 13 years.
Champion X for Fords 60c. Blue Box for all other cars, 75c. More than 95,000 dealers sell Champions. You will know the genuine by the double-ribbed core.
Champion Spark Plug Co.
Toledo, Ohio
Windsor, Ont., London, Paris
CHAMPION
Wear the Heel that Combines Comfort and Long Wear
"U.S." SPRING-STEP
Rubber Heels
A Better Heel to Walk On
And for the best shoe sole you ever had—
USKIDE
—the Wonder Sole for Wear
United States Rubber Company

THE BLUE CIRCLE

By Elizabeth Jordan

(© by The Century Co.)
WNU Service.

CHAPTER XII—Continued

—21—

"It might have been very serious," she went on slowly, more to herself than to him. "It was quite possible that we might be left there till dinner time. With the whole house demoralized by grandfather's illness, no one would have missed us—" She checked herself as a new thought occurred to her.

"Have you noticed how different the servants are?" she abruptly asked.

"I'm afraid," murmured Renshaw, "they are resenting me!"

She glanced at him.

"You mean—"

"It's natural enough. My position here is—well, odd, at the best. It would annoy almost any servants, I suppose. They are probably afraid I will interfere with the domestic end—though of course that is the last thing I should think of doing." He hesitated a moment. "And I haven't forgotten your grandfather's instructions to watch."

"You don't think that meant anything new? You didn't think so at the time."

"Perhaps not," he conceded. "But there's no harm in keeping one's eyes open. However, don't let's talk about those things. Let's talk about—you!"

She looked at him in quick surprise. It was the first time he had sounded the personal note. The unexpectedness of it startled her, but only for a moment. She smiled, and the smile illuminated her beautiful face.

"What do you want to know?"

"Why you dislike me so much."

"I don't dislike you," she soberly assured him.

"You did."

"Possibly I did. Yes, I think I did. But that seems long ago—so much has happened since!"

"Will you tell me the truth about something?" He spoke almost under his breath.

"If I can."

"Then, why did you dislike me in the first place? Your feeling was one of actual antagonism. On what was it based? There's usually a reason for a feeling as strong as that."

She hesitated, sitting very still in the big chair, her hands crossed in her lap, her eyes on the fire. He watched her, knowing that he could never forget the picture she made.

"Possibly I could tell you," she said at last, "if you will tell me first why you disliked me."

He laughed out, boyishly. The sound gave her a queer little thrill. She had not known he could laugh like that.

"That's fair," he conceded, "and I will tell you. I saw that you despised me, and I resented it, as any man would resent such an affront to his—well, let us say his self-respect."

She flushed.

"I umst have been abominably rude."

"Oh, no, you were never rude. You merely took no special pains to conceal what novelists like to call 'the nature of your feelings.' What I am trying to get at," he patiently repeated, "is the explanation of those particular feelings."

"Why—I—I—" She was stammering helplessly now, trying to find pleasant words for an unpleasant admission. A rising wind yammered in the big chimney.

"You didn't trust me?"

"It didn't exactly amount to that."

"What it did amount to," he persisted, "was that you thought I was about one-tenth of a man—that I had come out of the sanatorium without poise, without courage, without self-respect. Wasn't that it?"

"You are making it entirely too strong," she protested warmly. "If I had thought all those things I should have been sorry for you—sympathetic, I mean. What I felt in you was a kind of inner force and domination that you exercised perhaps unconsciously, but without—without—"

"Without the real things to back it up," he somberly finished for her. "I understand."

She went on, without observing the shadow that had fallen over his face, and almost as if she had not heard him speak.

"Then I discovered that there was something back of it," she said, in a voice so low that he had to lean toward her to hear clearly. "I discovered that when there was anything to be done you did it. I learned that, though you talk about nerves, you always keep your head in an emergency. I found that you had tact and an amazing gentleness—" She broke off. "Do you think I can ever forget how wonderful you were in the black hole of that closet?"

"Any other man would have been as wonderful," he jested. "Probably almost any other man would have found some way of getting you out sooner."

He felt suddenly jubilant, exuberant. An aviary of joy birds seemed singing in his heart. It was an amazing sensation. Under its influence he lost his head a trifle.

"You say you will never forget the experience in that black hole," he said, and his voice sank as hers had done. "I shall never forget this hour with you before the fire."

Possibly it was the timbre of his voice rather than his words that recalled her to consciousness of the unusual intimacy of their conversation. She settled back in her chair and her expression changed. To the young man watching her it was as if the soul inside that beautiful body, which had been compassionately looking out at him through her eyes, had abruptly withdrawn to some inner, unreachable fastness. His hour was over. But he had had it, and she could not take it from him; nor could she take away the memory of the words whose echoes still seemed to fill the room.

"I discovered that when there was anything to be done you did it. I learned that you always keep your head."

In saying those things she had sent him into battle like a knight of old, with her glove inside his breastshield. For there was a battle to be fought for her and for others; and tonight, more clearly than ever before, he felt the imminence of its approach. The silence with which he accepted her tacit withdrawal held neither resentment nor pain.

When she rose, he walked with her to the living room door and silently opened it for her. Their eyes met and held, and the look she saw in his, as comforting as a steady light through a fog, brought her reassured soul back to the windows of its home. Impulsively, perhaps apologetically too, she offered him her hand, and as he took it, both again recalled the black hours in which it had found refuge in his. He pressed the hand and dropped it.

"Good-night."

"Good-night. And thank you—again."

He watched her follow the curve of the staircase till she disappeared from view. Then he rang the bell. There was no response. He had hardly expected one. He put the shield before the still blazing fire, turned out the lights, and left the living room. Upstairs he turned to the left instead of to the right, and, opening the door of the sick room, glanced in at the reassuring tableau there.

Old David Campbell was still "resting comfortably," his eyes closed, his breathing regular. In the soft glow of a shaded lamp the nurse gave abstracted attention to a book.

Renshaw went back to the west wing with his mind at ease on that point. As he passed the closet near his bedroom, he stopped and looked at the door. The knobs were still off, but he discovered by a test that the door's weight kept it plumb when it was closed.

He turned down the bed covering and so arranged it that to anyone glancing into the dim room the bed would seem to be occupied. Satisfied with this stage setting for the events of the night, he left the room, and after a swift but piercing glance around him slipped into the hall closet and closed its door.

His plan was beautifully simple. Anything or anyone that now came to visit him and reached his door would be pocketed in that corner, the only exit being into his bedroom. He himself, leaping from his unsuspected hiding place in the closet, would be a sad surprise to the visitor and, he hoped, a heavy burden on the latter's neck. It was all well thought out and logical.

As he passed from the dark hall into the darker closet his foot struck an unlooked-for obstruction. It appeared to be a bundle, huge and hard—so hard, indeed, that the impact against its unyielding side hurt his foot. He suppressed a rude word, and in the next instant struck out with all his strength, while he gasped and gurgled as he jerked his head backward, swaying with another figure in the closet's limited space. Thus far, despite his plans, the other figure had all the advantage. It had not only taken him wholly by surprise, but it had also taken him firmly by the throat.

Chapter XIII

Four of a Kind.

Renshaw's first impression was that the thing that had caught him was amazingly powerful. His next, as their struggle carried him and it past the yielding closet door and into the hall, was that in the dim light it was horribly grotesque. It seemed to be a hairy thing, and perhaps also a masked thing. He could not see clearly enough to be sure whether it had a mask or merely a strikingly repellent face. His next discovery was in a way reassuring. The grasp on his throat—which, respite his efforts, he could not shake off, though it was slowly strangling him—was simply the grasp of a pair of very strong human hands.

The battle, though intense, was a strangely silent one. Neither fighter uttered a sound. Both were down on the carpeted floor, interlocked in a close grip, rolling, twisting, and straining. Renshaw felt his tongue protruding and his eyes popping out of his head. His blood rang in his ears. Unless he could shake off that grasp—

After what seemed an eternity of effort, he did so—and gulped in a breath of air with a gasp that was the first sound of the encounter. He still had his hands more than full. The fellow he was fighting was an expert, up to all sorts of tricks, and unfettered by any rules of the game. Moreover, he was in condition, and the secretary was not sure of his own staying power. The silent struggle went on, Renshaw inch by inch forcing his adversary across the threshold and into his bedroom.

There the combat continued with the growing intensity of desperation. A chair went down. The reading table by the fireplace fell, and the unlit lamp crashed against the brass fender. Each of the fighters appeared to have the same inspiration about that fender. If a man's head were brought against it with sufficient force, that man would be out of commission for a time. Both contestants were becoming exhausted, and both were now showing it. Their breath came raggedly. Renshaw found himself on top of the other, and with something between his hands that was thick and slippery. He was conscious of agonizing pain. One of his fingers had been bitten almost through. He turned sick, but hung on to the throat that choked and gurgled. He knew he could not hold on much longer. His strength was almost spent. But suddenly the figure under him grew limp.

He was prepared for more tricks. He knelt on his antagonist's chest and dug his fingers deeper into the throat, taking advantage of the respite to fill his own lungs with air. But there was something reassuring about the continued limpness and stillness of the sprawled thing under him. After a brief wait he took from one of his pockets some of the light, strong cord with which he had provided himself, and bound the figure where it lay.

When he has finished it he rose, straightened himself, drew a few more deep breaths, and shut his bedroom door. Then, turning on the lights, he surveyed his prisoner.

The man lay face downward, as he had been turned during the binding. Obviously, he had worn a combined mask and light headpiece. Their tattered remnants strewed the floor. The garment that had looked and felt like hair was a one-piece affair of some fuzzy material that covered the wearer from neck to ankles. Combined with the mask and headpiece, the outfit would have served very well as a masquerade costume representing a man ape. To heighten its effect, tonight's masquerader had blackened his hands and arms; but the back of his neck was white where it was not becoming black and blue. Renshaw turned over the trussed figure, looked into the eyes, that were now conscious, and nodded slowly.

"Jenks," he affably observed. "I thought so."

For a long moment Jenks did not speak. Apparently he could not. His eyes stared up at Renshaw dully, as if he had not yet taken in what had happened. He tried to move, and the effort made him groan.

"You've — broken — my—arm—d—n you!" he brought out at last.

"We'll have it reset, and it will heal nicely in Sing Sing." Renshaw drew a chair close to the prostrate form, and, sitting down, regarded it with warm interest.

"So all this little masquerade was for my benefit," he mused aloud. "What was the idea?"

Jenks did not answer. Renshaw prodded him with his foot.

"Speak up," he urged. "What was it for?"

"To get rid of you, d—n you! What else did you think it was for?" growled the captive.

Renshaw shook his head at him. "You're not acting at all like a sport, Jenks," he austerely pointed out. "You played for big stakes, and lost them. Why don't you take your medicine like a man?" His voice changed. "So the idea was to get rid of me?" he said briskly. "Why? Speak up, Jenks. Masquerade a little longer. Be a sport."

The man was silent.

"So we had the thumps and the crawling sound and the climbing sound and the locked doors and the black hand and the closet episode. Did you do all that yourself?"

"Annie shut that closet door, d—n her! She might of killed Miss Campbell."

"And you didn't want that?"

"Of course I didn't."

"Why not? You seemed to be ready for anything."

Jenks was weary of the conversation. He gave the inquisitive gentleman another rude bit of advice which that serene individual quietly ignored.

"So you did it all yourself, aided by the bundle of bricks I just fell over in the closet. I understand. But how about that infernal light—the blue circle? Flashlight effect, of course, but where were you?"

"Tree."

"Oh, that would be it. By Jove, Jenks, you're thorough. I'll say that for you. Nothing was too much trouble, was it? And all to get rid of a husky six-footer who hadn't any nerve left but might have been inconvenient to have around in a crisis!"

Jenks remained silent.

"And as soon as I was out of the way the gang of you were going to take Campbell's ready money and the jewelry of the ladies and skip. That was what you were after. It would have been a big haul."

For the first time, the face of Jenks changed.

"Nothin' like it," he snarled.

"Oh, yes, Edward Edwards, alias Joe Stevens, alias the Ourang outang, alias Joseph Jenks. You weren't doing all this merely to get rid of a newcomer you disliked. Did you imagine I didn't know you?"

Jenks muttered a word that was inaudible. His face had turned to a pasty gray.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Awakens New Hope

Some enterprising California citizen discovered that goldfish are much more valuable in a pond of stagnant water than in a glass bowl. It is said that a few goldfish placed in sluggish water where mosquitoes breed will in one season eat every vestige of mosquito larvae, freeing the neighborhood of this pest. Just about the time we had given up all hope that this metallic colored fish had any value other than as a parlor pet, along comes this news dispatch. There is hope for the garpike yet.—Detroit News.

Uncle Eben

"Nearly all de folks dat knows enough to give good advice," said Uncle Eben, "is lawyers or doctors or somebody dat charges real money for it."—Washington Star.

Insure Your Complexion!
USE
Marcelle
Face Creams
and Cold Cream Powder
Their fragrance is charming and they impart that delightful feeling of well-being so much appreciated by every dainty woman. Best dealers everywhere sell it.
Write for liberal FREE SAMPLE today
C. W. Beggs Sons & Co., 1744 N. Richmond St., Chicago, Ill.

Yeast Foam makes good bread
Bread making is easy to learn and is an education in other cooking.
Send for free booklet "The Art of Baking Bread"

Northwestern Yeast Co.
1730 North Ashland Ave.
Chicago, Ill.

Dutch Cows Given All the Comforts of Home

The bovines are the only type of animal that furnishes man with food through infancy and maturity and consequently are treated with consideration by every nation for sentimental as well as economic reasons, receiving greater care than humans in some countries. Cows in Holland are treated with as much consideration as human beings. They have the best of food. Their sheds are furnished. They even have overcoats when they go out. There are lace curtains in the windows of many Dutch cowsheds. And the floors are laid with shining white tiles, kept spotlessly clean. Lest her tail should drag in the dirt, the Dutch cow has it held up by a neat chain from the roof. Her horns are scrubbed and polished.

She is carefully groomed. She spends eight months of the year indoors. To lighten the darkness of winter the cowshed is provided with electric lights. There is also some kind of heating system.

Asking the Impossible

Betty and Petey had been playing hard all day and were worn out when evening came. They were nearly at "swords' points" when Betty said a few cross words that "broke the camel's back."

"Betty," said Petey, very much put out. "Can't you be a li'l gentleman?"

Betty stopped, put her finger into her mouth and from then on played by herself.

English Private Hotels

Front doors of private hotels in England are kept locked and only opened on demand, and meals are served in the guests' rooms.

Blessed is he who has found his work. Let him ask no other blessedness.

Bum Dresser

"The New Yorker is the worst-dressed man in the world," said P. Chatfield Hobart, the San Francisco millionaire bibliophile. "He spends the most money on his clothes, too.

"But he wears them all wrong. He wears a plaid lounge suit where he ought to wear a black morning coat. He wears in Fifth avenue bay togs that are only suitable for country house or yacht.

"In fact," Mr. Hobart ended, "the New Yorker would put on an aviator's rig if he was going down to work in a coal mine."

A FEELING OF SECURITY
You naturally feel secure when you know that the medicine you are about to take is absolutely pure and contains no harmful or habit producing drugs.
Such a medicine is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, kidney, liver and bladder medicine.
The same standard of purity, strength and excellence is maintained in every bottle of Swamp-Root.
It is scientifically compounded from vegetable herbs.
It is not a stimulant and is taken in teaspoonful doses.
It is not recommended for everything.
It is nature's great helper in relieving and overcoming kidney, liver and bladder troubles.
A sworn statement of purity is with every bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root.
If you need a medicine, you should have the best. On sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.
However, if you wish first to try this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.

One is pretty free if he is not constantly told to do this or told to do that.

Travel teaches one to make quick decisions.

Let Tanlac restore your health
IF your body is all fagged-out and run-down, if you are losing weight steadily, lack appetite, have no strength or energy—why not let Tanlac help you back to health and strength?
So many millions have been benefited by the Tanlac treatment, so many thousands have written to testify to that effect that it's sheer folly not to make the test.
Tanlac, you know, is a great natural tonic and builder, a compound, after the famous Tanlac formula, of roots, barks and herbs. It purges the blood stream, revitalizes the digestive organs and enables the sickly body to regain its vanished weight.
You don't need to wait long to get results. Tanlac goes right to the seat of trouble. In a day or so you note a vast difference in your condition. You have more appetite, sleep better at night and the color begins to creep back into your washed-out cheeks.
Don't put off taking Tanlac another precious day. Step into the nearest drug store and get a bottle of this world-famed tonic. That's the first important step back to health and vigor.

Tanlac Restored Her Health
"Typhoid fever reduced me to 95 lbs. and left me weak as a rag. Failing to get relief from other sources I tried Tanlac and after 6 bottles had gained 20 lbs. Now I enjoy a fine appetite and feel like a new woman. As a nurse I give Tanlac to all my patients."
Mrs. J. B. Terry,
1101 Park St., Ft. Worth, Tex.
TAKE TANLAC VEGETABLE PILLS FOR CONSTIPATION
TANLAC
FOR YOUR HEALTH

CRANK CASE OIL FOR MANGE

When Mixed With Good Disinfectant Is Effective Remedy

Mange in hogs, a parastic skin disease, is quite common in Iowa and is on the increase, a recent survey indicates. Replies to questionaires sent out to farmers all over the state last year estimate that mange is present on 90 percent of the farms and is be coming more intense, state Dr. C. D. Rice, veterinary pathologist, Iowa State College.

Loss from this affliction is due to lowered gains from feeding and also to the lower valuation placed on the mangy hogs by the packer, because the roughened skins detract greatly from the appearance of the meat. In severe cases, caracsses have to be skinned before they can be sold at all. A conservative estimate made by H. F. Veenker, federal inspector at Sioux Falls, S. D. places the annual loss through reduced selling value of mangy hogs at $1,978,000 for the states of Iowa ,Nebrasko, Minnesota and the Dakotas.

Yet mange can be easily and completely controlled, says Dr. Charles Murray, veterinary investigator, who advises the use of waste crank case oil because it is both cheap and effective. Mix one percent of cresol or other standard disinfectant with the waste oil and either dip or spray the hogs, but do it thoroly. Repeat the treatment if necessary. Keep treated hogs out of the sun for a day to prevent sun scald.

JOKES

SIGNIFICANCE OF GRADUATION

The last two weeks of May each year are utilized by most High schools of the State for the ceremony of graduating the Senior Class. While the programs on these occasions vary, the young people of the vicinity are always the center of attattraction. More than this, the occasion becomes a community affair more than a school affair. It is one time in the year when the school is brought prominently into notice in the community and when the members of the Senior Class are transferred from the school and its environment into the life of the community as citizens. While this is significant for all who witness the ceremony it is doubly significant to the graduates themselves. This becomes a day, if properly observed, to stand out in the minds of the graduates throughout their lives. The occasion, therefore, gives the community an opportunity to impress right interests and ideals upon the young people going out of the school, by sohwing proper interest in the occasion. A packed house at a graduating ceremony is a significant.

A MYSTERIOUS LAKE

A few miles north of Hamburg, Fremont county, is a pool of water of great depth and always clear and cold. It is eight miles from the Missouri river but the water water in the pool rises and falls with the ebb and flow of the "Big Muddy" giving an itimation of some subterranean connection. And now comes E. J. Sidey, of Greenfield, Adair county, with the statment that the 'presence of blind fish in "Silver Lake" just east of Adair, revives interest in the little body of water, which is scarcely more than a mire bordering state primary road No. 7. The lake is said to be bottomless. Some years ago hundreds of feet of rope were lowered in a futile attempt to sound the bottom. Many interestinf stories were woven into a history of the mysterious little body of water. Live stock of the community seem to fear the spot because of some apparent intuition of danger. It is believed that the lake is fed by an underground river."

SAFETY PIN RESULTS IN DEATH OF INFANT

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Smith of Waverly, died last week as a result of a safety pin working open and penetrating thes pine of the little noe. Mr. and Mrs. Smith had bundled up the little month old baby and were driving the spine of the little one. Mr. their arrival there they found the child was dead when they unwrapped. No cause for the death could be found until sometime later when the child was carefully xamined.

Reboring
—And—
Rehoning

"The Better Method of Cylinder Re - conditioning.

McQuay Norris Quality Rings
Sales & Service

PAVEY'S
STORMIZING SHOP

FALL SHOOTING OF PHEASANTS

Deputy Game Warden Freesch is again in Forest City in the interest of the phesant problem. Mr. Freesch states that he has made his report to Mr. Albert, head of the State Game department, relative to the phesant situation in this part of the state. A conference was held at state headquarters and it was decided that an "open season" would be declared on the phesants in eight counties, sometime this fall.—Forest City Republican.

Last week the Board of Supervisors closed contracts with four or five land owner for the purchase of the right of way for the change in Primary road number 15. from the Hancock county line to a point two and a half miles south of that line. The consideration agreed upon was $250 per acre which appears a very reasonable price, all things considered. This will be the only part of the road improved this year. —Belmond Herald-Press.

19,000 WOMEN ATTEND SCHOOL

Home Economics Extension Specialists Reach Large Groups of Iowans Through Local Leaders

Reports from 46 Iowa counties show that local leaders, trained by home economics specialists, during the month of April held training school meetings which were attended by approxmately 19,000 women. This home economics extension work included home training in home furnishings, nutrition, clothing, home management and millinery.

Clothing was the largest single activity, carried on under the auspices of the five extension specialists in that line of work. Local leaders held meetings in Freemont, Louisa, Delaware, Winnebago, Muscatine, Marion, Lee, Montgomery, Union Dubuque Clarke Osceola Jackson and Fayette counties. The 782 meetings were attended by 5, 920 women.

Nutrition was the next largest activity during April. Four specialists were engaged in the work, 482 meetings were held by local ledaers and 4,489 women attended. Work was carried on in Ringgold, Blackhawk, Jasper, Mahaska, Powesheik, Calhoun, Emmet, Linn, Kossoth Franklin Hancock Benton, Wayne Polk, and Davis counties.

Two specialists were engaged in home furnishing work in Grundy, Hardin, Washington, Shelby, Iowa, Boone and Lucas counties. One specialist gave home management training in O'Brien, Divkinson, Palo Alto, Cherokee and Ida counties and one specialist gave milinery training in Decator, Clay, Adams, Hancock and Marion counties.

Postal receipts in fifty representative industrial cities, Postmaster General New announces, increased twelve per cent over 1924 in April, and an average of about five per cent in the preceeding three months. Automobile production in the United States for April broke all records There is dislocation of industry resulting in unemployment here and there, but every barometer of business points to prosperity. These be hard times only for the calamity howler.

Pullman Company proposes to build passenger planes for leasing on general plan of Pullman sleepers, for transcontinental and long-distance flight, as announced by Chief Engineer Parke of the Pullman company.

Milk, vegetables and fresh fuit are cheaper than doctor bills.

QUICK BOYS—A BARREL

There was once a man named Sam McGuire,
Who ran through the streets with his pants on fire.
He rushed to the doctor in great fright,
Because he felt that his end was in sight.

To keep weevils from getting into the daily food supply it is well, during the spring and summer, to keep only a small amount of cereals on hand and to remove all cereals when closing the house for vacations. Once a house becomes infested with weevils it is difficult to get rid of them.

TURNED A TRICK

Stamp collecting enthusiast have tried a trick on the Postoffice Department and got away with it. A few of them have used a half of a one cent stamp as half cent postage under the new postal regulations that call for payment of that amount and by some slip of good natire or inattentions various postmasters have let these home made stamps pass muster. But the game is finished by departmental orders in spite of the fact that the postoffice would save in printing bills if the practice were popularized.

Kerosene rubbed on the screen door will help prevent flies from swarming in when the door is opened.

MILLIONS OF BABY PIKE POURED INTO CLEAR LAKE

Clear Lake, Ia., May 23— Fourteen million baby pike were turned into Clear Lake from the state fish hatchery one night this week by Assistant State Game Warden, R. T. St.John of Riceville. This, the game warden states, cleans out the pike in the hatchery at this time.

At various intervals during the season other game fish including black bass, pickeral, pike, perch, blue gills and channel catfish will be turned into the lake.

Mr. St.John returned to his home in Riceville last night after attending to duties at the lake for the past ten days. Ray Monpleasure will continue his work as custodian at the hatchery as in the past.

Before leaving for his home, Mr. St.John, Harry St. John of DesMoines and E. R. St.John of Riceville made a farewell fishing excursion and brought in a beautiful catch of large pike and pickeral weighing in all, forty pounds. Similar catches are being reported daily.

At Northwood, Iowa, wnere fourteen trains stop every twenty-four hours only one ticket was sold during a recent twenty-four hour period This is the case all over. Pocahontas an Iowa county seat, lost its one and only passenger train last week and only has a mixed freight and passenger each way a day. This condition prevails all over Iowa and the railroads have to cut expenses to pay out. The railroad business is changing. What the future has in store, we do not know. The individually owned automobile has more to do with the lack of railroad passengers than do the busses.

THIS IS THE RIGHT PLACE

To buy your Cigars, Cigarettes, Smoking and Chewing Tobacco—our stock is always nice and fresh.

We carry a complete line of box and bulk fancy candy.

Refreshing soft drings.

And, why not step in and play a social game of pool while in town?

SMITH'S BILLARD HALL

Whittall Rugs

Mier Wolf & Sons Furniture Co.
NORTH IOWA'S LARGEST FURNITURE STORE

FREE TRUCK SERVICE TO OUT-OF-TOWN CUSTOMERS

FURNITURE · ECONOMIES

Mason City's largest furniture center. Where assortments are largest. Where quality and dependable standard are maintained. A store that has been built by satisfied customers. A store where price and your purse are always on friendly terms.

Bed Room Furnishings

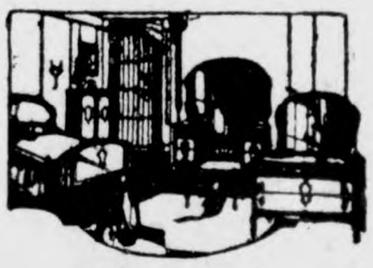
Bow-End Bed
Walnut and gumwood construction.
$22

Dresser
Walnut and other woods. Well made. Pleasing designs and finish.
$27

Chest of Drawers
Made of walnut and gumwoods.
$20

Dressing Table
Of semi-vanity design—walnut and gumwood.
$30

Bench
Or chair to match up.
$6.95



Sanitary Steel Couches
Simmons make.
$6.95

Oil Stove Ovens
2-burner size. Good bakers.
$3.95

Simmons Metal Beds
Full size. Vernis Martin. Ivory or brown finish.
$7.95

Cotton Mattresses
45-lb. all-cotton art ticking. Roll edge.
$9.75

Porch and Lawn Swings
4-ft. Hardwood with chains. Complete
$3.95

The prices quoted in this ad are in effect for one week only, starting with date of this advertisement.
Stocks are limited on some of these items, so prices will be withdrawn when stock on hand is sold.

Complete Home Outfits on CREDIT

Living Room Furniture
3-Piece Overstuffed Suite; genuine leather. Full size Davenport-Chair and Rocker. Loose cushions, spring-filled; pleasing design and guaranteed construction throughout.
$169.00

Oak Rockers
G. O. Wax finish. Genuine leather seats. A lifetime rocker.
$11.95

Maple Rockers
Natural finish. A good porch rocker.
$3.00

Fiber Rockers
With tapestry cushion seats.
$11.50

Genuine Wilton Rugs
9x12 size.
$79.00

Buy Now

Dining Room Furniture

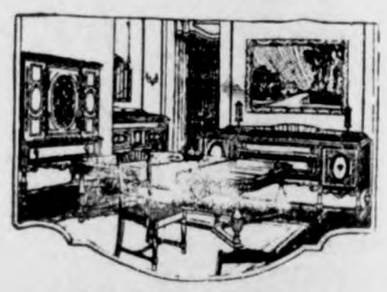
Buffet
Of pleasing design. Walnut and gum wood construction.
$34

Table
Oblong design, walnut; built-up top.
$33

Chairs
Walnut finish; genuine blue leather slip seats. Each
$5.60

Kitchen Cabinets
With a host of special features. A handy cabinet.
$24.85

Linoleum Rugs
6x9 size
$7.95



Steel Ranges
$60.00

Oil Stoves
3-burner type.
$11.50

Khaki Canvas Swings
6-foot length.
$9.00

Grass Rugs
9x12 size.
$6.95

Lloyd Loom Woven Baby Carriages
Grey—Blue—Ivory.
$16.50

Cedar Chests
$9.95

Axminster Rugs
27x52 size
$2.95

Inlaid Linoleum
Square yard
$1.45

News of Klemme and Vicinity

for poppy day in Klemme.

White and son were at Gar- usiness Saturday afternoon.

a number of farmers have lling corn the past week.

Doors on hand at the Nor- mber Co. tc

D. Byers, of Garner, was a caller in Klemme Monday.

re to read J. N. Day's Cash turday special.

SALE—House in Klemme. yers, Garner, Iowa. tfc

W. C. A. Gast, of Garner, Klemme visitor, Tuesday.

e J. J. Poort family visited at eeler home at Joice, Sunday.

ember the Legion poppy day, y.

mann Motor Co. are giving a- three tube radio set free.

and Mrs. R. A. Jorgenson and uster, were Garner visitors y afternoon.

T—On highway a medium ray coat. Return to J. N. Day for reward. 1tp

Grandma Schlawin spent Sunday in the country at the Arthur Brouwer home.

Mrs. Warnock, of Iowa Falls, was a visitor at the Frank Gruetzmacher home Tuesday.

Miss Hilda Peterson, of Lake Mills came Tuesday for a visit at the C. M. Stokesbary home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Elder were visitors at Garner Saturday afternoon.

Ask the Greimann Motor Company about the free radio set they are giving away.

I sell the WOLVERINE WORK SHOE—the best in the world for the money. Frank Gruetzmacher. tfc

Emil Patet and Miss Emma Sampson visited with friends at Hayfield Sunday evening.

Eureka Poultry Products sold by Gilbert Schaeper. Full stock on hand at all times. tfc

The Misses Hilda and Doris Schaefer, of Marble Rock, Iowa, came last Saturday for a visit with Miss Mabel Schaefer.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Neese and little daughter, Doris, were entertained at the Paul Grange home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Keraus spent Sunday at the Joe Horecka home at Garner. The ladies are sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Yahnke and daughter, Alva, are visiting with relatives and friends at Buffalo Center this week.

Mrs. Tom Hake came from Albert Lea, Minn., last Thursday to be present at the graduation of her daughter, Miss Maurine. Mrs. Hake left again for Minnesota Friday. Mr. Hake is working up there.

Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Wilson and daughter, Miss Gladys, were entertained at the R. A. Jorgenson home Sunday.

NOTICE—I am going away in a few weeks to visit my father in Canada, and all who owe me are requested to call at my okice and settle. Dr. George Zinn. tfc

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Waterman and daughter, Marian, drove to Swea City Saturday evening for a Sunday visit at the Tom Mitchell home.

Mrs. P. M. Wilson went to Clarion last week Wednesday evening to attend a bridge party given by some of her friends Thursday.She returned home Thursday evening.

Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Hesselhuus moved their household goods to Conrad, Iowa, yesterday by truck. Dr. Hesselhuus will practice at Conrad.

Fishing was fine at the Lake Saturday evening, despite a cold northwest wind. Ye Editor, Mrs. Jorgenson and Buster caught six large crappies in a short time and there were many fine catches made.

Mrs. Earl Blue's Sunday school class of young ladies had a farewell surprise party on her at the Pari h House Monday evening. Ail say they had a fine time. Mr. Blue and his family leave soon for Iowa City to spend the summer.

Wm. Smith and family, and John Day and family attended the commencement exercises at Garner on Tuesday evening. Miss Beatrice Ross was one of the graduates. The exercises were held at the M. E. camp grounds just south of Garner.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ashpole, accompanied by Mrs. Kinden, mother of Mrs. Frank Kluckhohn and Mrs. Harvey Stille, were visiting here on Sunday.

Rev. Gauger, accompanied by his sons, William, Carlyle and Harlan, drove to Rudd, Monday, for a short visit at the home of Rev. Gauger's sister, and on whose farm William will spend his summer vacation.

Buying cars on the installment plan seems to be a popular "sport" in Hancock County the past week. The Daily Record shows that last week among the transactions there were recorded ten cars purchased on time payments. There were but three real estate transfers recorded.

Next Monday, June 1, summer school opens at the Hamilton University, Mason City, Iowa. We invite you to take a long step forward on the road to success by joining our classes. 1tc-F

G. P. McCullough informs us that the Garner barber shops went on a new schedule of prices Monday They now get 25 cents for a shave and 50 cents for a hair-cut, which are the general prices now.

FOR SALE AT PUBLIC AUCTION —old School House in District No. 9, Liberty twp., to the highest bidder on Monday, June 1, 1925, at 1:00 P. M. E. H. Ludeke, President; Joseph Schuldt. Sec. 1wc

The poppies that are being offered for sale this year are made by the service men in our hospitals, the money so received goes towards helping the "boys" who are unable to work, and are confined in hospitals in Iowa. Buy a poppy, if for no other reason out of thankfulness, for all your blessings. Saturday is poppy day in Klemme.

Friday was one of the warmest days on record for this time of the year. The thermometer registered around 95 degrees in the shade with a high hot wind blowing. Saturday turned cooler and Sunday was quite cold with a heavy, killing frost on Monday morning that damaged less hardy plants. Indications at present point to fair weather.

Grandma Schroeder and Mrs. Marlin Croner and daughter, Dorothy, of Hammond, Indiana, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schroeder, of Chicago, drove through from Chicago last week Wednesday, making the trip in one day. They came to attend the graduation exercises and to visit old friends and many Klemme relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schroeder returned to Chicago Sunday by train but Grandma Schroeder and Mrs. Croner and Dorothy will remain for longer visit.

KLEMME MARKETS

Wednesday, May 27

Wheat	1.50
Oats	.38
Corn	.90—1.00
Barley	.75
Rye	1.00
Hogs	10.25—11.00
Eggs (Cash)	.27
Eggs (Trade)	.28
HENS	.16
LIGHT HENS	.13
BROILERS	.35
Ducks	.10
Geese	.08
Butter (Creamery)	.45
Butterfat	.45

Idle Hour Theatre

Saturday, May 30

"The Storm Daughter," starring Priscilla Dean. You've seen all kinds of thrills but never anything to match the thrills in this mighty picturization of human hearts and castaway souls locked in conflict with the terrors of the tempest-tossed sea. It's a melodramatic thunderbolt, finding its crashing climax in a tremendous shipwreck.

Spend Memorial Day evening at the Idle Hour and enjoy a real program.

Wednesday, June 3

Here's a real one! Buster Keaton in "Three Ages." In this big feature comedy Buster Keaton gives a short resume of the dramatic development of duelling in the three prominent ages of the world's history. A scream from start to finish. Don't miss this one.

NOTICE OF APPOINTMENT OF ADMINISTRATRIX

Notice is Hereby Given, That the undersigned has been duly appointed and qualified as Administratrix of the Estate of E. H. Lenz late of Hancock county, State of Iowa, deceased. All persons indebted to the estate are requested to make immediate payment; and those having claims against the same will present them, duly authenticated, to the undersigned, for allowance.

Dated May 19, 1925, A. D.

Minnie Lenz
Administratrix

M21-J 4

Kriss—So you felt uncanny while courting that little widow?

Kross—You bet! She kept the ashes of her late husband right on the piano.

Kriss—O, that isn't so terrible.

Kross—Maybe not. I didn't like the looks of the extra urn.—Legion Weekly.

The Cash Store

Has on hand a nice line Men's, Women's and Children's Oxfords

Don't fail to see our selection and be sure to get our prices.

Nice assortment of LADIES' SILK HOSE, per pair ..... 90c.

This Week's

Saturday Special

2 lbs. No. 1 Select Peaberry COFFEE 85c

"PAY CASH and PAY LESS"

Uno. N. Day's Cash Store

Checks Are Receipts

Checks are the best receipts in the world for paid bills. Our record of the cancelled check as it is paid and passes through our books forms a chain of evidence that cannot be surpassed or disputed. Starting a CHECKING ACCOUNT with us is a simple matter. Let us tell you how.

Drop in some time and we'll talk the matter over with you.

5 Per Cent Interest Paid On Time Deposits

State Savings Bank

Klemme Iowa

Holiday Ahead!

Time to be thinking of Decoration Day! Where? Clear Lake, motoring, golf.

HOW!

Greet summers first holiday with correct, cool, summer clothes. You'll find the things you need for your comfort at this store. Large assortments—fair prices.

Summer Suits

Straw Hats

Cool Underwear

White Shirts

Patton Brothers Co.

Where a Dollar Does It's Duty
Mason City, Iowa.

MR. INVESTOR:

Have you seen the Circular describing the CENTRAL STATES ELECTRIC COMPANY Preferred Investment? If not, you should write at once for a copy, because this is the best Preferred Investment offered to IOWA people for some time.

The particular oustanding features are the unusually strong property values and high earning power. The Property Value being equal to $1600 to each $100 share of this original issue, and the dividends are protected by earnings equal to 14 TIMES the requirements.

The Company is organized under IOWA laws, and furnishes Public Utility service in an important secton of IOWA, and has shown constant growth during the Ten Years of operation. The Company has outstanding with investors, the Preferred and Common Capital Stock issued at $100 per share, fully paid, non-assessable, and free of IOWA taxes, and the Normal Federal Income Tax. The market value of the Common Stock issued, and in the hands of investors who paid $100 per share now is equal to more than $700 to each Share of this issue of 7% Preferred Stock. The Company does not issue No Par Value Stock, and every Share has the full or standard value of $100.

About 350 Shares are at present available to investors at $100 per share. Dividends from date of investment, and subscriptions will be accepted in the order in which they are received.

If a safe 7% Investment in a well established successful Electric Light and Power business and having an immediate market, meets with your investment requirements, then we suggest, Mr. Investor that you have us send the Circular to you. .....

Address the SECURITIES DEPARTMENT, 215 South Second Street, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

CENTRAL STATES ELECTRIC COMPANY
(Dows, Smith, Reed Organization)
CEDAR RAPIDS —o— IOWA

Dress Up For

Memorial Day

MEMORIAL DAY has always been the official opening for "Dress Up For Summer" and that custom is more in vogue each year. You will find a complete line of Summer Goods for eMn, Women and Children at our store. Dress up for Memorial and start the summer in the ight way.

HERE ARE SOME GOOD SUGGESTIONS

FOR THE LADIES	FOR THE MEN
Summer Dress Goods	Oxfords and Shoes
Silk Hosiery	Silk Hosiey
Dainty Lingerie	Ties, Soft Collars
Oxfords and Slippers	Felt Hats, New Caps
Summer Sweaters	New Straw Hats
House Dresses, Aprons	Silk and Dress Shirts
Toilet Articles	Athletic Underwear
Silks, Ribbons, Etc.	Belts, Etc.

For The Children

We carry a complete line of Shoes, Oxfords, Stockings, Caps and Hats, Hosiery, Play Suits, etc., for the Boys and Girls. Tog them out here with shoes and clothing that give most wear and satisfaction.

GROCERIES

For Memorial Day as well as all other days in the year you will find our grocery department complete with fresh groceries, fruits and vegetables. And our prices are always right at——

G.W. Kluckhohn & Sons

FIELD MARSHAL FRENCH IS DEAD

Was Commander of British Armies During the World War.

Deal, England.—The death here of the earl of Ypres, who, as Field Marshal French, was a British World war figure, came at a time when his great reputation was somewhat under a cloud and while controversy raged over his military strategy in France. The earl, who was seventy-three years old, had been ill since March 19, when he underwent an operation for appendicitis in a private hospital in London.

The controversy concerning the earl of Ypres has been before the British public particularly since he published his book on the war, entitled "1914," which contained much outspoken and adverse criticism of his subordinates and some French generals and which did not except Lord Kitchener.

The earl of Ypres entered the British service as a sailor, later gained fame as a cavalry leader and climaxed his career by commanding the British armies in a war in which cavalry was superseded by tanks, armored cars and airplanes. He won fame in the Boer war as a masterly cavalryman who turned a fiasco into victory for the British army.

When he retired from the British command in France he was made a viscount and after serving from 1918-'21 as lord lieutenant of Ireland the earldom was conferred, and Viscount French took for his title the place of his most famous victory in the World war, the village known as Ypres, called "Wypers" by the Canadians, who took and lost and took the town again. The earl suffered a slight wound in France.

Two Coast Guards Shot in War on Rum Runners

New York.—Two members of the coast guard were shot as the result of rum runners' activities near Atlantic City.

John Holmes and Morton Bragg of the coast guard station at Sea Isle City, N. J., were wounded. Holmes was patrolling the beach between Sea Isle City and Atlantic City, when he came across rum runners who are believed to have been escaping after landing a load of whisky.

Holmes was shot in the left arm when he called to the men to stop. He says the shot came from the boat. Falling in the sand, he exchanged several shots with rum runners.

Bragg was shot by other coast guards, who mistook him for one of the smugglers trying to escape.

Four Boys Killed in Auto Crash; 3 Die Under Train

Mount Clemens, Mich.—Four schoolboys were killed and three others seriously injured when an automobile in which they were riding went into a ditch. The dead, all of Detroit, were: Joseph Grantham, John Sullivan, Vincent Knupfer, and George Tracy.

Terre Haute, Ind.—Bodies of three boys, ranging from twelve to fifteen yeas old, were found along the tracks of the Illinois Central railroad three miles east of Sullivan. The boys are believed to have been killed by a northbound freight train while stealing a ride. The dead are Donald Boyles, fifteen; Glenn Boyles, thirteen, and Sheridan Butler, twelve. All lived in Dugger, Ind.

Storm in Illinois Kills Three; 3 Die in Colorado

St. Louis.—A severe wind and electrical storm swept over portions of southern Illinois unroofing houses, blowing down trees and causing at least three deaths.

M. D. Kesterson, forty-nine, and his wife, Laura, forty-six, were instantly killed when lightning struck their home at Centralia. Two of their children were injured.

Joseph Richards was killed by lightning on his farm near Pana.

Denver, Colo.—High winds in northern Colorado caused the deaths of three persons, the serious injury of three others, and demolished many frame houses.

Officers Drive Mob From Texas Jail; 4 Men Shot

Dallas, Texas.—Four men were wounded when a mob made a rush on the Dallas county jail early in the day in an effort to take Frank and Lorenzo Noel, negroes charged with murder and criminal assault. Officers guarding the jail met the rush with a volley of shots.

Dwight Stewart, shot in the forehead, may not live. The others are not seriously hurt.

Army Aviator Is Killed

Lakehurst, N. J.—Lieut. James R. Kyle, Jr., of Lynchburg, Va., was instantly killed here when he either leaped or fell off the wing of an airplane when the motor went bad. The plane was only 200 feet up.

39,004 Enrol for War Drill

Washington.—A total of 39,004 applications for admission to the citizens' military training camps this summer was received up to May 20, according to an announcement here.

SIR GEORGE LLOYD

Sir George Lloyd has been appointed high commissioner for Egypt, succeeding Viscount Allenby, who resigned. Sir George is a Cambridge man, served during the World war in Egypt, Gallipoli and Mesopotamia and was governor of Bombay from 1918 to 1923.

ACQUITS DAVIS OF BRIBERY CHARGE

Former Governor of Kansas Vindicated by Jury

Courthouse, Topeka, Kan.—Jonathan M. Davis, former Kansas governor, was acquitted on a charge of conspiracy to solicit a bribe.

Four ballots were taken by the jury. The audience applauded tumultuously.

The specific charge against Davis alleged that he conspired with Carl J. Peterson, former state bank commissioner, to ask money for issuing a pardon to Walter Grundy, convicted banker.

Counsel for the state, headed by Attorney C. B. Griffith, demanded a penitentiary sentence for the former state executive, while the jury was asked by the defense to acquit "this good-hearted and honest man."

Mrs. Davis sat all day at her husband's side as she had throughout the preceding seven days while the state tried to prove that her husband solicited $2,500 from Anthony I. Oswald, young Hutchinson lawyer, before considering the parole application of Oswald's convict client, Grundy.

Mrs. Davis listened intently while the lawyers debated the charges that her son, Russell, had obtained $1,250 from Fred Pollman, a paroled convict, in exchange for a pardon. The Pollman evidence was introduced merely to show possible guilty motive in connection with Grundy's parole. Another criminal action remains pending against Russell and his father.

Disabled Veterans to Meet at Omaha June 22 to 27

Omaha, Neb.—Disabled American veterans' fifth annual national convention, to be held in Omaha, Neb., June 22 to 27 inclusive, will have many colorful and impressive features, including the parade of wounded and disabled veterans, headed by a division of blind veterans; the public opening session in the Municipal auditorium, with Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink, the beloved prima donna and "Gold Star Mother," singing for her "boys"; a great open-air demonstration of brotherhood and good will, in a natural amphitheater just outside of Omaha, on Sunday, June 21, the day preceding the opening of the convention, members and heads of all religious denominations taking part, with choirs, bands, army planes and other units assisting; and numerous other outstanding events.

John D. Dodge Starts Court Battle Over $12,500,000

Detroit, Mich.—John Duval Dodge began his battle in court for a share in the $12,500,000 estate of his deceased half-sister, Anna Margaret Dodge.

Dodge, in his petition for distribution, claims an undivided one-fifth of the $12,500,000. He sets forth that Anna Margaret, the child of his father, John F. Dodge, and Mrs. Mathilda Dodge, died April 13, 1924, leaving his two sisters, Winifred Dodge Seybourn and Isabelle Dodge Sloane, Frances Dodge, Daniel George Dodge and himself as heirs.

The first two are children of Dodge by his first marriage, Frances and Daniel are the children of Mrs. Mathilda Dodge, whose engagement to remarry was recently announced.

Quake Hits Town in Japan

Osaka, Japan.—A severe earthquake occurred Saturday. It centered in the Tajima district, 80 miles northwest of Osaka. The town of Toyo-Oka is reported badly damaged. There was no damage in Osaka. Tokyo and Yokohama were not affected.

Weeks to Rest in Boston

Washington.—Secretary Weeks left Washington for Boston where he will remain for some time in an effort to improve his health.

CHILDREN LOSE GOULD MILLIONS

Boy and Two Girls Born of Guinevere Sinclair Disinherited.

New York.—The three children of the late George J. Gould by Guinevere Sinclair Gould will not share in the estate of their father's father, Jay Gould.

By a decision handed down by Referee James A. O'Gorman, George S., ten; Jane S., nine, and Guinevere, three, were eliminated from any participation in the $82,000,000 estate.

Those who will profit by the decision are Gloria Gould Bishop, Jay Gould, Kingdon Gould, Edith Gould, Marjorie Gould Drexel and Vivian Gould (Lady Decies), children of George J. by his first wife, Edith Kingdon Gould.

The decision has long been awaited by numerous attorneys on both sides, but it came at this time as a complete surprise.

The clause of the will in controversy is the so-called "marriage clause" by which Jay Gould stipulated that any of his children who married after his death without the consent of a majority of the trustees of the estate would forfeit one-half their share.

Referee O'Gorman held that this clause applies only to first marriages and not to second ones.

"If, in my opinion," Referee O'Gorman said, "it should be held that the restraint extended beyond the first marriage, it would be inconsistent with public policy, and should be adjudged void, especially considering that the persons whose consents were necessary were persons who would profit in each instance by withholding it."

Then, in barring the children of Mrs. Guinevere Sinclair Gould, the court said:

"The claim that the three children of George J. Gould by his second marriage are entitled to participation in the trust fund created for George J. Gould's benefit, is without merit and must be dismissed. These children were born out of wedlock, and are not issue of George J. Gould within the meaning of the term as employed in the will of Jay Gould."

The three children are, however, amply provided for, as George Gould in his will left his own property to the youngsters by his second marriage.

Menace of Riffians More Serious Than Reported

Fez, French Morocco.—It was admitted in military circles here that the menace of the Riffians under Abd-el-Krim, who recently invaded French Morocco from the Spanish zone, is more grave than previously stated.

Gen. Count de Chambrun has taken active charge of the operations of the forces of Colonel Freydenberg and General Cambay on the center and right fronts.

Meanwhile the French are trying to liberate a number of their advanced posts in the Taounat region, which the Riffians have surrounded and are besieging. The method is to advance, establish the posts, and then retire, leaving the big masses of troops free to act wherever necessary along the front.

Coroner's Jury Frees Girl Who Killed Mother's Rival

Chicago.—Six members of a coroner's jury listened to sixteen-year-old Lucille Wunsch confess the murder of Miss Agnes Simnick, twenty-eight. The jurors then extended the unwritten law to cover the killing, exonerating Lucille of all blame, calling the shooting accidental.

In 38 hours Lucille, a quiet, home-loving schoolgirl of Riverdale, had killed the woman who had threatened to break up the Wunsch home, had been arrested, had been the center of a sensational inquest, and had heard herself cleared of blame.

Deputy Coroner J. J. Dedrick read the verdict which the jury had reached after 20 minutes' deliberation.

Presbyterians Elect C. R. Erdman, Moderator

Columbus, Ohio.—The Chicago idea, as expressed at the last meeting of the Chicago Presbytery, won when the general assembly of the Presbyterian church of the United States elected Dr. Charles R. Erdman of Princeton Theological seminary, New York, moderator for the coming year.

Chicago pleaded for the elimination in the discussions of the terms "fundamentalists" and "modernists" and the restoration of peace.

Doctor Erdman is professor of practical theology in the Princeton University Theological seminary. He is fifty-nine years of age and was formerly a pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Germantown, Pa.

Car Goes Over Bluff; 3 Die

Oakland, Cal.—Two Oakland residents, Mr. and Mrs. U. T. Schlueter, were killed when the machine in which they were riding with Carl Forde took a 300-foot plunge off the Redwood highway near the famed Roscoe bluffs. Forde also was killed.

Persia to Hire 12 U. S. Men

Bagdad.—The Mejliss has approved Doctor Millspaugh's recommendation that twelve more American officials be engaged for the finance department.

HELEN E. WILSON

Miss Helen Elizabeth Wilson, daughter of Thomas E. Wilson, Chicago packer, is to become the wife of Henry J. Williams, one of her father's employees. Miss Helen is a graduate of Wellesley.

U. S. GOVERNMENT MARKET QUOTATIONS

Washington.—For the week ending May 21.—FRUITS AND VEGETABLES—New York sacked round white potatoes closed at $1.25@1.50, with northern stock at $1.05@1.25 on the Chicago carlot market; round whites ranged 85c@1.10 f. o. b. north-central points. Texas yellow Bermuda onions, $3.00@3.50 per crate. Virginia and Maryland strawberries, 12@20c quart basis in eastern cities; Missouri and Kentucky Aromas, $4.75@5.50 per 24-quart crate in city markets.

LIVE STOCK—Chicago hog prices closed at $12.50 for top, $12.00@12.35 for bulk. Medium and good beef steers, $6.25@10.35; butcher cows and heifers, $4.40@11.25; feeder steers, $5.50@8.50; light and medium weight veal calves, $7.50@11.25. Fat lambs, $11.00@13.25; spring lambs, $13.50@16.00; yearlings, $8.75@11.75; fat ewes, $5.00@8.25.

GRAIN—Quoted May 21: No. 1 dark northern wheat: Minneapolis, $1.63@1.88. No. 2 red winter wheat: St. Louis, $1.94@1.96; Kansas City, $1.66@1.71. No. 2 hard winter wheat: Chicago, $1.69@1.70; St. Louis, $1.68; Kansas City, $1.61@1.75. No. 2 mixed corn: Kansas City, $1.05½. No. 3 mixed corn: Chicago, $1.12½; Minneapolis, $1.05@1.07. No. 2 yellow corn: Chicago, $1.16@1.17; St. Louis, $1.14½@1.15½; Kansas City, $1.10. No. 3 yellow corn: Chicago, $1.13@1.15; Minneapolis, $1.10@1.12. No. 2 white corn: St. Louis, $1.13½@1.14; Kansas City, $1.08. No. 3 white corn: Chicago, $1.12¾. No. 3 white oats: Chicago, 43½@45½c; Minneapolis, 41@41½c; St. Louis, 46½@47c; Kansas City, 46½c.

DAIRY PRODUCTS—Closing prices on 92-score butter: New York, 41c; Chicago, 40½c; Philadelphia, 42c; Boston, 42c. Wholesale prices on Wisconsin primary cheese markets May 20: Single daisies, 22½c; double daisies, 21¾c; longhorns, 22½c; square prints, 23½c.

Opening to Sea Urged by Speakers From 14 States

Michigan City, Ind.—Striving to arouse public opinion for the deepening of the St. Lawrence river to provide a sea outlet for the Great Lakes, twenty-one speakers addressed the fourth annual meeting of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater association here.

Fourteen states were represented by delegates at the conference. Two governors were present, Jackson of Indiana and Sorlie of North Dakota. Eight former governors were on the program and two more governors sent personal representatives.

"The West wants the way to the sea," was the slogan that found its way into the spirit of the conference. Former Governor Lowden of Illinois spoke for the right of the farmer to get his products to foreign ports by the cheapest and most efficient route.

It is estimated that it would take but fifty-eight miles of digging at a cost of about $250,000,000 to bring ocean ships to lake ports. The expense would be largely for the building of locks and channels around the Niagara falls and the Long Sioux rapids.

G. B. Means Seeks Refuge Within Walls of Prison

Washington.—With his back to the wall and facing renewed onslaughts of the government, Gaston B. Means, investigator extraordinary and central figure in many sensational episodes of recent American history, has sought refuge within the walls of Atlanta federal penitentiary.

Means' surrender came in District of Columbia Supreme court when he asked to be allowed to begin a two-year sentenced imposed in New York on his conviction for conspiracy in connection with illegal whisky withdrawals. Pending against him is a charge of forgery involving signing of the name of Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa and relating to documents figuring in the Daugherty investigation.

Sensational testimony was given by Means in the Daugherty inquiry.

Sherman in Hall of Fame

New York.—The busts of five great Americans, among them Gen. William T. Sherman, Charlotte Cushman and Harriet Beecher Stowe, were unveiled here on Thursday afternoon in the Hall of Fame.

Plans Food Legislation

London.—The British government intends to present shortly before the house of commons a large program of legislation in connection with the report of the food commission.

.. Hawkeye .. State News

Interesting Items Gathered From all Parts of Iowa

Iowa's annual freight bill is 30 million dollars.

Clay county will have forty-five miles of newly graveled road this summer.

The fifth congressional district Royal Neighbors of America met at Durant Thursday, May 14th.

The White Way 7 highway east of Stuart will follow the Guthrie-Adair county line, it has been decided.

The last legislature failed to appropriate any money to pay newspapers for publication, State Auditor J. C. McClune said.

Over the paved and graveled roads it is now possible to travel from Des Moines to the county seats of forty-four counties by direct route.

The Dubuque city council has unofficially approved the Dubuque Electric company's plan to supplement its street car service with busses in the outlying districts of the city.

Boy Scouts will watch squirrels at Shenandoah to see how much damage they are doing to birds' nests. If the squirrels are robbing them they probably will be gotten rid of.

Contractors said recently that they believed the new home economics building of Iowa State college, the cornerstone of which has been laid will be completed by next Dec. 1st.

Camp Hantesa's new $5,000 lodge will be ready for occupancy by the Des Moines camp fire girls when their camping season opens June 17th, it was announced by Mrs. W. C. Nelson, executive secretary.

The largest class in the history of Des Moines High schools will be graduated on the evening of June 11. The class this year will number 620. The largest class previous to this was 570 graduates.

The problem of road building in Iowa is recognized today as being among the foremost and most immediate of state problems, as the condition of our highways affects every dweller within the state.

Sounding the keynote, "Get Iowa out of the mud," Mayor Carl M. Garver welcomed to Des Moines the club women of Iowa assembled at Hoyt Sherman place recently for the sixteenth biennial convention.

Des Moines has been selected as the site for the international convention of Co-operative clubs in 1926, according to Martin Mauger, a member of the Des Moines club, who is attending this year's convention at Tulsa, Okla.

The state highway commission has rejected the proposal of Johnson county supervisors to re-route primary No. 7 highway. The supervisors sought to shift from the upper to the lower Muscatine road out of Iowa City.

Marshall county farmers are requested by the state game and fish department to aid in increasing pheasants in central Iowa, by raising young birds to be liberated as soon as they are able to take care of themselves.

Various Iowa cities are letting contracts for their large paving projects piece-meal, in order to shut off the remedy of appeal given to affected property owners by the state budget law, Budget Director E. L. Hogue announced.

Des Moines will never have another Sunday circus unless some city council in the future repeals an ordinance which has been adopted by the present city officials. The new ordinance will go into effect as soon as it is published.

Fifteen cars of hogs and four of cattle were shipped by the Guthrie Center Shipping association during the first month's business under the management of the Farmers Elevator company, Frank Rees, manager. In that period $31,499.29 was paid to shippers.

The American Legion members of Fort Dodge voted $500 to be used to further the scheme on foot to establish a summer camp for Boy Scouts. All clubs are contributing towards the purchase of a tract of land near the city and the immediate construction of overnight camps on the ground.

Permission to construct three high tension electric line projects probably will be granted by the Iowa railroad commission. No objection was raised to a high line plan of the Central Iowa Power and Light Company in Black Hawk county. The Iowa Electric Company project in Van Buren county and the Northeast Iowa Power Company's project in Floyd, Cerro Gordo, Butler, Howard and Mitchell counties likely will be allowed, it was said. No permit will be issued soon to the Central Iowa Power and Light Company for its proposed Grundy county line, it was said. A protest against the proposal was entered by the Iowa Railway and Light Company.

State officials in the food, drug, dairy and feed departments of middle western states met in Des Moines May 18 and 19 to attend a conference. Approximately seventy-five men were at the conference. States represented are: Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Nebraska, North and South Dakota and Wisconsin.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

★ Iowa is first in value of ★ ★ corn, oats, horses, hogs, poul- ★
★ try and eggs. ★

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Contracted Cold at Billy Sunday R

Developed Into Systemic C Recommends PE-RU-

Mr. A. R. Wilson, LaFollette, Tenn.

The letter written a short ti by Mr. A. R. Wilson of La Tenn., brings some more dire dence of the value of Pe-ru-na treatment of catarrhal diseases.

It reads as follows:—"While ing Billy Sunday's great rev Knoxville, Tenn., last February tracted a cold which weakened tire system. I have taken only bottles of Pe-ru-na and feel new man. It is a great system as well as a great catarrh reme

To attempt to even estima thousands who, in the last ha tury, have come to know and ciate the merits of Pe-ru-na wo worse than useless. The num astonishing and increasing daily

Your nearest dealer has Pe in both tablet and liquid form upon having Pe-ru-na, the c treatment for catarrh.

Red Herring Across T

This phrase, originally "to d red herring across the track," quently heard in everyday spe signify a means used to divert attention, to throw one off the by injecting into the matter in a new object upon which the tion is then focused.

The expression dates back t Seventeenth century for its orig ing a survival of the old practi sportsmen to draw the carcass cat or fox or a red herring acro track in training dogs for hunting

The uniqueness of the phrase it stand out, and it soon became lar in the figurative sense in t it is used today.—Jean Newt Chicago Journal.

Cuticura Soap for the Complex Nothing better than Cuticura daily and Ointment now and th needed to make the complexion scalp clean and hands soft and Add to this the fascinating, fra Cuticura Talcum, and you hav Cuticura Toilet Trio.—Advertise

New Thread Machine

An electric "sewing machine" an "insect" because of its resemb to a fly, welds piping, steel plat ships and many other article means of a white-hot steel wire from a bobbin.

Fool questions beget fool answe

Sure Relie FOR INDIGESTION

BELL-ANS

25¢ AND 75¢ PACKAGES EVERYWH

ABSORBI

TRADE MARK REG. U.S.

Reduces Bursal Enla ments, Thickened, Swo Tissues. Curbs, Fil Tendons Soreness f Bruises or Strains; s Spavin Lameness, allays p Does not blister, remove hair or lay up the horse. a few drops required at application. $2.50 a bott druggists or delivered. Book 1 A f

W. F. YOUNG, Inc., 510 Lyman St., Springfield,

Kremola

for the Perfection of Your Complexion

This pure snow-white cream removes all discolora blemishes, patches, pimples, etc., and produces a soft and creamy complexion. At drug or dept. stores or by prepaid. $1.25. Send for free Beauty Booklet. Agents wa

DR. C. H. BERRY CO., 2975 Michigan Ave., CHI

DAISY FLY KILLER PLACED ANYW ATTRACTS AND

ALL FLIES. clean, ornam convenient, cheap all season. metal, can't s tip over; will or injure any Guaranteed effe Sold by DEALE 5 by EXPRES prepaid. FI

HAROLD SOMERS, 150 De Kalb Ave., Brooklyn,

Dr. Isaac Thompson's EYEWATER HELPFUL EYE WASH

159 River, Troy, N. Y. Booklet.

The AMERICAN LEGION

(For This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

...ION WORKER IS GIVEN PROMOTION

...am Stern, national vice com... of the American Legion, has ...ctively engaged in Legion work ...nce the inception of the Legion. ...erest and activity were recog... at the last national convention ...election to the national vice com...ship.

...he caucus held at St. Louis in ...919, Mr. Stern was a delegate ...eating his home state of North ... It was at that convention ...e temporary organization of the ... was effected. Since that time ...ern has been a regularly elected ...te to every national convention. ...diately after his return from ... Louis meeting Mr. Stern pro... to organize the North Dakota ...ment of the Legion. The first William Stern.

...organized was Gilbert C. Grafton ...t Fargo, the home of the national ...ommander. He is a charter mem... the post.

... Stern has been a member of the ...executive committee and of the ...rment executive committee since ...ganization of the department. He ...een chef de gare of the Forty and ...

...ring the war Mr. Stern enlisted ...e quartermaster corps as a pri... Four months later he was made ...cond lieutenant. He was dis...ed from service February 10, 1919. ... Stern was born at Fargo, May ...886. He attended St. John's Mili... academy at Delafield, Wis. He ...attended the North Dakota Agri...ral college.

GOOD CITIZENS

NEWTON G. GILBERT, former governor of the Philippine Islands, in a recent address, ...ld of the American Legion: "Soldier organizations are ...ly worth while if they func...on in peace as well as in war, ...nd I believe that it is easier ...o be a good citizen in time of ...ar than it is in time of peace. ...veryone tried to be a good citi...en during the war, but it is ...fficult for the same men in ...ays of peace to be as good citi...ens as they were in days of ...ar. The American Legion has ...ade it possible for all veterans ...o be just as good citizens dur...ng peace-time through organ...ed service to their community, ...tate and nation, as they were ...uring the patriotic days of ...917-18."

...avel Committee Will Arrange for Paris Meet

...ppointment of the France conven... travel committee in preparation ... the national convention of the ...erican Legion to be held in Paris in ...er 1927 or 1928 was made recently ... James A. Drain, national com...der.

...he committee includes: John J. ...ker, chairman, Richmond, Va.; ...n T. Roberts, Marquette, Mich.; ... Monroe Johnson, Marion, S. C.; ...rman Elder, Indianapolis, Ind.; B. ... Ball, Bristol, R. I.; Wade H. ...lips, Lexington, N. C.; Albert ...enlaw, Augusta, Me.; Samuel Rey...ds, Omaha, Neb.; George Hatfield, ... Francisco, Cal.

...he committee will make all plans ...arding transportation and travel. ...precedented low rates will be ar...ged with steamship companies, ac...ding to Mr. Wicker.

Rotten

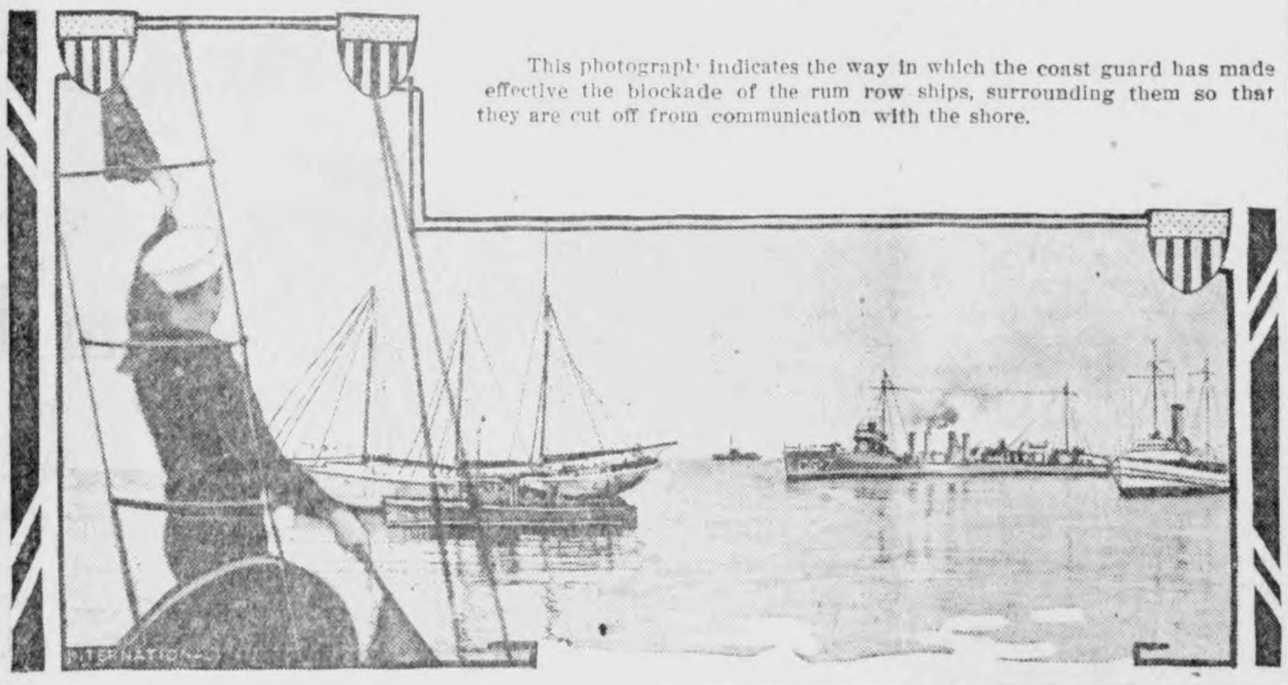
...unior Partner: "Well, how's busi...s?"

...enior Partner: "Absolutely gone to ...devil. Why, do you know, this is ...first month for thirty-seven months ...have failed to beat all previous ...other production records?"—Amer...n Legion Weekly.

Edison Honored by His Early Associates

The Edison Pioneers, early associates of Thomas Edison, gathered at Menlo Park, N. J., and dedicated a tablet in tribute to his first experiments and inventions. At the right is shown a small part of the crowd attending, and at the left Mrs. Edison is unveiling the tablet.

How the Blockade of Rum Row Is Worked



This photograph indicates the way in which the coast guard has made effective the blockade of the rum row ships, surrounding them so that they are cut off from communication with the shore.

Shrine of Club Women Dedicated

View of the old Fauntleroy home at New Harmony, Ind., in which the Minerva club, first woman's club in America with written constitution and by-laws, was organized, September 20, 1859, by Miss Constance Owen Fauntleroy, granddaughter of Robert Owen, who founded the New Harmony Cooperative colony. It was dedicated on the closing day of the biennial council of the General Federation of Women's Clubs at West Baden, Ind., having recently been purchased by the Indiana Federation of Women's Clubs. This house was built in 1815 by the followers of George Rapp, a company of communists from Germany.

Making Trail in the Everglades

Here's a combined home, tractor, sledge, compressed air driller and freak house boat that is being used by the crew clearing a way through the Florida Everglades for the new Tamiami trail. It does the work of thirty negroes. So soggy is the land that an ordinary tractor would sink in the rich muck.

OMAHA GIRL AS PUCK

Miss Carmen Longman, a dainty miss of twenty, who appeared as Puck, the fun-loving little sprite, in the annual pageant presented by the University of Omaha coeds.

GOING TO ARCTIC

Capt. G. F. Steele of the steam yacht Rowena, who will command that boat for Captain MacMillan in the exploration of the Arctic regions north of Greenland.

Community Building

Playground Great Need of Every Community

Of 19,000 and more inquiries on public recreation received by the Playground and Recreation Association of America in 1924, one-third came from communities of 2,500 population or less.

That such places are more alive to the necessity of planning for recreation than ever before is clear, but anything like complete statistics on the number of parks, playgrounds and other recreation facilities established as a result of this interest are unavailable. This article, therefore, is not a survey of small-town recreation, but a brief review of typical achievements. The facts are taken from the current files of the Playground and Recreation Association of America and from publications of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Recreation facilities in small towns include mainly parks, playgrounds, athletic fields, community houses, picnic grounds, tennis courts, bathing beaches and swimming pools. Tourist camps also are common. In many instances, the recreation facilities combine several features. Parks, for instance, often have within their area playgrounds, athletic fields and swimming pools or other facilities.

In the majority of the towns studied, recreation is financed by public subscription. Yet instances of successful municipal maintenance demonstrate the feasibility of tax support. It is scarcely necessary to say that leadership for recreation in the small town is just as essential as in the city. The success of the program usually varies with the competence of the management.

Town Has Found Park Profitable Investment

Wamego, Kans., has a population of only 1,585, but in 1904, as a result of a bond election, it purchased 12 acres of land for park purposes at a cost of $2,525. Recently the park board purchased 3 adjoining acres at a cost of $2,000 for use as a tourist camp ground. Improvements include an artificial lake 4½ feet deep with an area of 1½ acres, used for boating and bathing; a wading pool, electric fountain 45 feet in diameter and 27 feet high; a women's rest house, a men's comfort house, band stand, dancing pavilion, playground equipment, three drinking fountains, dining tables, steel range, baseball, football and basketball fields, and other facilities. It is maintained by town funds at an average yearly expense of $1,500. This includes the salaries of caretaker and janitor for seven months.

The only charge made for the park is for entertainments for gain. The revenue comes from licenses for shows and from the church, school and general welfare fund. The park is extensively used.—Exchange.

Value of Paved Streets

The stranger forms his opinion of a town by its streets, schools and churches. We have the schools and churches but some of our streets would be more pleasing if they were moved. In fact, there really should not be an unpaved street in the city limits. Paved streets increase the value of all property and are an asset to the community, equal to adequate schools and churches. With Sheffield fast coming into the great industrial district its founders visioned years ago, we should think of our streets and effect a way to pave them.—Sheffield Standard.

Drayton's Good Idea

Drayton, N. D., population 637, has a 40-acre field which cost $8,000. The sum was subscribed by 260 people living in five townships. The subscribers organized a park association, a non-profit-sharing enterprise with each shareholder having one vote. A baseball diamond, bleachers, picnic benches, electric lights and water supply to constitute some of the equipment. Plans call for additional facilities. The activities include special day celebrations, bathing and boating, parties, dancing, athletics and band concerts.

Home-Town Loyalty

An ounce of loyalty is worth several pounds of prosperity. Once you get a man boosting for his home town you actually have contributed to its material wealth, besides adding one more person to the list whose forward-looking and forward-acting in conjunction with his fellow boosters means more population, more institutions, more business, a greater town or city, and in this instance, a greater Camp Hill.—Tallapoosa News.

"Etiquette" Extraordinary

In a book of etiquette published in 1480, directions are given as to how to grab the meat with the hands. The writer advises the use of three fingers only, and among his "don'ts" are: "Don't keep the hand too long feeling about in the dish; don't take too large a piece; don't wipe the fingers on the coat."

Invented Friction Match

John Walker, an English chemist, made the first friction match in 1827.

THIS WOMAN'S REMARKABLE RECOVERY

Entirely Due To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Forest City, Iowa. — "My first child lived only a short time and I was sick for a year after. When I bent over and raised myself up again I could almost scream with pain in my back. One day I was so bad that I had to leave my washing and get ready to go to the doctor. He gave me medicine but it did no more good than if I drank just water. Once when we had been in town a little book telling about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was left in our car. I have taken five bottles of the Vegetable Compound now and I do all my housework and help with the milking and taking care of chickens and garden. Besides I have a fine baby girl eight months old, just the picture of health and I am feeling fine myself. You may use this letter as a testimonial and I will answer any letters asking about the Vegetable Compound." —Mrs. OSCAR F. BORGELIN, Route No. 5, Forest City, Iowa.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is for sale by all druggists.

Unbeatable

Smith and Jones had a lawsuit. Smith sat in the courtroom before the case opened, with his witnesses around him. Then Jones bustled in. He stopped abruptly and looked Smith's witnesses over carefully. Presently he turned to Smith and asked: "Are these your witnesses?"

"They are," Smith replied.

"Then you win," Jones exclaimed. "I've had them witnesses twice myself."—Pathfinder.

A Man of Mystery is interesting in a small town. In the city nobody cares.

CORNS

Lift Off—No Pain!

Doesn't hurt one bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers.

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the foot calluses, without soreness or irritation.

How to build up your Weight

TO BE under weight often proves low fighting-power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve-power, minus red-cells in your blood, minus health, minus vitality. It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become plus. That's why S. S. S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women, a plus in their strength. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, firmer, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body. More red-blood-cells! S. S. S. will build them.

Free Booklet
Send name and address to S. S. S. Co., 111 S. S. S. Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for special booklet on the Blood.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

S.S.S. The World's Best Blood Medicine

BAND INSTRUMENTS
—Second-Hand—

Standard makes rebuilt like new. Saxophones, cornets, trombones, etc., for sale cheap; free trial given. We do repair work. Write for bargains.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENT EXCHANGE
AMES, IOWA

FITS STOPPED FREE TRIAL TREATMENT

to any sufferer from Epilepsy or falling sickness. Write us today, giving age. EMMEHLEPTO REMEDY Co., Dept. B, 881 Third Street, MILWAUKEE, WIS.

USE YOUR OLD RAZOR BLADES
The Kree-Kutt handle holds all makes. Valuable for your sewing equipment or wherever a keen edge is required. Write for particulars or send 50c to D. W. CREE CO., GRIGGSVILLE, ILL.

Auto-Radio Battery Charger (bulb); for 110 v., 60 cycles. Quiet, simple, safe; 16-18 hrs. If not, money back. $13 E. of Miss.; $14 west. John Macko, 871 E. 154th, Cleveland, Ohio.

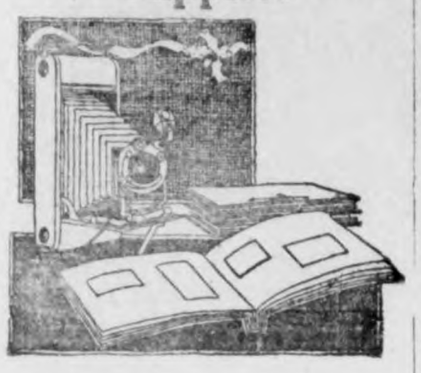
LATEST SONG HITS

"He said he loved nature, so she gave him the air."

"What wicked Camel driver 'E gypt me."

"No matter how high an awing is it's only a shade above the sidewalk.

Kodaks and Supplies--



This is picture time. You will want a permanent record of all those good times ahead—"Kodak As You Go!" Kodak pictures are inexpensive and you will want pictures of the children, your trips, your vacation, etc.

We carry a full line of:

KODAKS, all kinds
FILMS, all sizes
KODAK ALBUMS
ART CORNERS, Etc.

PRINTING & DEVELOPING--bring us your films for high class developing & printing at reasonable prices.

Wilson's Pharmacy

Floyd Fraser

Jig Jog Jags

A Little Joshing Now and Then Will Get the Goat of Many Men

"Where do you come from?"
"The Lord made me.' '
"No wonder there are so many atheists.' '

"Well, I finally got into the movies."
"How did you do that?"
"Paid them a quarter."

Mrs. Jack—Is yo' man fond o' animals?
Mrs Jackson—He sho' is. He don even make an attempt to keep de wolf away from de door.

Tom—How did you like that date I got for you?
Jerry—Which one
Tom—The blind one.
Jerry—Oh, she couldn't see me at all.

There was a man in college once.
Who was so very bright
He couldn't get it dark enough
To go to sleep at night.

"I would face death for you. "
"Then why did you run away from that dog?' '
It wasn't dead."

When a paper says the bride is twenty-four and the groom sixty; it isn't necessary to add that he is considered one of the richest men in the country.

It won't be long now (as the barber remarked when he picked up his scissors) till these blue law fiends will have us boys wearing petticoats under our balloon trousers.

Waitress—What'll it be?
Dienr—Applesauce.
Waitress: Don't get fresh. I'm only a poor working girl.

Mary had a little lamp,
She filled it with benzene.
She went to light her little lamp,
And hasn't since benzene.

Gentleman Jim was polite to the last. He even offered his chair to the warden when he was about to be electrocuted.

"Who was the first woman to get her clothes from Paris? "
"I'll bite, who.' '
"Helen of Troy."

Customer (in barber shop)—Cut all three short."
Barber—What three?
Custmer—The beard the hair, and the conservation."

Parent—My daughter tells me that you are a church member. What church do you belong to?
Suitor: Why-er-name some of them over.' '

Flapper—Is this the bureau of information
"Yes, what do you want?' '
Flapper—Is my hat on straight?

Black—That Jones boy has his father's honesty.
White—(who has had dealings with Jones): "Well, I knew someone had it.

Drink a little moonshine,
Make your own homebrew,
Listen close, and you will hear
What it will do to you.

You'll ride a little buggy
All draped in solemn black,
And you'll see the cemetery,
But you won't come back.

There is an old adage which says "In Rome behave like a Roman." True, but try to be a buffalo in Buffalo."

"What a rotten bounder you turned out to be," said the girl disgustedly, looking for a more lively tennis ball.

Gerry says—Ever since I've been in puppy love, I've led a dog's life.

THE POISON, WATSON

Awfully wealthly old Suitor—Ah Miss Janice, will you marry me? I would gladly die for you!
Janice (who is very practical)—And how soon?

"Where are you going to eat?
"Lets eat up the street."
"Aw, no, I don't like asphalt."

Physics Prof. (making assignment)—Tomorrow start with lightning and go to thunder."

High Brown—Bo, de band what I plays de saxaphone in is so big dat dey uses a cannan for a bass drum Low Brown—Shucks, Boy! Dat ain't nuthin'. De band what I plays in am so big dat it takes seben wheel barrows to haul de rosum for de violin.

Captain—Right about face!
Rookie: Thank goodness, I'm right about something.

While you were reading this Henry Ford made ten dollars.

"Oh, ma! c'mere quick."
"What is it, Mary?"
"Look, Johnny ate the raisins off that sticky brown paper.'

Cutey—Have you ever heard the story of the man who kept his home brew in a bath tub ?
Cutty—No, let's have it.
Cutey: It hasn't leaked out yet.

HE HAD A BUSINESS EYE

A small boy called on the doctor one evening. "Say, doc, I guess I got measles," he said, "but I can keep quiet."

The doctor looked puzzled.

"Aw, get wise, doc,' suggested the small boy. "What'll you give me to go to school and scatter it among the kids ' '

KNOW YOUR NEIGHBOR

Get acquainted with your neighbor!
Stop and pass the time of day;
You may get a lot of pleasure
From the things he has to say.
You may find a different fellow
Than you thought him at the start
You may form a mutual liking,
Though your views be far apart.

He may have a good suggsetion
That's the very thing you need—
That will bring you fame and fortune
If you cultivate the seed;
He may need some small assistance,
In a purely personal way,
That you'd feel quite free in giving,
So why treat him like a stray?

How is one to love his neighbor,
As the bible bids us do,
If you never get acquainted —
If he's not a help to you
Would each happy wife be married
To her present choice of man,
If she hadn't learned to know him
In a way no stranger can?

You may some day be a stranger,
Like the man who's just 'moved in',
Meeting folks with good intentions,
But who just forget to grin.
Friend, regardless of your calling—
Whether business, field or labor,
Know the fellow at your elbow—
Get acquainted with your neighbor!

G. R. Reed.

In an address before the Kiwanis club at Grinnel, Mac Harlan, advertising manager of the Rollins Hosiery Mills at Des Moines, offered a prize to the persons guessing nearest to the number of yards of silk that are required to make a pair of ladies' silk hose and in a pair of mens' silk socks. G. O. Watland won the prize as to the ladies stockings and Dr. O. H. Gallagher won on the second proposition. Neither guessed the exact number of yards, but came closer tnan the other fellows.

Mr. Harlan gave the exact figures as 4,381 yards of silk in a pair of ladies hose and 3,596 in a pair of men's socks.

BE A CO-OPERATOR

The following is an interesting article which we have clipped from this week's issue of THE FARMER of St. Paul.

Whether or not our county fair is going to be a success is largely due to the interest of the farmer and his wife take in it. Most of the counties of the different states have a county agent, but in too many counties too much of the work for success is left to the county agent, and then if things don't prove to be a success the county agent is blamed for it.

Because the county agent is paid a fair salary, too many think he can do it all. The county agent can do little by hmself, but he can accompolish wonderful results with the co operation of every farmer of the county. I for one am a great booster for our county agent and the county fair.

I think this is a splendid time of the year to get our thinking caps on and make plans for what we can do to help make our fair a suceess this year. My great hobby is my prize vegetables and flowers, but maybe you would do better with canned goods, baking sewing or in fancy goods department. I never tire of planning and getting ready for our fall fair. I not only help to make the fair a success, but I also take in a neat little sum of pin money from my exhibits. And that isn't all, for I have better than 150 blue and red ribbons that I have won at our county fair in the last three years. Oh, its wonderful work and a pleasure to do if one just makes up their mind they are going to win.

One would just be surprised at the many farmers that don't take any special interest to make the county fair a success. There are wonderful crops and vegetables raised in this county that are never taken to the fair at all, but if they could be taken, they would make people sit up and take notice and wonder how such fine stuff could be raised. The very farmer that doesn't take anything will be the first to remark that the county agent and the officers failed to make the fair a success.

Now let's get out of this old rut of complaining, and go to planning and working to do all we can to make our county fair this fall the best we ever had. I know it can be done if every one does his or her part, even where failures have been before.— Mrs. M. W., Hancock County, Iowa.

IOWA CIRCUSES

The modern circus is an institution. At Clarinda, Page county, the public schools are to close in time for the pupils to witness the parade and no afternoon session will be held. The city superintendent will occupy a strategic point and when the parade is approaching he will telephone the principal of each school so that all pupils will be permitted to witness the big event. Fred Buchanan, owner of the Robbins Brothers show a strictly Iowa enterprise, says that the circus is purely an American institution. No other country on earth provides such a complicated and com posite exhibition. Iowa has furnished the country some noted showmen. Ringling brothers and their cousins Gentry brothers, Orton brothers and the Buchanans are all Iowa products and so was William F. Cody, "Buffalo Bill."

GOODEEL NEWS ITEMS

(Too Late for Last Week)

The R. I. people are decorating the depot with a coat of paint which improves its appearance.

Mrs. Wm. Bier is visiting at the home of her son Walter and family.

Mrs. Graber returned from Illinois after spending many weeks at the bedside of her mother who is much improved in health at present.

Decorators of Waterloo are busy decorating the interior of the U. B. church this week, their work is very fine and adds greatly to the appearance of the rooms

Wednesday night is commencement. Superintendent Vasey of Mason City will deliver the address.

The Sophomore Junior Senior Banquet was held Tuesday night.

Warner Butts, Francis Mason and Chas. Burkett drove to Cross Lake, Minnesota to fish.

Mr. Tompkins and family spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. J. Ahrenkiel.

Friends of Mrs. Letch have received word that she is a little better. We hope for her speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood were business callers at Bason City Monday.

Fernon Griggs was a Clarion caller Monday .

FRANK ZEIGER FOR CORONER

Hancock county has been without a coroner since January 1st when R. S. Fillmore failed to qualify after having been elected. Dr. Fraser was appointed some time ago but he did not qualify either and at the meeting of the Board of Supervisors last week F. W. Zeiger was appointed. Frank tells us he will qualify, and will be in readiness to answer all calls night or day.—Garner Signal.

NOTICE OF PROBATE OF WILL

STATE OF IOWA
Hancock County; ss.
TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

YOU ARE HEREBY NOTIFIED, That an instrument of writing porporting to be the last Will and Testament of Earnest H. Lenz deceased, dated Febuary 16, 1925, having been this day filed, opened and read, Monday the 29 day of June, 1925 is fixed for hearing proof of same at the Court House in Garner, Iowa, before the District Court of said County or the Clerk of said Court; and at 10 o'clock A. M. of the day above mentioned, all persons interested are hereby notified and required to appear, and show cause, if any they have, why said instrument should not be probated and allowed as and for the last Will and Testament of said deceased.

Dated at Garner, Iowa, May 23, 1925.

Chris. J. Johansen,
Clerk of the District Court.

A good deed may shine in a naughty world, but a bad deed makes a red flare from the mountain top.

Oil Stoves--

Summer is here and with it comes the season when an OIL STOVE will be founl about the most convenient kitchen equipment that the house-wife uses. An oil stove means a cool kitchen, quickly prepared meals and no coal or ashes to carry.

We have a full line of OIL STOVES on hand in the following makes:—

PERFECTION

NEW PROCESS

ALBERT LEA (gasoline)

The above stoves come in 2, 3, and 4 burner sizes.

Full line of all size ovens for the above stoves.

Jacobs & Son

Theiman Ensilage Harvester

—Mows corn in the field; cuts into ensilage; elevates into wagon—ALL IN ONE OPERATION.

John Deere Model D 15 - 27

—KEROSENE BURNING FARM TRACTOR, more power with less weight.

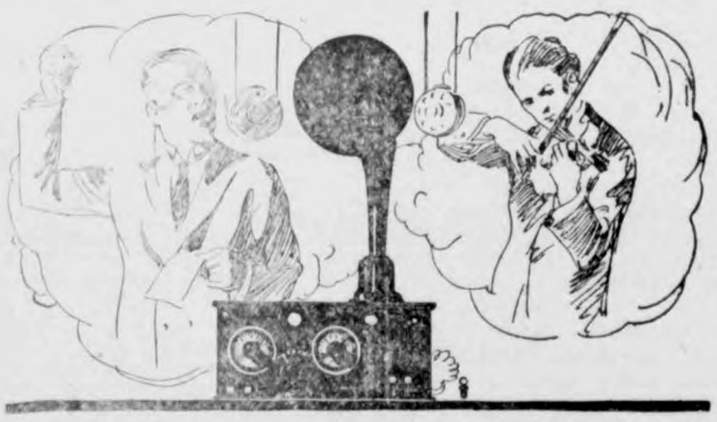
Will have the above machines at:—

Klemme, Sat., June 6th

—for your inspection. Mr Thieman will be there to tell you all about his harvester; and Mr. Smith will show you how nice the John Deere Tractor works.

DON'T FORGET THE DATE!

L. W. WESENBERG
GOODELL, IOWA



Grebe Radio Set FREE

We are givig away FREE a 3-tube GREBE Radio Set, complete with tubes, batteries, loud speaker, aerial, etc., to some one in this vicinity

Come in and see this Radio Set and ask us about our plan. No employee of this garage or stranger will be given this set. We give you a key free with each $1 purchase, except on cars, trucks and tractors. Keys given on accounts paid up.

Greimann Motor Co.

Becoming Better Acquainted

Two things are necessary to enable a bank to give its customers the best of service; knowing them personally and knowing their desires.

A part of our time is devotel to becoming better acquainted with our territory —that our service may be improved. This is another reason why the First National can handle your account in a superior way.

First National Bank,
KLEMME, IOWA.

THE KLEMME TIMES

Twenty-ninth Year—Number 39. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, JUNE 4, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

NOTES ON MEMORIAL

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS MEMORIAL SERVICE HERE

Chaplin Van Metre Gave Excellent Address Along Patriotic Lines

A large crowd attended the Memorial services which were observed in Klemme Sunday, May 31st.

The services were held in the Park, beginning at 2:30 o'clock and the program was carried out in detail according to the printed programs; the entire program being in charge of the Klemme Legion Post.

The program was opened by the Klemme Band playing two selections, followed by an invocation by Rev. Gauger.

Rev. C. H. Van Metre, of Garner, and former Chaplin of the 168th, gave an excellent address that was greatly enjoyed by the large crowd. Chaplin Van Metre gave one of the best Memorial addresses we have had the pleasure of listening to.

Two Civil War Vets Present

Lew Lewis and Sam Eckman, Veterans of the Civil War occupied places of honor on the platform near the speaker. Klemme feels greatly honored in still having Veterans of the Civil War with them. The ranks of this war are thinning and it is indeed a privilege to have these "Boys" take a part in a Memorial program.

Gold Star Mothers, Wives and Widows of Civil War Veterans likewise were given seats of honor on the speakers platform.

The Klemme Legion was out in force, uniformed, and took their places in front of the speakers platform.

The Formation

The parade to the cemetery was headed by the Color Bearers and the Guard, followed by the Civil War Veterans and speaker, Band, Firing Squad, Legion, Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, citizens. The band played two marches on the way to the cemetery.

At the Cemetery the Legion gave their ritual and decorated the graves of all veterans.

We want to compliment the Legion in their part of the service; the boys did fine in their ritual work. And especially was the firing squad excellently rehearsel in their part, their drill and firing was perfect.

The services brought to an end and the gathering disbanded.

The program was well given thruout and everyone who took a part are to be given due credit. We hope we have mentioned all details as it is not our purpose to have slighted anyone in this review of Memorial day in Klemme.

DO YOU KNOW

That 21,000,000 letters went to the Dead Letter Office last year?

That 803,000 parcels did likewise

That 100,000 letters go into the mail yearly in perfectly blank envelopes?

That $55,000.00 in cash is removed annually from misdirected envelops? That $12,000.00 in postage stamps is found in similiar fashion?

That $3,000,000.00 in checks, drafts and money orders never reach intended owners?

That Uncle Sam collects $92,000 a year in postage for the return of mail sent to the deal letter office?

That it costs Uncle Sam $1,740.00 yearly to look up addresses on misdirected mail.

That 200,000 letters are given this service, and—

That it costs in one city alone $90.00 daily?

That this vast sum could be saved and the dead letter office abolished if each piece of mail carried a return address, and if each parcel were wrappel in stout paper and tiel with strong cord.

Moral: Every man knows his own address if not that of his correspondent. Put it in the upper left hand corner.

Envelopes neatly printed at the TIMES OFFICE.

FARMS MOVING AGAIN IN IOWA AT OLD PRICES

Range From $200 to $375; One Sells LOW

Eagle Grove—Andrew Amerson has purchased the Pletcher farm of forty acres, located two miles east of here for $11,000 or $275 per acre. This is a fairly well improved farm, is well drained and a good producer.

Melvin, Ia.—The prices of land through this section of the state are gradually coming back to normal, as indicated by a deal completed by which C. M. McDougal farm of eighty acres was sold to Rulolph Hokuf for $220 per acre. Thef arm is located one mile north of Melvin.

Grundy Center, Ia.—Henry Johnson has sold his 120 acre farm three miles northwest of town to Will J. Itzen whose land adjoins. The price paid was about $215 per acre. Mr. Johnson wil move on his larger farm near Sumner.

Remsen, Ia.—The farm owned by John Walker was sold to Henry Kohler for $250 per acre.

Record Low Price

Guthrie Center, Ia.—A 320 acre farm known as the McConnell farm northwest of Guthrie Center, soll Wednesday for $110 per acre, this price setting a low mark fo rreal estate in this locality. The farm is well improved and in a high state of cultivation. The farm was sold to a man from Manning who paid just $60 an acre less than the purchase price a few years ago.

GOOD CORN OUTLOOK

Des Miones, Iowa, June4,— "Isn't this the worst spring Iowa ever had?" "Well, it might be worse, in fact it was worse last spring", says the Weather and Crop Bureau of the Iowa Department of Agriculture.

Iowa more often suffers from an excess than from a deficiency of moisture in the spring. January to March this year set a new record for dry weather ,but April and May to date have had a little more rain than last year, and the temperature has averaged higher.

"It's an ill (hot) wind that blows nobody good." The hot south west gale of May 22, stored so much heat in the soil that much corn that was cut to the ground by frost on the 25th will come up rapidly without replanting. Probably not more than 5 to 10 per cent of the State's corn acreage will have to be replanted, unless other damage follows. Last year from various causes, 13 percent had to be replanted and some was replanted the second time.

Just before the frost, Iowa corn looked very well for this time of the year. The well prepared seed bed conserved the subsoil moisture the stand was generally good, cultivation had a good start in the central and southern counties, and weed was not visible.

DAIRY BUSINESS UPSETS THE DOPE

Des Moines, Iowa, June 4,—The year ending May 1, 1925, which is the fiscal year for the butter trade, has had a much more optimistic end ing than most of the dopesters had estimated. Six months ago, there were 57,000,000 pounds more of but ter than usual at that time of the year and most people were estimating that the dairy business was overdone.

The surplus of butter in storage had been reduced to 1,000,000 on May 1, which is much less than a year ago. "Optimism has taken the place of discouragement inthe dairy business as the big surplus of last fall has been utilized," states the Iowa Department of Agriculture.

A COSTLY EXPERIMENT

It has cost thes tate of Iowa an immense sum to take care of the pheasant situation in four counties. Something like $10,000 has been expendel thus far. The fund is nearly depleted.

The Lure of Iowa

Oh to be there when the Spring is awakening—
There when the violets and buttercups bloom!
There when the honey-sweet locust anl plum-trees
Are shelling their exquisite, matchless perfume!
To see the pink cloud of the blossoming crab-tree,
More lovely than coral or shells of the sea—
To tread the green grasses, so young anl so tender—
The lure of the Springtime is calling to me!

O for a glimpse of a field of red clover,
And corn-fields, with pennants of glistening green!
To smell the rich fragrance of acres of corn-silk,
With hedges of hazel and horsemint between!
The lure of the Summer is pulsing within me—
Sweet Summer, that calls me through sunshine and rain—
Through waking and dreaming it tugs at my heart strings—
My homeland is calling o'er mountain and plain!

O to be there in the glorious Autumn,
When goldenrods striving the sunflowers to shame—
When asters are ravishing rainbows of color,
And sumacs are gorgeous torches of flame!
When Indian Summer is veiling the landscape,
And harvests are garnered, and brush-fires glow—
O Autumn is calling—is calling and beckoning,
And I to its summons would joyfully go!

When Winter is frescoing garlands of frost-flowers,
Or scattering diamonds with prodigal hand,
And frost-feathers, shaken from pillows in Cloudland
Are bending in blankets to cover the land;
When hearth fires are glowing, and home ties are drawing
Their circles of love and fellowship near—.
O then is the lure of my Homeland the strongest!
O then are its pleadings especially dear!

For the dearest of all, are the ties that are human —
The links that the passing years bind in a chain—
The mingling of joy and the sharing of sorrows—
The fellowships strengthened by pleasure and pain!
The lure of my Homeland grows stronger and stronger,
And the heart of me hungers to hasten the day
When the fetters of circumstance bind me no longer,
And I to my Homeland shall up and away!

SUDAN IS EMERGENCY PASTURE

Dry WeatherPlays Havoc with Iowa's Permanent Meadows This Year

Due to the unusual dryness of the season the permanent pastures of Iowa are undoubtedly suffering and the farmers will have to cast about for some emergency hay or pasture crop, says F. S. Wilkins, farm crops specialist, Iowa State College.

Because of its drouth resistance and quick growth Wilkins reccommends the planting of Sudan grass. Sudan grass gives an unusually high yield of hay. The average yield at the Experiment Station has been 3.47 tons per acre. It can be seeded any time up to July 15andis easilysown, the same seed bed requirements as oats.

Sudan furnihes good pasture for horses, cattle, sheep or hogs. It is best not to pasture the crop until it has reached a height of about one foot. By this time it will have become quite firmly rooted and will not be injured by the tramping of animals.

There is not much danger of poisoning from prussic acid, Wilkins says. The seed yields well and is fairly low in price.

Real Estate Transfers

Marie Klessel to Chris J. Johanson, W D date 5-23-25, W½ lots 7-8 Blk. 36 Garner.

Henry G. Hollatz wf to Otto anl August Hollatz W D date 4-20-25, $1.00, SE¼ NW¼ 1-96-23.

August & Otto Hollatz wf to Henry G. Hollatz, W D date 4-20-25, $1, NW¼ 1-96-23.

Northern Sugar Corporation to American Beet Sugar Co. W D late 3-31-25, $1.00, etc lots 5-6-7-8-9-10 blk 5 Britt & lands in other counties.

A. M. Place wf to School Twp of Liberty, W D date 4-9-25, $200.00, a tract of land 11rds N and S and 14½ rods E and W, in SE cor SE¼ 30-95-24.

Mrs.—This is the third time this week I've caught you drunk!

Mr.—Well - you know I can't run very fasht when I'm toxicated.!

OIL COMPANY FINED $100 AND COSTS

Hampton, Iowa, June 4,—Carelessness in the handling of gasoline received a serious jolt here recently when the Dreier Oil Company was fined $100 and costs for filling a fifty galion kerosen barrel with gasoline.

A barrel of kerosene had been purchased by George Paullus for use on the farm. It would not burn good in the incubator so it was returned. The oil was exchanged and the barrel was refilled. The oil was used in the incubator and resulted in a serious explosion.

When the oil was tested by the inspector of the Iowa Department of Agriculture, it proved to be gasoline instead of kerosene. When the case was presented to the judge, the oil company received the maximum fine of $100

DEFENSE DAY JULY 4TH

The second Natonal Defense Day will beh eld on July 4th. The army has accepted the day as proposed by President Coolidge. Last year it was held on Armistice day, Nov. 11, as there was so much opposition to it being held inNovember it was dedided the 4of July would be the right day. This day coming on the National Patriotic Day should add to the spirit that is manifested. Preparation is already underway for a big demonstration on that day in the U. S. Let all join the forces and be one good patriotic American for one day, it may stay with you until the next celebration.

Automobile tourists have no idea to whom favors are being extended when they give the "hiker" a lift. L. W. Rich, of Des Moines, driving to Grinnell, was asked for a ride by a lady dressed in a scout's uniform and he granted the request. She spoke brokenly and said that she was a teacher of Domestic Science in Germany and was in the United States to study the American people. She had hiked to California and was en route to the eastern coast and thence to Germany where she expected to write a book about the American people.

CHURCH NOTES

A. W. Gauger, Pastor

Next Sunday is Women's Foreign Missionary offering Sunday in Klemme and Liberty. A special program is being prepared. There will be special music and singing along with an address by Mrs. Corwin Taylor, pastor's wife of Forest City. Mrs. Taylor with her husband labored for many years in the mission fields of Korea. She will have a worthwhile message.

This program will be carried out during the regular hour, and all are invited to be present.

The Sunday evening service will be regular.

Our vacation Bible School begins next Monday morning in the Parish House. This is open to all boys and girls from eight years upward. We will spend every morning from nine to twelve in studying things that are instructive and helpful. Bible catechism, general history of the Christian church and Bible story telling will be a part of the program.

These schools, wherever we had them before, proved most interesting to the boys and girls and it will be no exception here.

The King's Herald's will not meet for their regular meeting on Saturday but will have their meeting in connection with a picnic in the country on an afternoon of next week.

COW IS BACKBONE OF MANY INDUSTRIES

Milk, butter and cheese are but a part of the contribution that the dairy cow makes to welfare of humanity. But for her, wew ould be manity. But for her, we would be and luxuries that mark human life today.

That was the tribute paid the dairy cow by K. L. Hatch, assistant director of agricultural extension at a Wisconsin University.

"We are apt to think that the dairy cow has fulfilled her mother function when she has supplied the milk necessary for the normal growth and healthy development of the child," Mr. Hatch said. "But she does more than this. The dairy cow is constantly with us, although the products for which she is responsible we often pass by with out recognition.

"If we separate the butterfat in milk from the other constituents, we have skim milk. If we separate the solids of skim milk, we get sugar, albumin and casein. The milk sugar is largely used in food for infants and in the preparation of medicine, while the albumin is used in the preparation of feeds for young animals. In drying the curds of the skim milk, we get casein, which in the form of cottage cheese is one of the most wholesome of foods. In this form it has many uses in the arts. Mixed with pigment or lime, it has myriad uses in office, shop and factory.

"The business man on his way to work stops at the hotel cigar counter and rolls dice made of casein. He opens his mornings' mail with a letter opener made form milk, lights a cigarette held in place by a casein holder, and settles himself to work with his foot under a desk held together by casein glue. He sharpens his pencil with a casein handled knife and signs his letters with a fountain pen made of casein. At the close of the day he enjoys a quiet game of poker, using casein chips, while he draws smoke through the stem of his moerschaun pipe, made of casein.

"His wife or sweetheart starts the day with combing her hair with a casein comb and polishing her nails with a casein polisher, while boiling the morning coffee in a pot with a casein handle. She then dons her hat with its ornamental casein buckle, fastens her cloak with its casein button, and turns off the electric light with its casein switch. Her afternoon is spent either at bridge with its casein sized cards, or shuffling casein pieces of Mah Jong. And when she takes a nap her eyes are soothed by the soft casein colors on the bedroom wall.

"Hats off to the diary cow!"

Teacher—Jimmy, if I said, 'I am beautiful,' what tense would it be?

Jimmy (promptly) "Past."

FARM BUREAU PICNIC TO BE AT CRYSTAL LAKE

Annual Picnic to Be At Crystal Lake June 10th.

Plans have been completed for the big annual Farm Bureau picnic to be held at Crystal Lake, Wednesday, June 10th. All indications point to the largest attendance ever had.

The program committe has worked out the following program.

10:00 A. M.— Community Singing.
Announcements.
Music by Quartette.
Address by Miss Knowles, State Home Demonstration Agent Leader from Ames. Miss Knowles is an excellent speaker and everyone should hear.
12:00—Picnic Dinner. Everyone bring filled baskets.
1:00—Community Singing.
Talk by President Lawhorn
Reading
Music by Quartette.
Solo.
Address by W. F. Shilling, President Twin City Milk Producers' Ass'n.

Mr. Shilling is a very good speaker and one that everyone should hear. He has addressed farm audiences in all parts of the United States, and has talked at more farm metings than any other man in the country. He is a very pleasing speaker and has a world of information to give.

The Committee has been very for tunate in securing speakers such as Miss Knowles and Mr. Shilling. They both have had years of experience along organization work, and are recognibed as leaders. Don't fail to hear them.

The Sports Committee has arranged a good program of sports, which includes base ball games, horse shoe pitching contests, boat races, nail driving contest, pig calling contest, and all kinds of races and sports for thec hildren.

A refreshment stand will be in operation on the grounds where refreshments will be served at a reasonable price.

Music will be furnished the entire day by the Crystal Lake band.

Eveyone in thec ounty is invited to attend this picnic whether they live in town or in the country, and whether they are Farm Bureau mem bers or not.

Former Klemme Pastor IS A Busy Man

Rev. A. E. Buriff leaves next Monday for Sioux City, where he will serve as a member of the faculty in a summer school of theology for undergraduate preachers of the Northwest Iowa conference. This school is held annually at Morningside college for ten days, concluding with examinations of the young men in the conference course of study.

Rev. Buriff gave the commencement address at the graduating exercises of the Thompson schools on last Thursday night and speaks this Thursday evening at the commencement of the Ware consolidated schools.—Goldfield Chronicle

EXPERTS GIVE ATTENTION TO RUBBER FROM HAITI

Washington—It may not be forever that Americans will have to depend chiefly upon far off Java for rubber tires. The bureau of standards has just received twenty-five pounds of smoked sheet rubber from an experimental plantation, which the agricultural department has been operating in Haiti. The shipment is to be tested in a variety of ways, over a long period of time, to determine whether the gum from the Haitian trees will do the work which is now preformed by the products of the islands of the Indian ocean and the Amazon basin.

The island of Haiti is 15 degrees further north of the equator than any other spot upon which rubber cultivation has been attempted previously and the rubber trees are of a different species than those in the East Indian tropical gardens.

The corn crop is more valuable tothe American farmer than any other crop grown in this country.

MUST GIVE UP U. S. OIL LEASES

Federal Judge Rules Doheny Interests Obtained Them by Fraud.

Los Angeles, Cal.—The Doheny oil interests, in a decision given by Federal Judge Paul J. McCormick, were ordered to give up for cancellation their lease in naval oil reserve No. 1, Elk Hills, Cal., and contracts for construction of oil storage facilities at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

The decision, covering 92 points of fact and 14 conclusions of law, declared the leases void for two reasons. The first was declared to be "fraud upon the United States," involved in E. L. Doheny's payment of $100,000 to Albert B. Fall, then secretary of the interior. The second reason was because the late President Harding's order transferring discretionary authority in the matter of oil leases from the Navy and Interior department was in excess of his power as President.

Judge McCormick ordered a settlement for all oil taken by the Doheny companies from Elk Hills and a credit to them for storage facilities work done in Hawaii, and empowered a master in chancery, to be named later, to effect these settlements.

Findings of fact included one to the effect that Fall "did not make any false representations of fact to President Harding for the purpose of inducing the making of the executive order of May 31, 1921."

Fall also is held responsible for the conduct of the oil lease and Hawaii contract negotiations with the Doheny interests, while former Secretary of the Navy Edwin Denby was declared to have been "passive throughout all the negotiations and signed the contracts and leases under misapprehension and without full knowledge of the contents of the documents."

It is held that the proposed contract for the work in Hawaii was kept secret "in order that congress and the public should not know what was being done, and not for military reasons."

Judge Olin Wellborn, a member of the Doheny legal staff, announced that immediate steps would be taken on an appeal to the United States Supreme court.

The trial of the suit in equity against the Doheny oil interests opened in Los Angeles on October 24 last and continued for several weeks.

Britain Puts Ban on Communists' Entry

London.—War on Bolshevik agitators and propagandists was declared by the British government. Sir William Joynson-Hicks, secretary for home affairs, announced in the house of commons that he has instructed against the entry of any aliens known to be engaged in subversive activities abroad into the United Kingdom during the Communist conference next week at Glasgow.

Every means will be used to keep the Reds out, he announced. All Bolshevik applications will be refused passport visas.

Thaw Returns to Virginia After Visit to New York

New York.—Harry Thaw left for Virginia, still in high good humor. He is going back to his duties as constable, deputy sheriff, angel of the Winchester ball team and member of the volunteer fire department. He denied that he had given Fawn Grey, the dancer, a bracelet. But Fawn's friends are gazing in envy at a pretty jewel that must have cost thousands—and Fawn insists it came from Harry, as Harry admitted Tuesday night.

Secretary Weeks Happy After Undergoing Knife

Boston.—Secretary of War John W. Weeks was in excellent spirits at the Massachusetts General hospital, after a successful operation for gallstones. Dr. Daniel F. Jones, the operating surgeon, and Dr. Gorham Brigham, his colleague, said: "Secretary Weeks had as comfortable a day as could be expected. His pulse is good, his temperature normal, and he is in excellent spirits."

Economy Program Studied by Army

Washington.—The general staff of the army has received instructions to make a study of the effect on military establishments of further progressive reductions in army appropriations, should the administration's economy program call for that action.

It was understood that the study is ordered on the basis of a White House communication to the War department.

Seven Killed in Train Wreck

Longview, Texas. — Seven persons were killed and a score slightly injured when a northbound International & Great Northern passenger train was derailed about two miles southwest of here.

Miners Begin Contempt Terms

Fairmont, W. Va.—Fifty-nine miners on Thursday began ten-day terms in jail for contempt of court in violation of an injunction granted the mine operators

SILAS H. STRAWN

Silas H. Strawn, Chicago attorney, has been selected by President Coolidge as one of the two United States commissioners to attend the special conference on Chinese customs, which is provided for by the nine-power treaty, entered into at the Washington conference. His colleague will be Ambassador John Van A. MacMurray.

PUBLICATION OF TAXES IS LEGAL

Supreme Court Rules in Favor of Newspapers.

Washington. — Newspaper publication of amounts paid by taxpayers was held by the Supreme court of the United States to be legal.

Decisions of the lower courts in cases affecting the Kansas City Journal-Post and the Baltimore Post, against both of which indictments were obtained by the government, were affirmed.

The court, in an opinion written by Justice Sutherland, held that the information, as made available to public inspection and the terms of the revenue act of 1924 "cannot be regarded otherwise than as public property, to be passed on to others as freely as the possessor of it may choose."

It was added that "the contrary view requires a very dry and literal reading of the statute quite inconsistent with its legislative history and the known and declared objects of its framers."

Dr. Burton, President of Chicago University, Dies

Chicago.—President Ernest DeWitt Burton of the University of Chicago, died at the Presbyterian hospital. Doctor Burton's death was caused by a cancer which had resulted in an intestinal obstruction and by peritonitis, which set in after the second of two operations made in an effort to save his life. He was sixty-nine years old.

Doctor Burton was distinguished as editor in chief of the Biblical World, a publication of the divinity school at the University of Chicago, and editor of the Journal of Theology. He attracted wide comment in 1909 through an editorial, which gave his courageous stand on the Bible.

Ernest DeWitt Burton, third president of the University of Chicago, was born on February 4, 1856, at Granville, Ohio. He was the son of Nathan Smith and Sarah J. (Fairfield) Burton.

U. S. Ship Board Votes to Scrap 200 Vessels

Washington.—Although opposed by Commissioner Meyer Lissner, chairman of the ship sales committee of the shipping board, T. V. O'Connor, chairman of the board, put through his program for immediate scrapping of 200 shipping board vessels. Shortly after the board, by a vote of 4 to 1, had approved the O'Connor scrapping program, the chairman was on his way to Detroit to confer further with Henry Ford as a potential buyer of the entire block of vessels.

Commissioner Lissner explained that he was not opposed to offering ships for sale for scrapping, but that at this time he believed it would have been wiser if 50 or 100 vessels, instead of 200, had been offered for sale.

"I do not think it is wise to do it in this wholesale fashion," Mr. Lissner said.

Dr. Fosdick Accepts Call From Rockefeller Church

New York.—Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, noted liberal leader in the church, has accepted the pastorate of the Park Avenue Baptist church, known as the Rockefeller church, it was announced. Doctor Fosdick's occupancy of his new pulpit will become effective in the fall of 1926.

Leatrice Joy Wins Divorce From Gilbert

Los Angeles, Cal.—Leatrice Joy, film star, won a divorce from Jack Gilbert, also a movie luminary. Miss Joy accused her husband of being too much the "man about town" in real life. She won her decree on charges of habitual intemperance.

60 Rebels Shot in Afghanistan

Peshawar, British India.—Sixty rebels who took part in the recent disturbances in the Khost district of Afghanistan, are reported to have been shot by order of the emir. The rebel leader, known as the "lame mullah," was also executed.

State Provides Own Fuel

Pierre, S. D.—All the fuel to be used during the coming year at institutions of South Dakota will be from the state's own lignite mine.

60 BELIEVED DEAD IN MINE EXPLOSION

Only Six Bodies Recovered From Shaft Near Coal Glen, N. C.

Coal Glen, N. C.—Hope that any of the three score or more miners entombed in the Carolina Coal company mine near here would be found alive was abandoned by rescuers.

Members of the rescue crews, who had recovered six bodies from the mine, expressed the belief that if the miners escaped the three explosions which wrecked the shaft, they must have succumbed to the afterdamp.

Searchers, with the hope that the miners might have escaped suffocation after the blasts, penetrated to the 1,800-foot level of the shaft without finding more bodies.

Five of the six bodies brought out of the mine were identified as A. L. Holland, W. E. Byerly, Hollis Richardson and Zeff Rimer, white, and Will Irick, negro.

The mine has only three openings—an air shaft, the main shaft and an old abandoned shaft. It is possible only for rescuers to work down the main shaft, and this is reported filled with fallen timbers and other debris. The second right lateral, where the first explosion is believed to have occurred, is about 1,000 feet from the mouth of the shaft and about 500 feet underground. It was from the mouth of this shaft that the six bodies were brought.

Records showed that 59 men, 39 white and 20 negroes, had comprised the mine crew, but mine officials reported that 71 miners' lamps were missing, and it was believed that figure might represent the number entombed on a final check.

The wives, mothers and children of the trapped miners gathered as close as possible to the mine awaiting word of their loved ones.

The services of two lorry loads of troops from Fort Bragg, N. C., were declined by Adjutant General Metts.

General Metts took charge of the situation on behalf of Governor McLean, with Frank Page, chairman of the state highway commission, who brought a corps of engineers at the executive's request to assist in the rescue.

Sinclair, Fall, Doheny Hit Anew in Oil Indictments

Washington.—New indictments in the oil-lease scandals were reported by the grand jury of the District of Columbia. Two indictments alleging conspiracy to defraud the United States in connection with the leasing of the Teapot Dome and Elk Hills naval oil reserves were returned.

The indictments are substitutes for those quashed recently on technical grounds. Instead of dealing both with conspiracy and bribery, however, as did the others, the new indictments are confined to conspiracy, the statute of limitations having run against the bribery charge.

One indictment charges a conspiracy between Albert B. Fall of New Mexico, former secretary of the interior, and Harry F. Sinclair, oil magnate of New York, to assign a lease to Teapot Dome, without competitive bidding. The other charges a similar conspiracy in relation to the Elk Hills reserve between former Secretary Fall and Edward L. Doheny.

The grand jurors exonerated Edward L. Doheny, Jr., of any connection with the alleged conspiracy.

Gar Wood, Speed-Boat Fan, Beats Fast Train to N. Y.

New York.—Gar Wood, motor-boat fame, beat the running time of the crack train of the New York Central lines, the Twentieth Century limited, from Albany to New York city. He used two of his speed boats to do it, roaring down the Hudson river at the rate of 46.5 miles an hour.

Elapsed time for the boats was 2 hours and 58 minutes for the trip, approximately 138 miles. The Century's time for the trip—142.2 miles in this case, as its terminal was at the Grand Central station, while the boat's was at Eighty-sixth street—was 3 hours and 39 minutes.

Frost Causes Heavy Loss to Grain, Fruit, Vegetables

Chicago. — Widespread damage of field crops, fruits and vegetables by frost across the northern states from the Dakotas to the Atlantic coast has been reported following storms.

The low temperatures and frost damaged crops in Illinois, Indiana, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri and Ohio. The losses were most severe in Illinois and Indiana, reports received in Chicago indicated.

Bank Robbers Captured

St. Joseph, Mo.—Two men who participated in the robbery of the Cottage Grove State bank at Des Moines, Iowa, were captured after a flight of more than 150 miles in an automobile. Two others escaped. Frank Vavris, twenty-four, of Kansas City, and an unidentified man are the ones in custody.

Russia Sends China Note

Moscow.—Soviet Russia sent a note to China over the management of the Eastern Chinese railway.

Winners in Venice's Bathing Beauty Contest

This quartet of beach peaches won prizes, as indicated by their cards, in the annual bathing beauty revue at Venice, Cal. Left to right: Iris Nicholson, Adele Bunyan, Evelyn Hunt and Viola McCubin.

Germans Wrecking One of Their Big Fortresses

While the allies discuss the terms of their note to Germany, calling attention to her failure to disarm, the Germans claim to be destroying their armed power in accordance with the treaty. Photograph shows wrecking work on the great Konigsberg fortress.

Young Woman Is a Radio Expert

Miss Grace Hazen, of the radio laboratory of the United States bureau of standards in Washington, can discuss meters, kilocycles and other radio terms as well as the modern flapper can talk about rouge and bobbed hair.

QUITS OHIO STATE

Dr. W. O. Thompson, since 1899 president of Ohio State university, announced that he will retire when he reaches the age of seventy November 5 next, and his resignation has been accepted. He is a graduate of Muskingum college and before coming to Ohio State he was president of Miami university and of Longmont college in Colorado.

Noted Sculptor Makes Hoover Bust

Bust of Herbert Hoover which is being executed in Washington by Ivan Mestrovic, the widely known Yugo-Slav sculptor, who is shown at the right.

READY FOR SHRINER

Miss Helen Glass of Los Angeles is shown wearing a novel adornment which she devised in honor of the members of the Mystic Shrine who met in the southern California metropolis.

Lived Millions of Years Ago

Specimens of Fossils From Argentina and Bolivia Secured by Field Museum.

Chicago.—South America was indeed once a "world apart," isolated in the same manner that Australia now is, according to Prof. Elmer S. Riggs of the Field Museum of Natural History, Chicago, who has just returned from a twenty-eight-months' expedition on the southern continent. In addition to confirming that Darwin theory he found evidence that the continent at some period was in two parts. But the main fruits of his expedition are 800 fossils of about 100 species of animals that had lain buried in Bolivia and the Argentine from eight to fifteen million years.

The fossils differ from those found in any other part of the world and constitute a collection more extensive in range than any heretofore obtained by American research, an official statement from the Field museum declares.

In the course of his fossil hunt Professor Riggs, who is assistant curator of paleontology for the museum, found in the Santa Cruz territory of the Patagonian part of the Argentine a fossil forest two million years old.

This forest, which had evidently been buried by a shower of volcanic ash similar to that which buried Pompeii, was in an almost perfect state of preservation. Trunks of trees were standing, other trunks were prone; there were many stumps and petrified twigs and numerous pine cones with all their features intact. So perfect in color and formation are the ancient pine cones that not until one lifts them is it apparent that they are now of stone, hard as granite.

Exposed by Wash of Tides.

The theory, now accepted in scientific circles, that South America was once a "world apart," without connection with North America, was first advanced by Darwin, the great naturalist, who made a survey of the southeastern coast of South America in the Beagle many years ago. Professor Riggs' route followed, to a considerable extent, that of Darwin along the coastline of Santa Cruz territory, and he occupied as a base during one summer the town of Rio Gallegos not far from the northern boundary of Tierra del Fuego, which had been Darwin's base.

Here, along cliffs which rise precipitously from the sea to a height ranging from 200 to 2,000 feet, the Riggs expedition worked under difficult and often dangerous conditions.

The average rise and fall of the tide at the lower part of Santa Cruz is 56 feet. From high tide touching the clay and sandstone cliffs the water retreats two or three miles out to sea. Between the rise and fall of the waters the expeditionary force had to work with haste to recover and carry to a safe place the fossils found partly exposed.

From the Andes mountains, far to the westward of the Santa Cruz coast line, the fossils had been gradually washed into the clay and sandstone formation of the country and after millions of years finally reached the seaboard. The extremely strong tides constantly cut into the coast, leaving overhanging ledges. These gradually crumbled and fell to the sea bed hundreds and sometimes thousands of feet below. Here they became buried in the sediment brought in by the tide, and little by little were rolled out of the sea depths.

Another Bridge Northward.

Professor Riggs and his associates worked directly upon the sea bed itself. And on this soft and often treacherously plastic bed the workers, lowered by ropes from above or sometimes fortunate enough to find a twisting gulley formed by rushing torrents of water, conducted their exhumations of tusks, parts of skulls, huge jawbones, sticking up from the sands.

The cliffs were so steep that no pack horses could descend them to the sea level, so the work of removing the heavy specimens had to be done by manual labor. Always there was the incoming tide to watch. Often, the party ventured out as far as half a mile out to sea; a car enabled them to beat the sweep of tides.

It is held that these prehistoric specimens confirm that South America was once isolated from the rest of the world, and that the southern portion of South America—from the northern boundary of the territory of Chubut southward—was not connected by land with the northern part of that continent. The indications come from the distinctly different types of animal fossils found in the territories of Santa Cruz and Chubut.

Professor Riggs found no indication that there had been any mingling of the animals of the northern and the southern part of South America. There are evidences that at some later date, probably millions of years after the existence of the life of the animals whose remains the professor discovered in Santa Cruz, some passageway existed between North America and South America.

Unusual Creatures Found.

He believes that this passageway could not have been the present Isthmus of Central America. Probably the connecting land extended over the course indicated by the islands of the Caribbean sea. The mountain ranges of the isthmus would have precluded the passage through Central America of elephants, bears and even horses.

The route of the Riggs expedition northward from Santa Cruz led through Chubut, Rio Negro and the Pampas into Bolivia. From Chubut northward evidences were found of an increasing mingling of the animals of North America with those of the southern continent.

The prehistoric fossils obtained by Professor Riggs differ from those found elsewhere in the world. They represent slothlike creatures, evidently not capable of traveling far. There is evidence that some horse-like creatures, fleet of foot, existed in the region at the same time.

Later, in the pleistocene period, some of these original animals had spread northward and met the oncoming immigration of animals from the north—North America and perhaps Asia, Africa and Europe—which had come down over land connections that existed at that time. The northern tribe of animals that swept over Bolivia included the horse, bear, wolf, elephant, cat and certain rodents.

Their bones mingled with those of the great ground sloths and shell backed glyptodons, creatures like camels called macrauchenia, which had tapirlike snouts; toxodons, which looked something like hippos but had huge tusks, and scores of others, including a huge, birdlike, flesh-eating creature called the phororachus. The head of the latter was as big as the head of a horse.

Fossils of slender animals were found, too—animals like a small llama in general proportions, and fossils of shell-covered animals almost like the armadillo—the one type, with the exception of the tree sloth, which has lived through modern times.

All Died Together.

Professor Riggs collected fossil specimens of all these animals as well as of the borhyaena, a carnivorous animal the size of a bear. All these early animals seem to have died off at about the same period, as all were found together with their bones intermingled. Their simultaneous disappearance is one of the mysteries of science that have been explained only by conjecture, Professor Rigs says. No human remains were among the bones.

Officially the Riggs expedition is known as the Capt. Marshall Field expedition of the Field Museum of Natural History. It consisted of Professor Riggs, George F. Sternberg and J. B. Abbott, collectors for the museum, and Harold Riggs, Professor Riggs' son.

They started from the United States on November 1, 1922, and spent the first summer in Santa Cruz with Rio Gallegos, near the southern border of this southern Argentine territory, as a base. Working northward, they pitched permanent camp at Rio Coyle. Twelve miles south of the town they found a beach much firmer than at Rio Gallegos and were able to take a light automobile down to the sea bed and carry the specimens back to town between tides. Natives of the district were amazed to see a motor car speeding back and forth on the sands laden with what was evidently useless "rock."

While at Rio Coyle Professor Riggs heard there was a "buried city" some distance inland, near Lake Cardiel. He departed for that location. After traveling by horse for several days he came to the banks of the lake, and there found that what were thought to be the ruins of an ancient city were merely lava blocks that had been pushed upward through a crack in the clay soil by some inner disturbance of the earth. The formation resembled very much the decayed walls of a prehistoric city.

Northern Animals Reached Bolivia.

Wintering at Commodoro Rivadavia—the winters of southern Argentine are extremely cold and accompanied by heavy falls of snow—the expedition opened the next summer's work back of that port on the River Chico and worked around the Lake Musters district in Chubut territory in the Patagonia section of the Argentine. In the midsummer they returned southward again to the port of Deseado in Santa Cruz to obtain additional verification of their findings to the northward.

They discovered that the division point between the animal life of northern and southern South America began at about Bahia Blanca in the southern part of Buenos Aires province, some 400 miles north of the Plateau of Patagonia. North of that territory the mixed trend, indicating the intermingling of animals from North America, became constantly more marked until, in Bolivia, numerous fossils were found that clearly indicated a tremendous invasion of animals from northern America.

Near the end of the second winter, Sternberg and Abbott left the expedition at the city of Buenos Aires and returned to the United States with the exhibits collected to date. Professor Riggs and his son proceeded from Buenos Aires to Bolivia, where for five months they worked just over the Argentine border in and about Tarija, known as the "valley of the bones of giants," obtaining many rare specimens.

Their arrival in the United States concludes one of the most exhaustive of paleontologic expeditions to South America. It resulted, the museum asserts, in one of the largest collections of rare prehistoric animal fossils owned by any one institution in the world.

ON HALF-CENT STAMPS

Above is pictured the statue of Nathan Hale, the replica of which is being used for the design on the new half-cent stamps to be issued by the Post-Office department. The statue stands before Connecticut hall, the oldest structure on the Yale university campus.

Duplicates Sunlight

Buffalo.—A lamp which will duplicate sunlight and which will aid in giving the "sun cure" to tuberculosis patients is being perfected at the J. N. Adams Memorial hospital at Perrysburg, it is said by Dr. Horace N. LoGrasso, superintendent.

MEN SHOULD LIVE TO BE 100 YEARS OLD, SAYS SAVANT

Small Donation From Each Person Would Do Trick, Declares Sir Ronald.

London.—That the span of life can be extended to 150 years at the cost of sixpence a head, is the argument of Sir Ronald Ross, the English scientist, whose researches have led to cures for malaria and sleeping sickness. Sir Ronald claims that a sixpence from the pocket of every Englishman spent on scientific research would keep germs and old age away for at least 150 years.

The scientist thinks that the allotted span of three-score years and ten should find man in the prime of life, instead of edging toward the grave. Were live curtailed lives, he says, because we are the prey of countless germs. Conquer the germs and man can easily reach the age of 150 and maybe longer.

"Eighty years ago," said Sir Ronald in a lecture, "the average life of a London man was about thirty-four years seven months and of a woman, thirty-eight years four months. Today it is fifty-three years nine months and fifty-nine years. Thus medical science in eighty years has given us twenty years more of life."

This start on cheating eternity has just begun, the speaker continued. Nowadays the equivalent of one penny a head is being spent in Britain for research, and he asserts that the spending of a sixpence a head would make the monkey gland useless.

A scientist of the Pasteur institute in Paris has predicted that in 100 years from now the average man will live to be one hundred and fifty years old. Metchnikoff, the Russian scientist, has made the same prophecy. These visions of a future race of Methuselahs are to materialize through the agency of the research laboratory, in Sir Ronald's opinion.

The laboratory worker in the next generation, if allowed full scope, will trace all destructive diseases to their source and exterminate them, instead of combating them after they have appeared, Sir Ronald said. Already research laboratories are at work on important medical problems. The Pasteur institute is seeking to destroy cancer and tuberculosis and the Ross institute in London is working for the eradication of leprosy.

Advanced English scientists hope to see research laboratories in every large city in the world, financed by the state or municipality.

Huge Persimmon Grove

Cottonwood, Cal. — A persimmon grove of more than 4,000 trees has been planted near here by E. E. Thompson. His grove covers 60 acres.

On the Swedish state railway conductors must be able to speak three languages.

.. Hawkeye .. State News

Interesting Items Gathered From all Parts of Iowa

The Des Moines council, Boy Scouts of America, will set the pace this summer by opening their summer camp first. The first group of scouts will leave for Camp Mitigwa near Woodward, June 13th.

The Camp Fire Girls of Des Moines will hold their formal opening at Camp Hantesa, June 15, when the first 120 girls leave for a week's outing. Camp Hantesa joins the Ledges state park at Boone.

Miss Margery Farrens came 1,900 miles to participate in the golden jubilee of Clarinda High school alumni this commencement week. She is on the honor roll of alumni, graduating in 1915 with the highest grade in her class.

A reincorporation of the Dows, Reed, Smith utility interest of Cedar Rapids into a $35,000,000 company under the name of the Iowa Railway and Light corporation has been filed in the office of Secretary of State Ramsay.

Capturing pheasants on Butler county farms for bounty reached its most exciting point when 1,190 live birds were delivered to the state fish and game department reepresentative who is stationed at the farm bureau office at Allison.

A giant scenic fireworks spectacle, "The Battle of the Marne" will be staged at the fair grounds the Fourth of July by the United Spanish War Veterans, who have signed with the National Fireworks company for the production.

Wight Bakke, of Onawa, a junior at Northwestern university won the seventh district oratorical contest from six other college orators, in a nation-wide competition to select representatives for the finals at Los Angeles June 5th.

Des Moines has 3.6 person per acre as against 30.7 in New York, 24.8 in Boston, 21.5 in Philadelphia and 19.1 in St. Louis. Even the cities ranking closest the City of Certainties have practically three times as great congestion in population.

Iowa automobile license plates for 1926 will carry white letters upon a brown background, a combination that officials believe will have a high visibility. The plates are being manufactured now by convicts at the state reformatory in Anamosa.

Captured war devices and trophies of the world war allocated to Iowa under a recent law of congress will be brought to Camp Dodge and distributed from the camp to applicants by Adjutant General Lasher, appointed by Governor Hammill as distributing agent.

Perhaps the highest cash rent paid for any farm in Sac county is for a 40-acre tract in the Goose Pond region, a half mile east of the Northwestern station at Wall Lake. William Meister, a successful grower of popcorn has leased the ground for this season at $30 an acre.

Paving work to be done in Iowa City this summer will cost between $45,000 and $55,000, according to estimates compiled by City Engineer F. E. Young. The original program of work outlined by the city council was curtailed considerably as a result of objections filed by property owners.

Scenes from Des Moines will be included in the national picture, "See America First," which the Universal Picture corporation is now making. The movie company is sending a company into the larger cities of the country to take pictures and the tentative schedule calls for the arrival in Des Moines June 22nd.

The state highway commission, which will change from an engineering organization to a contract making and executing body in the supervision and initiating of Iowa road building at the end of this year, maintains a force of 255 people, exclusive of the commissioners and temporary and part-time help.

Several hundred young black walnut, butternut, shag-bark hickory, pecan and filbert trees have been set out in a ten-acre experiment plot at Iowa State College to determine whether it pays to produce these crops on a commercial scale in Iowa, and if so what production methods may best be employed.

The Iowa Good Roads association filed articles of incorporation with the county recorder of Polk county recently. The object of the association as shown by the articles of incorporation is to advocate and promote the construction and maintenance of better roads; advocate legislation, secure economical expenditures of highway funds, urge the construction of permanent bridges and culverts and a system of improved highways in the state, and to assist highway officials in the performance of their duties.

Des Moines will observe the inauguration of the air mail service there with a big celebration August 1, Secretary Warren Jackson of the Chamber of Commerce announced the day of the establishment of the New York-Chicago-Omaha service and will be a month after the opening of the transcontinental air mail station in Des Moines.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★
★ ★
★ Iowa is first in number of ★ ★ automobiles on farms. ★
★ ★
★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

THE AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

IMPORTANT STEPS IN CHILD WELFARE

"The opening recently of two new American Legion billets for orphans of the World war and the appointment of Miss Emma C. Puschner, formerly agent of the St. Louis board of children's guardians, as field secretary for the child welfare division, mark important forward steps in the American Legion's national child welfare program," declared Mark T. McKee, national chairman of the Legion's child welfare committee. One cottage was opened at Otter Lake, Mich., and one at Clarksboro, N. J.

The new cottage at Otter Lake is the fourth to be opened there, three cottages having previously been opened. The fourth cottage was built to preclude all possibility of crowding at the Otter Lake billet. Twenty-six children can be accommodated in the new cottage. Twelve children were waiting to go into it when it was opened.

The funds to build the new cottage were subscribed by the American Legion and its auxiliary, department of Michigan. That department also established the other cottages at Otter Lake, with the exception of the one built by the national body of the auxiliary from dimes contributed by its members.

The Clarksboro home is a colonial mansion surrounded by two acres of beautiful grounds. It was purchased with the proceeds of the annual sales of poppies on Memorial day. Legion posts and auxiliary units of the four counties of Burlington, Camden, Gloucester and Salem are responsible for this billet. Ownership of the property will be vested in a local board but the administration of the billet will be assumed by the national child welfare committee of the American Legion.

"Increasing activity in child welfare work brought home to Legion officials the advisability of securing additional personnel to direct and supervise the work. To that end Miss Puschner was appointed field secretary of the Legion's child welfare committee," said Mr. McKee. "She will assist in setting up the Legion's child welfare field service."

Miss Puschner has been actively engaged in the work of the board of children's guardians at St. Louis since its creation in 1912. She has advanced from the position of secretary to the superintendent of the former St. Louis industrial school to agent of the board, doing the work of executive secretary of the board and director of the placing out department.

She has handled several hundred adoptions in the juvenile court and has been legal representative of the board in all courts. She holds the degree of Bachelor of Laws and is a member of the American Association of Social Workers, of the National Conference of Social Workers and of various other professional bodies.

Miss Puschner is a member of the auxiliary of Quentin Roosevelt post of the American Legion at St. Louis.

Legion Men to Serve in Times of Emergencies

Formation of "Alamo Post Patrol of the American Legion," an organization of picked men trained for service in times of emergency and disaster, was announced by John K. Weber, commander of the American Legion post at San Antonio, Texas.

Commander Weber, commenting on the patrol, said: "The public has been educated to expect prompt and efficient service from the American Legion in emergencies. When the call came for aid during the 1921 flood, the Legion was among the first to be called on and first to respond. Our patrol will be fitted and capable of handling the most unusual circumstances.

"Posts of the Legion have always done individual relief work in time of disaster, or have co-operated with other agencies in giving aid and relief. The latest instance of the Legion's activity in emergencies was their work done for the sufferers in the tornado-swept area of Illinois and Indiana. Thousands of refugees saved their valuables because the Legionnaires patrolled against looters. Thousands of victims were clothed and others were fed through the agency of the Legion."

N. Y. Post Commander Is Twenty-Two Years Old

Bernard E. Whitley, commander of Betowski Van Demark post of the American Legion, Waverly, N. Y., is said to be the youngest post commander in the country. He is twenty-two years old.

Commander Whitley was only sixteen years old when he enlisted in the navy during the World war. One of his comrades in the post said of the young commander: "Whitley is the liveliest commander we have ever had; he'll keep things moving from now on. We'll raise our quota of the Legion's $5,000,000 endowment fund for disabled veterans and orphans with plenty to spare when that kid commander of ours gets working on it."

Foolish Fears

French Consul Antonin Barthelmy said at reception in Chicago:

"There is no danger of a bolshevik revolution in France. Those who quake and wail over such an absurd danger as that remind me of the little boy who ran to his mother's bed in the middle of the night and sobbed:

"'Oh, muvver, muvver, I dreamed I was a stick of candy and eated myself up!'"

Bugs Color Rouge Sticks

Coloring matter from the cochineal bug dyes are used in giving face and lip rouge the desired color. Cochineal dyes for years were the principal dyes used in world commerce, but for fabrics they were superseded by chemical dyes and the cochineal dyes today have only a very limited use, comparatively.

An Artist Diplomat

The Spanish painter, Zuloaga, has sailed for home with the remark that the beauty of American women grows with age. Obviously Mr. Zuloaga plans to call again.—New York Herald-Tribune.

It's Almost Impossible to Wear Them Out!
USKIDE
SOLES
The Wonder Sole for Wear—
Wears twice as long as best leather!
—and for a Better Heel
"U. S." SPRING-STEP Heels
United States Rubber Company

His Action

"Well, howdy, Slackputter!" saluted an acquaintance from over beyond Toyheavy. "I hear tell you baffled them bank bandits tuther day."

"You betcha!" pridefully replied Constable Sam T. Slackputter, the faithful guardian of the peace and dignity of Petunia. "I—by gosh!—baffled 'em plumb into the tall timber before they got away."—Kansas City Star.

Ireland Has New Plight

The Royal Zoological society of Ireland has been Gaelicizing the names of some of the animals in the Dublin zoo and has named the catfish Lasc Cait and the golden carp from China the Lusc-pir, but could find no Irish words for the alligator.

If you have a bad memory you can improve it by doing things that you can't forget.

No matter how well your car runs now it must have perfect lubrication to keep the good work up!

MonaMotor Oil is perfect lubrication. It resists heat, resists dilution, and resists friction more effectively than any oil you can buy. MonaMotor Oil is service insurance.

If you want long time service from your car at the minimum upkeep cost, you want MonaMotor Oil. Ask any MonaMotor customer.

Monarch Manufacturing Co.
Council Bluffs, Iowa Toledo, Ohio

MonaMotor Oils & Greases

RESINOL
Soothing and Healing
For Skin Disorders

Our old friend, Isaac Sweigard, of Garner, dropped into the office the other day for a visit. Mr. Sweigard is now with the Square Deal Mutual Insurance Co., which he tells us is

Reboring
—And—
Rehoning

"The Better Method of Cylinder Re - conditioning.

McQuay Norris Quality Rings
Sales & Service

PAVEY'S
STORMIZING SHOP

The BULL'S EYE

Editor and General Manager
WILL ROGERS

Another "Bull" Durham advertisement by Will Rogers, Ziegfeld Follies and screen star, and leading American humorist. More coming. Watch for them.

What Good Does It Do You to Know Something?

Advertisements in all Papers and Magazines are all trying to appeal to the intelligent. Now this one is for the great majority. Reliable authority, in fact it was the Draft Boards during the War, figured out that the intelligence of the average Adult of this Country was that of a 13 year old Child. (Now that is giving us the best of it because a 13 year old Child is about the smartest thing we have in this Country), but the 13 year old Child they referred to was one who had been raised on the milk of human Kindness (which is mostly Water) and weaned on a Hard Boiled Egg. You know the smarter the Man the more dissatisfied he is, so cheer up, let us be happy in our ignorance. What do we care how little we know if we get what we want? "Bull" Durham needs no Literacy Test, it is with minority in quality, and with the majority in usage.

Will Rogers

P. S. This last sentence is all that saved the add.

P. P. S. There will be another piece here two weeks from now. Look for it.

SIXTY-FIVE YEARS AGO!

In 1860 a blend of tobacco was born—"Bull" Durham. On quality alone it has won recognition wherever tobacco is known. It still offers the public this—more flavor, more enjoyment and a lot more money left at the end of a week's smoking.

TWO BAGS for 15 cents
100 cigarettes for 15 cents

"BULL" DURHAM
Manufactured by American Tobacco Co.
INCORPORATED
111 Fifth Avenue, New York City

a purely farmers organization and has the recomendation of the Farm Bureau and the Farmers Union. It is under the direction of eleven real farmers.

Mrs. R. A. McConn is taking a two month's vacation from her duties at the Wellemeyer Store. The first part of her vacation is not so pleasant as she is spending that at the Hampton hospital, where she had a tonsil operation the other day. After recovery she will spend most of the summer at Clear Lake.

In looking over the town we have noticed some houses being repainted. Henry Freie had his house repainted; Fred Ridder is painting his house, and John Gruetzmacher is giving his residence a new coat of paint. Fine stuff! Now's a good time to paint up and make things look spic and span.

After the school picnic there were a number of dishes, silverware and other articles lost. It has been requested that anyone having such articles not belonging to them will please leave same at the Post Office. Others who lost articles of this kind may find them at the Post Office. In this way it is hoped to get lost dishes and silver back to the owners again.

The Rockwell City Advocate says Calhoun County received a shipment of two dozen pheasants last week from Northern Iowa. The farmers there think they are pretty lucky to get them. And—the farmers in Winnebago County are tickled pink to be rid of them. Funny world, now "aint it?"

Goldfield is to have a Dairy Day, Tuesday, June 9th, put on by the creamery and the cow testing association. F. M. Mortensen, Chief Dairy Intructor, of Ames, will be on the program. They will have all kinds of sports, speeches, etc., and a big picnic dinner. We mention this is we thought some of our farmer readers would like to attend, as everyone is invited.

LuVerne Smith was able to be up a little Saturday for the first time in a couple of weeks. He is still pretty lame from the serious burns re received. Mr. and Mrs. Ross Farmer, of Clarion, are at the Smith home. Mr. Farmer has been looking after the pool hall for LuVerne. Mr. and Mrs. Farmer expect to leave in a short time for the west.

Klemme will be a regular "demonstration city" Saturday; there being four different demonstrations. The Klemme Meat Market has a Decker Iowana Ham demenonstration; Mr. L. W. Wesenberg of Goodell will have men here to demonstrate the Thieman Ensilage Harvester and the John Deere Tractor; and Mrs. L. W. Wesenberg, of Goodell, will be at the Wellemeyer Store to demonstrate her new method of canning with a Burpee Sealer and tin cans. These demonstrations will be of value to the farmer and his wife, and anyone interested. See advertisements in this issue for full details.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Elder and daughter, Reva, and Clarice Wellemeyer drove to Vernon Center, Minnesota, Friday for a visit with Mr. Elder's mother and sister Memorial Day. Grandma Elder accompanied them to Mankato Sunday for a visit with the Ed. G. Ell family. The party returned to Klemme Sunday evening. Grandma Elder will remain here for an extended visit with relatives and friends.

BIG BIRTHDAY SURPRISE ON TOM BLANK, SUNDAY

His Children And Their Families Put One Over On Him

Last week Tuesday Tom Blank had a birthday and on that date he was sixty-one years old. Tom didn't think much of it as he had celebrated birthdays every year for sixty years and he was getting used to it—nothing really exciting about it for Tom. He sort of forgot about it and didn't give it further thought. However, his daughters decided to put one over on dad and to call in the tribe when he wasn't looking. So they decided to notify everybody to come home for Sunday, May 31st and accordingly plans were made. The girls cooked up a big dinner at the Crystal Cafe so dad wouldn't get wise. Tom's peace was presently disturbed Sunday as one of the sons or daughter and family would arrive and then another, and another, but still Tom thought they just happened to come along. Enough had arrived to tell Tom some big fish stories and get him away from the house until the big feed could be brought to the house and the table arranged with a big birthday cake in the center. Then Tom was called in to have a peek—not until then did he know what the commotion was all about. It was a big surprise indeed. All of the children were home except Fred, who could not come. At the appointed time they were seated at the table according to the childrens ages and their families and looking around the table they were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Lau and three sons of Garner; Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Ahrenkeil and son of Goodell; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Blank and three children of Estherville; Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Quandt and daughter of this city; Mr. Casey Blank of Dysart; Miss Lucille Miller, Goodell; Mr. and Mrs. Worthy Usher, of Palo; Miss Marie Blank, of this city; other guests seated besides the children: Lipo Blank and daughter and two sons, of Klemme; Mr. and Mrs. T. Blank and son of Hayfield; Mrs. Katy Mauss, of Rake; Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Betten and two children, of Britt; and Mrs. C. C. Betten, also of Britt. Mr. and Mrs. Blank had places at the head of the table. This gathering represented seven children of Mr. and Mrs. Blank and besides this there were two brothers and one sister of Mr. Blank at the dinner.

Idle Hour Theatre

Saturday Night, June 6th—

We have a big program for this Saturday night with comedy. Come to the Idle Hour Theatre—get the habit. We are showing some mighty fine pictures.

Wednesday Night, June 10th—

..Mabel Normand in "The Extra Girl." A story of a small-town girl who turns mivie land upside down.

This picture is full of love, comedy and thrills. A Mack Senett picture.

GOODELL NEWS ITEMS

J. Newton McCall, daughter Carolyn and father of Fort Dodge, were visiting relatives at Meservey Sunday.

Mrs. Umfred and son and daughter, of Wesley, were visiting with the Gus Okrug family, Sunday.

Jay Griggs was a business caller at Spirit Lake, Minday.

Many from here attended the Memorial Program at Klemme Sunday. The speaker was fine and a large crowd attended.

Margaret Kearney returned from Williams, Friday.

Edith Halfpop, Louise Mason, Esther Harberts, Margaret Kearney and Dorothy Lackore will leave Tuesday for summer school at Cedar Falls, which starts Wednesday.

Sophronia and Agnes Fuller will attend summer school at Iowa Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Newberger, of Ventura, were visiting relatives here Sunday.

Louisa Ahrenkeil returned home Saturday. She has been teaching at Titonka.

Donald Meyers, who graduated from Armstrong this spring, returned home Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Peters have left for Iowa City where Mr. Peters will continue his summer studies.

Mr. and Mr. Jay Griggs drove to Cedar Falls Tuesday to attend the commencement of their daughter, Mae, who graduated from a two year Primary Course.

Plans are being made for a Childrens' Day program which is to be given June 14th in the United Brethern Church.

Ed. Bachmans, of Garner, were visiting at the George Griggs home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Chase, Mrs. J. C. Case and children were shopping in Mason City, Wednesday.

....(Too Late for Last Week)

Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood, Mrs. Jay Griggs, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Cook, Mr. J. W Griggs and daughter Maude, drove to Iowa Falls Friday to attend the funeral of their cousin Harry Brown who died very suddenly Wednesday morning while at work

A. C. Carpenter was a Garner caller Wednesday night.

The address given by Superintendent Vasey, Commencement night was greatly enjoyed by a vey large crowd. Superintendent Peters gave a sort address and gave the class some very good advice.

Mrs. Ness is visiting relatives in Story City.

Mart Kearney drove to Williams Wednesday, returning thes ame day. He was accompanied home by his little son Emmet who is visiting his farmer friends.

The teachers have all left for their respective homes; Miss Orr, to Cedar Falls, Miss Cline to Carlyle, Iowa, Miss Myli Mason City

Mr. and Mrs. Tompson were trans acting business in Spencer Tuesday.

Mrs. Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. Peters entertained the young people's S. S. class Friday night. A very good time was enjoyed by all present.

Eddit Boller of Chicago was visiting his friends here last week.

A very successful Farm Bureau meeting was held in Avery Center school house Monday night. A good program, including motion pictures was given. The refreshment committee served ice cream and cake.

Frank Quigley Jr. and family entertained his mother and sister of Belmond Sunday.

Mrs. Metcalf returned to her home in Montanna after spending some time visiting the Fuller relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Sherwood and Mrs. J. J. Cook were visiting relatives in Hampton Tuesday.

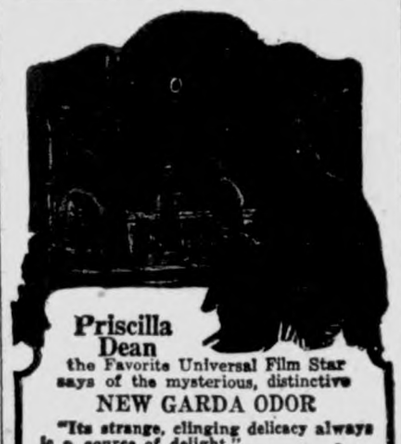
NOTICE OF PROBATE OF WILL

STATE OF IOWA
Hancock County; ss.
TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

YOU ARE HEREBY NOTIFIED, That an instrument of writing purportifig to be the last Will and Testament of Earnest H. Lenz deceased, dated Febuary 16, 1925, having been this day filed, opened and read, Monday the 29 day of June, 1925 is fixed for hearing proof of same at the Court House in Garner, Iowa, before the District Court of said County or the Clerk of said Court; and at 10 o'clock A. M. of the day above mentioned, all persons interested are hereby notified and required to appear, and show cause, if any they have, why said instrument should not be probated and allowed as and for the last Will and Testament of said deceased.

Dated at Garner, Iowa, May 23, 1925.

Chris. J. Johansen,
Clerk of the District Court.



Priscilla Dean
the Favorite Universal Film Star says of the mysterious, distinctive
NEW GARDA ODOR
"Its strange, clinging delicacy always is a source of delight."
Have you tried the NEW Garda Toiletries? If not, try them now. You will be charmed. This complete line of products issued by the great
HOUSE OF WATKINS
(Established 1868.)
WINONA, MINNESOTA.
consists of seven rich creations:
GARDA FACE POWDER, ROUGE, FACE CREAM, PERFUME, TOILET WATER, NAIL POLISH, TALCUM
Learn to Know and love Garda, as millions of women are doing. Ask information about Garda Toilet Preparations and 137 other Products from
THE WATKINS RETAILER

Floyd Fraser

Free Sandwitches

SATURDAY AFTERNOON AND EVENING
June 6th

Come in and get a delicious HAM SANDWICH F-R-E-E Saturday afternoon. A representative will be here to demonstrate the excellent qualities of Decker's IOWANA HAM and BACON.

Come in and have a unch "on us," Saturday—costs you nothing—no obligation.

Saturday Special

For SATURDAY ONLY we are offering HAMS and BACON at very SPECIAL PRICES. It will pay you to buy now and save money.

.....Buy a nice HAM for your Sunday dinner or for that special occasion when company comes.

Quality Meats

You will always find a good line of the best quality fresh and cured meats at this shop. We have on hand at this time an especially nice line of cold meats of all kinds which you will enjoy for a quick meal on hot days and for picnic lunches. Everything in the line of Pickles, Olives, Cheese, Ketchup, etc. to go with it.

Klemme Meat Market

Green's Dome Heat Intensifier—What is it?

THE design of the heating chamber in the COLONIAL furnace produces greatly increased heating. The Dome Heat Intensifier does it! Observe its action. Sloping over the flame, the entire wall area is instantly heated—quicker than if the walls were straight. Test the principle by holding a piece of tin slanted over a lighted match. It heats much quicker than if held upright.

Thousands of owners know the practical value and economy of this feature.

See

L. W. Wesenberg

Goodell Iowa

Timely indeed is this newly arrived lot of excellent

Summer Dresses at Special Price

We have just received a large shipment of a beautiful line of Summer Dresses in the very latest styles. This assortment is complete and we have a dress that will suit you. These dresses come in a variety of colors, styles and range in price from

$6.75 to $18.00

Abraham & Sons

GARNER, IOWA

Ahrenkeil and son, of Goodere Klemme visitors Tuesday.

Klingaman, of Garner, was a es caller here Tuesday.

Faith Ax is attending sumchool at Cedar Falls.

UND—Tie and pin Memorial y. Call at Times Office. 1tc

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gruetzmacer of Britt, were Klemme visitors Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Nagle and children, of Clarion, visited at the P. M. Wilson home here Sunday.

I sell the WOLVERINE WORK SHOE—the best in the world for the money. Frank Gruetzmacher. tfc

Grebe Radio Set FREE

We are givig away FREE a 3-tube GREBE Radio Set, complete with tubes, batteries, loud speaker, aerial, etc., to some one in this vicinity

Come in and see this Radio Set and ask us about our plan. No employee of this garage or stranger will be given this set. We give you a key free with each $1 purchase, except on cars, trucks and tractors. Keys given on accounts paid up.

Greimann Motor Co.

The Cash Store

—Handles the BRIARDALE and G. W. C. Line of GROCERIES. Every article in these brands are GUARANTEED TO BE AS GOOD AS MONEY CAN BUY.

Just try a can of BRIARDALE EXTRA SMALL JUNE PEAS, or a can of their CORN for that Sunlay dinner and be convincel.

Special for Saturday

2 Packages BRIARDALE CORNFLAKES 27c

"PAY CASH and PAY LESS"

Jno. N. Day's Cash Store

News of Klemme and Vicinity

Over four hundred poppies were sold in Klemme Saturday for the American Legion.

Mrs. Worthy Usher, of Palo, Ia., is here visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Blank.

Mr. and Mrs. Kindon and children of Thompson, were visiting at the Frank Kluckhohn home Sunday.

Mrs. Ed. Jacobs went to Clear Lake Friday and remained until Sunday visiting with her parents.

Misses Edith Haupt and Pearl Johnson left for Cedar Falls Monday to attend summer school.

Levi Neese and family moved to Ventura Monday to spend the summer.

Emil Barz, of Waterloo, spent Memorial Day and Sunday with relatives here.

Mrs. Josten, of Garner, came Sunday for a visit at the Rev. Gauger home.

Mrs. Dick Bamann and children, are here visiting her mother, Mrs. H. Schuldt.

Henry Freie and daughter, Miss Viola, Mrs. Schroeder, Mrs. Croner and daughter, Dorothy, were visiting at Mason City Monday.

Herman Coobs and family, and William Coobs, of McGregor, came Friday for a visit with Klemme relatives and friends.

Mrs. Clarence Larsen and children went to Buffalo Center Memorial Day for a visit at the Walter Yahnke home.

Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Mitchell drove down from Swea City Saturday evening for a visit at the C. G. Waterman home, and with other Klemme relatives and friends.

The chimney at the creamery is being rebuilt and extended higher. The new boiler recently installed requires more draft so building the chimney higher will do the business.

Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Hesselhuus left Monday for their new home at Conrad, Iowa, where Dr. Hesselhuus will practice dentistry.

Miss Dorothy Ridder, of Watertown, South Dakota, came last week for a visit with Klemme relatives and friends.

Mrs. Conrad Quandt, and daughter Gracka, left Monday for a week's visit with relatives at Estherville, Iowa.

School house in District No. 9, of Liberty township was sold at public auction Monday to the highest bidder, who happened to be Roy Schaefer. Roy bid it at $166.25.

Mrs. Emma Gibbs had fire proof shingles put on her house last week, the place where J. J. Poort and family reside.

The brick work on the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Jennings Anderson north of town, was completed Saturday. The house is rapidly being completed and when finished will be modern in every respect.

Earl Blue and family have stored their household goods at Goodell, where Mr. Blue will superintend the schools this fall. Mr. Blue and his family are at Iowa City as Mr. Blue is taking a summer course there.

NOTICE—I am going away in a few weeks to visit my father in Canada, and all who owe me are requested to call at my okice and settle. Dr. George Zinn. tfc

Levi Klotzbach ani family returned Monday evening in their car from a week's visit with relatives and friends at Monona, Iowa. Allen, their son, who had been visiting at that place returned home with them.

Kossuth County are doing some extensive road work this year. They are going to gravel fifty-four miles in seven projects and all to be let one time.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to thank those who so liberally bought poppies and those who donated to the cause. We also want to express our appreciation to the young ladies, Marie Blank, Dolores Koerner, Leona Lau and Beatrice Busch, who sold the poppies for us. Klemme Legion Post.

The Rock Island depot at Garner is being repaired and will be painted yellow with green trimming, the Southern Pacific colors, which may be an indication that the Rock Island may soon change its name. The Garner Leader carried this information in the last issue.

Next meeting of the Ladies Aid will be Thursday, June 11th. Mesdames W. F. Pavey and Wm. Smith are hostesses. Come early and help sew—bring your thimbles and your needles. The Society would like to double the membership so if you are interested, come and join.

Dr. C. B. Tice and family, of Masin City, visited at the Fred Arnold home Memorial Day. Mrs. Fred Arnold, who has been ill since about Easter, is now able to be up and about a little each day, which is good news her many friends are glad to hear.

Tom McElligot, of Chicago, was a visitor in Klemme Saturday evening. He is well known here as the "boss" of the sewer gang. He still has the same gang of men and they are on a job in Chicago. "Gimpy" and Jordon, and the other boys are still on the gang. They were a fine bunch of Irishmen.

"Pickles" Gibbs came home Friday from Upper Iowa University at Fayette, where he has been studying the past year. Adolph Lauritsen, who is attending school there will take a summer course at Cedar Falls to prepare for is job as coach at the Renwick school this fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Lackner, Miss Dorothy Smith and Mr. John Seih, of Spencer, came last Wednesday for a visit at the Walter (Happy) Johnson home. The ladies are sisters of Mrs. Johnson.

A number of the Klemme Band Boys played in the Garner band on Memorial Day. The Garner boys returned the compliment and played with the Klemme band Sunday. This is a fine spirit and shows a friendly feeling between the two towns.

Nearly every town in the county will have band concerts this year. Garner was to have had a concert Tuesday night, but was called off on account or rain. Britt began their concerts Wednesday night. The Kanawha Band is playing on Wednesday nights. Corwith, Duncan, and Crystal Lake have bands this year. Klemme has not yet arranged for concerts. We would suggest that the business men and the band get together and see what can be done and have concerts here this summer.

KLEMME MARKETS

Wednesday Eve. June 3

Wheat	1.50
Oats	.36
Corn	90—.95
Barley	.75
Rye	1.00
Hogs	11.00—11.50
Eggs (Cash)	.26
Eggs (Trade)	.27
HENS	.16
LIGHT HENS	.13
BROILERS	.35
Ducks	.12
Old Roosters	.07
Butter (Creamery)	.45
Butterfat	.44

THIS IS THE RIGHT PLACE

To buy your Cigars, Cigarettes, Smoking and Chewing Tobacco—our stock is always nice and fresh.

We carry a complete line of box and bulk fancy candy.

Refreshing soft drings.

And, why not step in and play a social game of pool while in town?

SMITH'S BILLARD HALL

Free Demonstration

The New Way To Can!

Fruit, Vegetables, Meat, Etc.

Saturday, June 6

Afternoon and Evening, Wellemeyer's Store, Klemme, Iowa

MRS. L. W. WESENBERG, of Goodell, will demonstrate THE NEW WAY TO CAN all kinds of fruit, vegetables, meats, etc., with THE BURPEE CAN SEALER and SANITARY TIN CANS. This new method is approved by the U. S. Government Canning Expert, The Good Housekeeping Institute, County Demonstrators, and by a large number of house-wives in Hancock County who are using this new method of canning.

This New Way To Can will save you both money and time. Costs about one-third the price of glass jars—is about three to five times quicker and easer than the old way—saves food from spoiling—preserves all of the flavor.

Bring Your Friends And Neighbors To See The Free Demonstration at Klemme Saturday

MRS. L. W. WESENBERG, GOODELL, IOWA. (County Representative)

Tractor and Ensilage Harvester Demonstration

SATURDAY, JUNE 6th AT KLEMME

On Saturday Mr. Thieman will demonstrate his Ensilage Harvester; and Mr. Smith will also be in Klemme to demonstrate the John Deere 15-27 Tractor. Be sure to be in Klemme and see these demonstrations.

L. W. Wesenberg

Goodell Iowa

I'm Glad, Mother We Saved When We were Young--

Think of the pleasure in later life to know that you are financially able to care for yourself——that you are dependent upon no one for the comforts to which your long years of labor justly entitle you. There is only one SAFE WAY to reach this goal and that is by SAVING each pay day a certain amount of your income.

Open a savings account at our Bank today—we pay 5 per cent interest on your Savings.

Think it over—then act at once.

State Savings Bank

Klemme Iowa

Look!

Picnicers--

This is ideal weather for Picnic Dinners or Suppers, and when planning a Picnic remember you can get everything right here for the whole lunch—

PAPER PLATES—DISHES
PAPER NAPKINS, TABLE CLOTHS
SANITARY Paper Spoons & Forks
PICNIC LUNCH BASKETS
THERMO BOTTLES—JUGS
PICNIC LUNCH SETS, CUPS, etc.

FOR THE "EATS"——

Let us suggest some very appetizing things for the Picnic lunch:—Pork & Beans, Salad Dressing, Ketchup, Cookies, Pickles, Fruit, Pop, Malt—and for Sandwiches try our Veal Loaf, or some nice fresh Cheese.

Plan your picnic and then come here for anything you need—always a fresh line of groceries.

Fresh Bread Every Day—

Fresh Fruits In Season—

G.W. Kluckhohn & Sons

The Blue Circle

By ELIZABETH JORDAN

(© by The Century Co.)
WNU Service.

CHAPTER XIII—Continued

—22—

"I know James, too—'Slim Jim'; and 'Codfish Hart' and 'Sleepy Annie.' A nice bunch you are! I looked you all up the day I was in New York, but I couldn't be sure till I got the finger prints yesterday. I recognized your friend Rickett at the first glance, by the way," he interpolated. "The district attorney of New York used to be a pal of mine, and I saw him send Rickett up the river five years ago. That's why I got rid of him so promptly. I know about your operations in London houses, too. But, though you're so good on the servant end, you're not half so clever a gang of crooks as you're reported to be. By the way, how about the cook and Violet?"

"They're dead ones. They don't know anything about us."

"I thought so. Now why didn't you get off with the stuff before I came—and while you had a chance? You had been here almost a month."

"We were waiting for the foreign dame's stuff. We thought that leather bag was the ace, and at first we couldn't get hold of it."

Jenks answered doggedly. He seemed stunned by the turn of events.

"Are you a bull?" he asked suddenly.

"No. Just a plain citizen; but a fairly intelligent one, Jenks, and your goings on here attracted my attention. That reminds me," he asked suddenly. "How about the leather case? You finally had a duplicate made. How did you arrange that?"

"Annie got her lamps on it one day, and told me how it looked."

"So you duplicated it and made the exchange, thinking you were going to get tiaras and such? And when you found that the case held only manuscripts and papers you threw it back into the lady's room?"

"'Twasn't no good to us." For the first time, the man on the floor grimaced. "We gave you a good jolt with it, to help things along," he mentioned with satisfaction. "I thought mebbe you'd be sent away on the strength of that."

"So you did. And you threw in the locked door for good measure. But then, you saw that the lady got back the case without undue delay and nervous strain, which was very decent of you."

As if moved by this tribute, the captive reverted suddenly to the personality of Jenks, the perfect butler.

"We never waste energy doing unnecessary things, sir," he said primly. "And we never injure anybody physically. That isn't our method. That's why we wanted to get rid of you quiet like, with no harm done. And now, sir, since you've got the whole story, and since you got nothing on us but a little joke, sir, I'm sure you'll have no objection to being a sport yourself and letting us make a nice, quiet get-away. It won't do you any good to put us in Sing Sing, sir."

"Perhaps not; but it would benefit the community immensely," Renshaw pointed out. "However, that's a mere detail at present. Let us continue our conversation. When were you planning to make your get-away with the money and jewels?"

"The night you came—d—n you," said Jenks, with sudden bitterness and forgetfulness of his role.

"I'll pass over your profanity this time. I can see how my inopportune arrival must have annoyed you. So you postponed the coup till you could get rid of me; and then Campbell was taken sick, and with doctors coming and going, and Morris here at night, you decided to wait a few days longer—"

A new thought struck him. "What happened the night Campbell was stricken?"

He had to do considerable prodding before the question was answered.

"He caught me at the safe in his room," Jenks admitted at last.

"So that was it! It was planned for that night. And that's what Campbell's warning meant, and all his worry!"

Renshaw rose to his feet. A sudden gleam in the other's eyes—triumphant or sardonic, or both—reminded him of matters he had forgotten for a few minutes. "Anything planned for tonight?" he asked casually.

"Tonight? Naw!" said Jenks fiercely. "Of course not."

"Better tell me the truth."

"Naw, I tell you. Nothin' doin' tonight."

Renshaw bent, tested the strength of the cords, gathered up the bound body as if it had been an infant's, and, carrying it into the bathroom, deposited it on the floor. He then shut and locked the bathroom door, ignoring the whines and curses of Jenks, who alternately consigned him to perdition and urged him to be a sport. Back in the bedroom, Renshaw retrieved his second pistol from the floor where it had fallen during the fight, and went swiftly down stairs to the study. He had taken the precaution to "doctor" the first pistol before he left it under his pillow. It would be a disappointing weapon to the person who took it.

As he noiselessly hurried along the dark lower hall he heard a faint sound in the study. His grip tightened on the revolver in the pocket of his smoking jacket. He took out the weapon as he noiselesly opened the study door.

James and Hart were in the room, in which one electric light burned dimly under a shade. They were kneeling, bent over something on the floor, and the backs of both men were toward him. He brought them upright with a word, their hands above their heads, their eyes rolling in terrified incredulity. He moved slowly toward them, keeping them covered, his eyes taking in the objects that lay at the men's feet. Several bags were filled with plunder, and scattered about the floor were bulky articles of silver brought from the dining room and apparently rejected at the last moment. His interruption had been opportune. They were almost ready to recall Jenks from his guard duty upstairs and depart.

"Turn your faces to the wall," he ordered. "You, James, move six paces to the right. Hart, I'll trouble you to take eight steps to the left. Hurry up. That's right." He relieved them of the revolvers each carried, and also took an unpleasant-looking knife from Hart.

"Greedy," he rebukingly observed. "Where's all the jewelry?"

"In the leather bag." It was Hart who spoke, apparently realizing that the game was up.

"I'll have to inconvenience you. Step into that corner closet, Hart. Be quick!"

Hart obeyed without another word. Keeping his eyes on James, Renshaw locked the closet door, and put the key with the bathroom key in his pocket.

"Now, 'Slim Jim,'" he commanded briskly, "face about and march into the hall. Really, this is almost too easy. I wasn't sure I could pull it off alone, but I wanted to try."

"Slim Jim" obeyed his orders with surprising alacrity. His nerve, of which he had little at the best, was gone. Renshaw locked James into the hall closet among the hats and overcoats, first carefully removing from his pockets anything that might assist in forcing the bolt. He then shut and locked the study door.

Keeping a steadfast eye on the study and hall closet doors, he took up the extension telephone from the hall table and, getting a connection with Wainley after some delay, summoned the law to his aid.

"I haven't yet called on the two men in the grounds," he explained to the chief. "Haven't had time. But I'll get them in now. Bring another man with you." He added a spontaneous tribute to "the sex." "We've got a woman to deal with, you know, and she's still at large. How soon do you think you can get here? Fifteen minutes? Fine. I've had nothing but luck so far."

Even as he spoke, something crashed down upon his head from the staircase above him. The force of the blow would have floored him if it had fallen straight. As it was, he staggered under a slanting stroke that almost broke his right shoulder. In the next moment he swung up over the stair-rail, and, catching the wrists of the furious woman on the stairs, held her firmly.

"Stupid of you, Annie," he said. "What's the good of trying to brain me with a kitchen stool? You'd have landed in the electric chair for it. As it is, you'll have to languish in a prison cell for heaven only knows how long. Meantime, don't hiss at me like that. It doesn't look pretty, and it doesn't do me a bit of harm. I'm feeling too fit. In fact, I don't know when I've felt so well or so chatty," he added peacefully. "Oh, no, no; keep quiet. Of course I can't let go of your hands. I like to hold them!"

"You better go and look after them women," muttered "Sleepy Annie." "Hart chloroformed 'em—an' he ain't any too careful about such jobs."

At the change in his face, she laughed. "I thought you wouldn't feel so well after that. Here—what y' doin'?"

He gagged her with his handkerchief, and tied her arms behind her with a piece of cord. He felt cold and sick. Hart in Verity's room! He told himself the woman was lying, but his imagination pictured a thousand horrors.

"I think you're lying," he told Annie, "but we'll see. Come along."

He propelled her downstairs and ahead of him to the front door, and, opening this, sent a low whistle out into the darkness. Almost before it had ceased the two officers who had been guarding the house stood before him.

"We've got them," he said briefly. "Caught them right in the act, too. One of you watch this woman. The other keep an eye on those two doors. The chief will be here in a few minutes. I'm going upstairs to see what mischief they've done there."

He mounted the staircase three steps at a time. At Verity's door he stopped, and his breath caught. He knew now that Anne had spoken the truth. He opened the door, and, finding the electric switch after a slight but maddening delay, lifted from the girl's face the pad that still covered it. He felt physically ill as he did so, and a sudden lust for the life of Hart filled him. Going in turn to the four windows, he threw each wide open. Through them poured the bracing tonic of the cold night air, and with it came the welcome sound of an automobile driven at full speed and rushing up the avenue toward the house.

Chapter XIV

His Own Man.

The police had come and gone, taking with them their four sullen prisoners. Doctor Morris, responding at once to the hurry call sent him, had successfully treated Verity and Madame Hvoeslef for the after-effects of chloroform.

Renshaw had done the honors of the house with some natural complacency. Now, in Campbell's big chair before the rebuilt fire in the living-room, he listened to Morris' admiring tributes, and thought of the way Verity had looked when he left her.

"It was a great stunt you pulled off, old man."

Renshaw laughed.

"It was rather interesting," he admitted.

Morris hesitated. "I wonder if I dare to tell you that I know who you are?" he murmured.

The other nodded. "Of course you may. Every one will know in a few days."

"Then"—Morris dared the question—"you feel that you are all right—your own man again?"

"I know I am!"

The words were spoken quietly, but with entire conviction. Morris nodded.

"I know it, too," he conceded. "And Stanley knew it before either of us. He knew you were well when he sent you here. But, of course, he wasn't looking for the spectacular performance you have pulled off!"

Renshaw fidgeted a moment, then rose.

"You're going to look in on Miss Campbell again before you turn in, aren't you?"

"Yes."

"I'll go up with you and hear your final report."

He waited at the half-open door of Verity's room, his heart pounding fiercely. He heard the doctor's voice, that of the nurse, and then the most wonderful voice in the world:

"Is Mr. Renshaw there? I want to see him for a moment."

He went in and bent above her, the doctor and nurse moving away to make room for him at the bedside.

"All right now?" he asked gently.

"Yes, I—I think so. But—would it be too much if I—asked you something?" Her voice was almost inaudible.

"Nothing in the world you could ask me would be too much."

"Then—then, will you, if you're not too tired—stay somewhere near?" Her voice broke. "I'm afraid when you're not near," she admitted, with a childish gulp.

He pressed the hand that lay on the coverlet. It clung to his as it had clung in the black hole of the closet.

"They're all out of the house and on their way to jail. Of course you know that. But I am going to sit just outside your door the rest of the night," he added gently.

"Oh!" Her face grew luminous, then clouded. "It's horribly selfish of me to let you. It's abominable, really, when you're so tired. But when you are not near I feel as if"—her lips trembled—"as if I were in a nightmare."

"You were. You have passed through several nightmares this week. I felt as if I were in one myself while that infernal gang was plotting around us. You'll be all right in a few days. Now, will you try to sleep?"

"Of course I will sleep if I know you are taking care of me." Her dependence on him was as outspoken and as unselfconscious as We-wee's would have been.

"That's agreed." He kissed the little hand and released it. Then, observing that the doctor had left the room and that the nurse was tactfully occupying herself beyond hearing distance, he softly added: "I'm going to be near you all my life, my darling, if only you will let me."

For an instant more he looked down on her, watching the slow color flood her beautiful face. Under his look her eyes closed, then reopened, and at last returned his gaze.

He took a chair and went into the hall to settle himself for the few remaining hours of the night. The lights had been turned out and the old house was dark again; but as he shut his eyes and leaned his head against her door, life and the whole world seemed spread in a glorious panorama before him. The center of the vision was Verity. She was everywhere he looked. She inclosed him like a circular wall.

What he had always desired but had hardly dared to hope for, what his mother and sister in their final moments of life had prayed that he might have to comfort him, had come at last. But he had not "fallen in love." He seemed to feel the unfurling of mighty wings and he rose to love as a lark mounts to the open sky.

His years of illness, of loneliness, of darkness, were far behind him, far below him. He could forget them now. Ahead of him once more lay life and work, as well as the rapture of the promise he had read in the eyes of the girl he loved.

[THE END.]

The Questioner

He that questioneth much shall learn much, and content much; but especially if he apply his questions to the skill of the persons whom he asketh; for he shall give them occasion to please themselves in speaking, and himself shall continually gather knowledge; but let his questions not be troublesome, for that is fit for a poser; and let him be sure to leave other men their turn to speak.—Lord Bacon.

Adorning the Knitted Frock; Lovely Gowns for Matrons

CROSS the palm of the itinerant fortune-teller with a piece of silver, and lo! our past, present and future will be revealed. Knitted outerwear fashions are like that this season—responsive to the magic touch of silver. The stylist trims our sweaters and knitted two-piece suits with silver buttons and gilded trappings and behold! a revelation of entrancing modes. To the woman of smart fashion, hats, wraps and gowns they present, created to suit matrons (both young and older) seem to indicate a preference that way. But, of course, one must consider that the main demands on them come from matrons and it is most important to please them. Whatever the reasons, the modes of the French reach their climax in apparel for women who have left girlhood behind them. One reason is that silver and gold trimmings, as applied to things knitted, present a most interesting innovation.

Exquisite Sports Frock.

All sorts of intriguing ideas are expressed with gilded leather as a medium for motifs, bandings, collars, cuffs and belts on the latest knitwear modes. Illustrative of this new style trend is the exquisite sports frock here pictured. It is knitted of mist-blue rayon, its drop-stitch contributing a note of interest. There is a bordering of silver with bright gilded buttons. Surely a sports costume which will make appeal to every queen of fashion!

Added to its comfort-giving qualities, is the beauty of the coloring expressed in knitted rayon or fiber silk as you may choose to call it. The new knitted rayon suits, which are the last word in fashion, abound in lovely flower shades, such as rose, cyclamen, flax.

Then too, the prediction that lacy stitch will feature throughout summer knitted outerwear fashions becomes realization in the latest rayon-knit jumper suits. It also adds to the prestige of the newer knitted frocks, that they are two-piece, for without a doubt the skirt with overblouse leads in point of style importance. The blouse may be long-sleeved and high-necked, or a matching scarf, for all these points of fashion are emphasized in the newer knitted modes.

It is said Paris couturiers have a penchant for designing apparel for matrons, at any rate the numbers of nothing is too subtle, too sophisticated or too splendid to help in contributing to the charm of women who have attained poise.

A fine example of French art in matrons' gowns appears in the sketch shown above. It has been created with special reference to June weddings, as suitable for the matron of honor, among the bride's attendants, or to the mother of the bride or groom. It is of lace and georgette and very adaptable—suited to young and to older matrons. It has several marks of the present season to distinguish it and is a beautiful exponent of current modes, notably in the uneven hemline, the combination of lace and georgette, the jabot-panels at each side of the skirt joined to the georgette with a beading of small beads. A deep yoke in the bodice has a "V" shaped neck opening and the sleeves are very short. Laces dyed to match are used with georgette in frocks of this kind, and blond lace is used with contrasting colors. The hat is depended upon to suit these soft and elegant afternoon gowns to the years of the wearer. Younger women wear the wide-brimmed models, often with flower trimming, but the older matrons select smart, small shapes. The hat pictured is of hair braid with handsome monture of ostrich feathers at one side which adds greatly to its beauty.

Fine Example of the French Art.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1926, Western Newspaper Union.)

ALL WORN OUT

Are you lame and stiff; tired, nervous and depressed; miserable with backache? Have you suspected your kidneys? Good health depends upon proper elimination. But sluggish kidneys allow impurities to accumulate and upset the whole system. Backache is apt to follow; stabbing pains, depressing headaches, dizziness, and other annoying kidney irregularities. Why experiment? If your kidneys are sluggish, why not use Doan's Pills. Doan's is a harmless stimulant diuretic. Used the world over. Ask your neighbor!

An Iowa Case

J. C. Stoecker, prop. blacksmith shop, 701 South Johnson Street, Charles City, Iowa, says: "I had a soreness and dull ache in my back most all the time. When I stooped, sharp catches often came over my kidneys. I used Doan's Pills and they rid me of the trouble."

DOAN'S PILLS 60c

STIMULANT DIURETIC TO THE KIDNEYS

Foster-Milburn Co., Mfg. Chem., Buffalo, N. Y.

Oysters Eaten for Scurvy

Mme. Randoin, chief of the Pasteur Institute of Hygiene, maintains that oysters are a rapid and sure cure for scurvy. She bases her claim on experiments conducted first with guinea pigs. She also says that oysters and lemon juice are an ideal cure for dyspepsia or debility and that the combination is richer than most other food combination, in vitamins.

Champion Movers

Moving companies would be rich if everybody was like John Tufts of Boston. He and his wife have moved 72 times in the 15 months they have been married. His wife is now suing for separate maintenance.

White House Cost $9,000,000

Total expenditures on the White House since it was first built have amounted to $9,000,000, which covers building care, repair, occasional refurnishing and various incidentals.

START THIS TREATMENT NOW

There's nothing like Tanlac to purify the blood, put the stomach and liver in working order and build up a run-down body.

If you are nervous, suffer from indigestion,—have rheumatism, torpid liver, constant pain, don't delay taking Tanlac another precious day.

Millions of men and women have been benefited by this great tonic and builder that is compounded after the famous Tanlac formula from roots, barks and herbs.

Buy a bottle of Tanlac at your drug store today. See how you start to improve right from the first. Most likely two or three bottles will put you on your feet, make you feel like a brand new person.

Take Tanlac Vegetable Pills for Constipation

TANLAC
FOR YOUR HEALTH

Victory for Boy

This will cause every boy to smile at least. A school teacher in Dunstable, England, was fined for giving a boy a whipping for disobedience at school. There were 20 bruises on the boy's shoulders and arms.

New String Instrument

Prof. Vladmir Karapetoff of Cornell university has invented a five-string instrument that has the combined range of violin and cello.—Science Service.

Irrigation in Peru

To encourage small farmers Peru will irrigate 375,00 acres of pampa land in the department of Arequipa and not more than 25 acres will be sold to one individual.

Long Enough

Ethel—Were they engaged long?

Edith—Oh, one cross-word puzzle.—Life.

Soldiers Fight "Reds"

Retired soldiers of Japan will fight radicalism in Japan. Their organization has about 3,000,000 members.

The wise man doesn't wait for fortune to knock at his door; he goes out to meet it.

A decided blond is a fair-haired woman who always insists upon having her own way.

Sure Relief FOR INDIGESTION

BELL-ANS

25¢ AND 75¢ PACKAGES EVERYWHERE

Use Cuticura Soap And Ointment To Heal Sore Hands

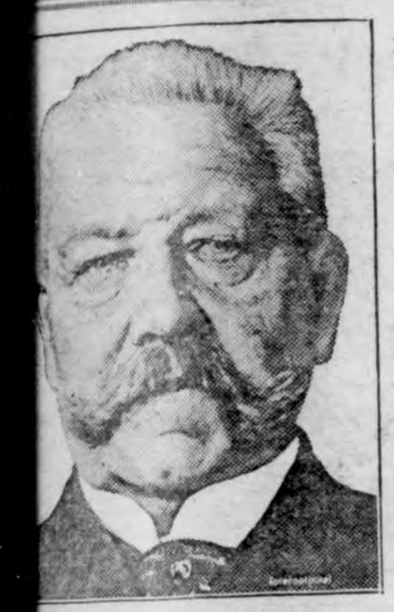
Prominent People

...y Aberdeen Heads Women of World

...re is a portrait of Lady Aber... ...aken during the recent seventh ...ennial convention of the In... ...ional Council of Women in ...gton. She was re-elected pres... ...no small honor, inasmuch as ...nvention contained more than ...legates from 42 countries repre... ...a total membership of 36,000,... ...omen. Lady Aberdeen was the ...Ishbel Maria Marjoribanks, ...ter of Baron Tweedmouth and ...Aberdeen is John Campbell Gor... ...first marquis of Aberdeen and ...r, who was lord lieutenant of ...d, 1905-15; has been lord lieu... ...of Aberdeenshire since 1880 and ...overnor general of Canada, 1893... ...Lady Aberdeen is famous for her ...in establishing health and recre... ...centers in Ireland.

...n the disarmament resolution ...d, the American women did not ... It was in part, as follows: "The ...W., while recognizing that simultaneous disarmament is the ideal to be ...d at, considers that it might be preceded by a gradual general disarma... ...under effective control to be agreed upon by the respective governments ...the League of Nations. They recognize that nations will not agree to dis... ...until they feel some sense of security."

...ndenburg, New President of Germany



Here's an up-to-date portrait of President Paul von Hindenburg of the German republic. Yes; this is the same old field marshal whose name is on the list of "war criminals" whom the allies wished to bring to judgment. In his manifesto to the German people, President von Hindenburg said:

"True to the oath, I will devote all my energies to guarding the constitution and laws. Let us strive through honest, peaceful work to gain the recognition of other nations to which we are entitled, and to free the German name from the unjust stain which still lies on it today."

Probably President Hindenburg is not as fierce as he looks. And he hasn't much power. Nominally he is the head of the army, but he cannot add one soldier to the military establishment. Without his consent the military cannot be called out to aid the civil power, but he cannot himself ...lt out except under definitely specified conditions. Officially he has little ...o voice in government decisions. Neither his intellectual characteristics ...his advanced age give reason to anticipate any sinister political activities.

...Wild Bill" Donovan a Bit Hard-Boiled

For obvious reasons the Depart... ...nt of Justice is attracting public ...ention these days. Incidentally, At... ...ney General John Garibaldi Sar... ...t is a new sort of figure in cabinet ...les. And certainly his chief as... ...ant, Col. William J. Donovan is ...less individual. He was com... ...nder of a cavalry troop in Buffalo, ...Y., saw the "signs in the sky" and ...s ready for hard fighting when the ...ited States went in. He came back ...h the Congressional Medal. And ...was shocking, the way his men used ...talk about him. "He is the tough... ...so and so," they said, "that ever ...ed. Why, blink blank him, he don't ...re no more for a man's life, the ...aking so and so, than he does for a ...acker." And when men talk that ...y about an officer—well, you know ...at I mean. He was then lieutenant ...onel of the One Hundred and Sixty... ...th infantry, Forty-second division—...e Rainbow. Incidentally he deposited the medal with the New York chap... ...r of Rainbow division veterans, saying: "This medal was truly won by our ...tire command."

Maybe this is why his friends call him "Wild Bill." But in Buffalo he was ...so a bit strenuous as United States district attorney along certain lines; his ...iends fared just exactly as did strangers. Anyway, now he is the executive ...ead of the attorney general's department at Washington. And he is entitled ...the privileges of the floor of the senate and the house of representatives and ...the salute from a major general.

...utler Will "Swing Around the Circle"

Senator William M. Butler of Massachusetts, chairman of the Republican national committee, will make the most extensive political observation tour next fall ever attempted by any leader of a dominant political party. Instead of going to Chicago for a few weeks as he planned to do originally, he will visit the principal cities of the East and West, getting first-hand information regarding political conditions in the 33 states in which senatorial contests will be waged next year. The indications are that he will make stops in New York, Chicago, Denver, Portland, Ore., San Francisco and St. Louis, conferring with party leaders and making several public addresses.

This will be the first time that a national chairman has made "a swing around the circle" in an "off year." The chairman's intention originally was to go only to Chicago and to talk with party leaders of states within a ...ight's ride of that city. Since announcing his intention he has been deluged ...by requests to go farther west. It is his desire to get all the information available regarding the congressional as well as the senatorial campaigns to be waged next year and to render as much assistance as possible toward a Republican victory that will give President Coolidge control of the house and senate.

Senator Butler will find it necessary to spend only a few days in New York city, as he is intimately acquainted with political conditions in the East. The principal contests in the East will be waged in New York and New Hampshire.

From New York Mr. Butler will go to Chicago, where he will confer with Illinois, Indiana, Kansas and Wisconsin leaders.

Community Building

Neat Mail-Box Rack for the Road Corner

Most mail boxes along country highways are mounted on posts, and, at some corners, where large clusters of them are assembled in a more or less haphazard manner, they easily become an eyesore on an otherwise pleasant roadside. However, by providing an "apartment" mail-box shelter of the kind shown in the photo, this objectionable feature is easily overcome. This shelter is made of a 2 by 4-inch frame and has two or three shelves of "Apartment" Mail-Box Shelter Improves Appearance of Country Roadside.

1-inch material, and a neat roof to harmonize with the rest of the construction. The latter is covered with colored asphalt or asbestos shingles. The mail boxes are arranged side by side and are screwed down securely to the shelves. The whole affair is given a few coats of white paint to protect it against the weather.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Proper City Planning of Vital Importance

When those who have had a part in the founding of cities can be traced, it is almost always ascertained that they planned in a wise though limited way for their future centers. The same wisdom and care in continuous planning is generally lacking after early hopes are realized and cities begin to extend. Metropolitan areas cannot be permitted to grow helter-skelter after they have once gained population and important rank. There will be physical features that are incongruous enough after such safeguards as will be prudent and legal have been provided. If resort is too often made to the lawmaking power, this is a matter in which the protection of that power may be sought advisedly and in a fashion analogous to that in which its assistance has been freely given in other matters. The zoning principle is designed to deal with the problem in a large way, not in petty or vexatious ways. Absolute symmetry in city growth cannot be assured, but a fantastic and injurious lack of symmetry can be guarded against.—Chicago Post.

Pull Together

If every business man in this city would resolve that he would speak only in terms of commendation of every other business man in the city and then live up to the resolution for a period of three months the effect would be a revolution in conditions, because people cannot talk in terms of good feeling and of good fellowship without manifesting a spirit which will back up the talk indulged in. That is what is so much needed in this city now. A pull-together will bring to pass all that we need to make this community flourish as it has not flourished before. This cannot be accomplished through any spirit of spleen-venting, or of getting even with the other fellow, or of taking unfair advantage to gain a point for one's self, but it can be brought about by translating into everyday life of the business men some of the lofty principles which you frequently hear preached but so seldom see practiced.—Andalusia Star.

Recreational Grounds

Towns have found recreation a good investment. Social enrichment and advertising have come to them, as they readily testify. As more and more small towns discover that recreation will help to check the drift of their youth to the cities as well as to attract new residents, they will make a determined effort to supply those opportunities for clean play that parks, playgrounds, athletic fields, community houses and other facilities supply.

Time to Turn New Leaf

If you have been trading away from Ozark, and have been knocking the old home town, resolve right now you are ashamed of it, and that you will never do it again, and that you will put your hammer up and knock the handle out of it.—Ozark Southern Star.

Alibi for Homer

A new and interesting light has been shed on the disputed authorship of the Homeric poems. An English schoolboy wrote: "It is said that writing was not invented when Homer composed his poems. He must therefore have lived a good deal later."—Boston Transcript.

Moonlight Tennis

Moonlight tennis is becoming popular on British courts. When the moon is not full, strong arc lights are used.

Current Wit and Humor

BLAME THE FLORIST

A town was dedicating a new concert hall with appropriate ceremony. The floral decorations were lavish. A visitor remarked to one of the town fathers at a lull in the program: "The acoustics are very good, don't you think?"

"They ought to be," replied his host. "The florist's bill was enough to run up the taxes for every one of us."

Making It Clear

Two elderly men, both extremely deaf, met on a country road. Dave had a fishing pole in his wagon. When he saw his friend Jim he stopped the horse.

"Goin' fishin'?" shouted Jim.

"No," Dave replied, "I'm goin' fishin'."

"Oh," said Jim. "I thought mebbe you was goin' fishin'."—Country Gentleman.

More of Nature

Mr. Bacon—Did you hear those measley roosters crowing this morning early?

Mrs. Bacon—Yes, dear.

Mr. Bacon—I wonder what on earth they want to do that for?

Mrs. Bacon—Why, don't you remember, dear, you got up one morning early and you crowed about it for a week.—Watchword.

DEFENDED A WEAK MAN

"So ye got that mug on ye defending a weak man?"

"Sure I did!"

"Who's the man?"

"Meself."

Show Business

This world's a fleeting show, they say,
Which simple was of yore.
It is, today, a grand display
With three big rings, or more!

She Meant Well

A student brought his mother to the university and was showing her about. The dear old lady was anxious to make her boy think that she understood everything.

"Over there, mother," said the son, "are our wonderful polo fields."

"Oh," sighed the old lady, "what is there that is nicer than fields of waving polo?"

Just Medium

Mother—Is my daughter well behaved?

Friend of Family—Generally.

Mother—What do you mean by "generally"?

F. O. F.—Not particularly.—Princeton Tiger.

POOR DAD

Kid—Just one more question, dad: who's going to bury the last man?

Recipe

If you would lead the throng,
First seek to know
In what direction it
Desires to go.

Mistaken in Him

Edith—Is it true that you are going to marry Jack?

Ethel—Yes; why?

Edith—I didn't think he was of the marrying kind. Why, I am engaged to him myself.

That Was That

"What is your desire?" asked the good jin.

"To shoot a game of golf in par."

"I'm not that good myself," said the good jin.

Japs Learn English as Matter of Course

English is taught in the public schools all over Japan. Later, when I came to travel widely in the interior, I often found bright schoolboys fourteen or fifteen years old who would volunteer as interpreters, Theodore Geoffrey writes in the Saturday Evening Post.

In another generation English may be a second language for the Japanese, even as the Dutch today are competent linguists, because the world cannot be bothered to learn Dutch.

English, unless a Japanese has been educated abroad, becomes rather peculiar in Japanese mouths, for according to Japanese custom, every consonant must be followed by a vowel, and there is no "l" or "v" or "th." Thus "beer" becomes "bieru"; "glass," "gurssu," and "hotel," "hoteru."

Bernard Shaw's Humor

As the world knows, George Bernard Shaw is a staunch vegetarian, and all the many disciples of this particular dietetic cult look up to him as a shining example.

Imagine, therefore, their amazement and disgust when G. B. S. said in public: "If I feel that I can enjoy a nice juicy beefsteak I have it."

One of his followers took him to task about this.

"Calm yourself, my dear fellow!" drawled Shaw. "I never do feel that I can enjoy a nice juicy beefsteak."

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview of the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.

Water for Morocco City

Melilla, Morocco, which has been in the hands of the Spaniards for more than 400 years, is about to be provided for the first time in its history with a public water supply. Gangs of workers are now engaged in laying cement pipes to bring the water from the Yasinen, and it is hoped that within a short time the municipal authorities will be able to furnish the inhabitants with sufficient water for drinking and hygienic purposes.

Paper Airplanes

What promises to be a great improvement in the construction of airplanes is the use of paper in building the fuselage which is said to have the strength of wood and other material used for the purpose, but with a great decrease in the weight, which, of course, is a considerable advantage. The navy is making tests of the use of paper in this connection and the trials so far have indicated that the change will be a very desirable one.

Freshen a Heavy Skin

With the antiseptic, fascinating Cuticura Talcum Powder, an exquisitely scented, economical face, skin, baby and dusting powder and perfume. Renders other perfumes superfluous. One of the Cuticura Toilet Trio (Soap, Ointment, Talcum).—Advertisement.

Twin Cities Flour Crop

The flour mills of Minneapolis and St. Paul have a total producing capacity of 90,000 barrels a day.—New York Herald-Tribune.

Some men are like phonographs—they talk a great deal, but never say anything original.

NOW DOES ALL HER WORK

Has No Backache, No Bad Feelings Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Drove Her Illness Away

Milwaukee, Wisconsin.—"I was in a badly run-down condition and I would get weak spells and terrible headaches. I felt so badly last year that I could not do any housecleaning. The minute I would lift or stoop it seemed as if I was going to fall to pieces. I told a neighbor how I felt and she said that Lydia E. Pinkham's VegetableCompound was surely the right thing for me. I took four bottles then and in the fall of the year I took three. I had been treated by a doctor but he gave me an iron tonic and that did not help me. It seemed that the tonic did not have in it what the Vegetable Compound did. That gave me the strength and ambition I needed and I have gained in weight. This year before I started to clean house I got four bottles of the Vegetable Compound and am taking it right along. I tell all my friends about it and how much good it does me. They can notice it because I have gained in weight. I weigh 118 now and do all my work myself again."—Mrs. EMIL O. BRANDENBURG, 651 37th Street, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

HEALS RUNNING SORES

"I feel it my duty to write you a letter of thanks for your wonderful Peterson's Ointment. I had a running sore on my left leg for one year. I began to use Peterson's Ointment three weeks ago and now it is healed."—A. C. Gilbrath, 703 Reed St., Erie, Pa.

For years I have been selling through druggists a large box of PETERSON'S OINTMENT for 35 cents. The healing power in this ointment is marvelous. Eczema goes in a few days. Old sores heal up like magic; piles that other remedies do not seem to even relieve are speedily conquered. Pimples and nasty blackheads disappear in a week and the distress of chafing goes in a few minutes. Mail orders filled. Peterson Ointment Co., Inc., Buffalo, N. Y.

He Owes His 40 Years of Constant Good Health to Beecham's Pills

"I am 57 years old and commenced to be troubled with constipation when I was sixteen.

"In 1884 I started taking Beecham's Pills, other remedies having failed. I have not had a sick day in all the 40 years."

F. Louis Loeffler, Rochester, N. Y.

For FREE SAMPLE—write

B. F. Allen Co., 417 Canal Street, New York

Buy from your druggist in 25 and 50c boxes

For constipation, biliousness, sick headaches and other digestive ailments take

Beecham's Pills

LEONARD EAR OIL

for DEAFNESS and HEAD NOISES

Price $1.00

At All Druggists

"Don't Do This" FOLDER ABOUT "DEAFNESS" ON REQUEST.

A. O. LEONARD, INC. 70-5TH AVE., NEW YORK

BAND INSTRUMENTS

—Second-Hand—

Standard makes rebuilt like new. Saxophones, cornets, trombones, etc., for sale cheap; free trial given. We do repair work. Write for bargains.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENT EXCHANGE
AMES, IOWA

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Removes Dandruff-Stops Hair Falling

Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair

60c and $1.00 at Druggists.

Hiscox Chem. Wks., Patchogue, N. Y.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c by mail or at Druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

INFLAMED EYES Use Dr. Thompson's Eyewater. Buy at your druggist's or 1161 River, Troy, N. Y. Booklet.

W. N. U., DES MOINES, NO. 23--1925.

Cheerful Giving in Peru

A temple in Peru which was begun 10,000 years ago has not yet been completed. Evidently it is being built by popular subscription.—Life.

Children Cry for

Fletcher's CASTORIA

MOTHER:— Fletcher's Castoria is a pleasant, harmless Substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Teething Drops and Soothing Syrups, especially prepared for Infants in arms and Children all ages.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

IN THE MATTER OF JOINT DRAINAGE DISYRICT NO. 86, HANCOCK, CERRO GORDO AND FRANKLIN COUNTIES, IOWA

Notice of Hearing on Reassement for Deficit in Original Cost of Construction

To the following named persons and to all others whom it may concern, including the actual occupants of the following described lands:

You and each of you are hereby notified that the Boards of Supervisors of Hancock, Cerro Gordo and Franklin Counties, Iowa, by resolution regularly adopted, in Joint session, found and determined that the levy and assessment heretofore made was not sufficient to pay the original cost of the construction of said improvement and necessary repairs thereof and found and determined that there was a deficit in the original cost of construction and for repairs in the sum of $162,562.88; that it is proposed to levy a reassessment upon the lands within said Drainage District upon thes ame classification and in the same proportion as the original assessment for the cost of the construction of said improvement and that said reassessment upon the several tracts of land are as shown by the following table, and being a levy of 19% of the Original Assessment:

Name	Description	Section	Amount of Levy
W. R. Bloon	NE¼ NW¼	1-94-23	$ 44.46
W. R. Bloom	NW¼ NW¼	1-94-23	43.32
W. R. Bloom	SE¼ NW¼	1-94-23	45.60
W. R. Bloom	SW¼ NW¼	1-94-23	44.46
W. R. Bloom	NE¼ SW¼	1-94-23	26.22
W. R. Bloom	NW¼ SW¼	1-94-23	35.24
Gottlob A. Goll	SW¼ NE¼	1-94-23	140.80
Gottlob A. Goll	NW¼ NE¼	1-94-23	71.44
Gottlob A. Goll	NE¼ NE¼	1-94-23	417.97
Gottlob A. Goll	SE¼ NE¼	1-94-23	396.68
Gottlob A. Goll	NE¼ SE¼	1-94-23	360.97
Gottlob A. Goll	NW¼ SE¼	1-94-23	96.89
Gottlob A. Goll	SW¼ SE¼	1-94-23	186.32
Gottlob A. Goll	SE¼ SE¼	1-94-23	325.40
Gottlob A. Goll	SW¼ SE¼	1-94-23	44.46
Gottlob A. Goll	SE¼ SE¼	1-94-23	43.32
Elko Buss	NW¼ NE¼	2-94-23	22.80
Elko Buss	NE¼ NE¼	2-94-23
Elko Buss	NE¼ NW¼	2-94-23
Frank H. Guth and August Guth	NE¼ SE¼	2-94-23	123.58
Wm. Fuller	SE¼ NE¼	2-94-23	44.46
Wm. Fuller	SW¼ NE¼	2-94-23	30.78
Wm. Fuller	SE¼ NW¼	2-94-23	1.14
E. H. Townsend, Joe Wheeler and E. H. Williams	NW¼ SE¼	12-94-23	125.36
" " "	NW¼ NE¼	12-94-23	67.50
" " "	NE¼ SE¼	12-94-23	179.08
" " "	NE¼ NE¼	12-94-23	214.35
" " "	SW¼ NE¼	12-94-23	44.77
" " "	SE¼ NE¼	12-94-23	220.53
H. H. Ostendorf	SE¼ SE¼	23-94-23	14.91
Herman Lauren	SE¼ SW¼	24-94-23	10.87
Mary Ingebretson	SE¼ NE¼	24-94-23	36.96
Mary Ingebretson	N½ NE¼ SE¼	24-94-23	64.33
Mary Ingebretson	N½ NW¼ SE¼	24-94-23	18.16
Aug. Prelipp	S½ NE¼ SE¼	24-94-23	13.55
Aug. Prelipp	SE¼ SE¼	24-94-23	30.12
Aug. Prelipp	SW¼ SE¼	24-94-23	110.52
Aug. Prelipp	S½ NW¼ SE¼	24-94-23	34.58
Wm. Morris	SW¼ SW¼	24-94-23	61.15
Wm. Morris	NE¼ SW¼	25-94-23	308.33
Wm. Morris	N W¼ SW¼	25-94-23	118.38
R. Boelman	SW¼ SE¼	25-94-23	194.57
R. Boelman	NW¼ SE¼	25-94-23	219.14
R. Boelman	SW¼ NE¼	25-94-23	40.78
Ferdinand A. Lemke	SE¼ SE¼	25-94-23	135.66
F. L. Lemke	NE¼ SE¼	25-94-23	224.21
Phoebe A. and Wm. C. White	SE¼ SW¼	25-94-23	159.34
" " "	SW¼ SW¼	25-94-23	319.94
Jacob E. Weiskopf	NE¼ NW¼	25-94-23	55.32
Jacob E. Weiskopf	SE¼ NW¼	25-94-23	34.94
Jacob E. Weiskopf	SW¼ NW¼	25-94-23	34.81
Jacob E. Weiskopf	NW¼ NW¼	25-94-23	16.22
Jacob E. Weiskopf	NW¼ NE¼	25-94-23	70.37
Jacob E. Weiskopf	NE¼ NE¼	25-94-23	124.03
Jacob E. Weiskopf	SE¼ NE¼	25-94-23	270.84
Wm. Koehler	NE¼ NE¼	26-94-23	15.74
F. A. Grosenbaug	NE¼ SE¼	26-94-23	65.55
F. A. Grosenbaugh	SE¼ SE¼	26-94-23	73.92
Peter Markle	SE¼ NE¼	35-95-23	14.82
Peter Markle	SW¼ NE¼	35-95-23	6.84
Peter Markle	SE¼ SE¼	35-95-23	43.32
Peter Markle	NE¼ SE¼	35-95-23	44.46
Elko Buss	SW¼ SE¼	35-95-23	19.30
Thomas F. Carroll	NW¼ SE¼	35-95-23	137.27
A. L. Bier	NE¼ NE¼	35-94-23	12.55
Conrad Bier	NE¼ SE¼	36-94-23	331.70
Conrad Bier	NW¼ SE¼	36-94-23	4.71
Conrad Bier	SE¼ SE¼	36-94-23	74.15
Ernest Henze	SW¼ SE¼	36-95-23	268.01
Ernest Henze	NW¼ SE¼	36-95-23	161.41
Ernest Henze	NE¼ SE¼	36-95-23	331.85
Ernest Henze	SE¼ SE¼	36-95-23	577.86
Ferdinand A. Lemke	NW¼ NE¼	36-94-23	21.22
Ferdinand A. Lemke	NE¼ NE¼	36-94-23	182.24
Ferdinand A. Lemke	SW¼ NE¼	36-94-23	65.90
Ferdinand A. Lemke	SE¼ NE¼	36-94-23	156.53
Newton C. Moberly	SW¼ SW¼	36-95-23	22.92
Mary S. Moberly	SE¼ SW¼	36-95-23	142.04
Phoebe A. and Wm. C. White	NE¼ NW¼	36-94-23	33.73
" " "	NW¼ NW¼	36-94-23	236.50
" " "	SW¼ NW¼	36-94-23	19.70
Henry Theiman	SW¼ NW¼	36-95-23	27.36
Henry Theiman	NE¼ SW¼	36-95-23	45.60
Henry Theiman	NW¼ SW¼	36-95-23	44.46
John Neuberger	NE¼ NE¼	36-95-23	17.56
John Neuberger	SE¼ NE¼	36-95-23	68.36
Hancock County Iowa	East and West road between E½ Sections 26 and 35-94-23
	East and West road between Sections 25 anl 36-94-23		36.29
Ell Township, Hancock County, Iowa.	North and South road between Sections 35 and 36-95-23		206.34
Avery Township, Hancock County, Iowa.	North and South road between Sections 25 and 26-94-23
	East and West road between E½ Sections 23 and 26-94-23		60.39
	East and West road between Sections 24 and 25-94-23
	North and South road between Sections 1 and 2-94-23		55.59
	East and West road between E½ Sections 1 and 12-94-23		5.63
	North and South road between Sections 31-95-23 and 36-95-23		68.40
	East and West road between E½ Sections 35-95-23 and 2-94-23		9.41
	East and West road between Section 36-95-23 and 1-94-23		15.96
	East and West road between Section 35-95-23 and 2-94-23		40.95
	East and West road between Sections 36-95-23 and 1-94-23		15.96
	North and South road between Sections 31-94-22 and 36-94-23		40.95
	North and South road between Sections 30-94-22 and 25-94-23		61.09
	East and West road between Sections 19-94-22 and 24-94-23		38.19
	North and South road between N½ Sections 7-94-22 and 12-94-23		17.10
	North and South road between Sections 6-94-22 and 1-94-23		11.59
			89.68

Ell Township, Hancock County, Iowa

Avery Township Hancock County, Iowa.

You and each of you are further notified that the final hearing upon the levy and reassessment for the deficiency of the original assessment to pay the original cost of construction of said improvement and necessary repairs will be held at a joint session of the Boards of Supervisors of Cerro Gordo Franklin and Hancock Counties, Iowa, in the Court House at Mason City, Iowa, on July 9th, 1925 at 1 o'clock P. M. and that all objections to said levy and reassessment must be in writing and filed on or before 10 o'clock A. M. of said July 9th, 1925, or objections will be held to have been waived and sail levy and reassessment fixed without reference there to.

Witness our hands and seals this 4th day of May, 1925.

H. C. Meyer.
County Auditor of Hancock County, Iowa
Geo. E. Frost.
County Auditor of Cerro Gordo County, Iowa
E. D. Haecker,
County Auditor of Franklin County, Iowa.

Jig Jog Jags

A Little Joshing Now and Then Will Get the Goat of Many Men

"Railway conductors seem to be pretty badly imposed upon."

"Why so?"

"They're always telling people where to get off."

Mr. Jones—The Doctor says that I must limit my diet to sea foods.

Mrs. Jones—Very well, dear, I'll bake a sponge cake."

SHE'D TELL HIM

It was the dear old lady' sfirst ride in a taxi and she watched with flaring alarm as the driver continually put his hand out side the car as a signal to the traffic following. At last she became exasperated. "Young man," she said, "you look after that car and watch where you're driving. I'll tell you when it starts to rain."

Lige—Did yo' hear about that colored man who died from eating too many watahmillons?"

Rastus—Too many watermillons I din't know dey was dat many."

She—Yes, I'm a Delta, Delta, Delta."

He— I heard you the first time.

"You call yourself an electrician and you don't even have a pair of pliers."

"Well, if I was a farmer you wouldn't expect me to carry a cow, I guess."

"Bill came out of that barber shop like a tortoise.'

"Like a tortoise?"

"Yeh—leaving the hair behind."

Stude—Be careful with those burns, barber."

Barber—What burns."

Stude—Side-burns."

She liked to think that he was sunny
And often called him bright,
But she never called it funny
When he came home lit up at night

Editor—Have you interviewed the Commencement speaker.

Reporter—Yes.

Editor— What did he say?

Reporter—Nothing.

Ed.—I know, but how many columns of it?

MULISH IGNORANCE

Emanuel Jackson appeared one morning on crutches.

"Lawsy!" exclaimed a friend. "Ah thought yo' was one o' de bes' mule han'lers in de business."

"So Ah is," affirmed Emanuel proudly, "but we done got a mule in dis morning' dat didn't know mah reputation."

TWO NUTS

The doctor in charge of the Lunatic Asylum was showing his friend around: "You see that man over there?"

"Yes".

"All he does all day long is walk up and down mumbling to himself."

"Why ."

"You see on the night of his wedding his girl jilted him."

The doctor and his friend passed on.

"Say, Doc, I thought that nuts were violent."

"You want to see some wild ones?"

"Yes."

"Follow me." The doctor led his friend down a flight of stairs. On their way down they heard terrific noises. Bang—bang—bang.

"What's that?" asked the friend.

"You'll see. Oh there. Do you see that man there?" The doctor pointed to a nut who was steadily banging his head against the iron bars of his cell. "Do you know who that is.?" asked the doctor."

"No."

"That's the fellow who married the girl."

"Whats the difference between a honey comb, a honeymoon and a pretty girl"

"A little cell, a big cell, and a dam-sel.

Visitor to native of Western Town—I understand this is an unhealthy locality. Do they hang people very often around here?

Native—Nope, only once.

THE NEW SHADE

She—I'm going to buy a new gown, what shade would you like to see me in?"

He—Just the shade of the old apple tree.

We were seated around the table when suddenly the conservation turned to history.

"Oh, for the days of Washington, blurted out a prim little Boston maid.

The the Irish lad spoke up.—"Oh, for the Knights of Columbus."

Hey, any of you fellows lost a wrench?"

"Yea, me."

"What's yer name?"

"Mike Conners."

"You ain't the guy. This wrench b'longs to Pat Pending. His name's on it."

"That bull of yours charged at me and tossed me over the fence!"

"Sorry Lady. Anything red on you?"

"Well, I can't say exactly, but it feels as if there might be."

LETTING HIM CHOOSE

The waiter was taking the order of a pretty young lady who was accompanied by a florid, pudgy, mid-

Lowe Brothers

HIGH STANDARD LIQUID PAINT

We carry a complete line of LOWE BROS. High Standard Paints, Varnishes, etc in stock.

Right now is the time for out door painting and we are prepared to meet the demand for—

LOWE BROS. OUTSIDE PAINT
LOWE BROS. FLOOR PAINT
LOWE BROS. PORCH PAINT
VARNISHES, SCREEN PAINT, etc.

Here's a tip! Try LINDURO WHITE ENAMEL—we sell it!

A full line of BRUSHES, all kinds and for every purpose; Turpentine, Linseed Oil.

AUTOMOBILE PAINT—Paint that oll car and make it look like new at a small cost. We have the right kind of paint to use. Also get your Auto Top Dressing here.

Jacobs & Son

The Lumber to Buy

Why bother with poor Lumber when you can get good Lumber from us at about the same price? The time saved in working it up more than makes up the difference.

Northern Lumber Co.

"EVERYTHING TO BUILD ANYTHING"

Own a Business

There are always opportunities for those who are in a position to take advantage of them. A good bank account is your greatest asset. It has brought success to many.

One of the best means of getting started is to open an account with this Bank. As it grows your confidence will grow, and it will not be long until you will have funds for any reasonable undertaking.

First National Bank.

KLEMME. IOWA.

THE KLEMME TIMES

nty-ninth Year—Number 40. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, JUNE 11, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

ARRIED LAST WEEK

MOND GIRL BECOMES BRIDE OF KLEMME YOUNG MAN

on Greimann and Miss Bessie Kurtz Married Last Week or a long time we have suspect- Aaron Greimann, popular young mme man, of having matrimoni- ntentions, and we were not far ng in our views.

n Tuesday evening, June 2, at Ell Town Reformed Church, at 0 o'clock Mr. Aaron Greimann of mme, and Miss Bessie Kurtz, of mond, were united in marriage Rev. C. A. Schmid, pastor of the rch. Only the immmediate rel- es of the contracting parties e witnesses of this happy union. fter the ceremony the couple left a week's honeymoon trip to Minn ta and Wisconsin where they al- visited relatives, returning to mme Sunday afternoon to begin sekeeping in the C. F. Keraus idence.

The groom is the son of Mr. and s. W. F. Greimann, Sr., of this ce and was raised in Hancock unty. For a number of years he isted his father with farm work il about four years ago, when he nt to Kansas City to study auto chanics and electrical work. Af- completing his course he bought e Ford Garage and business in emme and has since conducted a od business. Aaron is a fine ng man and is popular with e- ryone as he always has a smile everyone and is happy.

Mrs. Aaron Greimann is the ughter of Mr. and Mrs. James rtz of Belmond, one of the fine milies of that community. She is ghly spoken of by those who are quainted with her and seems to a delightful young lady. She is e rare type of lady who will be a od home maker and a fine com- nion for her husband.

On Monday evening the charivari owd of merry-makers collected all tin cans, bells, fire-crackers, etc., d prepared to render Mr. and Mrs. reimann a concert. The music rought forth the bride and groom ho were given a ride about the city a tireless ,springless trailer hook behind a car. Aaron appreciated e scenic ride so much that he or- ered everybody to go to the cafe nd have the treats on him.

The Times joins with the many iends of Mr. and Mrs. Greimann in ishing them a long, l fe.

Real Estate Transfers

J. L. Abele Sr. wf to Fred Katter- nary ,W D date 5-27-25, $1.00 lot block 16 Tallmans add Garner.

J. N. Sprole, Referee to Laurice Larson, Referees Deed date 2-23-25 10,000, S½ SE¼ & NE¼ SE¼ 2-97-25.

School Twp of Liberty to Louis H Griffin, Q C DW date 5-25-25, 1 a n SE cor of SW¼ 29-95-24.

Henry Buseman et al to Frank Roths W D date 5-29-25, $2+50.00 a tract of land 66 fet E & W zy 140 feet N and S. in E½ of outlot Number 2 Klemmes add to Klemme.

Wm. E. G. Saunders to Hanocck County Easement date 5-28-24, $25 .02 acres in 21-96-25.

C. A. Lawler to H. E. Baack Q. C. D. date 5-29-25. a tract of land 100 feet by 190 fe in SW¼ 10-97-26.

Anna Hollatz to Emil Boehnke, Q C D date 6-3-25, $1.04 SE¼ 10-96-23 and SW¼ 14-96-23.

Emil Boehnke wf to Anna Hollatz Q C D date 6-3-25, $1.00 SW¼ 9-96-23.

Elmer A. Fisher wf to Flora McNabb, W D date 5-4-25, $1.00 W 63 4 of N½ NW¼ 36-96-25.

Wm. H. Anderson to Julia Anderson, Q C D date 6-5-25, $1.00 S½ 13-94-25.

Sheridan Gets in Line

Sheldon, Iowa, is now organizing a cow test association which will be functioning n the next few weeks, according to C. B. Finley, dairy extension man, Iowa State College.

HANCOCK COUNTY LOSES POPULATION

Total figures for Hancock county show a decrease in population of 248 since the Federal cenuss of 1920 was taken five years ago when the high mark in the history of the county was made with 14,723 people. The complete figures for the present year reach 14,475. Following is a table showing the returns. both by townships and incorporated towns in the latter a comparison with 1920 is given:

Townships

Bingham	606
Crystal	540
Madison	678
Ellington	775
Concord	566
Garfield	632
Britt	568
Boone	497
Orthel	575
Erin	616
Liberty	561
Ell	589
Avery	574
Twin Lake	505
Amsterdam	534
Magor	521

Towns Incorporated

	1920	1925
Britt	1619	1578
Garner	1311	1290
Kanawha	659	638
Corwith	635	549
Klemme	468	454
Crystal Lake	191	231
Woden	18	201
Goodell	245	197

GOOD ROADS ASSOCIATION TO START MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

Des Moines, June 10.— Through an extensive membership campaign launched this week, every motorist in Iowa will be urged to become a member of the Iowa Good Roads Association and thereby lend his support to the movement to secure a modern, state wide system of improved highways for this state at the earliest possible time.

The membership campaign started this week with enthusiastic organization meetings in the first congressional district. Solicitation will be made this summer in each of the 11 congressional districts of the state, and it is expected that 100,000 members will be enlisted as a result of the drive.

Membership fees of $1 a year will be used for organization and for a campaign of education to convince the people of Iowa of the economic benefits of good roads.

It is pointed out that a state-wide system of improved highways will save every motorist in Iowa at least $50 a year through decreased gasoline and oil consumption, less wear on tires and slower depreciation. Since the Iowa Good Roads Association is pledged to secure a modern system of highways for this state at the earliest possible time, motorists who join the organization and activily support the movement will save considerable money for themselves when the campaign is carried through to a successful conclusion.

Members will be given a metal disc for their cars, showing the affiliation with the good roads organization(and will have an active voice in its management through the board of directors, which will be increased to 99 members, one for each county in Iowa|

At the next session of the General Assembly, the Association will support legislation to place the primary road system under state control for construction and maintenance. The Legislature will also be asked to submit an $85,000,000 road bond issue to a vote of the people for approval or rejection.

PECK NABS HOOTCH PEDDLERS

Sheriff E. P. Hanson apprehended a couple of alcohol peddlers while they were plying their trade in Ellington township Friday of last week, arrested them and took them to Mason City to await the action of thec ourt. This came Tuesday when each of the offenders were given a fine of $300 and three months in jail. These fellows were not residents of Hancock county. Mr. Hansan secured four gallons, on quart and one pint from the peddlers.— Garner Leader.

A. D. WHITE DEAD

LAST OF GOODELL CIVIL WAR VETS DIED THURSDAY NIGHT

Masonic Funeral Was Held At The Home Sunday Afternoon

Mr. A. D. White, well known Hancock County pioneer and civil war veteran, passed away at his home at Goodell Thursday night of last week following a short illness. Mr. White had been ailing for some time but his condition was not considered alarming. During the day he had driven about in his car and felt quite well. His death came suddenly and was caused by heart trouble.

Mr. White was one of the early settlers in Hancock County and for years was in the grain and store business in Goodell. He was always greatly interested in politics and played an important part in early Hancock county affairs. Mr. White was a member of the Masonic fraternity and that body had charge of the funeral services which were held at the home at 2:00 P. M. Sunday afternoon. Rev. Van Metre, of Garner, a brother Mason preached the services and the beautiful Masonic Ritual was given. Masons of Garner, Belmond, Klemme, Goodell and other points attended the services. A number of civil was veterans were present to pay their last tributes to an old comrade who had gone tojointherankstfo:G;adn,nr s gone to join the ranks of the silent army.

BRAKEMAN KILLED MAKING COUPLING

Falls Between Cars; And Head Is Severed

BELMOND, June 6.—H. J. Snyder, a brakeman on the M. and St. fL. R. R. was instantly killed Friday afternoon while operating the coupler between the cars when switching. He fell head first and was caught between the cars his head being severed from his body.

Mr. Snyder has been through here on this line for the past twenty-two years and was a friend of the boys. Only yesterday when the train was coming in he waved to some of the lads who were swimming under the bridge.

AT THE IOWA STATE FAIR

The good, old-fashioned Iowa housewife ,who bakes her own cakes, cans her own preserves, knits the family's wool socks and still makes her occasional quilt, will come into her own at the Iowa State Fair this summer.

Prizes aggregating hundreds of dollars were announced here today by the State Fair board in a series of old-fashioned competitions covering a score or more of domestic arts that have almost become lost in this age of machinery-made things. Cash prizes of $849 are offered in the cooking branches, for home-made cooking in such classes as the following:

Bread, cake, cookies homemade candy, conserves, sun preserved fruit, preserves, jellies, butters, jams, sour pickles, catsup and vinegar, canned fruits, canned vegetables and canned meats. There are more than thirty-nine different kinds of cakes alone in which prizes are offered.

Other divisions include liberal premiums for such things as: Household fabrics and quilts, made-over dresses and coats, hand knitted work, crochet, hand needlework, work of old ladies, linen and cotton embroidery, french embroidery, ram bler rose emboidery, silk, roman, coss stitch, or french knot embroidery, applique work, mlle fleur work, hand crochet, tatting, bead work.

Every woman in Iowa who takes pride in her domestic achievements is urged to enter samples of her art at the State Fair this summer. Complete premium lists may be obtained by writing Secretary A. R. Corey.

Fussy Prisoner—Any chance for a shower around here?

Guard—Nothing doing. You havn't landed in a fountain pen."

ADVISE EMERGENCY HAY CROP

Soybeans or Sudan Grass May Be Planted any Time During June

Indications are that the hay crop this year will be below normal. Soybeans and Sudan grass are the two best emergency hay crops for Iowa, according to F. G. Churchill of the extension service, Iowa State College.. Soybeans produce a hay high in digestible protein and tend to improve the soil. They can be drilled in rows at the rate of 20 to 30 lbs. per acre and cultivated, or drilled at the rate of 1 or 2 bushel to the acre with a grain drill, the latter method being preferable where they are intended for hay.

Soy beans can be put in practically anytime during the month of June on a well prepared, firm, fine seed bed and a fair yield of hay secured from the same. On ground where soybeans have not been previously grown, they should be inoculated. This is especially essential on ground that is inclined to be low in fertility. The Peking is probably the best variety for hay purposes in Iowa ,but for late sowing the Midwest or Manchu may be used There is a plentful supply of the last two varieties in this state and they can be secured at a moderate price.

Sudan grass can be sown any time during the month of June on ground that has been well prepared, using from 15 to 2 pounds of seed sown broadcast per acre.

Due to the short pasture the dairy men is going to find his summer feeding a trifle expensive, says John M. Shaw, professor of dairy husbandry at Iowa State College. The hay crop is going to be very short and will probably be utilized in any cases as pasture.

The man with silage in his silo is envied by many dairymen this spring. Shaw believes that a silo of proper size and sufficient capacity for not only winter feeding but summer suplemental feding as well, is the solution of the summer feed problem. The three things that Shaw lists as essentials to good dairy farming are: :good cows, feeding or legume hay, and the feeding of silage.

The air mail will make its first official stop for the colection of mail from the Des Moines postoffice the evening of Juy 1, at 9:10 o'clock. The first plane to stop in Des Moines will be west bound from New York with mail for western points. The east bound mail will stop at 3:25 o' clock the next morning. Arrangements are being made to have several government planes in the city July 1 from Omaha and plans are being completed for a celebration during afternoon and evening the day the first stop is made. Over 100 Iowa towns will profit from transportation of mail by this methol when the Des Moines station becomes a station.

Skeleton is Found in the Golf Links Of Dennison Club

Denison, Ia.,—While digging at the Dennison Golf and Country Club Webb Stump and Fred Morgan unearthed part of a human skeleton. The bones were in a good state of preservation and doctors pronounced them to be from a large man. Bones found were the bones of two legs, the arms and part of the Vertebrae. Old timers do not recall any disappearance in the early day and the bones are thought to be those of an Indian.

Goodell Couple Married

Maude Griggs and Alfred Carpenter Sr. were united in marriage at the Prebysterian parsonage in Garner Monday morning at 10 o'clock. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. John Suurballe of Garner. Immediately following the ceremony the bride and groom left for a camp trip, first to Bimidji, North Dakota, then to Torrington, Wyoming, where they will visit Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Sherman. From there they will go to the coast. Goodell friends extend congratulations.— Belmond Herald Press.

COUNTY GETS TAX

COUNTY TREASURER RECEIVES FIRST GAS TAX CHECK

$836.84 Is The Amount of Tax Hancock Co. Receives for April

The County Treasurer is in receipt of a check from the Treasurer of State in the sum of $836.84, the said sum being the first payment of tax collected under the new gasoline tax law and covers the period from April 16 to April 30, 1925.

This sum and future collection will be distributed as follows: one-half to County Road and the balance divfded among the different townships, according to the miles of township roads. Below is the number miles of each township and the percentage each will receive. This distribution to townships will be made every 90 days.

Township	Miles	Percent
Bingham	57	6.65
Crystal	46	5.36
Ellington	57	6.65
Madison	50	5.81
Orthel	46	5.36
Britt	45	5.25
Garfield	45	5.25
Concord	51	5.95
Boone	63	7.34
Erin	61	7.11
Liberty	58	6.76
Ell	50	5.81
Magor	54	6.30
Amsterdam	58	6.76
Twin Lake	55	6.41
Avery	62	7.23

FORMER KLEMME GIRL MARRIED

Garner Leader—Lauretta Lawhorn sprung a surprise on her friends here by becoming a bride Decoration Day. For several months Miss Lawhorn has been operating a beauty shop in Garner. A day or two before Decoration Day she announced that she was about to close her place of business and go to Kansas City where she had a position—all of which was perfectly truthful, she did go ti Kansas City and she has a position—not in a beauty parlor as her friends expected, but in caring for the household duties as the wift of a Mr. Kelley, an accountant in Kansas City. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hod Lawhorn of this place is a very attractive young woman and has many admirers here. Theg room is a stranger to our people.

POLICE AUCTION 20 AUTOMOBILES FOR $58.62.

Los Angele — Automobiles were purchased for from $2 to $4 and motorcycles for 50 cents at a sale held here recently by the Los Angeles police department in disposing of unclaimed machines. The lowest price paid was 25 cents for a battered chassis of a popular make car, while the high mark was reached when an anxious motorist bid $10.50 for an antique motor driven conveyance that was guaranteed to run.

In all ,twenty cars were sold, a majority of which were of ancient model and some with romantic records. They brought in a total of $58.62. The lowest price paid for a complete automobile was $1. Motorcycles were sold at prices ranging from 50 cents to $2.

Buyers were obliged to move the cars from the stockade and police department officals say that most of them left at the end of tow ropes.

Man Blown Into Bits While Dynamiting Stump.

Perry, Ia., Hans Peter Lorenzen, 65, a wealthy farmer living in Peoples township, in Boone county, about ten miles northeast of here, lay dead today, a victim of a horrible fate.

Lorenzen was literally blown to smithereens late Saturday when he tried to dynamite a stump in his front yard. His head, one arm, and one leg were b lown off. The trunk was terribly lacerated.

From the nature of the injuries, it was believed Lorenzen pinched a dynamite cap with his teeth. It went off and set off the dynamite.

POTATO PESTS START DRIVE

Beetle and Leafhopper Begin Work When Warm Weather Comes

With the rapid approach of warm weather, the Colorado potato beetle and the potato leafhopper are very apt to start working on the potatoes. As soon as they start, it is the best time to put on spray materials to protect the potato plants from heir atack.

Lead arsenate, calcium arsenate, paris green can be used for the control of the Colorado potato beetle, the best time to put either of these materials on is as soon as the bunches of yellow eggs are found on the undersurfaces of the leaves. With the material put on at this time the young larvae's first mouthful is poisoned. When using either paris green or calcium arsenate, always use twice as much hydrated lime to prevent burning.

Bordeaux mixture 4-4-50 has given very satisfactory control of the potato leafhopper. Inasmuch as the potato leafhopper feeds on the under surfaces of the leaves it is necessary to adjust the nozzles of the spraying machine so the the material is forced underneath, where they feed Bordeaux mixture is prepared by dissolving four pounds copper sulphate or blue vitrol in 25 gallons of water. Never place copper sulphate in metal vessels as it corrodes. In another vessel dissolve four pounds of lump lime in 25 gallons of water and then pour theses olutions together into the spray tank.

As soon as three or four small een potato leafhoppers are f on ap lant in the potato patch, it is time to spray for their control, This date will probably be from June 10 o 20 this year. Calcium arsenate, paris green or lead arsenate may be added to the Bordeaux mixture to control both the Colorado potato beetle and potato leafhopper at the same spraying.

CALIFORNIA HAS NOTHING ON IOWA

I wonder if you observed that ad in a Des Moines paper recently which contained the following argument in favor of the land of sunshine and citrons.

"A California summer averages 69 degrees. Sleep under blankets. Wake up wonderfully refreshed for glorious days. No rain to spoil your sports. The weather bureau has recorded summer temperatures for 48 years in a central city in southern California and averaged them as follows: 48 June, 66 degrees, 48 Julys 70; 48 Augusts 71; 48 Septembers 69—grand average 69 degrees for 192 summer months!' '

It sounded good until an Iowa weaher man became interested in a comparison with Iowa weather. Over a period of 34 years there were the following averages to line up against those for the Golden Gate State: 34 Junes 69.6; 34 Julys 74; 34 Augusts 71.8; 34 Septembers 64. —Grand average 69.9 degrees for 136 summer months. Not so bad eh. Where is the ordinary citizen who can tell a difference on only nine-tenths of a degree in the temperature any month in the year?

Come on home, Fred Keeler! Why "sleep under blankets." In Iowa we lay our high priced blankets away during the summer and sleep under sheets, which are cheaper. On this saving we buy gas and oil.

Iowa lives on its crops rather than on its sports. We enjoy a good soaking rain once in a while. It's temporarily inconvenient, but it helps us feed the world.

At any rate, quit bragging about your summer weather. —Mason City Globe Gazette.

RUTH SUCKOW IS INITIATED

Ruth Suckow , Grinell Alumna, novelist and short story writer, and Mrs. Hallie Flagan, director of dramatic production at Grinell, were initiated iito membership by the Alpha Delta chapter of the Theta Sigma Phi, national honary journalistic fraternity, for women, commencement week here.

Miss Suckow is nationally known as the author of "A Part of the Institution", "County People" ""The Renter" and other leading novels.

NAMELESS RIVER

By VINGIE E. ROE

Copyright by the McCall Company WNU Service.

THE AMAZON

"Nameless River" deals with the period when the cattle ranges were beginning to break up under the determined push of small farmers. Its heroine is a daughter of one of those lowly settlers and the chief incidents are derived from the efforts of a cattle outfit to get possession of the farmer's land. Many men figure in the story, but the principal elements of villainy are inspired by a singularly handsome but diabolical person known as Cattle Kate, the head of the breeding and grazing enterprise.

Allison, the settler, meets his death and his son is crippled for life under very suspicious circumstances. It devolves upon Nance Allison, the daughter, to carry on. Nance, under the influence of farm work, handling horses and life in the open air, develops into an amazon, unusually handsome. Finally love comes to Nance and when the man she has chosen is menaced, primal instincts overcome for a time her religious scruples and she becomes a tigress. Only the intervention of circumstances prevent her tearing Kate to pieces.

Vingie E. Roe (Mrs. Raymond C. Lawton), the author, was born in Oxford, Kan., lived and married in South Dakota and now resides in Napa, Cal. Such stories as "Primal Lure," "Heart of Night Wind" and "Nameless River" have placed her in the front rank of American tellers of tales.

CHAPTER I

—1—

"Fight for a Woman? H—ll If 'Twas th' Horse Now—"

It was springtime in the Deep Heart country. On the broad slopes, the towering slants of the hills themselves, the conifers sang their everlasting monotone, turned by the little winds from the south.

Great canyons cut the ridges, dark and mysterious, murmuring with snow water, painted fantastically in the reds and browns and yellows of their weathered stone.

But in the sweet valleys that ran like playful fingers all ways among the hills, where lay tender grass of a laughing brightness, flowers nodded thick in the drowsy meadows. It was a lonesome land, set far from civilization, but beautiful withal, serene, silent, wild with crag and peak and precipice.

Deer browsed in its sheltered places, a few timber wolves preyed on them, while here and there a panther screamed to the stars at night.

For many years a pair of golden eagles had reared their young on the beetling escarpment that crowned Mystery ridge.

It was a rich land, too, for many cattle ran on its timbered slants and grew sleek and fat for fall along the reaches of the river.

On a day when all the world seemed basking in the tempered sun, a horse and rider came down along the slopes heading toward the west. On the broad background of this primeval setting they made a striking picture, one to arrest the eye, for both were remarkable. Of the two, perhaps the horse would first have caught the attention of an observer, owing to its great stature and its shining mouse-blue coat.

Far off, also, the prideful grace of its carriage, the lightness, the arrogance of its step, would have been noticeable. But as they drew near, one looked instinctively to see what manner of rider bestrode so splendid a fellow, and was not disappointed—for the rider was a woman.

She was a gallant woman, if one could so describe her, not large but built with such nicety of line, of proportion, as best to show off the spirit in her—and that was a thing which might not be described. Under her sombrero, worn low on her brow and level, one got the seeming of darkness shot with fire—the black eyes and bit of dusky hair above cheeks brightly flushed. She rode at ease, her gauntleted hands clasped on her pommel, her reins swinging. A blue flannel shirt, gay with pearl buttons, lay open at the throat and bloused a trifle above a broad leather belt, well worn and studded with nickel spots. A divided skirt of dark leather, precisely fitted and deeply fringed at the bottom, concealed the tops of high laced boots. All her clothing betokened especial make, and very thorough wear.

As the blue horse sidled expertly down the slope a loose stone turned under his shod hoof, causing him to stumble ever so slightly, though he caught himself instantly.

As instantly the woman's spurred heel struck his flank, her swift tightening of the rein anticipated his resultant start.

"Pick up your feet, you!" she said sharply, frowning.

The stallion did pick up his feet, for he was intelligent, but he shook his proud head, laid his ears back on his neck, and the sweat started on his sensitive skin at the needless rake of the spur. The great dark eyes in his gray-blue face shone for a time like fox-fire in the dark, twin sparks beneath the light of his tossing silver forelock.

He chose his footing more carefully, though he was an artist in hill climbing at all times, for the woman on his back was a hard taskmaster. Caught as a colt in the high meadows of the Upper Country beyond Deep Heart hills, the horse had served her faithfully for four of his seven years of life, and hated her sullenly. There was mixed blood in his veins—wild, from the slim white mother who had never felt a rope; patrician, gentle, tractable, from the thoroughbred black father lost from a horse-trader's string eleven years back and sought for many bootless moons because of his great value.

Swayed by the instincts of these two strains the superb animal obeyed this woman who was unquestionably his master, though rebellion surged in him at every chastisement.

For an hour the two came down along the breast of a ridge, dropping slowly in a long diagonal, and presently came out on a bold shoulder that jutted from the parent spine. Here, with the thinning trees falling abruptly away, a magnificent view spread out below. For a long time there had been in the rider's ears a low and heavy murmur, a ceaseless sound of power. Now its source was visible—the river that wound between wide meadows spread like flaring flounces on either side—broad, level, green stretches that looked rich as a king's lands, and were.

The woman reined up her horse and sitting sidewise looked down with moody eyes. A frown drew close the dark brows under the hat brim, the full sensuous lips hardened into a tight line.

Hatred flamed in her passionate face, for the smiling valley was tenanted. At the far edge of the green floor across the river there nestled against the hills that rose abruptly the small log buildings of a homestead. There was a cabin, squarely built and neat, a stable, a shed or two, and stout corrals, built after the fashion of a stockade, their close-set upright saplings gleaming faintly in the light.

And on the green carpet a long brown line lay stretched from end to end, straight as a plumb-line, attesting to the accuracy of the eye that drew it. A team of big bay horses even now plodded along that line, leaving behind them a tiny addition in the form of a flange of new turned earth, the restless effect of the conquering plow.

The Woman Reined Up Her Horse, and Sitting Sidewise, Looked Down With Moody Eyes.

The plow, hated of all those who follow the fringe of the wilderness, savage, trapper and cattleman.

In the furrow behind walked the owner of the accurate eyes—deep, wide, blue eyes they were, set beautifully apart under calm brows of a golden bronze which matched exactly the thick lashes and the heavy rope of hair braided and pinned around the head hidden in an old-fashioned sunbonnet—for this only other figure in the primeval picture was a woman also. She was young by the grace of the upright carriage, strong by the way she handled her plow, confident in every movement, every action. She stood almost as tall as the average man, and she walked with the free swing of one.

For a long time the rider on the high shoulder of the ridge sat regarding these tiny plodders in the valley.

Then she deliberately took from its straps the rifle that hung on her saddle, lifted it to her shoulder, took slow aim and fired. It was a high-power gun, capable of carrying much farther than this point of aim, and its bullet spat whiningly into the earth so near the moving team that one of the horses jumped and squatted.

The woman lowered the gun and watched.

But the upright figure plodding in its furrow never so much as turned its head. It merely pulled the lines buckled about its waist, thereby steadying the frightened horse back to its business, and crept ahead at its plowing.

"D—n!" said the woman.

She laid the rifle across her pommel, reined the blue stallion sharply away and went on her interrupted journey.

Two hours later she rode into the shady, crooked lane that passed for a street in Cordova. Composed of a general store, a blacksmith shop, a few ancient cabins, the isolated trading point called itself a town. McKane of the store did four-ply business and fancied himself exceedingly.

As the woman came cantering down the street between the cabins he ceased whittling on the splinter in his hands and watched her. She was well worth watching, too, for she was straight as an Indian and she rode like one. Of the half dozen men lounging on the store porch in the drowsy afternoon, not one but gazed at her with covetous eyes.

A light grew up in McKane's keen face, a satisfaction, an appreciation, a recognition of excellence.

"By George!" he said softly. "Boys, I don't know which is the most worth while—the half-breed Bluefire or Kate Cathrew on his back!"

"I'll take the woman," said a lean youth in worn leather, his starved young face attesting to the womanless wilderness of the Upper Country from whence he hailed. "Yea, Lord—I'll take the woman."

"You mean you would," said McKane, smiling, "if you could. Many a man has tried it, but Kate rides alone. Yes, and rules her kingdom with an iron hand—that's wrong—it's steel, and Toledo steel at that, tempered fine. And merciless."

"You seem to know th' lady pretty well."

"All Nameless River knows her," said the trader, lowering his voice as she drew near, "and the Deep Hearts, too, as far as cattle run."

"Take an' keep yer woman—if ye can—" put in a bearded man of fifty who sat against a post, his booted feet stretched along the floor, "but give me th' horse. I've loved him ever sence I first laid eyes on him two years back.

"He's more than a horse—he's got brains behind them speakin' eyes, soft an' black when he's peaceful, but burnin' like coals when he's mad. I've seen him mad, an' itched to own him then. Kate's a brute to him—don't understand him, an' don't want to."

McKane dropped his chair forward and rose quickly to his feet as the woman cantered up.

"Hello, Kate," he said, as she sat a moment regarding the group, "how's the world at Sky Line ranch?"

"All there," she said shortly, "or was when I left."

She swung out of her saddle and flung her reins to the ground. She pulled off her gloves and pushed the hat back from her forehead, which showed sweated white above the tan of her face. She passed into the store with McKane, the spurs rattling on her booted heels.

Left alone the big, blue stallion turned his alert head and looked at the men on the porch, drawing a deep breath and rolling the wheel in his half-breed bit.

It was as the bearded man had said—intelligence in a marked degree looked out of the starry eyes in the blue face. That individual reached out a covetous hand, but the horse did not move. He knew his business too well as Kate Cathrew's servant.

Inside the store the woman took two letters which McKane gave her from the dingy pigeon-holes that did duty as post office, read them, frowned and put them in the pocket of her leather riding skirt. Then she selected a few things from the shelves which she stowed in a flour sack and was ready to go. McKane followed her close, his eyes searching her face with ill-concealed desire. She did not notice the men on the porch, who regarded her frankly, but passed out among them as though they were not there. It was this cool insolence which cleared the path before her wherever she appeared, as if all observers, feeling the inferiority her disdain implied, acknowledged it.

But as she descended the five or six steps that led down from the porch, she came face to face with a newcomer, one who neither gaped nor shifted back, but looked her square in the face.

This was a man of some thirty-four or five, big, brawny, lean and fit, of a rather homely countenance lighted by gray eyes that read his kind like print.

He looked like a cattleman save for one thing—the silver star pinned to the left breast of his flannel shirt, for this was Sheriff Price Selwood.

"Good day, Kate," he said.

A red flush rose in the woman's face, but it was not set there by any liking for the speaker who accosted her, that was plain.

"It's never a good day when I meet you," she said evenly, "it's a bad one."

The sheriff smiled.

"That's good," he answered, "but some day I'll make it better."

McKane, his own face flushed with sudden anger, stepped close.

"Price," he said thinly, "you and I've been pretty fair friends, but when you talk to Miss Cathrew like that, you've got me to settle with. That sounded like a threat."

"Did it?" said Selwood. "It was."

The trader was as good as his word.

With the last syllable his fist shot out and took the speaker in the jaw, a clean stroke, timed a half-second sooner than the other had expected, though he had expected it. It snapped his head back on his shoulders, but did not make him stagger, and the next moment he had met McKane half-way with all the force of his two hundred pounds of bone and muscle.

In the midst of the whirlwind fight that followed, Kate Cathrew, having pulled on her gloves and coolly tied her sack in place on her saddle, mounted Bluefire and rode away without a backward look.

Twenty minutes later the sheriff picked up the trader and rolled him up on the porch. He stood panting himself, one hand on the worn planking, the other wiping the blood and dirt from his face.

"Get some water, boys," he said quietly, "and when he comes around tell him I'll be back tomorrow for my coffee and tobacco—five pounds of each—and anything more he wants to give me."

He picked up his wide hat, brushed it with his torn sleeve, set it back on his head precisely, walked to his own horse, which was tied some distance away, mounted and rode south toward the more open country where his own ranch lay.

"I'm d—d!" said the bearded man softly, "it didn't take her long to stir up somethin' on a peaceful day! If it'd been over Bluefire, now—there's somethin' to fight for—but a woman; h—l!"

"But—Glory—Glory!" whispered the lean boy who had watched Kate hungrily, "ain't she worth it! Oh, just ain't she? Wisht I was McKane this minute!"

"Druther be th' sheriff," said the other enigmatically.

CHAPTER II

The Homestead on Nameless.

When the sun dropped over the western ridge, the girl in the deep sunbonnet unhitched her horses from the plow. She looped her lines on the harness, rubbed each sweated bay head a moment, carefully cleaned her share with a small wooden paddle which she took from a pocket in her calico skirt, and tipped the implement over share-face down.

Then she untied the slatted bonnet and took it off, carrying it in her hand as she swung away with her team at her heels, and the change was marvelous. Where had been a somewhat masculine figure, plodding at man's work a few moments before, was now a young goddess striding the virgin earth.

The rose glow of coming twilight in the mountains bathed the stern slants with magic, fell on her bronze head like ethereal dust of gems. All in a moment she had become beautiful. The golden shade of her smooth skin was but a tint above that of her hair and brows and lashes, a blend to delight an artist, so rare was it—though her mother said they were "all off the same piece." There was red in her makeup, too, faint, thinned, beneath the light tan of her cheeks, flaming forth brightly in the even line of her full lips.

Out of this flare of noonday color her blue eyes shone like calm waters under summer skies. Some of the men of the country had seen John Allison's daughter, but not one of them would have told you she was handsome—for not one of them had seen her without the disfiguring shelter of the bonnet. She went with the weary horses to the edge of the river, flat here in the broad meadows, and stood between them as they drank.

She raised her head and looked across the swift water-stream to the high shoulder of the distant ridge, but there was no fear in the calm depths of her eyes. She stood so, quiet, tired, at ease, until the horses had drunk their fill and with windy breaths of satisfaction were ready to go on across the flat to the stable and corral.

Well, you've had a look at Bluefire and Cattle Kate. Do you prefer the wonderful horse to the dominating woman?

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Ancient English Custom

The term "Trial of the Pyx," is applied in Great Britain to the official inquiry annually made to determine the weight and fineness of the standard coins issued from the mint during the preceding year. It is so called from the "pyx," that is, the box or chest in which are preserved the specimen gold and silver coins of the realm. The first trial is said to have been ordered by Henry II (1154-1189). The earlier tests occurred at irregular intervals, but since the passage of the coinage act in 1870, the examination has been annually made at Goldsmiths' hall, by a jury of goldsmiths presided over by the king's remembrancer.—Kansas City Star.

There is a college of pharmacy in every state in the Union.

The American Legion

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

JAMES F. BARTON ASSUMES NEW JOB

James F. Barton, formerly adjutant of the Iowa department of the American Legion, has assumed his duties as assistant national adjutant. Barton took over a large part of the routine duties of the adjutant's office.

In this way, National Adjt. Russell Creviston is left free to devote more of his time to the $5,000,000 endowment fund which the Legion is raising for the disabled and the orphans of the World war. He had been handling the duties of the national adjutancy and of the executive secretaryship of the endowment fund.

With the extension of the campaign for the endowment to every state in the Union, the pressure of duties of the executive secretaryship became greater and he found it impossible to continue to perform the duties of the two positions. Barton's appointment relieved him of part of the load and gave him more time for field work.

Barton has long been active in Legion work. Members of the Iowa department give him much of the credit for the remarkable record which that department has made. He served as adjutant of the department from the fall of 1920 until his transfer to national headquarters.

James F. Barton.

The new assistant national adjutant's first activity in the Legion was as commander of the post at Fort Dodge, Iowa, his home town. He was elected to that position before the first national convention of the Legion in 1919 and served until his appointment as department adjutant.

Dr. R. J. Laird of Algona, Iowa, took the department adjutancy following Barton's resignation. Laird resigned as national executive committeeman. That position was filled by Maurice Cahill of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, formerly alternate committeeman.

Would Make It Harder to Amend Constitution

A resolution making amendments to the Constitution of the United States more difficult was introduced in Franklin post of the American Legion, Columbus, Ohio, by L. D. Bower, journal clerk of the Ohio senate.

The resolution proposes an amendment to Article V of the Constitution making it necessary to secure a two-thirds majority of the actual membership in congress to initiate an amendment. While the ratification of an amendment by the state legislatures of three-fourths of the states is still retained, the resolution proposes that such ratification must represent three-fourths of the congressional representation of all the states. The resolution also provides that ratification must be accomplished within five years from the date of submission to the states.

Bower claims that under the provisions of Article V of the Constitution, not only may an amendment to the Constitution be proposed for ratification by even less than a minority of congress, but that the Constitution now may be ratified by a minority representation of the voting population.

Vice President Dawes Now Member of 40 and 8

Vice President Charles G. Dawes has taken a vow in addition to his vice presidential oath. He was recently sworn into the "40 and 8," official playground organization of the American Legion.

The "40 and 8 box-car society" of the Legion adopted its title from the information printed on French box cars warning itinerant members of the A. E. F. that the cars were for the accommodation of "40 Hommes ou 8 Chevaux" (forty men or eight horses).

Voyageur Dawes (all members of the 40 and 8 are termed "Voyageurs") was sworn into the box-car organization in his office in Chicago by George Dobson, chef de chemin de fer national head of the society.

Preachers Growing Scarcer

In the United States there are 30,000 churches in 10,000 villages that are without regular preachers, according to the federated church authorities. In many communities a preacher is obtainable for only one Sunday in the month and in some detached localities not that often.

The Cuticura Toilet Trio. Having cleared your skin keep it clear by making Cuticura your everyday toilet preparations. The Soap to cleanse and purify, the Ointment to soothe and heal, the Talcum to powder and perfume. No toilet table is complete without them.—Advertisement.

Has the Jazz Spirit

"Does he play by ear?"

"Yes, and by mouth, lungs, hands and feet."

Know What Real Comfort Is—Wear "U. S." SPRING-STEP Rubber Heels

Made of Sprayed Rubber—the purest, toughest and most uniform rubber known

And for the best shoe sole you ever had—

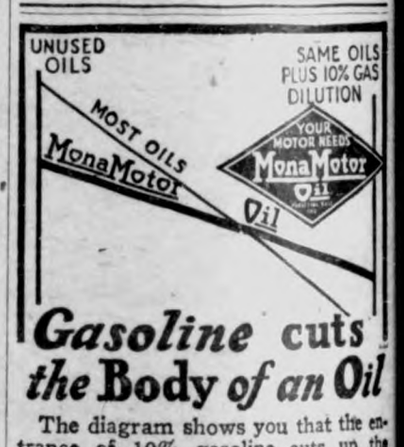
USKIDE

—the wonder sole for wear

United States Rubber Company

Source of Straw Hats

Straw, from which most straw hats are made, is grown from special varieties of wheat in China, Japan and Italy.



Gasoline cuts the Body of an Oil

The diagram shows you that the entrance of 10% gasoline cuts up the body of any oil. But it also proves that MonaMotor Oil is much less affected than most oils. Note how quickly most oils lose their lubricating properties and note how MonaMotor Oil remains almost the same.

Every test shows MonaMotor supreme.

Monarch Manufacturing Co.
Council Bluffs, Iowa Toledo, Ohio

MonaMotor Oils & Greases

Of Course Not

"My, you walk fast, Miss Darling."

"No, I didn't know you were following, Mr. Bore."

A Splendid First Aid Remedy for Colds, Cuts, Burns, Wounds, Etc.

CHESEBROUGH MFG. CO., CONS'D.
17 State St. New York

Vaseline
REG U.S. PAT. OFF.
PETROLEUM JELLY

SUFFERED TWO YEARS

Finally Relieved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Says Mrs. Anderson

Rangeley, Maine. — "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me greatly for bearing-down pains in the sides and back, headaches and tired feelings. I suffered for two years and it seemed as though I could not get my work done from one day to the next. After reading letters from others who had taken the Vegetable Compound I decided to try it and now I can do all kinds of work, sewing, washing, ironing and sweeping. I live on a farm and have five in the family so am busy most of the time. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends and hope my letter will help some one to take your medicine."—Mrs. WALTER E. ANDERSON, Box 270, Rangeley, Maine.

Over 200,000 women have so far replied to our question, "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

98 out of every 100 of the replies say, "yes," and because the Vegetable Compound has been helping other women it should help you. For sale by druggists everywhere.

No Employee of Soviet Trusted

Soviet Russia's spy system does not stop at the Russian frontier. It extends to all countries, not only to spread Communistic propaganda, but to watch Soviet representatives in the outside world. Members of the intelligentsia who have entered the service of the Reds in order to keep alive are watched more carefully than are the known Communists.

Usually two spies are sent to dog the footsteps of a suspected "white." Even the most important representatives are watched sometimes. Through the indiscretion of an agent it has become known that Rakovsky was watched during a stay in Baden. He went there with the avowed intention of taking the cure. One of his watchers took a room in the same hotel. He was the daily chess partner of Rakovsky's secretary and telephoned twice a day to the Soviet embassy in Vienna.

Important Point

"The water is fine," said he. "Let's go in." Nothing loath, she arose, and they drew near the water. "By the way," said he, pausing, "how far can you swim?" The fair maiden looked shyly downward and blushed faintly. "How far," she inquired softly, "do you like to have girls swim before you rescue them?"

CORNS

Lift Off—No Pain!

Doesn't hurt one bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers.

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the foot calluses, without soreness or irritation.

It's invaluable for Rashes Burns
Chafing Stings
Sunburn Cuts
That's why you need

Resinol

One Secret of Beauty Is Foot Comfort

Frequently you hear people say, "My feet perspire winter and summer when I put on rubbers or heavier footwear—then when I remove my shoes my feet chill quickly and often my hose seem wet through." In every community thousands now use Allen's Foot-Ease in the foot-bath daily and then dust the feet and shake into the shoes this antiseptic, healing powder. Full Directions on box. Trial Free. Address, Allen's Foot-Ease, Le Roy, N. Y.

Fernak, the Wonderful Iron Mineral Water Discovered in Mississippi. Good for Kidney, Liver, Stomach troubles and as a Blood Builder and Purifier after acute and chronic diseases. Curative power marvelous. No set medicine. Write for information. Agts. wtd. Fernak Mineral Water Co., Sioux City, Iowa.

Community Building

Pays to Take Time on Plan for Garden

The laying out of the vegetable garden on paper is desirable for the purpose of economy of time and space, in the first place, and in order to insure the proper placing of the vegetables in regard to sun and shade and convenience in cultivating.

The taller-growing vegetables, such as corn and pole beans, are usually placed toward the western portion of the garden, because they will cast shade then only during the hottest portion of the day when a little shade may be helpful. The earliest vegetables usually are placed nearest to the back door for convenience in gathering in spring when the earth is likely to be muddy and where there will be no necessity for walking over the surface of the newly spaded and tilled soil.

The most practical means of laying out a vegetable garden is to draw a plan on a scale of half an inch to a foot on tough wrapping paper which is not easily torn and which will not break with folding. On this scale a 50-foot garden patch would occupy a 25-inch square. When vegetables are charted in place, after careful study and thought, there will be room on the paper to make notes as to experiments and results in the garden and as to various insect pests. The chart will become a record of the time necessary to mature the earliest crops from sowing and will furnish an excellent guide in seasons to come. By reference to the chart and notes, the same mistakes need not be made again.

If he has two rows of the same vegetable and uses a different succession crop in each row, the gardener may note which was the most successful combination.

In small gardens where intensive fertilizing and cultivation are simple, the rows need not be as far apart as in larger gardens. Eighteen inches is ample for most of the vegetables.

School Playgrounds Educational Necessity

School playgrounds, educational leaders realize, are as essential as school buildings. "We talk no more in terms of square feet per child, but in acres per school," states Dr. James E. Rogers, director, Community Recreation Training School, Playground and Recreation Association of America, in School Life, a publication of the Interior department, bureau of education.

Joliet, Ill., a town of 50,000, has one school with 29 acres, and the others average more than five acres each. Elyria, Ohio, with 25,000 people, has bought an athletic field of 18 acres for its high school. Tacoma, San Diego, Peoria, and many others have great stadiums. In Gary, Ind., every high school has a playground a block square, a gymnasium, and an auditorium. These mean clearer brains, more active bodies, and make for better study and recitations. On playgrounds and athletic fields are learned some of the greatest lessons of life. For this reason, Doctor Rogers urges, schools should maintain their physical education for 12 months rather than for 9.

For Street Planting

With attention and care, trees of small size will thrive in small patches of soil where larger trees, with their spreading root systems, might languish, says the American Tree association of Washington, in urging you to join the tree-planting army. The effect of these formally pruned trees is dignified and decorative, and gives a fine touch of green to a street lined with high-class shops or handsome houses in solid rows. For a 2-cent stamp the association will send you tree-planting suggestions.

Mothers' Aid System

All the cities and 17 of the towns of Rhode Island have adopted the system of mothers' aid since the state mothers' aid law came into effect July, 1923. Two hundred and twenty-three families are being cared for at present under the law. Improvement has taken place in the health of the families aided and in the school records of the children, it is reported by the Rhode Island public welfare commission.

Community Acquaintance

We should all take a little more time in visiting around our local industries. Many folks do not know just what we have here in the Colbert county district. Let's try to get acquainted with our neighbors' plants. —Tuscumbia Times.

Have Permanent Abode

Own your own home even if you have to go in debt to do it.—Huntsville Times.

Human Intelligence

It is now asserted that human intelligence reaches its maximum at sixteen years. After that there is nothing left to do but to learn how to use it.—Cleveland Plain Dealer. And at sixty, one almost knows, we suspect.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

An Inducement Even

Real Estate Agent (showing house to prospect)—Too far from the station? My dear sir, with your waist measure!—American Legion Weekly.

Of Two Minds on Silhouette; Chic in Topcoats and Suits

LADY FASHION is of two minds, in the matter of the silhouette and the two pretty summer dresses pictured here provide her with two very good excuses for her vacillation and indecision. One of them, at the left, is an exponent of newest ideas, with flaring skirt, and bodice following vaguely the contour of the body. Its lines are graceful and flowing—and very ingeniously contrived. It is made of plain crepe-back satin with godets let in at each side of the skirt. By means of satin-covered buttons and cord, the body of the dress is drawn in at the sides, indicating a low waistline; it is something of a compromise between the new, molded-bodice-and-full-skirt models and the long-popular, straight-line dresses. Fashion has her eyes turned in the direction of these new arrivals much of the time and they are here in beautiful colors and many materials.

Two Pretty Models.

On the other hand there are just as many straight-line dresses, and so long as figured silks continue to fascinate, they are likely to divide honors with the newcomers. Fanciful patterns in fabrics look best when simply made up. In the dress at the right a long tunic of printed silk is bordered with plain crepe and worn over a skirt with the same finish. There are many color combinations in these printed silks and of course, black and white in cool-looking, distinctive patterns. White crepe de chine is used for the collar and tie.

Silk and cotton mixtures, in crepey materials are so like the printed silks that it is difficult to tell them apart. These fabrics are washable and much less expensive than silk.

All these printed fabrics make the way of the home dressmaker a path of flowers—literally and figuratively. They are adapted to the simplest designs and discourage fussiness because the interest of costumes made of them the interest of costumes made of them lies in their colors and printed patterns.

The chic topcoat and the spirited suit shown here prove once again that, whatever the trend of the mode may be, the French are to be depended on to make the most of it. Paris leads in her new and untried style ideas, at the beginning of each season, like a company of debutantes ready to be presented at Fashion's court. Those that make a good impression are soon made much of—those that don't quietly disappear. In this light topcoat pictured in the sketch several approved style features have been cleverly developed—"Paris" is written in the ingenuity with which the designer has introduced the flare in the skirt portion, where wide, inverted plaits are set in at each side under simulated pocket flaps. The turned-back half-cuffs reveal another touch of genius for designing and the single button on each sleeve is a consistent finishing touch as the coat fastens with only one button. Smooth faced cloths, as flannel or broadcloth, are used for these summer coats and the demand is for light colors in them—copenhagen and china blue, lanvin and other light greens, tan, cocoa and red are popular.

The suit shown in the sketch is even more unmistakably French than its companion. It is a crisp-looking affair, with a plain, black skirt and checked coat in black and red, that hangs open at the front. This front opening discloses that perennial favorite in the French tailleur—the white pique vest—not in a brief glimpse, but in an impressive expanse. The vest has a surplice opening and is finished with two rows of handsome pearl buttons, put on in slanting lines. White pique cuffs emphasize the plainness of the sleeves. There are several color combinations that might be used in this suit quite as effectively as black and red—none of them outclass black and white.

Embodying the Paris Idea.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(© 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Insure Your Complexion!

USE

Marcelle

Face Creams and Cold Cream Powder

Their fragrance is charming and they impart that delightful feeling of well-being so much appreciated by every dainty woman. Best dealers everywhere sell it.

Write for liberal FREE SAMPLE today

C. W. Beggs Sons & Co., 1744 N. Richmond St., Chicago, Ill.

Signing Off

When little Bennie, who is fond of listening to the children's hour on the wireless, knelt down to say his prayers the other night, he finished in an unusual way.

At the close of the customary string of petitions, he said: "This concludes our program for tonight. Good night and Amen."—Good Hardware.

Simple Requirements

At a certain town the members of the parish council attended church in a body to commemorate the unveiling of the local war memorial.

On inquiring of the chairman as to dress, deportment and so on, that waggish man replied in writing:

"All you want is a clean shave and a contrite heart."—Tit-Bits.

For sweet dough set your sponge with

Yeast Foam

The wife who is a good bread maker is a real helpmate for the bread winner.

Send for free booklet "The Art of Baking Bread"

"Good bread is the pride of the thrifty bride"

Northwestern Yeast Co.
1730 North Ashland Ave.
Chicago, Ill.

Electric Aerials

A London clergyman has invented a wireless apparatus with specially prepared aerials which lights an electric globe at a distance of five feet.

Woman and Her Clothes

When men stare at her, she knows everything is fixed right; when women stare at her, she wonders what is wrong.

Children Cry for

Fletcher's CASTORIA

MOTHER:— Fletcher's Castoria is especially prepared to relieve Infants in arms and Children all ages of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and, by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving natural sleep.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher
Absolutely Harmless - No Opiates. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

In Part

"They are getting married soon."
"Does he know her age?"
"Some of it!"

Not Touch

George—What system do you use on the typewriter, Jim?
Jim—The stop, look and find it.

Let Tanlac restore your health

IF your body is all fagged-out and run-down, if you are losing weight steadily, lack appetite, have no strength or energy—why not let Tanlac help you back to health and strength?

So many millions have been benefited by the Tanlac treatment, so many thousands have written to testify to that effect that it's sheer folly not to make the test.

Tanlac, you know, is a great natural tonic and builder, a compound, after the famous Tanlac formula, of roots, barks and herbs. It purges the blood stream, revitalizes the digestive organs and enables the sickly body to regain its vanished weight.

You don't need to wait long to get results. Tanlac goes right to the seat of trouble. In a day or so you note a vast difference in your condition. You have more appetite, sleep better at night and the color begins to creep back into your washed-out cheeks.

Don't put off taking Tanlac another precious day. Step into the nearest drug store and get a bottle of this world-famed tonic. That's the first important step back to health and vigor.

Tanlac Restored Her Health

"Typhoid fever reduced me to 95 lbs. and left me weak as a rag. Failing to get relief from other sources I tried Tanlac and after 6 bottles had gained 20 lbs. Now I enjoy a fine appetite and feel like a new woman. As a nurse I give Tanlac to all my patients."
Mrs. J. B. Terry,
1101 Park St., Ft. Worth, Tex.

TAKE TANLAC VEGETABLE PILLS FOR CONSTIPATION

TANLAC

FOR YOUR HEALTH

COW-TESTING ASSOCIATIONS LIGHT UP THE MILKY WAY

Seven hundred and thirty-two stars now adorn a map of the United States in the office of the Bfureau of Dairying of the United States Department of Agriculture. These stars represent the number of cow-testing associations now throwing light on the milk and butterfat production of 307,073 cows. Thousands of dairymen have watched with interest the growth of the testing idea from the time the first star was placed on he map in 1906 to the present, with 732 stars marking the progressive dairy communities.

This map, says the bureau, may be likened to a chart of the starry heavens in the early evening. As the stars begin to appear one by one, then more rapidly, and finally in clusters in every part of the skies, so have the cow testing associations appeared, first one by one, then more rapidly, and now in groups in various parts of the United States.

To carry this analogy still further; the Newago County (Mich.) association, the first to be organized in the United States, may represent the evening star, which is the first to come out. The big associations of our western coast may represent the largest planets. Other smaller but no less worthy associations may be thought of as stars of various magnitudes. Some of the more brilliant associations may be likened to Mercury, Venus, and Mars, but it requires no wild flight of the imagiation to detect the milky way in that great group of cow testing associations that extends in a long and graceful curve from the Dakotas through the upper stretches of the Mississippi and St. Lawrence Valleys, then across the Alleghenies to the eastern shores of New England.

In these associations 1.2 percent of our dairy cows are now on test. As the years roll around it is haped says the department, that more and more cows may be placed on test, and that finally every dairyman may become a member of a wide-awake cow testing association. Then will the analogyof the stars and the associations be complete.

A PUZZLE IN PUNCTUATION

Punctuate this and it will not be so crazy.

A funny little man told this to me
I fell in a snowdrift in June said he
I went to a ball game out in the sea
I saw a jellyfish float up in a tree
I found some gum in a cup of tea
I stirred my milk with a big brass key
I opened my door on my bended knee
I beg your pardon for this said he
But 'tis true when told as it ought to be.
'Tis a puzzle in punctuation you see.

— Hoosier Motorist

The Fenon, Koosuth county school including the high school and the grades conducted the past year "The Hi-Grade News" in the Fenton Reporter, consuming nearly a page every week. The opportunity for such a procedure was an inspiration to the pupils and the department accepted contributions from pupils of their own signatures that gave evidence of thoughtful preparation and acute knowledge of passing events. The result was that subscribers eagerly perused what the children had contributed. This innovation greatly stimulated the school spirit and gave the pupils splendid drill in the practical use of the English language. R. H. Kramer, the publisher, gave patient and intelligent direction to the pupils.

Attorney-General Ben. J. Gibson has notified every county attorney in Iowa that Sunday dances will not be tolerated. As the summer season approaches resorts are getting ready to open and these places think that if not located in an incorporated town or city their is no law to curb the freedom of the place. Gen. Gibson wants it understood that a state law and not a town ordinance fixes the restriction and attaches the penalty for violations.

The manufacture of ice has solved a perplexing problem in towns and cities not located near a good natural body of pure water. Leon, Decatur county, gets all its supply from an artificial ice factory. This ice is made from pure water taken from a large well, the water being piped to the factory. Guthrie Center, Missouri Valley and numerous other towns are supplied from local ice factries. It can be said in endorsement of this plan that the ice is purer, lasts longer and is absoluto safe in ice tea and other beverages where the cooling process comes from direct contact with the ice.

WHAT WILL THEY DO WITH IT?

Another army of young people has been graduated from the high school and colleges of Iowa and other states this spring. They are hopeful and most of them are ambitious. They are entering the race for recognition in the ranks of the world with a sense of proportion which is bewildering to the man of maturer experience. They excite helpful sympathy, and arouse in the heart of every friend the sincerest of good wishes in their behalf.

In their conception of life's realities they are neophytish. They must unlearn many of the things they have learned, must replace the fanciful and theoretical with the practical, and establish to a wonderous degree a new sense of valuations.

They must learn to endure the heart-breaking drudgery which is the common lot of all who purpose to succeed and achieve. They must learn to know the elusiveness of success, and the disappointments and poignant pangs of repeated failures, of hopes blasted and dreams destroyed. They must learn to know the joy and happiness which follows self discipline and objectives achieved. They must discard their rosy and immature conceptions of life's battles, and build a newer and higher idealism upon the shattered fabrics of the old faith. "Beyond the Alps lie Italy" it is true, but, oh, the heart pangs which the journey creates, and very often the travelor is lost in the winding mazes of life's twisting passes.

Perhaps it is altogether well that the boy or girl knows so little of the stern equations of life. Many an individual has achieved and accomplished and wrested recognition because they did not kuow what they must make. Many are the strong and helpful careers which would never have been had they have known in advance what price they had to pay.

So the older men bent and greyed by the battles of life pause and watch the new army of men and women as it takes its place in the ranks. Their hearts go out to them, and they wish them well. They know that education means much, but they education without courage and persistance and rugged determination is futile. They know that in the future there will come times of deep discouragement when nothing will carry them through except qualities which absolutely fail to comprehend such a factor as defeat. No one can shield them from these periods or convey to them a true conception of these tragedies, for it is impossible to remove from one brain the deep impressions carved by experieuce and imprint them up the brain of another except in outlines so faint they are barely perceptible.

Education is a financial burden fathers and mothers cheerfully bear in order that their sons and daugters may be equiped in the best way possible for facing the struglles of life. The army of young men and young women are leaving the portals of learning with this equipment What will they do with it?

An Unfair Advantage

An editor of a country newspaper appeals to his subscribers in the following unique way.

"If you have frequent headaches, dizziness, and fainting spells, accompanied by chills, cramps, chillblains, eplepsy and jaundice, it is a sign you are not well and are liable to die any minute. Pay your subscription a year in advance and thus make yourself solid for a good obituary notice.' '

Rev. F. Linicome, an evangelist from Indianna told a Des Moines audience the other night that "extravagence is the curse of a nation. There are too many diamonds and not enough alarm clocks; too many silk shirts and not enough blue flannels; too many dress suits and not enough overalls, and too many automobiles and not enough cows. Too many persons with bicycle incomes are living at an automobile rate."

Twenty-two prisoners from the pen itentiary at Fort Madison are employed in improving the Devil's Back bone state park near Winterset. The prison authorities at Fort Madison made arrangements to ship these men over the Burlington road to Des Moines, thence by bus to Winterset. The railroad company refused to accept the men's cots as baggage and as a result th men came through by truck and the railroal company lost 22 fares.

Hats off to this country school teacher. Laurel Hill school, a rural school near Dexter, Dallas county, averaging a dozen pupils, has a record of no tardy marks in the past four years. Two pupils in the school also have not been absent in that time. Miss Ruth Morfard is the teacher of this school and has taught the school for te whole period covered by te record. No doubt this excellent record is due in large to the standard set by her.

DEAD LETTER MAIL

Last year, the Dead Letter Office received $120,00 from the sale of orphaned packages which could neither be forwarded to its addressees nor returned to the senders because of inadequate addresses. The same office turned into the U. S. Treasury $55,523.96 in cash removed from misdirected letters or found loose in the mails.

Postage stamps were taken from letters or found loose in the mails having a value of $12,165.67, almost double the entire revenue of the postal service in 1789.

Three-cent fees collected for the return of senders of letters which could not be delivered totaled $92,007.54.

But this is not half the story. Checks, drafts, and money orders, whose owners could not be located, and amounting to $3,564,542.54 finally found a final resting place in the Dead Letter Office.

For want of correct or complete addresses 21,000,000 letters were deposited in the Dead Letter Office not to speak of the 800,000 parcels which had been improperly addressed or wrapped.

Strange to say, the depositing of letters and packages in the mails with imcomplete, inadequate or incorrect addresses and wrapping comes, in a large majority of cases, from those patrons who are the most liberal contributors to this branch of the United States government.

It has been estimated by postal officials that 200,000,000 pieces of mail are given "directory service" every year, which means that employees must take time from the of mail in the endeavor to provide correct addresses for this huge volumne of misdirected matter. In New York City alone, the cost of this service approximates $500 every day in the year and the total amount through the country is stupendous.

While the revenue from the Dead Letter Office is sufficient to keep that branch of the postal service functioning it is not nearly enough to pay for the annual toll for the support of the "NIXIE".

"NIXIE" is a letter or parcel so improperly addressed that it can be neither delivered to the addressee nor returned to the sender without special teatment. This special treatment costs the Post Office Department or the tax payer in the final analysis, approximately $1,740,000 every year.

In order to lift this tremendous burden from the shoulders of the Post Office Department and on the pocketbook of the American people, the first week in June has been set aside by Postmaster General New as "Better Mailing Week|" An active nation-wide campaign will be conducted during that period for the purpose of impressing on the mailer the necessity from every view point of using care in the addressing of his mail, not only letters but parcels as well.

An attempt was made last night to rob the Ringsted State Bank but not with much success. Entrance was made through a rear window with tools stolen from the railroad tool house. They did not get any loot, as the safe must have either been too strong for them or they were amateurs at the game.—Fenton Reporter.

A FORD SONG

I don't own the house I live in
I don't own an acre of land
I don't own either stock or bonds,
Of children I have quite a band,
Few luxuries I can afford,
But we could not live without one,
So lately I bought a Ford.

Wife needs a coat for the springtime
The children need shoes for their feet,
We need a cab for the baby.
We scarce have enough food to eat.
Wifie can stay home when it's chilly,
The children to wear shoes are bored
The next time I draw my pay check,
I buy a new tire for the Ford.

Wife wants me to make a garden,
It's time now the lawn to mow,
But how can I do these extras,
For I am so busy you know.
I fill the grease cups and gas tank,
And fix that rattling floor board,
I can find something to tinker,
As you always can on a Ford.

But nothing so adds to stature,
And nothing so filles me with pride,
As to load my folks all in it,
And to go for a nice long ride,
My troubles are all forgotten,
For a time I feel like a lord,
There's nothing so adds to the living
As owning and driving a Ford.

By an Owner.

MANY BUTTERFLYS MIGRATE ANNUALLY

London—The painted Lady butterfly is as fond of travel over sea and land is she is of her gorgeous coloring. Her husband, too likes migratory flights and ,according to scientific research, these butterflies in great numbers have been known to make journeys from Turkey to England.

C. B. Williams, chief entomologist of the Egyptian ministry of agriculture, who has been studying the habits of the Painted Lady for several years gave an account of his work in a recent issue of NATURE. The butterfly of this species, he believes , orignates somewhere in the south ir southeast of the long line of desert early in the spring and arrive in the vicinity of the southern shores of the Mediterrean usually about April. From Palestine they appear through Syria and Turkey to the Balkan states, and from Egypt Tripoli and Algeria they cross to northern Europe. All during the flight stragglers and weaklings are left behind.

GUTHRIE GETS GLASS SNAKES

Dr. J. E. Guthrie of the zoology department of the Iowa State College recently received a pair of glass or joint snakes which are exceedingly rare in Iowa. These snakes are not harmful, but havec onsiderable value. They are burrowing animals and subsist on grubs, cut worms and other insects.

The glass snake ,according to Dr. Guthrie, is not a true snake, but is rather a legless lizard. The true snake has no eyelids nor ear openings while the glass snake is equiped with both. The glass snake is also unable to stretch his jaws to swallow large objects as the true snake is able to do.

Repeal Traffic Law After 30 Years

Thirty years ago the Iowa legislature passed a law which was recently repaled and which read:

"The traveling motorist is ordered to telephone ahead to the next town of his coming so that the owners of nervous horses may be warned in advance."

This section was written into the Iowa statutes when the automobile driver was considered a menace to the community.

The graduation of county eighth grade pupils took place at the Methodist church, in Garner, Tuesday of last week. There was a large crowd present and a class of about 140 received diplomas. Prof. Macey Campbell of Cedar Falls, was the speaker and we heard many complimentary remarks on his address. Supt J. R. Baggs distributed the diplomas. —Garner Leader.

Mississippi Lowest of Any May In History

Davenport, Ia., May 30—The Mississippi river, slowly falling, reached the lowest May stage in history this morning when it stood but 1.3 feet above the low mark on the official gauge. The former low May stage was 1.4 feet in 1895. River stages in the Iowa distrct have been unusually low this spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Lau have gone to Council Bluffs where they will witness the graduation of their son from the state school for the deaf. He has made a splendid record in his school work, and was awarded a scholarship which will entitle him to enter a college for the deaf at Washington D. C. He will take advantage of this opportunity to attend college and will prepare himself for a teacher—Garner Leader

The Iowa Weather and Crop Service has received 702 reports from cash renters this year from the several sections of the state from which it finds that the average cash rent paid in the northeast district of Iowa is 6.35 per acre, and the lowest is $5.90 per acre The average for the state is $7.38 per acre. The average value of the farms reparting is $152 per acre.

THAT OUGHT TO COOL IT

Jerry recently took Gwendoline for a ride in his new car and returned rather late. Approaching a steep hill hes topped the ca, and got out and raised the hood.

"Whats the matter now," asked Gwen.

"I must cool off te engine before I try to make that hill,' 'he replied.

"Oh, goodness alive," said Gwen, "It is getting so awfully late. Why don't you strip the gears?' '

THEATRICAL PROBLEMS

"Tell that fat woman she'll have to take that big hat off the seat and hold in in her lap."

The usher came back a few moments later and asked the chief: "What'll I do now? She says she ain't got no lap.'

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

An exchange prints the following experience of a man who took advantage of all devices advertised to save the operating expenses of his Ford. "He installed a carburetor that was guaranteed to save 30 percent. Then he put in special plugs that were guaranteed to save 20 percent. He then put on a radiator cap that cut another 20 percent. Then he added an intake superheater that was guaranteed to save 20 percent. He next added a special real axle that was guaranteed to save 20 percent. And now with a fuel economy of 110 per cent, he has to stop every one hundred miles and bale out the gas tank to keep it from running over."

Important Point

Office Boy—Your wife phoned she wanted to see you about five.

Boss—Yes. Dollars or o'clock?

"I've a fusny story to tell you."
Said a tadpole to a snail.
Just then he turned into a frog,
And that put an end to his tail.

Priscilla Dean
the Favorite Universal Film Star says of the mysterious, distinctive
NEW GARDA ODOR
"Its strange, clinging delicacy always is a source of delight."
Have you tried the NEW Garda Toiletries? If not, try them now. You will be charmed. This complete line of products issued by the great
HOUSE OF WATKINS
(Established 1868.)
WINONA, MINNESOTA.
consists of seven rich creations:
GARDA FACE POWDER, ROUGE, FACE CREAM, PERFUME, TOILET WATER, NAIL POLISH, TALCUM
Learn to know and love Garda, as millions of women are doing. Ask information about Garda Toilet Preparations and 137 other Products from
THE WATKINS RETAILER

Dr. R. W. Specht
—Dentist—
Office Over Whitehead's Store
Office Phone No. 106
Garner Iowa

Floyd Fraser

Do you want 7% Net
—ON—
Money Safely Invested

If so, send the coupon for a circular describing an investment based on property value of 16 TIMES the issue, and 14 TIMES the amount required for the 7% Net.

This investment is offered by an Iowa Company, well established and furnishing essential service for a umber of years in an important section of Iowa.

The Company is under the management of men who have been successful in the business for 40 years, and is a part of the largest Electric Light and Power System in the State. For particulars, send the Coupon to the Securities Department, 215 South Second St., Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Central States Electric Company
(Dows, Smith Reed Organization)
—COUPON—
CENTRAL STATES ELECTRIC COMPANY,
Securities Department, 215 South Second St.,
Cedar Rapids, Iowa.
Gentlemen: Without obligation, send me the circular describing your investment.
Signed .....
Address .....

Your Daily Meats

It is often quite a problem to know just what kind of Meat to have for dinner, Supper or Breakfast. We are always glad to help you and make suggestions on the best offering we have for the day.

Quality Meats

You will always find a good line of the best quality fresh and cured meats at this shop. We have on hand at this time an especially nice line of cold meats of all kinds which you will enjoy for a quick meal on hot days and for picnic lunches. Everything in the line of Pickles, Olives, Cheese, Ketchup, etc. to go with it.

Klemme Meat Market

Going Strong

WHEN IN NEED OF ANYTHING FOR THE AUTO COME IN, WE CARRY A FULL LINE OF

FAN BELTS PISTON RINGS ACCESSORIES
BLOW-OUT BOOTS TIRES & TUBES
STORAGE BATTERIES DRY CELLS HOT SHOTS
RIM LUGS and PARTS ALL KINDS GASKETS
MOTOR OILS GREASE GASOLINE

OUR F-O-R-D SERVICE

We are fully equipper to take care of any work you may wish to have done asfollows:—Ford Magnets Re-charged; Coils Tested; Batteries Charged; Burning-in Stand to burn-in Motors; Crankshaft Truer to turn down egg-shaped crankshafts; Quick-Way Valve Grinding Machine refaces any size value; Also Babitt Machine to re-babbit Ford block. Mr. Chris Gram is in charge of our repair depatment and he supeintends all wok. Mr. Gram has had experience in the Ford Plant and is well posted on all Ford Repair Work. We are exclusive agets for NORTHLAND OMTOR OILS and GREASES. Get our prices first—we save you money.

Greimann Motor Co.

Ford Sales and Service Authorized Ford Dealers

The Cash Store

—Handles the BRIARDALE and G. W. C. Line of GROCERIES. Every article in these brands are GUARANTEED TO BE AS GOOD AS MONEY CAN BUY.

Just try a can of BRIARDALE EXTRA SMALL JUNE PEAS, or a can of their CORN for that Sunlay dinner and be convincel.

Special for Saturday

BUTTERNUT BRAND Natural Leaf Japan TEA

1-2 lb. Pkg. 29c 1 lb. Pkg 57c

"PAY CASH and PAY LESS"

Jno. N. Day's Cash Store

I'm Glad, Mother We Saved When We were Young--

Think of the pleasure in later life to know that you are financially able to care for yourself——that you are dependent upon no one for the comforts to which your long years of labor justly entitle you. There is only one SAFE WAY to reach this goal and that is by SAVING each pay day a certain amount of your income.

Open a savings account at our Bank today—we pay 5 per cent interest on your Savings.

Think it over—then act at once.

State Savings Bank

Klemme Iowa

News of Klemme and Vicinity

Lester Stille and family spent Sunday visiting at Dolliver.

Glenn Busch is working in the Soda Grill at Garner.

Grandma Schlawin visited at the Otto Schlawin home Sunday.

Arnold Tice, of Mason City, visited with Mrs. C. A. Arnold last week.

Miss Emma Sampson left for Colesburg Thursday for a visit with her cousins for a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. James Trumbell, of Mason City, were visiting in Klemme, Saturday.

George Kessler and family, of Belmond, were Klemme visitors Tuesday.

Dr. C. B. Tice and family, of Mason City spent Sunday visiting with Klemme relatives and friends.

Mrs. Hattie Lanahan and daughter, Laura, are visiting with relatives in Illinois.

LOST—from car a package containing clothing. Finder return to Henry Buseman. 1wp

Albert Fuller and family spent Sunday at the home of Reckus Parks at Clear Lake.

Ben Coobs and family drove to Titonka Sunday for a visit with relatives.

An eight pound baby boy was born to Rev. and Mrs. Gauger last Thursday morning.

J. J. Poort and family drove to Spencer Saturday for a visit with relatives. They returned Sunday vening.

Bruce McMurtrie and Bert Smith, of Burrick, Pennsylvania, are here for a visit with their cousin, Sumner Trumbell and wife.

Mrs. R. A. McConn was over from Clear Lake Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. McConn are spending the summer at the Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gruetzmacher, of Britt, spent last Thusrday evening in Klemme. They expect to leave Britt soon.

$1.00—The greatest shoe sale ever held in Klemme. Your choice for $1 any pair of shoes on our odd and end counter. F. Gruetzmacher. tc

M. O. Hocum and family, of Iowa Falls, were visiting Klemme friends Tuesday afternoon. Klemme people are always glad to see the Hocums.

MUSIC LESSONS—during my vacation I will give Piano and Violin lessons at my home. Call or see Miss Mildred Johnson. tfc

Get ready for the 4th now. We have a full line of Fire Works on display in our store. Wilson's Pharmacy, Klemme, Iowa. 1tc

Miss Mildred Johnson came home Friday from Evanston, Illinois, to spend the summer with home folks. She has been taking a music course there in violin and voice.

Miss Thorman accompanied her music pupils on a picnic to Goodell Woods Tuesday. All had a fine time.

Miss Florence Trumbell, of Mason City, visited at the home of her brother, Sumner, last week.

The Ladies Aid will meet at the Parish House this afternoon (Thursday) with Mesdames Pavey and Smith, hostesses.

Miss Marie Gauger came home last Wednesday evening from Sioux City, where she has been attending Morningside College, to spend her vacation with Klemme folks.

J. J. Poort and family and R. A. Jorgenson and family drove to Crystal Lake Friday evening to fish. They came back with three dozen fine bull heads caught in a short time.

Mrs. Mary Waterman is taking a vacation of a month which she is spending at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Chester Cullinan, at Belmond.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Loger, and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Fisher and children, all of Ackley, and Dumont, were visiting at the Lew Newberger home Sunday.

Miss Dorothy Ridder returned to her home at Watertown, South Dakota, after a two week's visit with Klemme relatives and friends, Saturday.

Marvin Weigmann, of Garner, was a business caller in Klemme Tuesday. He is now Lawyer Weigmann, as he was recently admitted to the Iowa Bar.

Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Trumbell expect to leave Friday for a two weeks auto trip visiting relatives in South and North Dakota. Frank Gibbs will carry mail during Sumner's vacation.

Clarence Elder, accompanied by Bernard Pringnitz, Clarence Lemke, Carlyle Gauger and Raymond Barz, hiked to Goodell Woods last Friday. The boys had a fine time.

ATTENTION FARMERS!

You can raise more potatoes by spraying your vines with 'P. B. K." solution. This preparation is stronger than Paris Green, but will not burn the vines. Sold at Wilson's Pharmacy, Klemme, Iowa. 1tc

The Garner band gave their first concert Tuesday evening. About a half dozen Klemme band boys are assisting the Garner band this year. A carnival is on at Garner this week which attracts a number of people.

We observe that there are a number of new cars in and about Klemme. Tom Blank has a new Oakland sedan, Bill Stille a Chevrolet sedan, Peter Trampell an Overland sedan, Ed. Schaefer a Ford sedan, and Henry Lewis a Chevrolet touring.

U. G. Smid left Saturday on his trip to visit relatives and friends in Germany. He will stop on the way to visit relatives in Illinois and then will go on to New York where he sails on June 16th for the old country. He expects to be gone for three months.

Bert Mathews and Erick Josten returned Monday from their two weeks trip to Okmulgee, Oklahoma, where Bert looked after his land. Bert may be an oil king yet, as they are drilling all around his land and have struck a gas well on his place.

Over thirty pupils are attending the summer Bible School course at the Parrish Hiuse, under the instruction of Rev. Gauger. The course is given for two weeks and the pupils attend each morning from nine until noon.

Mesdames J. C. Morrison, C. A. Frisbee, Frank Zeiger, and Miss Elma Sherwood, of Garner, were calling on Mrs. R. A. Jorgenson last week Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Gram and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stille left Saturday morning in their cars for a week's camping and fishing at Lake Mille Lac, Minn. A card from them says the fish are biting galore.

Adolph Lauritsen came home last Thursday evening frim Fayette for a short visit at home. "Abe" left again Saturday as he will attend the summer school there. "Abe" will coach at Renwick this fall and winter term.

W. C. Keraus and family, Frank Kluckhohn and family, C. G. Waterman and family, R. A. Jorgenson and family and Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Keraus of this place and Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Mitchell of Swea City, made up a party to Silver Lake, Minnesota, Sunday for a picnic. All had a fine time.

KLEMME MARKETS

Wheat	1.50
Oats	.40
Corn	.95—.98
Barley	.75
Rye	1.00
Hogs	11.00—11.50
Eggs (Cash)	.26
Eggs (Trade)	.27
HENS	.16
LIGHT HENS	.13
BROILERS	.35
Ducks	.12
Old Roosters	.07
Butter (Creamery)	.45
Butterfat	.44

Idle Hour Theatre

Saturday, June 13th—

"The Slanderers" featuring Johnny Walker, Gladys Hulette and Bill Sullivan in a drama of everyday life in your own home town, about folks you know. Also a Storm Scene, a one reeler by the I. H. C. Co., taken in the cyclone area.

Wednesday, June 17th—

"Name The Man!", a drama carved right out of life itself, brimming over with heart-throbs and thrills and love. An unforgettable picture.

CHILDEN'S DAY PROGRAM SUNDAY

Next Sunday is Childrens Day which will be observed in the usual way with program. We have an exceptionally fine program arranged and it will be worth your while to come.

There will be Orchestra, Chorus, Violin Solo, etc. The little folks are having this as their big day and come and see them in their childish stunts.

Program begins at 10:00 o'clock

An interesting program will also be given at the Liberty church.

P. M. Griesemer, Supt

CAMP FIRE NEWS

The Camp Fire Girls held their meeting Thursday evening June 4th at the home of Ethel Wellemeyer.

Ethel Wellemeyer and Adela Schroeder invited the girls to a hike Thursday, June 12th. This is required for the rank of Fire Maker.

A very delightful lunch was served by the hostess. The next meeting will beh eld at the home of Florence Stokesbary, Thursday evening, June 26th.

Coop. Creamery Makes Good

Starting with an estimated capacity of 900 cows, December8, last, the Garrison Co-operative Creamery now finds it requires 1,500 cows to supply the necessary butter production. The production during December was 17,000 pounds of butter. During January, the first complete month, it jumped to 35,000 pounds and by April was 53,000 pounds Be cause of the tremendous increase the Garrison creamery has been compelled to enlarge its capacity, purchase new receiving tanks and is now working day and night, six days a week.

Begin Brookhart Steck Vote Recount

DES MOINES—The senatorial recount of the Iowa ballots in the Steck-Brookhart contest will begin June 20, according to a speical from Washington to the Des Moines Register.

NOTICE OF PROBATE OF WILL

STATE OF IOWA
Hancock County; ss.
TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

YOU ARE HEREBY NOTIFIED, That an instrument of writing porporting to be the last Will and Testament of Earnest H. Lenz deceased, dated Febuary 16, 1925, having been this day filed, opened and read, Monday the 29 day of June, 1925 is fixed for hearing proof of same at the Court House in Garner, Iowa, before the District Court of said County or the Clerk of said Court; and at 10 o'clock A. M. of the day above mentioned, all persons interested are hereby notified and required to appear, and show cause, if any they have, why said instrument should not be probated and allowed as and for the last Will and Testament of said deceased.

Dated at Garner, Iowa, May 23, 1925.

Chris. J. Johansen,
Clerk of the District Court.

Reboring
—And—
Rehoning

"The Better Method of Cylinder Re - conditioning.

McQuay Norris Quality Rings
Sales & Service

PAVEY'S

STORMIZING SHOP

THIS IS THE RIGHT PLACE

To buy your Cigars, Cigarettes, Smoking and Chewing Tobacco—our stock is always nice and fresh.

We carry a complete line of box and bulk fancy candy.

Refreshing soft drings.

And, why not step in and play a social game of pool while in town?

SMITH'S BILLARD HALL

Grease and Oils

Now is a good time to stock up on your needs for summer and fall. Webuy our Oil and Grease in large lots at prices that enable us to sell our customers at lowest prices. If you need Oil or Grease come in and get our prices on any of the following:—

FRENCH AUTO OIL—in all grades.
FRENCH TRACTOR OIL—in all grades.
CASTOR MACHINE OIL.
HARNESS OIL—NEETSFOOT OIL.
SEPARATOR OIL—LIGHT OILS
BULK HARD OIL—It will pay you to bring your cans and have them filled.
HARD OIL—in all size cans.
AXLE GREASE—in cans 1 lb. to 25 lb.

Jacobs & Son

W. MACFARLANE WINS GOLF TITLE

Scot Defeats Bobby Jones, Jr., in Sensational Game at Worcester.

Worcester, Mass. — Willie MacFarlane, Scotch professional of the Oak Ridge club, Tuckahoe, N. Y., won the national open golf tournament from Robert T. Jones, Jr., of Atlanta, Ga., the American amateur champion. MacFarlane was 1 up at the finish of 36 holes played.

The victory came after the most sensational playoff ever staked in open championship play. MacFarlane and Jones tied with medal scores of 291 after two days of play and started in the morning an 18-hole match game to decide the winner.

The extraordinary result of the morning's match was also a tie. It looked as if MacFarlane had it won as he reached the eighteenth green, but he missed a four-foot putt and that made a tie, necessitating still another 18-hole match.

Then in withering hot weather of the afternoon this pair of great golfers started on their sixth eighteen holes. After the first three holes Jones led most of the way, but as the afternoon wore on the steady game of the Scotchman began to tell, until at the eighteenth tee he had the match squared.

On the final journey to the clubhouse MacFarlane, by careful playing, scored a par 4. Jones had a chance to tie, but a seven-foot putt hung on the lip of the cup and the best Bobby could do was a 5.

It was on this green that the scores of Wednesday, Thursday and Friday were tied. It was there that a single stroke won, a single stroke lost, and a single stroke tied the closest championship play since golf tournaments began. It was that final hole which decided this unprecedented match which had mounted up to 108 holes. No other open tournament has gone beyond 90 holes.

Willie MacFarlane — the golfer's golfer, the champion of the nation—that's what the thousands of sweltering golf-mad people in Worcester are saying. Willie MacFarlane, the man who plays every shot as it should be played, who is always careful, always cautious, who always uses the right club, the right swing, the right timing, the right follow-through, won.

Russia-Jap War Near in China Crisis, Report

Washington.—Information has reached here pointing to direct Russian soviet participation in an impending armed struggle for the control of all China.

The preparations already made contemplate a civil war of major proportions, centering in the northern province and dwarfing in importance present sporadic disturbances in the South.

The area of probable operations is in the sphere of greatest interest to Japan, and the aid of the soviet is being thrown behind the standards of the faction least friendly to Tokyo.

Opposing Feng stands Chang Tso-Lin, the Manchurian war lord, reported to have the moral if not the actual physical support of the Japanese government.

In its last analysis such a struggle might easily aproximate a war between Japan and Russia, with the actual campaigning carried on by Feng and Chang and the supplies furnished by Moscow and Tokyo.

Three Indicted for Plot to Kidnap Mary Pickford

Los Angeles, Cal. — Indictments charging criminal conspiracy were voted by a special session of the Los Angeles county grand jury against Claud Holcomb, Adrian Woods, and Charles Z. Stevens, all of whom have signed confessions regarding parts in a plot to kidnap Mary Pickford and hold her for $200,000 ransom.

The indictments were at once returned before Superior Judge Edward Hahn, who fixed bail at $50,000 each. Lacking bonds, the trio returned to jail.

Douglas Fairbanks, Detective Captain George K. Home, Maj. John G. Mott, attorney for Doug and Mary, and Detectives Harry Raymond and George Mayer, testified.

Stillman Ineligible to Get Divorce From Wife

Albany, N. Y.—The Court of Appeals denied the appeal of James A. Stillman, New York banker, for a reopening of the suit for divorce from his wife, Mrs. Anne U. Stillman.

The court, by unanimous vote, agreed with lower courts that the banker had been guilty of adultery and therefore was ineligible to obtain a divorce.

Ousts U. S. Correspondent

Paris.—B. Raleigh, an American correspondent of a financial news agency, has been ordered to leave France within five days, because of dispatches sent to New York deemed harmful to French credit.

Stinnes Near Bankruptcy

London.—An Amsterdam dispatch says the Stinnes interests of Germany are not capable of meeting liabilities abroad, which total in the neighborhood of $28,575,000.

MRS. CHARLES C. HART

Mrs. Charles C. Hart, wife of the recently appointed minister to Albania.

MARINES GUARD YANKS IN CHINA

Mobs Seek to Drive Out All Foreigners.

Shanghai.—About 400 American and Italian marines were landed and, according to American Consul Cunningham, the diplomatic body of Peking has authorized the landing of 2,000 marines to protect life and property of Shanghai foreign residents.

Chinese agitators made public appeals on the streets of Shanghai for a general uprising to drive out all foreigners.

The authorities directly attributed the disturbances of the last three days to Russian and Chinese Communists, saying the movement was being fostered by educational institutions under the direction of the Russian consulate here.

Students, who started the agitation after a demonstration over sentences passed on Chinese strikers by the Shanghai mixed court, are making every effort to effect a general strike, including all public and private services.

Machine guns were used to clear the streets when a patrol was fired upon from houses at the corner of Nanking and Thibet roads. One man, Thomas G. McMartin, an American dentist, was wounded, and his horse was shot from under him. One Chinese was killed and another wounded when the fire was returned. The total of Chinese killed is now 15, with 40 wounded.

At the same time fire was opened on the patrol, several shots were directed into the encampment of the American troops on the race course, just across the Thibet road. There were no casualties.

President Refuses Degrees From Many Universities

Washington. — President Coolidge could have any number of honorary college degrees, but apparently he doesn't want them.

This was indicated at the White House, where it was learned that more than a score of universities and colleges had formally invited the President to attend commencement exercises and that at least that many had offered to confer a degree, usually with the proviso that he must come to the campus to receive it. The names of the institutions were not made known.

Mr. Coolidge has decided to decline all invitations and offers.

35 Miles an Hour Held Safe on Country Roads

Washington.—Thirty-five miles an hour is a safe speed for open country motoring, it has been decided by the committee on uniformity of laws and regulations of the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety.

A simple signal of holding out the arm when a car is about to stop or turn in any direction was advocated.

Ten miles an hour was placed as the maximum safe speed for passing schoolhouses during the recess hour.

W. D. Mitchell of St. Paul Named Solicitor General

Washington.—William D. Mitchell, a prominent St. Paul attorney, was named solicitor general, to succeed James M. Beck, by President Coolidge. Mr. Beck's resignation was accepted by the President several days ago. Mr. Mitchell is fifty-one years old. He is an ex-service man, having served both in the Spanish-American and the World war.

Auto Exports Gaining

Washington.—The total value of the April export trade in automobile products from the United States reached $33,858,742 as compared with $32,645,817 for March, other months also being below the April figures.

Weeks Shows Improvement

Boston.—Further definite improvement in the condition of Secretary of War Weeks, ill in a hospital here, was announced by his attending physicians.

U. S. MUST BE READY TO FIGHT

President Tells Graduating Class at Annapolis Only Peace Is in Sight.

Annapolis, Md.—A stirring call for adequate national preparedness was sounded by President Coolidge in addressing the graduating class at the naval academy.

Although expressing the conviction that at no time in the nation's history has the outlook for continued peace been as bright as at the present, the President impressed upon his audience that the duty of national defense is as broad as that of citizenship and must be borne by all.

His plea, however, was not for large military forces that might breed distrust, but for a comparatively small army and navy backed by the whole country, with every citizen as a potential soldier ready to take his place in the ranks in time of peril.

While the President was outspoken in his demand for an adequate defense he sharply rebuked jingoists. He declared in no uncertain terms that he knew the occasion will seldom arise, and he knew that it did not now exist, when those connected with our navy are justified either directly of by inference, in asserting that other specified powers are arming against us, thus arousing national suspicion and hatred.

He declared that the suggestion that other people are harboring a hostile intent toward us is a very serious charge to make, and that we as a nation would not relish having our honorable motives and peaceful intentions questioned.

The President explained to the midshipmen that his ideal of a naval policy is one devoted to defense and maintenance of international peace. He then passed out to them the diplomas by which they became commissioned naval officers.

Shriners Stage Bathing Review in Los Angeles

Los Angeles, Cal. — Rain that started early in the morning and continued throughout the day resulted in the postponement of all of the out-of-door Shrine functions and Los Angeles' "June sunshine" came in for a merciless kidding on the part of thousands of visiting nobles.

Instead of a colorful procession of crack drill teams and bands, Broadway saw a bathing beauty parade of nobles, fat and thin, short and tall, who donned bathing suits and coursed the thoroughfare. Red bathing caps replaced the fez. Some pulled toy boats through the puddles of water, some towed wooden ducks; others fished from the curbs, and still others carried umbrellas bearing the legend "This is very unusual."

The imperial divan met and voted to hold the 1926 convention at Philadelphia on June 1, 2 and 3. The first day of elections resulted in the advancement of all of the officers, by which James C. Burger of Denver, Colo., was chosen imperial potentate to succeed James L. Chandler of Kansas City, Mo.

Marshall Laid to Rest After Simple Obsequies

Indianapolis, Ind.—Thomas Riley Marshall, a character known to state and nation, was laid to rest here. Such simple obsequies as might be tendered any humble citizen were accorded the body of him who served the nation as vice president during the World war and his native state of Indiana as its twenty-seventh governor. It was the widow's wish that in death he should be unostentatious just as he was in life.

A tribute was paid by Rev. Matthew Smith, Mr. Marshall's friend and pastor. Scottish rite services for a departed brother were read, and then the body was taken to Crown Hill cemetery, where it will remain in a receiving vault until Mrs. Marshall decides on its final resting place.

Japan Will Send Troops to China to Keep Order

London.—The Daily Express says it understands Japan has sent an urgent note to Peking stating that if the Chinese authorities are unable to preserve order in Chinese cities Japan is prepared to send such naval and military forces as will reduce the insurgents to obedience.

Canton.—Rumors are current that owing to differences between the local government and the military, fighting here is imminent. The Central Bank of China has been temporarily closed by order of the Kuomintang party, owing to persistent demands of the military for loans and looting threats by disorderly elements.

U. S. Offers to Call Parley

Geneva.—It was officially announced here that President Coolidge is willing to call a special poison-gas conference in Washington, if the question cannot be satisfactorily handled at the present session here.

Frick Estate Tax Cut

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Attorney General Woodruff said that Pennsylvania will receive only $475,000 more tax from the H. C. Frick estate, instead of the $1,250,000 expected.

ALFRED T. CAPPS

Alfred T. Capps of Jacksonville, Ill., who sails on June 15 for South America, accompanying William Beebe, the famous naturalist, for an exploration of the flora and fauna of British Guiana. Capps is a student at Illinois college.

MARKET QUOTATIONS BY U. S. GOVERNMENT

Washington.—For the week ending May 29.—FRUITS AND VEGETABLES—Northern sacked round white potatoes, $1.75@2.00 per 100 pounds in midwestern cities, $1.45@1.75 f. o. b. north-central points. Onion markets stronger, prices advancing. Best Missouri and Kentucky Aroma strawberries, $6.25@6.50 per 24-quart crate in midwestern markets.

LIVE STOCK—Chicago hog prices closed at $12.60 for top, $11.90@12.30 for bulk. Medium and good beef steers, $8.50@11.35; butcher cows and heifers, $4.25@11.25; feeder steers, $5.50@8.25; light and medium weight veal calves, $8.50@11.50. Fat lambs, $12.25@14.40; spring lambs, $14.50@16.75; yearlings, $9.50@12.50; fat ewes, $5.00@8.25.

GRAIN—Quoted May 29: No. 1 dark northern wheat: Minneapolis, $1.67½@1.84½. No. 2 red winter wheat: Chicago, $1.89; St. Louis, $1.91@1.94; Kansas City, $1.73. No. 2 hard winter wheat: Chicago, $1.69½@1.72; Kansas City, $1.69@1.75. No. 1 hard winter wheat: St. Louis, $1.69. No. 2 mixed corn: Kansas City, $1.08½@1.09. No. 3 mixed corn: Chicago, $1.13¼@1.15; Minneapolis, $1.07@1.08. No. 2 yellow corn: Chicago, $1.19@1.20½; St. Louis, $1.18@1.19; Kansas City, $1.13. No. 3 yellow corn: Chicago, $1.17@1.19; Minneapolis, $1.11@1.12. No. 2 white corn: Minneapolis, $1.12; St. Louis, $1.17@1.17½. No. 3 white corn: Chicago, $1.15@1.17. No. 3 white oats: Chicago, 47¼@48½c; Minneapolis, 44⅝@45½c; St. Louis, 49@49½c. No. 2 white oats: Kansas City, 50c.

HAY—Quoted May 29: No. 1 timothy: Chicago, $22.00. No. 1 alfalfa: Omaha, $15.50; Memphis (new), $21.00. No. 1 prairie: Chicago, $16.00; Minneapolis, $16.50.

DAIRY PRODUCTS—Closing wholesale prices on 92-score butter: Chicago, 42c. Wholesale prices on Wisconsin primary cheese markets May 28: Twins, 22½c; cheddars, 22¼c; single daisies, 22¾c; double daisies, 22¼c; longhorns, 23c; square prints, 24c.

93 Die From Heat Wave Which Sweeps Country

Chicago.—In the middle of an ocean of superheated atmosphere reaching Texas to the Atlantic coast, Chicago paid a toll of nine lives to the torrid waves which rolled over the city, while a total of 84 deaths has been checked in other parts of the country.

The thermometer climbed to 95 degrees in Chicago at 5 p. m., making a record for the year and only three-tenths of a degree under the record for all June fourths on the official calendar.

Washington.—Having smashed records for intensity, the heat wave which has held the eastern half of the country in its grip for five days appeared to have settled down for a duration record as well. The weather bureau saw no prospect of relief for at least three or four days and probably longer.

E. J. Sailstad Weds His Sunshine Girl at Oshkosh

Fond du Lac, Wis.—E. J. Sailstad and Dorothy Anderson, "Sunshine Girl," who shared his two-year western flight while insurance companies fought over payments of his death claim, were married at Oshkosh, according to word received here.

The ceremony was performed at the parsonage of St. Peter's Catholic church at Oshkosh, Rev. M. H. Clifford officiating.

The couple are occupying a cottage on Lake Winnebago near here. Sailstad is at present employed at Oshkosh.

Tunney Knocks Out Tom Gibbons in Twelfth Round

New York.—Gene Tunney, the Greenwich village boy, knocked out the veteran Tom Gibbons of St. Paul in the twelfth round of a scheduled 15-round contest at the Polo grounds. The battle was one-sided from the bell, and Gibbons never had a look in.

Near Death in Bomb Plot

Madrid.—Secret police discovered a plot to wreck by aerial torpedoes the royal train of King Alfonso and the queen, traveling from Barcelona to the capital. Several arrests have been made. Medical students were alleged to be the ringleaders.

Mrs. Booker Washington Dies

Tuskegee, Ala.—Margaret J. Washington, widow of Booker T. Washington, founder of Tuskegee Institute, died here after a month's illness.

.. Hawkeye .. State News

Interesting Items Gathered From all Parts of Iowa

Approximately 800 members of the Central States Association of Osteopaths gathered in convention at Des Moines recently.

The annual state convention of the Iowa Christian Endeavor Union will be held at the First Christian church in Cedar Rapids June 18 to 21.

The totals of Iowa manufactured products are two and one-half times the value of the Iowa corn crop and one and one-half times the value of Iowa livestock.

Rivers in Iowa are at an exceeding low mark for this season of the year according to data compiled recently by C. D. Reed of the United States weather bureau.

Iowa exports for 1924 totalled $33,992,701 out of total of exports for the nation of $4,498,151,936 according to statistics of the United States department of commerce.

Savings of approximately $1,000,000 to the Des Moines taxpayers have been made as a result of the work of the bureau of municipal research during the last four years.

A 320-acre farm, known as the McConnell farm northwest of Guthrie Center, has sold for $110 per acre, this price setting a low mark for real estate in this locality.

The revival of an old custom at Drake university will be started next fall as a result of action taken by the student council in deciding that freshmen shall wear green caps.

The revenue from poultry in Iowa last year was $85,000,000 a report of the Sac county farm bureau said. Poultry now on farms in the state was given as 30,646,291 head.

Fair officials have announced that the first state-wide school band contest in this state, will be held at the Iowa State fair, August 26-Sept. 4, to determine the state champions.

Ernest V. Badley, a former Iowan, was elected vice grand president of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks at the annual national convention at Kansas City.

James C. Mullany of Sioux City was elected state deputy of the Knights of Columbus at the final session of that organization's twenty-fourth annual state convention.

Members of the Christian church at Storm Lake considered a new church as the result of the revival meetings conducted by Dr. W. C. Cole and Mr. and Mrs. Exra Jacks.

The twenty-fourth annual session of the Iowa Federation of Colored Women's Clubs voted to establish a student loan fund for the benefit of students at the Iowa State University.

Everybody knows that Iowa banks are getting stronger. Bank statements all show it and the state commissioner of banking says that the reports made to his office prove it.

First receipts from the new Iowa gasoline tax indicate that the annual receipts from this source will fall below the estimate of $4,500,000 made at the time the law was being passed.

A training school for mothers of children of pre-school age will be inaugurated in the Iowa public schools this fall. A resolution authorizing establishment of the new school has been passed by the board of education.

Corn should all have been planted by Memorial Day, according to the old time rule in Iowa, but there have been seasons when corn planting was later than that and a crop has been produced.

Senator A. B. Cummins has received a letter from President Coolidge stating that he could not visit Iowa on his coming trip to Minnesota because of the press of business in Washington.

Iowa City passed the 15,000 mark in population in the census just completed, showing an increase of 3,975 in five years. The new census figures do not include the 7,500 university students.

Frank E. Scott, of Sioux City, elected president of the National Live Stock Exchange in Chicago recently started at the yards there as a live stock market reporter for a Sioux City newspaper.

The wool market in Iowa is standing still at the present time. The 1925 clip is the largest for several years, due to a considerable increase in the number of ewes shipped into the state from the west.

The total cost of attending one term or quarter (three months) at Iowa State College need not exceed $200 for students whose homes are in Iowa. Some students manage to get along on even less than this amount. Board will average about $5 to $6 a week for men and $5 for women. Rooms for men rent for $2.50 to $3.50 per week, while for women they cost $7 to $15 per month.

Reports from 46 Iowa counties show that local leaders, trained by home economics extension specialists, during the month of April held training school meetings which were attended by approximately 19,000 women. This home economics extension work included training in home furnishings, nutrition, clothing, home management and millinery.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★
★ ★
★ Iowa is first in per capita ★ ★ wealth. ★
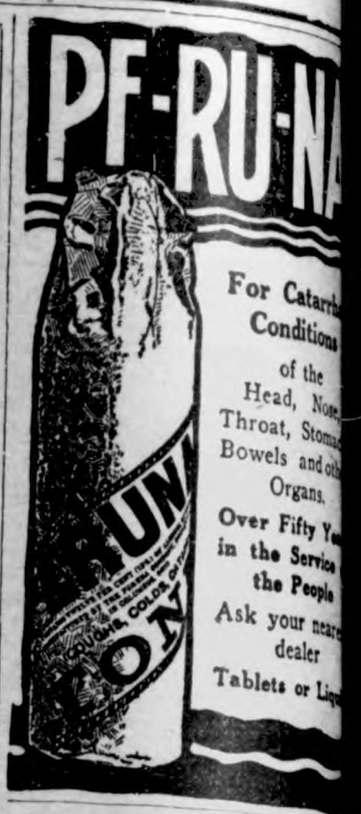
★ ★
★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★



FOR OVER 200 YEARS

haarlem oil has been a world-wide remedy for kidney, liver and bladder disorders, rheumatism, lumbago and uric acid conditions.

GOLD MEDAL HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES

correct internal troubles, stimulate vital organs. Three sizes. All druggists. Insist on the original genuine GOLD MEDAL

Modern Love

It may be merely that I'm old, but it does seem to me that love isn't quite so exciting now as it used to be in my youth. When skirts touched the ground the toe of a protruding shoe was an allurement. And there were skirts in those days draping everything. Nowadays when young women go about in kilts and are as barebacked as wild horses there's no excitement. The cards are all on the table, nothing's left to fancy. All's above-board and consequently boring. — From "Those Barren Leaves," by Aldous Huxley.

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble.

Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.

Jugoslavia's Small Area

Jugoslavia, the new country knitted together out of eight distinct prewar areas, is about the size of the state of Oregon. The eight original countries were Serbia, Croatia, Montenegro, Slovenia, Bosnia and Herzegovina. The leaders from each of these original areas have all shown enough power to make the nationality question a serious one in Jugoslavia.

Labial Burden

James Agate writes: "I simply adore the Lithuanian folk songs of Mme. Szshwnowskzosha, whose name is on everybody's lips."

We thought we noticely lately an unusual number of people with pendulous lips.

The homelier a girl is the more help she is to her mother.

Sure Relief FOR INDIGESTION

6 BELL-ANS Hot water Sure Relief

BELL-ANS

25¢ AND 75¢ PACKAGES EVERYWHERE

Let Cuticura Soap Keep Your Skin Fresh and Youthful

Sample Soap, Ointment, Talcum free. Address: Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. M, Malden, Mass.

Kill All Flies! THEY SPREAD DISEASE

Placed anywhere, DAISY FLY KILLER attracts and kills all flies. Neat, clean, ornamental, convenient and cheap. Lasts all season. Made of metal, can't spill or tip over; will not soil or injure anything. Guaranteed.

DAISY FLY KILLER at your dealer or 5 by EXPRESS, prepaid, $1.25. HAROLD SOMERS, 150 De Kalb Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

BATHE YOUR EYES

Use Dr. Thompson's Eyewater. Buy at your druggist's or 1163 River, Troy, N. Y. Booklet.

Prominent People

agazine Editor Head of Wisconsin U.

He was assistant to the president of Northwestern university in 1912-'16 ...as engaged in research work from 1916 to 1919. He succeeds Dr. Edward ...rge.

Election of Glenn Frank, editor of the Century Magazine, for president of the University of Wisconsin by the board of regents came after a nation-wide search for a man young in years but mature in experience and with a definite policy. Frank's belief that church and schools and state should work together to bring about greater benefits for the commonwealth and the fact that his age, thirty-eight, gives him many years in which to develop Wisconsin, convinced the regents that he was the man for the post. Wisconsin for many years has lacked co-ordination between its agricultural schools, its commerce courses and the letters and science college.

Mr. Frank has accepted the position. He was born in Queen City, Mo., October 1, 1887, and received his bachelor of arts degree from Northwestern university in 1912 and a doctor's degree from Lincoln Memorial university in

...cle Sam Is to Print Lots of Money

...he treasury has made plans for ...ing more paper money in the next ... year than ever has been turned ...y the American government in ...other twelve months in history. ...Orders have been prepared for the ...use of 200,000,000 sheets of dis... silk fiber paper, from each ... of which eight pieces of cur... are made. Beginning July 1, the ...n of engraving and printing will ...n at maximum capacity to meet ...nation's paper money require...

...oincident with announcement of ...printing program, Assistant Sec... C. S. Dewey, whose job it is to ...hat there is plenty of money ...ble in the country, announced ...he treasury would take its first ...on July 1 toward building up a ...e of currency. By this method, ...oped, the life of the paper money ...e prolonged. An opportunity will ...d for "curing" the money before it goes into active service, and this ...s is expected to keep it from fraying, cracking, and otherwise going to ... so easily.

...he life of the one-dollar bill now is only about eight months, whereas ...ry experts figure it should be about a year. In pre-war days the average ... bill would wear about fourteen or fifteen months. Mr. Dewey is con... that higher prices, use of automobiles, the necessities of commerce and ...try, and modern ideas and habits compel the carrying of more money. ...the silver dollar has fallen into disuse.

...man Sees New European War at Hand

...g domestic dissension and inflaming the ardors and passions of the ...

...or did Mme. Grouitch's appeal to realism stop there. Speaking from the ...ence of twenty-five years as a diplomat's wife, she asserted it is people, ...bassadors, who make wars. She likewise declared that feminine demand ...xuries, driving men to excesses to obtain them, is a potent influence ...t war. Men will and do fight to give their women what they desire, and ...t today desire more than the world will supply peaceably.

Gently, almost deferentially, Mme. Slavko y Grouitch introduced reality into the American Academy of Political Science the other day in Philadelphia. Sandwiched between academic papers on American co-operation abroad she warned that a new European war is at hand. Never since 1914, in May of which year she visited this country to alarm leading Americans to warlike omens, has Europe been so tense and the nations so fearful of an early outbreak, Mme. Grouitch assured the conference.

The American-born wife of the Yugo-Slav minister at Washington pressed her conviction that Europe has no substitute for war in sight.

"There is no use pretending," said Mme. Grouitch quietly, "that war has been done away with while it still is so soothing to politicians and so stimulating to national pride and courage. War is the narcotic of the nations,

...ge Starts War on Obscene Prints

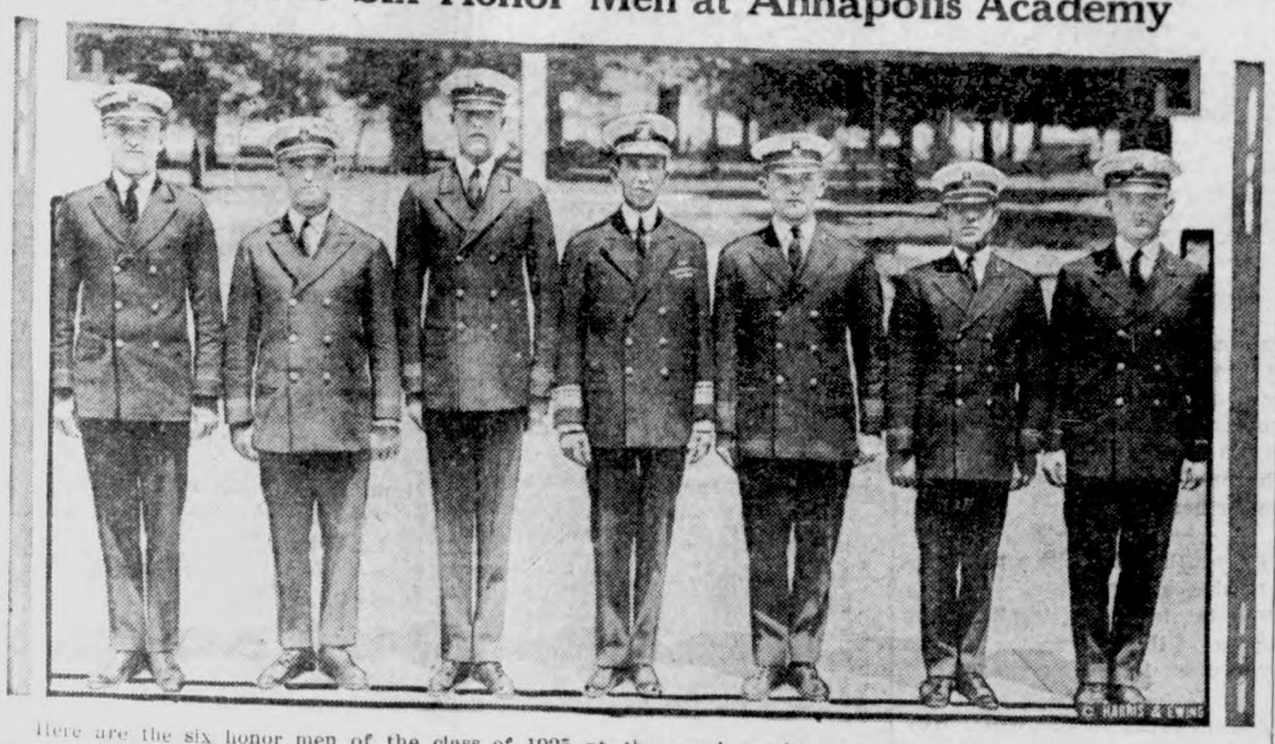
...ting on a request from Federal ... James H. Wilkerson, James A. ...ghan, assistant United States ... attorney, has started a drive ...the mails and news stands of all ...t and obscene publications. In ...munication to Postmaster Gen... ...arry S. New at Washington, Mr. ...ghan named about twenty pub..., some with a circulation of ... a million, which he contends ...decent.

...e action followed a hearing in ...the publisher of a Chicago mag... now excluded from the United ... mails, sought to mandamus ...ster Arthur C. Lueder to com... to give the magazine mail ...ces.

...ter listening to several passages ...he magazine as read to him by ...tor O'Callaghan, Judge Wilker... ...d: "Why, this is just kindergar... ...rk as compared to some of the ...ues found on the news stands." He then added that the government ... to be practicing discrimination in favor of the more influential maga... ...hich made it hard for him to decide upon the case.

...the meantime, Mr. O'Callaghan," Judge Wilkerson added, "visit some ...per stand and get the names of all these filthy and lewd publications. ...eir names to the postmaster general with the request that he imme... ...take steps to deny the use of the mails to these publications which ... evil influence on the youth of our country."

This Year's Six Honor Men at Annapolis Academy

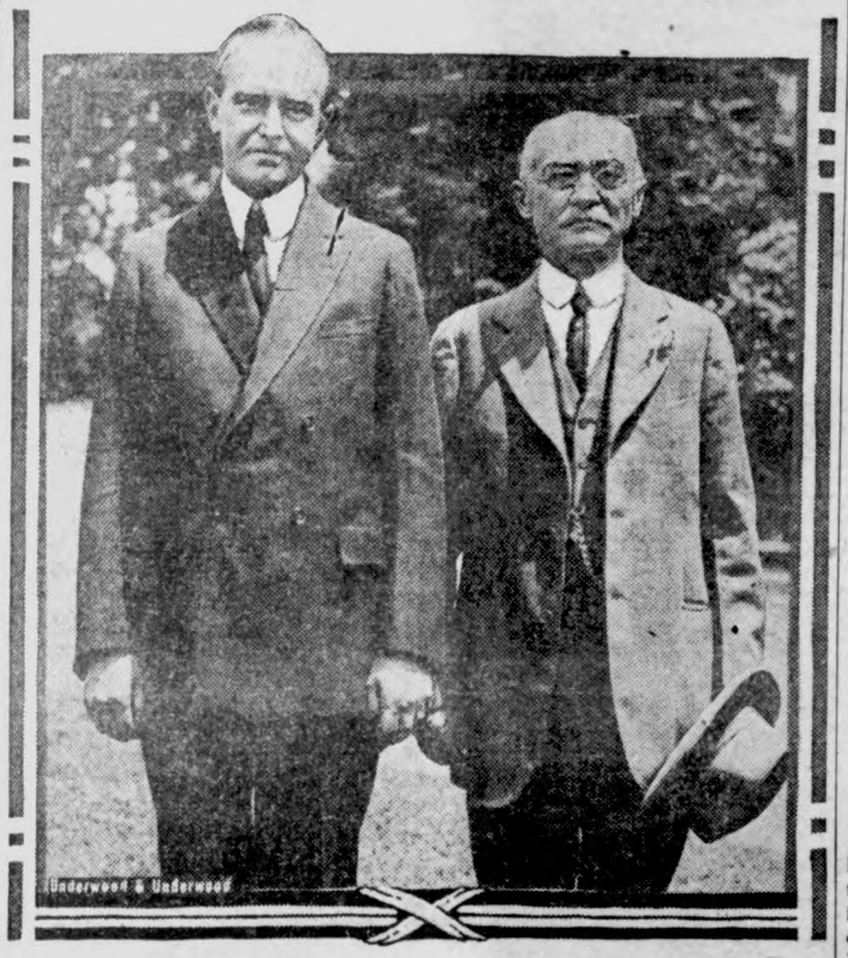


Here are the six honor men of the class of 1925 at the naval academy at Annapolis, with Admiral Nulton, superintendent, in the middle of the line. On June 2 these men, left to right, received the following awards: D. A. Ross, Hoboken, N. J., the Thompson prize, a navigating sextant; J. H. Wellings, Boston, Mass., the dress sword presented by the Daughters of the American Revolution; R. R. Sentman, Wilmington, Del., the 1897 class sword and cup; E. H. Edmindson, Salem, Ore., Sons of the Revolution cup; H. E. Hubbard, Baltimore, Md., class of 1871 sword, and W. O. Gallery, Chicago, the Van Dyke prize gold watch.

Murdered Chicago Gangster Given Fine Funeral

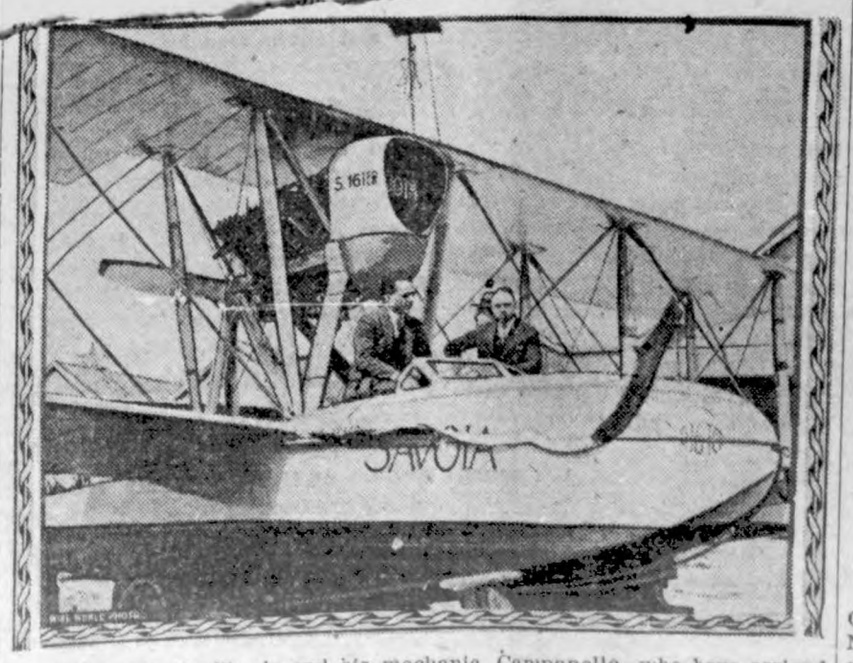
Angelo Genna was a gang leader of Chicago and a notorious rum runner; but he also was a political power, and so, after he was murdered, he was given one of the most elaborate and costly funerals seen in Chicago in years, and among the mourners were many local and federal officials. The flowers filled thirty-two automobiles.

Proud Day for "Pa" Jedding



"Pa" Jedding, a mail carrier of Battle Creek, Mich., for forty years, had the thrill of his lifetime when he was presented to President Coolidge at the White House. The trip to Washington was given to him by the citizens of Battle Creek as a token of appreciation for his long service.

Italian Flyers Reach Australia



Commander De Pinedo and his mechanic, Campanello, who have arrived in Australia on their airplane flight from Italy to Japan.

BELOIT'S APOLLO

Claire Pierce of Medford, Wis., as he will appear in a modern interpretation of Apollo, in Euripides' "Alcestis," in the revival of the Greek play in an outdoor amphitheater at Beloit college, Beloit, Wis. Pierce is president of the senior class.

INDIANS NAME QUEEN

Miss Jane Mayes of Pryor, Okla., a Cherokee, was elected queen of the National Indian convention for 1926, at the 1925 pow-wow in Ponca City, Okla.

CAP AND BELLS

ALL THE WAY UNDER

A bishop relates the following experience:

After the service one Sunday morning he was approached by an elderly woman who expressed great appreciation of his discourse.

"Why, bishop," she said, "you can never know what your service meant to me. It was just like water to a drowning man."

THEY DO

"Let me congratulate you upon you're lucky escape from that fisherman's hook."

"Yes, but think how he will lie about me!"

Affectionately

He thought he'd surely made a hit,
When for his photograph she prayed.
"Out, when this calls," she wrote on it,
And gave it to the maid.

Why He Hesitated

"My dear sir, I am flattered by your staying to hear the remainder of my story when all the other passengers ran away at the sound of the dinner bell," said the ocean-going pest to his sole remaining listener.

"What, has the dinner bell rung?" asked the slightly deaf listener, as he hurried off to the dining room.—Dartford Chronicle.

A Diplomat

Motor Cop (after hard chase)—Why didn't you stop when I shouted back there?

Driver (with only five bucks, but presence of mind)—I thought you just said "Good morning, senator."

Cop—Well, you see, senator, I wanted to warn you about driving fast through the next township.—Purnell Blade.

SOUND VS. SONG

The Simp—Thought you said that girl couldn't sing?

The Sage—She certainly can't.

The Simp—Man, you don't know what you're talking about! The girl's standing there singing right now!

Jump

Who does not heed
The auto horn,
'Twere better he
Had ne'er been born.

Needn't Wait

The tenor, with wide-open mouth, had just emitted his first note, when the sweet young thing who had volunteered to act as accompanist suddenly discovered that her back hair needed patting.

"Just go right on," she directed. "I'll play fast and catch up with you."—Country Gentleman.

She Qualified

A ... woman wanted to join the Colonial Da... ...mes society.

She set inquiries on foot and meeting a friend some time afterward, said gleefully: "I am all right for the Colonial Dames. That genealogist discovered that I am descended from the first man ever hanged in Massachusetts!"

Instructions

"Toofus!"

"Yes, sir?"

"Call up my dentist and see if he can make an engagement with me. And Toofus!"

"Yes, sir?"

"Don't press him."

Watch It

Sister—Bob, will you get my watch? It is upstairs.

Brother—Aw, wait awhile; it will run down.

Sister—No, it won't, my dear; ours is a winding staircase.—Boy's Life.

Phew!

He—I came within an ace of being run over by a car today—it was as close as I am to you.

She—And you call that a narrow escape!—London Opinion.

Jig Jog Jags

A Little Joshing Now and Then Will Get the Goat of Many Men

MAN'S INTUITION

Wife—Dearest, would you like to be sweet—really really sweet?

Husband—A dress or a hat?

LOOKING THEAD

Customer—But if you are selling these watches under price, where does your profit come in?

Clerk——We make our profit out of repairing them.

Auntie—James, why don't you finish your soup?

Jimmie (out to dinner) — I don't like—um—the pattern on the bottom of the plate.

QUALIFIED

Smith—So your son wants to be a commercial travelor?

Smart—Yes, he knows a couple of funny stories.

Missionary—And you know nothing whatever of religion?

Cannibal—Well, we got a taste of it when the last missionary came.

DUMB DAN GARDENS

Jedkins—Don, I hear you've gone in for raising canaries.?"

Dumb Dan—Wal—I hope so, I planted a whole pound of canary seed last week.

Jill—I'm afraid the bed is not long enough for you.

Jack—That's all right: I'll add two more feet when I get in.

DIDN'T ASK MUCH

Johnson—My son-in -law can just about keep my daughter in gloves. I buy everything else.

Thompson—Then he decieved you as to his circumstances?

Johnson—Oh no. He only asked me for her hand.

"Would you like to take a nice long walk?" she asked.

"Why I'd love to" replied the young man caller joyously.

"Well don't let me detain you.

Hiker (waving to motorist): Hey I'm going your way!

Motorist (waving back) So I see, but I'll get there before you do.

Flo—Is skiing hard on the feet?

Joe— No—not on the feet.

Who else have you shown these poems to?" asked the editor.

"No one." replied the author.

"Then where did you get that black eye?"

Officer—Your honor, the bull pup has gone and chewed up the Bible.

Judge—Well, have the prisoner kiss he bull pup—we can' wai around here for a week for another Bible.

COME, TRIP IT AS YOU GO

The great humorist lay dying. His face pale; his breath came in protesting gasps; his pulse fluttered. The famous specialist cast significant glances between themselves.

"There is — no hope?" he asked hem.

Their heads shook sadly and in unison: "No hope."

Theg reat humorist beckoned to me. "Jim, old boy," he whispered in my ear, "bring me—my—shoes, please."

I carried them to the dying man's side. Weakly he thrust his feet out from beneath the covers, "Put them on for me, Jim,' 'he whispered, growing visibly weaker from the effort of speech.

I saw the end was near. To humor him, I drew the shoes over his feet. He lay back satisfied. Unable o restrain my curiousity even in the presence of death, I asked him, — "Why did you have me do that?" "So I won't stub my toes when I kick the bucket," the great humorist replied.

A traveling man had missed his train and went back to his home. He took his pass keys out of his pocket, opened the door, and to his great surprise his wife was sitting on his best friend's lap, and kissing him.

"Smith, I've set a trap and caught you,' 'shouted the irate husband.

Sith replied, "With bait like this, you can catch me any time!"

COMFORTS OF HOME

"George, you lazy thing, wake up!"

"I can't."

"Why?' '

"Because I ain't alseep!"

IZZY, IS HE?

Hum—say do you remember Old man Mosenberg's kid—the fat one?

Bug—Yeh.

Hum—Well, he's a millionaire

Bug—Oh, is he?

Hum— No, Abie.

Lord Dash—And don't you ever you ever miss yourh usband

Lady Comma—Oh, no, he gave me a goldfish."

A tear for the girl in the Lincoln,
Who swore she could drive without thincoln,
While indulging in talk,
She steered of the dock,
And the ferrymen claim she's still sincoln.

IN THE MATTER OF JOINT DRAINAGE DISTRICT NO. 86, HANCOCK, CERRO GORDO AND FRANKLIN COUNTIES, IOWA

Notice of Hearing on Reassement for Deficit in Original Cost of Construction

To the following named persons and to all others whom it may concern, including the actual occupants of the following described lands:

You and each of you are hereby notified that the Boards of Supervisors of Hancock, Cerro Gordo and Franklin Counties, Iowa, by resolution regularly adopted, in Joint session, found and determined that the levy and assessment heretofore made was not sufficient to pay the original cost of the construction of said improvement and necessary repairs thereof and found and determined that there was a deficit in the original cost of construction and for repairs in the sum of $162,552.88; that it is proposed to levy a reassessment upon the lands within said Drainage District upon thes ame classification and in the same proportion as the original assessment for the cost of the construction of said improvement and that said reassessment upon the several tracts of land are as shown by the following table, and being a levy of 19% of the Original Assessment:

Name	Description	Section	Amount of Levy
W. R. Bloon	NE¼ NW¼	1-94-23	$ 44.46
W. R. Bloom	NW¼ NW¼	1-94-23	43.32
W. R. Bloom	SE¼ NW¼	1-94-23	45.60
W. R. Bloom	SW¼ NW¼	1-94-23	44.46
W. R. Bloom	NE¼ SW¼	1-94-23	26.22
W. R. Bloom	NW¼ SW¼	1-94-23	35.34
Gottlob A. Goll	SW¼ NE¼	1-94-23	140.80
Gottlob A. Goll	NW¼ NE¼	1-94-23	71.44
Gottlob A. Goll	NE¼ NE¼	1-94-23	417.97
Gottlob A. Goll	SE¼ NE¼	1-94-23	396.68
Gottlob A. Goll	NE¼ SE¼	1-94-23	360.97
Gottlob A. Goll	NW¼ SE¼	1-94-23	96.89
Gottlob A. Goll	SW¼ SE¼	1-94-23	186.32
Gottlob A. Goll	SE¼ SE¼	1-94-23	325.40
Elko Buss	NW¼ NE¼	2-94-23	44.46
Elko Buss	NE¼ NE¼	2-94-23	43.32
Elko Buss	NE¼ NW¼	2-94-23	22.80
Frank H. Guth and August Guth	NE¼ SE¼	2-94-23	123.58
Wm. Fuller	SE¼ NE¼	2-94-23	44.46
Wm. Fuller	SW¼ NE¼	2-94-23	30.78
Wm. Fuller	SE¼ NW¼	2-94-23	1.14
E. H. Townsend, Joe Wheeler and E. H. Williams	NW¼ SE¼	12-94-23	125.36
" " "	NW¼ NE¼	12-94-23	67.50
" " "	NE¼ SE¼	12-94-23	179.08
" " "	NE¼ NE¼	12-94-23	214.35
" " "	SW¼ NE¼	12-94-23	44.77
" " "	SE¼ NE¼	12-94-23	220.53
H. H. Ostendorf	SE¼ SE¼	23-94-23	14.91
Herman Lauren	SE¼ SW¼	24-94-23	10.87
Mary Ingebretson	SE¼ NE¼	24-94-23	36.96
Mary Ingebretson	N½ NE¼ SE¼	24-94-23	64.33
Mary Ingebretson	N½ NW¼ SE¼	24-94-23	18.16
A. Prelipp	S½ NE¼ SE¼	24-94-23	13.55
A. Prelipp	SE¼ SE¼	24-94-23	30.12
A. Prelipp	SW¼ SE¼	24-94-23	110.52
A. Prelipp	S½ NW¼ SE¼	24-91-23	34.58
V. Morris	SW¼ SW¼	24-94-23	61.15
V. Morris	NE¼ SW¼	25-94-23	308.33
W. Morris	N W¼ SW¼	25-94-23	118.38
E. Boelman	SW¼ SE¼	25-94-23	194.57
E. Boelman	NW¼ SE¼	25-94-23	219.14
E. Boelman	SW¼ NE¼	25-94-23	40.78
Ferdinand A. Lemke	SE¼ SE¼	25-94-23	135.66
F. L. Lemke	NE¼ SE¼	25-94-23	224.21
Phoebe A. and Wm. C. White	SE¼ SW¼	25-94-23	159.34
" " "	SW¼ SW¼	25-94-23	319.94
Jacob E. Weiskopf	NE¼ NW¼	25-94-23	55.32
Jacob E. Weiskopf	SE¼ NW¼	25-94-23	34.94
Jacob E. Weiskopf	SW¼ NW¼	25-94-23	34.81
Jacob E. Weiskopf	NW¼ NW¼	25-94-23	16.22
Jacob E. Weiskopf	NW¼ NE¼	25-94-23	70.37
Jacob E. Weiskopf	NE¼ NE¼	25-94-23	124.03
Jacob E. Weiskopf	SE¼ NE¼	25-94-23	270.84
Wm. Koehler	NE¼ NE¼	26-94-23	15.74
F. A. Grosenbaug	NE¼ SE¼	26-94-23	65.55
F. A. Grosenbaugh	SE¼ SE¼	26-94-23	73.92
Peter Markle	SE¼ NE¼	35-95-23	14.82
Peter Markle	SW¼ NE¼	35-95-23	6.84
Peter Markle	SE¼ SE¼	35-95-23	43.32
Peter Markle	NE¼ SE¼	35-95-23	44.46
Elko Buss	SW¼ SE¼	35-95-23	19.30
Thomas F. Carroll	NW¼ SE¼	35-95-23	137.27
A. L. Bier	NE¼ NE¼	35-94-23	12.55
Conrad Bier	NE¼ SE¼	36-94-23	331.70
Conrad Bier	NW¼ SE¼	36-94-23	4.71
Conrad Bier	SE¼ SE¼	36-94-23	74.15
Ernest Henze	SW¼ SE¼	36-95-23	268.01
Ernest Henze	NW¼ SE¼	36-95-23	161.41
Ernest Henze	NE¼ SE¼	36-95-23	331.85
Ernest Henze	SE¼ SE¼	36-95-23	577.86
Ferdinand A. Lemke	NW¼ NE¼	36-94-23	21.22
Ferdinand A. Lemke	NE¼ NE¼	36-94-23	182.24
Ferdinand A. Lemke	SW¼ NE¼	36-94-23	65.90
Ferdinand A. Lemke	SE¼ NE¼	36-94-23	156.53
Newton C. Moberly	SW¼ SW¼	36-95-23	22.92
Mary S. Moberly	SE¼ SW¼	36-95-23	142.04
Phoebe A. and Wm. C. White	NE¼ NW¼	36-94-23	33.73
" " "	NW¼ NW¼	36-94-23	236.50
" " "	SW¼ NW¼	36-94-23	19.70
Henry Theiman	SW¼ NW¼	36-95-23	27.36
Henry Theiman	NE¼ SW¼	36-95-23	45.60
Henry Theiman	NW¼ SW¼	36-95-23	44.46
John Neuberger	NE¼ NE¼	36-95-23	17.56
John Neuberger	SE¼ NE¼	36-95-23	68.36
Hancock County Iowa	East and West road between E½ Sections 26 and 35-94-23		36.29
	East and West road between Sections 25 anl 36-94-23		206.34
Ell Township, Hancock County, Iowa.	North and South road between Sections 35 and 36-95-23		60.39
Avery Township, Hancock County, Iowa.	North and South road between Sections 25 and 26-94-23		55.59
	East and West road between E½ Sections 23 and 26-94-23		5.63
	East and West road between Sections 24 and 25-94-23		68.43
	North and South road between Sections 1 and 2-94-23		39.84
	East and West road between E½ Sections 1 and 12-94-23		28.44
Ell Township, Hancock County, Iowa	North and South road between Sections 31-95-23 and 36-95-23		9.41
	East and West road between E½ Sections 35-95-23 and 2-94-23		15.96
	East and West road between Section 36-95-23 and 1-94-23		40.95
Avery Township Hancock County, Iowa.	East and West road between Section 35-95-23 and 2-94-23		15.96
	East and West road between Sections 36-95-23 and 1-94-23		40.95
	North and South road between Sections 31-94-22 and 36-94-23		61.09
	North and South road between Sections 30-94-22 and 25-94-23		38.19
	East and West road between Sections 19-94-22 and 24-94-23		17.10
	North and South road between N½ Sections 7-94-22 and 12-94-23		11.59
	North and South road between Sections 6-94-22 and 1-94-23		89.68

You and each of you are further notified that the final hearing upon the levy and reassessment for the deficiency of the original assessment to pay the original cost of construction of said improvement and necessary repairs will be held at a joint session of the Boards of Supervisors of Cerro Gordo Franklin and Hancock Counties, Iowa, in the Court House at Mason City, Iowa, on July 9th, 1925 at 1 o'clock P. M. and that all objections to said levy and reassessment must be in writing and filed on or before 10 o'clock A. M. of said July 9th, 1925, or objections will be held to have been waived and sail levy and reassessment fixed without reference thereto.

Witness our hands and seals this 4th day of May, 1925.

H. C. Meyer.
County Auditor of Hancock County, Iowa
Geo. E. Frost,
County Auditor of Cerro Gordo County, Iowa
E. D. Haecker,
County Auditor of Franklin County, Iowa.

Notice

Of Annual Meeting

The Klemme Co-Operative Grain Co., will hold their annual meeting at the Idle Hour Theatre, Klemme, Ia., on Saturday, June 13th, at 2:00 o'clock p. m., sharp, for the election of officers and transaction of any other business which may come before this meeting.

Look!

Picnicers--

This is ideal weather for Picnic Dinners or Suppers, and when planning a Picnic remember you can get everything right here for the whole lunch—

PAPER PLATES—DISHES
PAPER NAPKINS, TABLE CLOTHS
SANITARY Paper Spoons & Forks
PICNIC LUNCH BASKETS
THERMO BOTTLES—JUGS
PICNIC LUNCH SETS, CUPS, etc.

FOR THE "EATS"——

Let us suggest some very appetizing things for the Picnic lunch:—Pork & Beans, Salad Dressing, Ketchup, Cookies, Pickles, Fruit, Pop, Malt—and for Sandwiches try our Veal Loaf, or some nice fresh Cheese.

Plan your picnic and then come here for anything you need—always a fresh line of groceries.

Fresh Bread Every Day—

Fresh Fruits In Season—

G.W. Kluckhohn & Sons

Becoming Better Acqainted

Two things are necessary to enable a bank to give its customers the best of service; knowing them personally and knowing their desires.

A part of our time is devoted to becoming better acquainted with our territory—that our service may be improved. This is another reason why the First National Bank can handle your account in a superior way.

First National Bank,
KLEMME, IOWA.

THE KLEMME TIMES

Twenty-ninth Year—Number 41. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, JUNE 18, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

NORTH CENTRAL IA. SWEPT BY CYCLONE

ALEXANDER LOSS ESTIMATED AT $150,000.00

Many Farm Himes Completely Wreck By Thursday's Storm

A damaging cyclone swept through this section of Iowa Thurslay afternoon, causing an estimated damage to property of $350,000. Alexander, a little town east of Belmond, in Franklin county wa the hardest hit in the path of the tornado.

A number of resident homes were demolished, many others badly damaged. The Lutheran Church ther was picked up and set down on a house nearby; the Congregational church was compietely destroyed and the Methodist church was moved off the foundation. A few people was injured, but no one was killed.

All the way along the path of the tornado farm homes and all buildings were leveled to the ground and scattered over miles in the vicinity of Alexander, Chapin, Sheffield, Greene, and on east.

Another Cyclone Saturday

Another cyclone formed Saturday afternoon in the vicinity of Hayfield, Minn., and caused a property damage of around $200,000 according to news dispatches. No people were injured.

KLEMME BUSINESS MEN HAVE GET-TO-GETHER MEETING

About twenty Klemme business men had a get-to-gether meeting at the Parish House last Thursday evening. The purpose of the meeting was to decide whether or not to close July 4th, as that date comes on Saturday this year. It was decided to keep open shop on Friday evening, July 3rd, and to be closed all day the 4th.

It was also decided to form a sort of "good fellowship" club and have these get-to-gether meeting regularly about once a month and have a good time. The club would also act in matters for the betterment of the town such as amusements, improvements, etc.

ELL TOWNSHIP FARM BUREAU MEETING

Tere will be a regular monthly Farm Bureau meeting at the Ell Center School house, Thursday evening June 25th. A good program has been arranged. Moving pictures will be shown. Everyone cordially invited to come.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

May 18, 1925.

Regular meeting of Town Council. All members present. Motion made and seconded to allow the following bills:

White Phillips Co., Interest Coupons	$420.00
Paul Stille; Oil	5.60
I. C. Oil & Grease Co.,; Gas and Kerosene	12.49
Standard Oil Co.,; 100 Gallons Gas	19.61
Northern Lumber Co., Lumber for Road Railing	39.50
Ben J. Coobs; May Salary	75.00

Bills Allowel.

Meeting adjourned.

A. J. Kudje, Clerk

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS

Skiles Core et al to Hancock County, Easement for public highway of 40 acres, date 6-5-25, $4.00.

Harry Baack wf to John Van Laven, W D date 4-29-25, $350.00, all of lot 1 blk 1 Woden & atractadjoinnng same 100 feet by 190 feet in SW¼ 10-97-26.

America spends two million dollars annually on rat poinsons and rat traps.

Shady corners of the garden may be used to raise ferns.

Wonder what a Russian peasant thinks about when its meal time?

ARE YOUR EGGS GOOD WHEN THEY ARE SOLD?

Summer Months Are Liable to Cause Eggs to Rot Quickly

Are the eggs you gather from day to day kept in a cool, dry place so they will not start rotting quickly If they are not it will be well for farmers and townfolk who sell eggs to heed the warning of the state department of Agriculture and save the embarrasement one farmer met when an inspector happened to be on hand at the time a case of eggs was delivered. Several rotten eggs were candled out, the farmer was arrested and caused to pay a fine. The name was withheld for the reason that he was not properly informel as to the law and did not intentionally sell decomposed or putrid animal substance.

Here is the warning of Secretary if Agricultue of Iowa:

Bad Eggs:

The pure food law, section 4999-a--31-e, part seven, defines food as adulterated and prohibits its sale, "if it consists if the whole or any part of diseased, filthy, decomposed or putrid animal or vegetable substance."

Penalty for violation is a fine up to $100.00.

It is unlawful for the farmer to sell or offer for sale bad or heated eggs to his patrons or to jobbers.

All must realize that eggs unfit or food purposes cannot be sold or offered for sale with the same being contrary to law. Candle your eggs. Do not complain if your merchant refuses to buy your eggs without candling, for he is protecting you as well as himself from presecution. The department must insist upon a strict compliance with the law relative to marketing and selling eggs.

Suggestion as to Care of Eggs

Provide plenty of dry clean nests.

Eggs should be gathered twice daily in hot and wet weather. Once in cool weather.

Use dirty eggs at home. Do not wash eggs. Keep eggs in a cool dry place. If kept in a cave or cellar do not sit basket or pail on a wet or damp floor. Market eggs often. Keep eggs cool and out of the sun or away from the heated floor of you rautomobile when taking them to market. Every farmer should have an egg candler and candle all eggs.

Kill or dispose of old roosters early in June. Infertile eggs will keep better and you will get just as many eggs without the roosters.

The annual loss, as estimated by the department shows that the farmers of Iowa lose annualy $5,000,000.00 caused by improper care and handling of eggs. You can lower that loss by following above suggestions and gain thereby. Is it not worth while to consider this matter?

CORN IS IOWA'S BEST PROSPECT

Des Moines, Ia., June 17.— In spite of the driest spring on record with frequent and severe frosts in May, corn arrived at the date of June 1st, in gratifying conditon, according to the reports of about 900 correspondents of the Weather and Crop bureau of the State Department of Agrculture.

The condition erpressed in percent is 88 compared with 77 last year and a 10 year average of 90. On May 15th, 75 percent of the planting was done as compared with 51 percent last year, and the average of 48 percent in recent years. On June 1st, 99 percent was completed. Plenty of heat, moisture, and sunshine recently have rapidly overcome the set-back due to freezes.

The fact is that the normal spring time rainfall in Iowa is about twice as much as needed for corn. Small grains, hay, pastures and gardens do not thrive by dry treatment. Early oats were forced to prematurely early heading by the heat. The crop has become shortened and the same is true of barley and spring wheat Winter wheat has been injured beyond recovery. Hay crops other than alfalfa ,will be a short crop.

A half truth is seldom the better half.

OBITUARY

ALBERT DE KALB WHITE

Albert De Kalb White was born, December 5, 1849 in Meiga County, Ohio. He worked for the Government at the age of 13 years driving a team in Army supply train.

Enlisted in 174th Ohio Infantry at the age of 14 years, serving until the close of the war.

He was one of the early settlers of Hancock County, coming to old Amsterdam 52 years ago and with the exception of a few months all that time he resided in this county and community.

Only the real old settlers will remember Old Amsterdam, by that name, later years it was known as the Old Town, and at that time it was the Post Office and country village of the surrounding community. He ran a ditching plow, oxen furnishing the power. This seems hard for late generations to believe, when they look over the fertile acres of Hancock County.

He purchased a farm one mile south of Klemme in 1875.

In the year 1876, August2, he was united in marriage to Margaret Ann Cusick. They moved to the farm in Avery township in 1877, where they resided for eight years, then moved to the town of Goodell, where he engaged in the grain business, also running a general store. He resided here until his death, June 5, 1925. He died at the age of 75 years and 6 months.

He leaves to mourn his loss, a loving wife and four children; Josephine Hughes, wife of Ed. Hughes, of Belmond; Albert R. White, on the farm near Klemme; Gittie Sherman, wife of Gordon Sherman, of Torrington, Wyoming; and Mamie White of Goodell, who has stayed with her father and mother, giving here father tender care and every attention in his last days on earth. He leaves also one grandchild, Albert F. White, son of Albert R. White.

The funeral of A. D. White was held at his home Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. It was conducted by the Masonic Lodge and the American Legion boys in uniform. The prayer and reading of the obituary was given by Rev. Van Mere of Garner. A beautiful solo was sung by Mr. Wilcox of Mason City, entitled: "Saved by Grace" The flowers were the most ever seen in Goodell, and they came from all over. The Masonic Lodges sent beautiful pieces. It is estimated over a thousand people were in attendance to show their last respects.

Card of Thanks

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to our many friends and neighbors for their kindness during our recent bereavement.

Mrs. A. D. White and Family

POULTRY PEOPLE

Iowa poultry people are making a drive to get egg producers to grade their eggs.

Poultry specialist say it pays, and pays big to sell eggs on grade.

Here are some pertinent factors in marketing eggs:

1. Take pride in the eggs and sell.
2. Keep a flock of good standard bred stock. Hatch only large select eggs.
3. Keep nests clean and plenty of them.
4. Do not keep eggs in a place above 60' temperature.
5. Keep litter in house clean.
6. Separate males from flock as soon as hatching is completed.
7. Do not market small inferior eggs. Use them at home.
8. Do not wash dirty eggs if they are intended for market.
9. Keep eggs covered when taking them to market.
10. An egg is generally good quality when it is produced. Don't help to deteriorate the quality. Market eggs often.

Abie and Ikey were walking down the street. Suddenly Ikey stopped, picked up something and put his hand in his pocket.

"Ikey, vot you find?"

"Nothing."

"Then vot you put in your pocket?"

"Nothing, but I like to see the guy what could spit like a nickel."

PIANO RECITAL

To Be Given by Mrs. George Gruetzmacher's Pupils

On Friday Evening, June 19, 1925 beginning at 8 o'clock at the Methodist church, the pupils of Mrs. G. Gruetzmacher, assisted by Mrs. L. E. Goodhile and Miss Bonnie Beeler will give a music recital. Everyone is cordially invited to attend and it will be something well worth attending. Following is the program.

IL Desiderio — Cramer
Lillian Beeler

Reading — "Mansions"
Mrs. Goodhile

Bounding Billows
Roussean's Dream
Clarence Kluckhohn

Life Let us Cherish — Hilda Keeper

Reading — "Thou Shalt Not Kill"
Mrs. Goodhile

Sonatine — Kohler
Ruby Miller

Duet — Th e Nations Recall
Raymond Shultz, Mrs Gruetzmacher

Reading — Abandoned Elopement
Mrs. Goodhile

Birthday March Clarence Kluckhohn
Robins Return — Fisher
Chorus from Von Webe
Raymond Shultz

Reading — Hiram's Housekeeping
Mrs. Goodhile

Brown's Jubilee — Ruby Miller
Long Long Ago— — Studies
Hildah Keeper

Petit Bolero — Ravina
Bonnie Beeler

Reading — Your Flag and My Flag
Mrs. Goodhile

A silver collection will be taken, and the proceeds will go the the King's Heralds and Little Light Bearers Thankoffering Fund.

T. B. ERADICATION MAKES MARKET FOR IOWA STOCK.

Des Moines, Iowa, June 17,—"Stock buyers in other states have their eyes on the progress which Iowa is making in the eradication of bovine tuberculosis and the result will be that the live stock breeders in modifiend counties will not have to seek a market for their stock but instead the market will come to them," states M. G. Thorburg, Secretary of Agriculture.

"We have just recently received a letter from B. M. Davison, Director of the Department if Agriculture in Illinois, asking for the names of counties in Iowa which have been declared clean of bovine tuberculosis," said Mr. Thorburg.

Illinois has also been making rapid progress in eradicatng bovine tuberculosis but has had a higher percentage of infection than Iowa. Of 98,521 cattle tested during the month of April, Illinois had 4,800 reactors or 4.8 percent infection, while Iowa tested 178,597 cattle and had 3,226 reactors or 1.8 percent infection.

liberal appropriation will probably be provided by the Illinois legislature for the eradication of tuberculosis. Mr. Davison estimates that in the next two years, 100,000 cattle will be needed in Illinois to replace the reactors which will be slaughtered. These will have to be purchased from the surrounding states, were bovine tuberculosis has been eradicated.

NEW BULLETIN FOR DAIRY FARMERS

Des Moines, Iowa, June 17.—Suggestions for the care and handling of milk and cream on the farm is the title of a new bulletin which has been issued by the Iowa Department of Agriculture. The large distribution which the bulletin is receiving, shows that it is getting the approval of the dairymen of the state.

In addition to discussing many important problems of the dairymen, the bulletin gives the state dairy laws which must be observed by dairymen in producing and selling dairy products. Copies of the bulletin may be obtained free by writing to the Iowa Department of Agriculture, Des Moines, Iowa.

A sock in the shoe is worth two in the eye.

The ashes are beginning to accumulate in the cellar

COW TEST REPORT

REPORT OF NO. 3 COWTESTING ASSOCIATION

The May report of the Hancock County No. 3 Cowtest Association shows a butterfat production of 28.8 lbs. per cow for the month of May, an increase of 3.8 lbs. over April. Of the 297 cows on test, 11 produced over 50 lbs. butterfat and 31 over 40 lbs. The two high cows were grade Guernseys owned by Fred Kothenbeutel, of Ventura. The cow "Whitechin" produced 78.6 lbs. of butterfat from 1512.8 lbs. milk testing 5.2 per cent. "Big Teater" produced 60.3 lbs. butterfat from 1,546.9 milk testing 3.9 per cent.

The high herd was also owned by Fred Kothenbeutel. The average production of the three high herds follows:

Fred Kothenbeutel's 12 grade Guernseys, 42.9 lbs. butterfat, 901.32 lbs. milk.

M. W. Sprole's 11 grade Guernseys, 36.5 lbs. butterfat, 937.04 lbs. milk.

E. G. Beier's 13 purebred Holsteins, 36.1 lbs. butterfat, 1045.16 lbs. milk.

Other high averagers were:—

B. H. Katter's 6 purebred Holsteins, 40 lbs butterfat, 1267.38 lbs. milk.

Victor Hueneman's 7 purebred Holsteins, 38 lbs. butterfat, 954.7 lbs. milk.

Elling Bros. 9 grade Holsteins, 34.2 lbs. butterfat, 1076.13 lbs. of milk.

The report also shows a separator loss of $71.50 in May compared with $23.90 in April. This increase was caused primarily by vibration and loose skimming discs in the bowl. The separator should be bolted on a level concrete foundation, and turned at a uniform speed. If the separator is turned by hand, as much pressure should be applied on the upward turn as on the downward stroke. Where power is used to turn the separator, care should be taken in running the separator at the correct speed.

AL DAVIDSON HIT BY AUTO

The following clipping was handed us by Mrs. Schroeder.

Albert Davidson, 510 Ingraham avenue, Calumet City, was run down by an automobile from his own town last evening in Hammond and received injuries, the outcome of which is still in doubt.

He had driven his car east along Plummer aveiue, to a point about 100 feet east of Bulletin street, where he swung to the curb and stopped. He started to alight from the left side of the machine as Sam Williams, 519 Douglas avenue, Calumet City, was about to pass the east. Williams sounded his horn and attempted to stop his car, but could not avoid striking Davidson as he stepped backward from the machine.

Davidson was knocked down and was unconscious when taken to St. Margaret's hospital. He is suffering with concussion of the brain, caused by striking his head on the

A Later Report

Henry Suckow, Jr. recieved a letter from Mr. Davidson the other day. stating that he was feeling much better and was home from the hospital. He was in the hospital for two days, and was unconsious for nearly twelve hours. At present he is staying at home, and will not be able to work for several weeks.

DAIRY PRODUCTS RANK FIRST

Des Moines, Iowa, June 17,—The total value of the dairy products produced in United States during 1924 was greater than that of any other live stock product, according to figures compiled by the Iowa Department of Agriculture from the estimates of production for 1924.

The value of dairy products was $2,586,000,000.00. This represents 43.4 percent of the total value of animal products. Hogs with a value of $1,008,000,000.00, represented 16.9 per cent of animal products and ranked second, while poultry was a close third with a value of $994,000,000.00 which represented 16.7 per cent.

WOULD GIVE HANCOCK FARMER REFUND ON PAVING COST

Road Roads Association Proposes Bond Issue to Relieve Road Situation

Mt. Pleasant, Ia., June17.—That Iowa can issue $85,000,000 in bonds for early improvement of the state's primary and secondary road systems without adding a cent to the tax burden of the farmer was the message hammered home recently in organization meeting throughout the First Congressional District by Glenn C. Haynes ,Secretary of the Iowa Good Roads Association.

"Under the program of the Iowa Good Roads Association, bonds for improvement of the primary and secondary road systems will be retired both as to principal and interest, out of primary road funds", Haynes declared. "Not a penny would be added to the real estate or personal taxes of those owning farms abutting that would be improved.''

He then pointed out that citizens in 12 counties that have issued bond for road improvement work would obtain an immediate reduction in taxes, because under the present law all interest on such bonds must be paid from taxes levied on real estate and personal property, while under the law as proposed by the Iowa Good Roads Association, interest as well as principal will be paid from the primary road fund.

"We propose to repeal the 12½ percent levy against abutting property owners under this law. The desult would be a refund in taxes for citizens in Black Hawk ,Cerro Gordo, Clinton, Floyd, Greene, Hancock Marshall, O'Brien, Polk, Scott and Woodbury counties where road improvement bonds have been raised.

Haynes cited figures to prove that the primay road fund amounting to approximately $11,500,000 a year and consisting of auto license fees, federal aid and one third of the revenue derived from the two-cent gasoline tox, would be sufficinet to retire an $85,000,000 bond issue both as to principal and interest without adding a cent to existing taxes.

"Unimproved roads are costing every car owner in Iowa an average of $50 a year through increased consumption gasoline and oil, and unnecessary wear and tear on hi smachine," he added. "When we can secure improved roads without adding to existing taxation, it seems folly to allow the huge economic waste resulting from bad roads to continue. Money spent for good roads will be saved many times over thru reduction in the upkeep bills auto owners are now paying."

Haynes also stressed the point that his Association does not advocate paving a mile of road where traffic does not warren hard surtraffic does not warrant hard surmost economical. Only roads carrying extra traffic will be paved—about 3,500 miles out of 6.600 of the primary system. The remaining 3,100 miles of primary roads would be graveled.

"Where traffic is heavy, it is more economical to hard-surface a road than to keep repairing and renewing gravel every year," he said. "We are taking the advice of expert engineers who, after various triffic checks, reccommend certain roads be hard-surfaced and others graveled."

MEETING OF HANCOCK COUNTY BANKERS

The bankers of Hancock County held a meeting in Garner last Thursday for the purpose of organizing a vigilance committee to work with teh sheriff in preventing bank robberies The program opened with a six o'clock dinner and Mr. Don A. Davis was principle speaker of the occasion. He is a special agent of the departmnet of justice in Iowa. Vigilance committees have been organized in other counties and the plan is to perfect such an organization here. Each town will be provided with several deputy sheriffs and armed men in case they are needed at any time. Such an organization would be a real asset to our county.—Garner Leader.

NAMELESS RIVER

NANCE

SYNOPSIS. — Kate Cathrew, "Cattle Kate," owner of the Sky Line ranch, on her way to McKane's store at Cordova, seemingly infuriated by the sight of a girl plowing in a valley below, places a rifle bullet near the horses' feet. The girl takes no notice. Kate goes on to town, where her presence brings on a fight between McKane, the trader, and Sheriff Selwood.

By VINGIE E. ROE

Copyright by the McCall Company
WNU Service.

CHAPTER II—Continued

—2—

Here she left them in the hands of a boy of seventeen, very much after her own type, but who walked with a hopeless halt, and went on to the cabin.

"Hello, Mammy," she said, smiling—and if she had been beautiful before she was exquisite when she smiled, for the red lips curled up at the corners and the blue eyes narrowed to drowsy slits of sweetness.

But there was no answering smile on the gaunt face of the big woman who met her at the door with work-hardened hands laid anxiously on her young shoulders.

"Nance, girl," she said straightly, "I heard a shot this afternoon—I reckon it whistled some out there in th' field?"

"It did," said Nance honestly, "so close it made Dan squat."

In spite of her courage the woman paled a bit.

"My Lord A'mighty!" she said distressedly, "I do wish your pappy had stayed in Missouri! I make no doubt he'd been livin' today—and I'd not be eating my heart out with longin' for him, sorrow over Bud, an' fear for you every time you're out of my sight. And th' land ain't worth it."

But Nance Allison laid her hand over her mother's and turned in the doorway to look once again at the red and purple veils of dusk-haze falling down the mountain's face, to listen to the song of Nameless river, hurrying down from the mysterious canyons of the Deep Heart hills, and a sort of adoring awe irradiated her features.

"Worth it?" she repeated slowly. "No—not papp's death—not Bud's lameness—but worth every lick of work I ever can do, worth every glorious hour I spend on it, worth every bluff I call, every sneak-thief enemy I defy—and some day it will be worth a mint of gold when the cattle grow to herds. And in the meantime it's—why, Mammy, it's the anteroom of heaven, the fringes of paradise, right here in Nameless valley.

The mother sighed.

"You love it a lot, don't you?" she asked plaintively.

"I think it's more than love," said the big girl slowly as she rolled her faded sleeves higher along her golden arms preparatory to washing at the well in the yard, "I think it's principle—a proving of myself—I think it's a front line in the battle of life—and I believe I'm a mighty fighter."

"I know you are," said the woman with conviction, faintly tinged with pride, "but—there'll be few cattle left for herds if things go on the way they have gone. Perhaps there'll be neither herds nor herders—"

But her daughter interrupted.

"There'll be a fight, at any rate," she said as she plunged her face, man fashion, into the basin filled with water from the bucket which she had lifted, hand over hand—"there'll be a fight to the finish when I start—and some day I'm afraid I'll start."

She looked at her mother with a shade of trouble on her frank face.

"For two years," she added, "I've been turning the other cheek to my enemies. I haven't passed that stage, yet. I'm still patient—but I feel stirrings."

"God forbid!" said the older woman solemnly, "it sounds like feud!"

"Will be," returned the girl shortly, "though I pray against it night and day."

The boy Bud came up from the stable along the path, and Nance stood watching him. There was but one thing in Nameless valley that could harden her sweet mouth, could break up the habitual calm of her eyes. This was her brother, Bud.

When she regarded him, as she did now, there was always a flash of flame in her face, a wimple of anguish passing on her features, an explosion, as it were, of some deep and surging passion, covered in, hidden, like molten lava in some half-dead crater, its dull surface cracking here and there with seams of awful light which drew together swiftly. Now for the moment the little play went on in her face.

Then she smiled, for he was near.

"Hello, kid," she said, "how's all?"

The boy smiled back and he was like her as two peas are like each other—the same golden skin, the same mouth, the same blue eyes crinkling at the corners.

But there the likeness ended, for where Nance was a delight to the eye in her physical perfection, the boy hung lopsided, his left shoulder drooping, his left leg grotesquely bandied.

But the joy of life was in him as it was in Nance, despite his misfortune.

"Whew!" he said, "it's gettin' warm a-ready. Pretty near melted working in th' garden today. Got three beds ready. Earth works up fine as sand."

"So it does in the field," said Nance as she followed the mother into the cabin, "it's like mold and ashes and all the good things of the land worked in together. Each time I work it, it seems wilder and sweeter—old lady earth sending out her alluring promise."

"Land sakes, girl," said Mrs. Allison, "where do you get such fancies!"

"Where do you suppose?" said Nance, "out of the earth herself. She tells me a-many things here on Nameless—such as the value of patience, an' how to be strong in adversity. I've never had the schools, not since those long-back days in Missouri, but I've got my Bible and I've got the land. And I've got the sky and the hills and the river, too. If a body can't learn from them he's poor stuff inside. Mighty poor."

She tidied her hair before the tiny mirror that hung on the kitchen wall, a small matter of passing her hands over the shining mass, for the braids were smooth, almost as they had been when she pinned them there before sun-up, and rolling down her sleeves, sat down to the table where a simple meal was steaming. She bowed her head and Mrs. Allison, her lean face gaunt with shadows of fear and apprehension, folded her hard hands and asked the customary blessing of that humble house.

Humble it was in every particular—of its scant furnishings, of its bare cleanliness which was its only adornment, of the plain food on the scoured, clothless table.

These folk who lived in it were humble, too, if one judged only by their toil-scarred hands, their weary faces.

But under the plain exterior there was something which set them apart, which defied the stamp of commonplace, which bid for the extraordinary.

This was the dominant presence of purpose of the two younger faces, the spirit of patient courage which shone naked from the two pairs of blue eyes.

The mother had less of it.

She was like a war-mother of old—waiting always with a set mouth and eyes scanning the distances for tragedy.

The living spirit of stubborn courage had come out of the heart and soul of John Allison, latter-day pioneer, who for two years had slept in a low, neat bed at the mountain's foot beyond the cabin, his end one of the mysteries of the wild land he had loved. His wife had never ceased to fret for its unraveling, to know the how and wherefore of his fall down Rainbow cliff—he, the mountaineer, the sure, the unchancing. His daughter and son had accepted it, laid it aside for the future to deal with, and taken up the work which he had dropped—the plow, the rope and the cattle brand.

It was heavy work for young hands, young brains.

The great meadow on the other side of Nameless was rich in wild grass, a priceless possession. For five years it had produced abundant stacks to feed the cattle over, and the cutting and stacking was work that taxed the two to the very limit of endurance. And the corn land at the west—that, too, took labor fit for man's muscles. But there were the hogs that ran wild and made such quick fattening on the golden grain in the early fall. It was the hogs that paid most of the year's debt at the trading store, providing the bare necessities of life, and Nance could not give up that revenue, work or no work. Heaven knew, she needed them this year more than ever—since the fire which had flared in a night the previous harvest and taken all three of the stacks in the big meadow. That had been disaster, indeed, for it had forced her to sell every head of her stock that she could at lowest prices, leaving barely enough to get another start. McKane had bought, but he had driven a hard bargain.

This was another spring and hope stirred in her, as it is ever prone to do in the heart of youth.

Tired as she was, the girl brought forth from the ancient bureau in her own room beyond, a worn old Bible, and placing it beneath the lamp, sat herself down beside the table to the study of that Great Book which was her classic and her school. Mrs. Allison had retired into the depths of the cabin; from the small room adjoining, Nance could hear the regular breathing of Bud, weary from his labors. For a long time she sat still, her hands lying cupped around the Book, her face pensive with weariness, her eyes fixed unwinking on the yellow flame. Then she turned the thin pages with a reverent hand and at the honeysweet rhythms of the Psalms, stopped and began to read.

With David she wandered afar into fields of divine asphodel, was soon lost in a sea of spiritual praise and song.

Her young head, haloed with a golden spray in the light of the lamp, was bent above the Bible, her lashes lay like golden circles sparkling on her cheeks, her lips were sweetly molded to the words she unconsciously formed as she read.

For a long time she pored over the ancient treasure of the Scriptures, and in all truth she was innocent enough, lovely enough to have stirred a heart of stone. It was warm with the breath of spring outside. Window and door stood open and no breeze stirred the cheap white curtain at the sill.

Peace was there in the lone homestead by the river, the security that comes with knowledge that all is looked to faithfully. Nance knew that two huge padlocks on the stout log barn that housed the horses and the two milk cows, were duly fastened, for their keys hung on the wall beside the towel-roller. She knew that the well board was down, that the box was filled with wood for the early breakfast fire.

"'In Thee, oh, Lord, do I put my trust,'" she read in silence. "'Let me never be ashamed, deliver me in Thy righteousness—'"

She laid her temples in her palms, her elbows on the table, and her blue eyes followed the printed lines with a rapt delight.

Suddenly she sat upright, alert, her face lifted like that of a startled creature of the wild. She had heard no sound. There had been no tremor of the earth to betray a step outside, and yet she felt a presence.

She did not look toward the openings, but stared at the wall before her with its rows of shelves behind their screened doors where her mother kept her scoured pans.

And then, suddenly, there came a thin, keen whine, a little clear whistle, and a knife stood quivering between her dropped hands, its point imbedded deep in the leaves of the old Bible.

For a moment she sat so, while a flush of anger poured up along her throat to flare to the roots of her banded hair.

With no uncertain hand she jerked the blade from the profound pages, leaped to her feet, snatched a stub of pencil from a broken mug on a shelf, tore a fly-leaf from the precious Book, and, bending in the light, wrote something on it. She folded the bit of paper, thrust the knife point through it and, turning swiftly, flung them viciously through the window where the thin curtain had been parted.

She stood so, facing the window defiantly, scorning to blow out the light.

Then she dropped her eyes to the desecrated Word and they were flaming—and this is what she had written on the fly-leaf:

"The Lord is the strength of my life—of whom shall I be afraid? Though an host shall encamp against me, my heart shall not fear."

For a Moment She Sat So, While a Flush of Anger Poured Up Along Her Throat to Flare to the Roots of Her Hair.

Very deliberately she closed the door and window, turned locks on both, picked up her lamp and Bible and went into her own room beyond. Serene in the abiding faith of those divine words she soon forgot the world and all it held of work and care, of veiled threat and menace.

At daybreak she opened the window and scanned the ground outside. There was no thin-bladed knife in sight, no folded bit of paper with its holy defiance. The whole thing might have been a dream.

CHAPTER III

The Iron Hand of Sky Line.

Kate Cathrew—Cattle Kate Cathrew—lived like an eagle, on the crest of the world looking down. She looked down along the steep slopes of Mystery ridge, dark with the everlasting green of conifers, speckled with the lighter green of glade and brush patch, the weathered red of outcropping stone—far down to the silver thread of Nameless river flowing between its grass-clad banks, the fair spread of the valley with its priceless feeding land.

The buildings of Sky Line ranch lay nestled at the foot of Rainbow cliff, compact, solid, like a fortress, reached only by cattle trails, for there was no wagon road. There could have been none on these forbidding steeps. The buildings themselves were built of logs, but all that was within them had come into the lonesome country on pack-mules, even to the big steel range in the kitchen. The house itself was an amazing place, packed with all necessities, beautiful with luxuries, its contents worth a fortune. It had many rooms and a broad veranda circled it. Pine trees stood in ranks about it, and out of the sheer face of Rainbow cliff at the back a six-inch stream of crystal water shot forth in a graceful arc from the height of a man's shoulder, to fall into a natural basin in the solid rock by its own ceaseless action.

And stretching out like widespread wings on either side this majestic cliff ran crowning the ridge for seven miles, a splendid escarpment, straight up-and-down, averaging two hundred feet from its base in the slanting earth to the sharp line of its rim-rock.

Rainbow cliff, grim guardian of the Upper Country and the Deep Heart hills themselves, supposed to be impassable in all its length, dark in the early day but gleaming afar with all the colors of the spectrum when the sun dropped over toward the west at noon. No man was ever known to have scaled the cliff—save and except John Allison, found dead at its foot two years back—for the giant spine was alike on both sides. Men from the Upper Country had penetrated the Deep Heart to its northern base, but there they had stopped, to circle its distant ends, void of the secrets they had hoped to wrest from it.

And Kate Cathrew lived under it, a strange, half-sybaritic woman, running her cattle on the slopes of Mystery, riding after them like any man, standing in at round-up, branding, beef-gathering, her keen eyes missing nothing, her methods high-handed. Her riders obeyed her lightest word, though they were mostly of a type that few men would care to handle, hard-featured, close-lipped, sharp-eyed hard riders and hard drinkers, as all the world of the Deep Hearts knew.

Yet Kate Cathrew handled these men and got good work out of them, and she belonged to none of them.

Not but what there were hot hearts in the outfit and hands that itched for her, lips that wet themselves hungrily when she passed close in her supreme indifference.

But Rio Charley carried a bullet-scar in his right shoulder, and Big Basford walked with a slight limp—yet they both remained with her.

There was no other white woman at Sky Line. She would have none. Minnie Pine, a stalwart young Pomo half-breed, and old Josefa, brown as parchment and noncommittal, carried on the housework under her supervision, and no one else was needed.

At noon of the day after Kate's visit to the store at Cordova, she sat in the big living room at Sky Line looking over accounts. An observer having seen her on the previous occasion, would hardly have recognized her now. Gone were the broad hat, the pearl-buttoned shirt, the fringed riding skirt and the boots.

The black hair was piled high on her head, its smooth backward sweep crinkled by the tight curl that would not be brushed out. There was fragrance about her, and the dress she wore was of dark blue flowered silk, its clever draping setting off her form to its best advantage, which needed no advantage. Silk stockings smoothed themselves lovingly over her slender ankles, and soft kid slippers, all vanity of cut and make and sparkling buckle, clothed her feet in beauty.

She was either a fool or very brave, for she was the living spirit of seduction.

But the somber eyes she turned up from her work to scan the rider who came to her, his hat in his hands, were all business, impersonal.

"Well?" she said impatiently.

The man was young, scarce more than a boy, of a devil-may-care type, and he looked at her fearlessly.

"Here's something for you, Boss," he said grinning, as he handed her a soiled bit of paper.

It was thin, yellowed with age, and it seemed to have been roughly handled.

The mistress of Sky Line spread it out before her on the top of the dark wood desk.

"The Lord is the strength of my life," she read, "of whom shall I be afraid? Though an host shall encamp against me, my heart shall not fear."

It was unsigned and the characters, while hurriedly scrawled, were made by bold strokes, as if a strong heart had, indeed, inspired them, a strong hand penned them.

With a full-mouthed oath Kate Cathrew crumpled the bit of paper in her hand and flung it in the waste-basket against the wall.

"How did you get that?" she demanded.

"On the point of the knife you sent th' girl," he answered soberly, "an' right near the middle of my stomach."

Now you've seen Cattle Kate and Nance Allison. Which one is most interesting?

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Source of Quinine

Chinchona, or cinchona, is the name of the South American tree, the bark of which produces the well-known drug called quinine. The virtues of the bark were discovered about 1535, and in 1635 a decoction made of the bark cured of fever the wife of the viceroy of Peru whose name was Cinchona. The bark was introduced into France in 1649, and is said to have cured of fever the dauphin, who later became King Louis XIV. The bark came into general use in 1680, and Sir Hans Sloan introduced it into England about the year 1700. The chinchona tree has been planted in India and Ceylon and thrives there.

Beggars' Trade Union

In China one of the most formidable trade unions is that of the beggars. Begging in that country is a recognized profession, and there is a properly organized guild of beggars in most districts.

Each guild has its own president and officers, and the members pay an annual subscription equaling about $4.00 in our money. The officials of the guilds wield such power that they enjoy the protection of the magistracy.

So far there has been no strike on the part of the members of this union, which is undoubtedly the quaintest organization of its kind in the world.

Wit and Humor

A TIMELY BEARD

Sniff—What time is it, old boy? Or haven't you your watch with you?

Billfuzz—It's 11:15 a. m.—but I never carry a watch.

Sniff—Then how do you know what time it is?

Billfuzz—I shave at 7:30 every morning, and I can tell what time it is, day or night, by feeling how much my beard has grown.—Exchange.

Pig-Headed or Soft-Hearted?

"He says he will be miserable unless I marry him," said the pensive girl.

"You must decide for yourself," answered Miss Cayenne, "whether he is a devoted lover or merely one of those people who can't be happy unless they are having their own way."—Washington Star.

Enigma

The wife looked up from her paper with a puzzled frown.

"How do you spell 'Mozart,' dear?" she inquired.

"M-o z-a-r-t," replied hubby.

"No, that won't do. Who's another American inventor in six letters?"—American Legion Weekly.

SOMETHING TO SUIT

The Cook—Shall I make a nice cottage pudding for dessert?

Mrs. Justwed—Certainly not. Don't you know we're not living in a cottage? Make a flat pudding instead.

No One Hurt

Little Willie had a gun;
Pulled the trigger just for fun;
No one chanced to be in range.
(This sounds very, very strange.)

His Gain

"So Maud refused to marry Jack after all. I suppose he's heartbroken."

"Oh, no. He says things worked out pretty well. You see, he asked for a raise in pay thinking he was about to get married and received it, so he's that much ahead of the game."

Viewed Tolerantly

"I like the springtime."

"Why?"

"Well, you see, I don't care for work at any time, but it is only in the spring that that attitude gets any sympathy."

Taking No Chances

Bride (to hardware salesman)—Please, sir, I'd like a little oven.

Hardware Salesman—A little lovin'? Er—pardon me. Not while your husband's along.—Good Hardware.

HIS CLASSIFICATION

She—Men are beasts—all of them.

He—My folks think I'm about perfect.

She—Yes, you're a perfect beast.

Man With Cancer

For the man with a cancer
Here's a message of hope:
Consult a good surgeon,
But forego the dope.

Her Job

"It's the little things that count," said the educational lecturer.

"Yes," responded the primary grade teacher, "but you can't imagine what a hard time we have teaching them to do it."

Shakespeare Revised

She—Hast thou heard that Shylock is once more wealthy?

He—Yes, he has been selling a correspondence course on "How to Lose Flesh."—California Pelican.

MONARCH Breakfast COCOA
Its smooth, delicious flavor is unsurpassed
QUALITY for 70 years
REID, MURDOCH & Co. Established 1853
CHICAGO BOSTON PITTSBURGH NEW YORK

Not Too Tall

"What's the height of your ambition?" "Oh, she's a little over five feet."—Lafayette Lyre.

Champion is better because of its gas-tight, two-piece construction, which allows it to be taken apart for cleaning.

Champion X for Fords 60c. Blue Box for all other cars, 75c. More than 95,000 dealers sell Champions. You will know the genuine by the double-ribbed core.

Champion Spark Plug Co.
Toledo, Ohio
Windsor, Ont., London, Paris

CHAMPION

Why, of Course

Joe—What nationality are most telephone operators?

Frank—Central Americans!

Do your friends laugh at you?

Your friends notice how your car runs. If the motor knocks and rattles and fails to work smoothly, they may enjoy your predicament and laugh.

MonaMotor Oil will keep your motor in tip-top shape. It will put pep, power, and zest into your car and give it a new grip on mileage.

Enjoy driving to the fullest. Buy only MonaMotor Oil.

Monarch Manufacturing Co.
Council Bluffs, Iowa Toledo, Ohio

MonaMotor Oils & Greases

Done

Barber—What shall I put on your head, sir?

Customer—My hat!

Double the Life of Your Shoes with USKIDE SOLES

The Wonder Sole for Wear
Wears twice as long as best leather!
—and for a Better Heel
"U.S." SPRING-STEP Heels

United States Rubber Company

LMY FROCKS FOR SCHOOL; PRINTED FABRICS POPULAR

ANY pretty processions of frocks for girls from six to fifteen or een are daily passing in review be- inquiring mothers. While they looking for graduation dresses or ks for the little festivities of clos- school days they will get full in- nation as to present styles for the s-up frocks of juveniles and are to note that colors, in beautiful les, have usurped the place of te to a great extent. The shops showing pastel tints along with e for graduation frocks of crepe hine, georgette, chiffon or fine voile. nk, blue, lavender and white have ed themselves the most popular

"Money talks," and when its subject is dress styles for the midsummer season it talks "straight from the shoulder." Now that merchants have staged many special sales of dresses for matron and maid they are well convinced as to just what Mrs. American Lady and Miss Summer Girl have set their minds upon—they know what they have spent their money for. First and above all they have demanded printed fabrics in colorful patterns, in silk, silk and cotton mixtures and in cotton materials.

These printed materials, made up in the simplest manner, dominate the styles for midsummer in dresses that

For Last Days of School.

rs and are chosen for both the nger girls and those in their teens. the younger girls the majority of se filmy frocks are sleeveless or e very short sleeves, as shown in model pictured. This is a voile k with scant frills of val lace in rows above the hem, terminating the sides under loops of satin rib- . It is one of many models in ich the armseyes are finished h lace ruffles. The small turnover lar is finished with hemstitching and bow of ribbon with long ends is ed on the left shoulder where the k fastens. It would be pretty in hang almost straight from the shoulder. Very little trimming is required on them and they are shown in both short and long-sleeved models, nearly all of them provided with a narrow girdle that ties loosely at one side below the waistline. They are informal in style—even in the silk fabrics—and they are very becoming to their wearers. A pretty example of the printed silk frock is pictured here with front and back panels edged with narrow lace and an application of flat folds of crepe de chine in a plain color at each side. The narrow girdle made of the silk and lined with the crepe de chine y light color or in white over a col- ed slip.

A Popular Slip-On Model.

Nothing is prettier than georgette r graduation frocks and it proves to a durable fabric as well and fine le merits any fine needlework that ay be lavished upon it, as it is prac- ally indestructible. With pretty ring skirts, tucks, lace and ribbons features of the summer mode and werlike shades of lovely colors dis- ctly fashionable, a class of girl grad- tes ought to be as enchanting to look as a blooming garden of flowers. ong the showings there are dresses cream-colored net covered with fine cks and combined with lace.

slips under the panels and ties at the side. The lace makes a pretty finish for the sleeves. This is one of the popular slip-on models which are only rivaled by the jumper dress and two-piece dresses in sport styles. In the two-piece frocks the lines are straight also. The skirt portion is set onto an underbodice and is occasionally plaited and the blouse, which is usually on the middy order, gives the effect of a one-piece dress. All the styles, the slip-on, jumper and two-piece frocks, are cool, smart and attractive.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(© 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Community Building

Artistic Designs in Modern Shop Windows

A noteworthy change is slowly taking place in the appointment of our modern stores and shops, a writer in the San Francisco Chronicle comments. Today one witnesses everywhere the brightening up and rearrangement of our shops. Never before have such artistic exteriors been planned and such orderly interior arrangements been witnessed.

Up to this time our shops were a conglamoration of the material sold. There did not seem to be any definite plan, whereby a customer could see the goods to be sold to advantage. Instead of trying to show all the goods that might be purchased in a store, as was formerly the custom, we find today that the merchandise in general is subordinate, and forms the background of the entire store. However, the specialties which it is the purpose to emphasize, are shown to their best advantage, and naturally bring results.

The up-to-date owner pays great attention and gives serious study to the general architectural scheme of his store—the kind of floors, ceilings, walls and columns that are employed, and he insists that the entire arrangement be artistic and architecturally correct.

Even the field of window dressing is receiving architectural study. Years ago window dressing consisted of merely placing an artistic composition of material on display, but today a tour of the more up-to-date enterprising establishments will reveal the fact that the settings for our show windows consist of architectural backgrounds of meritorious designs.

Better Taste Needed in City Development

Turning American streets into hanging gardens by means of flower boxes on the windows and lamp posts is regarded as an enterprise of doubtful value by the civic development department of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The motive is a very good one, but experience of cities where the experiment has been tried shows that after a time interest lags in this method of beautification and the hanging gardens take on the aspect of an arid waste.

As an alternative the civic development department suggested, in response to an inquiry, that to make the business district of American cities more attractive attention might better be directed to setting a better standard of taste in architecture and in regard to street fixtures and creating a public opinion which will demand only that which is good.

It also recommends the appointment of special committees to advise on facades of new buildings, pointing to the experience of the national capital and one or two other cities where the local chapters of the Institute of Architects effectively serves that purpose.

Profit in Beauty

Where villages are being made more beautiful, the impetus has come in nearly every case from local initiative. Villages that have well-planned streets, attractive recreation spots and pleasing approaches are nearly always indebted for these advantages to the energy and public spirit of some small group of citizens. Under such inspiration dump heaps have been turned into garden spots, unsightly shacks and dilapidated stores have been torn down and replaced by smart substantial business buildings, and extensive programs of landscape gardening and tree planting have been undertaken. Villages that have embarked on this path are finding that beauty pays. It improves local business and attracts tourist business. It enhances real estate values and has a powerful influence in raising individual standards of efficiency and enterprise.

Children Need "Home"

No one is more susceptible to environment and surroundings than a child, and it is the children who suffer most when the family is transplanted too frequently. Living in rented quarters is quite conducive to frequent moving, with resultant struggles to find and make congenial friends, to adjust oneself to different schools and often to different methods of instruction, to try to find a place in the new neighborhood. If the family is settled in its own home, friendships, school and church relationships can be permanent and lifelong, and each child feels that he has a place to fill in the community life. He will share his parents' feeling of responsibility as members of that community and he will do his best to make his home town the "best little place on earth."—New York Times.

Utilize Vacant Lots

You couldn't do a better thing for Talladega than to plan right now to plant flowers in what would otherwise be ugly spots in your city, namely, vacant lots here and there. If you don't care for posies, you might consider raising a garden. Anything is better than letting the vacant lots grow up into wilderness of weeds. The suggestion is one of whose adoption would mean much for a better looking city, and the appearances are important.—Talladega (Ala.) Daily Home.

Quest of Each Had to Do With Appetite

Here is one by the last mail, typical of the chortles of the old country, whose doings and being we all love to hear of: A land owner, while out for a walk early one morning, met an Irishman, who was generally regarded as a notorious poacher, relates the Montreal Family Herald.

"Good mornin', sorr," hailed the latter; "and phwat brings yer hanner out so early this mornin'?"

"Well, Pat," replied the land owner, "I just came out to see if I could get an appetite for my breakfast. And now what has brought you out so early, may I ask?"

"Och!" said Pat, "Oi just came out to see if Oi could get a breakfast for me appetite!"

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says: "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and inclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

His Judgment

"So Madam Ruff sings with feeling?" "Oh, yes! Hard feelings, I should say."

Cuticura for Pimply Faces.

To remove pimples and blackheads smear them with Cuticura Ointment. Wash off in five minutes with Cuticura Soap and hot water. Once clear keep your skin clear by using them for daily toilet purposes. Don't fail to include Cuticura Talcum. Advertisement.

Haste trips up its own heels.

Children Cry for

Fletcher's CASTORIA

MOTHER:— Fletcher's Castoria is a pleasant, harmless Substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Teething Drops and Soothing Syrups, especially prepared for Infants in arms and Children all ages.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

Hard to Do

"Profiteers," said Magistrate Jean Norris at a dinner in New York, "are not very easily done. Sometimes it is their cunning that protects them. Sometimes again it is their ignorance.

"A poverty-stricken swell butted in on a profiteer one day and offered, for a good round sum, to supply the man with a coat of arms.

"But the profiteer turned the swell down cold.

"'Nix, bo,' he said. 'I got more clothes now than I know what to do with.'"

Zambesi Makes Record

Zambesi river in flood recently exceeded all previous height records by eight feet. Clouds of spray completely enveloped the bridge which spans the canyon below the Victoria falls. The Victoria falls, a mile wide and 420 feet high, are double the width and more than twice the height of the Niagara falls. During the wet season the spray has been measured to reach a height of 3,000 feet.

He Said Much

Kindly Old Gent—Well, my little man, what would you like to be when you grow up?

Little Man—I'd like to be a nice old gentleman like you, with nothing to do but walk about and ask questions.—Heywood Advertiser.

Films in Colors

A Belgian has invented a device which reproduces moving picture films on a screen in natural colors. He says it can be attached to any projection apparatus.

Area of Leading Cities

Few people could probably name the leading cities of the United States in the order of their area. New York comes first with an area of 318 square miles; New Orleans is second with 264 square miles; Chicago is third with 200 square miles; Philadelphia is fourth with 129 square miles; Seattle fifth with 90 square miles; Detroit sixth with 81 square miles.—New York Times.

Volcanic Toll of Life

Since the year 1500 A. D. 98 eruptions of 57 volcanoes have destroyed 190,000 people; of these 176,500 died on the Pacific half of the earth.—Science Service.

RESINOL

Soothing and Healing For Baby's Tender Skin

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Removes Dandruff-Stops Hair Falling Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair

60c and $1.00 at Druggists. Hiscox Chem. Wks., Patchogue, N.Y.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c by mail or at Druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

RUB YOUR EYES? Use Dr. Thompson's Eyewater. Buy at your druggist's or 1165 River, Troy, N. Y. Booklet.

Exchange for Clear Land—Three beautiful homes and store building; best location. Price, $37,000; incumbrance, $14,000; rental, $2,496 per yr. W. H. Penniston, Owner, E. Moline, Ill.

Her Neighbor's Advice Helped Mrs. Frick

MRS. ADA FRICK
PERRYSBURG, OHIO

"YOU can be just as healthy, strong and happy as I am,' said one woman to her neighbor after listening to the description of her ailments,—'if you will take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My condition was very similar to yours, I suffered from those awful bearing down pains, weakness, backache, nervousness and headaches until I could hardly drag around. Today I am strong, well and happy because I followed the advice of a friend who had been greatly benefited by this old-fashioned root and herb medicine."

Nearly fifty years ago Lydia E. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass. prepared from medicinal roots and herbs Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Its fame has spread from shore to shore. You will now find in every community or neighborhood some woman who has been restored to health by its use, or has some friend who has. Therefore ask your neighbor.

Thousands of unsolicited testimonials such as the following are on file at the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., and prove the merit of this medicine. Therefore no woman should continue to suffer from such ailments.

Mrs. Frick Tells of Her Experience

PERRYSBURG, OHIO—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I suffered with pains in my sides all the time. I can't remember just how long I suffered but it was for some time. One day I was talking with a neighbor and I told her how I was feeling and she said she had been just like I was with pains and nervous troubles and she took the Vegetable Compound and it helped her. So then I went and got some and I certainly recommend it for it is good. Whenever I see a woman who is sick I try to get her to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. ADA FRICK, R. No. 3, Perrysburg, Ohio.

Such letters Should induce others to try

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. LYNN, MASS.

Idle Hour Theatre

Saturday night, June 20—

"The Fighting American," with Pat O'Malley and Mary Astor. On land, in the air, on the sea and everywhere—sweeping situations that will bring you to your feet at their daring, or make you settle back for a good hearty laugh.

Also a good comedy.

Why COLONIAL Fuel Bills Are Less

AN advance was made in the furnace industry when the COLONIAL fire bowl was perfected. It means a daily fuel saving to COLONIAL furnace owners.

It is a one-piece, heavy, rugged, durable casting. The outer surface is ribbed for greater heating surface. In each rib is a slotted air flue to admit air over the fire.

A fire with more intense heat is the result. Your fuel goes farther. There is less ash waste.

See

L. W. Wesenberg

Goodell Iowa

GOODELL NEWS

Martin Grover and daughter Marjorie of Lenox, Illinois, who have been visiting the White family are to return home Monday.

Mr and Mrs. Clarence Newberger of near Klemme visited at the Jay Griggs home Sunday.

It seems as if the longed for rain came but it has rained a little too much. Storms have raging all around us and have been very destuctive.

Rev. Thompson was taken seriously ill Thursday and he was rushed to the Hampton hospital. He had a very serious operation, in the night, for appendicitis. We hope he is recovering rapidly at this writing.

Little Lawence Christie was taken to Hampton for an appendicitis operation.

Mrs. Charlie Chelsvig who is seriously ill in the Hampton hospital, has a nice baby boy. Mrs. Chelsvig is somewhat better at this time, for which her many riends are glad. They wish for her speedy recovery.

There were no services in the U. B. Church, Sunday on account of the illness of Rev. Thompson.

Mr. and Mrs. Grabor and Mr. and Mrs. Beier have gone north for a fishing vacation.

Esther Harberts, Edith Halfpop and Dorothy Lackore came home from Cedar Falls for an over Sunday visit with home folks. Harvey Hubbard took them to Cedar Falls Sunday.

Ed Hemingway and Mother and his sister Mrs. Kearney were called to Dourghty by the death of a relative.

Francis Mason drove to Alexandra to see the cyclone ruins.

Miss Dorothy O'Krueg returned from Cedar Rapids and is spending her vacation at home.

Francis Quigley has opened his barber shop again.

Too Late For Last Week

The many friends of Mr. A. D. White received word of his sudden deathy Friday. The funeral services were held at the house Sunday afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. Van Metre of Garner, preaced the sermon. The Masons, also the American Legion Boys took an active part in the funeral services. Mr. White was the last Civil War veteran of Goodell. The White families have the sympathy of this community.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus O'Krug left for Cedar Rapids Saturday ,to attend te commencement of their daughter Dorthea, who has taken up Missionary Work, and graduates from a four year course.

Rev. and Mrs. Thompson were call ing on friends west of town last week.

Maude Griggs is the new clerk in the Drug Store and Dorothy Allaben at Thada's Store.

Irene Ness is working for Mrs. Conwell this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Conwell are the parents of a baby boy born Friday.

Mr. Ribert Wilson of Hampton has visited at the Griggs, Cooks and Sherwood homes this week.

Casey Blank was visiting at the Miller home Sunday.

Mrs. Gordon Sherman of the West came here Friday to attend the funeral of her father.

Mrs. H. D. Kepman was visiting here Sunday.

Some of the people in this neighborhood are having their cows tested

IOWA STATE COLLEGE GRADUATES 758 STUDENTS

Ames, Iowa, June 15, Special:—Four Hundred and ninety-nine students walked out of State Gumnasium this noon with diplomas conferred upon them by Iowa State College. This brings the total number of graduates from thec ollege this year to 758, diplomas having been awarded to 259 students at the end of previous college terms.

John Hammill, governor of Iowa, delivered the commencement address. R. A. Pearson, president of the college conferred honorary doctor of science degrees on CSlyde W Warburton director of the extension service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and a graduate in agriculture at Iowa State College in 1902, and George E. Christie, director of the agricultural experiment station and of the extension service at Purdue University, a graduate in agriculture from Iowa State College in 1903.

A certificate for eminent service to agriculture was presented to Peder Pederson of Black Hawk County. Mr. Pederson is one of the outstanding farmers of the state.

Five students received doctor of science degrees; 9 professional degrees in engineering and agriculture; 64 master of medicine degrees 17 doctor of veterinary medicine degrees; and 34 certificates in noncollegiate agriculture and trades and industries.

The following student was a graduate from Hancock county: Winifred M. Gilbert, M. S. Botany.

LATE GARDEN CROPS FOR TABLE

Midsummr Planting Furnishes Fresh Vegetables Throuot Fall Months

Many garden crops, if planted in late summer, will keep the table supplied with the choicest quality of fresh vegetables throughout the fall months, says C. V. Holsinger, extension orticulturist, Iowa State College. This will be particularily appreciated since fresh vegetables are not on the market at that time of the year, he explains.

Beans may be planted up until July 15 and will mature early in September, furnishing the finest of snap beans for three or four weeks. Radishes planted in August will be ready for use in about 25 days. Common snipach may bep lanted the latter part of August or early September and this will last up untill real freezing weather comes.

Broad leaf endive should be planted about July 10 to 15. It will be ready for bleaching by the middle of September and will be found the equal of head lettuce for salads. It will be available thruout the fall. Carrots and beets planted from July 1 to 15 will be found especially good for early use and for canning. Turnips should be planted about July 15.

If the ground is very dry during the time when it is desired to plant the seed, apply water either with a hose, or by digging a small trench and pouring water into this, later planting the seed in these trenches.

FACTORS THAT REDUCE SUMMER MILK PRODUCTION

Drying pastures, hot weather and flies combine to decrease milk production. It is well known that these conditions must be faced during the latter part of the average summer season. As a result too much time passes before steps are taken by the dairymen to remedy the situation.

The ordinary pasture which submits to the first dry spell will be replaced by sweet clover, which is proving to be of great value as a pasture crop. Sweet clover will continue to grow after most other pasture grasses have dried up. The use of the summer silo is each year becoming more general, and is of great assistance as a summer source of feed.

Cows forced to be out in the sun during the hot days decrease in their production. Day stabling, which prevents exposure to the hot sun, would undoubtedly be more generally practiced if the supply of good labor was more plentiful. Until day stabling becomes more general the importance of providing shade for pastures cannot be over emphasized.

It has taken a long time to develop a fly repellent which will last more than a few hours and at the same time be reasonable in cost. There are no on the market preparations for combating flies which are proving out. It pays to reduce the fly nuisance rather than sacrifice on milk production.

It is difficult to bring a cow back to a full flow of milk, once the flow has been decreased. Thus it is important that reasonable means be taken during the coming weeks to counteract the factors, which will decrease production.

Is Raising Sixty Acres Pop Corn

J. J. Tebben, a farmer west of Belmond, has in a rather unusual crop for this community, popcorn. Mr. Tebben comes from Sac county where popcorn raising is carried on on a larger scale than field corn. He says that place is the largest pop corn raising place in the world. Mr. Tebben has 60 acres of popcorn this year.—Belmond Independent.

Mrs. Hod Lawhorn, of Garner, was a Klemme caller yesterday.

SAFETY FIRST

Mrs. Brown (telling about the burglar scare at her house)—"I hear a noise and got up, made a light and saw a man's foot sticking out from under the bed!"

Brs. Blue—Oh, Goodness! Was it the burglar's foot?

"No, my husband's. He heard the noise before I did!"

Fond Parent to Abe—How much is two times two?

Abie—Six.

F. P. No, Abie, that's wrong. The answer is four.

Abie— I know the answer, fadder, but I wanted to see you bargain.

THEY ALL TALK

A young man talks with pleasure, and an old man talks with ease; an orator talks like some men walk—six days, go as you please.

The preacher talks of sins and things, of hell's eternal fury; the lawyer hurls his jawbones at a mad but helpless jury.

Crossing the oceon by dirigible, like leaping from a second story window, has to be done in one jump.

AUCTION SALE

C. R. I. & P. Ry. will sell at auction, at their warehouse at west end of Main St., Klemme, Iowa, 500 Oil Mops complete with oil, June 26th, 1925, at 9:30 A. M.

M. O. BARR, Agent,
C. R. I. & P. Ry.

2wc

Dr. R. W. Specht

—Dentist—

Office Over Whitehead's Store

Office Phone No. 106

Garner Iowa

Kill 'em!

Now is a good time to get after the flies. You will find everything needed here to carry on the annual battle for the extermination of the pest:

Protect Old Dobbin!

We have a large supply of the very best nose bags, a good protection for your horses.

Keep Flies Out of the Barn—

We carry fly spray in bulk bring your own cans. Spray the cows, the barn and other buildings with this. Also spray pumps of all kinds in stock.

Kill The Bugs Now!

We recommend Arsenate of Lead for spraying all kinds of vines to kill bugs. Will not burn the vine.

For Your Home—

Screen your porch now, we screen in all sizes. A full supply of swatters—swat the fly now.

Jacobs & Son

Why Talk About

The High Cost of Living?

Trade at Abraham's at Garner and compare prices with others.

From now on we advise you all if you are looking for a real value and big money saving on your food—watch this space every week for our NEW PRICES.

We are not advertising our regular piices but our new prices as follows and the est for you to compare:—

Yeast Foam, pkg.	5c	Fancy Pink Salmon	15c
Palm Olive Soap, bar	5c	Fancy No. 2 can Tomato	13c
Karo Syrup, dark, gal.	50c	Bulk seedless Raisin lb.	10c
10 bars P G Soap	38c	SunMaid Raisin, 2 pkg.	25c
Peaches, large can	19c	Sardines, in oil, can	5c
Pork & Beans, 3 cans	25c	15 lbs. Sugar	$1.00
Sauerkraut, 3 cans for	25c	Macaroni, 4 pkgs.	25c
Alaska Red Salmon,	29c	Powdered Sugar, 1 lb.	10c

Bring your Eggs to Abraham's
Come early and avoid the rush at the Big Store at Garner, Iowa—

Abraham & Sons

Garner Iowa

Abraham's

June Specials

Two Big Bargain Days

Friday and Saturday

We are going to give the BIGGEST BARGAINS ever given in this Store. As we are re-modeling our Garner Store and we are working for a better and cleaner store and while we have been doing this changing about in every department we have found that we are loaded with lots of odds and ends in Merchandise; so we are GOING TO SACRIFICE PRICES and give the people of this community the BENEFIT OF GREAT SAVINGS for these two days—FRIDAY and SATURDAY.

1 Hour Sales

Come to Abraham's at Garner and save money. You will find every department loaded with merchandise at Big Savings.

Friday 3:00 to 4:00 P. M.

Regular 60 cent Broom - - 19c

(Limit one broom to a customer.)

Saturday 2:00 to 3:00 P. M.

Best 36 inch 25c Percale, yd. 13c

(Limit 10 yards to a customer.)

Trade At Abraham's—Everything to Eat and Wear!

Abraham's

GARNER, IOWA

Your Daily Meats

It is often quite a problem to know just what kind of Meat to have for dinner, Supper or Breakfast. We are always glad to help you and make suggestions on the best offering we have for the day.

Quality Meats

You will always find a good line of the best quality fresh and cured meats at this shop. We have on hand at this time an especially nice line of cold meats of all kinds which you will enjoy for a quick meal on hot days and for picnic lunches. Everything in the line of Pickles, Olives, Cheese, Ketchup, etc. to go with it.

Klemme Meat Market

Going Strong

WHEN IN NEED OF ANYTHING FOR THE AUTO COME IN, WE CARRY A FULL LINE OF

FAN BELTS PISTON RINGS ACCESSORIES
BLOW-OUT BOOTS TIRES & TUBES
STORAGE BATTERIES DRY CELLS HOT SHOTS
RIM LUGS and PARTS ALL KINDS GASKETS
MOTOR OILS GREASE GASOLINE

OUR F-O-R-D SERVICE

We are fully equipped to take care of any work you may wish to have done as follows:—Ford Magnets Re-charged; Coils Tested; Batteries Charged; Burning-in Stand to burn-in Motors; Crankshaft Truer to turn down egg-shaped crankshafts; Quick-Way Valve Grinding Machine refaces any size value; Also Babitt Machine to re-babbit Ford block. Mr. Chris Gram is in charge of our repair depatment and superintends all work. Mr. Gram has had experience in the Ford Plant and is well posted on all Ford Repair Work.

We are exclusive agents for NORTHLAND MOTOR OILS and GREASES. Get our prices first—we save you money.

Greimann Motor Co.

Ford Sales and Service Authorized Ford Dealers

The Cash Store

Just received a nice line of Men's Fancy DRESS SHIRTS; have different styles and patterns. Come in and see our display and make your selection.

Good assortment of Men's dress HATS in latest styles. No competition when it comes to price. A nice one at $2.00.

Special for Saturday

A GOOD BROOM 58c

"PAY CASH and PAY LESS"

Jno. N. Day's Cash Store

The World's Greatest Fortune Started with a Savings Account

It is easy to save and to acquire habits of thrift which means so much to one's future.

Without thrft and some systematic savings plan, fame and fortune and success are almost unattainable.

You can start an account here with any sum you may have on hand. A dollar will open an account at this bank.

If you want to start right you will START TODAY!

We pay 5 per cent interest on Savings Accounts.

State Savings Bank

Klemme Iowa

News of Klemme and Vicinity

Clarence Bachman has a barber assisting him at his shop.

Grandma Schlawin is reported to be on the sick list this week.

Glen Stokesbary has returned home from Council Bluffs, where he has been attending school.

The Fuller house where Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Barr reside, has been given a new coat of paint.

August Ridder drove to Alexander Tuesday to see the storm ruins.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Sampson were Mason City visitors Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Jorgenson and son, Buster, were at Mason City on business Monday.

FOR SALE—Chester White brood sows, to farrow this month. John Bachman. 1tc

Mrs. R. A. McConn and Mrs. P. M. Wilson drove to Hampton last week Thursday.

A baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chesvig, of Goodell, at the Hampton hospital.

Mrs. A. Ahrenkeil and son, of Goodell, were Klemme visitors Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Irving are enjoying company, from out of town, this week.

Quite a number from this vicinity drove over to Alexander Sunday to view the cyclone ruins.

Mrs. Arvella Levea, of Mason City, was visiting with her father, Mr. Al Emerson, and her little son, Warren, Monday evening.

Get ready for the 4th now. We have a full line of Fire Works on display in our store. Wilsons' Pahrmacy, Klemme, Iowa.

Fred Arnold came home from Ames the latter part of the week to spend his summer vacation with Klemme folks.

Mrs. C. G. Williams and daughter Kathryn, of Vinton, Iowa, came Monday afternoon for a two week's visit at the P. M. Wilson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Haupt and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schuldt drove to Cedar Falls Sunday for a visit with Edith Haupt, who is attending summer school there.

Verner Lewis and family, Mr. and Mrs. Lew Lewis and Mrs. Kirkwood drove to Grundy Center, Sunday, for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. "Stub" Lewis.

Mrs. Fred Reimer, of Le Mars, came last Wednesday evening to see her father, Rev. G. Heifner, who is not very well, and for a visit with other relatives.

A baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Greiman last week Wednesday. They now have a fine family of 5 boys and 3 girls.

Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Ross of Garner were Klemme visitors Tuesday. Dave was here to boost for the Garner Chautauqua which begins there July 3 and continues for four days.

This vicinity was visited by another good rain Tuesday night. We are sure getting plenty moisture at this time.

Mrs. Geo. Gruetzmacher will present her piano pupils in a recital at the Methodist church Friday evening. The program will be found in this issue.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wiles, and Mrs. Behringer drove up from Ames, Sunday. They brought Grandma Wiles back to Klemme. She had been visiting at Ames for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Madsen moved into the house vacated by the Blue family, last week. Mr. Madsen is the truck driver for the Standard Oil Co. here.

Another former Klemme girl is married. Miss Alverta Yahnke, of Garden City, Minn., was recently married and will live at Amboy, Minnesota, it is reported.

Henry Borchers and family, of Tuscolla, Illinois, came Saturday for a week's visit at the Ben Swalve home and with other Klemme relatives.

Mrs. Mary Waterman returned to Klemme Tuesday morning after a couple of week's visit with her daughter, Mrs. Chester Cullinan, at Belmond.

Charlie Fritzell attended the funeral of a nephew at Grundy Center Tuesday, who met death by accident. He fell from a telephone pole and was unconscious for a time, later he died from injuries received.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Albers and son drove to Plymouth. Wisconsin last week and their son, Fred Jr., came home with them. Fred, Jr., is attending the Mission House College at that place.

This vicinity had heavy rains last Thursday and Friday. The river and creeks were all over flowing their banks and the ground is soaked. In some places where the land is not well drained water is standing making large ponds.

Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Trumbell left Friday noon on their two week's vacation trip and auto trip to South and North Dakota, where they will visit relatives. Frank Gibbs is the carrier on Route 1 during Sumner's absence.

ATTENTION FARMERS!

You can raise more potatoes by spraying your vines with 'P. B. K." solution. This preparation is stronger than Paris Green, but will not burn the vines. Sold at Wilson's Pharmacy, Klemme, Iowa.

We are informed that Miss Julia Lilljenberg, sister of Mrs. F. Kluckhohn and Mrs. Harvey Stille, was married recently and she and her husband will live at Friend, Nebraska, where he is in the restaurant business. Congratulations!

Clarence Elder and Don Gibbs took Grandma Hattie Elder to Vernon Center, Minn., last Wednesday. She had been visiting in this vicinity since Decoration day. Clarence and Don also visited with Milvern Ell at Mankato during their stay in Minnesota.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ludeke and son Paul. are leaving today for an auto trip to Boscobel, Wisconsin, where they will visit with Mrs. Ludeke's folks. They expect to return Monday. Albert Fuller and daughter, Esther will look after the farm during their absence.

The Kings Heralds met at the E. J. Arnold home last Thursday and enjoyed a picnic. They also took up their thank offering and mite box and in this way raised $25 to go toward religious day school in Afria. All report having a fine time at the Arnold home in the country.

A large number of friends of Fred Albers, Jr. had a surprise party on him Tuesday evening. The occasion being a sort of welcome home affair as Fred just returned from college. All had a fine time.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Gram and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stille returned from their week's fishing trip at Mille Lac Lake, Minnesota. They had fine fishing but the camping was not so good as the weather was cold and rainy most of the time they were there. Paul says it was fun to see the dog-fish chase the cat-fish up a tree and to watch the gold-fish digging gold and sell stock in the mines to suckers, while the sun-fish basked in the moonlight in the afternoon before the bull-heads got bull-headed and quit biting. We told him it sounded fishy.

Dr. Zinn left last Thursday evening for Goshen, Indiana where he would visit with his nephew for a few days. From Goshen Doctor Zinn goes to Ann Harbor, Michigan where he will attend the commencement exercises of the university. Three of Dr. Zinn's nephews are in the graduating class; one nephew graduates from a law course, another from the medical and the third from a liberal arts course. After completing his visit at Ann Harbir, Dr. Zinn will go to London, Canada for a visit and from there to Hanover, Ontario, for a visit with his father who will soon be 95 years old. The old gentleman is in good health, feels fine and is quite spry.

AUGUST BAACK WRITES

Great Falls, Montana.
June 9, 1925.

Friend Jergie:—Just a line to inform you that we have changed ur address. We are all well and like the Falls just fine. I am feeling so much better here, as the air is light and dry. Had about 2 inches of snow here the 4th of June, but all disappeared again by night. How is everybody in Klemme? Please forward our paper to address below:

August W. Baack,
915 2nd. Ave., No. Great Falls, Mon.

GARNER CHAUTAUQUA
July 3-4-5-6

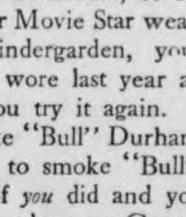
FIRST DAY—Afternoon
Introductory Exercises.
Concert, Lanz-McMahan Co.
Evening—
"The Gorilla," mystery drama.
SECOND DAY—Afternoon.
Concert, New York Lyric Singers.
Lecture, Prof. Harvey Moyer.
Evening—
Grand Concert, New York Singers.
TTHIRD DAY—Afternoon.
Musical Prelude, Kendree Co.
Lecture, Hon. J. N. Norton.
Evening—
Concert, Kendree Company.
Lecture, Hon. J. N. Norton.
FOURTH DAY—Afternoon.
Concert, Metropolitan Orchestra.
Readings, Edna Gordon.
Evening—
Comedy, 'Her Temporay Husband' by the Minneapolis Players Co.

Admission—Afternoons, adults 50 cents, children 15 cents. Evenings Adults 50 cents, children 25 cents, except last night, adults 75 cents.

KLEMME MARKETS

June 17, 1925

Wheat	1.50
Oats	.40
Corn	90—95
Barley	.75
Rye	1.00
Hogs	11.50—12.00
Eggs (Cash)	.25
Eggs (Trade)	.26
Heavy Hens	.18
Light Hens	.15
Standard Springs	.28
Leghorn No. 2 Springs	.23
Ducks	.14
Old Roosters	.08
Geese	.08
Butter (Creamery)	.45
Butterfat	.44



R. E. Porter
CHIROPRACTOR
Palmer Graduate
24 hours a day 7 days aweek
Office at John Lieuwen residence. Phone 191.
Belmond Iowa

The BULL'S EYE

Another "Bull" Durham advertisement by Will Rogers, Ziegfeld Follies and screen star, and leading American humorist. More coming. Watch for them.

A Miracle, A Truthful Ad

Did you ever read a truthful Ad. I mean one when you read it you would say, "That fellow really means what he says"? No you never did. You read where some Guy endorses an Overcoat, and to prove it he has one on, (or one they loaned him for the Picture). Now even if he did like it, what has that got to do with you. Peoples tastes are not alike. What difference does it make to anybody what some prominent Statesman, or Actor or Actress, or Movie Star wears. You are no kindergarden, you know what you wore last year and it pleased you try it again. Now I dont smoke "Bull" Durham, I am not going to smoke "Bull" Durham, but if you did and you liked it, why dont let some Guys Picture and indorsement tout you off on something else. Now the only way I could ever be caught in a falsehood with this ad would be to smoke it myself.

Will Rogers

P. S. There will be another piece here two weeks from now. Look for it.

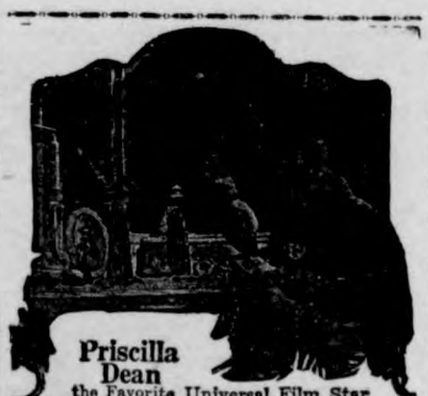
SIXTY-FIVE YEARS AGO!

In 1860 a blend of tobacco was born—"Bull" Durham. On quality alone it has won recognition wherever tobacco is known. It still offers the public this—more flavor, more enjoyment and a lot more money left at the end of a week's smoking.

TWO BAGS for 15 cents
100 cigarettes for 15 cents

"BULL" DURHAM

Guaranteed by
The American Tobacco Co.
INCORPORATED
111 Fifth Avenue, New York City



Priscilla Dean
the Favorite Universal Film Star says of the mysterious, distinctive
NEW GARDA ODOR
"Its strange, clinging delicacy always is a source of delight."
Have you tried the NEW Garda Toiletries? If not, try them now. You will be charmed. This complete line of products issued by the great
HOUSE OF WATKINS
(Established 1868.)
WINONA, MINNESOTA.
consists of seven rich creations:
GARDA FACE POWDER, ROUGE, FACE CREAM, PERFUME, TOILET WATER, NAIL POLISH, TALCUM
Learn to know and love Garda, as millions of women are doing. Ask information about Garda Toilet Preparations and 137 other Products from
THE WATKINS RETAILER

Floyd Fraser

NEW TAX CUT OF 15 PER CENT

Treasury Plans to Relieve Burden on Business—to Slash Surtaxes.

Washington.—The basis of the new "Mellon plan"—the tax program which the Treasury department soon will submit to congress—has been concluded by government experts. Its provisions as revealed at the department, would slash about 15 per cent from the present government toll, with the special aim of relieving the burden upon business.

The new scale is based upon the assumption that more than the expected $373,000,000 surplus may be available for the next cut.

The drafting of the treasury proposal has proceeded to such an extent that it may be stated upon good authority it will embody the following suggestions when it is forwarded to congress:

1.—The cut in the maximum surtax rate from the present 40 per cent to 20 per cent; change in present law so that the surtax would start at 1 per cent of $12,000 or $15,000 instead of $4,000.

2.—Elimination of tax on inheritance and large gifts completely.

3.—Repeal of publicity clause.

4.—Complete rewriting of the sections relating to deductions by business corporations for losses by depreciation, depletion, etc.

5.—Slight reduction in the arbitrary taxes upon jewelry, automobiles and admission to amusements.

No feasible way yet has been worked out to provide the reduction for the payer of normal taxes. The suggestion that present exemptions of $1,000 for a single man and $2,500 for a married man be raised to $2,000 for a single man and $3,500 for a married man has not been favorably received. It is the intention of administration leaders to have every one pay some tax.

Stone, Rail Labor Head, Dies in Cleveland Hospital

Cleveland, Ohio.—Warren Stanford Stone, sixty-five, labor leader and labor financier, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and all its far-reaching financial activities in banks, trust companies and other business ventures, died in a hospital here from an acute attack of Bright's disease. The attack is believed to have been due, in part, to the task of managing the organization's approximately $150,000,000 business interests. Mr. Stone's wife was at home here when death occurred. They had no children.

Mr. Stone conceived the idea of the new 22-story Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers' Bank building, owned by the brotherhood and leased to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers' Co-operative National bank. The building has just been completed.

Warren S. Stone.

Mr. Stone rose through the ranks to brotherhood leadership. He started as a locomotive fireman in 1870, became an engineer five years later and rounded out a quarter of a century in the cab. He was elected grand chief of the brotherhod in 1903.

Chinese Troops Fire on Americans in Canton

Canton.—Four Americans were fired upon here and all have been advised by the authorities to leave the city. Many are fleeing for safety. Yunnanese troops, in command of Canton, which the Cantonese forces are attempting to take, fired upon Mr. and Mrs. Frank Crampton and Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery Ogden of Orange, N. J., while the party was crossing the river in a launch flying the American flag.

Mrs. Crampton was wounded in the arm. Mr. Crampton is superintendent of buildings at Christian college.

Dies While Defying Death

Montreal.—Sir William Peterson died in Ottawa a few hours after he appeared before an investigating committee and assured it that not even his death could prevent fulfillment of a shipping contract he was seeking. He was stricken in the committee room.

Newsie to Rule N. S. Wales

New York.—A former newsboy, J. P. Lang, will be the new premier of New South Wales, a message received here said.

RAYMOND ORTEIG

Raymond Orteig, French-born American citizen, has offered a $25,000 prize for the first aviator to make a nonstop flight from Paris to New York. Mr. Orteig first became interested in aviation through personal friendship with French aviators during the war.

PREMIER FLIES TO MOOR FRONT IN PLANE

France to Use Air Force to Quell Tribesmen.

Paris.—The departure of Paul Painleve, premier and minister of war, who left for Morocco in an airplane, brought home to the French people the realization that war is in progress in north Africa.

The premier was accompanied by General Jacquemont, chief of the premier's military staff, and M. Laurent Eynas, undersecretary of state for aviation.

The presence of the undersecretary for aviation was interpreted in military circles as meaning that the government has resolved to discontinue "watchful waiting" while the Moors are concentrating and would throw into battle all the resources of France's peerless aviation contingents.

The activity around Bourget, Buc, Orly and Issy, the four leading airplane centers in the vicinity of Paris, is regarded as meaning that the request of Marshal Lyautey, the French resident general in Morocco, for an additional 150 planes will be granted. M. Painleve will confer with Marshal Lyautey on immediate campaign plans.

The Painleve cabinet is committed exclusively to defensive warfare in Morocco. The feeling was expressed in military circles, however, that France had decided to strike a great blow against the rebel tribesmen and force Abd-el-Krim, their leader, into submission.

7 Missing When Launch Burns; 12 Are Injured

Atlantic City, N. J.—Seven persons are missing and more than a dozen men and women are in the Atlantic hospital suffering from burns and submersion as the result of the 75-foot launch Crystal burning to the water's edge while carrying a party of club members of Northfield on a moonlight excursion. The launch caught fire when the boat was seven miles at sea.

The gasoline tank on board the launch exploded.

When a cutter reached the scene of the disaster they rescued 16 men and a woman. Many of these were badly burned.

According to the survivors it is believed that the explosion was caused by a lighted cigarette stub being dropped in some gasoline.

Six Chinese Killed While Aiding British at Hankow

Hankow.—Six Chinese were killed and many wounded while aiding in the defense of the British concession against thousands of rioting coolies.

Rioting started Thursday evening on the Butterfield and Swir wharf. Volunteers were mobilized and after three hours they appeared to have the situation well in hand.

Sailors landed from foreign gunboats to assist the volunteers.

Later coolies made a mass attack on the concession, whereuon the volunteers fired.

The situation is acute.

President Coolidge to Start Vacation June 23

Washington.—Plans for a quick departure for the summer White House, at Swampscott, immediately after the semiannual budget meeting, June 22, were made at the White House. Under present arrangements the President will leave Washington June 23, but it is possible he may delay a few days if the cool weather continues.

Alleged Bank Bandit Taken

Golconda, Ill.—The second of two men who held up and robbed the Carrsvile (Ky.) bank of $17,000 was captured at a farmhouse ten miles north of this place by Fred Glass, a deputy sheriff.

Storms Injure Scores

Des Moines, Iowa.—One was drowned, scores were injured and an immense property damage was caused by storms in southern Minnesota and northern Iowa on Friday night.

MEXICO WARNED TO GUARD YANKS

Secretary of State Kellogg Declares Republic Is on Trial.

Washington.—Official warning that Mexico must protect the lives and property of Americans and meet her international obligations or forfeit the support of the United States was given by Secretary of State Kellogg.

The secretary's action, taken shortly after the meeting of the cabinet, followed a two-days' conference with Ambassador Sheffield, who is in Washington on a short vacation from his duties in Mexico City.

It is understood that Secretary Kellogg was not satisfied with conditions in Mexico as reported by Ambassador Sheffield.

Secretary Kellogg's statement follows:

"I have discussed Mexican affairs with Ambassador Sheffield at great length. He has gone over the entire situation. It will be remembered that we entered into two claims conventions with Mexico under which joint claims commissions were appointed to adjust claims of American citizens for properties illegally taken by Mexico and for injuries to American citizens of their rights.

"These commissions are now sitting and will, in due time, adjudicate these claims. Conditions have improved and our ambassador has succeeded in protecting American, as well as foreign, interests. Our relations with the government are friendly, but, nevertheless, conditions are not entirely satisfactory and we are looking to and expect the Mexican government to restore properties illegally taken and to indemnify American citizens.

"A great deal of property of Americans has been taken under or in violation of the agragrian laws for which no compensation has been made, and other properties practically ruined. Mr. Sheffield will have the full support of this government and we will insist that inadequate protection be afforded American citizens.

"We believe it is the desire of the Mexican government to carry out the conventions and to indemnify American citizens for property taken. So long as we are satisfied that this is the policy of the Mexican government and this course of action is being carried out with a determination to meet its international obligations, that government will have the support of the United States.

"I have seen the statements published in the press that another revolutionary movement may be impending in Mexico. I very much hope this is not true. This government's attitude toward Mexico and toward threatened revolutionary movements was clearly set forth in 1923, when there was such a movement threatening.

"The attitude taken by this government at that time has since been maintained and it is now the policy of this government to use its influence and its support in behalf of stability and orderly constitutional procedure, but it should be made clear that this government will continue to support the government in Mexico only so long as it protects American lives and American rights and complies with its international engagements and obligations.

"The government of Mexico is now on trial before the world. We have been patient and realize, of course, that it takes time to bring about a stable government, but we cannot countenance violation of her obligations and failure to protect American citizens."

U. S. Ambassador to Berlin Sails to Assume New Post

New York.—Hoping to aid in bringing about a complete restoration of amicable relations between the governments and the peoples of the United States and Germany, Ambassador Jacob Gould Schurman, representative of this country in Berlin, sailed aboard the George Washington. "I devoutly hope that the nations will agree on a program to restore pre-war conditions in Europe," Mr. Schurman said in a statement before he sailed. "Particularly, I have nothing so much at heart as the restoration of friendship between the German and American governments and peoples."

Nations Outlaw Deadly Gas as War Weapon

Geneva.—Poison gas warfare and the use of chemicals and bacteria as weapons were outlawed by the international conference for the control of the traffic in arms, which adopted a protocol submitted by the American delegation providing these prohibitions.

Indiana Refuses Muster

Indianapolis.—Governor Jackson informed the War department at Washington that he considers it inadvisable for Indiana to take part in the Fourth of July defense muster as proposed by President Coolidge.

Starts Drive Against Tobacco

Harrisburg, Pa.—Prohibition of the manufacture and sale of tobacco was advocated in resolutions adopted at a meeting of the state committee of the Prohibition party here on Friday.

WILLIAM D. MITCHELL

William D. Mitchell of St. Paul, Minn., appointed by President Coolidge to succeed James M. Beck, resigned, as solicitor general of the United States.

MARKET QUOTATIONS BY U. S. GOVERNMENT

Washington.—For the week ending June 5.—FRUITS AND VEGETABLES—Sacked round white potatoes closed at $1.50@1.65 in Baltimore and Pittsburgh; northern stock, $1.10@1.30. Georgia Uneeda peaches, $2.25@2.75 per six-basket carrier. Imperial valley (California) salmon tints, $6.00@8.00 per standard 45. Watersmelons tend upwards. F. O. B. sales of Tom Watsons, 24 to 30-pound average, ranged $400@675 per car bulk in Leesburg section in Florida.

DAIRY PRODUCTS—Closing wholesale prices on 92-score butter: Philadelphia, 44c; Chicago, 42½c. Wholesale prices on Wisconsin primary markets June 4: Cheddars, 22¼c; single daisies, 22¾c; double daisies, 22¾c; longhorns, 23c, square prints, 23¾c.

GRAIN—Quoted June 5: No. 1 dark northern wheat: Minneapolis, $1.68½@1.86½. No. 2 red winter wheat: Chicago, $1.93½; St. Louis, $2.00@2.03; Kansas City, $1.74@1.80. No. 1 hard winter wheot: St. Louis, $1.73½. No. 2 hard winter wheat: Chicago, $1.72½@1.75½; Kansas City, $1.65@1.80. No. 3 mixed corn: Chicago, $1.14½@1.15½ Minneapolis, $1.07¾@1.10¾. No. 2 yellow corn: Chicago, $1.18½@1.19¾; St. Louis, $1.17½@1.18; Kansas City, $1.13. No. 3 yellow corn: Chicago, $1.17½@1.18½; Minneapolis, $1.11¾@1.12¾. No. 2 white corn: St. Louis, $1.16@1.16½; Kansas City, $1.11. No. 3 white corn: Chicago, $1.15½. No. 3 white oats: Chicago, 48@50¾c; Minneapolis, 46¾@47⅜c; St. Louis, 51@51½c; Kansas Cit, 51c.

LIVE STOCK—Chicago hog prices closed at $12.40 for top, $12.00@12.20 for bulk. Medium and good beef steers, $8.50@11.40; butcher cows and heifers, $4.00@ 11.25; feeders steers, $5.50@8.25; light and medium weight veal calves, $8.25@11.00. Fat lambs, $13.25@15.50; yearlings, $11.00@13.50; fat ewes, $4.25@7.25.

Shepherd Murder Trial Jury Finally Completed

Chicago.—Twelve jurors were sworn to sift the evidence and return a verdict finding William D. Shepherd guilty or innocent of the murder of William McClintock.

The trial itself began in the courtroom of Judge Thomas J. Lynch in the Criminal court building. The issue to be settled is this: Did Shepherd deliberately infect McClintock with typhoid germs or did the young millionaire contract typhoid fever accidentally through contaminated oysters?

Upon the belief expressed by this jury in its verdict may depend the disposal of the $1,000,000 estate the twenty-year-old youth bequeathed to Shepherd alone. Of course, the verdict will mean also freedom or imprisonment, life, or death, to Shepherd.

3 Killed, 15 Hurt When Lightning Hits School

Breckenridge, Texas.—At least three persons were killed and a number of others injured when lightning struck a schoolhouse ten miles south of here. The building was said to have been crowded with persons attending a massmeeting to discuss an irrigation project. The dead are: Carl Ledbetter, nine; a boy, eleven, and a girl, thirteen, of the Brolls family. Fifteen others were injured, five or six of them probably fatally. A seventeen-year-old sister of the two young Brolls victims is dying. Clyde Perry, twelve-year-old boy, living near Cisco, is expected to die.

Rents to Drop in Year Building Owners Say

Cleveland, Ohio.—A drop in rentals is due within the next year, delegates to the convention of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers predicted here.

Boat Burns; Three Drown

Milwaukee.—Three men, members of the crew of the fishing launch Mayflower, perished in Lake Michigan ten miles from the harbor entrance here when they chose death in the water rather than in the flames that were enveloping them as a blaze consumed their vessel.

U. S. Ambassador Hurt

Santiago, Chile.—William M. Collier, the American ambassador to Chile, was hurt in a street car-automobile collision.

.. Hawkeye .. State News

Interesting Items Gathered From all Parts of Iowa

While Berger Benson near Alta was in a hospital recovering from an operation his neighbors plowed 100 acres of corn for him.

The largest class in the history of the University of Iowa was graduated at commencement when 1,174 degrees were conferred.

Secretary of Agriculture William Jardine will give an address on the campus of the Iowa State college at Ames on the afternoon of July 10.

A Dubuque authority on birds and their habits stated that the owls will depart if a stuffed owl is mounted in a conspicuous place where the owls are troublesome.

Former Governor N. E. Kendall whose interesting travel letters have been greatly enjoyed during his world tour has written friends that he and Mrs. Kendall will arrive back in Des Moines July 6th.

New equipment has been added to the Des Moines postoffice for the reception of the air mail when the service starts July 1st, with this city as a stop on the transcontinental route.

A bolt of lightning from a clear sky while the sun was shining, struck and killed a team of horses. Albert Langman was driving while plowing corn near Denison. He was not even shocked.

The new Elkader creamery, which just completed its first month's business, turned out during the month of May close to 16,000 pounds of butter and paid its patrons over $6,000 for butterfat.

Fifty army tents were being sent from Des Moines to Neola, to relieve homeless families in a fifteen mile strip in Harrison, Shelby and Pottawattamie counties swept by a terrific wind storm.

Iowa, with a considerable lead over its neighboring state, Nebraska, exported merchandise during 1924 valued at $33,992,701, and finished thirtieth among the states in amounts of total exports.

Strong efforts are being made by the Greater Des Moines Committee to have Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover stop in the city following his address at Penn college, Oskaloosa, at the end of June.

A house party at the home of Mrs. L. G. Krull, Des Moines, is unique in that Mrs. J. E. Whitney of Oelwein and her nine great granddaughters, all granddaughters of granddaughters, comprise the party.

Des Moines, with other municipalities in the county, will help pay for the proposed state park southwest of Valley Junction, the city council voting $12,000 from the general fund and place it in the state park fund.

Strong efforts are being made by the Greater Des Moines Committee to have Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover stop in the city following his address at Penn college, Oskaloosa, at the end of June.

Iowa house wives who cook and can, bake and brew, knit and sew and attend to the other duties of the home may show their ability at the Iowa state fair in competition for cash prizes totaling hundreds of dollars.

Only 36,725 applications for federal adjusted compensation have been filed from Iowa according to the United States Veterans' bureau. This means that nearly two-thirds of Iowa's former service men have not applied.

Everyman's Bible class of the Knoxville Methodist Episcopal church has challenged all men's Sunday school classes in Iowa towns of 3,750 population or less to a three-month attendance contest starting June 7th.

James Hagan, Pocahontas, 91 years old, left a will giving his entire estate, consisting of eighty acres of improved land one-half mile from Palmer, worth $20,000 to John M. Byrne, "his friend and neighbor," he having no relatives.

More than fifty different communities throughout the state have already started plans for the state and nationwide Fourth of July celebration sponsored by the Iowa and the American Farm Bureau federations.

Announcement was made recently of the first Iowa Young People's conference to be held at the Iowa state fair grounds July 13 to 19. Christian Endeavor societies over Iowa and most of the Protestant churches are co-operating for the conference.

The organization of a Hardin County Protective Association is now under way and already a goodly number of members has been enrolled. The purpose of this organization will be to curb the stealing of poultry and to protect all farm property.

Forty brethren of Tennyson Lodge, No. 530 of Barnes City, have each agreed to raise a pig for the benefit of the temple fund of the lodge.

Nearly 500 former service men from Audubon, Adair, Madison, Green, Guthrie anr Dallas counties met for their fifth annual picnic at Dexfield park.

★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★
★ ★
★ The Iowa corn crop is greater in value than the wheat crop of Canada or Argentine. ★
★ ★
★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★

Help That Achy Back!

Is backache making you miserable? Are you tired, nervous, "blue"—utterly played out? Have you suspected your kidneys? Your kidneys are the blood filters. Once they fall behind in their work, there's slow poisoning of blood and nerves. Then is apt to come backache, headaches, dizziness, and other annoying kidney irregularities. Don't wait! If your kidneys are sluggish, help them with a stimulant diuretic. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are recommended the world over. Ask your neighbor!

An Iowa Case

Mrs. Charles Harms, Prairie Avenue, Clarion, Iowa, says: "My kidneys were weak and I had dull backaches and pains over my kidneys made it hard to keep going. Mornings I felt dull and sluggish and my kidneys acted irregularly, too. Doan's Pills relieved me of all signs of kidney complaint."

DOAN'S PILLS 60c

STIMULANT DIURETIC TO THE KIDNEYS

Foster-Milburn Co., Mfg. Chem., Buffalo, N. Y.

Chinese See Disaster

As though the atmosphere of Peking were not thick enough with rumors and omens of impending national catastrophe, a message has been brought in from Taiyuanfu, capital of Shansi province, to the effect that three "white rainbows" have been seen there, writes a Chinese correspondent. Instances dating back to the Wu dynasty are cited to bolster the indication that both internecine and extraneous troubles are in store for China in the near future.

Sure Relief FOR INDIGESTION

6 BELL-ANS
Hot water
Sure Relief

BELL-ANS

25¢ AND 75¢ PACKAGES EVERYWHERE

Odd Fishing

Several hundred Indians, including women and children, assembled at Fisher Bay, at the mouth of the Nelson river, in early spring, awaiting the arrival of the oolichans, according to word from Prince Rupert, British Columbia. The annual run of the fish usually lasts a month. The Indians come from great distances to fish for them through the ice, and out of the catch they make oolichan grease which they use in place of butter. In previous years as many as 1,000 of the Indians have assembled at the mouth of the river, but this year there were not more than 300.

Miles and Miles

The American mile is 1,760 yards and so is the English mile. The Roman mile was 1,620 yards, and those in use at various times and in various places on the European continent ranged all the way from 1,100 to more than 12,000 yards. But the mile has been pretty much superseded in Europe by the kilometer, a unit of the metric system, and it is really a "European mile." A kilometer measures 3,280.8 feet, which is not quite five-eighths of a mile.

Proving It

"Before marriage I used to tell a girl that I loved her four worlds and that was ample."

"And now?"

"I have to tell my wife that I love her $50 worth and I have to prove the fifty, by heck."

ECZEMA

After Others Fail

PETERSON'S OINTMENT

Big Box 35 Cents

The mighty healing power of Peterson's Ointment when eczema or tetter, itching of skin and scalp tortures, is known to tens of thousands of people the country over.

For pimples, acne, rough and scaly skin, ulcers, old sores, piles and blemishes and eruptions it is superbly efficient, as any broad-minded druggist will tell you.

Never Failed Her in 60 Years

"Beecham's Pills have been a byword in our home for over 60 years, and were in my mother's home in England. Now I am 70 years old.

"I have never known Beecham's Pills to fail to relieve the worst headaches and constipation."

Mrs. G. Russell, Pittsburgh

For FREE SAMPLE—write B. F. Allen Co., 417 Canal Street, New York

Buy from your druggist in 25 and 50c boxes

For constipation, biliousness, sick headache and other digestive ailments take

Beecham's Pills

Baby Loves A Bath With Cuticura Soap

Bland and Soothing to Tender Skins

EOPLE TALKED ABOUT

s the U. S. Chamber of Commerce

John William O'Leary of Chicago is the new president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and, therefore, leader of the most important body of business men and business organizations in the world. Mr. O'Leary is the third president of the supreme organization of the nation's business from Chicago. He follows Harry A. Wheeler, the chamber's first president and twice re-elected, and Joseph H. Defrees who served two terms. His connections with business and civic enterprises are varied and numerous. Before moving up he was already vice president and director of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and he is vice chairman of the National Industrial Conference board. He is of the resolute group which organized the Citizen's Committee to Enforce the Landis Award of which he is vice chairman. He is vice president and f the great open religious forum, the Chicago Sunday Evening club; of Wesley Memorial hospital, director of the Committee of Fifteen, of the Chicago Crime commission and of the Infant Welfare society. the advisory committee of the Military Training Camps' association related to the Boy Scouts of America. He is the lay head of his home Oakland Methodist Episcopal.

hot Picks Butler to Succeed Him way of keeping his promise people of the state that he o fishing at the end of his Governor Pinchot (portrait has been angling for a to succeed himself in the office.

hopes, he says, to land Gen. Darlington Butler for the job. king overtures to responsible leaders on Butler's behalf, ts him as a running mate on ticket next year. He smiles obstacles which deter Butler. more than a year Mr. Pinchot's been set on finding some one could depend upon to conlrs at Harrisburg in conformthe Pinchot policy. He has the conclusion that more than r man in the state not allied e Republican organization, s the man. Pinchot wants to office over to some one who r a course in the Pinchot manner. "My policies," will be Pinchot's n the gubernatorial and senatorial campaigns.

Pinchot has received little encouragement either from politicians ed with him or from the Butler family. It is said the general has no on to set himself up as a victim for the crowd he has been fighting first day he arrived in Philadelphia to clean it up, although he would be governor. His father, Congressman Thomas S. Butler, a practical n sees little prospect of the general's success without organized sup- d that he knows will be lacking.

re have been several conferences of Pinchot and his allies at which Mr. urged the fitness of Butler, each time with renewed vigor and increasidence.

bassador Schurman Liked in Berlin

The grabbing is not so good in that political grab bag—the diplomatic service—as it used to be. This is proved by President Coolidge's promotion recently of such men as Secretary of State Kellogg, Ambassador Houghton, Doctor Schurman (portrait herewith) and the promotion of a number of others who chose a career in the diplomatic service to the rank of minister. With the reorganization of our foreign service following the passage of the Rogers bill last summer, and the inauguration of a policy providing our representatives abroad with government-owned domiciles, the American diplomatic service is becoming a profession, the political experts say. Gradually we are getting away from the old conception that the more important posts were best disposed of by paying political debts, especially to generous campaign contributors.

Anyway, Doctor Schurman, who en moved from Peking to Berlin, is persona grata in Germany. The president of Cornell university knows the German language well and ainted with German manners, habits and customs, and there is no doubt e post in Berlin is important these days and needs an experienced and man.

y the Sorrows of John F. Scopes

y the sorrows of young John F. (picture herewith), who is to wn and quartered or something kind, if the law upholds the intentions of the Tennessee au- s. You see the young man is a teacher in the Rhea county chool and—whisper it—he has areless in his references to the e of evolution—so careless in- that he's been arrested and guilty and held to the grand nd all sorts of things—and the not yet. For it's against the aw in Tennessee for a teacher ak favorably of evolution: the account of the creation is be the literal and exact truth. William Jennings Bryan will against evolution and various ists will thunder for it. And t of the country—or most of it either laugh or frown.

r the situation has its serious Previous school laws have excluded religion from the field of public upported lay education. The Tennessee law is the exact opposite in that ludes religion. The separation of church and state is a fundamental prin- f American liberty. The Tennessee law reverses it.

Norse-Americans Hear President Coolidge

View of the great throng that heard President Coolidge's address at the Norse-American centennial celebration on the Minnesota State Fair grounds, and, inset, the President delivering the speech.

Sphinx, at Michigan University, Gets New Members

Members of the Sphinx, the highest academic honor society at the University of Michigan, initiating some of the new members of the society. These "victims" are bound and gagged, wrapped like mummies and then placed helpless on a dray. They are then beaten on the feet. This treatment has been deplored by the college heads and it is likely steps will be taken to make the initiation less severe.

First Aid Work by the Boy Scouts

Intense heat during the big meeting of boy scouts of Washington and vicinity on Bolling field made especially interesting their demonstrations of first aid to those affected by the high temperature. The work of the boys was highly efficient.

From Two Cities of California

Miss Edythe Flynn, who will be "Miss San Francisco," and Miss Sibyl Grimes, who will be "Miss Berkeley," representing these California cities in the beauty pageant at Atlantic City.

TRANSATLANTIC FLYER

Lieut. Paul Tarascon, noted French war ace, who served through the war with a wooden leg, is to attempt a flight from Paris to New York, nonstop, in July, in a specially built hydroplane. A prize of $25,000, offered by Raymond Ortieg, New York hotel man, is waiting for the first man to make the 5,000-mile trip.

ORATORY PRIZE WINNER

Wight Baake, junior in the college of liberal arts of Northwestern university, Evanston, Ill., who won the national intercollegiate contest in Los Angeles, Cal., and a first prize of $2,000 and international fame as the student in American universities who best presented the cause of the Federal Constitution. Baake hails from Onawa, Iowa, and is twenty-two years old.

The AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

GRANTS OF RELIEF FOR WAR VETERANS

World war veterans, particularly those who are disabled, are benefiting by appropriations and grants of relief totaling $426,987,750 made at the recent session of congress, according to a report received by National Commander James A. Drain from John Thomas Taylor, vice chairman of the Legion's national legislative committee. The Legion was active in securing the passage of this legislation.

For the operation of the United States Veterans' bureau $405,700,000 was appropriated. Ten million dollars is available for new hospital construction. An appropriation of $7,487,750 is available for enlargements and alterations at various Veterans' bureau hospitals, at the hospital at the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers at Santa Monica, Calif., and at Walter Reed hospital at Washington, D. C.

Compensation under the Johnson bill will be paid to about 5,000 veterans heretofore denied it on the ground of willful misconduct. They will benefit to the extent of $2,000,000 annually from this provision.

Overpayments on "Class E" allotments made during the war will not have to be repaid to the government by veterans as a result of a law enacted with Legion support. A total of $1,800,000 was involved. The allotments were made to wife, mother or children. In many cases the overpayments represent duplicate payments made to wife and mother. Refunds were authorized to veterans on federal irrigation projects.

Appropriations for the various branches of the national defense were supported by the Legion. They were: Army, $331,000,000; navy, $400,000,000; National Guard, $32,938,546; aviation, $35,750,000; civilian military training camps, $2,807,471; officers' reserve corps, $3,142,800.

Appropriations for the civilian military training camps and for the officers' reserve corps were increased beyond budget recommendations largely as a result of Legion efforts. They also exceeded the appropriations made in 1924, although a decrease had been recommended by the bureau of the budget. The increase over the budget recommendation was $487,471 for the training camps and $452,334 for the officers' reserve.

THE ENDOWMENT FUND

IN ACCEPTING an invitation to serve on the American Legion honorary committee to raise a $5,000,000 endowment fund for disabled veterans and orphans of the World war, John Barton Payne, national chairman of the American Red Cross, wrote:

"The American Legion, in setting out to raise an endowment fund for its work with war orphans and disabled veterans, has undertaken a task near to the hearts of all true Americans. The appeal of the child and the disabled is a universal one and when this appeal has blended with it the thought of sacrifice for the country's welfare, the response should be prompt and sufficient.

"The American Legion's child welfare program is conceived in accordance with the most progressive and sound principles on the care of children. Seeking to keep these children in their own or foster homes where they may have the kindly personal touch of their own mother or foster mother is of immense importance to these future citizens.

"I trust that the endowment fund campaign will be successful and that the American Legion will be able to carry through to successful conclusion this fine program of service that has been inaugurated."

Department of Florida Wins Lindsley Trophy

The American Legion, department of Florida, for the second consecutive year, won the Henry D. Lindsley membership trophy awarded annually to the department of the Legion attaining the highest percentage of membership over its preceding year's membership by March. Florida's percentage was 89.12, less than 1 per cent ahead of Delaware with 88.30. Nebraska, one of the large departments of the Legion, finished third with a percentage of 83.34.

Commenting on the contest, Frank Samuel, director of membership and organization at national headquarters, said: "In many ways the 1925 membership race was the greatest yet. Twenty departments each had on March 1 50 per cent or more of their 1924 membership paid up for 1925. The membership situation has never been better and in great measure this is due to the activities of Lindsley trophy aspirants."

Thus each one talks and talks and talks, each of his own speech proud est, forgetful of the patent fact its money that talks the loudest.

Reboring
—And—
Rehoning

"The Better Method of Cylinder Re - conditioning.

McQuay Norris Quality Rings

Sales & Service

PAVEY'S

STORMIZING SHOP

THIS IS THE RIGHT PLACE

To buy your Cigars, Cigarettes, Smoking and Chewing Tobacco—our stock is always nice and fresh.

We carry a complete line of box and bulk fancy candy.

Refreshing soft drings.

And, why not step in and play a social game of pool while in town?

SMITH'S BILLARD HALL

Jig Jog Jags

A Little Joshing Now and Then Will Get the Goat of Many Men

OH — OH —

Sonny—Dad, the new boy next door said I looked like you."

Father—Well, Did you thank him?

Sonny—Naw—I didn't say anything. You see he is a lot bigger than me.

CARE IN SPEECH

Mother—Curiosity killed the cat, you know."

Teener—So direct and tactlessly put, mother. You should say; such interest made orphans out of several kittens.' '

REFINEMENT

Pa—That old maid next door has some new kind of flowers in her yard."

Ma—What does she call them?"

Pa—Dutchman's Knickers."

CAREFUL TALK

"What is the cause of all the excitement down at the zoo."

"I can't tell you. The editor of this paper would never publish it. It would be free advertising.

"What do you mean—free advertising?"

"Well, one of the camels got loose and the keeper had to walk a mile for it.'

'So you and your wife had some words?" inquired the judge.

"Well, I had some, your honor, but Ididn't get a chance to use them.

"Dear, what are these things?" asked the absent-minded professor as he bit into something his brand new wife had set on the table.

"Why, stupid, they are doughnuts."

"Why, so they are; how thoughtless of me. Bring in the nut cracking set, will you dear?"

"Say, I thought you weren't going to smoke cigarettes any longer."

"I'm not. These are the same size."

"Dear me, they say Boston's so cultured that many children have have never heard of the Three Bears

"No, but they've all heard of their Forbears."

Art Stude—How many kinds of milk are there?

Prof— Why, there's condensed milk, and—but why do you ask?"

Art Stude—Well, I was drawing a picture of a cow, and wanted to know how many faucets to puton her.

"What do you mean by saying that Benedict Arnold was a janitor?"

'The book says that after his exile, he spent the rest of his life in abasement.

He—What kind of shoes do you think I ought to wear with these golf hose?

She—Hip Boots.

"Jack has the cutest way of kissing."

"Yes, it's cute. I taught him that."

Did you ever hear the story of the Scotchman who after twenty years as a golf enthusiast gave up the game because he lost his ball ?

HELPFUL HINTS FOR SUMMER

When overheated, a good look at the empty coal bin should give a chilling effect.

Dont' throw that worn-out lawn mover away. Lend it to your neighbour the next time he comes to borrow things. This will soon discourage the habit.

A couple of tairlor's dummies placed near the hole in the screen will serve to discourage mosquitoes.

For those who object to the smell of oranges being eaten near them on excursions: Rub a quantity of castor oil in the hair. This will guarantee you the solitude you desire.

NOT IN NATURE

City Bred (pointing to haystack): What kind of a house is that?

Ciuntry Bred—That ain't a house that's hay.

City Bred—Say you can't fool me, hay doesn't grow in a lump like that

A FINE JOB

He—Yes, once I loved a girl and she made a fool of me.

She (trifle bored) — My—what a lasting impression some girls do make Tessie—I'd like to see something in skirts, please.

Clerk—Skirts—Why this is the arbage pail section.

Tessie—Well ,they told me to come to the waist department.

How can I drive a nail without hitting my finger?"

"Let your wife hold it."

"I say, old man, you had my girl out last night.

"Tut, tut, don't mention it. You can do me a favor some time."

He—Now let me see, flowers $4. taxi $1.00 dinner $5.00 prom $10.00 and then back to the hotel $1.00

She—What is this, John—do you call it mental arithmetic?

He—No, no, Dot — sentimental arithmetic.

People who know their oats usually reap a big harvest.

"Oh, I've had my shot at this pub lic speaking stuff,' 'remarked Antwerp Andy, who has done just about everything in this world, "when I was a kid I used to call up my girl over a rural telephone.' '

SPORTSMANSHIP ON THE LINKS

The Colonel— Confound it, sir, you nearly hit my wife!

Mr. Miggs—Did I? Well, have a shot at mine."

LEARN HOW TO RAISE PIGS AT IOWA STATE FAIR

Des Moines, June 18, Special—With Iowa now the largest swine-producing state in the Union, plans are being laid this month to still further increase the state's production of pork through a wider use of the famous "McLean County Systtem" of hog raising. Expert believe it will have a far reaching effect, once it is in full operation throughout the state.

This system, which was first developed in McLean County, Illinois, increases swine production and lowers the cost of hog raising through prevention of disease and death among young pigs. Its chief basis for obtaining results is the placing of pigs in fresh, green lots, instead of old, infected lots which have been overrun by hogs.

To reach farmers throughout the state, government and state officials are planning a large exhibit at the coming Iowa State Fair, showing live pigs raised under new system. On one side of the exhibit will be a typical, old style hog lot, with typical pigs raised in such alot—pigs having "thumps" and the other disease which come from such surroundings. Addjoining this will be a hog lot planted to alfalfa, with modern building, and with pigs reared in such a lot.

Officials belive that the contrast between the two litters of hogs will be sufficient to induce thousands of farmers to try out this improved method. Government authorities, experts from I owa State College and Farm Bureau men who have been us ng the McLean System will be on duty with the exhibit to explain it to Swine-raisers who are interested in trying this plan.

WINDOW GLASS IS HARMFUL

Ordinary Product Excludes Beneficial Rays of Sun

Would a green house made an ideal poultry house? Well, not if it were constructed from ordinary glass, for ordinary glass will not allow ultra-vialet rays to pass throu, and these rays are essential to life, scientists say. Prof L. V. Crum, physicst, Iowa State College has just completed some tests which serve to substantiate this claim.

Professor Orum took 24 young chickens which had been kept under glass for three weeks and divided them into three groups of eight each One group he put under a new product known as glass cloth, another he put under celo-glass, which is made from screen wire with the meshes filled with a glass-like substance while the third group he left under ordinary glass. All three groups were cared for alike for four weeks.

Two of the chickens kept under ordinary glass died of rickets, while the other six made a gain of only 180 percent during the four weeks. All of the chickens kept under the glass cloth lived and made gains of 250 percent. The six chicks which lived out of the group kept under celo-glass gained 300 per cent. Altho of the chickens in this group died, Professore Crum states that one of these died from some unavoidable cause, and the other which died from rickets had already contracted the disease before the test began. He intends to continue his studies along this line.

A high tension electric wire became detached and dropped on a woven-wire fence on the premises of George W. Polk at Quasqueton, Buchanan county. Mrs. Polk noticed the grass burning near the garage and she threw a pail of water on the blaze by the fence. The woven wire fence was so charged that when the water came in contact with it it carried the current through her body killing her instantly. The current had to be shut off before her body could be removed. The high tension line carried 13,000 volts.

Shipping orders covering transmission to Iowa of world war trophies allotted to the state by the war department, have been received by Adjutant General L. G.Lashed. The trophies include guns, mortors, howitzers, minnuwefer, machine guns, rifles, sabers, swords, lances, helmets canteens, bayonets and a mass of miscellaneous material. The state historical department will have first choice, after which the artillery will be allotted according to the preferential list: Cemeteries having burial plots for world war soldiers, the Camp Dodge reservation, state parks state soldiers homes, city parks and state colleges.

Scientists have established that the greatest depth of the ocean is six miles. The first hundred feet are the hardest.

GROWING SMILES

A smile is quite a funny thing;
It wrinkles up your face
And when it's gone you never find
It's secret hinding place.

But far more wonderful it is
To see what smiles can do;
You smile at one, he smiles at you,
And so one smile makes two

He smiles at some one since you smiled,
And then that one smiles beak;
And that one smiles until in truth
You fail in keeping track.

Now, since a smile can do a great good
Let's smile and smile and not forget
That smiles go everywhere!

Author Unknown

KEEP THE BOY BUSY

The youth who is permitted to drive "dads" auto as he pleases in this day and is not taught hard manual labor is not being treated fairly by his parents. He has a handi in life which he cannot overcome. him has been sown te frui ground from which today's crimi are made. For the sake of the make him work and earn his spending money and clothing. M him keep reasonable hours and gad the street at night. Do not mit him and a bunch of youth companions to chase all over country in the family auto. For doing these things you are sow the wind and will reap the wh wind—Ringsted Dispatch.

"Hang Onto Iowa Land", Says ton Banker

"Hang onto Iowa land. Its ue will increase steadily," said ident Wolenberg in addressing bankers' convention at Vinton cently. There was not a bank meeting in the state in which same advice was not given in form or another. It is the uni sal belief that Iowa land is on upgrade in price, and while no bo as of a few years ago is expected steady rise in value is looked

America's Best Serge Suit Value $30

Quality, Fine Tailoring and Fit at a Low Price

The man who appreciates real honest value in his clothes and is naturally conservative in his tastes will find unusual satisfaction in these special numbers: satisfaction not only in the service they will render, but also in the saving at our low price.

The colors are blue and gray. Sizes 36 to 46 stouts and regulars.

At $30 an extraordinary value!

Patton Brothers Co.

Where a Dollar Does It's Duty
Mason City, Iowa.

Old Fences Made New At Slight Expense

IT DOESN'T take much time nowadays to keep fence lines stock-tight and in good repair. Not if you use these quick driven Red Top Steel Posts.

You can drive 20 or 30 Red Tops in an hour. And the fencing is attached in a jiffy so that it will never pull away. This means that you can get a lot of fence repaired even in odd moments.

It's pretty risky business letting fence lines go hang while waiting for a time when work is slack to put them in shape. The damage to stock or crops that can come from just one weak spot may be larger than the entire expense of keeping the fences in good shape. An ounce of prevention is certainly worth while here.

Keep a small stock of Red Tops on hand and get one of these One-Man Drivers. Then when you see a wood post going bad simply drive a Red Top alongside, take out the wood post and fasten the fencing to the steel post. These Red Tops will stop any farm critter you've got on your place.

We personally guarantee Red Tops and we are authorized to make adjustments promptly. Red Tops are not an experiment. They are a proved success and have been giving a good account of themselves in thousands of farm fence lines.

We picked the Red Top line because we believe it is the best value. That's the way we try to buy all lines of goods. We expect our business to grow on the basis of giving you a full dollar's worth for every dollar you spend. Come in and see us when you're in town. Get our prices on posts and the other materials you're needing. Prices are mighty reasonable now on posts and other special items.

Red Top
GUARANTEED
Double Strength Studded Tee
Steel Fence Posts

Northern Lumber Co.

"EVERYTHING TO BUILD ANYTHING"

DINNERWARE
DISHES

Our stock of all kinds of Dishes and Dinnerware Sets is complete. We have just received a new assortment of Dinnerware and can give you a variety of patterns to select from:

ENGLISH DINNERWARE SETS

DOMESTIC DINNERWARE SETS.

We have complete sets at very reasoable prices. You can buy any amount you desire and can add any extra pieces to your set from our large stock. It will pay you to look over our fine line before buying elsewhere. Our prices are very reasonable.

DISHES FOR HARVEST

Harvest time will soon be here and we have prepared for your wants along the line of Whiteware Dishes of all kinds, especially suited for threshing dinners. Save your good dishes by having a set of these. Also a full line of bowls, pans, kettles, etc.

MISCELLANEOUS DISHES

We carry a nice line of odds and ends in the way of dishes, bowls, platters, glassware of all kinds, chinaware, tumblers, pitchers, etc. In fact, our stock is complete.

See the Sample Dinner Sets On dislpay in our window—

G.W. Kluckhohn & Sons

Friendly Spirit

Our aim is to have the spirit of friendliness and good will hovering over the First National Bank at all times. The glad hand of welcome is extended to all. Come in often and get better acquainted. You will like our friendly spirit.

First National Bank
KLEMME, IOWA.

o o o o o o o o o o o o o
o KLEMME BUSINESS PLACES o
o Will be open on Friday Evening o
o July 3rd. Closed all day on July o
o 4th. Band concert Friday night. o
o o o o o o o o o o o o o

THE KLEMME TIMES

Twenty-ninth Year—Number 42. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, JUNE 25, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

DEALS IN HANCOCK COUNTY REAL ESTATE PAST WEEK

Many Land Deals Are Recorded This Week In This Column Of News

N. F. Nelson to Hancock county, Easement date 6-13-25, $50.00, .03 acres in NW corner of 22-97-25.

E. P. Hanson, Shff to M. H. Weigman, Sheriff's deed date 6-16-25. $5255.73, SW¼ 24-96-24.

Henry Hesley wf to Farmers Nat. Bank, Crystal Lake, Io., W D date 6-8-25, $1250.00 lots 3-10 & E½ lots 2-11 blk 2 Maple Hill add, Britt.

W. J. Barz wf to O. F. Donaldson W D 5-1-25, $20,200.00 NW¼ 16-97-24.

L. S. Lewis to Public, Aff'd date 6-4-25 in regard to title to NW¼ 16-97-24.

H. C. Meyer to Public, Aff'd, date 6-4-25, in regard to title to NW¼ 16-97-24.

O. F. Donaldson wf to Jefferson Land Company, W D date 6-12-24, $1.00 etc, NW¼ 16-97-24.

Emma Lackore et al to Henry ry Christianson, Guardians Deed, dte 3-11-25, $750.00 NW¼ 31-94-23 ex. 20 a of W½ NW¼ 31-94-23 and ex. 1 a in NW corner of NE¼ NWlb 31-94-23 and except 10 a in 31-94-23.

Emma Lackokre et al to Henry Christiansen, Q C D date 1-30-25, NW¼ $4000.00 NW¼ 31-94-23 and ex. 20 a. of W½ NW¼ 319-4-23 & ex. 10 a. in 31-94-24 and 1 a.

Dora Christiansen to Henry Christiansen Q C D date 3-25-25, $1.00, Same description as last above.

Harvey Christiansen to Henry Christinsen Q C D date 6-16-25, $1, Same description as second above.

Peter Lackore to Public, Aff'd, date 6-15-25, in regard to title to NW¼ 31-94-23, ex 20 a, and an ex 10 a. adn ex. 1 a. in NW¼ 31-94-23

H. C. Hawthorn to First Nat. Bk. Renwick, W D date 1-26-25, $32,000.00 SE¼ 1-95-23.

E. P. Hanson, Shff to C. H. Lackore Sheriff's deed, date 5-16-25, $2612,17, NE¼ 20-97-24.

E. P. Hanson, Shff. to Nellie J. Thomas, Sheriffs Deed, date 6-16-25, $1205.96, lots 3-4-5-7, in blk 3 Standrings add Corwith.

Henry Schuldt, wf to Ello H. Bamman W D date 4-24-25, $1.00, lot 41 in Sunset View add to Garner.

BUSINESS PRINCIPLES APPLIED TO FARMING

A group of farmers at Owatonno, Minnesota, operating under a cost keeping system put out five years ago by the University of Minnesota experts, have disproved the traditions that farming never pays.

They have found where the farm leaks are, in labor, in buying, in selling;and they tried to plug every leak. They have paid themselves $60 a month wages, and 5 per cent on their investment. They have increased butter production 20 percent per cow, and reduced production costs; they have found shorter cuts to profits in most every branch of farming. Their farm income last year averaged $2,471, or better than $200 a month, which is far above average tradesmen or mechanic income.

Last year brought exceptional prices for whet, corn and few other products, but much of this Minnesota income was from miscellaneous farming—alfalfa, poultry, dairy products. They had no magic sesame to success; they merely cut out the waste and stuck to the things that paid.

Garner Resident Dies

GARNER, June 20.— August Schuldt passed away from heart trouble about noon. Funeral services were held in the Methodist Episcopal church Sunday afternoon. Deceased had been in failing health for more than a year but still he had been up and about his work caring for his small fruit farm on the edge of town. He was a man of peace, and just in all his ways, a consistant Christian and good citizen He leaves his wife and two daughters and friends to mourn his loss.

Well, the Fourth of July always was a sort of National Defense Day.

SAYS NEW PLAN FOR BREEDING OF CORN WILL WIN

Improvements in corn breeding which will result in a vast increase ofcrops per acre is nearing practical use, Henry A. Wallace, editor of Wallaces Farmer, told members of the Iowa Harness Association at Des Moines Tuesday.

If the improved method is put into operation in this state, the speaker predicted, Iowa can complete on on even basis with virtually any market in the world. Mr. Wallace spoke on the agricultural outlook for the state, in the principal address of the afternoon.

W. B. Campbell of Cincinnati urged that all concerns and persons be satisfied with less profit and reduced production. He said general business conditions would improve such changes.

"A method is near perfection that will increase production of corn ten bushel per acre," Mr. Wallace said. "I have studied and worked on the method for nearly ten years myself and can predict that the system will be successful. It is receiving attention at Ames. It will be a great boon for this state if this proposed system is developed here and kept here. Iowa will be able to sell her corn in virtually any market of the world in competition with other leading corn producing centers."

The new method is a system of breeding corn, Mr. Wallace said.

Describes Cycles

"The world s run in cycles. By a close study and observation one finds that virtually all the cycles are coming to a point of low returns. Horses, cattle and hogs are on the down grade, figuring on this theory.

"Crops can harldy be included in such calculation. Weather conditions figure largely. The lack of rain so far this year has left the outlook rather dubious, unless there is a decided change in this month or next.

"In speaking of cycles on horses, cattle and hogs, the fact will be remembered that about 1900, 1910 1820, there was a scarcity of horses. On that theory another scarcity is due in 1930. According to a recent questionaire sent to 26,000 farmers throughout the country, about 40 percent of all horses in the country are over eight years old. This fact shows the product in coming years will be scarcer. Hogs will reach their greatest scarcity in 1925, I predict. In 1929 or 1930 cattle will hit the bottom, according to the rules of cycles."

The situation in regard to crops will be "precarious" this year, unless much rain falls in June and July, Mr. Wallace said.

"To date this has been the driest year since 1884 in this state. Three or four inches of rain will be necessary this month and next to avert the situation as it looks today. Unless there is this amount of moisture, I predict the corn crop in this state will be only about half of a normal year, he said.

Says Prices Are High

"The Iowa Farmer's condition was far from normal during the year ending this month," he added. "The net income for the farmers of the state was $200,000,000. Although crops were more successful and brought better prices than the preceding year, expenes offset this increase. Taxes were more, automobiles prices greater and necessities were just as high as in other years."

"In former year production and advertising were the big factors in running any business," Mr. Campbell said in his talk. "Today we have reached a new stage, known as the compensation of economics. Volumne of business is not the thing any longer. A successful enterprise can no longer skim the cream and leave the milk. Economists have reached the conclusion that for the highest degree of success, expansion is not necessary. If this plan is followed, conditions in all lines of business will show a marked improvement."

Floyd Scott pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him with being a bootlegger Thursday and was sentenced to 90 days in jail by Judge Clark.

Important Notice

As July Fourth comes on Saturday this year, the business places of Klemme will keep open on:—

FRIDAY NIGHT, JULY 3rd

For the accomodation of customers who can do their week-end trading Friday night in Klemme.

BAND CONCERT

The Klemme Band will give a concert on the streets of Klemme Friday night, July 3rd. Come and do your trading and enjoy the concert.

CLOSED JULY 4th

.....Remember the stores in Klemme will be closed all day and evening on July 4th. Keep this in mind and do your trading Friday, July 3rd.

JARDINE TO SPEAK JULY 10

Address Will Be Broadcast From Iowa State College, W OI

Iowa farmers will have an opportunity to hear first hand the views of the new secretary of agriculture when Dr. Wm. M. Jardine stops at Iowa State College July 10 on his return from a six week's inspection trip through the west.

This will be the only stop Secretory Jardine will make in Iowa. Altho it is hoped that many Iowans will be able to come to Ames, the address will be broadcast over the Iowa State College broadcasting station, W O I, for the benefit of those who are unable to attend in person.

Dr. Jardine is anxious to meet agricultural leaders in Iowa and to learn about Iowa's agricultural problems. His address was previously scheduled for July 20, and it may be changed again but present plans are that it will be July 10.

CLAIM ONE PERSON IN THREE HAS T. B.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 24.—Some form of tuberculosis was found in 1,966, out of 6,174 examined at 367 clinics held in 79 Indiana counties by James K. Stygall of Indianapolis, according to reports made to delegates of the National Tuberculosis Association here this week. The clinics were under the auspices of the Indiana Tuberculosis Association. The figures indicate the auu foximately one third of the persons who come to free health clinics for examination are found to be tuberculosis.

Dr. Stygall's figures showed that of the 1966 cases diagonsed as tuberculosis, 1,053 were actively diseceased and 949 had not knowledge of that fact, 712 having tuberculosis in an inactive form. He reccommended the occasional type of clinic in the small rural communities of the country as an admirable means for finding tuberculosis in persons who did not realize they had disease.

GROUND HOGS FILL AUDITOR'S OFFICE

Offer of Bounty Brings 121; One Man Gets $10.95.

CHARLES CITY, June 19.—The county auditor's office must have thought Monday, June 15, was ground hog day intead of Feb. 2, as 121 ground hogs were brought to the office for the bounty of 25 cents each which was recently placed on these animals by the Floyd county board of supervisors. The highest number brought in by any one person was 43 brought in by Ralph Brown Monday. He brought two crows also and was paid a bounty of $10.95 for the ground hogs and crows.

STALK BORER IS ON INCREASE

Fall Plowing of Infested Fields and Destroying Weeds and Vines Help In Control

The common stalk borer, which is a common insect pest in Iowa, is particularily destructive on farms weeds are not destroyed, says Dr. C. J. Drake, state entomologist at Iowa State College. It tunnels corn stalks of potatoes, various grains, grasses, flowering plants, many different kinds of weeds and garden crops. Ragweed and cockle burr seem to be its normal food plants, but when these are destroyed it migrates to more tender, cultivated plants. It has been reported this spring as destroying corn near Sioux City, Iowa. Many complaints were received in 1924.

Because the borer tunnels on the inside of the plant, poison will not control it ,although naturally enemies usually keep it pretty well under control. It generally breeds in weeds and rank vegetation and when these plants are destroyed it migrates to corn and other cultivated plants. To control the stalk borer, keep all weeds cut and destroy its natural breeding places. This fall, destroy all infested vines and weeds and plow infested fields. The eggs are laid in the fall and fall plowing will destroy most of them.

The stalk borer, migrates from plant to plant and in case valuable plants are being destroyed, it is advisable to cut them out or destroy the plants." says Drake. "This not a practical job in a large corn field, but if you watch the worms carefully you will find they feed on one plant for a short period of time and then leave this plant and attack a new one.

"The stock borer is increasing in numbers in Iowa. It will undoubtedly be necessary for farmers here and there, especially in the heavily infested areas, to cut and burn weeds in waste areas, along fences and other places in order to protect themselves from the borer. Last year they entirely destroyed a number of corn fields and damaged others.

ELL TOWN REFORMED BIBLE SCHOOL COMES TO CLOSE

The Ell Reformed Church summer religious school came to a close last Friday after a most successful term of intruction given by Rev. C. A. Schmid.

Rev. Schmid informs us that this year he had thirty eight pupils enrolled in the class which he instructed for the past six weeks. The school is now conducted in the English language.

Rev. Schmid began a two weeks school at Garner, Monday.

GOODELL GIRLS ORGANIZE CANNING CLUBS

The Girls of Avery and Twin Lake Township met at the home of Mrs. E. J. Schneider on Wednesday of last week and organized canning clubs.

Miss Mildred Fuller has charge of both clubs and they are to have their meeting together as much as possible, but Mrs. W. L Sherwood will have charge of Avery's Girls when they cannot meet together.

Avery township named their club te "Klassy Kanners". The election of officers gives the following officers.

Wava Bachman, president.
Iris Sherwood, Vice President.
Viola Quigley, Secretary-Treasurer.
Lela Griggs, Pub.-Secretary.

Members are: Eunice Wesenberg, Daphne Houghton, Lela Griggs, Viola Quigley, Iris Sherwood, Margaret Fuller, Wava Bachman, Dorothy Marshall.

The next meeting will be Thursday June 25, at the Fuller home.

OTHER GOODELL NEWS ITEMS

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Wilson enjoyed a visit from their daughter, Viola and husband of Burt, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Griggs were callers on Meservey friends Tuesday They also visited some of the cyclone ruins.

Lela Griggs and Getrrude Cashman spent a couple days at the Griggs cottages at Clear Lake.

Mr. nd Mrs. Francis Quigley are moving onto Mrs. Thos. Cashman's house east of the R. R. track.

A correction should be made as to Maude Griggs being the new clerk in the Drug store, as was printed last week. It is Mae Griggs instead.

Mr. Tompkins was a Goodell business caller, Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Neeble and family of Hartley, Iowa, who have been on an Illinois trip stopped on an overnight visit at the Sherwood Cook and George Griggs homes on their return.

Howard Ruka, Dorthea O'krug and Donald Meyers were visiting Rev. D. W. Thompson at Hampton, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Carpenter, Sr. are now visiting the Yellowstone National Park.

The Canning clubs and leaders and any other club leaders will meet at Eagle Lake or a picnic, Friday, June 26.

Viola Quigley and Effie Clark, were visiting Madeline Griffin at Klemme the past week.

Mrs. L. W. Wesenberg is planning to take her Camp Fire Girls to Lake Cornelia for a few days outing this week.

The friends and relatives of Mrs. Hegland were very sorry to hear of her death which occured Thursday. The funeral was held at Radcliff, Saturday.

Mrs. Rose Houghton and Daphne and Cholm are visiting their son and brother Jack who lives near Minneapolis.

Mr McNutt is carrying mail as substitute for Mr. Allaben, who is taking his vacation.

Mr. Matson and daughter Alva who have been visiting the Tracey family at Indinapolis Indiano returned home Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lamer were visiting relatives at Ft. Dodge Sunday.

Mrs. Dennis who has been visiting relatives at Sioux Falls, South Dakota returned home to Lamers, Sunday.

Arthur Savogue who is employed in Chicago is spending his vacation at home.

Mrs. Curtis Luick is in the hosptal at Iowa City, where she will undergo an operation.

Jay Griggs was a Clear Lake caller Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Reibe of Forest City spent Sunday at the W. L. Sherwood home.

The Ladies Aid Society held a food sale, Saturday night. They realized the nice sum of $18.00 .

Fourth Celebration Planned

SWALEDALE. — Swaledale will celebrate the Fourth of July. A committee has been appointed and plans are being formulated for an enjoyoble time. Street sports, ball games and appropriate address for the day by an able speaker, with a picnic dinner and free coffee at noon in the park are in view.

COUNCIL BUYS NEW WATER TANK; BUILDING ENLARGED

New Water Works Equipment To Be Installed In About A Month

The Town Council recently ordered another water tank to be installed at the city pumping station. The new tank is the same size as the present tank, 8 feet by 36 feet and holds, 15,750 gallons of water. The new tank will be mounted in the south side of the station on a raised foundation. The cost of the tank complete and connected ready to supply water is $1635 00 and the job was awarded to W. J. Pech, of Belmond.

After the new tank has been located the old tank will be jacked up and raised to a new foundation and put in good repair by cleaning and re painting.

Ta accomodate the fire fighting equipment the present building will be extended west 18 feet, which gives an added space of 18x30 feet for the truck, hose cart, jail cell, and voting polls.

The building program is now under way and the new tank is expected to arrive in a month.

HAS RARE BIRD MOUNTED

We were driving out in Liberty township Saturday and stopped for a chat with Charlie Mikesh. The conversation led to fishing and on to hunting and that reminded Charlie that he had something interesting to show us. Last fall he shot a bird down at the river that proved to be a rare bird in Iowa and one seldom seen in a life-time of any hunter. The bird is known as the Black Cormorant and is considered the greatest fisher of any known bird. It dives for it's food and is quicker than greased lightning. It can swim faster than a man can run. He had the bird mounted and looks true to life. The bird is the size and appearance somewhat of a large duck; has great webbed feet, a long, slender neck, a hooked bill like a hawk, but much longer and has a pouch like a pelican, it's eyes are a bright light green, the feathers are very dark brown and the tail is quite long. The wing spread was nearly five feet.

In China some of the natives tame the bird and train it for fishing. A ring is slipped about the bird's neck to prevent it from swallowing the fish.

STATE WILL HAVE NEW PARK NAMED "WILDCAT DEN"

AMES, The state board of conservation has approved a sum of $,-500 or a state park in what is known as Wildcat Den in Muscatine county, according to L. H. Pammel, chairman.

It is said that the existence of white pine in Wildcat Den marks the most southwestern occurence of this tree west of the Mississippt.

"It is not generally known to the public," Mr. Pammel said, "that we now have created 37 state parks. In addition, the state board of conservation controls all state meandered streams, nine in number, as well as more than 60 lakes.

Recently the board prepared posters printed on linen cloth concerning park rules and the protection of plant and animal life.

Band Boys Present Gruetzmacher with Chain.

Wednesday night was the last time H. A. Gruetzmacher directed the band and as a token or remembrance and high esteem the band boys presented him with a watch chain. Earl Hessley, treasurer of the band presented the chain at the band stand.

Mr. Gruetzmacher has been a great pal among the boys and a wonderful influence in the schools. He has been a real element in the shaping of young lives with whom he came in contact. He surely will be missed

Mr. and Mrs. Gruetzmacher left last week. They stored their house hold goods at Klemme and both are planning on taking up summer school work at Iowa Falls.— Britt-News Tribune.

AMUNDSEN FACED DEATH NEAR POLE

Ellsworth Saved Two Flyers From Drowning—No Land Near Pole.

Oslo.—The Dagbladet printed a non-copyright story outlining some of the experiences of the Amundsen North pole expedition which was missing in the Arctic for four weeks. The newspaper said the story was based on messages from the expedition's journalist.

"In narrating their story on arriving at King's Bay," says the Dagbladet, "the flyers, all of whom looked worn and thin from suffering, said their weeks upon the ice was like a fight with death.

"Amundsen mentions that the members of the expedition were separated for a while and that Leif Dietrichsen (Norwegian pilot of one of the planes) and Oskar Omdahl (Norwegian mechanician) fell in the water and were just saved from drowning by Lincoln Ellsworth, an American. Meanwhile Amundsen and Hjalmar Risser-Larsen (Norwegian plane pilot) were on the other side of the water. They heard them scream, but were unable to help, as thin ice prevented using the canvas boat."

Regarding the picking up of the members of the expedition by the fishing boat Sjoeliv, which brought them to King's Bay, the Dagbladet's story says:

"The fishing boat Sjoeliv is a small cutter of twelve tons with a crew of nine men. Her captain is Nils Wollan. The vessel had had a poor catch and was hunting for a wounded walrus. When off Huggle bay, on the north side of Spitzbergen, the crew heard motors purring and discovered an airplane ten kilometers away.

"They at first thought it was an airplane from the patrol expedition, but when it neared they immediately recognized Amundsen, in spite of his long beard.

"The explorers all quickly got aboard the Sjoeliv and crowded into the small berths. There was not much food for so many—only seal, beef, cider and eggs. The hawser towing the airplane broke once, but a new one held.

"As Amundsen was told that the patrol expedition was ready to leave King's Bay, he decided to make for King's Bay as fast as possible and leave the plane. Wollan says this was the greatest catch he had made in his fifteen years' experience in these regions."

During the day Amundsen sent a dispatch to Premier Mowinckel informing the premier that, although he had surveyed 160,000 square kilometers in his flight, there were no indications of land.

"The cast of the lead in our most northerly latitude," the message added, "gave 3,750 meters, which leads to the safe supposition that no land exists in the Norwegian sector of the Polar basin."

The expedition's meteorologist, M. Calwagen, thinks the flight is of great importance meteorologically, inasmuch as Ellsworth took most exact observations.

Special articles in the newspaper praise Ellsworth as the man who made the expedition possible and say Ellsworth will be popular everywhere; that he is of the solid American type and has a charming personality.

Sinclair Cleared of Fraud in Oil Leases

Cheyenne, Wyo.—The famous Teapot Dome oil lease, negotiated between Harry F. Sinclair and former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, that resulted in two members of a President's cabinet leaving office, the indictment on criminal charges of the participants, and brought about charges of bribery, fraud, collusion and conspiracy, was a perfectly legitimate and valid transaction.

This, in effect, was the decision of Federal Judge T. Blake Kennedy in Federal District court here in the equity suit wherein the United States government sought to annul the Sinclair lease to the rich Wyoming naval oil reserve.

Judge Kennedy concluded that his verdict would probably be "unpopular," but declared that from a judicial standpoint it was the only conclusion that could be reached after an exhaustive digest of the testimony, depositions and briefs.

MacMillan Starts on Ninth Trip to Polar Regions

Boston.—Amid the din of roaring guns and shrieking marine whistles, Lieutenant Commander Donald B. MacMillan and his little crew sailed from the Charlestown navy yard on the steamer Peary to start officially his ninth voyage into the Arctic.

$50,000 to Fight Paralysis

Boston.—A gift of $50,000 has been willed to Harvard university by George E. Henry of Winchester, the income to be used by the Harvard infantile paralysis commission, it has been announced.

Food Costs Advance

Washington.—An increase of about half of one per cent over April food prices was registered in the cost of food in May, the bureau of labor statistics reported on Friday.

GURGAL DOAMARAL

Gurgal Doamaral is the new ambassador to the United States from Brazil.

SOCETY GIRL FALLS OFF LINER AT SEA

Is Third Member of Family to Meet Same Fate.

New York.—Miss Elizabeth Mary Cromwell, twenty-one-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Cromwell of 711 Park avenue and a member of the Junior league, has been drowned at sea. She sailed for Rotterdam, accompanied by Mrs. Stocks Miller of Chicago, a cousin, to spend the summer.

Mr. Cromwell received the following radiogram from Frederick Mills, president of the Union Square Savings bank, a fellow passenger:

"Your daughter fell overboard and was drowned. Every effort made to save her. Heartfelt sympathy."

Miss Cromwell was a second cousin of the twin sisters, Dorothea and Gladys Cromwell, who met their deaths six years ago by leaping from the rail of the Lorraine just after they had embarked at Bordeaux for New York.

The two girls, daughters of the late Frederick Cromwell, former president of the New York Stock exchange, had been doing Red Cross work at the front, had been under heavy fire and bombing attacks, and were both suffering from severe nervous reactions when they left France.

When this tragedy was recalled to Lincoln Cromwell he said that his daughter did not know her cousins.

Faiman Firm on Germ Plot at Shepherd Trial

Chicago.—The last words of State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe to the jury in the Shepherd germ murder trial, before resting the state's case, were an admission that he had four more witnesses for whom he was "not prepared to vouch," that he therefore would not call them to the witness stand—although, he said, "they are available."

Charles C. Faiman, "ex-president of the National University of Sciences," the man who said he supplied Shepherd with the typhoid germs and taught him how to use them in destroying the life of his millionaire ward, Billy McClintock, was the last witness to give testimony for the state, although it was not the state, but Judge Lynch who called Faiman to the stand.

Mr. Stewart of the defense finished his cross-examination of Faiman and perhaps cast some serious doubt on his testimony when he got Faiman to say he had repeatedly obtained germs from the Chicago health department by simply asking for them and presenting no credentials.

If this destroys the weight of Faiman's story, it will be because of a showing that the health department rules do not permit such indiscriminate broadcasting of disease germs.

Aside from this the Faiman story stood firm.

Conductors, Trainmen to Demand New Wage Boost

Cleveland, Ohio—The Chairmen's associations of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors will hold joint divisional meetings in November to consider the proposition of seeking a wage increase from approximately two hundred railroads, W. G. Lee, president of the trainmen, announced.

The amount of the increase to be asked for was not announced, but Mr. Lee said the wage reduction to railroad men in 1921 amounted to about 12 per cent, approximately 64 cents a day, that an increase last year amounted to approximately 5 per cent and that the request for an increase would probably at least be enough to make up the 1921 reduction.

Makes New Air Record

New York.—First Sergeant R. G. Fry of the Marine Air corps, set a new flight record of 160 miles per hour, between Quantico, Va., and Miller field. The old record was 147 miles per hour.

Senator Ladd Ill

Washington.—Senator E. F. Ladd of North Dakota went to Baltimore, it was said at his office here, to consult physicians over a severe attack of neuritis.

44 DEAD, 50 HURT IN RAIL WRECK

Engine of Excursion Train Explodes—Many Scalded to Death.

New York.—Forty-four persons are dead and more than fifty are in hospitals as the result of the wreck of a special train on the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad near Hackettstown, N. J., about sixty miles from New York.

A heavy electrical and rain storm caused the wreck by washing sand and gravel upon the tracks. Thrown off the rails by this obstruction, the engine turned over and carried with it four of the seven all-steel cars.

Almost all the dead succumbed to burns received when the locomotive boiler exploded and flooded the derailed cars with scalding steam.

Except for seven members of the train crew, all the dead and injured were German-Americans bound from Chicago to Hoboken, whence they were to have sailed for Bremen. The survivors were taken to Hoboken on another train. They sailed on the steamship Republic of the United States lines, which was held for two hours to receive them. The excursion was arranged by Leopold Neumann, a Chicago steamship agent.

The wreck occurred when virtually all the passengers were asleep.

The engineer, two firemen, and the head trainman were killed instantly. A few passengers also died immediately, one woman being decapitated. These were the most fortunate of those who died, for the others suffered terribly.

For the first half hour after the accident farmers, trainmen and uninjured passengers from the rear cars worked in darkness to rescue those caught in the derailed cars. Guided by screams, the rescuers groped inside the unit cars, risked the danger of scalding, and carried the victims out.

Approximately sixty persons, about half of whom died subsequently, were taken to hospitals. The three pullman cars which stayed on the rails were turned into a special relief train.

One woman, Mrs. E. B. Haaker of 516 Park avenue, Park Ridge, Ill., was the heroine of the wreck. While still in her night clothes, she improvised a first-aid hospital in the observation car, which held to the rails, and gave treatment which doctors said saved a number of lives. She was assisted by two other Chicagoans, Mrs. Lackin R. Deue and Mrs. Freda Metzger of 5731 South Troy street.

Mr. Haaker, husband of Mrs. Haaker, told his story of the wreck:

"As I ran along the track I could hear, it seemed, a thousand people screaming with agony, and through their voices the roar of escaping steam.

"When we came near the engine the sight was overwhelming. The first two day coaches had telescoped and were ground together in a mass of wood and steel, and some of the passengers in the first coach had been thrown bodily into the coal tender. The third coach had ridden up over these two and was lying squarely on top of the engine, with its forward end sticking at least thirty feet into the air. The engine's steam pipes had broken and a fog of steam was pouring into the car perched on top.

"We could hear them screaming for help in the car, and through the darkness and through the pouring steam we could see hands waving then falling back into the car. Those who had been thrown into the tender were unable to get out, because of the car on top of them, and were lying close down against the coal in the hope of avoiding the blistering steam and shouting for some one to get them.

"The firebox of the engine was open and the whole scene was lit up by the glow of coals. We could do very little until the steam began to slacken, and then we had the difficulty of climbing high into the car that was on top of the engine, and pulling people out. They screamed when we touched them, those who were still conscious, for their bodies were scalded and they were in terrible pain."

James, President Emeritus of U. of I., Dies in West

Champaign, Ill.—Dr. Edmund James, president Emeritus and for sixteen years president of the University of Illinois from 1904 to 1920, died at Vovina, Cal., according to telegraphic advices received by Dr. David Kinley, president of the university. The body will be brought to Champaign for burial by a son, Dr. Herman G. James.

Doctor James was born at Jacksonville, Ill., May 21, 1855. He was president of Northwestern university from 1902 until 1904, when he came to Illinois. He has been living in California since his retirement from active duty here in 1919.

Court Upholds Blue Laws

White Plain, N. Y.—Supreme Court Justice Albert N. Seeger upheld the Sabbath blue laws by refusing an injunction sought by park owners which would prevent the police of Rye from interfering with the operation of amusement parks on Sunday.

Navy Buys Oil Supply

Washington.—Contracts for 8,852,000 barrels of oil at a total cost of $15,000,000 were awarded to American oil firms by the Navy department.

C. CLINTON JAMES

C. Clinton James of Washington was elected president of the United States League of Building and Loan Associations at the convention in Kansas City.

U. S. GOVERNMENT MARKET QUOTATIONS

Washington.—For the week ending June 18.—HAY—Quoted June 17: No. 1 timothy: Chicago, $24.00. No. 1 alfalfa: Omaha, $17.50. No. 1 prairie: Chicago, $18.00.

LIVE STOCK—Chicago hog prices closed at $13.10 for top, $12.50@13.00 for bulk. Medium and good beef steers, $8.50@11.50; butcher cows and heifers, $3.85@11.00; feeder steers, $5.25@8.25. Light and medium weght veal calves, $8.50@10.50. Fat lambs, $14.00@16.25; yearlings, $10.50@14.00; fat ewes, $4.00@7.50.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES—An advance of $1.10@1.15 featured the f. o. b. trading in California cantaloupes; Imperial valley salmon tints closed at $3.50@4.00 per standard 45's. Tom Watson watermelons from Florida, 24-30-pound stock, $400.00@$825.00 bulk per car. Georgia Carman peaches, $3.00@4.25 per six-basket carrier. North Carolina Irish cobbler potatoes, $4.25@5.00 per barrel; Virginia cobblers, $4.75@5.25; in Chicago carlot sales of Arkansas and Oklahoma Bliss triumphs, $2.10@2.35 per 100-pound sack.

DAIRY PRODUCTS—Closing prices on 92-score butter: New York, 42c; Chicago, 41¾@42c. Wholesale prices on Wisconsin primary cheese markets June 17: Single daises, 22½c; double daisies, 22c; young Americas, 22¾c; longhorns, 22¾c; square prints, 22¾c.

GRAIN—Quoted June 18: No. 1 dark northern wheat: Minneapolis, $1.59@1.75. No. 1 red winter wheat: St. Louis, $1.76@1.77; Kansas City, $1.70@1.75. No. 3 red winter wheat: Chicago, $1.75. No. 2 hard winter wheat: St. Louis, $1.60@1.62; Kansas City, $1.53@1.68. No. 3 mixed corn: Chicago, $1.12@1.12¾; Minneapolis, $1.03@1.05. No. 2 yellow corn: Chicago, $1.13½@1.15¼; St. Louis, $1.12; Kansas City, $1.08½@1.09. No. 3 yellow corn: Chicago, $1.12½@1.13¼; Minneapolis, $1.07@1.08. No. 3 white corn: Chicago, $1.12½@1.13¼; Kansas City, $1.05. No. 3 white oats: Chicago, 49½@51c; Minneapolis, 46⅛@46⅝c; St. Louis, 50½@52c; Kansas City, 50c.

Foreigners Flee China; Take Refuge on Gunboats

Shanghai.—Foreigners are taking refuge aboard foreign gunboats to escape rioting strikers at Chungking, reports state.

Washington.—Severe beatings received by an Englishman, Swede and Pole at the hands of Chungking rioters were reported to the State department by Vice Consul Robert L. Smyth.

Peking.—Foreign powers proposed that the Chinese government take steps to settle questions arising from recent disturbances.

Parley on Arms Traffic Ends; U. S. Signs Pacts

Geneva.—Peace and good will among nations was the dominant note when the international conference on the control of the traffic in arms and munitions ended, with 18 countries signing the arms traffic convention and 27 subscribing to the protocol outlawing bacteria and poison gas in war. The American delegation signed both documents.

National Students' Dairy Products Judging Contest

Indianapolis.—The judging of dairy products by college students and student teams will be one of the main events on the program to be held at Indianapolis, October 10 to 17. Numerous awards are again offered. Gold cups and medals will be awarded to the teams making the highest scores in judging all dairy products.

Lotta Crabtree's Estate Is Valued at $3,114,531

Boston.—The estate of Lotta Crabtree, actress, whose will is being contested by relatives, was valued at $3,114,531 in an inventory filed. The personal estate was valued at $1,209,131 and the real estate at $1,904,800.

W. B. Prenter Succeeds Stone

Cleveland. — William B. Prenter, Cleveland, has been selected by the advisory board of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers to succeed Warren S. Stone as president of all brotherhood activities.

G. O. P. Dry Candidate Named

Newark, N. J.—State Senator Arthur Whitney of Morris county, candidate for governor on the Antisaloon league and "antiboss" tickets, won the Republican nomination.

.. Hawkeye .. State News

Interesting Items Gathered From all Parts of Iowa

Improvements in Iowa City's Phone service which have been begun will cost some $50,000.

A 100-room modern hospital is being built at Fort Madison by the King's Daughters.

The state board of control has closed contracts for its winter supply of coal. At an approximate outlay of $375,000.

Farmers of Greenfield township near Indianola have organized a vigilantes committee to combat the raids of thieves.

Responsibility for stories of a few years ago that Iowa was broke has been placed on persons described as "cheap politicians."

Hard surfacing projects in the 1925 road paving program in Iowa are limited mainly to four counties: Polk, Scott, Linn and Marshall.

Daily vacation Bible schools opened in Des Moines recently. Advance registration for 2,500 pupils was taken by officials in charge.

After spending $200,000,000 for new automobiles in one year, Iowa retains her proud position of first in per capita wealth of the world.

Contract for general construction on the new cattle barns and military stables at Iowa State College have been awarded to an Ames firm.

Iowa buttermakers added to their long string of victories when they won 24 out of the highest 32 scores on butter in the scoring work at St. Paul, Minn.

With capital of $30,000 and surplus of $10,000, the First State Bank of Rockford has been organized to take over the Rockford State Bank, recently defunct.

Iowa farm values are on the upgrade and the state's economic comeback is assured, was the consensus of the Iowa Bankers association convention in Dubuque.

Two hundred ninety-three cows were tested during May in the Marshall-Grundy Cow Test Association, averaging 894 pounds of milk and 36.9 pounds of butter fat.

Judge Colin Neblitt has approved the settlement made by the state with the Keokuk dam corporation of a bill for taxes for 1916 and 1917 by which the state accepted about $15,000.

A certificate authorizing the establishment of a passenger motor bus line between Des Moines and Stuart, has been issued by the state railroad commission to O. C. Wright of Adel.

James Mitchell, Sr., of Knoxville, has been appointed state mine inspector by the state executive council, to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of John Caldwell of Centerville.

The corn condition June 1 this year was 88 per cent of the normal, or eleven points higher than June 1, a year ago, according to the crop report of the United States department of agriculture.

Official proclamation fixing July 4 as Defense day in Iowa has been issued by Governor Hammill. Tentative plans for the day, suggested by the war department, are contained in the Governor's proclamation.

Dr. N. A. Clark, professor of soil chemistry at Iowa State college, will visit Great Britain this summer. He will study the work done at the Rothamsted and other prominent British agricultural experiment stations.

Ten members of the recently appointed agricultural and industrial commission, conferred with Governor Hammill recently to devise means for a profitable utilization of existing Iowa markets and their development.

Moving a house eleven miles over the country, over hills and across streams, is the engineering feat John P. Grieve of near Webb, plans to undertake. Mr. Grieve has purchased lots in Spencer, but wishes to have his old home.

With the shipment of 18,000 tags for distribution in Iowa, the total number of dicense plates for 1926 sent out from the license plate factory at Anamosa has reached approximately 90,000 according to the state automobile department.

Seven brothers and sisters of Senator A. B. Cummins and members of their families concluded a three day reunion recently with a dinner, which was served in the senator's home in Des Moines. Four generations were represented at the dinner.

The Iowa department of agriculture has received word from Washington, D. C., to the effect that Appanoose county has been accepted as a modified accredited county, having won its fight in the eradication of bovine tuberculosis. "This makes a total of five counties," announced the department, "in which bovine tuberculosis has been reduced to less than one-half of one per cent.

The state treasurer's office was unable to confirm the census bureau's announcement, made public in Washington, that Iowa's outlay for the conduct of the state government was $5.43 more per capita than the average cost in all other states in 1923.

Early oats were forced into premature heading by the heat and moisture, and the crop will be short. The same is true of barley and spring wheat, while winter wheat has been damaged beyond recovery. Pastures have revived since the rains, but hay other than alfalfa will "most certainly make a short crop."

Not Well Since Three Years Old

Catarrh of the Ear Neighbor Recommended PE-RU-NA

The experience of Mrs. J. C. Dacus, 1621 Booker St., Little Rock, Ark., was not an unusual one. It was in fact a repetition of what has happened in thousands upon thousands of instances. She had a running condition of the ear from the time she was three years old.

In spite of treatment it persisted and became very offensive. One day a neighbor recommended Pe-ru-na and La-cu-pia which had relieved his wife of the same trouble.

Mrs. Dacus used three bottle of each of these quick acting remedies and reports that the discharge and offensive odor are both gone.

Her disease was one of the very many forms taken by Catarrh and is known as chronic Otitis.

Wherever the catarrhal condition is located Pe-ru-na reaches it.

May be purchased any place in tablet or liquid form.

FOR OVER 200 YEARS

haarlem oil has been a world-wide remedy for kidney, liver and bladder disorders, rheumatism, lumbago and uric acid conditions.

GOLD MEDAL HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES

correct internal troubles, stimulate vital organs. Three sizes. All druggists. Insist on the original genuine GOLD MEDAL.

Plan Land Conservation

The combined area of the Superior National forest, the largest national reserve east of the Mississippi, is 1,268,538 acres. Of this total 32 per cent, or 411,000 acres, are privately owned. A movement is now on foot to acequire by purchase or gift this privately held land so that the government's holdings may be consolidated. The forest is well known for its attractive wild life and water courses.

Sure Relief FOR INDIGESTION

6 BELL-ANS Hot water Sure Relief

BELL-ANS

25¢ AND 75¢ PACKAGES EVERYWHERE

Don't let baby be tortured by skin trouble! Apply Resinol Ointment and see how quickly the itching and burning stops

Resinol

FIRST AID TO BEAUTY AND CHARM

Nothing so mars an otherwise beautiful face as the inevitable lines of fatigue and suffering caused by tired, aching feet. ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE the Antiseptic Healing Powder, insures foot comfort. It is a Toilet Necessity. Shake it in your shoes in the morning. Shop all day—Dance all evening—then let your mirror tell the story. Trial package and a Foot-Ease Walking Doll sent Free. Address Allen's Foot-Ease, Le Roy, N. Y. Sold at Drug and Department Stores.

ABSORBINE

TRADE MARK REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

Will reduce Inflamed, Strained, Swollen Tendons, Ligaments, or Muscles. Stops the lameness and pain from a Splint, Side Bone or Bone Spavin. No blister, no hair gone and horse can be used. $2.50 bottle at druggists or delivered. Describe your case for special instructions and interesting horse Book 2 A free.

W. F. YOUNG, Inc., 510 Lyman St., Springfield, Mass.

The Purity of Cuticura Makes It Unexcelled For All Toilet Purposes

U. S. Behind in Popular Voting

Michelet Finds New Zealand and Queensland Hold World's Record.

Washington. — Simon Michelet of Washington, president of the National Get-Out-the-Vote club, has extended his investigation of the stay-at-home vote to all the principal countries casting a popular vote. In a statistical roundup of the nations at the polls he believes he has found the answer to the question—"What nation holds the world voting record?"

The country is no longer the United States, he says. Forty years ago, when 80 per cent of American voters went to the polls and voted, this country was in the first column in the point of voting efficiency. But in 1920 and 1924, when only 50 per cent of American voters took interest enough to vote for President, the United States dropped well down to the tail of the voting nations.

Great Britain, from whom we rebelled in 1776 to establish a government based on the American vote, appears to be making a much better record at the polls today than America. At the 1924 election of the house of commons, 76 per cent of the British electorate voted, and in the preceding election 82 per cent of the electors of England and Wales went to the polls. So the British are in the running for the world voting record, and this country has fallen back among the "also rans."

The new Irish Free State does not yet poll a full vote because of factional conditions, and yet in the last election polled the vote of 60 per cent of all Irish adult men and women, which is better than half the American states can show.

Germany Does Well.

Germany stands a close competitor of Great Britain in getting out the popular vote. In the first election of the reichstag under the constitution of the German republic 75 per cent of all Germans 20 years of age and over voted. In the 1924 election the vote increased by 1,000,000 and reached 80 per cent of the electorate, while in the recent Presidential election, April, 1925, the German percentage reached 82 per cent.

The six Australian states and New Zealand present a 20-year record where efficient voting by women is an exceptional feature. In the United States, Canada, and most European countries having equal suffrage for men and women, there is usually 10 to 20 per cent lighter vote for women than for men. But in Queensland, Australia, and in New Zealand women cast as large a vote as men. In some elections as high as 84 to 90 per cent of adult women go to the polls. This is notably the case in Queensland after the passage of the 1915 compulsory voting act, when 90 per cent of the women delivered their votes.

A 20-year average for the Australian states would show approximately 75 per cent of the electorate voting, and in New Zealand 80 per cent. In the 1916 referendum on military conscription the men cast 86 per cent of their qualified vote.

In recent 1923-4 elections New Zealand and Queensland have shown a record close to 84 per cent, and so would seem to be leading claimants to the world voting record, with Germany and Great Britain close rivals.

Belgium, Holland and Denmark are not far behind. By voting districts these three countries on the North sea range from 60 per cent to 90 per cent in their efficiency in delivering the ballot at the polls. Their average is around 75 per cent, or one-half better than our present American record.

France votes fully 70 per cent of its electorate on the average, and in some districts makes a higher rating.

Norway and Sweden rank well up with Belgium and Denmark. In the Norway election of 1920, 76 per cent of the men and 60 per cent of the women voted, with a total average of about 71 per cent. In the prohibition referendum of 1922, Swedish women in Stockholm, the capital, cast 53 per cent of the city vote, thereby showing that the vote of women depends upon the issue.

Italy Stands Well Up.

In the recent parliamentary election in Italy about 64 per cent of the total adult population, men and women, voted. So Italy beats a majority of our New England and Middle Atlantic states in its voting percentage.

Switzerland voted 76 per cent of its electorate in the 1922 election. In a referendum proposing to give the authorities large powers in putting down political revolutions and general strikes, the popular vote reached 85 per cent of the total voting electorate, defeating the proposition by a narrow margin.

The Canadian provinces are making a far higher present record at the polls than their sister states below the boundary. Eastern Canada, including Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, has 1,000,000 less population than New England, but casts from 500,000 to 750,000 more votes. The Canadian voting average seems to approximate about 70 per cent of the voting population, against the American 50 per cent.

Latin America is the only section of the globe where Uncle Sam seems at present to be able to find a lighter vote at the polls than the American 50 per cent. Latin-American states have to cope with an Indian and negro illiteracy of 40 to 80 per cent. Even at that, the last Cuban election and the recent Mexican election polled close to 50 per cent of the qualified voting population.

Cuba Outvotes Florida.

Cuba makes twice as good a showing at the polls as Florida on the American side of the Gulf Stream, and Mexico in its last Presidential election delivered at the polls more than twice as high a percentage of its total adult population as the average for our Gulf states. Some of our southern states have a negro population with 15 to 20 per cent of illiteracy, but Mexico has to wrestle with 70 per cent illiteracy. In Buenos Aires, Argentine, and in Uruguay the vote appears to be about 65 per cent of the electorate.

So Uncle Sam gets little consolation even from pointing southward for "odious comparisons." Latin America is building schools and sending out volunteer teachers to cope with illiteracy. Mr. Michelet remarks that if "Uncle" does not wake up soon even Latin America will be pointing North as the place to locate the champion stay-at-home voter country.

One American record, however, Mr. Michelet finds unbeaten. That was in the day of Boss Tweed, when 108 per cent of the voters of New York city were canvassed in the popular vote. That record, however, is not cited as a model.

Finally, Mr. Michelet wants to know, if American voters made an 80 per cent average at the polls in 1880 down to 1896, "Why not now?"

St. Louis "Fool-Proof" Reserve Bank Opened

St. Louis.—Every modern safety device for protection of the vast sums handled daily has been incorporated in the massive new $3,500,000 Federal Reserve Bank building, headquarters of the Eighth Federal Reserve district, which opened its doors here.

Equipped with a vault which required approximately 800 tons of steel in its construction, automatic safety signals and various other protective features, the new bank is not only virtually thief-proof but fool-proof.

Two years were required to construct the building, which was the last home to be completed by the 12 regional reserve banks in the United States. Built along the lines of an immense Egyptian pyramid symbolical of its strength, the exterior is impressive for its simplicity.

The huge blocks of Bedford stone are relieved only by the bank's own seal and by the seals of the seven states in which its business is carried on—Arkansas, southern Illinois, southern Indiana, eastern Missouri, western Kentucky, western Tennessee and northern Mississippi.

$500,000,000 Cut in Coal Cost by New Machinery

Cincinnati.—Mining men are looking forward to the time when the coal bill of the United States will be reduced $500,000,000 by the perfection of devices for mining coal with machinery, Edward J. O'Toole, general superintendent of the mines of the United States Coal and Coke company, in West Virginia and Kentucky, declared before the American Mining congress here.

Saying his company has just mined 115,000 tons by the new process, Mr. O'Toole continued:

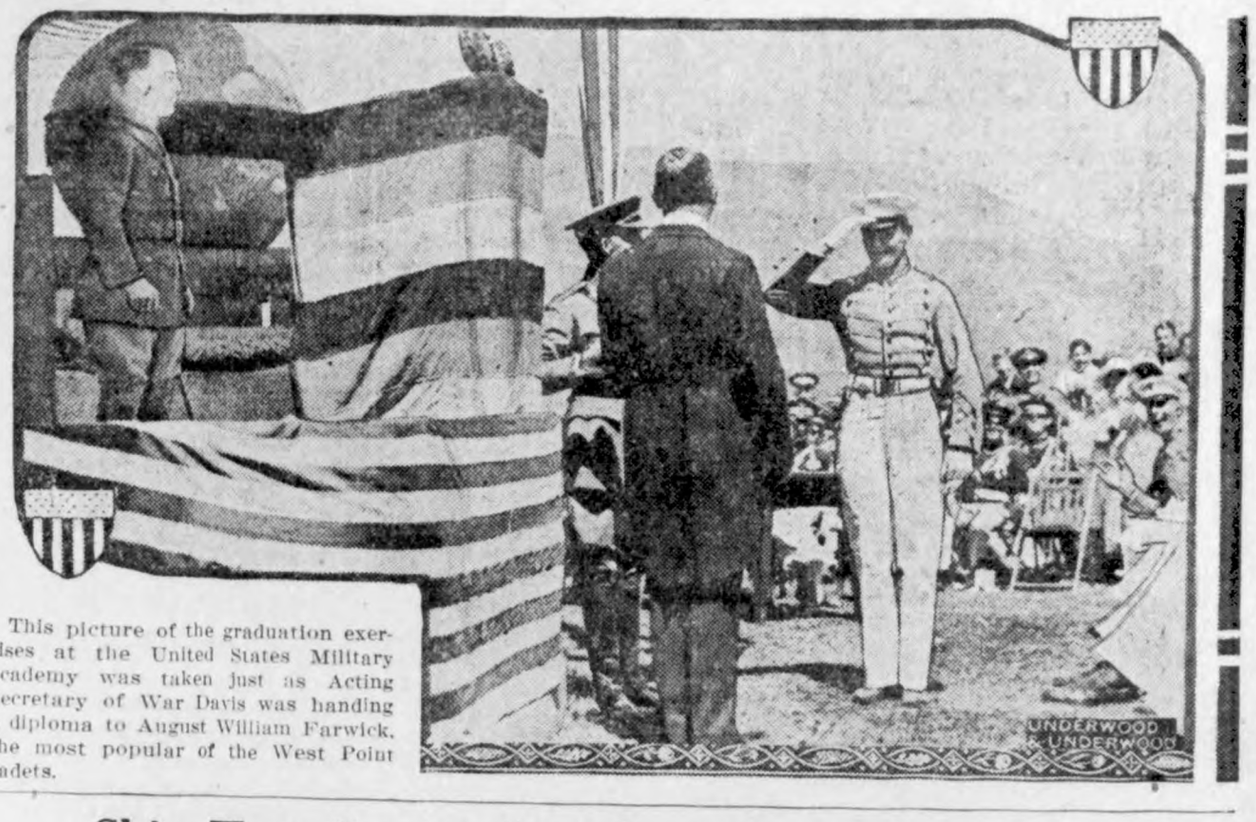
"This machine makes the use of explosives in the mine unnecessary and will reduce accidents. It undercuts the coal by chewing into it with steel teeth. Then the coal automatically falls down upon a self-loader. We expect this machine to reduce the cost of mining 50 per cent, and to cut the cost down $1 a ton, meaning a saving of $500,000,000."

British Pay Well for Mementoes of Napoleon

London.—Mementoes of Napoleon are always in demand here, and bring good prices whenever offered under the hammer. The famous draft manuscript of Napoleon's stirring appeal to his army in Italy in his own handwriting was sold at auction recently for $750.

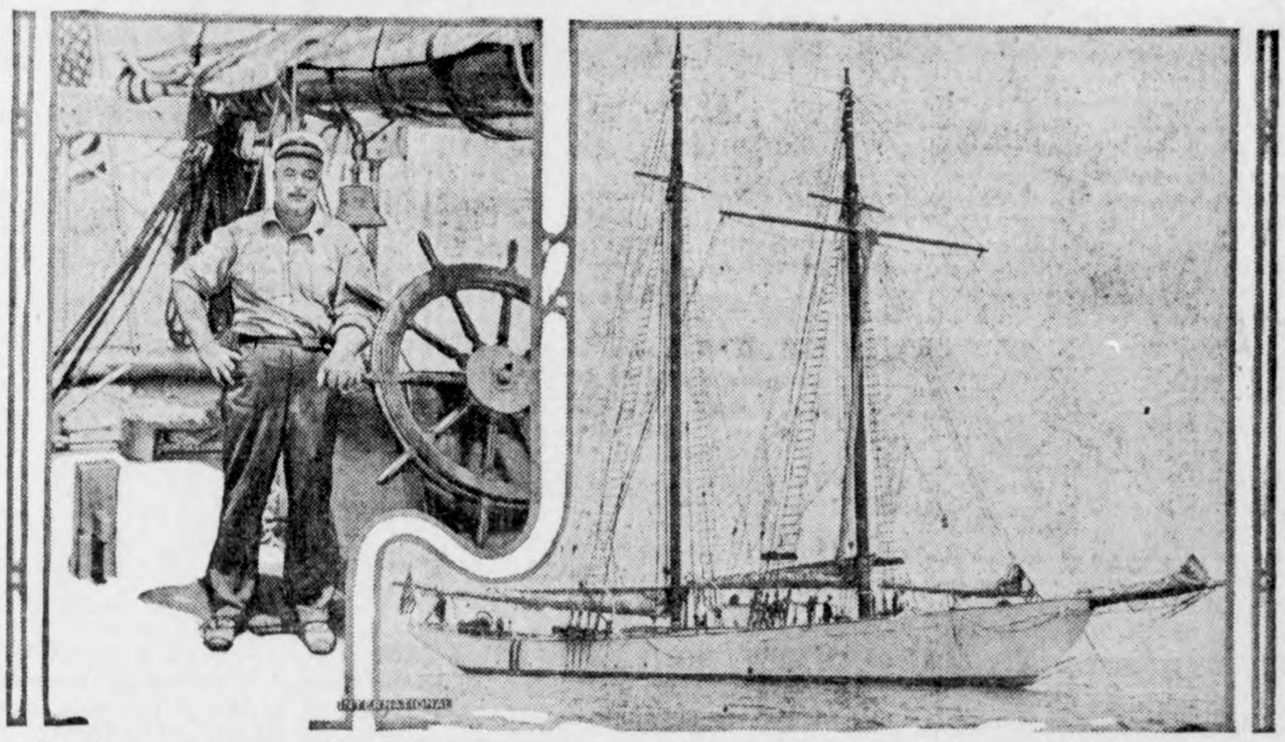
Three letters which Napoleon dispatched to Admiral Ganteaume, on August 15, 1798, upon learning of the Nile disaster, were disposed of for $370. The first of these congratulated the admiral upon his fortunate escape from the catastrophe, another gave instructions as to the fleet, and the third letter ordered that 15,000 francs be distributed among the disheartened officers.

Most Popular West Point Man Receives a Diploma



This picture of the graduation exercises at the United States Military academy was taken just as Acting Secretary of War Davis was handing a diploma to August William Farwick, the most popular of the West Point cadets.

Ship That Carries Searchers for Lost Explorer

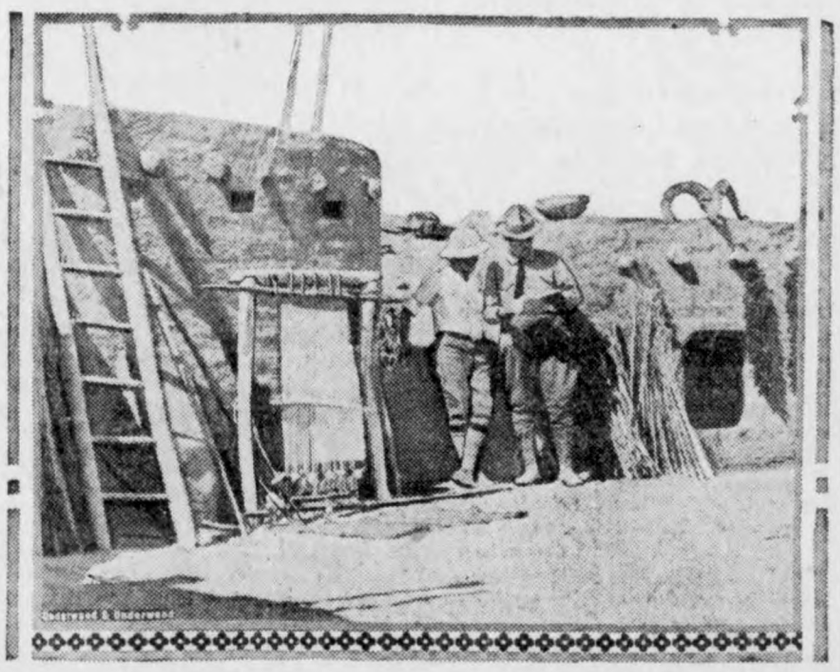


Another expedition to the Arctic regions started from Atlantic Highlands, N. J., on June 21, for the purpose of searching for William Nutting, an explorer who disappeared in northern Labrador about one year ago. The expedition sailed in the ship Zodiac, which is shown above. At the left is its captain, Norman Ross, at the wheel.

Spaghetti Bath for Strength

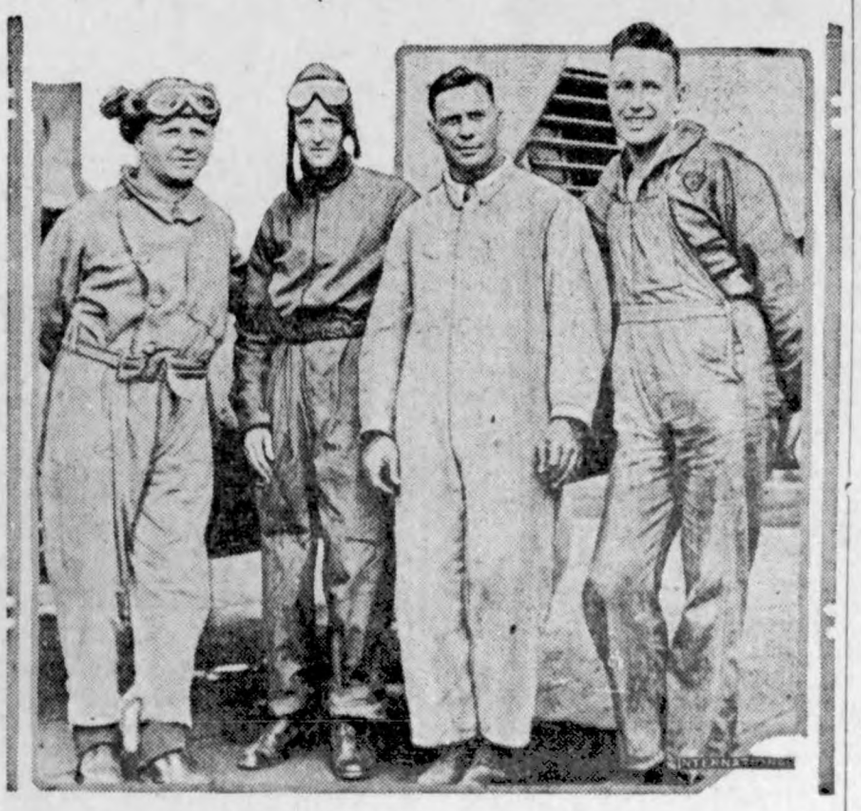
Roger Cornell, physical culture instructor at the Ambassador hotel, Los Angeles, is pictured here demonstrating the steamed spaghetti bath which he claims to be a fine strength builder and skin purifier. Mr. Cornell has had a small-sized bathtub placed in his outdoor gym, and has two hundred and forty pounds of spaghetti cooked each day.

Ancient Nevada Pueblo Restored



One of America's ancient dwellings, some 2,000 years old, was restored in the Pueblo Grande of Nevada as background for a historical pageant. The picture shows a part of the house group which was rebuilt by Zuni Indians brought from New Mexico.

Pilots of MacMillan Polar Planes



Above are shown the aviators who piloted the two huge naval seaplanes from Philadelphia to Boston, where the planes were placed on board the MacMillan ship for the trip to the North pole. Left to right in the group are Lieut. W. A. Schur, Lieut. Commander R. E. Byrd, Chief Boatswain E. E. Reber and Machinist's Mate C. F. Rocheville. The MacMillan expedition has started for the Arctic regions.

WILL DEFEND SCOPES

Latest portrait of Clarence Darrow, noted Chicago lawyer, who will be one of the counsel for the defense in the trial of John T. Scopes for violation of the Tennessee anti-evolution law.

KIDNAPED AND WED

Miss Ernestine Bean, stenographer of Kansas City, who says she was the victim of a kidnaping plot in which she was forced to marry her abductor. As a result of her story the police are searching for Joseph M. Phillips, twenty-three, of St. Louis, the alleged kidnaper of the young woman.

ABYSSINIA, HERMIT NATION, IS AN INTERNATIONAL ENIGMA

African Country Is Rich in Possibilities and May Develop Into Great Empire.

New York.—Abyssinia, the hermit nation of Africa, is the enigma of international statesmanship, according to the official report of the educational commission to east Africa, which is now being distributed by the Phelps-Stokes fund. The one great native empire of the African continent, Abyssinia has recently been admitted as a member of the League of Nations, although so little is known of it that the estimates of population range from 4,000,000 to 10,000,000.

"Unconquered, unknown and undeveloped, Abyssinia is at once a country of great material resources and of serious and difficult problems," the report continues. "The unique element in the position of the empire is its independence of European control. The remarkable agricultural possibilities, including almost half of the cultivated soil of temperate climates in east Africa, must inevitably respond to the demand of the world for the necessaries of life. The increasing facility of transportation and travel will necessarily compel the participation of this great empire in the economic activities of civilization.

"The geographical position of Abyssinia in northeast Africa with European colonies encircling its territory, and nationalistic Egypt close at hand, add to the impending character of Abyssinian possibilities.

"In the present awakening of Africa, and especially of east Africa, it seems certain that this great inland empire will be forced upon the attention of the world.

"The vital problem now confronting, not only Abyssinia but also east Africa and the nations whose peace and prosperity are involved, is how and when that empire is to become a factor in the world affairs."

The successor to the famous Emperor Menelik, who died in 1908, was deposed in 1916 for anti-Christian intrigue, and a daughter of Menelik was named as empress with her kinsman, Ras Tafari, as prince regent and heir to the throne. This ruling family is commonly supposed to be descended from Solomon and the queen of Sheba. The Abyssinians are Christians of the ancient Coptic church.

Old Masonic Apron

Seattle, Wash.—A Masonic apron has been in one family 139 years, has survived three fires and one flood, and is here awaiting a male owner. The apron was presented in 1786 to Sir Richard Harrie Call, a British naval officer stationed at Cork, Ireland, an ancestor of Mrs. Mary E. Gilmour. The apron goes to the first of Mrs. Gilmour's sons who becomes a Mason.

If a woman's grief happens to be a wrinkle even time cannot heal it.

News Items of Local Interest

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. White and son Albert left in their car last Friday morning for Ingram, Wisconsin, for a visit with former Klemmeites and to look after Mr. White's farm there. The Gus Carlson, Fred Gates, and Howard Wilson families all live around Ingram.

Mrs. Frank Kluckhohn and son Franklin and daughter Carmen, left Tuesday for Thompson for a visit until Saturday with Mrs. Kluckhohn's mother, Mrs. Orr. Kenneth remained home to keep house and cook for "dad." Latest reports are that Kenneth and dad are faring well.

According to the present plans the Klemme Band will give the first concert on Friday evening, July 3rd. The Klemme merchants will keep their stores open that night and will be closed all day Saturday, July 4. Keep this in mind: Stores open Friday night, July 3rd, closed all day Saturday, July 4th. Come to town and enjoy the band concert and do all your shopping for the week end.

R. A. Jorgenson and family, accompanied by Mrs. P. M. Wilson and Mrs. Williams, of Vinton, were Mason City visitors Friday morning. Ye Editor spent a couple of hours looking over a Model 26 Linotype machine at the Republican shop. This is the latest in machines and was recently installed, and of course, we wanted to see it. This is the only one of its kind in this part of the country.

There was a near cyclone in this part of the state Sunday afternoon. Quite a number of people saw the cyclone form and dip down but it did not do very much damage as it was up quite high. Out in Liberty township a few buildings were damaged by the wind. Nearly everyone took to the cellar when the storm was seen coming up. All along the highway autoists stopped at farm houses to get into the cellars. At one farm seven car loads of autoists took refuge in the basement.

Roy Schaefer has the foundation laid for a new double garage and work shop on his farm west of town. When this is completed Roy will have room for two cars in one end of the building and a large, well lighted work shop in the other end of the building. He has a 300 gallon gasoline tank buried in the ground outside and piped to the inside where he will have his gas pump just like a filling station. Roy has a fine equipment of tools of all kinds at his farm and prepared for any rush job.

Mrs. Nils Hegland, 78 years old, died at the home of her son, Swen Hegland, near Goodell Thursday, June 18th, of cancer. Funeral services were held Saturday morning at 9:00 o'clock at the farm home and the body was then taken to Radcliff in the Wellemeyer hearse. Funeral services were held in the Norwegian Lutheran church by Rev. Hayden and the remains laid at rest in the Radcliff cemetery. Deceased was born in Norway and came to this country eighteen years ago to live with her sons Swen and Even, who both live near Goodell. A daughter, Martha lives in Chicago.

At the recent annual election of officers and directors of the Farmer's Elevator Co., Mr. H. J. Stille was appointed to succeed H. G. Miller as manager for the company. Mr. Stille should be a good man for the company as he has had experience in business and was a succesful farmer. Mr. Miller has been with the elevator several years and was at the head of it from its beginning. We have not learned what he will do but he informs us that he has a number of good positions in view. The business of the company showed up good and a substantial increase in business was recorded. The coming year promies to be a successful one for the elevator under the direction of Mr. Stille.

LATEST VIOLA DANA PICTURE IS COMING

An entertainment or rare quality is promised when Viola Dana's newest picture for Metro, "The Heart Bandit" come to the Idle Hour next Saturday night. The flapper star is said to make full use of her opportunities for comedy and pathos in this story which tells what happens when a girl bandit accidently breaks into the home of a kindly old lady and is forced through circumstances to stay there.

The situations arising from the unusual association form the basis for many scenes of thrill and comedy, the girl getting into several scrapes that seem impossible of solution until a new element—love—enters in.

Milton Sills, the popular leading man of a host of big productions, appears opposite Miss Dana. Others in the cast include Wallace MacDonald, Gertrude Claire, Bertram Grassby, and DeWitt Jennings.

C. R. I. & P. Ry. will sell at auction, at their warehouse at west end of Main St., Klemme, Iowa, 500 Oil Mops complete with oil, June 26th, 1925, at 9:30 A. M.

M. O. BARR, Agent,
C. R. I. & P. Ry.

2wc

CHURCH NOTES

A splendid audience greeted the pastor lastSunday morning. Our attendance has kept up well in spite of the hot weather. Let us continue for during the strenious summer days we need the inspiration of God's house more than ever.

Next Sunday another vital subject will be taken up for our consideration when we speak on the theme "The Church that is in thy house

We shall endeavor to make our evening services brief and refreshing during these hot summer evenings.

The W. F. M. S. meets at the hom of Mrs. Bredbenner on Thursday afternoon for its montly meet-

Our Vacation Bible School closed Friday. It proved to be a success, is assured next year.

We have opened our Bible School in Liberty church and will continue for two weeks. A splendid class was present on the opening morning with more to follow.

THE 4 H. SEWING CLUB

The girls of the 4 H. Sewing club of Ell Township, held their meeting at the home of Miss Stella Bock on Thursday, June 18th. At this meeting plans were mode for a Rally Day to be held at Eagle Lake on June 26. After the sewing hour refreshments were served by the hostess. The main feature was a large birthday cake decorated with 17 candles; the dy being Miss Bock's birthday. The next meeting will be held at Marguerite Stokesbary's, July 8.

If accidently your screen doors are left open and the flies troop in, just wait until evening and you can get rid of them without difficulty. At that time they settle on the ceiling. Try sweeping with the attachment of your vacuum cleaner about an inch below the ceiling and watch the fun as the flies dissapear into the bag.

Miss Bertha Thorman, one of our successful Progressive Series music teachers, has dicontinued her work for the summer as she left for St. Louis, Missouri, where she will take a special teacher's course in the Progressive Series college. She will continue her music work in the fall. —Belmond Independent.

The electric curling iron has many uses besides making a bobbed head beautiful. It can be used to flute the ruffles often found on baby's dresses and on ladies blouses. The result is as dainty as the work done by a French laundry.

PROGRESSIVE LEADER PASSES

Robert M. LaFollette, for years political leader of Wisconsin and head of the third party, later candidate for president on Independent ticket, died shortly after noon Thurs day, June 18, in his Washington home. The fatal termination of a cold, which brought on an attack of Asthma, was feared since the beginning of his illness. His family was at the bedside when he died. He was 70 years old.

PITFALLS FOR THE UNWARY

Seek Bankers' Advice on Foreign Bonds, Says Department of Commerce.

American investors in securities of foreign companies and foreign governments should take care to purchase them only through reliable bankers or brokers, says Commerce Reports issued by the Department of Commerce. It adds:

"There have recently been several flagrant cases of securities being advertised in American journals at prices from 10 to 100 times the price quoted on the same date in the markets of the countries where the concerns are located. Some of these cases have even attracted the attention of foreign newspapers. This is not a safe kind of speculation for uninformed Americans, but the would-be investor can easily protect himself by asking the advice of his regular banker."

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

On Carrying Checks Around

"Have you heard about the trouble Jim Sykes is in, Aunt Emmy?" asked Molly, who dearly loved to talk about her neighbors.

"Why, no," answered Aunt Emmy; "what is it?"

"Well, Aunty, you know how proud he was to get that building job from Mr. Parker. He needed the money so much. When it was finished Mr. Parker gave him a check for $3,000. Of course Jim had obligated himself to pay a lot of that out for materials and things. Well, you know what an old slow poke Jim Sykes is. Instead of taking the check to the bank right away he carried it around in his pocket and then poor Mr. Parker died. Now he must wait until Mr. Parker's estate is settled, and that may be a couple of years before he can cash the check. Poor Jim, isn't it a shame!"

"It's too bad," agreed Aunt Emmy, "but quite in keeping with most folks' carelessness about money. People should be prompt in depositing checks. Aside from such a serious thing as a death, an undeposited check is a nuisance to lots of people. Banks and business houses keep their books carefully balanced. If at the end of a month a check that has been issued has not been put through for collection it means a lot of unnecessary bookkeeping for the person who issued the check and for the bank.

"Then, too, there is the danger of loss. People often write their names across the back of a check and then carry it around for a day or two before banking it. An indorsed check is as negotiable as money. To be safe always indorse it to your bank. Write 'Pay to the Order of ——' then the name of your bank and below that sign your name. That protects the check from being used, if it should get out of your hands. But never waste any time about depositing checks you receive."

"Not after what happened to Jim and after hearing you tell me all these things, Aunty!" said Molly. "I'd be scared to keep a check a minute more than necessary."—Anne B. Agnew.

NOTICE OF THE APPOINTMENT OF ADMINISTRATOR

State of Iowa, Hancock County, ss.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That the undersigned has been duly appointed and qualified as Administrator of the estate of A. D. White deceased, late of Hancock County, All persons indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment; and those having claims against the same will present them, duly authenticated to the undersigned for allowance, and file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court.

A. R. White, Administrator,
By Ramsay & Blackstone
His Attorneys J9

Man's waistline, too, moves from year to year; in the case of the heart y eater the direction being downawrd.

Even if you can't keep your money in your own possession, at least keep it in this town.

Priscilla Dean
the Favorite Universal Film Star says of the mysterious, distinctive
NEW GARDA ODOR
"Its strange, clinging delicacy always is a source of delight."
Have you tried the NEW Garda Toiletries? If not, try them now. You will be charmed. This complete line of products issued by the great
HOUSE OF WATKINS
(Established 1868.)
WINONA, MINNESOTA.
consists of seven rich creations:
GARDA FACE POWDER, ROUGE, FACE CREAM, PERFUME, TOILET WATER, NAIL POLISH, TALCUM
Learn to know and love Garda, as millions of women are doing. Ask information about Garda Toilet Preparations and 137 other Products from
THE WATKINS RETAILER

Dr. R. W. Specht
—Dentist—
Office Over Whitehead's Store
Office Phone No. 106
Garner Iowa

Floyd Fraser

Big Sale Of Shoes
For The Fourth

FOR MEN, WOMEN and CHILDREN!

We are putting on a Special Sale of Shoes for Men, Women and children for the Fourth. The sale is now on and you will find bargains in our shoe department during this sale. Buy your shoes now and save money. Our stock is all new and all of the latest styles in footwear..

Dress up for the Fourth—buy your shoes now!

Bring your Eggs to Abraham's
Come early and avoid the rush at the Big Store at Garner, Iowa—

Abraham & Sons
Garner Iowa

An Open Letter

MR. CUSTOMER:—

This Iowa Public Utility Company believes that Iowa people are entitled to participate in the ownership of the Companies furnishing essential Public Service, and receve the benefits of ownership by becoming partners.

This Company has consistently encouraged customers to become owners and many hundreds of its customers have availed themselves of the opportunity and are now enjoying a Tax Free income, Free from worry, or bother, and as regular as the First day of January; April; July and October comes during the year. The investment giving these advantages is the—

7 Percent Circulative Prefered Stock

OF

CENTRAL STATES ELECTRIC COMPANY

This Preferred stock is issued fully paid: non-assessable, and is Free of Iowa Taxes, and the Federal Normal Income Tax, and has the standard Par Value of $1000 per share, and is backed by unusually strong property values and earning power. The applicable property value being equal to $1600 for each $100 share, and the available Earnings after payment of all operating expenses, maintenance, taxes, and all interest, is equal to Over Fourteen Times the 7% Dividends. The property value and the earnings have been built up over the period of a number of years since the organization of the Company, which is now serving 63 communities in IOWA and MINNESOTA.

The Company is part of the largest Electric Light and Power System in IOWA, and is under the Management that has been successful for 40 YEARS.

The 7% Preferred stock investment has a number of particular advantages including the special Resale feature that are of interest to our customers who want a SAFE 7% NET INVESTMENT.

We do not have many shares left of the original issue of 1,000 shares and would like to have the remaining shares placed with many of our customers, so as to build up the mutual ownership of our Company.

You may invest in one or more shares at $100 each and receive dividends from the date you place your order.

A circular will be sent to you giving full information if you send the COUPON to our Securities Department, at 215 South Second St., Cedar Rapids, Iowa, or ask any employee, or our Manager.

—Coupon—
CENTRAL STATES ELECTRIC CO.
Securities Department
215 South Second St.
Cedar Rapids, Iowa.
Gentlemen:
Without obligation, send me the Circular describing your Preferred Investment.
Signed .....
Address .....

Central States Electric Co.

Fine Summer Sausage and Cold Meats

We have a full line of highest quality Cold Meats of all kinds which are very nice for Picnic Lunches or suppers on warm evenings.

SOME GOOD SUGGESTIONS

Armour's Goteborg Summer Sausage and Muencher Veri-Best Summer Sausage. Either style at, per lb. ..... 23c.

Minced Ham Pressed Ham
Veal Loaf Beef Loaf Boiled Ham
Pickled Pig Feet, Hearts, Hocks, etc
Pork & Beans Salmon Sardines
Cheese of All Kinds .. Pickles, Etc

We always carry a full line of fresh and cured meats of all kinds. The Fourth is coming and remember this is the place to get the biggest part of your picnic dinner.

Klemme Meat Market

Dress Up For The Fourth

EVERYTHING FOR MEN and BOYS!

Dress up for the Fourth! Look your very best on this day of days. Abraham at Garner can fix you out from top to toe in all thats latest in dress for Men and Young Men and Boys.

We carry a complete line of:—

MEN'S and YOUNG MEN'S SUITS

SUITS FOR BOYS in all sizes.

HATS and CAPS in all styles for men and Boys. Fine line of straw hats.

DRESS SHIRTS, TIES, COLLARS, Etc.

A fine line of shoes and oxfords for summer wear.

Buy your clothing here and save money. We can supply your needs at lowest prices and you get brand new styles and quality goods at all times when you trade here.

Chas. Abraham & Sons

S. E. Adams, Mgr. Garner, Iowa

The Cash Store

Just received a nice line of Men's Fancy DRESS SHIRTS; have different styles and patterns. Come in and see our display and make your selection.

Good assortment of Men's dress HATS in latest styles. No competition when it comes to price. A nice one at $2.00.

Special for Saturday

HARVEST DISHES-- From 12c to 20c

Per Piece

"PAY CASH and PAY LESS"

Jno. N. Day's Cash Store

It is easy to save and to acquire habits of thrift which means so much to one's future.

Without thrft and some systematic savings plan, fame and fortune and success are almost unattainable.

You can start an account here with any sum you may have on hand. A dollar will open an account at this bank.

If you want to start right you will START TODAY!

We pay 5 per cent interest on Savings Accounts.

State Savings Bank

Klemme Iowa

News of Klemme and Vicinity

Allie White and family visited at Mason City last week Wednesday.

H. Beek returned Friday from a trip of a few days in Minnesota and South Dakota.

Leonard Sampson and family were Mason City visitors Friday of the past week.

J. J. Poort and family were fishing at Crystal Lake Friday. Fishing has been good the past few days.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Poort and children drove to Joice, Sunday, for a visit with friends.

Emil Barz, of Waterloo, was visiting with Klemme relatives Sunday.

National Defense Test Day will be observed July 4th this year, instead of on Armistice Day.

Arthur Wellemeyer was at Nora Springs Monday morning on business.

Radio Tubes rejuvenated. H. Lau Sons, Klemme, Iowa. tfc

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stille and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Stille were visiting at Britt Monday evening.

Bring in your weak or dead Radio Tubes. If filament lights we can restore them. H. Lau Sons. tfc

Mrs. R. A. McConn, Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Williams were at Clear Lake Monday visiting.

Mrs. Pete Christians had an operation for appendicitis at the Hampton hospital Tuesday. Reports are that she is getting along well.

Mrs. Wm. Stille and daughter, Elvira, La Rayne Stille, and Mrs. J. E. Stille and daughter, were Mason City visitors Friday.

Mr. Charles Gibbs, of Big Lake, Minnesota, came last week for a visit with his mother and other relatives here for a week or more.

Mrs. C. F. Keraus left last week Thursday for Pocohontas, Iowa, to assist at a wedding. She expects to return the latter part of this week.

Mrs. Harvey Stille and Mrs. Paul Stille drove to Thompson Sunday to take Mrs. Orr back home. Mrs. Orr had been visitinv in Klemme.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Poort, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Stone, of Minneapolis, took in the sights at the Grotto at West Bend, yesterday.

Fishing has been good out at the West Branch the past week, and also in the river west of town. The bullheads caught are large and firm.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Schaefer, of Marble Rock, Iowa, came Tuesday for a couple of days visit with Klemme relatives and friends.

Ernest Palmby and family of Vernon Center, Minn., were visiting wth Klemme relatves and friends Saturday and Sunday.

Bert Mathews was at Radcliff Saturday and while there stopped at the hotel for dinner and found Mr. and Mrs. Crawford were running it. They formerly run the hotel here.

All hogs or July 4 shipment must be delivered by Friday night, July 3. We are closed July 4th. W. F. Lau. 1tc.

Paul Kluckhohn, of Ames, was a visitor in Klemme Friday. He is a nephew of George Kluckhohn and is the son of the former editor of the Garner Signal.

Mrs. George Buseman underwent an operation at Mercy Hospital at Mason City last week. We are glad to report that she is getting along fine.

Peter Trampell drove down to Blairsburg for an over Sunday visit with his brother. He says the hail and wind did considerable damage down that way Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Elder and daughter, Reva, were Mason City visitors Wednesday, of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Stone, of Minneapolis came Tuesday in their car for a few days visit at the J. J. Port home.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bartz and children, and Miss Betrtha Bartz, of Valley City, North Dakota, came Saturday for a few days visit with Klemme friends.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gruetzmacher, Lillian Beeler, Warren Levea, accompanied by Mrs. Goodhile, drove to Mason City Saturday, remaining until Monday visiting relatives.

Feed Grinding—Will grind all kinds of feed beginning Thursday in old Kraus barn east of Standard Oil tanks. Dates of grinding will be set later. J. H. Steeman. 1tp.

Mrs. Mary Waterman is visiting at the Fred Musfelt home at Clarion this week. Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Waterman and daughter, Marion, visited there Sunday.

Mrs. Mitzner and son and daughter, of Colesburg, and Mrs. Josten, of Garner, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Schuldt Monday. The ladies are sisters of Mr. Schuldt.

Mrs. C. L. Melcher and children of Charles City, came Sunday for a visit of a week or two at the Arthur Wellemeyer home. Mrs. Melcher is a sister of Mr. Wellemeyer.

The recital at the Methodist Church last Friday evening was well attended. The piano pupils of Mrs. George Gruetzmacher showed some fine talent at the piano.

We are glad to report that Mrs. F. A. Arnold is improving in health. She has been ill for several months but is now able to be up a little each day.

"Bobby" Henschen came in from Los Angeles, Cal., Tuesday for a visit with old Klemme friends. He likes it fine out there and will go back in a few weeks. On the way back he will go up into Canada, Vancouver and other points northwest on a trip.

There is quite a bit of the corn in this locality that is now knee-high. All the corn will be knee-high here by the Fourth. Oats crops are beginning to look good and a fair crop is assured.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. McConn are spending their vacation at the Lake Shore Hotel at Clear Lake. Mrs. McConn has two months vacation and Mr. McConn spends the week end at the Lake.

W. H. Trafford, of Belmond, was a Klemme visitor Tuesday. Bill tells us that the bull heads are biting fine at Morse Lake and that they are all good size. He says that there are some game fish in the lake and occasionally a fine pike or pickerel is caught.

Louis Strieby and family, of Mason City, who formerly lived in this town, left last Tuesday for Colorado, in the hopes of benefiting Mrs. Strieby's health. They will go to Fort Morgan, Greely and Fort Collins, at one of these places Mr. Streiby expects to get work in the sugar factories, at which business he has been working for a few years.

KLEMME MARKETS

June 24, 1925

Wheat	1.50
Oats	.38
Corn	.90
Barley	.75
Rye	1.00
Hogs	12.50—13.00
Eggs (Cash)	.25
Eggs (Trade)	.26
Heavy Hens	.18
Light Hens	.15
Standard Springs	.28
Leghorn No. 2 Springs	.23
Ducks	.14
Old Roosters	.08
Geese	.08
Butter (Creamery)	.45
Butterfat	.44

R. E. Porter

CHIROPRACTOR

Palmer Graduate

24 hours a day 7 days aweek

Office at John Lieuwen residence. Phone 191.

Belmond Iowa

JULY 4th

—AT—

BRITT

Morning on Main Street

Band Concert, Parade, Patriotic Program, Address by Hon. S. E. McMahon.

Afternoon at Fair Grounds

Race Meet: 2:20 trot, 2:17 pace, county harness, county run, pony and bicycle races. Two ball games. Ralph Parcaut and Pope Rogers in their thrilling aeroplane stunt "Flirting with Death." Parcaut descends from plane on rope and lands on ground without assistance of parachute.

General Admission 50c

Evening on Main Street

Band Concert. Water fight. Street sports for all. Dancing.

Petroleum Coke

CAR IN TRANSIT

At $15 per ton

The ashless and sootless fuel.

I BUY HOGS!

Do not forget that I buy hogs 6 days a week and must pay a good price to compete with nearby towns.

You are not compelled to SHIP or SELL. You are the judge. Do what you think will bring you best returns. Remember when you sell YOU ARE SAFE.

W. F. Lau

Note: If anyone tells you, you must ship, investigate and be convinced.

Hello Bill!

Here I am, back again with more big bargains in our Grocery Department at Abraham's Big Store.

Did you share in the bargains listed in the past week? Come in and compare our prices. You will save money.

Our grocery department is fresh and wholesome. We now have located it in the front of our store where it is more convenient for our customers.

Remember! We have lots of bargains every week in our grocery department. You can bing us your eggs. Highest prices paid at all times.

Abraham's

Garner Iowa

NAMELESS RIVER

VINGIE E. ROE

COPYRIGHT BY THE McCALL COMPANY.

WNU Service.

THE CANYON

SYNOPSIS. — Kate Cathrew, "Cattle Kate," owner of the Sky Line ranch, on her way to McKane's store at Cordova, seemingly infuriated by the sight of a girl plowing in a valley below, places a rifle bullet near the horses' feet. The girl takes no notice. Kate goes on to town, where her presence brings on a fight between McKane, the trader, and Sheriff Selwood. Nance Allison, the girl on whom Kate Cathrew had vented her spite, is with her widowed mother and crippled brother Bud farming land taken up by her father, killed a short time before in a mysterious accident. Bud is the victim of a deliberate attempt to maim or kill him. Kate Cathrew wants the farm for pasture land, and is trying to frighten the Allisons into leaving.

CHAPTER III—Continued

—3—

For a considerable space of time the woman sat regarding him. "I sent you to help in the breaking of morale," she said coldly, "not to bring me back defiance. Next time I'll send a more trustworthy man."

She nodded dismissal, and the youth went quickly, his face burning.

At the far end of the veranda he almost ran into Big Basford, whose huge, gorilla-like shape was made more sinister and repellant by the perceptible limp. Basford was always somewhere near, if possible, when men talked with Kate Cathrew.

His great strength and stature, his small eyes, black and rimmed with red, his unkempt head and flaring black beard, everything about him suggested a savagery and power with which few men cared to trifle.

He scanned the boy's flushed face with swift appraising.

"I take it," he was grinning, "that the boss wasn't pleased with you?"

"Take it or leave it," said the other with foolhardy daring, "is it any of your business?"

With a smothered roar Big Basford leaped for him, surprisingly nimble on his lamed foot, surprisingly light.

He caught him by the throat and bore him backward across the veranda's edge, so that both bodies fell heavily on the boards of the floor.

"You'll find what's my business, d—n you," gritted Big Basford; "you—!"

He got to his knees and straddling the lad's body came down on his throat with all his weight in his terrible grip. At the sound of the fall Minnie Pine leaped to a window.

"That black devil is killing the Blue Eyes," she said in patois Spanish to Josefa. "Give me that knife—"

But there was no need of Minnie's interference.

Kate Cathrew had heard that heavy thunder of falling bodies on boards and she was quicker than her half-breed, for she was up and away from the desk before Big Basford had risen on his knees, and as she rose her left hand swept down the wall, taking from its two pegs the heavy quirt that always hung there.

With the first jab of the boy's head back on the floor, she was running down the veranda, her arm raised high. With the second she was between Big Basford and the light like a threat of doom.

As he surged forward once more above the blackening face in his throttling fingers, she flung her body back in a stiff arc to get more impetus—and drove the braided lash forward and down like a fury.

It circled Big Basford's head from the back, the bitter end snapping across his face with indescribable force.

It curled him away from his victim, tumbling back on his heels with his murderous hands covering his cheeks.

For a moment he hung on the veranda's edge, balanced, then slipped off, lurching on his lame foot. He held his hands over his face for a tense moment. Then he looked up through his fingers, where the blood was beginning to ooze, straight at the woman.

The red-rimmed eyes were savage with rage and hurt, but behind both was a flaming passion which seemed to swell and burgeon with a perverted admiration.

"I've told you before, Basford," said Kate Cathrew, "that I will deal with my men myself. I don't need your overly zealous aid. Get out of my sight—and stay out till you can heed what I say. Minnie, take this fool away—pump some wind into him. Give him some whisky."

She touched the boy contemptuously with the toe of her buckled slipper. He was weakly trying to get up and the Pomo girl unceremoniously finished the effort, lifting him almost bodily in her arms and supporting him through the door into the kitchen. The look she turned over her shoulder at Big Basford was venomous.

The owner of Sky Line walked down the veranda to her living-room door. At its lintel she stopped and stood, drawing the heavy quirt through her fingers, looking back at Big Basford. He had watched her progress and now the hard, bright, sparkling gaze of her dark eyes seemed to force him to movement, so that he picked up his hat, set it on his head and turned away towards the corrals at Rainbow's foot, swinging with a rolling gait that further made one think of jungle folk.

But the lips in the flaring beard were twitching.

Kate Cathrew went in and hung the quirt on its smooth pegs, then sat down and took up her interrupted work just where she had left it.

CHAPTER IV

The Mystery of Blue Stone Canyon.

On the rich flats of Nameless, Nance Allison tilled her soil and her blue eyes caressed the land. The homestead was a fetish with her. It had been her pappy's dream of empire. It was hers. He had stuck by and toiled, had secured his patent, made the good start.

She asked nothing better than to carry on, to see it prosper and endure.

But strange disasters had befallen her, one after the other—first and bitterest, the hidden rope stretched in a cattle trail two years back, just after John Allison's mysterious death, which sent young Bud's pony tumbling to the gulch below and left the boy to walk lopsided ever after.

At that the girl had almost weakened in her stubborn purpose. She had held the young head in her arms many a weary hour when the pain was worst, and tried to build a plan of a future away from Nameless valley, but Bud would not listen. The bare thought made him fret and toss, sent the red blood burning in his cheeks.

"We'll never let 'em beat us out, Nance," he would pant with his hot breath, "the land is ours, safe and legal, and no bunch o' cut-throats is goin' to get it from us. Not while we can stand—not while we can ride or plow—or use a gun!"

But Nance would stop him always there.

"'Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me,'" she would say gently, "we have no need of guns, Bud."

However, as the seasons passed, each with its promise and its inevitable blight, her face had become graver, less smiling. There had been the hay fire then—the fire in the night where no fire was or had been. There had been the six fat steers that disappeared from the range and were never heard of, though Bud rode Buckskin to a lather in a fruitless search for them. There had been the good harness cut to pieces one night when Bud had forgotten to lock it up.

All these had been disasters in a real sense to these people living so meagerly with their scant possessions.

And this year they were more than poor, they were in debt to McKane for the new harness that had to be bought to replace the other. But Nance looked at her field of corn coming in long rows of tender green on the brown floor of the well-worked land and hoped. She was prone to hope. It was part of her equipment for the battle of life, her shield before the lance of her courage, her buckler of energy.

"It looks like a heavy crop, McKane," she told the trader honestly, "and I'll have far and away more than enough for you—I think I'll have enough left for my winter stake."

"Hope you do," said McKane, for though he was none too scrupulous where his own interests were concerned, he felt a vague admiration for the game girl working her lonely homestead in her dead father's place.

So, with the crop spreading its four delicate blades to the coaxing sun and the hay knee-deep in the big fenced flat across the river, Nance Allison laid by her labors for a while to rest her body and refresh her soul.

"I've just got to ride the hills, Mammy," she said smiling, "got to fish the holes in Blue Stone canyon, to climb the slopes for a little while. It will be my only chance, you know—there's the hay to cut soon and the corn to cultivate, and the cattle to look after later. I can't work all the year, Mammy, without a little play."

At which the mother's tragic eyes filled with tears—this for her daughter's only play—the riding in the lonesome hills—the fishing for trout in a shadowed canyon—when her young feet should have been tripping to the lilt of fiddles—when she should have had ribbons and muslin flounces, and a sweetheart—the things of youth ere her youth should pass! Pass, tolling at the handles of a plow! It was a poignant pain indeed, that brought those insistent tears, that withheld the fear-urged protest.

So, in the golden mornings, Nance began to saddle Buckskin and ride away, a snack of bread and bacon tied behind the cantle, to come ambling home at dusk happy, sweet, filled with the joy of life, sometimes a string of speckled beauties dangling at her knee, sometimes empty-handed.

Sometimes Bud went with her, but it was not fair to Dan and Molly, the heavy team, to cheat them of their share of rest, since Bud must ride one or the other of them, and so Nance rode for the most part alone.

She "lifted up her eyes to the hills" in all truth and drew from them a very present strength. The dark, blue-green slopes of the tumbling ridges, covered with a tapestry of finely picked out points of pine and fir trees, filled her with the joy of the nature lover, the awed humility of the humble heart which considers the handiwork of God.

She lay for hours on some log high in a sunny glade, her hands under her fair head, her lips smiling unconsciously, her long blue eyes dreaming into the cloud-flecked heavens, and sometimes she wondered what the future held for her after the fashion of maids since the world began. She recalled the restless wanderings of the family in her early years, remembered vaguely the home and the school in old Missouri, her father's caseless urge for travel. And then had come their journey's end, here in the austere loneliness of Nameless valley, where his nomad heart had settled down and had been at home. She thought of these familiar things, and of others not familiar, such as picturing the house she and Bud would one day build on the big meadow, with running water piped from the rushing stream itself, with carpets—Mrs. Allison was already sewing interminable balls of "rags" for the fabric—and with such simple comforts as seemed to her nothing short of luxuries. She knew of a woman in Bement who wove carpets, a Mrs. Porter, at the reasonable price of thirty cents a yard, warp included. The warp should be brown-and-white, she decided—at least she had so decided long back after many conferences with her mother.

Brown and white running softly through the dim colors of the rags—nothing new enough to be bright went into the balls, though there would be a soft golden glow all through the hit-and-miss fabric from the "hanks" dyed with copperas—brown and white, Nance thought, would make it seem like the floor of the woods in fall, weathered and beautiful.

"You'll Find What's My Business, D—n You," Gritted Big Basford. "You—!"

She could scarcely wait the time of the fulfillment of this dream, when the cabin floors should be soft under foot.

Longing for the refinements was strong in her, though limited painfully to such simple scope as Cordova supplied, or as she remembered dimly from the days of her childhood in Missouri.

But the glory of the land was too compelling for idle dreams of the future. Here at hand were carpets of brown pine needles, shot through with scarlet bleeding hearts.

Here were mosses soft and wonderful when one bent close enough to study their minute and intricate patterns. Here were vast distances and dropping slopes, veiled in pale blue haze so delicate as to seem a hallucination.

Here also, were the mysterious fastnesses of Blue Stone canyon, its perpendicular walls of eroded rock cut by seam and fissure, its hollow aisles resonant always of the murmurous stream that tumbled through them.

Nance loved the canyon. She liked to climb among its boulders, to whip its frequent pools for the trout that hung in their moving smoothness, to listen to the thousand voices that seemed always whispering and talking. They were made of fairy stuff and madness, these voices. If one sat still and listened long enough he could swear that they were real, that strange concourses discussed the secrets of the spheres. On the hottest days of summer the canyon was cool, for a wind drew always through it from its unknown head somewhere in the Deep Hearts themselves far to the north and east. Buckskin felt the mysterious influence of the soundful silence, pricking his ears, listening, holding his breath to let it out in snorts, and Nance laughed at his uneasiness.

"Buckskin," she said one day, as she lay stretched at length on a flat rock beside a boiling riffle, "you're a bundle of nerves, a natural-born finder of fears. There isn't a thing bigger or uglier than yourself in all the canyon—unless it's a panther skulking up in the branches, and he wouldn't come near for a fortune—though what could be fortune to a cougar, I wonder?" she went on to herself, smiling at the strip of sky that topped the frowning rimrock, "only a full belly, I guess—the murderer."

She lay a long time basking in the sun that shone straight down, for it was noon, reveling in the relaxation of her young body, long worked to the limit and frankly tired.

She took her bread and bacon from a pocket and ate with the relish which only healthy youth can muster, clearing up the last crumb, drank from the stream, her face to the surface, and finally rose with a long breath of satisfaction.

"You can stay here, you old fraidcat," she said to the pony, dropping his rein over his head, "it's hard on your feet, anyway. Me—I'm going on up a ways."

Buckskin looked anxiously after her, but stayed where he was bid, as a well-trained horse should do, and the girl went on up the canyon, her fair head bare, her hands on her hips.

She drank in the somber beauty of the dull blue walls, hung to their towering rims with corruscation and prominence carved fantastically by erosion of uncounted years—listened, lips apart the better to hear, to the deep blended monotone of the talking voices.

She skirted great boulders fallen from above, waded a riffle here, leaped a narrow there, and always the great cut became rougher, wilder, more forbidding and mysterious.

She stood for a long time beside a pool that lay, still-seeming and dark, behind a huge rock, but in whose shadowed depths she could see the swirling of white sand that marked its turmoil.

When the snows melted in the high gulches of the Deep Hearts a little later, this place would be a roaring race. She thought of its foamy volume pouring from the canyon's mouth to swell the flood of Nameless a bit below her southern boundary. But it was a lone and lovely spot now, what with its peopled silence and its blue-toned walls.

These things were passing through her mind as she watched the swirling sand, when all suddenly, as if an invisible hand had brushed her, she became alert in every fiber.

She had heard nothing new in the murmurous monotone, seen no shadow among the pale shadows about her—yet something had changed. Some different element had intruded itself into the stark elements of the place.

Her skin rose in tiny prickles, she felt her muscles stiffen. She had lived in the face of menace so long that she was supersensitive, had developed a seventh sense that was quick to the nth degree.

She stood for a moment gathering her powers, then she whirled in her tracks, sweeping the canyon's width with eyes that missed nothing.

They did not miss the movement which was almost too swift for sight—the dropping of some dark object behind a rock, the passing of a bit of plumy tail.

The rock itself was between her and the broken foot of the wall, one of a mass that had tumbled from the weathered face. For a long time she stood very still, waiting, watching with unwinking eyes. Then, at the rock's edge, but farther away, she caught another glimpse of that tail-tip. Its wearer was making for the wall-foot, keeping the rock between. A wolf would do so—but there was something about that bit of plume which did not spell wolf. It was tawny white, and it was more loosely haired, not of the exact quality of a wolf's brush. Once more a tiny tip showed—and on a sudden daring impulse Nance Allison leaped for the rock, caught its top with both hands and peered over.

Blue Stone canyon is evidently a most delightful place. And what is its mystery?

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Ostrich Model Husband

The male ostrich is very domestic in his tastes. When he marries he marries for life. The ostrich makes his primitive nest with but little trouble. He lies on his breast and kicks the sand out backward and sidewise, thus scooping out a saucer-shaped hole in the sand about four feet in diameter and ten inches deep in the center. In this the female deposits her eggs, usually about 10 to 15. One egg is laid every alternate day. An ostrich egg weighs between three and four pounds and contains as much food as two or three dozen ordinary eggs. It is said that 30 minutes are required to soft boil them. Incubation takes from 40 to 42 days, the male and the female sitting on the nest alternately. The eggs are regularly turned and are covered with sand and left during the day. —Family Herald.

Simple Explanation

This joke, which was recently forwarded to prove that scientific men can be witty as well as wise, should be read aloud: A colleague of Dr. Crun Brown, the famous Edinburgh professor of chemistry, once came to him concerning an Indian medical student whose English was defective.

"We cannot pass this man," he said. "He is quite illiterate; he simply cannot spell. Why, he has spelt proceed with one 'e'."

"From what place does he come?" asked Doctor Brown.

"From Ceylon."

At once Doctor Brown flashed back: "That explains it. That's the land of the Cingalese!"

Woman Ranks With Man in Intellectual Force

There is a small group of scientists to whom women owe an everlasting debt of gratitude. These are the psychologists who have produced the mental yardstick—the intelligence test—and have thus furnished the fairer sex with the final convincing argument to refute the ancient and odious charge that women have less brains than men.

The intelligence tests have given the scientific answer to the question: Who are more intelligent, men or women?

And the answer is so conclusive that it leaves no room for appeal or evasion. The test scores of hundreds of thousands of children and young people of both sexes in schools and colleges have furnished the evidence. One noted psychologist declares that according to numerous tests he has made on school children under fourteen years the girls actually score one or two points higher than the boys.

Still another point of difference between the sexes, as revealed by the tests, is that women's scores do not fluctuate either above or below the average nearly so much as do men's. The very high grades—also the very low ones—are generally made by men. Nature always equalizes. And when the grand average is drawn we discover that the ancient notion of masculine mental superiority is a hoax.

The extremes reached by men in the tests may perhaps give us the clue to another reason why the world has produced a few men geniuses, but no women—and why the institutions for the feeble-minded contain more men than women. It is from the highest levels that the genius comes, and from the lowest the nut. And, as we have just learned, both of these levels contain more men than women. The fallacy of the past has been to consider these few intellectual prodigies as samples of the whole male half of the race. We must, therefore, conclude that the woman given to our father Adam was not only bone of his bone and flesh of his flesh—as the theologians tell us—but also brain of his brain. The sons of Adam and the daughters of Eve are possessed of the same intellectual equipment.—Kingsley Grey in the Designer Magazine.

Musical Bargain

John McCormack, the famous singer, receives many letters from aspirants to musical fame.

At a dinner in New York Mr. McCormack read a letter that had been sent him under the erroneous impression that he taught voice production. The letter, dated the Middle West, ran:

"Friend John: Please let me know your lowest rates for full correspondence course in voice production. I have no voice, but as the efficiency engineer business is not what it was represented to me to be in the International Efficiency School of Correspondence, I desire to abandon same in favor of grand opera, and if you can produce me a fine tenor voice I will be glad to pay, in addition to regular charges, a cash bonus and a generous percentage of salary receipts for a term of years."

Immense Water Project

The city of Manchester, England, has launched a water-power scheme which will cost $50,000,000. Haweswater, a little Westmoreland lake, is to be turned into a reservoir to hold 20,000,000,000 gallons of water, give a supply of 70,000,000 gallons daily, and thus solve Manchester's water problem for a hundred years. To do this will take ten years and involve the building of an aqueduct 84 miles long. Haweswater is 160 feet above Thirlmere, from which Manchester is at present drawing water, but it will have to be raised 90 feet. The picturesque valley of Mardale Green will be submerged under the new Haweswater, but the quaint old village church is to be rebuilt on higher ground.

Mother Commutes Over Sea

Mrs. Maren Christensen, who has eight children and a husband in Denmark and seven children living in the United States, will "commute" every six months or so between the two countries in order to spend a portion of her time with the two groups forming her family. The Christensens decided two years ago to come to America to live, but were frustrated in their plans because of the immigration quota difficulties. She was informed, however, that she could visit for six months in each year and thereupon she made her plans to "commute" every now and then until such time as the entire family can enter the country.

Celebrated Inn

A memorial tablet was recently unveiled at Bath, England, to mark the site of the historic White Hart inn which Dickens introduced into "Pickwick Papers." It was a famous coaching house in the Seventeenth century. It was at the White Hart inn that the poets Thomas Moore, George Crabbe and W. L. Bowles often met; and there, also, Sir Edward Bulwer-Lytton and Benjamin Disraeli, in their early days, appeared at dinner in magnificent attire, including black velvet tights and silk stockings.

Lights Fight Moths

Searchlights are being used in Germany and South Poland to save the forests from swarms of caterpillars, the larvae of a species of moth. When the lights were set up at night in the woods, millions of the insects, attracted by the powerful rays, were cremated when they flew into the incandescent carbons of the arc lamps, which were not sheltered by globes.

The AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

HEADS COMMITTEE ON WORLD PEACE

Thomas Amory Lee of Topeka, Kan., was one of the many high-spirited Americans of mature age who served with the French army in the early stages of the war until the United States threw down the gauntlet in April, 1917.

In the fall and winter of 1917 he served with the Foyer du Soldat on the Champagne front and saw strenuous service in that sanguinary conflict. Shortly thereafter he enlisted as a private in the Thirty-second regiment of French artillery and remained with that unit until he decided that service with his own countrymen was needful. Thereupon he enlisted in the Twenty-sixth American regiment, a part of the famous First division, and remained with that outfit until after the armistice. Injured at Cantigny early in 1918, he still found the strength to rejoin his outfit in time to participate in the battle of Soissons, where he was wounded.

Thomas Amory Lee.

After his discharge at Camp Dev... he returned to Topeka to resume the practice of law, but was drafted by ex-soldiers of his state to represent them at the St. Louis caucus of the American Legion, not then named or organized.

He organized Capital post of Topeka and continued in Legion service until elected department commander of Kansas for 1920-1921. Since then he has been appointed one of the directors of the American Legion Weekly, the official publication of the Legion. In 1924 the national convention at St. Paul was selected by reason of his world studies along international lines, to head a committee on world peace. It is his duty to select the most outstanding and meritorious world peace plans presented for judgment either here or abroad, study them carefully as to their feasibility and report at the Omaha convention with his recommendations as to the best one for the Legion to endorse.

A scholar, a writer of profound principles, and a successful lawyer, Thomas Amory Lee has devoted much of his time to developing the Legion along the ideals of service enunciated in Paris and at St. Louis.

He was born in Topeka in 1... which makes him forty-six years old. After graduation from the Kansas Military school, Kansas university and studied at Harvard Law school he then returned to Topeka to practice. He has traveled extensively abroad and in 1924 represented the American Legion as a delegate to the International War Veterans' association congress in London. He is also a member of the Legion's Permanent Commission on Foreign Relations.

To Photograph Graves of Hero Dead in Fra...

To satisfy the demands of the relatives of boys who are buried on the battlefields of France, Frederick Church, senior vice commander of Charles W. Heiser post of the American Legion, Brooklyn, N. Y., sailed for France recently to photograph the graves of the dead.

Mr. Church and his wife expect to spend three months at the task. They received thousands of requests for photographs of graves. Besides making photographs, Mr. and Mrs. Church will place flowers on the graves if relatives request. Mr. Church says: "A photograph, at least, of the grave of the soldier who lies in Flanders fields should not be denied anyone."

To Extend Activities

Extension of the activities of the veterans' mountain camp of the American Legion at Tupper Lake, N. Y., is being contemplated so that it can be made to accommodate victims of other types of illness in addition to the tuberculosis patients being treated there now. Patients suffering from illnesses other than tuberculosis will be treated at Paradise Point, some distance from the main group of buildings.

mmunity uilding

s Say Average Village Lacks Beauty

20,000,000 persons in the States, or about one-fifth of ulation, live in villages, and farming people use these or purposes of business, edu- ligion, health and social well- et these centers of rural pop- are usually unattractive and y ugly. Villages in other coun- generally much superior to the United States in design, haracter of their streets and ildings, and in their approach- ecreation spots. A start, how- s been made toward beautify- American village, says the States Department of Agricul-examples of leadership in this are recorded by the depart- hich has been studying the of village planning from the int of its importance to the ommunity and particularly to mer.

more as a buying than as a place that the farmer makes the village. In marketing his l products he generally deals me large distributing center. purchases his household sup- the village. He goes there for ent and for social purposes y. His children often go to there. An attractive village, e department, is an important e in stabilizing farm life and in acting the attractions which ave for the young people of ms. As the farmer's chief point act with outside interests, the can make a big contribution to piness of farm life, even if it sidered from no other stand- han the fact that it is the place the farmer spends a large part income.

in Beautifying Grounds Means Much anting it is well to follow some rules. Avoid scattered effect nts; it is better to plant them ps. Frame and mass the sides rners and angles. Put larger ens in the background, with plants in front. Keep the und open. Secure uniformity kness, variety, size, shape and by the right combinations of picking out those that har- foliage, fruits and general ure. In general it is better to tive shrubs, trees and vines in abundance, and use scarcely— all—the imported, introduced reign plants. In general it is to avoid exotics. Use vines for s and piazzas, to make the look at home. Keep the lawn broad, clean and clear of flower Do not use kettles, boilers or even though they are pretty filled with flowers. Most of things are out of place in the yard.

enefit of Home-Owning re than one-half the homes in nited States are owned by men ake less than $2,000 a year," de- W. D. Carter, former president New York State League of Sav- nd Loan Associations. "It is es- d that approximately 90 per cent se who build or buy a home do y for it outright at the start. of thrift, economy, and self- established and practiced in to meet the monthly payments hich the home is paid for are the greatest benefits of owning e."

For Tree Planting

h attention and care, trees of size will thrive in small patches l where larger trees, with their ding root systems, might lan- says the American Tree associa- of Washington, in urging you to the tree-planting army. The ef- of these formally pruned trees is ed and decorative, and gives a touch of green to a street lined high-class shops or handsome s in solid rows. For a two-cent the association will send you lanting suggestions.

"Grounds" Mean Much

e front lawn and the back yard me ways are an index to the , and most persons believe that if grounds" in front and rear of the are untidy there is some indif- t housekeeping in the dining , kitchen and basement. Let us the neighbors that we are as ful with the rake and paint brush ith golf clubs and tennis rackets, that not all our energy is expend- talking of the greater need for spirit.—Indianapolis News.

Surely All Can Do This

ttle towns say they can't afford eautify themselves on any whole- plan. We believe they can afford eautify by planting all the road- s with peonies, roses, daisies, can- and all such flowers as require the expense of multiplication and le work.—St. Louis Globe-Demo- t.

Home Founding

One of the greatest successes we achieve is the founding of a home.

FOCUS ON SPORTS APPAREL; SHOES FOR THE FASTIDIOUS

JUST at this season of the year when all our world goes jaunting about on vacations and outings, fashion interest centers on sports clothes and designers busy themselves with new versions of the best liked styles. We see the prophecies that this would be a "white summer" fulfilled today in sports and other apparel in which white predominates, with touches of color introduced in details of the dress or in accessories worn with it.

Clever Sports Costume.

The white skirt, usually plaited, and made of silk crepe, wool or rayon materials, maintains its important position for street and sports wear and is worn with slipon blouse of gay printed silk showing colored patterns on a white ground. White crepe de chine with printed border designs in high colors is used for these blouses, which are made with short kimono sleeves, the border appearing at the bottom of the blouse. All white blouses of crepe de chine prove themselves useful for either sports or other wear. One of these, with a white plaited skirt, is shown in the picture, worn with a scarf and hat set of printed silk. The ends of the scarf are finished with ribbon, extended into ties that fasten about the wrists. By this clever contrivance the scarf plays a double role making a graceful sleeve drapery.

When a blouse of printed silk is worn with a white skirt, fashion favors a white hat and scarf set, the scarf finished at the ends with a border like the silk in the blouse. Or if a white blouse with colored border is chosen the scarf is bordered to match, or motifs cut from the printed silk are applied to it at the ends.

In footwear white strap slippers or sport shoes, or black slippers are popular but do not monopolize the showings of summer sports shoes. Light gray and tan, or combinations of white with a color, in shoes having a definite sports character, contribute variety in dainty footwear. Other interesting accessories shown are the gay Chinese parasols of paper that will withstand a little shower, for one thing, and cretonne jackets and coats for another.

Concerning the apparel of women mere man has always expressed himself in a way that is forceful and betrays where his thoughts dwell. But as a result of his logic he usually strikes the nail on the head, and now he is saying that women are wearing millinery on their feet. This is a very arresting and revealing remark—a tribute to the daintiness and beauty of current styles in footwear. Women have grown so fastidious in the matter of clothing their feet that we stand in need of terms less matter-of-fact than "shoes" or "footwear" to describe the creations that bootmakers are turning out.

Kid is the favorite medium for the graceful and dainty footwear which distinguishes the summer season. Practically all the shoes for street wear or for afternoon are made of it and also many of the dressier types for evening. The new models prove very flattering to the feet made with toes a shade more rounded and heels a trifle higher than they have been—all feet look small in them. Styles are conservative and elegant, with many attractive combinations of leather to give them interest, and endless variation of the strap slipper and oxford to choose from. The handsome pumps of black kid, trimmed with a shaped band of white kid, shown here worn with a crepe afternoon frock, are typical of present styles. In the slippers at the right the pinnacle of summer comfort and style is achieved in brown kid worn with silk hose to match, and this outfitting of the feet is approved for morning or afternoon, with tailored or dressier costumes. Below are handsome white kid oxfords for wear with summer frocks and sports clothes and equally good style with tailored suits and frocks. They will delight those women who choose white footwear in summer.

Some Popular Shoes.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Plaited Jabot

An interesting style note on a black satin frock is a plaited jabot of white chiffon.

LIFE'S LITTLE JESTS

HEHEHEH!

It is supposed to have happened in a theatrical club. An actor remarked: "I am tired of the way they are casting me lately. In my last three plays I have been a dirty scoundrel."

"That's the trouble with your American idea," observed an English actor, "of casting with types."—New York Graphic.

The Examplэ

"What a beautiful ring, Laura."

"Yes, but the engagement's broken off, dear."

"Well, aren't you going to send it back?"

"Of course; but I shall keep it long enough for the—next one to see what he's expected to live up to."

Success

"There are some points about your writings that much resemble Shakespeare," said the editor.

"Do you think so?" cried the delighted author.

"Yes," the editor continued; "you employ almost the same punctuation marks."

THAT'S THAT

He—Where would you prefer to live—city or country?

She—Why-er-er whichever you like best.

The Airplane

The airplane is a thing of worth
Save when compelled to mix,
As it descends from sky to earth,
In petty politics.

Lucky Aunt May

"Mummy, has Aunt Betty got a little baby?"

"Yes, dear."

"Has Aunt May?"

"No, she has a little dog instead."

"Oh, I suppose she had first pick."—Progressive Grocer.

They Come High

"This stove would suit me perfectly," said the tiresome customer, "but it is too low. I would have to stoop every time I worked over it."

"Well, madam," said the weary clerk, "what you want is a mountain range."—Good Hardware.

Two Wishes

Mrs. Scrapp—I wish you would try to keep your temper.

Scrapp—I wish you would get rid of yours.—Boston Transcript.

INSIDE DOPE

"Say, why's the doc pumping out that fellow he thinks poisoned himself?"

"Trying to get the inside dope on his case."

Dismissing the Past

Republics are ungrateful, sure;
For which we're all regretful.
But many a statesman's more secure
Because they are forgetful.

Liquid Measure

Teacher—Johnny, what is it called when four persons are singing?

Johnny—A quartet.

Teacher—And, William, what it is when two persons are singing?

Willie (after brief hesitation)—A pinte'.

Heard on the Campus

First Mail-Order Student—What's biology?

Second Mail-Order Student—Must be in the selling course.

Whimsy of Fashion Has Checked Anemia

The tight corset has disappeared and will never come back, because science has declared against it, Prof. W. W. Dixon of Cambridge university asserted recently in a lecture under the auspices of the People's League of Health. Twenty years ago the London hospitals were visited regularly by great numbers of girls and women suffering from anemia, most of them workers in factories and offices, the Philadelphia Ledger points out.

"The kind of anemia which the doctors of those days had to contend with has entirely disappeared," averred the lecturer, "and the reason is that tight-laced corsets are no longer worn by the young women of today who are interested in keeping their health."

Devilly-Pie

"Cornish Pies," which figured in the menu of the Cornish association dinner, are notorious for the infinite variety of their ingredients.

Cornish housewives are said to be able to turn anything into a pie—and that is why the devil keeps out of the duchy! He planned a visit on one occasion, but, hearing of fishy-pie, stargazy-pie, parsley-pie, herby-pie, lamy-pie, piggy-pie, and what not, he feared someone might take a fancy to devilly-pie, and so remained in Devon!—Tit-Bits.

Watch Cuticura Improve Your Skin. On rising and retiring gently smear the face with Cuticura Ointment. Wash off Ointment in five minutes with Cuticura Soap and hot water. It is wonderful what Cuticura will do for poor complexions, dandruff, itching and red, rough hands.—Advertisement.

More So

Gen. Hugh Drum said on a visit to Washington:

"I have been reading a number of war books lately, some by German generals, some by English and French ones, and these books have proved to me that every battle of the World war was a victory—a victory for both sides—and no general had a defeat or slip-up from the beginning of the war to the end."

General Drum laughed.

"To err is human," he concluded, and to lie about it is more so."

'Gators Still Flourish

What is possibly the largest alligator seen for some time in the vicinity of Lakeland, Fla., was captured alive, but only after being wounded from rifle bullets near Lake Gibson recently by two young men. The 'gator is a monster of species, reports the Star-Telegram, measuring 12 feet 4¾ inches from tip to tip. It is said to be about 300 years old and weigh over 850 pounds. The lucky captors expect to receive $500 for it.

Poison Ivy

Euripidese—Whatsa matter? Cold sore on your lip?

Iripadose—No; I kissed a girl under what I thought was mistletoe, but it must have been poison ivy.—Youngstown Telegram.

Flaming

"Why all the red-headed girls on the lot?"

"We're filming 'Flaming Flappers' this week." — Louisville Courier-Journal.

Last thing one hates to give up among the privileges of juvenility is that of following the brass band.

WAS NOT FIT TO DO HER WORK

Dreadful Condition of Mrs. Fullerton's Health Remedied by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Clearfield, Pa. — "I cannot begin to tell you how much Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped me in every way. Before taking it I couldn't stand on my feet without pains running all through my whole body from my waist down, just like threads pulling. I was not fit to do any work. My mother got me to try the Vegetable Compound and I have found great benefit, and I not only recommend it for such troubles, but to build up the whole system. I have used it for most everything that gets wrong with me. When I begin to feel nervous and irritable I don't stop long in getting a bottle of the Vegetable Compound if I haven't got one in the house. It gives a fine appetite and makes a new woman of me. You may use this testimonial in my own town or anywhere else, and I will answer any letters I receive." — Mrs. RUSH FULLERTON, 525 S. 2nd Street, Clearfield, Pa.

If you are suffering from nervous troubles, irritability, give the Vegetable Compound a fair trial. For sale by druggists everywhere.

Tell Your Shoe Repairman You Want "U.S." SPRING-STEP Rubber Heels

A Better Heel to Walk On

And for the best shoe sole you ever had—

USKIDE

—the Wonder Sole for Wear

United States Rubber Company

Green's August Flower for Constipation, Indigestion and Torpid Liver

Successful for 59 years. 30c and 90c bottles—ALL DRUGGISTS

Eminent geologists believe Canada is about to develop the . . WORLD'S GREATEST OIL FIELD

For particulars address

David T. Stuart, 25 Broad St., New York

DAISY FLY KILLER PLACED ANYWHERE ATTRACTS AND KILLS ALL FLIES. Neat, clean, ornamental, convenient, cheap. Lasts all season. Made of metal, can't spill or tip over; will not soil or injure anything. Guaranteed effective. Sold by dealers, or 5 by EXPRESS, prepaid, $1.25.

HAROLD SOMERS, 150 De Kalb Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Kremola

for the Perfection of Your Complexion

This pure snow-white cream removes all discolorations, blemishes, patches, pimples, etc., and produces a soft skin and creamy complexion. At drug or dept. stores or by mail prepaid, $1.25. Send for free Beauty Booklet. Agents wanted.

DR. C. H. BERRY CO., 2975 Michigan Ave., CHICAGO

PITCHING HORSE SHOES Our make used by "Putt" Mossman, the World's champion. Price $2.50 per pair. Agents wanted. Write for free circular with rules. Ohio Horse Shoe Co., Station F., Columbus, Ohio.

SAVE YOUR EYES! Use Dr. Thompson's Eyewater. Buy at your druggist's or 1167 River, Troy, N. Y. Booklet.

MONARCH Cocoa QUALITY for 70 years

REID, MURDOCH & Co. Established 1853

CHICAGO - - - BOSTON

PITTSBURGH - NEW YORK

Millions prefer Yeast Foam

Begin today to learn the most useful of home arts—bread-making.

Send for free booklet "The Art of Baking Bread"

Northwestern Yeast Co.
1730 North Ashland Ave.
Chicago, Ill.

There was a young fellow named T8
In a hurry he rode on a FR8
A CR8 on the track
Knocked the FR8 on its back,
And T8 was real L8 for his D8.

Reboring
—And—
Rehoning

"The Better Method of Cylinder Re - conditioning.

McQuay Norris Quality Rings
Sales & Service

PAVEY'S
STORMIZING SHOP

THIS IS THE RIGHT PLACE

To buy your Cigars, Cigarettes, Smoking and Chewing Tobacco—our stock is always nice and fresh.

We carry a complete line of box and bulk fancy candy.

Refreshing soft drings.

And, why not step in and play a social game of pool while in town?

SMITH'S BILLARD HALL

Jig Jog Jags

A Little Joshing Now and Then Will Get the Goat of Many Men

THAT'S ENOUGH

"Jim, I see that your mule has U. S. branded on his right hind leg. I suppose he was an army mule and belonged to Uncle Sam."

"No, sun, dat U. S. don't mean nothin' 'bout no Uncle Sam. Dat's jess a warning Dat U. S.'n jess stand fo' Un SAFE—dat's all!"

HER VERSION OF IT

Mrs. Schwartz, newly rich, was trying to overcome the effects of too much corned beef and cabbage by vigorous gymnastics. Her instructor, observing that she was very warm, apologized, saying "Why, you are all perspiration."

'Unt svet, too," genially agreed Mrs. Schwartz.

DON'T SHOOT

Ikey—Look, Jakey! your shirt is oudt!"

Jakey—Oudt vare?

Ikey—Oudt vare de vest begins."

MARJORIES GUESS

A teacher was trying to give her small pupils a mental picture of a barrel, without disclosing the name of the article.

'The object I have in mind,' 'the teacher explained, "is large and round, being nearly as big one way as the other, and if laid on its side and started at the top of the hill, it would roll clear to the bottom. Now who can tell what it is?' '

A little hand went up, and the teacher said, "All right, Marjorie, what do you think I was describing?

"My papa." came the unexpected reply.

OUCH!

A rich old banker a beautiful chorine of seventeen. On his return all aglow with happiness, from his honeymoon, he said to his sister-in-law:

"What do you think of my wife? Isn't she ravishing?"

"Ravishing," said the sister-in-law. "Stunning! With those blue eyes and that pale gold hair, what a widow she's going to make!"

Who is this fellow "Fantastic" who is tripped by everybody?

NOT MUCH

"Mr. Chairman" said the speaker "I have been on my feet for nearly, ten minutes, but there is so much noise and so many interruptions that I can hardly hear myself speaking."

"Cheer up," said a voice. "You ain't missin' much."

"Do fish have a sense of smell?"

"Probably not. If they had any sense they wouldn't smell the way they do."

HERE THEY ARE AGAIN

Pat—Do ye belave in drames, Riley?"

Riley—"Oi do."

Pat—Phwat's it a sign of it a married man drames he's a bachelor?"

Riley—It's a sign thot he's going to meet wid a great disappointment when he wakes up.' '

NEXT!

Jane—I heard you had a new beau. How are you getting on with him?

Lou—Oh, very well. The first time he called he took Tootsie, my poodle, in his lap. Next time he took Baby sis, so I S'pose it will be my turn next.

FLOWERS GRATEFULLY RECEIVED

Duke—What's the difference between a peach, a banana and a fish-hook?"

Unk. Henry—What is?

Duke—One eats the outside of the peach and throws away the center and one eats the center of a banana and throws away the outside."

Unk Henry—What's the fish-hook for?' '

Duke—"Oh, that's what you catch suckers on.' '

Doctor—My good man, you drink too much. Why in heaven's name don't you set a limit for yourself?

Patient—I do, Doc, but Dang it all, I get drunk before I reach it!

Sad but true—Man comes into this world and with nothing on him, but in a short time everybody has something on him.

He used to part his hair in the middle, but now he doesn't part it at all—He has parted with it.

The self-made man marched proudly into the office of a great financier with whom he had an appointment.

"I don't suppose you remember me," he began, "but twenty years ago, when I was but a poor messenger boy, you gave me a message to carry—"

"Yes! yes!" cried the financier. "And you've come with the answer?'

"Did you get any answers to your ad in the papers for a wife?"

"Did I! A hundred and fifty from women, and five hundred from men offering me theirs!"

"Instead of giving her a direct answer when she asked him if he loved her, he just put his arms about her.' '

"That's getting around the subject, all right."

Agent—I hear your son, Bill, made a thousand dollars last week buyin' wheat in Sibbleyville.

Uncle Ezra— Uh-huh! 'ceptin' it was in Dunaway 'stead of Sibbleyville, an' it was cow-peas 'stead of wheat and he didn't make it, he lost it.

The horse sense that prevented wrecks in the old days probably belonged to the horse.

"Perfection" Kerosene Stoves

We carry a full line of PERFECTION KEROSENE STOVES in all sizes and styles in 1, 2, 3, and 4 burner.

We have sold these stoves ever since we have been in business in Klemme and we have found they give SATISFACTION in every way. The Perfection stove is both simple and safe. As easy to light and care for as a kerosene lamp. Heats and cooks rapidly, nothing to go wrong with this stove. We recommend it to anyone who wants the best to be had. Use one during the summer and you will be satisfied.

We sell a good grade of kerosene for use in stoves or lamps. Buy it here.

GAS STOVES—yes, we sell gasoline stoves and have a fine line on hand.

ALUMINUM SALE NOW ON!

One lot of big value Aluminum Ware on sale at, each 49c

One lot Aluminum Ware, real values on sale at $1.00

Jacobs & Son

fares surprisingly low

Rock Island

tours of the Scenic West

Colorado Yellowstone California

You can visit any one or all of the West's great scenic regions in one low-fare tour. Route of the ROCKY MOUNTAIN LIMITED to Colorado [direct line to both Denver and Colorado Springs] and the all-Pullman GOLDEN STATE LIMITED to California. All meals in dining cars.

Choice of routes. Go one way; return another. Stop over anywhere. A go-as-you-please vacation.

Ask for illustrated books and full information. It will help you in your planning.

M. O. BARR, Agent, Klemme, Iowa

C. C. Gardner, As'st. Gen'l Pass Agt.
Rock Island Lines
600 Royal Life Bldg. Des Moines, Ia.

Rock Island Lines

TAMA COUNTY AUTHORITIES SAY IT IS HUMAN BODY BENTON OFFICERS SAY CALF

Was it human bones or the bones of a calf that were found Tuesday afternoon by fishermen a mile south west of Belle Plaine. The Tama and Benton county authorities do not seem to agree.

Two men, from Brooklyn, Poweshiek county, were fishing at a point where Salt Creek joins the Iowa river when one of their lines caught on a burlap sack in the water. Bricks or stones were fastened onto the sack to keep it under water. The fishermen at first thought they had found a fish trap or a booze cache and dragged it on shore. The sack contained a wooden box. On opening it they were horrified to find what they believed to be the remains of a human body. Thinking the authorities should be notified at once the men hastened to Belle Plane and telephoned Sheriff Harrison at Toledo about 6 p. m. The sheriff, accompanied by Dr. Carns, county coroner, and County Attorney James H. Willett left for the scene at once. They walked nearly a mile to the place where the body was found after driving their automobile as far as possible.

The Tama county officers, ater an examination of the body came to the conclusion that the bones were those of a young woman. Lime, they said, was found in the box with the body, and the lime had taken most of the flesh from the bones. Practically every bone of body was found to be in several pieces, several with a saw. After conducting the examination the officers discovered that the place where the sack was found was in Benton county—only a few yards over the Tama county line. They decided, therefore, that the case was not in their jurisdiction. Leaving the bones, the box and the sack, as they found t, they notified the Benton county sheriff by tel phone from Belle Plaine.

The Benton county officers, who claim to have made an investigation are said to have decided the whole matter a hoax. The bones, they are reported to have said, are those of a calf and the white substance in the box which the Tama county officers say was lime was said to be flour. The remains in the sack is nothing more than bait to attract fish, accord ing to the Benton county officials.

Sheriff Horrison when questioned by the Star-Clipper again yesterday reiterated the belief of the Tama county officials that the find of the two fishermen was that of a human body, and that the case was worthy of more thorough investigation by the Benton County coroner.—Traer Star-Clipper.

SALVAGE VALUE OF OLD ROADS

A recent report on the salvage value of old roads, prepared from the records of the New York State Highway department, shows the average cost per mile of reconstruction complete contracts—1919 to 1924 inclusive to be $36,000 for first class Portland cement concrete, and for asphalt macadam for the same period, $16,000. This reconstruction which from now on will be the most important work in New York State ,covers the rebuilding, to what ever extent is necessary, of the older roads now worn out or become otherwise unfit as to make replacen job large enough to be placed under contract. The $20,600 difference in reconstruction cost measures the value of the salvage possibilities of the previous work in connection with the asphalt macadam types. The 1925 lettings show about $21,000 per mile difference in such work. Massachuetts reports $15,000 and Connecticut $20,900 difference in favor of the macadam. These figures are of interest to all states, for high way maintenance and reconstruction becomes constantly more important to taxpayers as the mileage of hard surfaced highways increase.

FREE CLINIC AT IOWA STATE FAIR

Des Moines, June 24.—Special—A great, free clinic to which parents from anywhere in Iowa may bring crippled, deformed or undeveloped children for examination by widely known medical experts, is to be held at the Iowa State Fair this summer under the Sheppard-Towner law.

The clinic, which will be directed by officials from the University of Iowa, will make available to all parents, regardless of their financial means, the finest medical and surgical skill in the midwest. Two regular clinical staffs will be in attendance throughout the period of the fair. Examinations will all be made in private, but the facilities of the clinics will be open freely to exery-one.

A special invitation is also being broadcast to mothers who are interested in obtainng advice concerning the care and feeding of babies and children. One special department

A BIG CORN CROP

Many fields of corn are to be knee high by the fourth. Ideal growing weather has greatly promoted the growth of this crop the past week or ten days and intensive cultivation as kept the fields generally clean. Prospects are splendid now for a big corn crop.

KEEP THE ROOSTERS OUT

Only Infertile Eggs Are Practical For Cold Storage

Roosters in a flock of chickens from which the eggs are being sold for cold storage are very detrimental says J. H. Bardsley, poultry specialist, Iowa State College.

It is almost impossible to use fertile eggs for cold storage, since they spoil inside of 24 hours after laid if the weather is warm. If eggs is not completely ruined storage purposes, it is lowered much in quality by being fertile

DO YOU KNOW?

1. Brass and copper can be ed with a cloth dampened w mixture of lemon juice and s fter cleaning, rub well with oil.

2. To dust a wicker chair and work, use an old shaving brush ped in oil. It reaches into p hard to clean with a mop or c

3. Holes in linoleum may b paired by filling with finely ch cork. Mix cork with liquid glue ter it has set rub down with paper and paint to match the leum.

4. Aluminum can be cleaned placing tarnished pieces in a pan and cover with sour milk, low to remain over night.

The early firecracker is on job.

DINNERWARE DISHES

Our stock of all kinds of Dishes and Dinnerware Sets is complete. We have just received a new assortment of Dinnerware and can give you a variety of patterns to select from:

ENGLISH DINNERWARE SETS

DOMESTIC DINNERWARE SETS.

We have complete sets at very reasoable prices. You can buy any amount you desire and can add any extra pieces to your set from our large stock. It will pay you to look over our fine line before buying elsewhere. Our prices are very reasonable.

DISHES FOR HARVEST

Harvest time will soon be here and we have prepared for your wants along the line of Whiteware Dishes of all kinds, especially suited for threshing dinners. Save your good dishes by having a set of these. Also a full line of bowls, pans, kettles, etc.

MISCELLANEOUS DISHES

We carry a nice line of odds and ends in the way of dishes, bowls, platters, glassware of all kinds, chinaware, tumblers, pitchers, etc. In fact, our stock is complete.

See the Sample Dinner Sets On dislpay in our window—

G.W. Kluckhohn & Sons

How Dreams Come True

Plan ahead. One can not expect to accomplish big things without doing a great deal of thinking and planning ahead.

One of the first things to do is to start a Bank Account. Then add to it frequently.

Keeping this up will make your dreams come true. We are always glad to help those who are planning ahead.

First National Bank,
KLEMME, IOWA.

o o o o o o o o o o o o o
o KLEMME BUSINESS PLACES o
o Will be open on Friday Evening o
o July 3rd. Closed all day on July o
o 4th. Band concert Friday night. o
o o o o o o o o o o o o o

THE KLEMME TIMES

Twenty-ninth Year—Number 43. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, JULY 2, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

STATE SAVINGS BANK WAS CLOSED MONDAY

STATE BANK EXAMINER CLOSES DOORS OF LOCAL BANK

No Statement Of Condition Given Out at This Time

State Bank Examiner H. L. Brown closed the doors of the State Savings Bank here Monday shortly after noon, turning the affairs of the bank over to the superintendent of banking.

The closing of the bank came as a great shock to the directors, stock holders and depositors of the bank as they were not aware of the shaky condition.

It is generally believed that the bank maye be re-opened as soon as the affairs can be straightened out. At this time it is impossible for us to make any definite statement concerning the closing of the bank as the examiner is still at work on the books and he has not given out any statement as to the seriousnss of the bank's condition.

"MEANING OF DEFENSE TEST"

Many questions have been asked regarding the reasons for the Defense Test,, to be held on Muster Day, July 4th, 1925, and it is surprising to know that a large number of citizens throughout the country are not acquainted with its purposes and what it stands for. The following questions are often asked:

Question. 1. What is Defense Day?

Answer 1. Defense Day or Muster Day is designed time when citizens of the United States and the Military Personnel of the United States are called upon to show their patriotism, their preparedness, their strength in case they should be called upon in a National emergency. and the quickness with which they can respond to a call and show their willingness to defend their country if the need should ever arise. It is also the time when the people are given the opportunity to learn their duties and obligations as American citizens in the "Common Defense", and to know something of the tasks of every man, woman and child will have to preform in the event of a National emergency. It is a day on which we try out certain defense plans drawn up pursuant to the National Defense Act of June 1920.

Question 2. What will I gain by participation in Muster Day?

Answer 2. All persons participating in Muster Day will have the personal satisfaction of knowing that they have shown their willingness to aid their country, if in need, that they have answered the call of the President of the United States and assured him of their loyalty and patriotism and with the success of the Muster Day; that they have individually played a part in making all the countries of the world look upon the United States as a nation united to promote peace. Whether we like it or not, any modern war in which great nations are opposed is no longer a contest in which only armed forced are involved. It is the direct concern of every man, woman and child in the belligerent countries and each must play his part in war in accordance with National needs. As every individual is ultimately concerned, it is only fair and just that he be fully advised of the National plans for Defense and the part assigned to him therein. It is also desirable that he understand these plans when no war is in prospect, who constitue the body politic may move in a prescribed way toward their amendmentt if deemed advisable.

There is probably no surer way of enlisting a man's ajd in maintaining peace than to bring home to him a realization of the fact that a war would involve him and his family. This, the Defense Test or Muster Day, will help do.

H. A. Palen,
Major Infantry,
U. S. Army.

WHERE WILL YOU CELEBRATE THE FOURTH?

Here's a List of the Towns That Will Celebrate

There are quite a number of towns near here that will celebrate the Fourth this year. No doubt the greater proportion of celebrators from Klemme and vicinity will go to Britt or Bayside to spend the 4th.

Other towns nearby besides Britt and Bayside that will put on a celebration are Sheffield, Iowa Falls, Dows, Fort Dodge, Leland, Swaledale and Algona.

GREIMANN GETS CUP

BEN GREIMAN NORTH IOWA CHAMPION

Ben Greimann recently invaded the camp of Barn Yard Golf championship contenders at Humbolt and when the dust had cleared away Ben had copped first money of the tournament along with the cup awarded to the best shoe tosser in Northern Iowa.

Ben had easy pickings at the tournament and walked right away from the best ones they had to stack against him. He was proclaimed the Champion Horse Shoe Pitcher of North Iowa and now a beautiful Silver Cup adorns a shelf at his home near Klemme.

Ben also has another cup on the shelf with hs latest trophy and that is the Hancock County championship cup. The latter cup will be his when he has won it three times saraight.

ERADICATE HARMFUL WEEDS

Cutting at Flowering Time is Great Aid in Killing Weeds

Clipping weeds at flowering time before they seed, is a great aid in eradicating most kinds of weeds, according to M. H. Burns, extension department, Iowa State College. This practice will prevent spread and sometimes is sufficient to kill weeds.

Energies of the roots and stems are used up in the production of seed and so the plants are weakest at this time. If the plants are cut off, they are much further weakened.

Noxious weeds are divided into annual, biennial, and perennial plants. Annuals mature seed in one season and depend upon seed for the next year's growth. Weeds of this type are foxtail, ragweed, smartweed, horseweed, cockleburr and velvet leaf or butterprint.

Biennial weeds are those which require two years for maturity and produce seed the second season The plant lives over winter by means of its fleshy tap root, Burdock, wild parsnip and carrot, and bull thistle are weeds of this type.

Perennial weeds are long lived producing seed usually every year and living over winter by their root systems. These weeds are numerous and are such as Canada thistle morning glory, milkweed, quackgrass and nimble will or Mexican dropseed grass. Weeds of this type ahe most difficult to eradicate, but they may be killed quite easily in the first few months of their life—before they gain a foot hold.

New weeds may be sent to the Extension Service, Iowa State College, Ames for identification and for recommendations concerning eradication.

Alexander-Meservey Road Graveled

Belmond — The work of graveling he road east of town, from Alexander to Meservey, has started and gang consists of some 30 workmen. large trucks carrying three or four tons are being used. The gravel gang consists of some 30 workmen.

Stores Closed July 4th

As July Fourth comes on Saturday this year, the business places of Klemme will keep open on:—

FRIDAY NIGHT, JULY 3rd

For the accomodation of customers who can do their week-end trading Friday night in Klemme.

BAND CONCERT

The Klemme Band will give a concert on the streets of Klemme Friday night, July 3rd. Come and do your trading and enjoy the concert.

CLOSED JULY 4th

.....Remember the stores in Klemme will be closed all day and evening on July 4th. Keep this in mind and do your trading Friday, July 3rd.

Belmond Young Man Killed Last Thursday Evening

CHESTER CULLINAN CRUSHED BY BULL ON HIS FARM

Wife Was Formerly Miss Mabel Waterman of This City

The death of Chester Cullinan, one of Belmond's most popular and though of stopping until he saw his terrible shock to Belmond folks last Thursday evening. While watering his pure bred Guernsey bull about six o'clock, Thursday evening the bull suddenly lunged against him, pinning him against the exhaust pipe of a gas engine in the pump house. The impact of the bull's lunge crushed his body and back from the hips up. He was able to catch the ring in the bull's nose and held him from goring him until the man employed there come to his help and took the bull away.

Chet was able to partly walk and crawl into the house where he collapsed on the floor. His brother Jim who with his family have been visiting here happened to be driving past in his way to town and had not thought of stopping until he saw his own little boy who was at the farm waving and calling to him. He drove in and finding Chet helped him onto a couch.

Dr. Steele was called but he was beyond medical aid, the force of the crushing having fatally injured the spine as well as internal organs.

Mrs. Cullinan was in town at the time having been attending a committee meeting here but arrived home shortly after. Chet was conscious for some time after he was injured, but said but little beyond an expression tending to show that be blamed himself for the attack.

The bull however had previously shown a vicious disposition on two or three occasions, when men narrowly escaped injury by him. In consequence the bull was killed on Friday morning.

Mr. Cullinan's sudden taking away in this manner was a terrible blow to his wife of but two years, who was formerly Miss Mabel Waterman of Klemme and a teacher in the Belmond schools at one time, and also to his parents, especially to his mother who has been in ill health for some time suffering from heart trouble. Chet has been for the past few years farming on his father's farm south of town and was becoming one of this vicinity's sucessful farmers. His sudden death leaves his bride of two years all alone.

The funeral Sunday afternoon was one of the largst ever held in Blmond. Services were held at the home of his parents and at the Congregational church in charge of Rev. Lienbeck and participated in by the American Legion, the Masonic Lodge and the Eastern Star lodge. Burial was in the Belmond cemetery.

OBITUARY

Chester Charles Cullinan, youngest son of Thos. and Mary Cullinan, was born at their farm home near Belmond, February 19, 1899 and died at the same home June 25, 1925 at the age of 26 years, four months and six days.

Chester received his high school education in the Belmond public school graduating with the class of 1918. The same fall he entered Iowa State College at Ames where he took a four year course in Animal Husbandry, graduating in 1922. While here he became a member of the Ausonia fraternity and was also a member of the College Stock Judging team which took the sweepstakes in stock judging at the International at Chicago in 1921.

The summer following his graduation he taught at Cedar Falls and in the fall came home and began preparations to move on to the farm in March 1923, since which time he has operated. He had succeded in building up a nice herd of dairy cattle and was just getting into position to reap the results of his own labors.

On September 26, 1923, he was happily married to Miss Mabel Waterman at the Little Brown Church at Nashua.

During the war he was a member of the S. A. T. C. at Ames. He was amember of the American Legion and of the Masonic and Eastern Star Lodges.

Chester's genial and pleasant disposition has won for him many friends wherever he has gone. Knowing him on could not help being impressed by his vigor and enterprise. His heart and soul were in his farm work towards which he showed an ever tireless and fearless attitude He has been a young man of industry and uprightnss, a lover of home and his parents, toward whom he manifested the deepest respect and love.

His death is mourned by many relatives. Besides his devoted wife father and mother, he leaves two brothers, John of Lisbon, N. D. and James of Minneapolis, Minn. and one sister, Mrs. Theodore Lieuwen of Humboldt, Iowa.

Funeral services were held at the Congregation Church on Sunday after and were conducted by the pastor, Rev. S. U. Leinbeck. It was one of the largest, if not the largest, attended funeral ever held in Belmond. —By courtesy of The Belmond Herald-Press.

FIRST BAND CONCERT TO BE GIVEN FRIDAY NIGHT

CLOSE WEST LAKE TO PUBLIC LACK OF FUNDS

West Lake park, near Kanawha, has been closed to the public and will not be reopened unless sufficient funds are forthcoming to pay the rent. Lack of funds is given as the reason for closing the park. The necessary money is being solicited now to reopen the place, but it is said it will be doubtful if the funds are secured. A number of improvements, such as a dock, well, benches tables, made the park an enjoyable place for an outing but the patronage and subscriptions did not produce sufficient revenue to keep it going.—Belmond Independent.

GARNER MAN DIES

A. J. SCHULDT PASSED AWAY ON JUNE 26TH

The community was shocked on hearing of the sudden passing of August Schuldt, on Friday forenoon of the past week. While he has been in frail health for the past five years, yet he has been about and active almost all of the time. The day and night before his death he was not quite in his usual health and complained of pain in his chest. About eleven o'clock in the forenoon he went to an upstairs bedroom, thinking to be in the quiet and get a little rest, and when an half hour later, Mrs. Schuldt went up to see him, she found that his spirit had gone to the God who gave it.

August John Schuldt was born in Eldena, Mecklenberg, Germany, Nov 11, 1861 and died on June 26, 1925 aged 63 years, seven months and eight days. He came with his parents to America when three years of age, locating at Colesburg, Iowa, where the family lived for many years. When 17 years of age he came to Hancock County and has lived here continuously since then.

On March 7th, 1888 he was married to Fredericka Schuldt and to this union there were born four children, two dying in infancy, and two daughters who grew to womanhood. Mrs. Louis Abele and Miss Mabel Schuldt.

In 1903 he moved from the farm to Garner and during these years he has been engaged in gardening. He was raised in a Christian home and has always been interested in the church. For many years he has been a member of the Methodist Church, a member of the Official Board, an ardent worker and supporter of the local and benevolent interests as carried on by said church.

He leaves to mourn his departure a devoted wife and two children, Mrs. Louis Abele and Miss Mabel Schuldt, also two brothers, Ernest Schuldt of Klemme and John of Ridgefield, Washington. Three sisters, Mrs. Anna Hartke and Mrs. Minnie Josten both of Garner and Mrs. Soffia Mitzner of Colesburg. A brother and sister have preceded him to the celestial land. Mr. Louis Schuldt and Mrs. Emma Kluckhohn —the latter who was so recently claimed in death.

Mr. Schuldt was an honest, industrious and neighborly man. He loved his home and his church and his work. He has gone the way of all the earth, and already to him has faith become sight. He will be missed by many, especially will his absence be felt at those places where life held its greatest treasures—with his family and in the sanctuary listening to the Word of God. He was alone when he passed out of the tabernacle of flesh, and yet not alone for there is One who has said, "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world. The funeral was held Sunday afternoon from the M. E. church —Garner Signal.

The contract has been let for the grading of the Wilson Highway, two miles south of the Hancock County line. The road is to be relocated and then graveled.

TO BE A SPECIAL JULY FOURTH CONCERT

Weekly Concerts Will Be Given Every Wednesday Night

The first concert of the season will be given by the Klemme Band on the streets of Klemme tomorrow night Friday July 3rd. The concert will begin promptly at 8:00 o'clock.

The first concert is given tomorrow night on account of the stores being open then as they will be closed all day Saturday JJuly 4th.

Next week and thereafter the Klemme Band will play a concert every Wednesday night on the streets of Klemme.

A special program has been prepared whichis fitting for the observance of the Fourth.

PROGRAM

1. Yankee Doodle.
3. Fortuna March
3. Darling Nellie Grey.
4. Follow the Swallow
5. My Old Kentucky Home.
6. Wildflower Waltz.
7. Iowa Corn Song.
8. Old Black Joe.
9. The Devil and the Deep Blue Sea— Bass solo by Mr. A. J. Lilly of Britt.
10. Blue Eyed Sally.
11. The Iron Count.
12. Tramp, Tramp, The Boys are Marching.
14. De Molay March.
15. America.

RADIO WILL HELP ON DEFENSE DAY

Thirty Broadcasting Stations, Invited by War Department to Join In WASHINGTON, June 25. Thirty major radio broadcasting stations in 19 states have been invited by the war department to co-operate in a nation-wide Defense Day broadcasting program between 9 and 10:30 p. m. Eastern Standard time July 4, and acceptances have been received from 13 stations situated in Massachuetts, New York, Washington,D C., Pennsylvania, Ohio, Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, Utah and California.

The plan calls for the most extensive broadcasting attempt yet made. The program provides for opening exercises from WCAP at Washington with Major Gen. Charles Saltman chief signal offcer of the army, as master of the ceremonies, introducnig Acting Secretary Dwight F. Davis of the War department for a 10 minute talk. The next address will be made by Vice-President Dawes at Chicago, to be followed by a conservation between the vice-president and Gen. Pershing in Washington, after which Gen. Pershing will speak.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS

Farmers Nat. Bk. Crystal Lake, to Harriet E. Powers, W D date 6-25, $11.00, lots 3- 4- 5- 6- blk 9 John F. Kluvvers add Crystal Lake.

C. V. Cole et al to Harry C. Monague, W D date 6-20-25, $1.00 S½ NW¼ 1-96-25.

Farmers Nat. Bk, Garner to C. F. Schliewert, W D date 4-18-25, $24,000 lots 1 and 2, and N½ of NE¼ 9-97-25.

C. F. Schliewert to Olga Schliewert, W. D. date 6-24-25, $1.00 lots 1 and 2, and N½ NE¼ 9-97-25.

F. H. Nolte to Loui Rieron, W. D. date 6-22-25, $325.00 a tract of land begin 60 ft. W of NW cor of lot 6 blk 4, Goodell, measuring 122 ft. So & North by 59 ft E. and W.

Herman Anderson to Jens Anderson Q C D date 5-7-25, $1.00 E½ SE¼ and SW¼ SE¼ 12-97-25.

Harold Anderson to Jens Anderson Q C D date 5-7-25, E½ SE¼ and SW¼ SE¼ 12-97-25.

SEVERAL DIE IN THEATER BLAST

Explosion in Kansas City Playhouse Drops Balcony on Audience.

Kansas City, Mo.—Several persons lost their lives in a fire which destroyed the Gillis theater while a motion picture show was in progress.

Many more were injured. About one hundred persons were in the theater when a tremendous blast lifted the roof and the main floor gave way.

Flames immediately swept the building. Fourteen stores located in the building were destroyed.

Fire Chief Alex Henderson said his men reported several persons were buried in the debris.

Many of the injured were victims of the falling balcony of the theater, spectators said.

The cause of the explosion could not be determined.

A fireman was killed when a fire truck on the way to the theater crashed into a telephone post.

Members of the audience who escaped said a motion picture was being shown. In the midst of a love scene there was a terrific crash, followed by the falling of the ceiling.

The theater is on the second floor of the building. All who escaped had to go down at least one flight of stairs.

Will Sandy said the floor gave way as the ceiling fell.

When police and firemen arrived at the scene there were many bleeding and injured persons crying in the streets. Some were treated at quickly established emergency stations in nearby hotels and stores.

Other injured were rushed to hospitals in private cars and ambulances.

Police and firemen rescued many persons who had been caught under falling debris.

Strikers Seize Paris Post Office; Win Demands

Paris.—The French government promised the mail carriers who went on strike that they would be paid their overdue bonus. The mail carriers had shown the high tension of the 100,000 postal, telegraph and telephone employees over the delay in receiving their payments when they invaded the main post office, drove out the public and barricaded themselves inside for two hours.

MacMillan's Radio Keeps Crew Awake at Night

Orlando, Fla.—Direct two-way radio communication between Orlando and the MacMillan polar expedition was set up and held for fifteen minutes during the night, Lieut. William J. Lee, Naval Reserve force, announced. John L. Reinartz, operator on the Bowdoin, said the noise in the radio shack was bothering "other boys" in the ship who wanted to sleep.

French Chamber Votes Six Billion Paper Francs

Paris.—The chamber of deputies adopted the financial proposals of Finance Minister Calliaux. It passed article two, increasing the paper circulation by 6,000,000,000 francs, by a vote of 428 to 119.

Article three of the bill, authorizing a gold basis to an exchange for national defense bonds, was passed by a vote of 373 to 36.

Heavy Rain Comes as Boon to Farmers' Crops

Chicago.—Farmers and truck gardeners were smiling after the welcome and profitable downpour, agricultural experts declare. The rainfall, measured by the weather bureau, was 1.5 inches and was the greatest impetus to the hundreds of acres of late field and garden crops which have been planted in the last ten days, according to agricultural reports.

Bolt Knocks Cross From N. Y. Cathedral

New York.—Lightning struck two of New York's famous buildings. An arm of a 250-pound marble cross on the steeple of St. Patrick's cathedral was shattered. A three-ton granite ball was knocked from the tower of the Museum of Natural History on Central Park West and fell near an entrance where fifty persons were waiting for the rain to stop.

Two Brothers Killed in Auto-Train Crash

Warren, Ohio.—Tenny Allen and Riley Allen, brothers, were instantly killed and George Longberry, their companion, seriously injured when a freight train struck their automobile at a crossing in Cortland.

Aviator's Heart Pierced

Mitchel Field, N. Y.—Sergt. Douglas E. Logan of the army air service was killed here when a piece of a propellor, broken in the 20-foot fall of a Martin bomber, tore through the fuselage and pierced his heart.

Boy Killed by Toy Cannon

Champaign, Ill.—Peter Andrew Kunza, sixteen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kunza of Urbana, was fatally wounded when a toy cannon exploded, driving a paper wad into his heart.

DR. J. M. THOMAS

Dr. John Martin Thomas, president of Pennsylvania State college, has been elected president of Rutgers university at New Brunswick, N. J. He succeeds Dr. William H. S. Demarest who resigned. Doctor Thomas graduated from Middlebury college in 1869 and became president of that college in 1908. In 1921 he accepted the presidency of Penn State. He will take up his new duties at Rutgers on September 1.

COOLIDGE RESTS AT SWAMPSCOTT

Given Cordial Reception on Arrival at Summer Home.

Swampscott, Mass.—Tired by hard work and oppressive heat of Washington but overjoyed at the warm welcome accorded him by the home folks of his adopted state, Massachusetts, President Coolidge established his summer White House in White Court, a beautifully wooded estate at Swampscott on the Boston north shore.

It was his first visit to the Bay state since his election in his own right last November, and the people turned out in swarms to welcome him when his special train pulled into Salem in the morning. All along his route were cheering crowds, and in front of every schoolhouse the children were drawn up in military formation waving flags and cheering the President and Mrs. Coolidge as they passed.

The President, too, was glad to get home.

"Tell the people of Massachusetts," he said, "that I am mighty glad to be back in my adopted state of Massachusetts and more than pleased with the reception accorded me."

Here, at White Court, he will reside for the next two months as one of the members of Boston's north shore summer colony, doing his work, but at the same time getting the rest and relaxation sought when he determined to leave Washington.

Secretary Everett Sanders, with the office force, which is about one-third the size of the regular staff at Washington, took up quarters in Security Trust building, taking over the rooms usually used by the Lynn Chamber of Commerce.

Marines are stationed at all the entrances, including Ocean drive, with orders to let no one pass except on orders of the secret service. This gives the President almost perfect seclusion.

Woman Tells of Money Given in Prison Scandal

Atlanta, Ga.—Two women, Mrs. R. K. Walthall of Atlanta, charged by the government with having acted as a "go-between," and Mrs. George Remus, wife of the so-called Cincinnati "millionaire bootlegger," were the principal witnesses at the session of Federal court trying L. J. Fletcher, former deputy warden at the Atlanta Federal prison, and Thomas P. Hayden, former prison chaplain, on charges of conspiracy to accept bribes from wealthy prisoners.

Mrs. Remus testified that she gave Mrs. Walthall $2,000 and Father Hayden $500 at a meeting in an Atlanta hotel. She testified also that the chaplain approached her shortly after her husband was placed in the Atlanta prison and asked for $100.

Riffian Drive Repulsed by Native French Troops

Fez, French Morocco.—Native troops loyal to the French, aided by French aviators, have succeeded in repulsing the important Riffian offensive in the eastern sector, according to a communique. All along the front the forces of Abd-el-Krim have fallen back.

Heat Wave Kills Nine

San Diego, Cal.—Two Americans and seven Mexicans are dead from a heat wave that accompanied the eruption of the volcano Sierrah Pintas, it is announced here.

Pangalos Heads Greek Cabinet

Athens.—Greece has a new premier in the person of General Pangalos, one of the leaders of the latest revolution. He definitely assumed the premiership and completed his cabinet. Pangalos was formerly war minister.

FINDS SHEPHERD "NOT GUILTY"

Jury Returns Verdict After Five Hours—Will Fight Is Next.

Chicago.—"Not guilty," the verdict read and William Darling Shepherd bowed his head, crossed his hands and prayed.

It was the end of a murder trial such as had never before taken place in Cook county or in Illinois. The verdict, in effect, said Shepherd did not inoculate William McClintock with typhoid germs so as to cause the death by which Shepherd inherited $1,000,000.

The jury was out for five hours. On the first ballot the jury was seven for acquittal and five for guilty. Six ballots were taken in all; one juror held out until the last ballot for a verdict of 14 years' imprisonment.

The verdict ends all possibility of further criminal proceedings against Shepherd. It enables him to go with clean hands into a contest which has been started on the McClintock will by nine cousins of the dead youth. It gives Shepherd the presumptive ownership of the McClintock estate subject only to a possible breaking of the will.

Shepherd, of course, won his immediate release from the county jail, where he had been confined since March 18.

The verdict was the end of a six months' period of being under a cloud for Shepherd. McClintock died December 4 after a ten-day illness of typhoid fever. From then on there were developments unfavorable to Shepherd.

Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Municipal court undertook to make an investigation. Mr. and Mrs. Shepherd had departed for New Mexico after the funeral and after the will had been filed for probate, Judge Crowe asked and obtained an order to exhume the body of McClintock.

The coroner's physicians found Billy had undoubtedly died of typhoid fever. Judge Olson said there were reasons to believe Shepherd had administered typhoid germs to the youth.

During the investigation that followed the bodies of Dr. Oscar Olson, brother of Judge Olson, and Mrs. McClintock were dug up and examined by the coroner's pathologists. It was found Mrs. McClintock's death was due to mercury.

Nothing significant was found in the remains of Doctor Olson and the coroner's jury returned an open verdict as to his death. There had been suspicion only because Shepherd visited Doctor Olson during his illness.

The coroner's jury blamed the other two deaths on Shepherd and included Mrs. Shepherd in their charge, too. State's Attorney Crowe enabled her to be speedily vindicated, for the grand jury voted "no bills" within two days.

The principal basis of the murder charge against Shepherd was in the confession of Charles C. Faiman, president of the National University of Sicences, a school of shady reputation. Faiman said Shepherd applied to him for typhoid germs and that he gave him three tubes of them.

Later, Faiman said, he learned Shepherd was planning McClintock's death because the boy was about to marry Miss Isabelle Pope and if he did so Shepherd's hopes of getting the McClintock money would go glimmering. He had induced the boy to name him as sole legatee. Faiman said Shepherd finally admitted to him. It was decided to kill him before he could marry, Faiman stated, and then he said it was done.

Several Europeans Killed by Chinese at Shameen

Canton.—Several Europeans were killed and many others wounded when fighting broke out between Chinese agitators and residents of Shameen, the foreign concession here. Women and children are fleeing on the U. S. S. Asheville. The situation is extremely serious.

It is authoritatively said that the casualties among Chinese at Canton, when British and French marines returned the fire of demonstrators who had killed a Frenchman and wounded two British subjects, total 30 killed and 70 wounded.

Canadian Liner Rams Tug; Crew of Twelve Drowned

Quebec.—While maneuvering for position to take a tow line from the Canadian Pacific steamer Marloch as the big boat was nearing its pier here, the tug Ocean King was sent to the bottom with 12 of its crew. The Ocean King was caught amidships and almost cut in two, although the big boat was just keeping enough way on to combat the tide.

Countess D'Cransac Is Dead

Washington. — Countess Marguerite D'Adhemar D'Cransac, for many years well known in Washington and Virginia society, died in her seventy-seventh year. Before her marriage she was Miss Marguerite Labrot of Cincinnati.

Quebec's Oldest Paper Quits

Quebec.—The Daily Chronicle and Weekly Gazette, the oldest newspaper in Canada, established in 1764, will quit publishing June 30.

MRS. FRANK G. LAW

Mrs. Frank G. Law, president of the California League of Women Voters, is being backed by her many friends for the governorship. She is one of the most brilliant clubwomen of the west coast. She resides in Oakland.

U. S. GOVERNMENT MARKET QUOTATIONS

Washington.—For the week ending June 25.—DAIRY PRODUCTS—Butter: Closing prices, 92 score: New York, 42c; Chicago, 42c. Wholesale prices on Wisconsin primary cheese markets, June 24: Single daisies, 22c; double daisies, 21¾c; young Americas, 21¾c; longhorns, 22c; square prints, 23c.

HAY—Quoted June 25—No, 1 timothy, Chicago, $25.00; No. 1 alfalfa, Kansas City, $17.50; No. 1 prairie, Chicago, $18.00.

LIVE STOCK—Chicago hog prices closed at $13.65 for top, $12.85@13.55 for bulk. Medium and good beef steers, $8.75@12.00; butcher cows and heifers, $4.35@12.00; feeder steers, $5.40@8.25; light and medium weight veal calves, $9.25@11.25. Fat lambs, $14.75@17.00; yearlings, $10.25@14.75; fat ewes, $4.25@8.00.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES—Virginia Irish cobblers, $4.25@5.50 per barrel in leading markets; Arkansas and Oklahoma Triumphs on the Chicago carlot market, $2.50@2.75 sacked per 100 lbs. Florida and Georgia Tom Watson watermelons, averaging 22-30 lbs., $300.00@470.00, bulk, per car in terminal markets; $160.00@375.00 f. o. b. Valdosta, Ga. Cantaloupes: Imperial valley salmon tints, $3.75@4.25 per standard 45. Georgia Hiley peaches, f. o. b. at $1.75@2.00 per six-basket carriers and bushel basket at Macon; in city markets, $2.25@3.25.

GRAIN—Quoted June 25: No. 1 dark northern wheat, $1.56@1.74 Minneapolis; No. 2 red winter wheat, $1.94 St. Louis, $1.60@1.66 Kansas City; No. 2 hard winter wheat, $1.58¾ Chicago, $1.51½@1.60½ Kansas City; No. 1 hard winter wheat, $1.58 St. Louis. No. 2 mixed corn, 97@97½c Kansas City; No. 3 mixed corn, $1.02¾@1.03½ Chicago, 96@97c Minneapolis; No. 2 yellow corn, $1.06½@1.07½ St. Louis, $1.01 Kansas City; No. 3 yellow corn, $1.03@1.04 Chicago, $1.00@1.01 Minneapolis; No. 2 white corn, $1.04@1.04½ St.Louis, 97¾@98¼c Kansas City. No. 3 white oats, 45½@47¼ Chicago; 42⅝@42⅞c Minneapolis, 48c St. Louis; No. 2 white oats, 48¾c Kansas City.

France in Riff War to Finish; Deputies in Riot

Paris.—Morocco will be pacified, if it requires the entire resources of France. This was the gist of the government's declarations in the chamber of deputies when, in riotous debate, the Moroccan war was discussed.

The outstanding points made by the government were:

1. France is willing to discuss only the surrender of Abd-el-Krim, leader of the Riffs;

2. France will deal only with Abd-el-Krim, and not with any "meddling intermediaries."

3. France is determined to carry on the war in conjunction with Spain until the Riff leader is definitely driven from the countries he has invaded.

Premier Painleve received a vote of confidence, 510 to 30.

President Plans to Spend July 4 at Plymouth, Vt.

Swampscott, Mass.—President Coolidge's first formal visitor since his arrival at the summer White House here was Mayor Quinn of Cambridge, who called to arrange details of the reception to Mr. Coolidge when he goes to Cambridge July 3 to make an address.

From Cambridge the President will proceed to Plymouth, Vt., to pass July 4 with his father, Col. John Coolidge, and to be at the grave of his son, Calvin Coolidge, Jr., July 7, the first anniversary of the boy's death.

Mr. Coolidge appointed Harry Bassett, a Democrat of Indiana as a member of the United States employees' compensation commission.

Dutch Plane Crashes; Pilot, 3 Passengers Dead

Paris.—The pilot of a Dutch airplane, Klunder, and three passengers were killed when the plane fell near the Franco-Belgian border. The passengers were one Dutchman, one German and one Swede. The airplane was flying from Rotterdam to Paris.

Fishers Fail to Ask Writ

Washington. — Injunction proceedings brought by Dan A. Sutherland, delegate to congress from Alaska, against Secretary Hoover to prevent interference with Alaskan salmon fishermen were dismissed for want of prosecution.

Canadians Tighten Dry Law

Ottawa, Ont.—The house passed the bill authorizing British Columbia to prohibit private importation of liquor except for specific legal purposes.

Iowa State News

Events of Recent Occurrence Condensed for our Readers.

At a recent meeting 103 claims were disapproved by the Iowa bonus board.

Iowa dealers will furnish most of the coal for state institutions supervised by the board of control, it has been learned.

The population of Linn county is 79, 792, according to the official returns sent to Des Moines recently by County Auditor G. A. Seninger.

The city of Marion has purchased the courthouse which has adorned the business section for a quarter of a century. The price was $12,000.

The population of Cerro Gordo county increased 2,364 in the past five years, making the present total 137,039, according to census returns.

Entries at the Iowa state fair are coming in earlier this year than ever before, and in greater numbers than in any previous years, first reports given out indicate.

The twenty-fourth annual convention of American instructors of the deaf will be held at the Iowa School for the Deaf located at Council Bluffs June 29 to July 4th.

The general contract for the Central Presbyterion church at Nevada has been let to a Des Moines contractor on a bid of $35,158. The total cost will be about $45,000.

Legislation to obtain old age pensions to do away with the county farms eventually, is being sought by the Order of Eagles gathered at Des Moines in the state convention.

After being held up by rains and water trouble, the paving gangs of Anderson & Empie Construction Company that is paving the west Lincoln Highway have resumed work.

Des Moines and Sacramento, Cal., have been placed on the transcontinental air mail route, effective July 1. Both east bound and west bound planes will stop at those points to take on and leave mail.

Corn is in very good condition for the state as a whole, reports the Iowa Weather and Crop bulletin, more than twice the normal amount of rain with temperature and sunshine nearly normal greatly improving crop conditions.

Black Hawk county farmers who gathered at the home of W. D. Strayer near Hudson, were given an active demonstration of the value of rock phosphate and limestone as an aid to production of corn, oats and red clover.

Gabriel Mihara, a Japanese, but a native of America, was one of fifty-five applicants to pass the state bar examination conducted at the state university at Iowa City. Mr. Mihara expects to enter the United States consular service.

TEN WAYS TO HONOR THE FLAG.

1. Either fly the flag, freely unfurled, from a staff, or hang it flat, its full horizontal or vertical length is falling evenly, with the starry field at the top and to the observer's left.

2. Whether indoors or out the flag should never be fashioned into a rosette bow-knot, etc., or used as draping. Use bunting.

3. Hoist the flag briskly; lower it lowly and ceremoniously, never permitting its folds to touch the ground.

4. At crossed staffs with another flag, it should be on the observer's left, its staff in front of the other staff.

5. In a cluster the National flag should be in the center or at the highest point in the group.

6. Suspended across the street between two rows of buildings, the flag should be hung vertical, with the starry field to the north in an east-and-west street and to the east in a north-and-south street.

7. In a procession the National flag should be on the marching right of all other flags, or if there is a line of flags, in front of the center of that line.

8. When flown at half-mast the flag should be run to the peak and then lowered; before lowering for the day it should be again run to the peak.

9. Never permit Old Glory to be used as a handkerchief, as part of an athletic costume, or other manner lacking in the respect due it as the living symbol of America.

10. Honor the flag by developing yourself physically, mentally, and morally. Become a loyal and capable defender of American ideals.

Contracts for supplying coal to fifteen state institutions have been awarded to eleven Iowa operators and dealers by the board of control The contracts call for 82,835 tons of coal during the year beginning July 1st, at a cost of $367,787.

Buena Vista county will soon start to gravel its township road system. Supervisors have voted $10,000 for the purpose.

A large bed of beautiful, red poppies grown from seed gathered on Flanders field, "over there" has been attracting much interest at Centerville.

Steam roads operating in Iowa showed net operating earnings of $21,942,885 during 1924 against $20,941,352 in 1923, an increase of slightly more than a million dollars. Gross operating income decreased around $10,000,000.

Not the Word

Proud Father—I understand, son, your school now boasts of a glee club.

Son—No, sir, we don't boast of it.

Our pioneers were seldom unhappy; they didn't have time to be.

Champion Spark Plugs are guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction to the user, or full repair or replacement will be made.

Champion X for Fords 60c. Blue Box for all other cars, 75c. More than 95,000 dealers sell Champions. You will know the genuine by the double-ribbed core.

Champion Spark Plug Co.
Toledo, Ohio
Windsor, Ont., London, Paris

Do your friends laugh at you?

Your friends notice how your car runs. If the motor knocks and rattles and fails to work smoothly, they may enjoy your predicament and laugh.

MonaMotor Oil will keep your motor in tip-top shape. It will put pep, power, and zest into your car and give it a new grip on mileage.

Enjoy driving to the fullest. Buy only MonaMotor Oil.

Monarch Manufacturing Co.
Council Bluffs, Iowa — Toledo, Ohio

MonaMotor
Oils & Greases

For Hard Workers and Hard Walkers Everywhere—

USKIDE SOLES

The Wonder Sole for Wear—Wears twice as long as best leather!

—and for a Better Heel "U.S." SPRING-STEP Heels

United States Rubber Company

Try the New Cuticura Shaving Stick Freely Lathering
Medicinal and Emollient

DECLARATION SIGNED BY MEN OF ALL AGES

Few Graybeards Among the Nation's Founders.

Many people think of the signers of the Declaration of Independence as graybeards, old in years, ripe in wisdom and endowed with the vision which decades of experience is supposed to bring. None of the 56 men who finally affixed their signatures to this important declaration, pledging to its support their lives, fortunes and sacred honor, was old enough to be suspected of senility, though a few were so young that they might be liable to a charge of immaturity of judgment.

John Hancock, president of the congress, something of a "blade" and none too conservative in his attitude on some important matters, was only thirty-nine years old when the general congress assembled in Independence hall, Philadelphia, to consider the wording of the historical document. The oldest man in the congress was Benjamin Franklin, who had passed his seventieth birthday only six months before. The youngest was Edward Rutledge of South Carolina, who attained his twenty-seventh birthday in the November following the famous Fourth of July; Thomas Lynch, Jr., of the same state was his senior by only a few months.

John Hancock.

Of the whole number but seven had passed their sixtieth year; nine were between fifty and sixty years old, 19 were between forty and fifty, and the same number, 19, were between thirty and forty. The first mentioned were the only ones under thirty years of age. The average age of the members of the general congress was 43.87 years. It has been remarked that there were enough young men to furnish enthusiasm, enough middle-aged men to check indiscreet action and enough well-matured men to balance this most important conference.

John Hancock's Tomb and Monument.

The first of the signers to die was Button Gwinnett of Georgia, who lived only until May 27 of the following year. Charles Carroll of Virginia was the longest-lived after that memorable date. He watched the new states grow in power and influence until November 13, 1832; so that some persons still living might have touched a hand which held the pen while signing the Declaration of Independence.

Solemn Tribute Paid to Old Liberty Bell

"John Marshall, then chief justice of the United States, died in Philadelphia on July 6, 1835," says an old newspaper account. "On July 8, exactly 59 years to the day of the anniversary of the proclamation of the Declaration of Independence to the people, his remains were borne from Philadelphia to his native state, Virginia, for burial. During the funeral solemnities the Liberty bell, while slowly tolling, cracked through its side, forever silenced but not less eloquent in its mute patriotic appeal. It had lived out its life (82 years) of usefulness as men live out their lives. Its active work was done; it had called the people together to perserve their rights under the British crown; it had rung out its clamorous defiance on the great day of the proclamation of the Declaration of their Independence; it had glorified all anniversaries of that Independence. Henceforth, it remains in its ancient place, the silent symbol of not only 'Liberty throughout all the land,' but throughout the world."

Did you know that five of America's six great wars commenced in April, that the Civil war ended and America's greatest tragedy occurred in this same month?

Here are the facts:

The Revolution began April 19, 1775, at Lexington and Concord.

The Mexican war began April 24, 1846, on the Texas frontier.

The Civil war began April 12, 1861, with the bombarding of Fort Sumter, S. C.

The Spanish-American war began April 19, 1898.

The United States declared war on Germany April 6, 1917.

The Civil war closed with Lee's surrender at Appomattox, and President Lincoln was assassinated in April, 1865.

SAW BEGINNING OF NEW FREEDOM

Historic Yorktown Dear to All Americans.

Yorktown monument, erected by the national government at Yorktown, Va., commemorates the last battle of the Revolution fought there which won independence and created New world government. Lord Cornwallis, after a desperate siege, finally surrendered to Washington October 19, 1781, thus ending British hostilities in the colonies. General Washington experienced inexpressible joy at that event, with the remark: "The work is done, and it has been done well."

In 1781 the first congress which met after the Revolution ordered an appropriation of $100,000 to erect an imposing monument to pay lasting tribute and evidence American gratitude for victory and the birth of freedom.

Nearly 100 years elapsed before the idea of a suitable memorial was carried out. In 1880 R. M. Hunt and J. Q. H. Ward, artists of New York, and Henry Van Brunt of Boston modeled this most beautiful conception of "Liberty and Peace." Its cornerstone was laid in October, 1881, during the centennial celebration.

Old Custom House, Yorktown.

The Yorktown monument is built of Maine granite, standing 100 feet 6 inches high. The four sides of the base are given to inscriptions delineating the valor and victory on this illustrious battlefield, the narration of the siege, a treaty of alliance with the king of France, a treaty of peace with the king of England. Over these four sides, near the base, are the carved emblems of nationality, emblems of war, emblems of alliance, emblems of peace. The base is devoted to inscriptions or historical statements upon the sources of American government. Grouped on the circular produm are 13 female figures, representative of the 13 original colonies, beneath their feet are these words: "One Country, one Destiny, one Constitution."

The 38 stars on the column represent the states which up to the time of unveiling had been admitted to the Union.

"The Branch of Peace" is adroitly chiseled midst the stars. This was the heritage of which the Yorktown shield was symbolic.

Surmounting the column the Goddess of Liberty, star crowned, extends to the people of all nations for their service and loyalty to share American peace and prosperity. The monument occupies space upon a beautiful bluff overlooking York river. Ex-President Taft visited Yorktown some years ago while secretary of war, and upon his suggestion the government then put the grounds about the monument in order, granolithic walks were laid and an iron fence instead of the dilapidated wooden fence incloses this hallowed site.

Headquarters of Cornwallis at Yorktown.

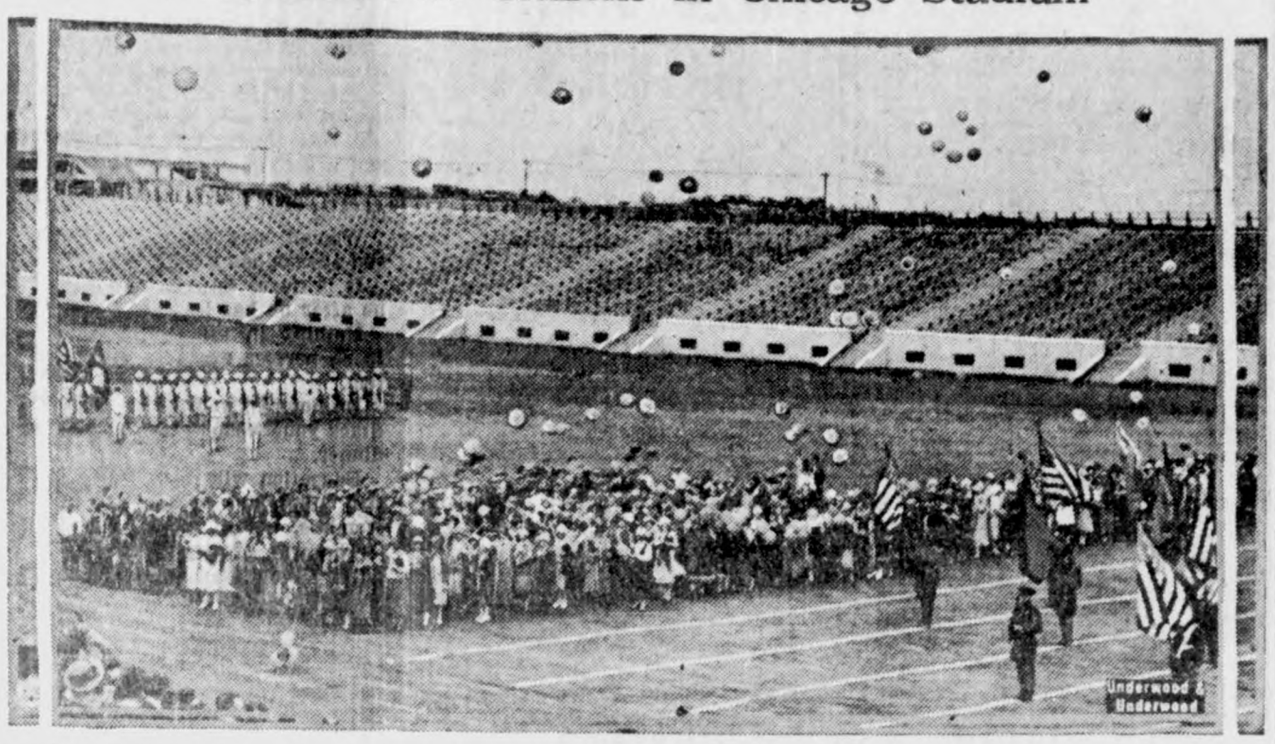
Throughout the year many thousand visitors pay homage to this most illustrious scene in American history. And in the annual celebration on October 18 once again the last battlefield of the Revolution becomes the center scene to immortalize the glorious achievements won in final victory for the American people.

Immortal Toast

Independence now, and independence forever.—Daniel Webster.

Graduated as Citizens in Chicago Stadium

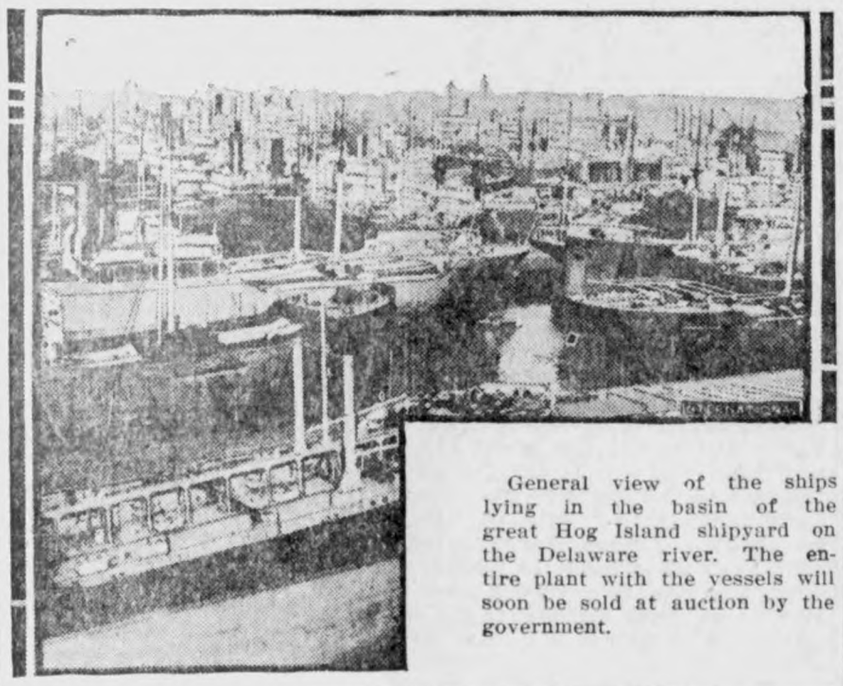


Picturesque scene in the Grant Park stadium of Chicago when 1,500 members of 62 citizenship clubs were graduated, under the auspices of the American Citizenship foundation. Part of the crowd is seen loosing balloons.

Actual Battle Scene in the French-Riff War

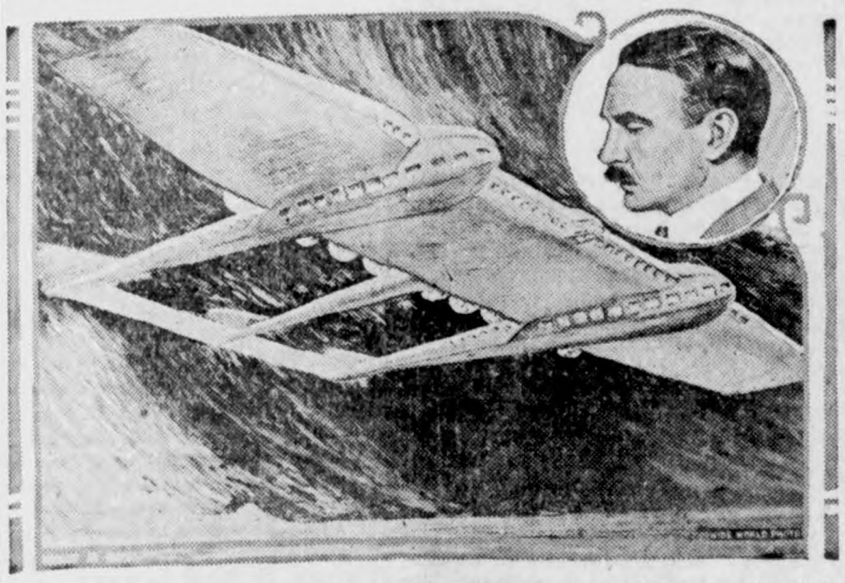
This picture of French howitzers in action was taken during the battle of Astar, when Colonel Freydenberg's troops fought continuously for two days against the Riffians.

Great Shipyards to Be Sold



General view of the ships lying in the basin of the great Hog Island shipyard on the Delaware river. The entire plant with the vessels will soon be sold at auction by the government.

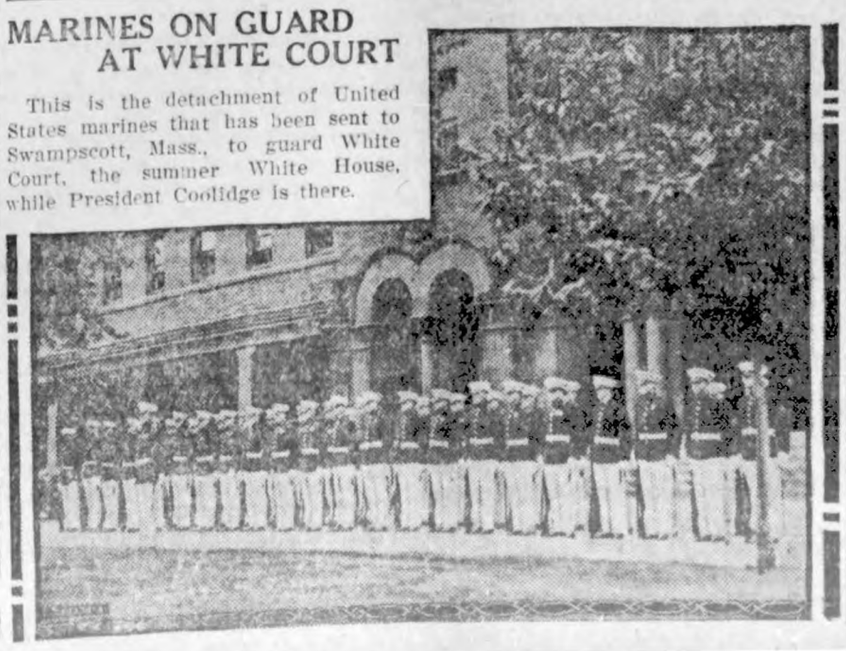
Plane That May Fly Over the Ocean



Design of the gigantic airplane which Louis Breguet of France, shown in inset, plans to build for the transatlantic passenger service.

MARINES ON GUARD AT WHITE COURT

This is the detachment of United States marines that has been sent to Swampscott, Mass., to guard White Court, the summer White House, while President Coolidge is there.



"MISS CALIFORNIA"

Miss Faye Lamphier of Alameda, "Miss California" of 1924, retained her title in the annual beauty contest of 1925 held at Santa Cruz, and she will represent the state again at the national beauty contest in Atlantic City in September.

RADIO GRADUATE

Clifford Lideen, an invalid of Burlington, Iowa, who has received his A. B. degree from the University of Iowa for work completed through the radio correspondence courses.

The American Legion

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

$1,000,000-MARK HAS BEEN PASSED

At the conclusion of the preliminary stages of the active canvass for the American Legion's $5,000,000 endowment fund for disabled veterans and orphans of the World war, the $1,000,000-mark had been passed, according to National Commander James A. Drain. Nine states had "gone over the top," completing their quotas, in most cases with a substantial oversubscription.

Kentucky was the first state to complete its quota, oversubscribing it by 50 per cent. Tennessee and Arkansas followed closely. The first Northern state to raise its proportion of the fund was North Dakota. South Dakota was not far behind. Other states which completed their quotas in the early stages of the nation-wide campaign were North Carolina, Utah and Nevada.

Avon Park, Florida town with a population of 890, claims to be the only city in the country to have trebled its quota in two hours. The town raised $1,503 against a quota of $425 by noon of the first day and pushed on. A total of $947 was subscribed in the first ten minutes.

George G. Baumgartner, Civil war veteran of Phoenix, Ariz., sent in a check for $5. He said he would send that amount each month. The first contribution at Tucson was from the Associated Federal Students at the University of Arizona, who gave half the funds in their treasury.

Attaches of the United States Veterans' bureau office at Minneapolis, Minn., pledged themselves to raise $3,000. Patient's and attaches at the United States Veterans' hospital, No. 99, at Excelsior Springs, Mo., contributed $150. Employees of the Denver (Colo.) office of the veterans' bureau pledged $225 to the fund, every person making a contribution.

Votaw-Swank post No. 458 at Neoga, Ill., raised its quota in the face of many difficulties. This farming community had been having hard times. A bank had failed with a large loss. Funds and supplies had been sent in large quantities to the victims of the terrible tornado which struck just south of the town last spring. But the quota was raised.

Many governors are taking an active part in the work for the fund. Among those who have recently accepted the chairmanship of their state committees are: Franklin S. Billings, Vermont; John J. Blaine, Wisconsin; Alvin T. Fuller, Massachusetts; Albert C. Ritchie, Legionnaire, Maryland; George S. Silzer, New Jersey, and Alfred E. Smith, New York.

Former governors are also active in the work. Among those more recently accepting places on state committees are: Channing H. Cox, Massachusetts; Frederick D. Gardner, Missouri; Carey Hardee, Florida; A. H. Longino, Mississippi; Nathan L. Miller, New York; David I. Walsh, Massachusetts; Charles S. Whitman, New York.

FROM A PRISONER

A PRISONER in the federal prison at Atlanta, Ga., asked for writing material and a check book bearing the name of a Rhode Island bank. When the guard handed them to him, he sat down on his prison bunk and wrote:

"American Legion Endowment Fund,

"National Headquarters American Legion,

"Indianapolis, Ind.

"Dear Comrades: I herewith enclose a check for $15 as my contribution towards the celestial fund that has been undertaken by the American Legion, for the purpose that carries the high ideals of the noble work of the organization.

"May I ask you to kindly place this small amount to the alloted quota that is required from the state of Rhode Island organizations of the American Legion.

"I regret exceedingly, due to my present position, I cannot give to you my physical assistance for the success of this drive, but assure you of my sincere good wishes and confidence in your work. Your comrade, etc."

Ambition

It was back in the old days at St. Nazaire. A couple of perspiring negro stevedores had stopped work for a chat.

"Boy," said the first, "what yo'-all want mos' when yo'-all am discharged f'um de ahmy?"

"Ah wants mah rifle mos' of all," replied the second.

"Yo' rifle? Whaffo' yo' wants yo' rifle?"

"So's when Ah gits me home Ah kin plant it in de middle of mah yahd, an' when it rains Ah sits me by de window an' says: 'Rust, yo' son of a gun rust!' "—American Legion Weekly.

Man in County Home Chases Out Inmates With Butcher Knife

Cedar Rapids.—Charles Halmon, inmate of the county home ,became violently insane Tuesday, grabbed a butcher knife and drove 150 inmates from the building. He then set fire to his bedding. Supt. I. G. Ishman attempted to quiet the man when he lunged at him with a crutch from one of the other inmates and knocked Holman senseless. The fire was extinguished after a damage of $200 had been done. Holman, who had been mildly insane for some time, became violent when the county physician attempted to vaccinate him.

Chautauqua Fails to Pay Out

The chautauqua held at Clarion recently ,failed to pay out, as usual. The people who made the guarantee were assessed about $6.00 each to meet the deficit. The program was furnished by the Midland circuit. It is stated however, that practically enough signatures have been secured to guarantee another chautauqua next summer. —Belmond Indepndent.

BAND DRAWING CROWDS AT BELMOND

The band concerts Wednesday nights are drawing tremendous crows, the streets being jammed with people, many from neighboring towns. And the band is rendering concerts that are worth coming to hear. Belmond has one of the best bands this year that it has ever had, and are being highly complimented upon their concerts.— Independent.

"BUILD A SILO" GOOD ADVICE

Experiments Show Silage Will Save Hay and Cut Production Costs

That the average dairy farmer in Iowa is bound to be short of roughage this year, is the general opinion of men in touch with the situation. To prevent this shortage, Iowa State College suggests that the silo offers one of the best ways of stretching out the hay supply.

"While silage will not entirely take the place of legume hays in the ration of the dairy cow," says John M. Shaw, of the dairy husbandry department of the college, "esperimental work has shown that it will save considerable hay and at the same time reduce the cost of milk and butterfat production.

"There is still time to build a silo and have it ready for filling this fall," says Shaw "and there's probably no more profitable investment which a dairyman can make."

400 WILL HAVE HEALTHY PIGS

Farmers in 65 Counties are "Separating Worms from Pigs"

Four hundred Iowa farmers in 65 counties this year are demonstrating the raising of worm and necro-free herds of hogs by having their pigs farrowed on clean grounds—land, which has not previously been used for hog raising.

"Under this plan, the farmer separates the worms from the pigs." says specialist, Iowa State College. Old hog lots are practically always infested with worms and by moving to new grounds, the worms are left behind.

Counties which have done exceptionally good work in cleaning up old hog lots and following the worm and necro-free herd plan are: Hardin, Adair, Benton, Buenta Vista and Cerro Gordo.

..... CAN'T STOP HENRY .....

Exchange—The little jitney is going to run. if every other blooming thing has to stop. One day last week a jitney owner went into one of the local grocery stores, bought three dozen of eggs, had them charged; then took the eggs down to the commission and poultry house and sold them for cash, and with this cash the aforesaid jitney owner went straight to a garage filling station and bought and paid for the amount of gas with the money he received for the eggs.

THE "GYP" IN GYPSIE

Renwick Times: A gang of gypsies visited Renwick Tuesday afternoon and canvassed the town. The kids remind one of a bunch of sparrows—finding a puddle of water on the walk they proceeded to take a bath regardless of sex or spectators. After a gang of these folks have visited a town it is easy to see the why of the "gyp' 'in "gypsie".

Two New Cow Test Associations

Webster and Lucas counties have each recently organized a cow testing association among the dairymen This brings the total number of active associations in Iowa up to 57. The associations are organized jointly by the county farm bureaus and by the extension service, Iowa State College.

Mrs. O'Rafferty— I hear he is a philanthropist.

Mrs. O'Flannigan: Yes, he offered to will $100,000 to the widdy of the unknown soldier.

He—That afternoon we went swimming in Flamigo Bay.

She—How did you find the water?

He—Easy, it was all around.

1st Drunk (Before polar bear in cage in Zoo) — Whozat lady in there with the white fur coat?

2nd Drunk—S'my wife. I petted her and she tried to bite me.

"Have you heard the story of the eyes?"

"No, what it it.?"

"Oh, you have two!"

Board— I wonder what cannibals do with their victims heads?

Boréd—Oh, probably make noodle soup of them.

A free country is one in which everybody feels qualified to tell the chief executive how to do it.

Even when she's discouraged, the flapper believes in putting on a good face.

Are You Needing a New GRANARY?

If you do, now is the time to get it started. Also to repair that old one, and be prepared to take care of that crop.

What about that screened Porch—don't you think you should have one before the hot weather comes? There is nothing will give you more comfort or satisfaction.

We will be pleased to give any information you may want about any of your building problems.

Come in and see us about those needed improvements. You will find a welcome here.

Northern Lumber Co.

"EVERYTHING TO BUILD ANYTHING"

HOW EXCESSIVE TAXES BLIGHT A NATION'S LIFE

Productive Effort Stops if Government Takes Undue Share of Profits, Says Treasury Official.

WEALTH IN RUSSIA FLED BEFORE THE TAXGATHERER

Men in America Prefer Golf to Giving Fruits of Three Days Work a Week to Income Taxes

The blighting effects of excessive taxation, leading to a nation's economic destruction, are described in the current issue of the American Bankers Association Journal by Garrard B. Winston, Under-secretary of the Treasury. Citing possible effects on the Ford Motor Car Company, he declares that "the value is so large and its ownership so centered it is conceivable that collection of inheritance taxes may check, if not destroy, that unit of policy which has created and expanded that industry and thus prevent its future prosperity. Of what avail, then, is it to any government if it collects one hundred million dollars once in estate taxes and destroys a source of income upon which it can rely for revenue year after year?

"Success of the Ford Company does not mean simply that Mr. Ford and his son have grown wealthy. It means employment of tens of thousands of men and women; that mines, forests, railroads and vessels are brought into use; that the public has received an efficient and inexpensive means of transportation; that the farm is in touch with the city, and the worker with his office." Mr. Winston says in part:

Wealth Flees Oppression

"Upon first impression it might appear that a nation could take all of the earnings of its citizens or all of their property. The Soviet government proposed to appropriate all instrumentalities of trade and commerce. Yet, when the state reached out to grasp this wealth, it disappeared and left nothing but a few tangible objects, such as gold and jewels, which were easily transported to other countries. Wealth in Russia ceased to exist.

"If income tax rates are placed so high that capital in productive business no longer gives a net return commensurate with the risk, capital will go out of productive business, lie idle, go abroad, go into tax-exempt securities, or find other ways of avoiding the tax. If income tax rates are so excessive that a man of ability finds he must work more than three days a week for the government, he will become discouraged and decide that the result is not worth the effort. Less income will be produced and less will be realized from the tax.

"Recently a letter came to the Treasury from a small farmer. He owned a few acres which in 1913 were assessed at $900 and on which a tax of $13 was levied. In 1924 the assessed value increased to $3,200 and the tax to $123, but the farm failed to produce any more. Taxes exceeded the rental value of the land and more than the net earnings of the property were taken by the state. The farm was abandoned and now produces no tax.

"Often there come to notice cases where a particular improvement is not made, or a particular business is not started, because after deducting taxes the risk exceeds the value of the expected return. Men have dropped business, spent their winters in Florida and their summers abroad, because what they are permitted to retain under present tax rates is not worth the labor they must give to acquire it. They prefer golf to the further development of the country.

Unscientific Taxes Destroy a Nation

"Unscientific methods of taxation may actually destroy the very earnings or property which it should be the principal interest of a government to foster. When it reaches the limits of what is known as its taxable capacity, a nation has begun to die. If taxes are raised too high, a country will slowly but surely destroy itself. It will use for daily consumption the seed corn on which its future life depends, and the spirit of initiative and adventure in its people will finally disappear. One or more of three things happen: The quantity of consumption is cut down, which means a lowering of the standard of living; or capital accumulations for extensions, improvements and new undertakings must diminish, resulting in a slowing up of progress and lessening eventually of taxable revenue; or, thirdly, a slackening of effort on the part of the citizen will take place when too large a part of his earnings are taken in taxes.

"The effort in taxation should be to find the tax which will continue to raise money over a period of years. Invariably, with an excessive tax, its yield has fallen off year by year, while each rate reduction is reflected in an increase of taxable income. If the Treasury is to be assured a continuance of revenue, our citizens must prosper. If they are to prosper, the appropriation by the state of their earnings and property must be based upon economically sound principles."

The worst of slaves is he whom passion rules.

Good order is the foundation of all good things.

You can't always measure a lover's sincerity by his sighs.

I'll fight till from my bones my flesh be hacked.—Shakespeare.

Tears of joy and sadness are both drawn from the same tank.

A soft answer turneth away wrath; and a soft question invites it.

A liar is a bravo toward God and a coward toward men.—Bacon.

Woman may be a conundrum, but she always has a ready answer.

It is queer how careful a man can be after he has lost his money.

Nothing in this world is expected to be perfect except a street-car system.

Do not rest your arms on the table. Check your weapons in a corner before dinner.

Education will do little for a defective mind, but training accomplishes wonders.

The wag of a yellow dog's tail is better than the shake of a false friend's hand.

Since the world took millions of years in the making, why should we be in such a hurry?

Among the sheeplike who go with the crowd, there are myriads who secretly do not approve.

Some people think three or four times before speaking once, then never say anything worth listening to.

If the extravagant try to be niggardly, they will be just moderately economical. They ought to try it.

EASTERN BELIEFS CONCERNING CRYSTAL

The two largest flawless crystal spheres in the world were recently exhibited in New York. One of them measures nine inches in diameter and the other just fifteen-sixteenths of an inch less. The value of the pair is placed at $50,000.

The spheres were brought to New York from China, where they were cut from a perfect Burma crystal with a small metal hatchet. The work required infinite patience.

In ancient times in the Far East and in Europe crystals were supposed to be ice in permanent form. In Japan small crystals were said to be the breath of the Great White Dragon, while the larger ones were supposed to come from the Violet Dragon.

An Odd Job

One of the wierdest jobs yet discovered is reported by the New York Times. It consists of shooing wild ducks off the waters of Chesapeake bay, and keeps six army privates busy at the Aberdeen proving ground.

Hour after hour two doughboys sit in an open boat, working in three shifts of eight hours each. The aviators are to blame for it. They dropped bombs in the water near the post, and by and by the phosphorus from the bombs rose to the surface. Then came the ducks looking for food. They liked the phosphorus, got lit up internally, and threatened to poison anyone who ate them. Hence the doughboys.—Collier's Weekly.

Variation in Language

There are approximately 600,000 words in the English language, according to Dr. Frank H. Vizetelly, managing editor of the Standard dictionary. Of this total, nearly one-half consist of words which have scientific uses but are seldom met with outside of the unabridged dictionaries, and of archaic, obsolescent or obsolete words.

No other language has as many words. The most extensive German dictionary numbers some 300,000, and the largest French lexicons about 210,000.

Dolls of Long Ago

Every once in a while these modern days, the people of the world discover that some of their vaunted inventions are not so new after all.

Dr. George Byron Gordon, director of the University of Pennsylvania museum, said that the museum today contains specimens of dolls dating from 3600 B. C.

In one collection there is a set of dishes—doll dishes—dating from 4500 B. C. There are toy chariots, toy horses, toy drivers.

Boy Musical Genius

Having demonstrated great talent as a virtuoso on the piano, violin and organ, George John Malcolm of London, England, has been acclaimed as a prospective great virtuoso and is likely to become England's greatest artist in this line, according to Sir Hugh Allen, famous music authority of Great Britain. Malcolm is only seventeen years old and the London county council's music committee has given him a grant and a scholarship.

World's Deepest Well

The deepest well in the world was completed recently by engineers near Latrobe, Pa., when they struck natural gas at a depth of 7,428 feet, or almost one and one-half miles, says Popular Science Monthly. Work on the well was begun in 1922, and drilling continued for 30 months. The gas is now flowing at a rate of 500,000 cubic feet a day. The cost of sinking the well was about $200,000.

Woman Wins Criminal Case

For the first time in the history of the Court of Criminal Appeal in London a woman barrister recently appeared and success met her premiere, for she won freedom for two men that had been convicted.

The ell, defined by ithyologists as anguilla vulgaris, is more numerous in the Cedar river than in any other stream in Iowa, although they ascend all streams. They spawn in salt water and in the spring millions of them begin their journey up the streams that flow into the ocean. If they winter in fresh water streams the bury themselves in the mud. Ells worth Ritchey, of Reinbeck, Grundy county, holds the record for catching in the Cedar river the largest ever caught in an Iowa stream. This specimen was 33 inches long and weighed five pounds. They are relished most by people who do not know what they are eating, their slimy,snake like appearance, if seen before they are dressed, serving to discredit them as fit for human consumption. At fashionable hotels and restaurants they are served under a highfaluten name and they are very popular.

Snodgrass' Partner Runs In Trouble

QUINCY, Ill— Harry Anderson, former partner of Harry Snodgrass, "king of the ivories," is held by local police, charged with stealing gold from dentists. Anderson later told police he was released from Missouri state prison last April. It was at the prison that he assisted Snodgrass in radio programs that brought the latter national fame.

SUMMER MONTHS BEST FOR MAKING CHEESE

Less difficulty should be experienced in making cottage cheese, during the summer months than at any other time, says E. F. Goss, associate professor in the dairy department of Iowa State College. This is due to the fact that during warm weather dairy utensils load the milk heavily with acid bearing bacteria which produces a rapid souring of the milk.

Rapid souring of the milk is desirable because this prevents the formation of bitter and other objectionable flavors. Owing to this fact the cheese manufactured in the summer is often of a finer flavor than that made in other times of the year.

The most successful method of making cottage cheese, according to Giss. is to take the skimmilk directly from the separator and keep it warm until it curdles. In the case of milk separated at night, a coagulation will often occur the following forenoon. As soon as the curdling takes place, the curd should be broken up and cooked. If it is allowed to stand long after coagulation a high acid content may develop which will make it impossible to secure smooth cheese.

In heating the curd, care should be taken to bring the temperature up slowly to about 105 degrees. When the curd appears slightly tough it can be drained upon a cheesecloth and rinsed with cold water.

"Did you join a fraternity?"

"No, I had plenty of clothes."

"What caused the fire?"

"Friction."

"Friction?"

"Yes, a $20,000 policy rubbing against a $15,000 stock."

NOTICE OF THE APPOINTMENT OF ADMINISTRATOR

State of Iowa, Hancock County, ss.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That the undersigned has been duly appointed and qualified as Administrator of the estate of A. D. White deceased, late of Hancock County, All persons indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment; and those having claims against the same will present them, duly authenticated to the undersigned for allowance, and file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court.

A. R. White, Administrator,
By Ramsay & Blackstone
His Attorneys

J9

Dr. R. W. Specht

—Dentist—

Office Over Whitehead's Store

Office Phone No. 106

Garner Iowa

Priscilla Dean
the Favorite Universal Film Star says of the mysterious, distinctive
NEW GARDA ODOR
"Its strange, clinging delicacy always is a source of delight."
Have you tried the NEW Garda Toiletries? If not, try them now. You will be charmed. This complete line of products issued by the great
HOUSE OF WATKINS
(Established 1868.)
WINONA, MINNESOTA.
consists of seven rich creations:
GARDA FACE POWDER, ROUGE, FACE CREAM, PERFUME, TOILET WATER, NAIL POLISH, TALCUM
Learn to know and love Garda, as millions of women are doing. Ask information about Garda Toilet Preparations and 137 other Products from
THE WATKINS RETAILER

Floyd Fraser

Fine Summer Sausage and Cold Meats

We have a full line of highest quality Cold Meats of all kinds which are very nice for Picnic Lunches or suppers on warm evenings.

SOME GOOD SUGGESTIONS

Armour's Goteborg Summer Sausage and Muencher Veri-Best Summer Sausage. Either style at, per lb. ..... 23c.

Minced Ham Pressed Ham
Veal Loaf Beef Loaf Boiled Ham
Pickled Pig Feet, Hearts, Hocks, etc
Pork & Beans Salmon Sardines
Cheese of All Kinds .. Pickles, Etc

We always carry a full line of fresh and cured meats of all kinds. The Fourth is coming and remember this is the place to get the biggest part of your picnic dinner.

Klemme Meat Market

News of Klemme and Vicinity

CELEBRATE the 4th in BRITT.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Starnes visited with friends at Floyd Sunday.

Don't forget the band concert on the street Friday night.

The chautauqua at Garner begins tomorrow, Friday, July 3rd. 1tc

W. H. Trafford, of Belmond was a Klemme visitor Friday.

See Ralph Parcaut "Flirting With Death" at Britt, July 4th. 1tp

John Suurballe and John Vrba, of Garner, were Klemme callers on Monday evenng.

The drug store is being connected up with the sewer.

Mrs. Hattie Lanahan and daughter returned Wednesday from their visit with relatives in Illinois.

Miss Daisy Lessher, of Clarion, is visiting with Miss Lena Keever this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Ell and family of Mason City were visiting Klemme friends, Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Gimer and Grandpa Gimer were Mason City visitors last Thursday afternoon.

NOTICE—The Standard Service Station will close at 10:00 a. m. on July 4th. W. M. Kirkwood, Prop.

Little Max Barz went with his father of Waterloo on a two weeks vacation trip.

Big Race Meet at Britt July 4th.

R. A. McConn is driving a new Essex Coach which he bought last week.

Earl Josten came home the latter part of the week from Sioux City, where he has been attending college.

Mr. Levi Neese, of Ventura, was a business caller in Klemme Tuesday.

Miss Geneva Schuldt has resigned her position as clerk aa the G. W. Kluckhohn and Sons store.

We are having some mighty fine weather and the oats and corn is looking fine.

Prof. Tompkins, of Garner was a Klemme caller Tuesday.

We have noticed several fields of oats which have started to ripen. Soon it will be harvest time.

The first band concert of the season on the streets of Klemme, Friday evening, July 3rd.

Bring in your weak or dead Radio Tubes. If filament lights we can restore them. H. Lau Sons. tfc

Wm. Haberkamp was operated upon for appendicitis at a Mason City hospital. Latest reports are that Bill is getting along fine.

Mrs. Steffa Fuls, of Freeport, Ill., came last Thursday for a visit with her sister, Mrs. Ben Swalve and other Klemme relatives and friends.

Miss Maurine Hake went to Belmond last Thursday after spending a few days visiting with Klemme friends.

Parade, Patriotic Program, Race Meet, Aeroplane stunt flying, two base ball games, street sports, band concerts, dancing, at Britt July 4th.

Mr. and Mrs. M. N. Zeiger and daughter, Maxine, of Garner, were callers at the R. A. Jorgenson home last Thursday evening.

Chris Jacobs and wife of Garner, and Mrs. C. J. Papousk, of Belmond visited at the Ed. Jacobs home Monday evening.

Rev. Bergman and family, their daughter Lena and her husband visited in Klemme a short time on their way home to Rock Rapids.

Radio Tubes rejuvenated. H. Lau Sons, Klemme, Iowa. tfc

Mr. and Mrs. William Alexander, of Minneapolis, came Sunday for a visit with Mrs. Alexander's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Hanson.

Mrs. Ted Dutheridge returned Tuesday morning from Morriss, Ill., where she had been visiting for about a week with her folks, the S. Klinmeyers.

Don't forgt that the Klemme business places will all be closed July 4th. The stores will be open on Friday evening, July 3rd.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Maitland, Jr., and baby, Hellen Maitland and Rufus Heifner, of Illinois, came Sunday for a visit with relatives and friends in this vicnity. They drove through.

The Ladies Aid will meet next Thursday afternoon, July 9, at the Parish house, with Mrs. Paul Stille and Mrs. LuVerne Smith as hostesses.

"Butch" Schroeder and wife drove in from Chicago last Thursday evening for a few days visit with Klemme relatives and friends. "Butch" is also looking after business while here and visiting with cattle shippers along the line who ship their stock to his firm.

Mr. and Mrs. Stone, of Minneapolis, who have been visiting at the J. J. Poort home, returned to the city Friday morning, being accompanied by Miss Leona Poort who will remain there for a visit.

Mrs. P. M. Wilson entertained a number of ladies from out of town last Thursday. They were: Mrs. C. J. Nagel and Mrs. F. P. St. Clair, of Clarion, Mrs. John Christensen, of Eagle Grove and Mrs. Lelan Sanders of Mason City.

Mrs. Clarence Williams and daughter Kathyrn, of Vinton returned home Tuesday after about two weeks visit at the P. M. Wilson home. Miss Gladys Wilson accompanied them home. She will spend a couple of weeks visiting old friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Bartz and their daughter, Geraldine, and William Gauger, of Rudd, were visiting at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Gauger Sunday. Carlyle Gauger accompanied them to Rudd for a visit. Mrs. Bartz is a sister of Rev. Gauger.

Dr. Zinn returned Saturday from from his visit of two weeks with relatives in Michigan and Canada. He spent most of the time with his father at Hanover, Ontario. Dr. Zinn's father is nearly ninety-five years of age; he feels fine, is spry and enjoys himself.

The Hancock County Farm Bureau made a trip to Iowa State College at Ames, Tuesday. The were royally entertained and all who went say they had a very profitable and enjoyable trip. A good many Klemme farmers were represnted in the tour.

R. A. Jorgnson, wife and son, "Buster" left early yesterday morning in their car for Kansas City, Mo., to spend the week end with relatives. Mrs. Jorgenson's sister and her husband live there. Clarence Elder is in full charge of the Times Office during the Editor's absence.

Miss Marie Gauger is clerking at the J. N. Day store. Miss Leota Yost, who has been working there, left for Garner last week Wednesday for a visit with the Walter Ross family before leaving for her home at Iowa City, where her parents recently moved to.

Jimmie Morrison and family, of Rockford, Illinois, came last week in their car for a few days visit at the Ralph Ivring home. They are on their way to Colorado on account of Mrs. Morrison's health. Jimmie will be remembered by many here as he was in the restaurant business here a few years ago. Mrs. Morrison s a sister of Mrs. Ralph Irving.

Grandma Schroeder and Mrs. Lena Schroder, of this place, and Mr. and Mrs. Will Barz and daughter, of Garner, accompanied Charlie Barz and family as far as Tracy, Minn., last week. The Klemme and Garner folks returned the latter part of the week. Charlie Barz and family had been here for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Trumbell returned from their vacation trip Thursday afternoon. They went to Mitchell, S. D., then up to Aberdeen, and Fargo N. D., returning through Minnesota. "Sum" said they had a fine trip. The roads were good, although there had been a great deal of rain around the Red River valley.

George Pabst is doing a lot of cleaning up on his vacant lot between the drug store and restaurant. He had all the rubbish hauled away, mowed the weeds and grass and trimmed the trees. When it is all finished th vacant lot will have the appearance of a little park and will be an ideal place for people to sit and rest. Mr. Pabst is making a nice improvement.

George Pabst and family of Los Angeles came Friday for a visit with relatives and friends in this part of Iowa. They drove here in their car and made the trip in ten days. The Pabst family are all well and looking fine. George is still in the drug business and has been doing relief work. He says he likes that fine as he is not tied down and the changing from one store to another is nice work. The family may remain in Iowa all summer. We are glad to see old Klemme people come back for a visit.

One woman saved 323 steps a day by rearranging her kitchen.

Oil discarded from the crank case of the auto or tractor makes an escellent hog oil if creasote dip is added.

The Cash Store

Just received a nice line of Men's Fancy DRESS SHIRTS; have different styles and patterns. Come in and see our display and make your selection.

Good assortment of Men's dress HATS in latest styles. No competition when it comes to price. A nice one at $2.00.

Special for Friday

HARVEST DISHES-- From 12c to 20c

Per Piece

"PAY CASH and PAY LESS"

Jno. N. Day's Cash Store

KLEMME MARKETS

July 1, 1925.

Wheat	1.60
Oats	.34
Shelled Corn	.90
Ear Corn	.85
Rye	.85
Barley	.75
Hogs	12.00 to 14.00
Eggs (cash)	.28
Eggs (trade)	.29
Heavy Hens	.18
Light Hens	.15
Standard Springs	.28
Leghorn No. 2 Springs	.23
Ducks	.14
Old Roosters	.08
Geese	.08
Butter (creamery)	.44
Butterfat	.44

(This space for sale.)

LETTER CARRIED LONG DISTANCE BY STORM

Mrs. F. L. Greenfield, of Alexander, received a letter last week from a lady at Plymoth, enclosing a letter written to Mrs. Greenfield in 1906. It was a keepsake Mrs. Greenfield was saving, and which she had stored in the attic of the home. The recent toronado lifted the roof of the Greenfield home, and took the attic contents with it. This letter was found in a corn field by a farmer plowing corn near Plymoth It had been carried a distance of 60 miles.

GARNER CHAUTAUQUA BEGINS JULY 3RD.

Attend the big four day Chautauqua at Garner, July 3, 4, 5, and 6. The very best of talent has been secured for this big event. Celebrate the Fourth at Garner by attending this fine entertainment. 1tc

TAX ON GAS $350,000 FOR A SINGLE MONTH

State Officials Estimate That Tax Amount to $500,000 in June

Iowa gasoline tax collections for the month of May will reach $350,000 and may go somewhat above that figure, payments received up to yesterday by State Treasurer R. E. Johnson indicate. Payments, correctly made and entered in the tax register totaled $280,535.35 on June 24th. About $50,000 additional was awaiting checking and entry and more than $20,000 in checks was being held in the suspense account, pending minor details in the reports.

Mr. Johnson anticipates receipts of $500,000 for the month of June and at least that much for July and August which would bring up the average monthly payments to a point where the expected $4,500,000 per year would be realized. The May payment of $350,000 represents an average payment of 62 cents in gasoline tax by each Iowa motorist, or a yearly averae of 7.44. The legislature estimated that each motorist would pay on an average of 8.80 per year in gasoline tax.

There were 559,605 motor vehicle registered in Iowa June 1. If the average annual gasoline tax payment amounts to 8.80, the tax would yield $4,824,524 this year on the basis of the number of cars registered June 1. Collections entered to date total $308,217.74. Estimates on cost of collection or amount of refunds are not available yet; but the average cost of collecting the tax in other states in approximately 1 per cent In Indjana, which has slightlv more motor vehicles than Iowa and a law after which Iowa's was patterned, the cost of collection is one-tenth of 1 per cent.

Indiana's twelve months' collections in 1924 from a 2-cent tax were $5,537,610. It had 581,899 motor vehicles that year.

JAMES QUIGLEY OF GOODELL DEAD

James Quigley of Goodell one of the old and highly respected citizens of that community died at the Belmond hospital last week Wednesday afternoon following an operation. He had lived around Goodell for the past twenty-five years and made his home with his brother Frank. Funeral services were held Friday morning.

BLOAT MAY BE PREVENTED

Cattle Should Be Kept Continually on Sweet Clover Pasture

The secret of pasturing cattle on sweet clover successfully — without bloat—lies in keeping the cattle continually on the pasture and in filling them up thoroly on some feed before turning them on.

They say that most of the men who have had trouble with cattle bloating on sweet clover pasture have made the mistake of taking cattle off the pasture at intervals and of keeping them off until they become too hungry. When the cattle are turned on in this condition, they eat too rapidly and in too great quantities. These men have observed that farmers who pasture sweet clover successfully year after year keep their cattle on the pasture continously after once turning them on.

Rex Bereford says that during wet times it is a good plan to supply cattle on sweet clover pasture with some dry feed. Some men clip their pastures and leave the cut plants on the ground to dry. A mixture of salt and lime kept beore the cattle on sweet clover pasture also seems to help.

Among farmers who have reported that they are pasturing sweet clover without trouble from bloat are Carl Jacobson, Roland; Ed Green, Castalli; and E. J. Handy, Postville. All of these men keep their herds on the pasture continously , after once they have turned them on Lake Cornelia is becoming quite a popular resort on Sundays and takes on rather a summer resort appearance when the crowds come au toing in. Quite an array of cottages have been erected on the west bank and the place is beginning to tak on the typical resort atmosphere.—Belmond Independent.

To Make Your Motor Run Correct, Use—

QUAKER STATE OIL and RICKETS GASOLINE

Once Used, Always Used

PAVEY'S

STORMIZING SHOP

R. E. Porter

CHIROPRACTOR

Palmer Graduate

24 hours a day 7 days aweek

Office at John Lieuwen residence. Phone 191.

Belmond Iowa

Petroleum Coke

CAR IN TRANSIT

At $15 per ton

The ashless and sootless fuel.

I BUY HOGS!

Do not forget that I buy hogs 6 days a week and must pay a good price to compete with nearby towns.

You are not compelled to SHIP or SELL. You are the judge. Do what you think will bring you best returns. Remember when you sell YOU ARE SAFE.

W. F. Lau

Note: If anyone tells you, you must ship, investigate and be convinced.

NAMELESS RIVER

By VINGIE E. ROE

Copyright by the McCall Company
WNU Service.

BOY AND DOG

SYNOPSIS. — Kate Cathrew, "Cattle Kate," owner of the Sky Line ranch, on her way to McKane's store at Cordova, seemingly infuriated by the sight of a girl plowing in a valley below, places a rifle bullet near the horses' feet. The girl takes no notice. Kate goes on to town, where her presence brings on a fight between McKane, the trader, and Sheriff Selwood. Nance Allison, the girl on whom Kate Cathrew had vented her spite, is with her widowed mother and crippled brother Bud farming land taken up by her father, killed a short time before in a mysterious accident. Bud is the victim of a deliberate attempt to maim or kill him. Kate Cathrew wants the farm for pasture land, and is trying to frighten the Allisons into leaving. Big Basford, Sky Line rider, desperately in love with Kate, picks a quarrel with a fellow rider, Rod Stone. Kate, to part them, lashes Basford across the face with a quirt.

CHAPTER IV—Continued

—4—

With a snarl and a whine the owner of the tail faced her in the low mouth of a cave, his pointed ears flat to his head, his feet spread wide apart, his back dropped, his jaws apart and ready, and round his outstretched neck there stood up in quivering defiance, the broad white ruff of a pure bred collie dog!

The girl stared at him with open-mouthed amazement—and at the more astonishing thing which lay along the pebbled earth beneath him—for this was the thin little leg and foot of a small child.

In utter silence and stillness she stood so, her hands on the rock's top, and for all the length of time that she watched there was not a tremor of the little leg, nor a movement of the dog's crouching body. The only motion in the tense picture was the ripple of the stream, the quiver of the lips drawn back from the gleaming fangs.

When the tension became unbearable Nance spoke softly.

"Come, boy," she said, "come—boy—come."

She ventured a hand across the rock, but the quivering lips drew back a trifle more, the big body crouched a bit lower—and the little bare leg drew out of sight behind the cave's edge.

Carefully the girl slipped back from the rock toward the pool, gained its lip, and dropped swiftly away down the canyon.

At a little distance she drew a deep breath and looked back. The mouth of the cave was black and vacant.

There was no sign of the fiery eyes and slavering jaws, of a thin little leg under a fringe of blue jeans rags!

With eyes dilated and lips closed in amazed silence Nance Allison made her way back to Buckskin, mounted and returned to the flats of Nameless.

She had found Mystery with a capital, but she knew that she must wait with patience its unraveling.

Those pale eyes between the flat ears held a challenge which only a fool would disregard—it would take time and patience.

But, for the love of humanity, why was a child hiding like a fawn in Blue Stone canyon—with only a dog to guard it—and with no sign of camp or people?

CHAPTER V

What Nance Found.

Nance pushed Buckskin hard and rode in early to the cabin and her mother's counsel. She put the little horse away in the stable and fed him his quota of the precious hay, for Buckskin was not turned out to graze. He, along with Dan and Mollie, was too necessary to the life of the homestead to take chances with.

They would miss him sorely should he go the way of the six steers.

She hurried up and pulled open the kitchen door.

"Mammy," she said excitedly to the gaunt woman shelling peas by the table, "I've found something in the canyon. I wonder—should I meddle?"

Mrs. Allison laid her wrinkled brown hands on the edge of the pan and looked at her daughter.

"It's according," she said soberly, "does it need meddlin'?"

"That's what I don't know. I found a collie dog—a savage dog for that breed—and a little child hiding in a cave. I couldn't get near to them, but they act like they know what they're doing—they had watched me from behind a rock and crawled to the cave in line with it when I turned. I only saw the child's foot—but it was a thin little thing—and the old jeans pant-leg was weathered to rags. There wasn't a sign of camp—nothing. What could it mean?"

The anxiety of a universally loving heart was in Nance's voice. "Did I do right to come away—or should I have tried some more to see them? It couldn't be done, though—the dog is on guard. He'll have to be handled slowly, I'm sure of that."

Mrs. Allison considered this odd information gravely.

"It means some one else besides the child and dog, that's certain. They never got there by their lone selves."

"But maybe they got lost from some one—and they may be hungry—" the girl half rose at that thought, her brows gathering in distress—"though whoever could be in Blue Stone canyon, and what for, I don't know."

The older woman shook her head.

"Not one chance in a thousand of that. No—some one else is there, that's sure. An' I don't believe I'd meddle."

But Nance rose determinedly.

"I've got to, Mammy," she said. "I'd never sleep another night if I didn't. Tomorrow I'll go back bright and early."

The mother regarded her with troubled eyes.

"Let Bud go, too—you never know—might be a trap or somethin'."

"With such bait? No. That little leg was so thin—like its owner was wispy. I wish it was morning."

All the rest of the day and the tranquil evening Nance felt a thrill and stir within her, a trouble. She milked old Whitefoot and her sleek black daughter, Pearly, to the remembered sound of the fairy voices of the canyon, and when she sat to her nightly reading of the Word beneath the coal-oil lamp on the table there intruded on the sacred page the gleaming fangs above that motionless small leg.

With gray dawn she was up and about her work that she might get an early start. Bud was all for going with her, but she would not have it so.

"I'll have trouble enough getting near," she told him, "the best I can do. Another stranger would make them wilder still."

The boy caught her hand as she swung up on Buckskin.

"Be careful, Sis," he said, "look sharp on every side."

He had never forgotten that stretched rope.

Neither had Nance, but she walked bravely in a faith which made her serenely bold.

"'Commit thy way unto the Lord,'" she said smiling. "'Trust also in Him.' Don't you fret—nor let Mammy, if you can help it. I'll be back soon as I can."

Then she was gone down across the flats with Buckskin on the lope, one hand feeling carefully for the package she had tied behind the saddle. This

"Come, Boy," She Said. "Come, Boy, Come."

containecd a goodly piece of boiled corn beef and two slices of her mother's bread, fresh baked the day before. She was going armed with bribery.

The whole Nameless valley between its great escarpments was fresh and cool with shadow, for the sun was not yet above Mystery ridge and the rimrock that marked the way to the canyon.

The river itself talked to the boulders in its bed, and the little winds that drew up the myriad defiles were sweet with the fragrance of pines and that nameless scent of water which cannot be described. All these things were the joy of life to Nance.

She loved them with a passion whose force she did not comprehend. They were what sweetened her hard and ceaseless toil, what made of each new day in her monotonous round something to be met with eager gladness, to be lived through joyfully, missing nothing of the promise of dawn, the fulfillment of noon, the blessing of twilight. They had stirred and delighted the nomad heart of her father before her, they had filled her own with contentment.

Eager as she was to be in the canyon she did not miss the pale pageant of light above rimrock, or fail to watch the golden halo come along the crest of Rainbow cliff.

But she soon crossed the river and entered the mouth of the great cut, leaving behind the miracle of burgeoning day, for here the shadows were still thick, like gray ghosts. She pushed on up for an hour or so, listening to the voices which were still talking, while the shadows thinned between the dusky walls.

At the point where she had left the pony the day before she dismounted and dropped his rein.

"You wait here, old nuisance," she said, darkly, rubbing his restless ears, "for I may have sudden need of you. If you see me come flying out with a streak of tawny fur behind me, don't you dare break when I jump. So long."

She took the bread and meat from the saddle and started on foot. She went carefully, picking her way, eyes scanning each turn and boulder. At the pool's edge she stood a long time, watching, listening, but there was nothing to be seen or heard.

She went to the mouth of the cave and peering in cautiously, called softly. She waited, but there was no answering growl, no whirlwind rush as she had half expected. The shallow cave was empty, save for some ashes of a dead fire and blankets. She circled the rock and began hunting for tracks in the white sand of the canyon bed—and presently she found them—small tracks of childish feet, set close beside the padded narrow prints of a dog—and they were going up the canyon, deeper into its fastnesses. She trailed them easily for a distance, then lost them in the foaming shallows of a riffle, and search as she would she could not find where they came out. There was a flat lip of rock on the other side, to be sure, but beyond that was sand again, and it lay clear, unruffled. Above the riffle was a long deep pool, swift and flowing, and she stood for a time contemplating it.

It hardly seemed possible that the two outcasts could have swum it, and yet—where were their tracks if they had not?

She circled the pool and went on, trailing carefully, but the bed beyond was composed of shale, blue and sharp—hard going for a child's bare feet, she thought compassionately—and gave no sign of a crossing. For another hour she went on, scanning the walls, the fallen stones, the stream itself and every nook or corner where anything might hide. She was far in Blue Stone canyon by this time and wondered at the endurance which could have brought a child so far. Or had some one come and taken it away? That was possible, of course, and yet—a grownup person would have left marks in the soft sand assuredly. She would—but at this point in her train of thought, she came around a sharp jut in the wall—and face to face with her quarry, or at least with part of it.

Startled, the dog she had seen the day before was crouching in the narrow way that led around the jut, his body half turned, one foot raised, tail lowered, and the face he turned back across his shoulder was the most vicious thing Nance had ever seen. He was crouched to spring, and the fury of his snarls, audible above the sound of the stream, made that odd clutch close her throat which always accompanies sudden horror.

Nance Allison was a brave woman, but she was scared then.

She stood rooted to the spot and could not tear her eyes from the dog's pale flaming orbs to look at the little creature which she knew was running with a flurry of rags and naked arms up along the canyon wall.

For a long moment they eyed each other, then, without other warning than a flicker of those flaming eyes, the collie sprang.

He came high, sailing up and forward, his forepaws spread, his head thrust out and downward, his jaws gaping.

In the second that followed instinct acted in Nance, not reason. Instead of recoiling, she surged forward to meet the onslaught, her right arm raised before her like a horizontal bar.

The faded denim sleeve was down and buttoned at the wrist, where the gauntlet of her cheap leather glove made a cuff.

Into that gaping mouth went the arm, jamming hard, while she flung her left arm around the ruffed white throat like a clamp.

If she was surprised at her own instinctive and prompt action, the collie was more so. Down on the sand went girl and dog, a rolling, tumbling bundle. In the half second which served to make the dog the victim instead of the attacking force, his outlook on the situation was completely changed. He had charged in a fury of rage. Now he fought frantically, but it was to free his mouth from the choking bar that filled it, to get his head out of the vise which held it. But Nance found herself in a dilemma, too. She was afraid to let go. As she rolled over in the struggle she cast desperate eyes up along the wall where she had seen the eerie small figure running in its rags. True enough, it was there, stopped, facing her, bent forward, its little hands clasped in a curiously old fashion of distress.

"Little boy!" she called, "come here! Come and talk to your dog—come quick! I won't hurt you. Come and call him—please come!"

For a moment she lay panting, looking into the dilated eyes so near her face.

"Old chap," she said softly, "what's all the fuss? I'm your friend if you only knew it. Nice doggie—"

She glanced at the child again, who had not moved.

"Come on, sonny," she called coaxingly, "come on—please."

Slowly the child came forward, hesitant, afraid, his small face pale with fright.

He sidled near and put out a dirty hand to the dog's right ear. The little hand closed—pulled—and Nance felt the dog's body twitch in an effort to obey. She knew at once that that was the way they traveled together—the child holding to his ear. Slowly she relaxed her grip, let go the backward pressure. The collie jerked free and backed off shaking his head, and Nance sat up, folding her feet beneath her.

Then she smiled at the two waifs of Blue Stone canyon.

"That isn't a nice way to treat folks who come to see you, is it, sonny?" she asked, "to set your dog on them?"

"I didn't set him on," said the child in a high treble, "he set himself on you."

"I guess you're right," answered the girl, "but don't let go of him again. Go over there and pick up that package and bring it to me."

She pointed to the package of bread and meat which had been flung wide in the recent trouble, and the child obeyed, dragging the collie along, who went unwillingly, his distrustful and baffled eyes turned back across his shoulder to keep her in sight.

The child, too, was wary, reaching far out, stretching his small body to the utmost between her hand and his hold on the dog's ear.

Quickly Nance unrolled the cloth. She counted on the aroma which now arose on the clear air.

"I'm hungry," she said nonchalantly, "are you?"

The boy nodded.

"And your dog, too?"

"I 'spect so," he answered gravely.

She broke the food into sections and handed a portion over.

The dirty little hand reached eagerly this time.

"Feed him some," she said, indicating the dog, but already the child was dividing as best he could without releasing his hold.

The dog grabbed the fragrant meat and bolted it, watching her the while. Quickly she tossed him a bit of her own. He snapped that up also and she fancied the expression of the pale eyes changed. She remembered now the extraordinary lightness of the great furry body, as if there was little beneath the splendid tawny coat save bones and spirit. Plenty of the latter, she reflected, smiling. Whew! but wasn't he a fighter? But trained to the last degree—though he regarded her as a foe, still at the touch of the small hand for which he had fought he stood obedient. Pretending to eat herself, she managed to give the greater part of the food to the two before her, and they devoured it to the ultimate crumb.

"Where you live?" she asked the child at last off-handedly, but he did not answer. He was picking the crumbs he had dropped from the front of his bleached blue shirt—the pitiful excuse for a shirt, without sleeves, if one excepted the strings that hung from the shoulders, without buttons and all but falling from the scrawny little body underneath. As she watched him Nance's heart ached for his poverty, for his woebegone appearance. She was filled with a cautious excitement. The collie had sat down beside the boy, who had loosed his hold by now. It seemed that hostilities were relaxed, though she took no chances.

"I live down on the flats by the river," she said presently. "I get lots of fish from these pools. They're awfully good, too."

The child nodded.

"I know," he said, "we do, too."

"Who catches 'em?" asked Nance. "Not you?"

He shook his head.

"No. Brand does."

"Who's Brand?" she followed quickly, but once more the child shook his unkempt head.

"Just Brand," he said.

Nance saw that further questioning would not do, therefore, she fell back on the wiles of woman, the blandishments of sex.

She rocked on her heels, holding her ankles in her hands and smiled with the winsome sweetness which so few in the world knew she possessed.

"I like little boys," she said, "and I haven't any. But I've got a pony. Name's Buckskin."

Here's an interesting trio—heroine, boy and dog. Will Nance solve the mystery of the two wild things?

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

His City of Refuge

The train came to a grinding stop at a small town in the South, and the head of a gentleman of color protruded from a window at the end of a car. Seated by his side could be seen a brown-skinned maiden.

"Does yo' know a cullud pusson by de name o' Jim Brown what lives here?" he asked of a station lounger.

"Ain' nevah heerd o' no Jim Brown hyah, an' Ah lived in dis town fo' ten yeahs."

"Is yo' right suah dey ain't neveh been no Jim Brown aroun' hyah?"

"Positively."

"Den," announced the arrival, reaching for a suitcase, "dis is whah his new son-in-law gits off."—The Continent.

Caribou Has Third Horn

Caribou, in addition to antlers, possess a third horn, called a digger. It grows from the base of an antler and extends to the nose. It is flat and tapering and is used to dig for herbage growing underneath the snow and ice. American moose attain the height of seven feet at the shoulders and an antler spread to eleven feet. They are very timid except during mating season, when they will attack any other animal or even man.

COLORFUL BATHING COSTUMES; SUMMER MILLINERY TURNS BACK

HOW would the puzzled fashion reporter be able to tell about the latest things in bathing suits if it were not for the resourcefulness of silk manufacturers? Some keen-minded maker of silks has hit upon the word "modernistic" to describe the new patterns in printed silks—it refers to the bold, unusual, vividly colored and glowing designs which are liked for bathing and beach suits and negligees. Nothing in the sky above, the earth beneath, or the waters under the earth is just like them—hence "modernistic" is a very adequate word, especially in the company of a picture to show what it stands for.

A Dazzling Bathing Costume.

A modernistic pattern in silk appears in the over-garment worn with black satin knickers in the picture. Although the photograph does not reveal its intricate colorings it is fairly safe to guess that they include rich purple, gold, soft greens, vivid blues and reds in artful shadings and combinations on a black ground. A banding at the neck, a binding at the bottom and a girdle would be in black with this suit, but in any case will match the background of the printed pattern. There is no question of the attractiveness of these new beach suits. Flourishing right along with them are black suits having only a little color introduced in bindings of gold, copenhagen blue or white.

Real swimming suits also divide their allegiance between dark and light colors. Tights fastening on the shoulder and having skirts looped on are made of pure worsted in purple, orange, royal blue, tan, bright green and in navy and black. Capes and coats to be worn over suits are shown in terry cloth in Roman and other stripes and in rubberized cloth. The latter are often lined with terry cloth. The aspect of the beaches is bright and gay—and no one looks bedraggled in modernistic bathing clothes.

For once in her career restless woman seems to be satisfied with things as they are, in millinery. Except for the much increased proportion of all-white hats and hats in white predominates, millinery plays continue to be made up of beautiful headwear launched in spring and early summer. The small felt in pastel colors continues to sell ice cream cones, with the white felt close second. Large felt hats in light colors, hair braids and other light straws are demanded, showing that minds of women are centered on summer headwear and that they are not so "uncertain, coy and hard to please" as they have sometimes been.

Among things that have for ahead are hats of canton crepe, str or hair braid with velvet crow bangkoks and ballibuntls with tri ming of velvet ribbon, small turb of belting ribbon that are comfo ably soft and collapsible, b made of white kid and trimmings gilded kid. New developments sports hats appear in soft, white hats, stitched with braid to give the firmness, or corded or machine stitch for the same purpose, in silk in color, as blue, yellow, red or black.

A group of representative hats tured here includes a small soft tur of black and colored ribbon, a felt with crepe facing and drapery, fini with a rhinestone ornament—at upper right—a tagal straw belo with applique trimming of silk braid. Opposite this is a hat of c crepe and hair braid with flowers fruit about the crown and below hair braid shape with drapery o ured chiffon. It is noticeable tha shapes are medium or small, "on tive in lines and becoming.

Some of the Summer Hats.

Summer millinery is singing swan song. These conservative m and the sheer, wide brimmed, turesque hats of hair braid, la crepe, signify that the song is fini White and light colored felt or hats for sport or street wear pr the very last word.

JULIA BOTTOMLE

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Where Benedict Arnold Plotted Deed of Blackest Treachery

"...eason House" In West Haverstraw, Where Andre and Arnold Planned the Surrender of West Point.

...ging at the treatment meted out ...im by congress and the supreme ...utive council in Philadelphia, Ben... Arnold had come to West Point ...commander of the post. He was ...hero of Quebec and of Saratoga. ...leg wounded in two places bore ...ess to his bravery on the field. He ...Washington's most trusted gen... He had a record for leadership ...sacrifice in the Continental cause ...d to none. But he was a morose ...embittered man. As governor of ...adelphia and as a brilliant soldier ...d made many enemies. His foes ...e governing council of Pennsyl... had brought against him a series ...harges of dereliction in duty. Ar... had demanded a trial by court-...ial. He had faced its board at ...rristown, the winter headquarters ...Washington. The result had been ...ntence to a public reprimand. Un...

Benedict Arnold.

...his proud nature smarted unen...ly. There came then the inde...le, treacherous step which was ...stroy his career in an hour. ...ting under the name of "Gus..." he entered into communication ...Sir Henry Clinton, commander of ...British forces in New York, and ...answered by his aid, Andre, who ...ed the name of "John Ander... Arnold offered to station his ...s so that the British would en...r no difficulty in seizing West ... It was a strategic post on ... the British had long had their ... Possession of it would cut off ...England from the lower colonies. ...uld open an easy route to Can... The Continentals would be ...ed by the loss of their most im...t fort and its great store of sup... The correspondence went on. ...rsonal meeting between Arnold ...ndre became imperative if the ...hand scheme were to go through.

The Conspirators Meet.

...so one day the British sloop... Vulture glided up the waters ... Hudson and anchored not far ... Stony Point. Arnold had laid ...ans well. When darkness came ...ll boat went alongside the Vul... ...nd Joshua Smith boarded her. ...nold's command he was seeking ... who was to "bring important ... to the West Point commander. ...g blue surtout covered Andre's ...m as he stepped into the small ...nd Smith did not know that the ... passenger he was rowing to ...was a foe of the newly born re...

...few minutes Andre had made ...ay through the thicket to the ...f Benedict Arnold. A few words ...ntification were exchanged. In ...whispers and carefully lowered ... the conversation proceeded. ...was the number of troops in ... Point, what was its armament, ...any supplies were stored there, ...at way would Arnold dispose his ...s so that the British could en... ...thout casualties?

...old suggested to Andre that he ...ne more night on shore, promis... would be rowed safely out to ...ulture the following night. An...d in with the plan and they ad...d to the Treason house.

...ver breakfast they went on with ...iscussion, they were interrupted ...ominous sound. A detachment ...ntinental soldiers had seen the ...e in the river and had brought ...oon down to the shore. The ...g thunder of its shots was roll... and down the Hudson. Arnold ...dre looked out of the windows ...ason house and saw the Vulture ...p its anchor and move swiftly down stream and out of range. Andre was frankly worried.

Delay That Was Fatal.

"It may not be so easy to get back to the ship," he said.

Benedict Arnold thought for a moment. "I will give you a pass that will take you safely back to New York by land if you cannot reach the Vulture," he announced. The pass was duly written out authorizing the Continental guards to let "John Anderson" through their lines. By now Andre had the complete data for the surrender of West Point in his possession and, acting on Arnold's suggestion, had concealed the papers in the sole of his stocking. The plot had been launched. Arnold left Treason house for his own residence across the river. The two conspirators were never to meet again.

All that day Andre remained in the upper room of Treason house looking out over the river at the far-off Vulture and counting the hours that remained until darkness should fall and he could attempt his escape from the American lines. Night came and he demanded of Smith, the house's owner, that he row him out to the British sloop. Here, however, an obstacle appeared. It seems that Smith was obdurate in refusing to run the gantlet of possible Continental fire on the way to the ship. He offered instead to guide Andre down to New York by road, and with this offer Andre had to be content.

Under cover of darkness they crossed to the other side of the river and began the journey that was to end in Andre's capture at Tarrytown. How he passed through the American lines until he met the three patriots—John Paulding, Isaac van Wort and David Williams—guarding the road, how he mistook them for British sympathizers and declared himself to be an officer of his majesty the king, how they seized him, searched him, refused his offers of tremendous sums and took him to the Continental authorities and the end that came to him as a wartime spy are familiar matters of history. That day's work in Treason house was to bring nothing but disaster to the men who engaged in it.

British Gained Little.

The defection of Arnold does not seem to have been of much service to the British cause. He led their troops in a number of expeditions, none of which were of any great importance. The memory of that black day at Treason house seems to have been with him to his death. The hatred of the countrymen he had betrayed reached over seas and struck him down. Brooding through the years, he fell victim to a racking nervous disease from which he died in 1801.

Major Andre.

And now Treason house itself is to disappear forever. Perhaps it is well. The recollections which it summons up out of the past are best forgotten.

Last of Famous Company

Daniel Frederick Bakeman, who was a resident of Freedom, N. Y., and who died in 1869 at the age of one hundred and nine years, six months and eight days, was the last survivor of the Revolutionary war. Bakeman served the last four years of the Revolution under Captain Van Arnum and Colonel Willett of the New York troops. Two years before his death congress passed a special act pensioning Bakeman at the rate of $500 a year. The last Revolutionary war pensioner, according to the pension office, was Mrs. Phoebe M. Palmeter of Brookfield, N. Y., who died in 1911. She was the daughter of Jonathan Wooley, who served in a New Hampshire company under Washington.

Community Building

Arrange Shrubbery as Nature Has Placed It

Don't forget to observe nature's way in arranging shrubs, trees and flowers. In the woods you seldom find trees growing in straight lines, stiff and formal. The margins and outlines of woods and thickets have indentations, bays and openings which give beautiful pictures and vistas.

Don't forget that looking from the inside of your home each window should frame a nature picture.

Don't think of home gardening as only a summertime effect. Your home can be planted with hardy, permanent shrubs and trees to secure equally beautiful wintertime pictures.

Don't plant without a plan. It will cost less in the long run.

Don't make the mistake of waiting until after your home is built before planning and planting. You should plant the walks, gardens, borders, etc., before the house foundations are in and immovable.

Don't permit your planting to obstruct the sunlight and ventilation of your home.

Don't needlessly cut and prune trees. A good tree on your building site may be the key to a successful planting plan. A good tree, ten years old, is worth many dollars. Keep it and care for it.

Don't forget that flowers pass quickly, whereas shrubs and hardy trees live on constantly.

Don't forget that your back yard offers as many possibilities in home gardening as your front yard.

Dirt Has No Place in Up-to-Date Town

Accumulations of dirt, whether in the streets or in the premises, are unhealthful. Also they are unsightly. Also they are unenterprising. A place that looks run down has a lower market value, regardless of its potential value. A street is made or unmade the same way, declares an editorial in the Kansas City Star. There are new, clean, well-kept community centers in the outlying sections that are models of care and examples of co-operative accomplishment. There are others that look as if neither the property owners nor the business tenants cared a rap for their own interests or ever conferred with one another for the center's good. Mean and makeshift improvements, while not insanitary, and almost as offensive as disorder, and invariably they discount the value of the ground on which they are built.

Clean-up day is a fine thing; this year an indispensable thing. But the real thing is all-year cleanliness and order.

How Zoning Will Help

There will be considerable benefit from the increased attention of American centers to zoning if there is a persistent determination to enforce the provisions which zoning involves. The Department of Commerce reports that 320 cities and towns now have adopted zoning regulations and that zoning laws have been enacted or are being considered by nearly every state. Protection, however, does not follow automatically the adoption of a zoning ordinance. Where zoning rights are zealously guarded, there is promise of a better order in the cities that are turning to this new form of building regulation.—Kansas City Times.

Model of Playgronud

A miniature model of a five-acre playground for city children was constructed for the United States children's bureau and was displayed at the meeting of the International Council of Women held in Washington in May. The model contains a swimming pool, a shelter house, two tennis courts, a basketball court, a large baseball diamond, a smaller diamond, a wading pool for little children, seats for the story hours, swings, ladders, flying rings, sand boxes and all other needed equipment. Tiny figures of children engaged in the various sports were part of the model.

Look to Future Growth

Cities which were ill-planned at the beginning, and which have now grown large, can not go back to the beginning and adopt good plans. The best that they can do is to make improvements in their existing plans, along the lines which their founders should have laid down. This they can all do, to some extent; and they should realize that the more promptly they do it, the better it will be for them. The larger they grow on bad plans, the more the need of replanning will be felt, and the more laborious and expensive the process will be—Washington Post.

City's Prettiest Street

Which is the most beautiful home in your city? And what are the points, anyway, on which a handsome house ought to be scored in a prize competition, as judges score Herefords, Wyandottes and prize babies, and bathing beauties? The Chattanooga (Tenn.) real estate board raised the question, with a contest it inaugurated to determine the most beautiful home in Chattanooga. Other groups within the National Association of Real Estate Boards are taking up the idea.

A Little Bit Humorous

BEFORE THE ALDERMEN

Alderman—I desire to present a petition.

Presiding Officer—The clerk will read.

Clerk—To the honorable board of aldermen, a petition from the inmates of the almshouse, asking the board to provide parking space for their automobiles.

Acts the Same Now

"Do you act toward your wife as you did before you married her?"

"Exactly. I remember how I used to act when I first fell in love with her. I used to lean over the fence in front of her house and gaze at her shadow on the curtain, afraid to go in. And I act just the same way now when I get home late."

Too Much Money

"You can always tell the newly married folks," said the postmaster. "Here comes a recent bride now."

"How do you know?" demanded the traveling man curiously.

"See, she has a $5 bill to buy a few 2-cent stamps with," returned the knowing postmaster.

NECKING?

He—Grace and I entered an endurance contest in dancing.

She—How'd you come out?

He—Neck and neck.

Much Better

One reason I like the movies—
When dead an actor falls,
He can't revive amid applause
And take six curtain calls.

A Hint to Epicures

Wife—Have you really told the cook that she and her sweetheart are to dine with us? Is that quite the thing?

Husband—No. It isn't the thing, but I'm getting tired of his always having the best of all the food!—Vikingen, Oslo.

Travel

Homebody—The last time I saw the great Mr. Multirox was in Venice.

Benabroad—G'wan! You've never been in Venice.

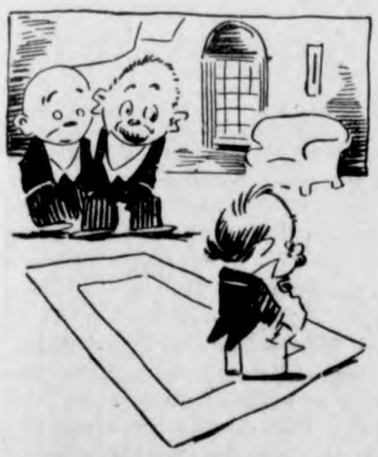
Homebody—I know it, but I've been to the movies.

Unique Idea

Flora—Bob told me last night that I was the most wonderful girl in the world.

Nora—My! He ought to patent that before it gets known.—Stray Stories.

JUST FALL IN PERHAPS



"He's a man of open mind."

"That explains how the ideas of so many other people get into it, I suppose."

Causes Summer Madness?

I bring the swatter down
And then I swear;
I find the pesky fly
Has gone from there.

Value Received

"Here's a quarter for you."

"Thanks," said the fortune teller. "You will soon inherit $20,000."

"Is that all?"

"That is all I can afford to prophesy for 25 cents."

The Last Word

Wife—Don't you dare speak to me again for a month.

Husband—D'you think you'll have finished all you want to say by then?—Passing Show (London).

Simple Explanation of Jones' Little Blunder

His wife was a tall brunette. Jones had waited on the appointed corner for her for 15 minutes and was beginning to grow impatient. At last he espied a tall, familiar-appearing figure coming down the street. She arrived at the corner, and he took her by the arm, saying: "Come, dear, we must hurry."

"Sir, how dare you?" the woman answered.

"Why, Hartie, what in the world—"

"Officer, this masher is attempting to be familiar with me," the tall woman said to a John Law who had just approached.

On his way to the station Jones had an opportunity to think it over. Suddenly it dawned on him—he had forgotten to remove his colored glasses and had accosted a blonde instead of his dark-haired spouse.—Washington Columns.

Their Presence Defined

She sat up in bed and clutched her husband's arm.

"Jack!" she whispered, hoarsely. "Burglars!"

"Nonsense!"

"It isn't nonsense! I tell you they're downstairs!"

"Well, I say they're not!"

"And I say they are!"

"Gently, gently!" growled a deep-voiced stranger, popping his head in at the door. "Your husband's right."

"What do you mean?" screamed the frightened wife.

"Why, that we're not downstairs," replied the burglar as he closed the door again. "We're upstairs. Goodnight."

Don't Forget Cuticura Talcum

When adding to your toilet requisites. An exquisite face, skin, baby and dusting powder and perfume, rendering other perfumes superfluous. You may rely on it because one of the Cuticura Trio (Soap, Ointment and Talcum), 25c each everywhere.—Advertisement.

Electric Street Railways

The first electric street railway to run successfully in the United States began operations in Richmond, Va., in 1888. That is only 37 years ago, but today there are in the country a total of 45,000 miles of track of electric street railways, and last year the 900 companies which form the street railway systems of the nation carried a total of 16,000,000,000 passengers, or nearly 160 times the total population of the country.

Not Sea Lingo

"I heard somebody under my window this morning," said the northern guest, "remarking, 'Yo ho.'"

"Yes, suh," said the southern host.

"A wandering sailor?"

"No, just a colored neighbor returning a garden implement."

African Gold Output

Although the output of African gold mines recently jumped $1,530,000 to $17,540,000 in a recent month, every effort is being made to reduce expenses.

In Suburbia

"My cook is threatening to leave."

"Mine went yesterday."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

What new bunk must be exploded today, is the task the press encounters at every issue.

Sure Relief FOR INDIGESTION

6 BELL-ANS Hot water Sure Relief

BELL-ANS

25¢ AND 75¢ PACKAGES EVERYWHERE

Alien Women Superior

Alien women seeking American naturalization in the United States usually meet the examination in naturalization court better than men. The percentage of women successfully passing the test in the eastern part of the United States is said to be considerably larger than that of the men.

TWICE IN THIS WOMAN'S LIFE

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her from Sickness to Health

Ellensburg, Washington. — "When I was first coming into womanhood I suffered terribly every month. My mother did everything she could think of, so she took me to several doctors and they only helped me a little. Mother was talking to another lady about my condition and she told mother of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mother got me six bottles and at the end of the first month I was much better, so I kept on taking it until I had no more pains. When I got married and had my first child I was in terrible pain so that it was impossible for me to do my housework. I thought of how the Vegetable Compound had been of so much benefit to me when I was a girl, so I went to Perier's Drug Store and got six bottles. It sure did help me and I still take it. I am a well woman today and I can't say too much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I will answer any letter that comes to me to answer about what your medicine has done for me." — Mrs. WILLIAM CARVER, R. F. D. No. 2, Ellensburg, Washington.

He Feels Like a Boy at Forty

"For over a year I suffered from headaches and constipation. Someone at my club suggested Beecham's Pills. I tried them and they relieved me. I'm only forty and I feel like a boy again after taking Beecham's Pills."
Mr. J. G., Yonkers, N. Y.

This man gives good advice. Follow it, and see how quickly digestive disorders, constipation and biliousness are overcome by Beecham's Pills.

For FREE SAMPLE—write
B. F. Allen Co., 417 Canal Street, New York
Buy from your druggist in 25 and 50c boxes

Beecham's Pills

OLD SORES, PILES AND ECZEMA VANISH

Good, Old, Reliable Peterson's Ointment a Favorite Remedy.

"Had 51 ulcers on my legs. Doctors wanted to cut off leg. Peterson's Ointment cured me."—Wm. J. Nichos, 40 Wilder Street, Rochester, N. Y.

Get a large box for 35 cents at any druggist, says Peterson, of Buffalo, N. Y., and money back if it isn't the best you ever used. Always keep Peterson's Ointment in the house. Fine for burns, scalds, bruises, sunburn, and the surest remedy for itching eczema and piles the world has ever known.

Boschee's Syrup for Coughs and Lung Troubles

Successful for 59 years. 30c and 90c bottles—ALL DRUGGISTS

RESINOL

Soothing and Healing Stops Itching

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Removes Dandruff-Stops Hair Falling
Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Wks., Patchogue, N.Y.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c by mail or at Druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

BATHE TIRED EYES with Dr. Thompson's Eyewater. Buy at your druggist's or 1169 River, Troy, N. Y. Booklet.

Scotch Infant Mortality

Ninety-eight out of every 1,000 babies born in Scotland in 1924 died before reaching their first birthday, according to the latest report of the Scottish registrar general. The birth rate for 1924 was the lowest recorded since the war. The United States infant mortality rate was 77 per 1,000 births in 1928.

I think the first wisdom is to restrain the tongue.—Cato.

Children Cry for

Fletcher's CASTORIA

MOTHER:— Fletcher's Castoria is especially prepared to relieve Infants in arms and Children all ages of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and, by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving natural sleep.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Absolutely Harmless - No Opiates. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

Halted Guns to Save Heroic Mother Bird

One day during the World war I was taking a battery of artillery along a grassy road, a writer in London Tit-Bits relates. The horses were trotting, and behind them the guns rumbled and swayed over ruts and stones.

Suddenly there appeared not fifty yards in front of the leading horses a dozen fluffy brown partridge "cheepers," tiny mites no bigger than sparrows, running hither and thither in the wildest panic before the approaching danger. With them was the mother bird. She chivvied them off into the grass on either side of the road, and then, when the last one had made its escape, turned and with open beak and half-spread wings faced the battery, daring them to come on.

Had the battery not been halted the bird would have given her life in an endeavor to ensure the safety of her chicks. As it was, she achieved her object by a display of real heroism in the face of hopeless odds.

This is a typical example of the way nature makes heroines of animal mothers, no matter how timid they may be when they have no family to care for. In defence of their helpless young, nature's heroines will face any creature that threatens their safety.

Species Unchanged for Eight Million Years

The longest pedigree in the world so far as science can discover belongs to the "sphenedon," which can boast an ancestry of eight million years duration. The sphenedon is found on a tiny island off the coast of New Zealand. There is nothing quite like it anywhere else. The sphenedon is a reptile and is a mixture of crocodile, snake, turtle, and lizard. As a matter of fact, it is probably the ancestor of all these creatures, but in the process of evolution through countless ages, the "children" have altered and split up into a hundred and one different "families." The sphenedon, however, has gone on its way unchanged and is exactly as it was eight million years ago. This pheristoric creature shows greatest similarity to the lizard. It has four short legs and a long tail. Its face is rather like that of a fish and there is a hard ridge on the top of its head and down its back. The dinosaur and other prehistoric animals are of quite recent date compared with the sphenedon. It is generally supposed that the dinosaur disappeared off the earth a mere three million years ago!

Influenza Ancient Enemy

Influenza has been known almost as long as man has been known. The word itself is derived from the ancient astrologers, who believed it to be caused by the "influence" of the stars. The disease has been unmistakably traced back to 1580. It was then prevalent in eastern Germany and was known, curiously enough, as sleeping sickness. It appeared again in the Eighteenth century, when epidemics of it were frequent and prolonged in most European countries. Among the famous people of long ago who suffered from it were Sir Isaac Newton, Goethe and Schiller. The great philosopher, Kant, was attacked by it, and he believed it was caused by noxious insects brought to western Europe as a result of trade with Russia.

Modern Heroine

Barbara was selfish, thirsty for pleasures of the most vulgar sort, amused herself by collecting adorers and treating them badly, was stupid and a liar—in other words, was one of the normal types of healthy young womanhood. I should have been less disturbed by these discoveries if only her face had been different. But with that dazzling and mysteriously lovely face she was a perpetual source of surprise and pain. In Barbara's company I was learning that it is possible to be profoundly and slavishly in love with some one for whom one has no esteem, whom one regards as a bad character, and who, finally, not only makes one unhappy, but bores one.—From "Those Barren Leaves," by Aldous Huxley.

Made Name Glorious

A world-famous battle was fought at Thermopylae in northern Greece on August 7, 8 and 9, 480 B. C., between three hundred Spartans and seven hundred Thespians, commanded by Leonidas and the entire Persian host. For four days Leonidas and his band held the pass of Thermopylae against the invaders, at the end of which time Ephialtes, a Trachinian, led the Persians over the mountains by a secret path to the rear of the Greeks, who were thus placed between two hostile armies and were finally cut to pieces. One Greek only escaped, and he is said to have been loaded with reproaches for having fled. —Kansas City Star.

Balance Your Diet

The balanced diet is the healthy one and contains all three of the important vitamines. The principal food value of bread and meat lies in their protein content but they are low in vitamines B and C, and if you would be sure of more balanced rations insuring plenty of each essential, use the citrus fruits often. The juice of the grapefruit has a high content of vitamines B and C that provide the proper amount of carbohydrates and salts. Grapefruit supplies the blood with an alkaline reserve which effectively combats acidosis.

—

...eed shall perish which the soul has sown.

—

It takes a woman to break a self-made man.

—

The straight and narrow path—the fire escape.

—

The handsomest flower is not always the sweetest.

—

It is not enough to be good. One must do it the right way.

—

Youngsters are true democrats; they play with whom they like.

—

No one who starts out to look for trouble has use for a gun.

—

If you leap into a well, Providence is not bound to help you out.

—

Evolution is not a force, but a process, not a cause, but a law.

—

Query: Is the poor man who marries a rich grass widow in clover?

—

When both husband and wife are saving, that family founds a fortune.

—

All evils are "giant evils" to those who have no faith in the human race.

—

When a bachelor gets tired of leading a single life he should get married and be led.

—

The atmosphere of the stock exchange is seldom tempered to suit the shorn lamb.

—

We never forget our duties, no matter how much we neglect them. They won't let us.

—

A man often lives for years before he discovers that salad oil is not naturally rancid.

—

Those who "notice" words have a large vocabulary; others merely stumble over them.

—

When a man goes fishing he may not catch a good string, but he usually comes home with a long yarn.

MORE THAN WAITER WOULD STAND FOR

Ludwig Kleinwachter, Austrian consul to Chicago, said at a recent banquet:

"In prewar days, when France's silver coinage was simply rampant with counterfeits, a foreigner could hardly make a purchase without getting a handful of silver coins in change, all of them bad.

"An Austrian one day, after lunching at a Monte Carlo restaurant, started off to get his coffee at the Cafe de Paris when his waiter rushed down the street after him yelling:

"'Thief, rascal, I'll have you pinched.'

"'What's the matter with you?' said the astonished Austrian.

"'You miserable thief,' roared the waiter, 'that bad two-franc piece that I gave you in change you actually had the nerve to give me back as a tip.'"

Might Be Possible

A boy patient at a hospital had a squint, and was consulting one of the doctors about it.

"Does he ever see double?" said the doctor to his mother.

"Can't exactly say that, sir," she replied, and then, trying to be helpful, she added, "He's one of twins, though —p'r'aps he does."

Misplaced Sympathy

An elephant was walking in a jungle when he came to a pheasant's nest and found that the mother-bird had flown away. The small birds looked very lonely and cold and hungry.

"Poor little things," said the elephant, in a sentimental voice. "They have no mother." And down he sat on the nest.

Hustling World

Billy Sunday, fully recovered from his serious illness, said in Rochester the other day:

"Well the world's all wrong, of course, but it's a hustling world—no doubt about that.

"Yes, sir," he ended, "it's a world where if you're not up and doing you're down and done."

Missed His Offspring

A farmer sent the following letter to the admiralty:

"My youngest son has gone away and enlisted in the navy. I can't get him out. Won't you help me? He is a good boy and I was bringing him up for my own use."

Observant Tommy

Suitor—Tommy, does a young man call here in the evening to see your sister?

Tommy—Not exactly to see her, because there's no light in the room when he's there.

No Longer Quiet Zone

"You live in a quiet part of the town, don't you?"

"Not now."

"Have you moved?"

"No, I've got twins."

America on Wheels

There are 80 times as many automobiles per capita in the United States as there are in Germany.

Jig Jog Jags

A Little Joshing Now and Then Will Get the Goat of Many Men

NOTICE TO MY CREDITORS

One said, "I'll see you tomorrow."
He went blind.
Another said, "I'll pay you next week if I'm alive."
He died.'
The third said, "I'll pay you or go to H——."
He's gone.

OF COURSE NOT!

Mrs. Van de Puyster (noticing young clerk about to fall from ladder): Great Heavens! That young man is losing his equilibrium!

Fresh Salesgirl—If youse were a lady youse wouldn't notice such a thing!

Mike—Wher'd ya get the black eye, feller, been fightin'?"

Ike—Nah! A butterfly bit me.

Ya can lead a horse to water,
But can't make him drink.
Yo could give a skunk a Turkish bath!
But still the cuss would be odorierous!

Sunday School Teacher—Whos aw the handwriting on the wall, Bobby?

Bobby—The landlord, mum.

ABSOLUTELY

Do not ridicule,
This advice oh, my son
Stay in front of a mule
And stay back of a gun.

Sounds Reasonable

Q. Who were the first inventors of advertising slogans?

A. NOAH and Mrs. NOAH. They were sitting on the foreward deck of the ark. which had just put off from the dock with all the animals aboard. Smells were abundant from the direction of the menagerie.

"What a whale of a difference a few scents make," remarked NOAH.

"Your nose knows," replied Mrs. NOAH.

WRONG NUMBER

A lady bought some liver at a butcher shop, and on returning home found that through some error in wrapping she had received a spoiled piece. She rang up the shop at once and complained of it to the butcher's assistant.

He called to his boss: "There's a lady on the phone with a liver complaint. What shall I tell her?"

"Tell her this is the butcher shop,' said the boss, "what she wants is a doctor.'"

"Mabel looks like a million tonight."

"I know, but she's really only thirty-two."

THEY'RE QUICKLY RENTED

She—where can I get a Cleopatra's costume for the Art's Ball?

He—At any jewelry store.

A city man stopped a farmer with the idea of finding out where he could get a drink.

City Man.—Is it dry out here, Si?

Si—Yep, so gol darned dry out here you haf to pin the postage stamps on letters to keep 'em from fallin' off."

"What are you taking for your cold?"

"Make me an offer."

Son—Mother, who put the statue under the kitchen sink?

Mother—Sssh sonny, don't make any noise. That's the plumber.

Prof.—Name a collective noun.

Stude—Vacuum cleaner.

First Steno—The idea of working steady eight hours a day. I wouldn't think of such a thing.

Second Steno—Neither would I. It was the boss who thought of that.

Girl— You kiss as though you'd done a lot of it. How did you learn so wll?

Boxer—Well, I've kissed the carpet a bit, you see.

Co-ed (looking at football pants) What's them

Athlete— Football pants.

Co-ed: I never saw a football in them.

"How many children have you?"

Three, and that's all three ever will be."

"What makes you so positive of that?'"

"Because it says in this paper that every fourth child born in the world in a Chinese."

GOODELL NEWS ITEMS

Rev. D. W. Thompson returned from the Hampton hospital and is recovering nicely from his recent operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Grabor and Mr. and Mrs. Beer returned Saturday night from a two weeks fishing trip in Minnesota.

Mrs. Chas. Chelsvig and baby returned from Hampton this week.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Carpenter Sr. have left Butte Montanna, enroute Spokane, Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson and daughter Marjory and her friend were visiting at the Leon Sherwood home Sunday.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Letch are glad to see them back to town again.

J. J. Griggs was a business caller in Belmond Thursday.

The funeral services of Jim Quigley were held in the Goodell Catholic Church Friday morning. The Quigley families and other relatives and friends of the deceased surely have the most sincere sympathy that the community can extend toward them in their sad hour of bereavement.

The Nesse's are enjoying a visit from relatives from Story City.

Erwin Beer and family visited the Lew Avery home Sunday.

Ed. Hemingway and mother, also Winifred Tison were visiting relatives in Mason City Thursday.

Jay Griggs was a Clarion caller Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Ole Morestead and son of New Richland, Minn. are visiting at the Lewis Johnson home this week.

Many from here are planning to accompany the crowd that is to drive to Ames for the Field Day" demonstration Tuesday.

Jake Bachman and Frank Rhodes were Mason City and Clear Lake callers Saturday.

The Ben Remer children of Le Mars are visiting at the Jae Bachman home.

Mr. and Mrs. Col. Thomas and daughters Chole and Vernedo were Mason City shoppers Thursday.

Mildred Fuller was writing teacher's examinations in Garner Wednesday and Thursday.

Mrs E. J. Schneider took a car of young girls to Eagle Lake to the Club Peoples picnic.

CANNING CLUBS MEET

The "Klassy Kanners" and "Capitol Canners of Avery and Twin Lake townships met at ahe home of Mrs. E. J. Schneider, instead of Mildred Fuller.

As Miss Fuller could not be present Mrs. Schneider took charge of the meeting and demonstrated the dressing and canning of chicken.

Avery had a business meeting and appointed Eunice Wesenberg as Secretary as Viola Quigley resigned the office. After the meeting adjourned lemonade and cake were served by the hostess and the girls all had an enjoyable afternoon. It was undecided whese the next meting will be held.

— Pub. Secretary.

NEW LAW JULY 1

Word received from Des Moines says that a new law will go into effect July 1, and before it goes into effect several persons will necessarily consult attorneys to ascertain if they are among the persons included in the list of restricted business factors. The law provides: Section 1. It shall be unlawful for any person or co-partnership to engage in or conduct a business under any trade name, or any assumed name of any character other than the true surname of each person or persons owning or having any interest in such business, unless such persons or persons shall file with the county recorder of the county in which the business is to be conducted a verified statement showing the name, postoffice address, and residence address of each person owning or having an interest in the business and the address where the business is to be conducted. A like verified statement shall be filed of any change in ownership of the business, or person interested therein, and the original owners shall be liable for all obligations until such certificate of change is filed."

This law does not affect corporations, such as milling companies, railroad companies, banks, etc. It is similar to the postal regulation that has been in force for several years, and which deals with the names ,ownership and management of newspapers, except that newspapers published by corporations must also report. The law will apply to numerous real estate companies, remedy companies, manufacuuring componies, some advertising, dental and medical partnerships, and a flock of companies that do business that advertise their towns. These title need not be changed, but owners of the concerns will be required to identify themselves. —Algona Upper Des Moines Republican.

THE SUICIDE MONTH

Few branches of sociologica' investigation present a greater number of speculative questions than that dealing with the inexplicable phenomena of suicide.

Suicide among civilized people is largely due to morbid introspection and long brooding over real or imaginary trouble; and anything that takes a man's mind away from his own unhappiness, and gives him a keen interest in things or events about him, weakens his suicidal impulse.

It is found that the clear, dry days show the greatest number of suicides and the wet, partly cloudy days the least, and the differences too great ly attributed to accident or chance. In fact, as a rule, the tendency to suicide throughout the civilized world is greatest in the pleasantest season of the year.

When investigators began to study the subject in the light of accurate statistics, when they grouped suicides by months and compared one month withanother, they were surprised to find that the tendency to suicide was greatest, not in the gloomy and depressing months of November and December, but in the bright and cheerful month of June.

From the point of view of science is is perfectly reasonable and absolutely accurate to say on a beautiful and sunny day in early June, "This is regular suicide weather."

BUT SHE HOLDS THE CLASS

"Teacher's pet, teacher's pet!"
"No, they don't. I tried it.'"

GRADUATE BY RADIO

Those who receive oral instruction by radio from the State University of Iowa at Iowa City, by a system of study and recitation by mail, may receive credit in a regular university course. From Iowa City June 10th, came the report that Clifford Lidden of Burlington, is the first radio graduate of the University of Iowa. He was conferred an A. B. dergee by radio, President W. A Jessup doing the announcing. Crippled by illness when a freshman, Mr. Lidden kept up his study by listening in on lessons radiocasted from station WSUI.

Belmond Scouts Complete Cabin

Belmond—The Boy Scouts cabin in the grove is ready for use for the summer and the boys with their leader held a meeting their Tuesday evening. This fall more work will be done to make the cabin comfortable for the boys for winter.

THIS IS THE RIGHT PLACE

To buy your Cigars, Cigarettes, Smoking and Chewing Tobacco—our stock is always nice and fresh.

We carry a complete line of box and bulk fancy candy.

Refreshing soft drings.

And, why not step in and play a social game of pool while in town?

SMITH'S BILLARD HALL

Haying Tools-

We handle the reliable NEY line of track, Slings and Forks. Our line of tools for haying is complete in every way and you can get just what you want here.

HAL ROPE—We have about 6,000 feet of guaranteed Pure Manila Hay Rope in 3 and 4 strand.

PULLEYS—We carry a large line on hand in all sizes.

OTHER SUPPLIES—Here are a number of other items you may need and we carry a full stock: Pitch Forks, Clevices, Hay Rack Irons, Thermo Jugs, etc.

OIL & GREASE—We carry a full line of oil in all grades, castor machine oil, hard oil and axle grease. Bring your own containers and buy oil and grease in bulk, it will save you money.

REPAIRS—Order your Hay Track and other repairs now and have them on hand when needed.

OIL CANS—We have a wide assortment of of oil cans, everything from an oil can for a sewing machine to a locomotive oil can.

Jacobs & Son

Owning Your Own Home

What greater pleasure can you get out of life than that experienced by owning your own home? You can improve and beautify it to suit your own taste and convience. Your family will enjoy it more than anything else you can do for them.

Begin a plan of saving. You will be surprised how the funds will accumulate. Soon you will have enough to build or buy a home.

First National Bank.

KLEMME, IOWA.

THE KLEMME TIMES

enty-ninth Year—Number 44. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, JULY 9, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

ANNUAL FINANCIAL REPORT OF KLEMME SCHOOLS

OW AND WHERE THE SCHOOL FUNDS WERE SPENT

nancial Report of the Independent School of Klemme

Receipts

lance on hand last report	$ 3,792.21
ceived from District Tax	$10,730.80
ceived from Semi- Annual apportionment	318.00
ceived from Tuition	3,468.00
ceived from sale of books	415.88
ceived from Interest on Deposits	65.58
ceived from other sources	165.53
ceived from School House Fund	3,217.45
TOT AL	$22,173.45

Disbursements

vi Neese	1999.98
R. Blue	1,350.00
ss L. Abel	1,350.00
ss McKahan	660.00
ss Woods	825.00
ss Panzlau	990.00
ss Lavrein	990.00
ss Thomson	990.00
ss O'Neil	990.00
nil Patet; Janitor	926.25
rst National Bank; Light, Interest on Bonds and Warrants	279.53
Lau; Drayage	30.80
W. Kluckhohn & Sons; Supplies	203.80
m Roths; Drayage	45.84
r Fytr Co; Fire Extinguishers	71.25
emme Times; Adv. Bills & etc.	70.55
rner Leader; adv.	4.00
nerican Book Co.; Books	92.27
wa Falls Electric; Light Bills	41.92
andard Oil Co.; Floor Oils	29.65
lyn & Bacon; Books	49.01
ed Arnold, Jr.; Painting	43.30
ub Lewis; Painting	42.50
Arvidson; Digging	8.40
m. Bachman, Plastering	1.00
ott Farseman & Co.; Books	47.41
iversity Pub. Co.; Books	14.02
Miller & Co.; Books	36.51
ate Bank, Interest on Bonds and Light Bills	186.20
Wellemeyer, Freight on Desks Supplies and so forth	198.24
vers Berdett Co.; Books	14.58
ul Grange, Secretary	50.00
hite Phillips Co.; Int. on Bonds	150.00
G. Seney; Supplies	7.70
nn & Co.; Books	66.41
gust Ridder; Labor	43.95
Jahnke; Labor	47.50
P. Larsen; Meats	2.21
s. Keeper; Cleaning	10.15
rcaurt & Co.; Books	3.48
A. Zeidler; Labor	2.60
H. Yahnke; Labor	4.50
ane & Co.; Books	14.61
Grange; Stationery, Stamps, etc.	7.69
Appleton & Co.; Books	16.75
tropolitan Supply Co; Books	124.73
M. Welch & Co.; Lab. Supplies	25.81
N. Palmer; Books	5.92
aha Supply Co.; Supplies	73.10
escent Pub. Co.; Cards	2.15
H. Andrews; Desks	458.40
ghton Mifflin Co.; Books	8.63
C. Burchord Co.; Books	5.85
F. Pavey; Drives and Blacksmith	21.20
Jensen; Drives	11.50
o. M. Bechtel Co.; Interest	100.00
y Jorgenson; Drive	2.00
A. Arnold; Drive	3.50
W. Lemke; Drive	7.50
C. Larson; Drive	7.50
D. Gimer; Drive	4.00
s. Ridder; Drive	4.00
wn of Klemme; water	61.29
Poort; Drive	4.00
rthern Lbr. Co.; Lumber etc.	131.35
obe-Gazette; Paper	3.50
t. Neese; Stamps, Express etc.	16.43
Jacobs; Supplies	37.20
on & Healey; Books	4.89
chen Bros.; Blacksmith	6.30
Gimer; Drives	10.00
H. Schmitz; Tuning & Repair pianos	19.00
First National Bank, Council Bluffs; Interest on Bond	100.00
Acres Blockman & Co; Poll Book	1.81
Miss Colcord; Coaching girls	99.77
Mrs. Davenport; Interest on Warrant no. 3.	60.00
St. Paul, Books Co.; Books	23.35
Ellis Pub. Co.; Books	2.92
W. Lau; Coal	294.70
A. Greimann; Drive	15.00
S. Trumbell; Drive	5.00
Arvil Grimsley Coach	40.00
Ell A. Rawles; Books	4.93
M. O. Barr Express	.37
Miss Woods; Play Expense	13.91
E. Blue; Orchestra Supplies	10.25
E. L. Waterman; Address	47.73
F. S. Denison; Royalty	15.00
Harten School Supply Co.; Supplies	35.1
H. C. Mason; Filling in Diplomas	2. 50
Farmers Elev. Co.; Coal	19.50
F. Senniff; Legal Advice	10.00
Warrant No. 2, W. H. Hoffman	300.00
Bond No. 1.	1000.00
Balance on Hand	5902.26
TOT AL	$22,173.45

CHURCH NOTES

A. W. Gauger, Pastor

All services in our Klemme Church will be regular next Sunday. We hope that the splendid audience of last Sunday will be duplicaaed.

In Liberty Church we will have a varied program next Sunday morning. After the S. S. hour our exercises will begin with the entire school that attended the Vacation Bible School. When they will show what they have learned in and about the bible.

After this thec lass that finished catechism will be publicly examined and will receive their certificates of graduation. This will be followed by the reception into membership of such who are not already members.

At the conclusion, parent and children will receive the sacramen of the Lord's Supper.

Our new song books—the gift of several parties not members of Liberty church were used for the first time last Susday and are a timely improvement. They are appreciated very much. We are likewise geting book racks to hold these new books.

LAW PASSED TO AID FARMER WITH CROP

Will Enable Him to Hold Crop Until Price is Right

DES MOINES—"The purpose of the warehousing law is not to encourage speculation, but to enable the farmer to hold his crop in the farm until such a time as the price justifies the selling," states M. G. Thornburg, secretary of agriculture.

The record of low and high corn prices for the past ten years shows that usually the spread is great enough to pay all the expenses. In years of heavy supplies and low prices, in the fall, the record shows that a profit could have been made by properly warehousing the product.

If the present outlook for corn results is a high yield, and the reduction in the spring pig crop is as large as the preliminary reports indicate, the corn-hog situation in Iowa in the fall of 1925 will be quite similar to that of 1921.

Large corn crops often result in fewer dollars in net returns to the Iowa farmers. Big crops do not necessarily mean prosperity. The favorable corn outlook for this year, combined with the smaller pig crop, may again provide an opoprtunity for extended use of the Iowa warehousing law.

The Times is a little late this week as we had a breakdown on the Linotype which delayed us some.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS

Paul M. Griesemer wf to State Savings Bank, Klemme, W. D. date 6-29-25, $1.00, SE¼ 36-95-23.

Mrs. L. A. Cloon to to Fred Nolte. W. D. date 5-23-25, $140.00 lots 20 21, blk 1, Clines add to Goodell.

A. G. Schultz wf to John Suurballe, W. D. date 5-28-25, $1500.00 lot 4, blk 16, Garner.

Fred J. Albers wf to Geo. Albers W. D. 7-2-25, $1.00 SE¼ 21-95-23.

Fred J. Albers wf to Lubbe Albers W. D. date 7-2-25, $1.00 Und: ¼ interest in Nfr½ of NE¼ 3-94-23.

E. P. Hanson, Shff. to T. K. Whipple, Sheriff's Deed, date 6-16-25, $19,397.81, NE¼ 16-94-24.

Nettie A. Stanfield hus to Geo. M. Whiteis, Q. C. D. daae 6-29-25, $1 NE¼ SE¼ 21-97-23.

Harm Roskamp wf to Emily John son W D date 6-30-25, $1.00 E½ SE¼ E½ W½ SE¼ 20-94-25.

Oscar E. Johneson et al to Harm Roskamp, W D date 6-30-25, $1.00, lot 6 & 8 ft lot 5, blk 10, Kanawha, Salstrum.

Nellie J. Thomas to Frank B. Mc Connell Q C D date 6-24-25, lots 3-4-5-7 zlk 3, Standrings add Corwith

Emma Mudgett to B. B. Castle W D. date 5-23-25, $800, lot 15, blk7 Andersons Add Britt.

Editor and Mrs. R. A. Jorgenson and son Buster returned Tuesday evening rom a week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Chapman at Kansas City, Missouri. We left Kansas City at 6:30 a. m. and got back in Klemme at 10:00 p. m., driving a distance of 387 miles, mostly over dirt roads and some mud in Missouri. Next week we will write a short sketch of our trip telling of the crops and other things of general interest to our readers.

THE BANK SITUATION

Almost every day The Times Office is asked concerning the situation of the State Savings Bank which was closed last week Monday. No statement has yet been issued regarding the loss. The bank is under the charge of the state department until a receiver is appointed here. Forgery has been admitted but at this time no statement has been given as to the amount of forged paper. Rumors are current and much talk is heard and it is said that the shortage may run close to $100,000, or even more. Greisemer and Wenck are out under bonds and will have a hearing July 25th in Justice H. L. Suckow's court.

IOWA BUTTERMAKERS LEAD AGAIN

Des Moines, Iowa, July 8,—Iowa buttermakers are hot on the trail of their third consecutive banner as National champions in the creamery butter contest recently held at St. Paul Minnesota, according to information which has reached the Iowa Department of Agriculture.

In the preliminary scoring which was recently conducted, Iowa had 24 of the 32 highest scoring tubs of butter F. P. Gernard, Volga City, Iowa, and Paul L. Smith, Rockwell, Iowa were tied for the first honors with scores of 95.5.

Jill (thrilled)—Just think, Harry comes from the great open spaces where men are men—"

Jack (disgustedly)—And women are governors.

One of Klemme's Oldest Men Passed Away July 4th

REV. GOTTLEIB HAEFNER WAS NEARLY 89 YEARS OLD

Was Oldest Member of German Methodist Conference at Time of His Death

This community was greatly saddened upon hearing of the death of Rev. Gottleib Haefner, more commonly called "Grandpa" Haefner, on the morning of July 4th. He is very well known in Klemme and surrounding community, having been a resident of Klemme for the past sixteen years since he has retired from active ministerial work, and was pastor at three different times of the German Methodist church of Klemme and Liberty charges.

He has been sick for several weeks, his death being caused by laryngitis. If he had lived until September 24, he would have been 89 years old. He has been a member of the German Methodist conference for 54 years and at the time of his death, he was the oldest minister in the German conference.

Funeral services were held Monday in the Methodist church and, owing to the fact that he was a German Methodist minister services were almost entirely in the German language. Many important members of that conference were present to help conduct the services.

The obituary of Rev. Heifner will be found in this issue.

REV. GOTTLIEB HAEFNER

Rev. Gottlieb Haefner was born in Ernsbach, Wurtenberg, Germany, September 24, 1836. A s a young man of 19 years he and his brother, Charles, came to America and was engaged in business at Giard, Iowa, for number of years. During this time he felt his call to God's service and entered the ministery. In 1872 he started in his ministerial career, which he faithfully followed until 1911, when he retired from active service on account of hjs age.

In 1863 he was united in marriage withElizabeth Weber, nee, Mann. To this union were born five children, two of which died in infancy. On April 30, 1895, while he was minister on the Klemme and Germantown charge, his wife was taken from him by death.

On November 14, 1896, he was united in marriage with Mrs. Louisa Stille of Klemme, Iowa, who was a faithful helpmate to him in his work.

For several months, after an attach of the Grippe, his health has been gradually failing. Although everything possible was done that he might regain his health, he grew weaker and weaker, until on the morning of July 4th, the final summons came and he went to his reward.

Through his faithful service in the church and his sincere Christian life, his pleasant and cheerful disposition, he endeared himwith whom he came in contact.

He leaves to mourn his death, his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Lydia Roth of Santa Ana, California, Mrs. Martha Remer, of Le Mars, Iowa, two sons, Joseph of Creswell, Oregon and Wesley of Klemme; three sons and three daughters of Mrs. Haefner, Wm. Herman and John Stille, Mrs. E. H. Schuldt, Mrs. F. Gruetzmacher and Mrs. J. H. Terhufen, all of Klemme , with all their children and grandchildren; also a brother Charles of Giard, Iowa

Owing to the fact that Rev. Haefner was a member of the German M. E. conference, the funeral service were conducted by the District Superintendent, Rev. T. H. Hhiel. Rev. Henke, a close friend of the deceased, gave a sketch of his ministerial career. Rev. Wessel. a distant relative, spoke in the English language. Rev. John Klaus of Charles City, Rev. Wentland of St. Charles, and Rev. Gauger of Klemme also took part in the services.

Interment was made in Liberty township.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank those who helper with their services and kind words of sympathy during the death of our beloved husband and father. Also for the beautiful floral offerings.

Mrs. Louisa Haefner, and Children.

The most popular man in the world is going to be the one who can devise a satisfactory 100 per cent reduction in taxes.

HAVE YOU COMPLIED WITH NEW TRADE NAME LAW?

MANY KLEMME BUSINESSES MUST FILE UNDER RULING

Blanks May Be Procured of Counay Recorder's Office At Garner

The Times has published several articles regarding the new law that went into effect on July 4 which requires everyone conducting a business under any name other than their true surname to file an affidavit with the County Recorder setting out who are the owners of such business and their location. Many names have been filed the past week but there are still a large number who have overlooked the matter. We are this week publishing the law and also a list of those who have filed.

Trades Names Law

Chapter 183, 41st G. A.

Section 1. Verified Statement—It shall be unlawful for any person or copartnership to engage in or conduct a business under any trade name, or any assumed name of any character other than the true surname of each person or persons owning or having any interest in such business, unless such person or persons shall first file with the county recorder of the county in which the business is to be conducted a verified statement showing the name, postoffice address, and residence address of each person owning or having any interest in the business, and the address where the business is to be conducted. A like verified statement shall be filed of any change in ownership of the business, or persons interested therein, and the original owners shall be liable for all obligations until such certificate of change is filed.

Section 2. Penalty for Violation.—Any person violating the provisions of this act shall, upon conviction, be punishable by a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars ($25) nor more than one hundred dollars $(100.00), or by imprisonment in the county jail for a term not exceeding thirty (30) days, and each day that any person or persons violate the provisions of this act shall be deemed to be a separate and distinct offense.

Trade Names Filed

Following is a list of names of those who have filed the past week as we take them from the Hancock County Daily Report. Those whose names have been filed since the report was issued will be published in the Times next week and thereafter as we receive them.

S. & S. Cafe, Britt—owners, W. F. and Staples.

Vincent Hardware Co., Britt,—Owner, J. E. Vincent.

C. J. Schneider, Garner, owners, Carl H. & Harold B. Schneider.

Garner Motor Sales Co., Garner, owners C. E. Barnes and N. E. Brear.

Britt Kandy Kitchen, Britt.—Owners: Constantines & Geo. Japadake.

Smith & Edgren, owners,—O. C. Edgren and H. H. Smith, Britt.

Steve's Cafe, Britt—owners: H. L. McNary and N. P. Nelson.

Lewis & Vickerman, Britt,—Owners, C. P. Lewis, H. R. Vickerman and E. M. Elsham.

Paulson Garage, Britt— owners: S. H. and C. H. Paulson.

O. H. Stilson Land Co., Corwith —owners Oliver H. Stilson, Jas. L. Oxley, and Geo. H. Oxley.

Stilson & Oxley, Corwith— owners: Same as last above

Garner Dress Club,—Garner, — Owners, Grace S. and Mae R. Wedoo.

Kanawha Motor Co., Kanowha,— Owners. C. M. Mikkelson and L. H. Medgaarde.

Coliseum Pantatorium, Britt, — owner: Carl Korneisel.

Heckerson and Tande, Kanawha —Owners, Lewis Heckerson and S. S. Tande.

Judd Hardware Co., Kanawha, — owner G. W. Judd.

Alcove, Britt,—Owner F. J. Redden.

Dahl & Mitchell,—Owner, O. E. Dahl.

Reibsamen Bros., Britt,—Owners Piercy and Forest D. Reibsamen.

Rickets Service Station, Britt, — owner Harry D. Ricketts.

Richardson Bros. Britt, —owner J. N. and Russel D. Richardson.

Crystal Service Station.—Crysaal Lake, —owner Chris Boddum.

Lamoreux Auto Co., Britt, —owners, F. M. Humphrey, L. W. Hess, and Victor Lamoreux.

Bailey's Cut Rate Grocery, Britt, —owner John A. Bailey.

O. E. Johnson Drug Co.. Kanawha owners—Oscar E. Johnson.

Carlston Brothers, Kanawha, — owners A. F. E. Carlston and Roy Carlston.

City Meat Market, Kanawha— owners: F. A. Prelip and J. A. Wenzel.

Victoria Hotel, Garner,— owner: T. W. Foley.

Medi's Cafe, Corwith, — Owner Nesin Medi.

City Meat Market & Kinseth Bros Corwith—owners B. N. and T. L. Kinseth.

Corner Store, Corwith, —owner: R. J. Clapsaddle.

Cattle Sales Company, Britt.— owners E. J. and Homer C. Wilson.

P. & R. Garage, Garner, owners B. L. Prouty, and E. A Rekow

Gildner-Clarke Co, Garner, Owners W. E. Gildner, A. J. Gildner, E. E. Gildner and Gordon B. Clarke.

Motor Inn, Corwith, Owner M. B. Magne.

The Quality Store of Ross and Zweifel, Corwith, —owners B. A. Ross and J. A. Zweifel.

ADVISE KEEPING MORE SOWS

Animal Husbandry Men Believe It is Good Business to Raise Large Pig Crop Next Spring

"It looks like good business for Iowa farmers to keep a few more than the normal number of sows this fall, to breed for the next spring farrow," says A. L. Anderson of the animal husbandry department, Iowa State College.

Here are the reasons why Mr. Anderson believes hogs will be good property next year. The annual June 1 pig survey report of the United States Department of Agriculture, which is just out, shows that 11 per cent less pigs were raised this spring than a year ago. It also shows that farmers expected to breed only 98 percent as many sows for fall farrow as they did last year, which means that the number actually bred will probably be considerable less. These figures indicate that the present shortage of hogs will not be overcome for at least a year.

Along with the apparent shortage of hogs in sight, the corn prospects for this fall are excellent at the present at this time, and even now, with corn ony a little under a dollar, Mr. Anderson says that the corn-hog price ratio is sufficiently satisfactory so that a man can afford to buy corn to feed hogs. He believes that everything points to lower corn prices, with assuredly satisfactory hog prices for another year at least.

While a number of factors might enter in to change the present situation, Mr. Anderson believes that it looks good for the hog raiser at present to p' n on an increase in his business for the coming year.

WEATHER MAN UPSETS THE CORN DOPE

Des Moines, Iowa, July 8.— Sunshine in June does not always result in everyone remaining happy. This year, June temperatures averaged two degrees above normal.

In the last 35 years, when June temperatures have been above normal, July has had deficient rainfall more than eight out of ten times.A dry July is generally a hot one.

"This explains why a high condition of corn on July 1st is not always followed by a bumper corn crop," states the Iowa Weather and Crop Service, in their report to the Iowa Department of Agriculture.

WIRELESS PHONE PROVES SUCCESS

Sisters Converse on Liners Which Are 150 Miles Apart.

New York.—Two sisters, Mrs. Morris Sempler of this city, returning from Europe on the liner Columbus, and Mrs. Emil Berolzheimer on the Deutschland, talked to each other by wireless telephone across 150 miles of the Atlantic.

This was reported when the Columbus docked here, bringing a recently invented wireless telephone device. A conversation at sea, words going each way, is new in the science of sound transmission.

Chief wireless operator of the Columbus, Carl Gerstung, said in his use of the new invention to talk to other ships the results in most cases were very satisfactory. The new system is controlled by the Telefunken company of Germany.

The apparatus is a duplex receiving and sending set, according to Mr. Gerstung. It operates on a wave length of 1,800 or 1,400 meters. Experiments with the device have been under way for more than two years.

The new system makes wireless telephone conversation possible by overcoming the interference between the receiving and sending antennae, which heretofore has prevented the simultaneous operation of the receiving and sending apparatus.

All But Two Members of Cabinet Are on Vacations

Washington.—With President Coolidge at Swampscott, his cabinet, one by one, is drifting to summer scenes more pleasant than places at departmental desks.

Secretaries Kellogg and Mellon left on Thursday, Mr. Kellogg for a vacation at St. Paul, and Mr. Mellon for his country place on Long island.

Secretaries Jardine, Work, Hoover and Wilbur are in the West. Secretary Weeks is recuperating from his illness in Massachusetts. Secretary Davis is out of the city, and will leave soon for Europe.

Postmaster General New has been absent, but has returned to his desk, and Attorney General Sargent has also resumed his routine at the Department of Justice after a trip to New England.

The latter two are the only cabinet members in town.

50,000 Witness Bouts for Charity in Gotham

New York.—Harry Greb, middleweight champion, retained his crown after 15 rounds of vicious fighting against Mickey Walker, welterweight king.

Harry Wills, colored heavyweight, knocked out Charley Weinert in the second of their scheduled 15-round bout.

David Shade of California, shadow of the boy Greb trimmed, knocked out Jimmy Slattery, pride of Buffalo, in the third of their scheduled six-round encounter.

These three paragraphs tell in a nutshell just what happened at the Italian hospital fund show at the Polo grounds which was witnessed by a crowd estimated at 50,000.

Modernist Baptists Win Two Fights at Convention

Seattle, Wash.—Modernists won two victories in sessions of the northern Baptist convention here.

Fundamentalists who sought to prevent delegates from the Park Avenue Baptist church of New York from being seated went down to defeat, 912 to 364. A resolution asking the recall of modernist missionaries from foreign fields was voted down, 742 to 574.

After the modernists' victory, all accredited delegates were seated on motion of Dr. W. S. Abernathy of Washington.

Fundamentalist leaders served notice a motion to amend the by-laws would be presented next year. It would require two years to consummate such action.

Scopes Case May Go to Tennessee Federal Court

New York.—New moves in the defense of John T. Scopes, indicted for violation of the Tennessee law against teaching evolution, were discussed here in a long conference of defense attorneys.

Although the lawyers refused to make public their plans it was reported that they debated taking the case away from the Circuit court at Dayton, Tenn., and carrying it to the Federal court at Nashville, there seeking to enjoin the state from enforcing the anti-evolution law on the grounds that it is unconstitutional.

Mansion Sold for $4,000,000

New York.—The old Collis P. Huntington mansion, at the southeast corner of Fifth avenue and Fifty-seventh street, was sold for $4,000,000 by Archer M. Huntington to the Schulte Real Estate company.

Town to Discard Street Cars

Hattiesburg, Miss.—Motor busses will replace street cars in Hattiesburg as a result of a vote on Wednesday of 527 to 31 in favor of the proposed change.

NELSON JOHNSON

Nelson Johnson is the newly appointed chief of the division of far eastern affairs in the State department. He is a native of Washington, has been on duty in the department since 1918 and has held various posts in China.

NIGHT AIR MAIL NOW A REALITY

New York-Chicago Linked by Latest Achievement.

Chicago.—Night air mail service between Chicago and New York was inaugurated with planes flying either way with matter for early delivery.

The departure of the first planes was regarded as an epochal event in aviation development in the United States, with the success of the government air mail to date pointing the way for further achievements.

The first planes to take off carried the greetings of public officials of one city to the other and also communications from heads of commercial organizations of the two cities telling of the importance of the service to the business of the nation.

To give Cleveland, which is on the route, the opportunity to view its arrival there in daylight, the first plane, a De Havilland with a 400-horsepower Liberty motor, to depart from New York in the inauguration of the service from this terminus, took off from Maywood field at 7:30, daylight saving-time, just two hours ahead of the established schedule.

It carried, as a part of its first load, a box of flowers for Mr. John Coolidge, father of the President. The flowers were the gift of Vice President Charles G. Dawes, who took the principal part in the ceremonies inaugurating the service, with an address which was broadcast from every station in the Chicago district.

Milk Co-Operative Firm Forced Into Receivership

Chicago.—The Milk Producers Co-Operative company, formerly operating in Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin, was put into the hands of receivers by Federal Judge Wilkerson.

John T. Williams, president of the company; T. R. Keene, secretary, and Charles E. Wing, treasurer, were appointed receivers. Three farmers filed the petition.

According to the petition, the company owes the petitioners nearly $100,000, loaned on ten-year bonds. The interest has not been paid, according to the petition.

The company was organized by nearly 1,000 farmers in the three states. They invested a total of $293,000 in the project, according to Attorney E. W. Roemer.

Six plants, four of which are in operation, are valued at $250,000, Mr. Roemer stated. Litigation is believed to be under way to sell the company's plants.

Special Bonus Bureau Discontinues Work

Washington.—Discontinuance of the adjusted compensation branch of the adjutant general's office was announced by the War department. The claims of approximately 70 per cent of all veterans entitled to bonuses have been adjudicated, and future claims will be handled by the World war division, adjutant general's office, which previously carried on the work. It was stated the move in no way affects the handling of applications, but reduces the cost of administration.

Miss Mary McSkimmon Elected Head of N. E. A.

Indianapolis.—Miss Mary McSkimmon, president of the Pierce school, Brookline, Mass., was elected president of the National Education association in convention here. She succeeds Jesse H. Newton, superintendent of schools, Denver, Colo. Miss McSkimmon received 507 votes, while her opponent, Miss Cornelia S. Adair of Norfolk, Va., received 322.

British Planes Rout Rebels

Bagdad.—Severe fighting at Sulaimamieh, Mesopotamia, has resulted in the flight of the rebel Kurdish chief, Sheik Mahmood, across the Persian frontier. British aircraft inflicted severe casualties on the enemy.

Deny Crossing Border

El Paso, Texas.—The reported move of a body of revolutionists across the Mexican border at Columbus, N. M., was denied by Alfonso de la Huerta.

PLAN TO REBUILD SANTA BARBARA

New City to Take Place of One Destroyed by Earthquake.

Santa Barbara, Cal.—Santa Barbara visualized the new city of concrete and steel already planning to replace the area damaged in the earthquake that took a toll of eleven lives, injured more than a hundred citizens, and caused between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000 property damage.

Bankers and business men met during the afternoon, visioning the new mission city by the sea.

A call was put out by the Clearing House association following the meeting, for a $20,000,000 revolving fund. This is to be used in the reconstruction of the city.

The snorting of great steam shovels digging into the ruins, the whirr of trucks removing the debris, the boom of dynamite as insecure walls were crumpled, gave visible evidence of the spirit that prevails.

Santa Barbara, twenty-four hours after her greatest disaster, was already rebuilding. All California stood behind the stricken city. Construction engineers from Los Angeles and San Francisco, invited by public officials, began an immediate survey of every building in the city.

Governor Richardson took his place with those planning the city's reconstruction, having arrived with his staff in the morning.

From every quarter of the state food supplies arrived by the ton. It was piled high in the public square before the city hall, where, under the supervision of the Red Cross society, it could be distributed free to the needy.

Behind the hastily erected stands, from which black coffee and ham sandwiches were served, workers from the city's idle factories and society debutantes from fashionable hotels stood shoulder to shoulder distributing the rations.

Representatives of insurance companies estimated the companies would have to pay out approximately $5,000,000 for damages.

Fire Chief Cooley of the Santa Barbara department said many buildings that appear slightly damaged probably will have to be torn down. The foundations have been badly crumbled and dislodged.

Among the buildings unofficially reported to be condemned are the Carrillo hotel, Californian hotel and the San Marcos building. The historical Hotel Arlington may also have to be razed.

The city took on the first signs of business life since the quake. Banks opened temporary quarters in tents pitched in public places. Some stores were open.

Los Angeles detectives took over the search of the ruins of the Arlington hotel, where diamonds and other gems valued at $150,000 were reported lost by guests. The officers found nearly all of the jewels. They discovered $50,000 worth of valuable stones in a trunk belonging to Mrs. Perkins, killed in the collapse of the Arlington's east wing. Another $30,000 worth of diamonds, so far unclaimed, were found in a bathtub.

Citizens continued to remain outdoors, sleeping on lawns, or in beds and cots set up under the palm and pepper trees in the public parks and large estates. Suppers were cooked on bonfires set up in yards. Police orders still prevented the lighting of fires, candles or oil lamps in dwellings.

Mellon Predicts New and Effective Basis of Dry Ban

Washington.—Prohibition enforcement soon will be definitely on an entirely new and effective basis, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon predicted in a statement. The delivery of the last three dry navy destroyers, the effective operation of the anti-smuggling treaties, and the early execution of the Andrews reorganization program are given by the secretary as the principal factors for his optimism. In a formal statement, he said: "The plans of the Treasury to make prohibition enforcement effective are rapidly approaching consummation."

Bergdoll's Mother Wins Back $140,000 in Cash

Philadelphia.—Roland S. Morris, appointed special master in counter suits filed by Mrs. Emma C. Bergdoll, mother of Grover Bergdoll, draft evader, and Thomas W. Miller, alien property custodian, recommended that the custodian be ordered to return to Mrs. Bergdoll $140,000 in cash, and securities worth several hundred thousand dollars. Mr. Morris denied the claim of the custodian that Mrs. Bergdoll retains property worth $452,349 belonging to Grover.

Cuba Sugar Crop a Record

Havana, Cuba.—Cuba's 1925 sugar crop of 5,100,000 tons, for which planters are reported to have received $123,379,000, was the largest production of the cane in the history of the island, according to an announcement by the department of agriculture.

De Bono Given High Post

Rome.—The former supreme chief of the Facist army, General De Bono, was appointed governor of Tripoli, Italian territory in Africa.

JOHN HERTZ

John Hertz of Chicago is president of the Yellow Cab company and is said to be negotiating for a merger with the General Motors company.

U. S. GOVERNMENT MARKET QUOTATIONS

Washington.—For the week ending June 26.—FRUITS AND VEGETABLES—New potatoes mostly higher. Virginia Irish cobblers, $4.50@4.75 per barrel f. o. b.; North Carolina cobblers, $4.25@4.75 in the East; Bliss Triumphs, $2.65@2.75 per 100 lb. sack at Chicago. Prices of California salmon tint cantaloupes, $2.25 per standard 45. Hiley peaches, $1.75@2.00 per bushel basket and six-basket carrier f. o. b. Florida and Georgia Tom Watson watermelons, 22-30 pound average, $300.00@450.00 bulk per car in distributing centers; $210.00@400.00 f. o. b. Valdoshta, Ga.

LIVE STOCK—Chicago hog prices closed at $13.65 for top, $12.75@13.60 for bulk. Medium and good beef steers, 8.75@12.00; butcher cows and heifers, $4.35@12.00; feeder steers steady at $5.40@8.25; light and medium weight veal calves, $9.50@11.50. Fat lambs, $14.75@17.10; yearlings, $10.25@14.75; fat ewes, $4.25@8.00.

GRAIN—Quoted June 26: No. 1 dark northern wheat, $1.56½@1.74½ Minneapolis; No. 2 red winter wheat, $1.95 St. Louis, $1.65@1.66 Kansas City; No. 2 hard winter wheat, $1.55 St. Louis. No. 2 mixed corn, $1.04¼@1.05½ Chicago, 98@99c Kansas City; No. 3 mixed corn, 97@98c Minneapolis; No. 2 yellow corn, $1.05½@1.06½ Chicago, $1.07½@1.08 St. Louis, $1.03 Kansas City.

HAY—Quoted June 26: No. 1 timothy, $26.00 Chicago; No. 1 alfalfa, $18.00 Kansas City; No. 1 prairie, $18.00 Chicago.

DAIRY PRODUCTS—Closing prices, 92 score butter: New York, 41c; Chicago, 41@41¼c; Philadelphia, 42c; Boston, 42c. Wholesale prices on Wisconsin primary cheese markets June 25: Twins, 21½c; single daisies, 22c; longhorns, 22c; square prints, 23c.

Butler to Give Up Fight to Clean Up Philadelphia

Philadelphia.—Charging that he had been double-crossed and kicked around by politicians, Gen. Smedley Butler of the marines, now director of safety, in a speech at an old-home week celebration, admitted he had lost in the war to "clean up" Philadelphia, and announced he will quit at the end of the year.

"I have not been fighting crime so much as I have been fighting political influence," declared General Butler. "I do not want any more political jobs; I have had enough of serving the people.

"But while I continue on the job I am going to fight back against these influences. Occasionally Philadelphia has said a prayer for me, but its co-operation about ended there."

General Butler has been carrying on his "clean-up" campaign in Philadelphia for nearly a year and a half.

Coolidge Returns to Summer White House

Swampscott, Mass.—President Coolidge is back at the summer White House, after motoring 192 miles from Plymouth.

Satisfied that Col. John Coolidge, his father, is at least temporarily out of danger, the President and Mrs. Coolidge left Doctor Coupal and young John on the job and returned to Swampscott.

The President returned knowing that he will probably have to dash back to Plymouth at some time in the near future, for the recovery of Colonel John from his operation does not mean that the condition which brought the colonel so near death has been cured.

France Ready to Pay U. S.; Cabinet Approves Action

Paris.—France has decided to take steps to arrange payment of its $4,000,000,000 debt to the United States.

The cabinet submitted a note to the United States submitted by the foreign minister, and voted favorably on the proposal for funding of the debt at once.

The government will send a commission to the United States in the near future after the message on the subject has been formally brought to the attention of the United States through Ambassador Herrick.

Peace to Be Offered Riffs

Paris.—The Franco-Spanish conference at Madrid is drawing up peace terms which it will offer Abd-el-Krim, leader of the rebel Riffians in Morocco, the French foreign office was advised. Little confidence is expressed that Abd el-Krim will accept.

Doctor Little to Head U. of M.

Orono, Maine.—Dr. C. C. Little has resigned as president of the University of Maine to accept the presidency of the University of Michigan

.. Hawkeye .. State News

Interesting Items Gathered From all Parts of Iowa

Two camps for instruction of infantry officers will be held at Fort Des Moines in July, according to announcement.

On July 24th the 356th infantry will arrive at ort Des Moines from Sioux Falls, S. D., and will remain until August 7th.

The oldest inhabitants of southwestern Iowa have never seen better prospects for corn in this part of Iowa than now, and a big acreage.

Cuts in the valuations of farm lands running in some instances close to forty per cent, have been made by county boards of supervisors in the state.

Des Moines has real cause to be proud of its large array of home office insurance institutions of all sorts, writing business virtually all over the world.

Federated women's clubs of the fourth Iowa district will meet at McGregor August 20th to attend the wild life school which is to be held August 8-20.

Oats prospects are much brighter than they were, farmers say. They believe there will be a fair yield. The outlook for a good late hay crop is excellent.

Organization of a company to promote a commercial egg hatchery in Traer has been started. Plans call for a hatchery of 30,000 eggs capacity at the start.

Navy department officials recently said the dirigible Shenandoah would depart for her proposed western trip between July 10th and July 15th visiting Iowa en route.

Iowa's dairy industry is shown to be an important factor in wealth production in the report of the dairy and food division of the department of agriculture, just published.

The First National bank of Clear Lake and the Clear Lake State bank have consolidated under the First National bank charter with a capital of $60,000 and a $6,000 surplus.

The State university has bought the Kellogg school building and site from the Iowa City school board for $45,000 and will use the land in expansion of the new medical campus.

Webster and Lucas counties have each recently organized a cow testing association among the dairymen. This brings the total number of active associations in Iowa up to 57.

In addition to naming a state banking board Governor Hammill has yet to name a commission for the blind, as required by the law passed by the recent legislature effective July 1st.

The Fort Dodge, Des Moines & Southern Transportation company, a subsidiary of the interurban, will start running busses between Des Moines and Boone and Webster City within a short time.

How fast does Iowa corn grow, once it gets above ground? A Perry farmer reports that he had set a stick beside a healthy stalk of corn on his farm and the stalk averaged a growth of three inches a day.

Tourists who use the Spencer tourist park are now charged 50 cents per automobile, a system which has been adopted by the better tourist parks all over the United States. A caretaker and policeman is at the grounds at all times.

Four hundred Iowa farmers in 65 counties this year are demonstrating the raising of worm and necro-free herds of hogs by having their pigs farrowed on clean grounds—land which has not previously been used for hog raising.

Two battalions of infantry have arrived at Fort Des Moines to assist in the instruction of citizens who will attend the citizens military training camp in August. Two reserve officers' camps will be held at Ft. Des Moines this summer.

Proof of improved business conditions in the manufacture of cereal foods is given in the announcement that the Quaker Oats company reopened its Ft. Dodge mill for the production of rolled oats on July 6th, after having been idle for five years.

That the average dairy farmer in Iowa is bound to be short of roughage this year, is the general opinion of men in touch with the situation. To prevent this shortage, Iowa State College suggests that the silo offers one of the best ways of stretching out the hay supply.

Polk county is worth $435,772,194. It is worth $6,000,000 more than it was last year. The total wealth of the county is divided as follows: Real estate $190,327,010; personal property not including moneys and credits $214,685,830; moneys and credits $30,739,254. The assessed valuation of Des Moines property alone is $5,000,000 more than it was in the last tax assessment.

Nearly fifty-nine years after the coming of the first railroad train to Des Moines the city welcomed the government air mail plane which made its initial stop July 1st establishing the city as a regular station on the United States transcontinental air mail route.

The thirty-eighth annual convention of the Christian Endeavor society of Iowa came to a close at Cedar Rapids recently with the consecration service in which 105 young people pledged themselves for service. Marshalltown was awarded the 1926 convention over Des Moines.

HELPED THROUGH CHANGE OF LIFE

Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound during This Critical Time—Benefited Greatly

Baltimore, Maryland.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to help me through the Change of Life. I had a broken-down system. I had headaches, was complaining a lot of the time and dragged around along had tried many medicines which did not help me much. I read in the newspapers of the Vegetable Compound and after taking a bottle I felt better. I did not stop with one bottle, but took it through the whole critical time and am now practically a well woman. I have two daughters whose health was bad before they married and I was worried about them. I got the Vegetable Compound for them and it helped them and after they married it also helped them in bearing their babies. It is a great and good medicine for all plaints of women, and I recommend it to all."—Mrs. L. GINGRICH, 1375 Normor St., Baltimore, Maryland.

The Vegetable Compound is a dependable medicine for women of middle age. Let it relieve you of nervousness, feeling of strain and those annoying flashes so common at this time.

Egypt Buys U. S. Pine

The irrigation department of the Egyptian government recently rejected bids of central European pine and hereafter will require use of southern pine from America in important government works.

Feel All Out of Sorts?

Is backache spoiling your summer? Do you get up lame and stiff—feel tired all day? Are you so nervous and worn out you cannot rest or relax? Look out then, to your kidneys! Sluggish kidneys allow poisons to accumulate and upset the whole system. When this happens you are apt to suffer backache, headaches, pains, soreness, stiffness, dizziness and annoying kidney irregularities. Help your kidneys with a stimulant diuretic. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are used the world over. Ask your neighbor!

An Iowa Case

C. B. Doty, 1 South Second St., Osage, Iowa, says: "I had several backaches and it was hard for me to lift anything. When I stooped the muscles of my back were so sore I could hardly straighten. At times my kidneys acted too freely. I used Doan's Pills and they strengthened my back and my kidneys no longer troubled me."

DOAN'S PILLS 60c

STIMULANT DIURETIC TO THE KIDNEYS

Foster-Milburn Co., Mfg. Chem., Buffalo, N. Y.

Have Resinol ready for burns or cuts. It quickly stops the painful throbbing and hastens healing

Resinol

Green's August Flower for Constipation, Indigestion and Torpid Liver

Successful for 59 years

30c and 90c bottles

ALL DRUGGISTS

The Usual Answer

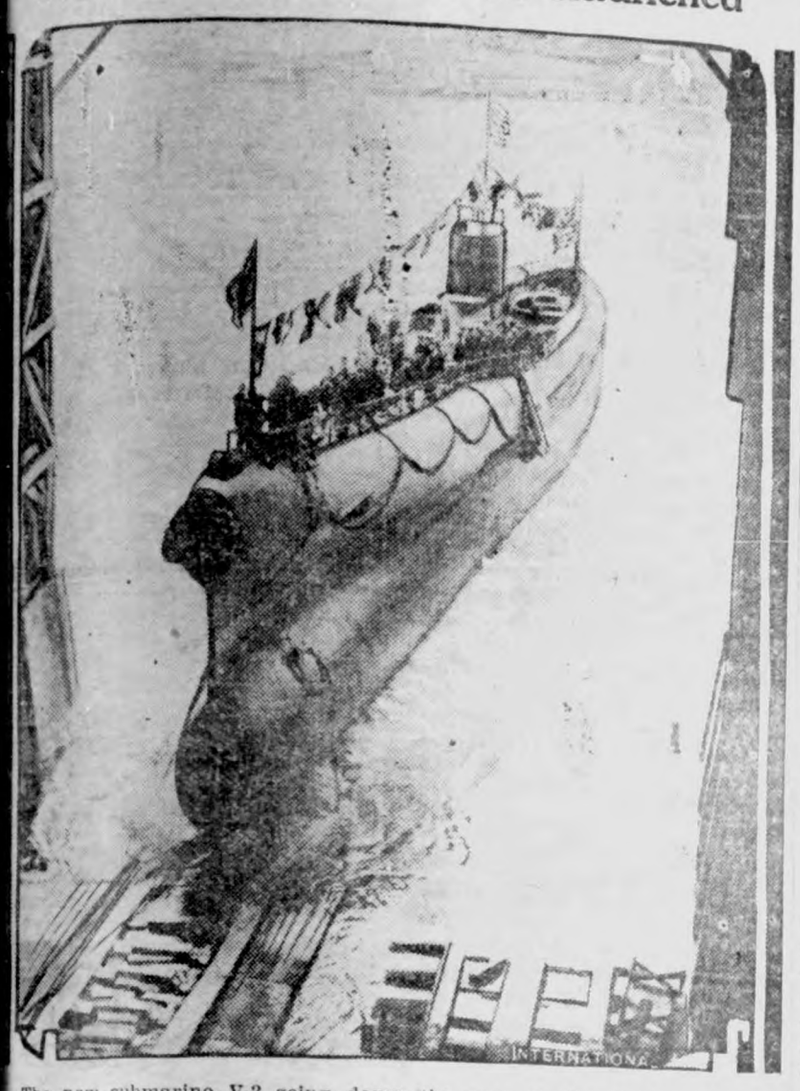
Dr. A. G. Sinclair, pastor of the famous Old First church of Bloomfield, N. Y., is receiving congratulations on the success of the Mothers' day exercises in his Bible school. He described touchingly to the children painting. A cottage interior, a child dangerously ill, the father and the doctor hovering near, the mother seated at a table, her head in her arms.

"What do you think the mother is doing?" asked the minister.

"Cross-word puzzles!" a small boy promptly answered.—New York Times.

If thou art wise, incline to truth; but truth, not the semblance, remains in its place.—Saadi.

Another Big Submarine Launched



The new submarine V-3 going down the ways at the Portsmouth navy rd after having been christened. The undersea craft is the largest type bmarine built in America. It is 341 feet 6 inches long, with a breadth of feet and a surface displacement of 2,167 tons.

Letter Tells of Bunker Hill

ote by Loyalist Who Witnessed Battle at Boston Is Uncovered.

Worcester, Mass.—A Loyalist's impressions of the Battle of Bunker Hill, years ago, are picturesquely portrayed in a letter written June 23, 1775, days after the battle, by Samuel ne of Worcester, attached to the dquarters of the British Army of erica, at Boston, to his brother, William Paine, who resided in rcester. The letter, treasured as a e find, has been uncovered in the ary of the American Antiquarian iety, here, among a number of inal Revolutionary war manupts.

Never did I see such a day," wrote Loyalist, telling of the savage atk of the "rebels," as he calls the onials, when they first captured ker Hill and later the rout of the onials by the king's troops when the kees' ammunition gave out. The onials, he wrote, alluding to them nother time as "my countrymen," eared in a mood to "win or die" to one knew what a day would g forth.

Saw Dark Future.

he future, from his observation, quite foreboding, with the British sing all the troops at command at on, intent on smashing the Colonial y and the Colonials besieging the ts of vantage on the outskirts of on, bent on starving the British out. The letter reads:

The King's troops have gained, gh at a great loss, a surprising vicover the rebels last Saturday, an scene of which I was an eye wit-. Have been since on the field of e and shall endeavor for your sation to give some account of it. the Concord expedition, affairs a turn, a large army was immely raised and every passage to the of Boston invested. The provincongress, conducted extremely put their army on pay by issuing a sum of paper currency and appeared very formidable, havplenty of artillery.

various encounters with the troops they got the better, were ed with victory, held a British r in the highest contempt. But the surrender of the important fortress of Ticonderoga (May 10), to the American arms, heightened their enthusiasm.

"In this situation of their minds last Friday night, being very dark, many thousands took possession of a high hill in Charlestown called Bunker's that commands the whole of this town. Before morning they had completed a redoubt and such intrenchments as did honor to the engineer and this town lay exposed to a fire which must have ruined it unless prevented.

"As soon as it was discovered from Cops hill, near the ferry on which is a fine battery, they began a most furious cannonade upon the rebels, which they returned seven times upon the town. Instead of quitting their post large reinforcements were sent from Cambridge headquarters of their army and matters here began to be serious.

Reinforcements Arrive.

"About 1 o'clock all the Grenadiers and light infantry of the whole army, reinforced to about 3,000, under the conduct of the gallant Lord Howe and Abercromby embarked from the long wharf, with 12 brass pieces and landed at a point of land back of Charlestown, in full view of the rebels, who still kept their post. The troops being annoyed from some houses in Charlestown, the ships threw carcases (combustible shells fired from a mortar) into it, and in a few minutes the whole town was in flames—a most awful, grand and melancholy sight.

"In the meantime the troops marched on toward the hill, for the intrenchments, under a most heavy fire of artillery, on both sides. Never did I see such a day. I was on Beacon hill in full prospect. In about 30 minutes the troops were nigh the works, exposed to an amazing fire of small arms, for by this time the rebels amounted to 10,000. Soon as the King's men entered the breastworks a most terrible slaughter began upon the rebels, who now were everyone shuffling for himself. The troops pursued them over the neck, beyond Temples house and were masters of the field of battle.

Twenty-Four Officers Killed.

"The troops have suffered extremely, there being about 24 officers killed, and near 60 wounded and abou. 700, rank and file, killed and wounded. The rebels lost a vast many, among whom was Doctor Warren, a noted rascal. (Gen. Joseph Warren, one of the leading New England patriots.) We have about 30 prisoners here, some of whom are to be executed.

"After the firing ceased I went over, and, good God! what a sight—all the horrors of war, death and rebellion. The British army is encamped upon the high hills in Charlestown in fine spirits and will advance into the country as soon as possible, laying waste and devastation wherever they go.

"What the event of all these matters will be God only knows. The rebels are very numerous and continue to besiege the passages and intrenching themselves upon every strong post about. God only knows what a day may bring forth. We are in continued motion here and now we are all in the dark.

"Last evening 1,900 troops under General Clinton embarked in four transports, their destination not known but no doubt Salem, Marblehead, Newbury, etc., will be ashes before night. All the troops, ordered to New York, are now to come here which including Preston's regiment of light horse, which has arrived safe and in fine order, will make about 20 regiments so that we may expect a bloody summer; for my countrymen fight well for them, and are determined at all events to die or conquer."

The optimistic prophecy of the writer of the letter that the British would advance into the country, leaving devastation in their trail, did not eventuate, since the British found themselves bottled up in Boston and were forced, by Washington's army, to evacuate it at the end of a winter fraught with great hardship to the King's forces.

SCHOLAR THOUGH BLIND

Miss Mary Josephine Curcio of Newark, N. J., a blind student, who graduated with high honors from the New Jersey college for women, a department of Rutgers university. Miss Curcio received the degree of bachelor of arts, and was awarded special honors in French and Italian. She was also elected as a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the honorary scholastic society.

Americans Partial to Old Dutch Windmills

Amsterdam, Holland.—Native lovers of old Dutch windmills have been much gratified and encouraged in their efforts to preserve the characteristic feature of the Dutch landscape by the lively interest taken by American newspapers and magazines in the reports that many historic mills were threatened by demolition, or might be displaced by prosaic oil or electrically-driven machinery.

"The Dutch Mill," the society which aimed at the preservation of the familiar skyline of the classic Dutch landscape, has received many sympathetic inquiries from Americans regarding the fate of the windmills.

One letter from Topeka, Kan., asked for a specification of a typical Dutch mill, with the object of erecting one there.

Canada Pushes North

Ottawa.—The purpose of part of an appropriation of $352,000 for the government of the northwest territories is revealed as financing of expeditions in the Far-North. Charles Stewart, minister of the interior, made the disclosure in debate. He said it was desirable to establish Canada's claim to certain territories.

EST OF DINOSAUR EGGS IS SOUGHT IN MONGOLIA

York Museum Expedition Also ill Hunt for Fossil Remains of Prehistoric Animals.

King.—In further pursuit of its for traces of primitive man in stratum of the ice age, the third ie expedition of the New York um of Natural History, in co-opon with the American Asiatic asion, has started on the first leg renewed penetration of the wilds ngolia and Chinese Turkestan. first permanent camp will be miles northwest of Kalgan, on he of last year's discovery of aur eggs, which aroused such interest throughout the western .

re the leader of the expedition, Chapman Andrews, and his corps ientists expect to overtake the ing transport train of 150 camspatched some two months ago. The work of exploration will start at the first camp, where an effort will be made to rediscover a nest of dinosaur eggs found on the last expedition, but lost again because of a terrific sandstorm that changed the topography of the country. It is planned to drop off the first group of men there, where rich finds are anticipated also in fossil remains of prehistoric animals, while the main expedition continues west along the north slope of the Altai mountains and then south in the direction of Chinese Turkestan.

The objective this year is to work in a more recent stratum of rocks, which might result in fossilized traces of human evolution.

"On the zoological side," Mr. Andrews explained, "we hope to get into the zone of true wild horses and wild camels. We hope to secure groups of both for the museum.

"We have with us also a paleobotanist whose work will be to study fossilized plant life and to judge what the climate was like in the various periods. This will enable us to decide whether it was a suitable place for man and thus of our chances of finding traces of prehistoric man."

Besides the camel transport, the expedition's equipment includes seven motor vehicles, cars and trucks, equipped with special tires for negotiating desert sands. The personnel totals forty men, and of supplies there is being transported 3,500 gallons of gasoline and 100 gallons of oil for the cars; two tons of flour, a ton of rice, half a ton of sugar and other things in proportion. The only food supply that can be counted upon in the country to be covered is meat. The expedition expects to reach Kalgan on its return about the middle of September.

Law's Defects

Laws are like cobwebs; if anything small or weak falls into them they hold it fast; if of any size, it breaks the meshes and escapes.—Solon.

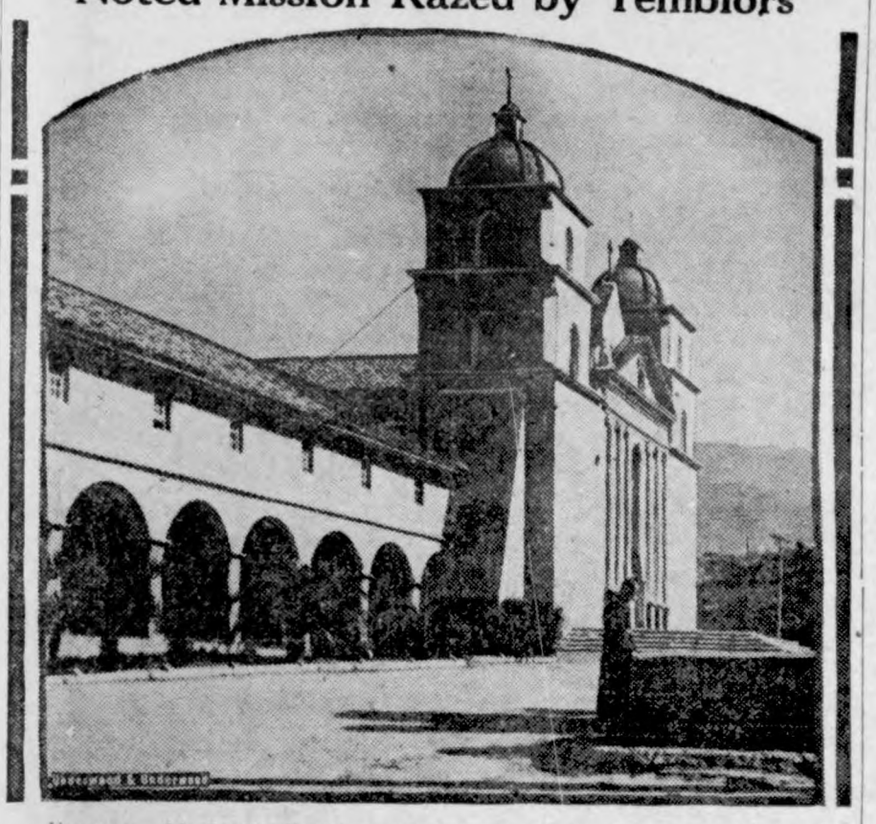
Wire Pictures of Destruction of Santa Barbara

These pictures, transmitted by American Telegraph and Telephone wires, show the ruins on State street, the main business thoroughfare of Santa Barbara, immediately after the earthquake.

Arlington Hotel Ruined by the Earthquake

The famous Arlington hotel at Santa Barbara, Cal., that was wrecked by the earthquake shocks which destroyed much of that city. Photograph by courtesy of the Rock Island railroad.

Noted Mission Razed by Temblors



Famous old Santa Barbara mission at Santa Barbara, Cal., which crumbled to the ground under the shocks of the earthquake that shattered the city.

WON TRIP TO EUROPE

Mary Louise McCachren, an orphan whose home has been the Presbyterian Mission school at Concord, N. C. sailed on the Leviathan from New York July 4 on a free voyage which she won in a contest of Bible story-telling. Mary Louise is a sixteen-year-old mountain girl whose parents died in the flu epidemic some years ago. The contest was open to all Sunday school pupils in the country and the first prize, won by Mary, was a 57-day trip to Europe.

Boys' Band From Iowa on Long Tour

Underwood & Underwood

Twenty-two youngsters from a children's home in Des Moines, Iowa, who are on a year's tour throughout the United States, photographed in New York. The band is in charge of H. M. Draper, superintendent of the home, who is in the left foreground.

Lost Faith

"Dad, do you know the story of Jack and his quick-growing beanstalk?"

"Yes."

"Is it a fairy tale?"

"I guess all bean stories are fairy tales," replied dad, glancing at his garden plot.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

PRESS NOTICE

Mr. John A. Reed, Vice President of the Central State Electric Company and Iowa Electric Company, Headquarters at Cedar Rapids, announced today that the Companies will hold a customer ownership campaign to begin July 11, and close July 22. The purpose of this campaign is to distribute the Company's preferred stock among it's customers or in other words to get customers to become partners in the businesss. The customer ownership idea, is spreading rapidly among public utility companies," said Mr. Reed "It benefits both customers and company by promoting good will and co-operation."

This campaign will be conducted by the Garner Division of Central States Electric Company, and by Iowa Electric Company. Each Company will offer its 7 percent preferred stock through it's employees.

Over a hundred employees will participate, each will call on twenty prospective investors to explain the principles of customer ownership, and the advantages of becoming a partner in the Company. A letter will be mailed to every customer of the organiation giving details of the offer. Each of the employees twenty prospective buyers will receive a special folder containing information about the investment.

The public is usually glad to have an opportunity to put their money where they know it is safe and gives them a good yield. Public Utilities are favored by investors because the earnings of such Companies are steady, due to the essential nature of the business. People must have light ,heat, and power day in, day out, in good times and bad; and steady expansion is assured by the increase in population, and by the fact that new uses are continually being found for electricity." adv

DON'T WORRY ABOUT HAM MOLD

Folks need not be worried by the appearance of molds on their smoked meats, states M. D. Helser, meat specialist, Iowa State College. Some people believe that ,instead of harming the meat, mold actually give ham a more desirable flavor.

If the mold is to be taken off, it can best beremoved by washing the ham with water, in which a little vinegar has been added. After the mold has been removed, the ham can be polished with a little lard or olive oil, giving the same fresh appear ance which it had when it came out of the smoke house.

Hams containing a liatle too much salt can be improved by washing in cold water for about half an hour, followed by a rinsing in hot water for just a few seconds. This will dissolve all the grease from the skinned side and remove surplus salt from the external layer of meat.

GROWING OLD

Forty years ago men wore beards as a rule. When they reached the age of fifty these beards usually turned grey and they looked old. A man of fifty was called an oldman and we remember when a small boy of running three blocks to get a look at a man who was celebrating his fiftieth birthday. To think of a man half a century old was wonderful.

Today men live differently. Men were no older then than now at fifty years but their dress and customs made them appear older. Few men of today wear beards and this naturally gives them a more youthful appearance. It is reported by those who have made surveys that men live longer to day than they did in past generations, but when we consider our homes and cities, the distribution and handling of foodstuffs it seems only natural that they should. A man is just as old as he thinks he is and when he begins to worry about growing old he begins to show his age and really grows old. —Algona Republican.

TEN COMMANDMENTS OF MAIL ORDER HOUSE

How to Be A Perfect Mail Order Fiend

1. You shall sell your farm produce for cash, where you can, for we buy nothing from you.
2. You shall believe in us, and best because we do not know you personally.
3. You hall send your money to us in advance, so we can buy the goods from the factory with your money; you may have to wait a few weeks, but that is our business method.
4. You shall get help from your nearest city or village to build good roads, so you may easily haul our goods from the depot, but do not ask help from us—we don't help to build roads.
5. You may buy church bells and altar utensils from us, and send the money in advance—that's our rule.
6. You shall get all the help you can from the business men in your neighborhood; although we may have more profit from you than they have, it is against our rules to give to your churches.
7. You shall convert your neighbors also to your faith in us, for we have room for more money.
8. You shall look at the pretty pictures in our catalog as often as you can, so as to strengthen your desire for things you do not need, but which you may order with other goods to save freight. Send us all your ready cash so that you may not have ony left to buy necessities from your home dealers.
9. You shall believe us rather than your home business men, for we want your trade. We get to be millionaires on your support. Don't be bluffed.
10. You shall call on the business people of your own vicintiy for help and credit, if you meet with hard luck or sickness. It's your money we want; we don't know you unless your orders are accompanied by cash. — Hampton Chronicle.

SECRETARY JARDINE WILL SPEAK AT AMES

The citizens of Iowa, and especially farmers, are invited to come to Ames to hear an address by Secretary of Agriculture William M. Jardnne at Iowa State College, Friday morning July 10.

Secretary Jardine is coming to Iowa State College while on his way back to Washington from an extended tour thru the far west. His address at the college will be on of very few scheduled, for the Secretary's tour has been primarily for the purpose of inspecting the various enterprises of the United States Department of Agriculture throuout the country and to secure first hand information as to agricultural conditions and agricultural thinking.

Secretary Jardine's address at Ames will be delivered at 10:30 on the morning of Friday, July 10. Arrangements will be complete for taking care of as large an audience as may come to hear the secretary. For convenience of those who can not come to Ames Secretary Jardine's address will be broadcast by the college radio station WOI, wave length 270 meters.

THE BALD SPOT

I wash my head with patent soap until my scalp is sore, inspired by faint and flimsy hope of having hair once more; I've tried out every kind of dope that's sold at Dingbat's store. I once had ripling locks that fluttered in the gale; then I observed, with sundry shocks, that baldness would prevail, and barbers, pharmacists and docs began to get my kale. I rubbed my head with scented grease, I rubbed it good and hard, an every day I had my niece annoint my dome with lard, therre's no comfort, bliss or peace for a bald hearded bard. I bought restorers by the vat and found them all a snare; I wore a dodad in my hat to irrigate my hair, the more I used of this and that. the more the scalp was bare. The well known follicles are dead as yonder blasted tree; all desolate my scalp is spread, it's like a barren lea; the open spaces on my head are terrible to see. And yet I'm always buying dope to make the ringlets grow; along the druggist's shelves I grope ,and nostrums burn on with steady glow. Some day I'll find a magic balm to make the es shoot, so let no caitliff fear or qualm my sacred trust uproot; oh throbbing heart of mine, be calm, my soul be resolute.— Walt Mason.

You Help to Make Earnings Possible

Why Not Share In These Earning?

In a few days every customer of our Company will receive a letter inviting them to become profit sharing partners in our Company by the purchasing of our 7% Preferred Stock.

One of the first questions you may ask, if you are a customer, is: "Why are you making this partnership offer?

Our answer is in two parts. The first part is:

"Our Company is growing with the communities it serves. The demand for our services is increasing weekly—daily. To keep up with the growing demand, extensions to our plant capacity, transmission lines and general system are necessary. The capital raised from the sale of our Preferred Stock will help to pay for this developement."

The second part of our answer—and probably the most important one is:

Because we believe in Customer Ownership."

Home Ownership is the Best

We believe that this investment opportunity should be offered to Home People —those who work with us for the general developement of our communities—not to outsiders who have little interest in our section of the country.

Professional investors would gladly take up this stock with its splendid record of steady earnings and its unusual safety—but their partnership and friendship are of little value to us.

Customer Ownership puts the ownership of a business into the hands of the people it serves. It improves working conditions, stabilizes finances, promotes progress, encourages thrift and increases your income.

How It Benefits You ---The Company

Some of the benefits of customer ownership to the customer are:

1. You get a safe investment—guaranteed by the fact that the services and products we sell are the sort that modern Americans are never willing to be without. When you sell necessities of life, often without competition and generally under State regulation, you are in a sound business.

2. You get unfailing dviidends. A company that wants your friendship could not afford to sell you anything except a sure dividend payer.

3. The property you share in owning is located right here at home where you can keep an eye on it.

4. Your money is invested in lines of business familiar with you—lines you are in touch with daily and nightly for your whole life.

5. The men who manage and operate the local Company live near you. They are your neighbors—your friends. They know firsthand about the Company; they, too, are stockholders; they can be reached if you wish information about the Company and your investments.

6. A resale service is provided, in case you need to get your money out.

7. Your invested savings stay at home and work for the betterment of your own neighborhood while earning a good yield—7% fr you.

How It Benefits the Company

1. By taking you and its other customers into partnership the Company secures the interest and co-operation of the very people whose friendship is most valuable—its customers.

2. You and its other partners, as stockholders, become interested in the welfare, in its efficient operation, in the growth of its business. You make valuable suggestions and crticisms. You help us to give better service.

If you are a customer of the Company you will receive an extremely favorable partnership offer in our Company, in a few days. We feel sure you will find it of interest.

CENTRAL STATES ELECTRIC COMPANY

Dr. R. W. Specht

—Dentist—

Office Over Whitehead's Store

Office Phone No. 106

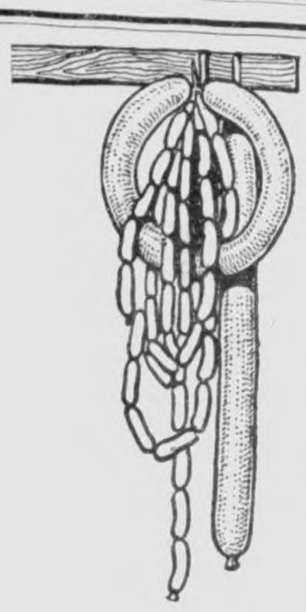
Garner Iowa

PROGRAM AT THE IDLE HOUR FOR THIS WEEK

Saturday night, July 11, feature entitled "Great White Way," is a very good pirture. Comedy, "Under a Spell."

For Wednesday, July 15th we are showing, "True As Steel." Also an Andy Gump iomedy.

Fine Summer Sausage and Cold Meats



We have a full line of highest quality Cold Meats of all kinds which are very nice for Picnic Lunches or suppers on warm evenings.

SOME GOOD SUGGESTIONS

Armour's Goteborg Summer Sausage and Muencher Veri-Best Summer Sausage. Either style at, per lb. ..... 23c.

Minced Ham Pressed Ham

Veal Loaf Beef Loaf Boiled Ham

Pickled Pig Feet, Hearts, Hocks, etc

Pork & Beans Salmon Sardines

Cheese of All Kinds .. Pickles, Etc

We always carry a full line of fresh and cured meats of all kinds. The Fourth is coming and remember this is the place to get the biggest part of your picnic dinner.

Klemme Meat Market

News of Klemme and Vicinity

The addition to the city hall is progressing rapidly.

J. N. Day was at Garner Tuesday morning on business.

We have a full line of Fly Spray for your stock. Wilson's Pharmacy, Klemme, Iowa. 1tc

Mrs. Wm. Kirkwood visited a few days last week at Crystal Lake.

Emil Patet and Al Emerson drove to Cedar Rapids one day last week.

Saturday Special! 6 bars LUNA Soap 23c at Day's Store. 1tc

George Elder and family, of Eagle Bend, Minnesota, spent Friday night at the R. W. Elder home.

Mr. Julius Rosenau, of Norwood, Minn., visited at the Priebe home last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Happy Johnson and baby daughter visited with relatives at Spencer over the Fourth.

Mrs. Lester Stille is enjoying a visit from her two neices, Joeldine and Alice, from near Sioux City.

KLEMME MARKETS

July 9, 1925

Wheat	1.45
Oats	.35
Shelled Corn	.90
Ear Corn	.85
Rye	.85
Barley	.75
Hogs	11.50—12.00
Eggs (cash)	.28
Eggs (trade)	.29
Heavy Hens	.18
Light Hens	.15
Standard Springs	.25
Leghorn No. 2 Springs	.20
Ducks	.10
Old Roosters	.08
Geese	.08
Butter (creamery)	.44
Butterfat	.44

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gruetzmacher visited at the F. Gruetzmacher home over Sunday.

Remove your Corns with Nyal Corn Remover. Wilson's Pharmacy, Klemme, Iowa. 1tc

Rev. Gedye and family, of Whittemore spent last week visiting with Klemme friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wiles, of Ames, were in town on business Tuesday.

Holly Lewis and family of Mason City spent Wednesday at the Lew Lewis home here.

Herman Miller left Wednesday for Cedar Rapids for a couple of days visit.

Charlie Schoenwetter, of Garner, was in Klemme yesterday shaking hands with old friends.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kessler and son, of Belmond, were Klemme callers Friday.

The Fred Ridder family spent last week at the Koerner cottage at the Lake, enjoying an outing.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Larsen, of eBlmond, visited in Klemme over the week end.

Miss Blanche Hulse will be hostess to the Camp Fire girls this evening.

Remove your Corns with Nyal Corn Remover. Wilson's Pharmacy, Klemme, Iowa. 1tc

Mrs. Herman Beek, of Davenport, is here for a two week's visit at the Fred Jahnke home.

Charles Gibbs returned to his home at Big Lake, Minnesota, after visiting with his mother here and other relatives for a couple of weeks.

Special for Saturday at Day's Store—6 bars of Luna Soap, 23c.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lewis and Mr. and Mrs. Lew Lewis drove to St. Paul to spend the Fourth and week end visiting.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Kluckhohn, accompanied by Donald Turgeson and Kenneth Kluckhohn were Fort Dodge visitors Monday.

Our neighbor, John Day, is spending a few days at home on a forced vacation. John is nursing a lame leg afflicted with rheumatism.

Clarence Waaerman and family, W. C. Keraus and family and Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Keraus spent the week end at Swea City with Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Mitchell.

Mr. and Mrs. James Elder, of Madison, Wisconsin, spent a few days of the past week visiting with relatives and friends. They are enroute to Colorado on a vacation trip via the auto route.

Emil Patet drove dwon to Colesburg last week and Miss Emma Sampson, who has been visiting there for several weeks, returned to this city with him, Friday.

We have a full line of FLY SPRAY for your stock. Wilson's Pharmacy, Klemme, Iowa. 1tc

The Farm Bureau will meet at the Lee Hammond home Friday evening of this week. The Klemme Band will play a concert as a part of the program.

Mrs. P. M. Wilson left Tuesday afternoon for Vinton, Iowa, for a visit with old friends for a couple of weeks. Miss Gladys Wilson has been there for a week visiting.

6 Bars LUNA SOAP for 23c at Day's Store for Saturday. 1tc

Rev. and Mrs. A. H. Meyer drove in from Edgewood, Iowa, last night for a few days visit with Klemme friends. They are on their way to Dows for a visit with relativse.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Herzog and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Huendorf from Chicago arrived in Klemme July 4 for a visit at the Fred Haupt home. They made the trip in Mr. Huendorf's car.

Fred Griewe and family, of Centerpoint, Iowa, came Tuesday for a visit at the Henry Griewe home and with other Klemme relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schroeder, accompanied by Mrs. Lena Schroeder and daughter Adella, drove to Chicago last week. The former had been here visiting for over a week. Mrs. Schroeder and daughter will visit in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Mort Palmby and grandson, Morley Hawes, of Vernon Center, Minnesota, drove down Wednesday for a visit with Klemme relatives and friends.

Miss Edith Haupt came home from Cedar Falls to spend the 4th and the week end with Klemme folks.

Miss Marie O'Neill was a guest at the A. D. Gimer and C. E. Johnson homes over the Fourth and Sunday. She returned to Cedar Falls Sunday evening.

A. D. Gimer, president of the Klemme school board informs us that school money on deposit at the State Savings Bank, which is now closed, will not be lost as this money will be returned by the State under the provisions of the Brookhart-Lovrein act of the 41st G. A. Likewise county funds, town funds, township funds and other public money is now protected against bank failures.

Ing. Lauritsen and Ben Swalve had a narrow escape from a stray bullet the other day. Ing. was sitting in his car at his home and Ben was standing by the car talking when a bullet whizzed by between them A bullet hole was found in the back of the top of the car. Now the shot was probably fired by some boys with a small rifle who were careless in shooting. Such carelessness may prove fatal to some innocent party and this shooting should be stopped in town. There is a town ordinance prohibiting shooting within the corporation limits and anyone found violating this should be severly punished.

PAPER FROM CORN STALKS; DREAM OF IOWA PROFESSOR

AMES,— Paper mills dotted over Iowa and other prairie states, mills which will bring back to the United States, an industry which it is losing with the passing of its forests, is the dream that O. , Sweeny, head of the chemical engineering department at Iowa State college, thinks will come true in the next few years.

These mills will produce all kinds of paper, not however, from woodpulp or rags, but from a great agricultural waste product—cornstalks.

Dr. Sweeny and advanced students in his department have been working for some time on the problem of utilizing agricultural wastes. They have found a number of uses for the corn cob.

The question of utilizing cornstalks for the making of paper involves a number of industrial problems into which the chemists have been delving.

Paper of a fine quality has been manufactured in Dr. Sweeney's laboratory. He believes that he can match the quality of any woodpulp paper. These experiments show that by means of a chemical process that has been worked out, six-tenths of a ton of paper can be made from a ton of stalks. Iowa produces between 20 and 25 million tons of stalks a year and the United States about 100 million tons. Dr. Sweeney believes that a large proportion of this waste can be converted into paper that would be worth, based on present prices, an average of approximately $150 a ton.

Paper manufacturers who have seen the paper produced in Dr. Sweeney's labratory say that it is of high quality and that the process opens up the probability of a big new Why men rob the cradle— "Say when I was born, I was so surprised that I couldn't talk for a year and a half.

YOU WANT A HAIR TONIC THAT

(1) Holds the hair in place.

(2) Removes Dandruff.

(3) Keeps the scalp clean.

(4) Is non-greasy.

These are the four features of

NYAL HIRSUTONE

A liquid hair dressing.

Start using it today.

Large Bottle One Dollar.

WILSON'S PHARMACY
Klemme, Iowa

To Make Your Motor Run Correct, Use—

QUAKER STATE OIL and RICKETS GASOLINE

Once Used, Always Used

PAVEY'S
STORMIZING SHOP

R. E. Porter
CHIROPRACTOR
Palmer Graduate
24 hours a day 7 days aweek
Office at John Lieuwen residence. Phone 191.
Belmond Iowa

The Season's Greatest Opportunity

We are offering Special Bargains in our Ladies Ready to Wear Department at this time as we are moving this stock at SACRIFICE PRICES in oder to make room for our large line of fall goods which will soon arive. You will find wonderful bargains being offered now in our Ladies Ready to Wear and it will pay you to take advantage of this MONEY SAVING EVENT.

LOT NO. 1. Washable Silk Dresses, Regualar value $6.00 to $8.00, on sale at $4.98

LOT NO. 2, Regular value $16.75, on sale at..... $9.98

LOT NO. 3, Regular $25.00 values, go at $13.75

Straw Hats

Buy your Straw Hat now at a big saving. In order to clean up our stock of Straw Hats we are selling them at prices you can't afford to pass up. BUY NOW!

Big Shoe Sale Still On!

The BIG SHOE SALE is still on! We are extending our shoe sale for a short time only and you will have to hurry! Buy now and save money. Shoes for the whole family at GREAT PRICE REDUCTIONS!

Abraham's

GARNER, IOWA

fares surprisingly low

Rock Island

Colorado Yellowstone California

tours of the Scenic West

You can visit any one or all of the West's great scenic regions in one low-fare tour. Route of the ROCKY MOUNTAIN LIMITED to Colorado [direct line to both Denver and Colorado Springs] and the all-Pullman GOLDEN STATE LIMITED to California. All meals in dining cars.

Choice of routes. Go one way; return another. Stop over anywhere. A go-as-you-please vacation.

Ask for illustrated books and full information. It will help you in your planning.

M. O. BARR, Aga., Klemme Iowa.
C. C. Gardiner, As'st. Gen. Pass Agt.
Rock Island Lines
600 Royal Life Bldg. Des Moines.

Rock Island Lines

Nameless River

By Vingie E. Roe

Copyright by the McCall Company
WNU Service.

THE SORCERESS

SYNOPSIS.—Kate Cathrew, "Cattle Kate," owner of the Sky Line ranch, on her way to McKane's store at Cordova, seemingly infuriated by the sight of a girl plowing in a valley below, places a rifle bullet near the horses' feet. The girl takes no notice. Kate goes on to town, where her presence brings on a fight between McKane, the trader, and Sheriff Selwood. Nance Allison, the girl on whom Kate Cathrew had vented her spite, is with her widowed mother and crippled brother Bud farming land taken up by her father, killed a short time before in a mysterious accident. Bud is the victim of a deliberate scheme to maim or kill him. Kate Cathrew wants the farm for pasture land, and is trying to frighten the Allisons into leaving. Big Basford, Sky Line rider, desperately in love with Kate, picks a quarrel with a fellow rider, Rod Stone. Kate, to part them, lashes Basford across the face with a quirt. Nance discovers in a cave a fine collie dog, evidently guarding a child. She goes home mystified. Next day Nance returns to the cave with food and makes friends with the dog and the small boy, Sonny.

CHAPTER V—Continued

—5—

"Brand's got one, too," said the child, "only Diamond ain't a pony—he's a horse. He's a big horse. Brand has got to swing me pretty high to get me up. When we ride—"

But again some inner warning stopped him, some stern habit closed his mouth.

Nance held out a hand.

And so it was that after a while Blue Stone canyon saw the miracle of friendship grow like a magic flower in its pale light, for the girl talked low and sweetly to the child in her lap—and strangest of all, the savage collie sat gravely on his plumy tail beside the two, accepting the turn of fate.

When Nance made ready to go away at noon she knew that Brand was coming at night, that these two had always ridden on Diamond, and that they would ride again some day, while Dirk, the collie, would run beside them. She knew that Brand was always gone in daylight, and that the cave by the rock below was home.

But that was all she did know, or could find out, except that the child's name was Sonny and that he was seven.

Perhaps it was due to the fact that she had inadvertently called him that, that she owed the success of the hour.

Be that is it may, the yearning pity which she felt made Nance use the last and greatest of feminine wiles to win him to her.

"I'm going away now," she said smiling into the grave brown eyes in the little face, "but if you'll kiss me—and won't tell Brand a thing about me, I'll come again tomorrow—and I'll bring you some more goodies. How about it?"

The promise, the kiss—these completed the downfall of the lonely waif, and Nance's heart ached anew at the pathetic grip of the weazened arms about her neck.

From the far bend she looked back—and this time it was to see the two strange denizens of Blue Stone canyon watching her in the habitual repression and silence of their unnatural lives, but withal so hungrily that the mist swam in her eyes again.

"What'd you find, Nance?" Bud queried when she rode in at home.

"I found a mystery I'm going to unravel," she answered grimly, "or my name's not Nance Allison—and I made love to a half-starved little kid—and got all chewed up by a dog—and I heard of a man who's going to get a piece of my mind some day—now, mark me!"

"Land sake!" said Mrs. Allison in the doorway, "what are they—campers?"

"No—and it looks mighty mysterious to me, Mammy. As soon's Bud puts Buckskin away I'll tell you all about it."

CHAPTER VI

Shadows in the Sheriff's Glass.

The sheriff went back to the store at Cordova and looked the proprietor in the eye.

"McKane," he said, "is there anything you want to say to me?"

McKane looked at him sullenly.

"Don't know's there is," he answered frankly, "you're able to answer it if I have, I find. I didn't wake up for two hours after you left that day."

"I'm sorry," said Price Selwood earnestly, "but you know you run against my fist yourself. I'd never mess up with a friend if I didn't have to. You'd ought to know me well enough to know that."

"I guess I do—but that d—d sneering threat of yours, Price—it just set me to seeing red. You don't seem to know a woman from a man, somehow."

There was a petulant complaint in his voice.

"Not when the woman's Kate Cathrew," said the sheriff grimly, "I don't."

"You're a good sheriff, Price, and a good man, but you're stupid as h—l sometimes. To hold Miss Cathrew under your two-bit magnifying glass of suspicion as you do is driveling twiddle—silly child's play. True, she lives an out-of-the-ordinary life—"

"I'll say she does," interrupted Selwood, "by what power does she hold together the worst set of off-scourings this country ever saw? Why do they obey her lightest word, step lively when she speaks in that high-and-mighty tone of hers? Tell me that. It ain't natural—not by a long shot. And here's another thing—a good two-thirds of them ain't cattlemen. Never were. I know that every new one, as he has come in from time to time during these past three or four years, has had to be taught the cattle business. Caldwell, her foreman, is a cowhand—he came from Texas—and so is that long black devil they call Sud Provine, and one or two others, but the rest are city products, or I'm a liar—and why does she want that kind? And she keeps a heavy force for the amount of cattle she runs."

McKane spread his hands in eloquent resignation.

"You two-bit officers!" he said, "you make me sick."

"Make you sick because you're already sick for Kate Cathrew—who wouldn't wipe her boots on you, and you know it."

"Sure, I know it. But that don't prevent me taking up for a woman, anywhere, any time."

Uncertain of morals and dealings as the trader was, there was a simple dignity in his words which demanded respect, and they struck Selwood so.

"I'm sorry I can't see Cattle Kate in the proper light, McKane," he said, "and that we've come to words and

From the Far Bend She Looked Back, and This Time It Was to See the Two Strange Denizens of Blue Canyon Watching Her.

blows over her. Maybe I lack something fine which you possess—but she's under my glass, all right, and I'm as sure as I stand here that some day its rays will show her up."

"As what?"

"I'm not saying."

"Men have died in their boots for less than that."

"True—but I won't."

"Maybe not."

"Look here, McKane—don't mess into Kate Cathrew's affairs. I'm giving you my hunch that the man who does is due for tragedy sooner or later—and you have no reason, for Kate don't care for you."

"No—nor for any other man."

"Wrong," said the sheriff succinctly.

"Eh?"

"Don't forget the man who comes in once a year—and he's due before so very long again—the man who sends her that regular letter from New York and who comes across the continent to see her?"

"Mr. Lawrence Arnold? Why, he's her business partner—owns a full half-interest in Sky Line."

"Well? You watch Kate's face when you see them together again this summer."

"H—l!" said McKane again in that resigned voice, "how'd you ever get elected with those reasoning powers of yours?"

"Oh—all right. But stay clear of Cattle Kate's fringes—for some day there's going to be the prettiest blow-up ever seen in the cattle country of the Deep Heart hills—and Kate's going mile high on the explosion."

"If you're so d—d bright as a sheriff why don't you busy yourself with trying to find out who stole that last bunch of steers from Conlan a month ago? The old man's half crazy with the loss. Yes—and that ninety head from Bossink—and the ones run off Jermyn's range last year? It looks like there's plenty he-man stuff around Nameless to interest your keen powers of perception without picking on a woman."

The sheriff was tying his sack of purchases on behind his saddle and didn't look round.

"I'll never find those cattle McKane—nor will anyone else—this side of cow-heaven," he said as he mounted, "but they, and their manner of disappearance, along with a few other things are all under that magnifying glass of mine. I think their ghosts will be in at that blow-up."

"That's rustler talk, Price," said the trader shortly.

"Sure," returned Selwood as he rode away.

That talk set going in the sheriff's mind a train of thought which was recurrent with him, which was forever traveling with him somewhere in his consciousness. Sometimes one thing set it going, sometimes another. In the two years already passed of his term of office it had been a matter of deep annoyance to him that he had not been able to put his hands on the mysterious rustlers who from time to time got away with stock up and down Nameless river.

This unseen, baleful agency was baffling as smoke.

It struck here—and there—with a decisive clean stroke like the head of a killing hawk, and there was nothing to show the how and wherefore. Cattle disappeared from the range with a smooth magic which was maddening. They left no trace, nothing. It seemed ridiculous that ninety head of steers could be driven out of the country leaving no trail, but such had been the case.

Selwood himself, with a picked posse, had trailed them into the river, and there they must have taken to themselves wings, for they had apparently never come out. To be sure Kate Cathrew was driving out her fall beef at the time, and the trampling band had crossed the river a bit below where the ninety head had entered the stream. That trampled crossing was the only spot for miles each way where a cattle-brute could have left the water, for Selwood searched every foot with eagle eyes. The coincidence of time stayed with the sheriff doggedly, even though the Cathrew cattle, honestly branded, went boldly through Cordova and down the Strip, as the narrow valley beside Nameless was called, and thence out to the railroad, three long days' drive away.

And the smaller thefts—old man Conlon's bunch and those of Jermyn—all lifted light as a feather. These had left not even a hoofmark. It was smooth stuff—and it galled the sheriff, was a secret source of humiliation. He had heard a good many remarks about his own inaction, though nearly all of the ranchers in the country were his friends.

But deep inside himself he laid a spiritual finger on the handsome, frowning-eyed woman at Sky Line and held it there.

Sooner or later, he told himself, as he had told McKane, the steady rays of his searching glass would reveal in her the thing he knew was there.

This was not logic, it was instinct—a poor thing for a sheriff to base his actions on, apparently, but Price Selwood based his thereon in unwavering confidence.

And if he could have looked into the living room at Sky Line that day he would have jotted in his mental notebook as correct, one premise—for the mistress sat again at her dark wood desk and read a letter, and her face was well worth watching.

The letter bore a New York postmark, and its terms were sharp and decisive, almost legal, leaving no doubt of their meaning.

Thus they carried to her consciousness a clear presentment of satisfaction concerning the last shipment of cattle, and just as clear an avowal of affection.

Kate Cathrew's sharp face was suffused with a light not meant for any eyes at Sky Line as she read and reread the sheets in her hands.

At their concluding words—"and so think I shall be with you at the usual time"—her lips parted over her teeth in a slow smile which was the visible embodiment of passion, while her dark eyes became for a moment slumbrous with the same surging force.

There was a man this woman loved. If ever a face spoke truth, and he was the writer of the letter.

Though the scattered denizens of the outside world of Nameless knew nothing of this, it was covertly known at Sky Line.

Every one of the hard-eyed band of riders knew it, with varying feelings. Minnie Pine knew it and old Josefa. Big Basford knew it and his red-rimmed eyes glowed with the light of murder when he watched Kate sit on the veranda with Lawrence Arnold in the long summer days while the light drowsed down from the high blue vault and Rainbow cliff sent down its prismatic colors shining afar over the slopes of Mystery. There was a look in the woman's dusky eyes that was plain as print—the hot, unsmiling, inflammable look of untempered passion.

Now she folded the letter, slipped it back in its envelope and put it away in a drawer of the desk which she locked securely with a key on a ring that she took from a pocket in her neat outing skirt. The act was indicative of Kate Cathrew's mode of life in her high domain. All things were ordered, filed and locked, so to speak, and she alone was the master.

A little later she went out on the broad veranda and sat down in the deep willow chair which rocked there, stirred fantastically by the stiff breeze which swept in across the great blue gulf of space between the peaks. Her eyes dropped down and down the wooded slopes of Mystery slanting beneath her to the long green flats on Nameless, the equally long brown spaces of Nance Allison's tilled field. Sight of that field was a barb in her consciousness. It never failed to stir her to slow and resurgent anger. It was an affront to her arrogant autocracy, a challenge and taunt.

She who hewed to her mark with such brilliant finesse, who had not so far failed to get what she wanted from life, had failed to get those flats—the best feeding ground for cattle in a hundred miles of range.

Cattle Kate Cathrew frowned as she regarded the tiny brown scar on the green bowl so far below and tapped her slim muscular fingers on the peeled arm of the hand-made rocker.

For half an hour she sat so, her chin on her hand, thinking.

Then at last she straightened and called Minnie Pine from the inner regions.

"Send me Caldwell," she said briefly.

When presently the foreman came from the corrals and stood before her, his hat in his hand, his attitude one of strict attention, she spoke swiftly with a certain satisfaction.

When she had finished, he said, "Sure. It's a pretty long trick, but it can be done."

"Then do it," said Kate Cathrew, "when I give the word. We'll wait a little, however—until the corn shows green from here. The better it looks one day the greater will be the contrast next. That's all."

* * * * * * * *

"The devils are working in the Boss' head again," said Minnie Pine, who had listened behind the window, speaking to old Josefa in their polyglot Spanish and Pomo, "and h—l's going to pop for the sun-woman on Nameless."

"How do you know?" asked the ancient dame, weaving a basket in dim green grasses.

"Because I heard what she said to Caldwell."

"You hear too much. An overloaded basket—breaks."

"Huh," grunted the half-breed, "the open eye sees game—for its owner's fattening."

"What are you two talkin' about?" asked the slim boy whom Big Basford had so nearly murdered that day on the porch, "always talkin' in that d—d native tongue. Why don't you learn white man's talk, Minnie?"

The girl wheeled to him where he leaned in the kitchen door, and her comely dark face flushed with pleasure.

"Would you like me any better?"

"Sure," he said, "make you seem a little whiter anyway."

There was cruelty in the careless speech, and it did not miss its mark, though Minnie Pine's dark eyes gave no sign.

"The young-green-tree-with-the-rising-sun-behind-it may want to talk the white man's tongue," said old Josefa grimly, "but she's a fool. All half-breeds are. They reap sorrow."

The boy laughed and his face came the nearest to wholesome youth of any at Sky Line. It still held something of softness, of humorous tolerance and good temper, as if not all its heritage of good intent had been warped away to wickedness.

His blue eyes regarded the big girl with approval, passing over her sleek black hair that shone like a crow's wing, her placid brow and unwavering dark eyes, her high cheeks and repressed thin lips.

"I'll give you a kiss, Minnie," he drawled, "for half that cream pie yonder."

Minnie looked at the pie and at Josefa, speaking swiftly.

The old woman nodded.

"If the mountain-stream wants to waste itself on the greedy sands," she said, "who am I to counsel otherwise? Yonder is the pie."

Minnie crossed the clean white floor and taking the pie from the window ledge where it sat cooling, divided it neatly. She fixed the two quarters on a plate from the cupboard and adding a fork, carried the whole to the boy.

She was the embodiment of the spirit of womanhood since the world was—selling her service to man for love.

"Take it, Rod Stone," she said.

It was indicative of her race that she did not exact her payment first. It was sufficient that she serve. If the white man chose to pay, to keep his word, so much the better.

Stone took the plate and put one arm about the splendid broad shoulders.

Bending down, he kissed the half-breed full on the lips—and for a second the black eyes glowed. Minnie Pine put a hand on his cheek with a caress infinitely soft.

"Humph," said Josefa, in English this time and pointedly, "I, too, have stood in the bend of a man's arm—but mine was a full-blood Pomo. I did not live to cover my head and weep."

"Shut up, Josefa," said the boy laughing again, "neither will Minnie, through me."

At that moment the door to the south part of the house opened noiselessly, and Kate Cathrew stood there scanning the group with her keen glance.

"Stone," she said coldly, "is this the best you can do to earn your wages? Get out with the men—go quick. Minnie, if I see any more of this you'll go back where I got you. Josefa, what's the matter with your rule out here? Do you let all the morning be wasted without care?"

Josefa gazed at her out of old eyes, calm with much looking on life, undisturbed.

"Not always," she answered, "but I, too, have been young. Minnie will work better for the kiss."

"Well," said Kate, "you'd better see that she does."

Here's two kinds of love. And it looks as if both would make trouble. What next?

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Bachelor's Joy

"This may seem peculiar," said a bachelor, "but I haven't a single key among my possessions. I live in a hotel, I have no car, the lock on my suitcase is broken, the janitor opens the office where I work, and, in fact, I have no occasion, during an entire day, to use a key of any description. And when I see some married man who is in business struggling to pick out the right key to fit some of his many holdings, I feel lucky. I really believe my bachelority is compensated in the fact that I don't have to go about carrying several pounds of keys."

THE AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

ARONOWITZ ACTIVE IN LEGION RANKS

A record of service from a mere private in the ranks to department commander of New York's American Legion is the record established by Samuel E. Aronowitz, whose term saw the accomplishment of New York's share of the $5,000,000 endowment, and a wholesome membership increase.

Aronowitz was born in the shadow of the capitol at Albany, New York, in 1890, being now some thirty-five years of age. Through the Albany high school, graduated with an A. B. degree from Dartmouth, he completed his education at the Albany Law school and was admitted to practice in 1914.

He continued to work in Albany until America entered the war, and then served in Company B, Three Hundred and Ninth Machine Gun battalion, Seventy-eighth division, as sergeant. Overseas more than a year, he saw service in the St. Mihiel offensive, the Liney defensive, and the Meuse-Argonne offensive.

Samuel E. Aronowitz.

Upon the American Legion's organization in New York state, he became actively interested, and after the first state convention at Rochester he attended every annual state and national convention as a delegate. He was appointed state adjutant in 1920 and was a member of the state legislative committee five years and chairman four. Elected in 1924 as state vice-commander, he was elected department commander upon the strength of his six years of constant Legion service.

Closer Co-operation to Result From Conference

Closer co-operation between the League of Nations and the Fidac, Interallied Association of World war veterans, will result from the recent visit to Geneva, Switzerland, of Thomas W. Miller of the American Legion, president of the Fidac.

After conference with the secretary general of the League, Sir Eric Drummond, Mr. Miller was asked to select a member of the Fidac as a permanent member of the staff of the league.

Among the suggestions for closer co-operation between the league and Fidac were the inclusion of a representative of the organized ex-service men in the various national delegations sent to the league, and the establishment of a closer contact between the central services of the league and the Fidac as to the actual facts and tendencies of league work in so far as it affects the major work of peaceful co-operation.

President Miller, previous to his visit to Geneva, had made a week's tour of England in the interest of the veterans' association he heads. He addressed in London the national executive committee of the British Legion, which had gathered from all parts of Great Britain, Scotland and Ireland. Miller stated that in England he found the British ex-service men facing the same problems as those in America, and that the British Legion was making the same fight for the disabled as the American Legion is making in America.

Announcement of American Legion members on the council of direction of the Fidac was made recently in Paris, Fidac headquarters, by Mr. Miller. They are: Benjamin H. Conner, department commander of the Legion in France; Edwin W. Thorn, commander of Paris post; Dr. Edmund L. Gros, physician to the American hospital; Francis Jacques, architect; Leon Fraser, assistant counsel, reparations commission; A. W. Kipling and Laurence V. Benet.

The next convention at Fidac will be held in Rome next September.

No Fun

Her summer escort had a new car and was anxious to show off in it.

"See?" he asked her. "I can stop this car dead still and in 15 seconds be going 50 miles an hour again."

"But," she objected, "what's the use of stopping at all if you do that?"—American Legion Weekly.

Guard at New York State Penitentiary Suffered Ten Years From Catarrh

Now Well He Used PE-RU-NA

Mr. Charles S. Many, 12 Water St., Ossining, N. Y., writes:—"I had catarrh for ten years, tried a lot of medicines, spent a lot of money but it did me no good. Instead of getting better I grew worse. My eyes were bloodshot, my nose smelled bad, and I would get so dizzy I would be forced to catch hold of something to keep from falling. I used about ten bottles of Pe-ru-na and am cured of catarrh, the dizzy feeling has left me and I am not bothered any more. I keep Pe-ru-na in the house and when I feel a cold coming on I take a little. It does me good."

Ask for the original and genuine Pe-ru-na the recognized treatment for catarrh and catarrhal conditions for more than fifty years.

Your dealer has Pe-ru-na in both tablet and liquid forms.

Practical Youth

It was at the senior prom and they were sitting out a dance in the moonlight. "I suppose," said she, "you're glad you are graduating from college soon?" He thought for some time before he made answer. "Oh, yes, I'm glad in a way, and in a way I'm sorry. But then, when all is said and done, I suppose it's time I put my golf to some practical use, don't you?"

Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN

Say "Bayer" - Insist!

For Colds Headache
Pain Lumbago
Neuralgia Rheumatism

Safe — Accept only a Bayer package which contains proven directions

Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets
Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

Music Cure for Flowers

F. C. Billings of Milwaukee, Wis., says flowers will retain their original blooms many days longer if "treated" with good music. Certain rhythmic waves set up in the atmosphere by strains of music have a beneficial effect on flowers, he maintains, after some interesting experiments. The effect is similar to the reaction from light waves, he says.

Sure Relief FOR INDIGESTION

6 BELL-ANS Hot water Sure Relief

BELL-ANS

25¢ AND 75¢ PACKAGES EVERYWHERE

And Sprinkle in the Foot-Bath
ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE

The Antiseptic, Healing Powder for tired, swollen, smarting, sweating feet. It takes the friction from the shoe, prevents blisters and sore spots and takes the sting out of corns and bunions. Always use Allen's Foot-Ease to break in new shoes. Sold everywhere. Trial package Free. Address ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE, Le Roy, N. Y.

Cuticura Soap

Pure and Wholesome

Keeps The Skin Clear

Soap, Ointment, Talcum sold everywhere.

Kill All Flies! THEY SPREAD DISEASE

Placed anywhere, DAISY FLY KILLER attracts and kills all flies. Neat, clean, ornamental, convenient and cheap. Lasts all season. Made of metal, can't spill or tip over, will not soil or injure anything. Guaranteed.

DAISY FLY KILLER at your dealer or 5 by EXPRESS, prepaid, $1.25.
HAROLD SOMERS, 150 De Kalb Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

KEEP EYES WELL!

Dr. Thompson's Eye Water will strengthen them. At druggists or 1157 River, Troy, N. Y. Booklet.

Community Building

Home Owner Always Makes Good Citizen

Home ownership is a big factor in the making of a good citizen. A man who owns his own home, or has started to pay for one, is a much more stable and dependable person than the one who rents his living quarters, because he feels himself a member of the community, writes Allene Lyle in the Chicago Evening Post. He expects to make it his permanent home and he is interested in improving it. The man who lives in a rented house or apartment can always move on short notice if there is something in the community which is not to his liking, and he is quite apt to do so, but the man who lives in a house which he owns himself is much more apt to try to bring the community up to his standards and ideals.

A home owner feels that he belongs to the community and it belongs to him. He pays taxes and he is concerned about how this public money is spent. He wants good streets and highways; he is interested in transportation facilities, lighting and improvements in sanitation; he demands good laws and their enforcement for the protection of his property and his family and is vitally concerned in his community's schools and churches.

Overlook Chances to Redeem Blighted Spots

While they are centering their attention on the conservation, protection and improvement of Illinois' beauty spots nature lovers and others interested in the state's natural beauty should not lose sight of the many blighted spots that have almost unlimited possibilities for improvement, in the opinion of Karl B. Lohmann, in charge of landscape gardening at the college of agriculture, University of Illinois.

"Many of the farm building groups in the state, hundreds of school grounds and miles of so-called improved roads unfortunately come within this class of blighted features, he said.

"Despite the luxurious acreage which they command," he explained, "thousands of farm building groups in Illinois are desolate because they are not in good order, they are not arranged efficiently for maximum convenience, they are not compactly and well disposed about agreeably shaped and effectively paved courts and they lack the picturesqueness that is possible with suitably placed trees, shrubs and lawns, hedges and fences. Stretches of grass should front the school structures and trees should be introduced."

Thought Comes Too Late

Formal and official city planning is comparatively a new art in this country. Most American cities have been allowed to grow in a haphazard way, and the way is usually to their disadvantage in attractiveness and convenience. It is only after they are well established that residents usually begin to think of the future development and to regret earlier mistakes. To correct all the unwise features and to remove or reconstruct obstructive and ugly buildings is too costly an undertaking, and for the most part the planning that can then be done looks to the suburban growth and to public and business structures that, as time and progress go on, are necessary to replace old ones.

Plant Flowers

The tenant who has flowers growing in his front yard is the future home owner," observes O. H. Funsten, vice president of the Richmond (Pa.) Real Estate exchange. Esthetic decoration of the home, and the deep-rooted instinct to merge the house with its surroundings through the planting of shrubbery probably date back to the early trained vines near the opening of the first cave, the National Association of Real Estate Boards suggests. Isn't it the vine and the fig tree that announced to the primitive world in general, "This abode belongs to someone"?

Importance of Prosperity

There is nothing of more importance to any of us than the prosperity of our own town and community, so let's get together and work to that end. The more prosperous the town and community is as a whole the more prosperous will be each individual. That is the only way any community can become really prosperous is by a co-operation on the part of all in making it so. We can never expect to amount to much if we persist in the idea of "going it alone." Let's work together.—Marion County (Ala.) News.

Economy in Building

The actual value of the house, its upkeep, and the health and comfort of the family, are to a very large extent dependent on the character and quality of its heating, lighting, plumbing, and mechanical equipment. Home builders are advised not to select poor equipment because it seems cheap. True economy lies first in careful planning, second in buying good materials as cheaply as possible, and third in seeing that the equipment is properly installed.—Indianapolis Star.

COOL FROCKS FOR HOT DAYS; COLONIAL FURNISHINGS BACK

EVER hotter, hotter, hotter glares the sun in town and country—ever thinner, briefer, cooler grow the frocks and suits we live in. As the thermometer mounts mercilessly upward stylists consider ways and means for clothing womankind in the least burdensome of fabrics, made in the simplest styles—and for once in the history of the race, mere man regards his sisters enviously. Midsummer finds them clad in delicate and beautiful frocks and suits that weigh nothing and are all but transparent. What is more, they are, as a rule, inexpensive—they look cool and are cool.

As for frocks, morning, afternoon and evening find women wearing various simple models made of light-printed silks or silky cottons. Two-color combinations are greatly favored and in silk or crepe or chiffon dresses, flaring skirts, front fullness and side fullness, dispute the supremacy of the straightline dress. As a rule sleeves are long but there is a choice between those that flare at the forearm and those that fit closely. Neck lines are varied but easy and cool. In the printed chiffon frocks for afternoon they are usually round and many of these are sleeveless. Dainty or daring prints are depended upon to give interest to morning and sports frocks like that shown in the picture.

For sports suits, crepe, flannel, printed silks and English broadcloth, with varied rayon weaves and knitted fabrics, make up a practical line to choose from. But designers are not hampered in choice of materials and some of them have appropriated chiffon or sheer printed crepes for sports models; going to the last extreme in delicacy of fabrics. Striped mohair is a fine medium for a cool but substantial suit like that pictured and this is an ideal model for traveling or touring. White collar and cuffs, of crepe de chine are removable and washable and lend to the mohair suit a bit of softness that it needs. The fabric shows a hairline stripe on a colored or black ground and the design pictured is particularly becoming to slender figures.

Two Suits for Torrid Days.

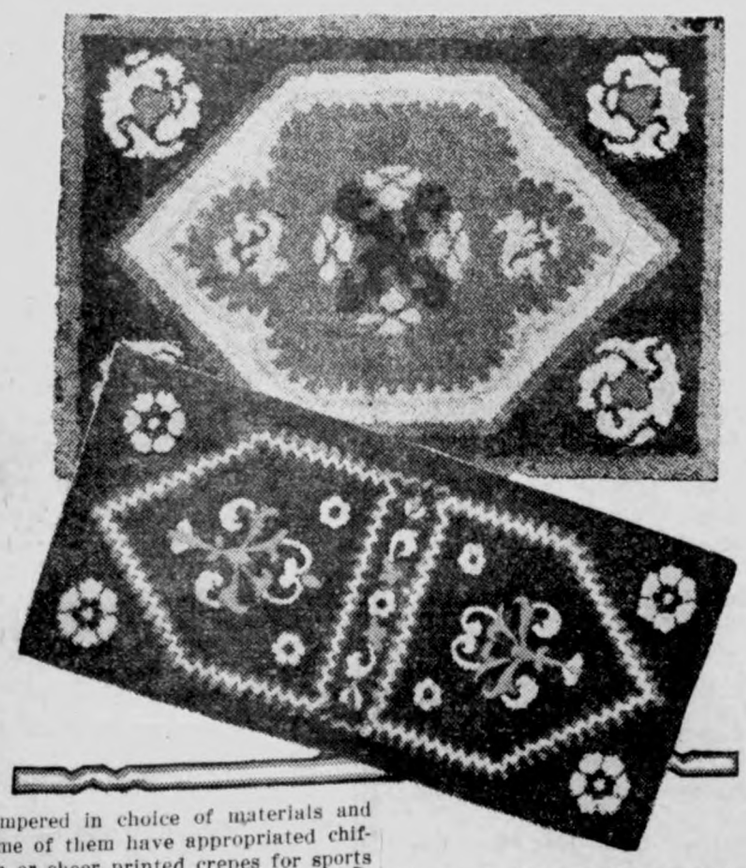
If you are the proud possessor of a genuine antique—in a patchwork quilt, a quaint sampler, hand-woven blanket or counterpane or a homemade rug, now is the time to point with pride to this early American objet d'art. Even reproductions of our early craftsmanship in home furnishings are selling at a premium and there is a demand for beautiful patchwork and especially for homemade rugs. This demand comes from the best people and happy the flapper who can stow away in her hope chest even a copy of the possessions of her great, great, great-grandmother. The rich are making collections of old pieces or copies of them and furnishing at least one room in the dignified and cheerful manner of Colonial times.

This has brought about a revival of the art of hooking and the popularity of hooked and other homemade rugs. Those made of narrow strips of woolen rags braided and sewed together in oval or circular forms and those of rags or heavy yarn, hooked through a foundation in the quaint and handsome patterns of the originals are in demand by interior decorators. The yarn rugs are the handsomest and a special needle for hooking makes the work rapid and easy.

Two very attractive patterns for hooked rugs are illustrated here. They allow a choice of colors to suit individual taste or to harmonize with surroundings and are made of heavy yarn hooked through burlap. They are rich and very durable—nothing is better worth while as a return for time spent in making it. With hooked rugs on the floor, glazed chintz curtains at the windows, a four-post bedstead covered with a pretty patchwork quilt—all modern copies of old designs—what relics of the past we may possess in pictures, vases, perfume bottles and the like will show to advantage. Such a room gives one a wonderful sense of home.

The two very attractive patterns for rugs, made of heavy yarn, shown here are of the sort that never grows tiresome. In colors, dark reds, strong blues, brown and tan, with touches of green, are found to harmonize with almost any color scheme in the home.

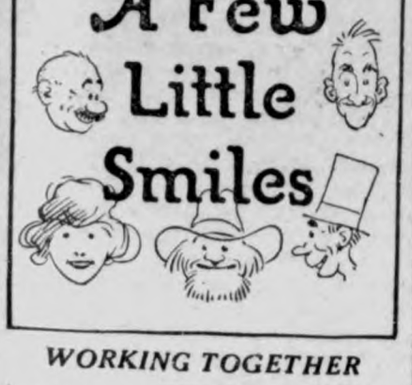
JULIA BOTTOMLEY.



Homemade Rugs in Pretty Designs.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

A Few Little Smiles



WORKING TOGETHER

"Yes," said the man in the ancient overcoat with bulging pockets, "Bill and me are in partnership, but we don't carry the same goods."

"What do you mean?"

"Why, Bill goes around sellin' a stove polish that leaves a stain on the fingers and I go around next day to the same houses with the only soap that'll take it off."

After Due Cogitation

An American Visitor—Why don't they show a comedy instead of this scenic?

'Is Henglish 'Ost—Oh, they never show comedies at the cinema in England on Saturday night. They're afraid they'll cause laughter in the churches.—Black and Blue Jay.

HARD TIMES

First Surgeon—Well, how are things with you?

Second Do.—Bad. The appendix crop has been an absolute failure this year.

Talking Money

If money talks,
As some folks say,
It never gives Itself away.

Repartee in the Kitchen

Mrs. Brown was in the kitchen helping Nora, the cook, prepare supper.

"It's an old saying," she remarked to Nora, "that 'too many cooks spoil the broth'; what do you think?"

"Sure, mam," she replied, "there's nothing to worry about—there's only wan cook here."

There Will Be

"Are you going away?"

"Yes, to America."

"By which ship?"

"By airship."

"But there is no airship service."

"There will be by the time my wife is ready."—London Answers.

Where They Lived

"That's a dandy home I bought; it had never been lived in."

"Never lived in? I am sure you are mistaken about that."

"No, I'm not. The family that had it owned three automobiles."

Complete

Mrs. Newlywed (giving first order to butcher over phone)—Please send me a pound of steak.

Butcher—And what else, please?

Mrs. Newlywed—And—some gravy. —Progressive Grocer.

Luck for the Pedicure

Jimmy (to dancing partner)—This is simply great. My feet hardly seem to touch the floor.

His Partner (with feeling)—You're right, Jimmy; they don't.

THE POPULAR RACE

"Has Johnson ever been in an auto race?"

"Yes—neighborhood race—to see who could buy the biggest and finest car."

And Needs a Muzzle

Though he himself
Thinks he's a "wow,"
Our opinion is
He's a bow-wow.

When Silence Is Golden

"Can a man tell when a woman loves him?"

"Sure; but she is liable to get mad." —West Virginia Moonshine.

As Usual

"Mamma?"

"Well, Penelope?"

"What is 'the end of a perfect day'?"

"With some men, dearie, it seems to be about three o'clock the next morning."—Youngstown Telegram.

A Cook Tourist

"Leaving us so soon, Bridget?"

"Yes, mum; I never stay long in one place."

"I see. You're one of those cook tourists.—The Progressive Grocer.

Yeast Foam

Good bread makers everywhere prefer it

Send for free booklet "The Art of Baking Bread"

Human Happiness Not to Be Bought

It was the keenly observant La Rochefoucauld who said that whatever might be the apparent difference between fortunes there was always a certain compensation of good and evil which rendered them equal. I am inclined to believe that this is true. I can no longer look upon myself as one singled out from the herd, but I have learned much by being merged with the herd.

I know that though extreme poverty is a blight and a curse, yet the greatest satisfactions are not those which can be bought with money. This sounds like sour grapes platitudinously expressed, but it is not. It is a deep truth which I have learned by observing both the well-to-do and the poor at close range. I have learned, too, how comparatively valueless are possessions as contributors to human happiness.—Edith Summers Kelley, in Hearst's International-Cosmopolitan.

Ingenious Cat

An innocent-looking black cat, which is the pet of a Burlington (Vt.) store, was seen to leap up on the counter and get into the egg basket, says the Boston Globe. The cat proceeded to push one of the eggs out with its paws and when it broke on the floor, jumped down and ate the egg, leaving the shell. Then and there the store mystery of the broken eggshells on the floor was solved. And a short time after that, the cat excelled itself. A glass jar of chicken was in a basket, and craving a little solid food, the cat pushed the rather heavy jar off the counter. It went after the chicken and ate everything but the glass.

Like American Bungalows

American films have popularized the American bungalow, with its built-in furniture and many modern living conveniences, to the people of Brazil. Forty-five per cent of the new dwellings going up in Sao Paulo, Brazil, at the present time, are copied from the California product. The only difficulty encountered is the general absence of a servant's room; all middle-class Brazilians have servants, due to the cheapness of labor.

Large Beaver Fur Sale

The largest beaver fur sale by the provincial government game guardian's department for some years past was put through a few years ago, when 216 pelts were sold to Alberta dealers. The average price realized was $12.78, and the top price in the lot was $100 for three particularly fine skins.

Cuticura Comforts Baby's Skin

When red, rough and itching, by hot baths of Cuticura Soap and touches of Cuticura Ointment. Also make use now and then of that exquisitely scented dusting powder, Cuticura Talcum, one of the indispensable Cuticura Toilet Trio.—Advertisement.

Igloo Fisheries

Baffin Island Eskimos build their igloos on the lakes and cut holes through their parlor floors to fish for their winter dinners.—Science Service.

To Learn Trade

"I'd like to learn to shoe horses, Mister Blacksmith." "All right, son, I'll start you out shoolin' flies."

Jackson County vs. Martin Larson et al, Plff, asks judgment for $1,-6.68.

A. M. Cchanke, et al vs. Ned O'-ill et al Plff, asks judgment for 2,000 on notes and $595.82 taxes and foreclosure of mtg on SE¼ 1¼ 24 and E½ NE¼ 25-96-23.

Iowa Land and Livestock Ci., vs A. Dickson, Plff asks judgment or $500.00 due for rent and land-rd's attachment.

V. Johnson vs Lincoln M. Boulds, al., Plff, asks judgment for $2,-tachment for services rendered.

First National Bank, Pomercy, Ia. s. Chas W. Johnson and others, lff asks judgment for $126.00 for 26.00 for rent due.

W. R. Bloom, vs Peter Merkel et. l. Plff asks judgment for $28,804.-6 and foreclosure of mtg. on NE¼

Sympathetic

"That's a fine motor. How did you get it?"

"Out of a prize competition."

"Did you win it?"

"No, I organized it."

A Better Heel to Walk On

"U.S." SPRING-STEP Rubber Heels

Made of Sprayed Rubber—the purest, toughest and most uniform rubber known

And for the best shoe sole you ever had—

USKIDE

—the wonder sole for wear

United States Rubber Company

FARM FOR SALE—385 acres in Erie Co., Pa. Gravel loam soil. $50 per acre. Ask R. H. AKINS, Euclid Village, Ohio.

WRITE SONGS—Big money and reputation. Write for information. J. GORDON PUB. CO., 201 N. Hoyne Ave., Chicago.

W. N. U., DES MOINES, NO. 28--1925.

He Killed Her

He—Look, our captain is going to kick the goal!

She—What did the goal do?

Children Cry for

Fletcher's CASTORIA

MOTHER:- Fletcher's Castoria is a pleasant, harmless Substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Teething Drops and Soothing Syrups, especially prepared for Infants in arms and Children all ages.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

GOODELL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Johnson of Iowa Falls spent Sunday at the W. L. Sherwood home.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Newberger and Mr. and Mrs. Preseley Griggs were visiting at the Jay Griggs home Saturday.

Mr. Conwell, Mrs. Conlan and Mrs Ruka entertained the Rosary at the Catholic church basement Thursday.

tle Kate," owner of the Sky Line ranch, on her way to McKane's store at Cordova, seemingly infuriated by the sight of a girl plowing in a valley below, places a rifle bullet near the horses' feet. The girl takes no notice. Kate goes on to town, where her presence brings on a fight between McKane, the trader, and Sheriff Selwood. Nance Allison, the girl on whom Kate Cathrew had vented her spite, is with her widowed mother and crippled brother Bud farming land taken up by her father, killed a short time before in a mysterious accident. Bud is the victim of a deliberate scheme to maim or kill him. Kate Cathrew wants the farm for pasture land, and is trying to frighten the Allisons into leaving. Big Basford, Sky Line rider, desperately in love with Kate, picks a quarrel with a fellow rider, Rod Stone. Kate, to part them, lashes Basford across the face with a quirt. Nance discovers in a cave a fine collie dog, evidently guarding a child. She goes home mystified. Next day Nance returns to the cave with food and makes friends with the dog and the small boy, Sonny.

PALACE

Mason City, Iowa.

FIRST TIME AT POPULAR PRICES

From the jazz of ancient Egypt to

One Entire Week Starting

Sunday, July 12th

Adults 50c
Children 25c

the jazz of America today

That's — 'THE TEN COMMANDMENTS'

Cecil B. DeMille's greatest Paramount Picture

PRESENTED BY ADOLPH ZUKOR AND JESSE L. LASKY

SPECIAL MUSIC

Priscilla Dean

the Favorite Universal Film Star says of the mysterious, distinctive

NEW GARDA ODOR

"Its strange, clinging delicacy always is a source of delight."

Have you tried the NEW Garda Toiletries? If not, try them now. You will be charmed. This complete line of products issued by the great

HOUSE OF WATKINS
(Established 1868.)
WINONA, MINNESOTA.

consists of seven rich creations:
GARDA FACE POWDER, ROUGE, FACE CREAM, PERFUME, TOILET WATER, NAIL POLISH, TALCUM

Learn to know and love Garda, as millions of women are doing. Ask information about Garda Toilet Preparations and 137 other Products from

THE WATKINS RETAILER

Floyd Fraser

Louisa Ahrenkiel, Louise Mason, Dorothy Lackore and her roommate, Esther Harberts and Edith Halppop spent the Fourth at their respective homes, returning to Cedar Falls, Sunday.

Mr. George Sherwood of Iowa Falls is spending a few days at his brothers home.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gosnold and Georgine and Mary Francis spent Friday night at the Lamer home. They were enroute to Lake Bermidji, Minnesota on a fishing trip.

Carrol and Leona Cashman are spending a few days with their mother Mrs. Thos. Cashman.

Fernon Griggs spent the weekend at Fort Dodge.

Ed. Hemingway attended the "Western Round Up" at Fort Dodge Friday.

Mrs. Wesenberg, Mrs. Rust and Miss Olive Butts chaperoned Camp Fire girls at Lake Cornelia a few days the past week. The girls were being taught to swim were badly sunburned while in the water, so we don't think they'll continue their swimming lessons while the sun is hot.

Mr. and Mrs. Phoncey Hood and children of Belmond are visiting at the Adrian Beilifeld home.

John Kearney of Williams is visiting relatives at Goodell.

What gourmands lack is an alarm clock in their interiors to tell them when to stop.

Men's beards are about as much bother to them as women's complexions are to women.

When one is running on his "second wind" he should remember that that's his last supply.

He that places himself neither higher nor lower than he ought to do exercises the truest humility.

If one is desperate enough he will learn to do a good many things he ought to know how to do.

Wheat Weevils Easily and Cheaply Destroyed

Carbon bisulphide has been used extensively, especially in box cars, for the destruction of weevils in wheat; but on account of its inflammable and explosive character it has been outlawed by the railroads. A new agent has been sought and, according to Chemical and Metallurgical Engineering, the search has been successful, Compressed Air Magazine announces.

An admixture of two volumes of ethyl acetate and three of carbon tetrachloride has been found by the bureau of chemistry to be an ideal fumigant for the purpose. It is noninflammable, nonexplosive, leaves no objectionable odor or flavor, and does its work most effectually. In loaded cars, not less than 40 pounds of the gas is used per 1,000 cubic feet of air space. At present prices the mixture costs 10 cents a pound. At that rate, and figuring the average box car to have a capacity of 2,750 cubic feet and to be loaded with 1,300 bushels of wheat, the cost of fumigating would be less than a cent a bushel.

Had Him Hooked

A stylish young man went to call on a country girl, whom he had met the week before. He asked her to play the piano and inquired if she knew some popular pieces.

When she had finished playing a piece, he asked her, "Do you know 'I Love You Truly'?"

She replied, "I wasn't certain, but I hoped it."

The Bright Side

Robert Bridges, the English poet laureate, said at an Ann Arbor tea:

"I am an optimist, and I can always see the bright side."

"Take for example, the old saying that few people practice what they preach. That is very sad, of course, but how much sadder it would be if we all preached what we practiced."

Shake Hands With Mr. Yi

If you should happen to be on the Cote d'Azur and should chance to meet a young man who signs himself Henry Pu Yi, know that you have encountered the erstwhile emperor of China who is touring Europe because he has nothing else to do.—Paris Figaro.

Carp Frozen in Texas

A sudden and premature cold snap in Texas caused the death of thousands of carp in Texan waters early in December. In shallow lakes, especially, the water froze sufficiently to kill the carp, while the perch and catfish escaped, only to be caught later.

Timber Lasted Well

Believed to be the last old timber bridge to be used for heavy traffic in England, the bridge at North Seaton, Northumberland, over the River Wansbeck, has been in use for well over half a century. It is to be replaced by a new steel viaduct 1,041 feet long.

Electric Branding Iron

Bobbed hair and the attendant use of electric curling irons has led to the development of an electric branding iron for cattle. This apparatus was first used at Cheyenne, Wyo., in the annual celebration of frontier days, recently held.

"DUMMY COW" RULED NOT GOOD EVIDENCE

The Supreme court of Oregon has reversed the decision of a trial court in the prosecution of a man accused of stealing a cow, in which pieces of hide and the head of the animal were offered as exhibits. One of the witnesses for the state, a harness maker, who had no knowledge of taxidermy, sewed together a cowhide and the skin of a cow's head, which had been previously offered as evidence against the accused, and stuffed them to resemble a cow. The prosecuting attorney had the dummy cow brought in to emphasize his argument. The defendant's attorney objected on the ground that the dummy was offered for theatrical effect, but the trial judge permitted the use of the stuffed cow because it was analogous to piecing together broken property, such as a mirror. The Supreme court, in reversing the verdict, ruled that the cow had no place in the prosecutor's argument because of the uncertainty as to the component parts of the dummy and the failure to offer testimony as to their arrangement.

Safety Device Will Be Hailed by Pedestrian

Making the street safe for the pedestrian is the object of a newly invented safety fender for automobiles patented by M. Laurenceau in France. His invention works on the principle of the cowcatcher of a locomotive and is simply a steel net with arms which operate automatically in picking up any obstruction in front of the car. The car stops automatically when the catcher operates and the driver is forced to pay some attention to his unexpected passenger. If a man is standing when he is hit he is seated abruptly on the frame. If, however, he is knocked down the device acts as a cot holding him comfortably until the car stops and he can be disengaged. This invention is said to be practicable for any size car from a small one to the largest and most powerful cars built. M. Laurenceau designed it primarily for use on taxicabs.

The Card Fan

Bishop Beauchamp said at a Nashville reception the other day:

"Our church, the Methodist church, permits dancing and card playing now. Well, I suppose it had to come. The young are constantly crazy over dancing and card playing.

"There's a story about a family that was crazy over card playing. The father died, and some of the relatives wanted him cremated, while others wanted him buried. The decision finally was left to the eldest son, a terrible bridge fanatic. The young man thought a while and then said:

"'I guess I'll make it spades.'"

Altogether Different

A lawyer was examining a witness whom he had reason to suspect of deliberate perjury.

At length, becoming impatient, he asked, very impressively: "Do you know the nature of an oath?"

"I do."

"Are you aware that you are commanded in the Bible not to bear false witness against your neighbor?"

"I am; but I'm not bearin' false witness agin him. I'm bearin' false witness for him."

Feminine Amenities

When women are witty their wit is apt to take an acrid turn.

Two young women were lunching together.

"There goes George Featherstonhaugh," said the first. "What a flatterer he is!"

"Why?" asked the second girl. "Did he say you were pretty?"

"No," the first answered; "he said you were."

Sleep Called Unnecessary

Martinetti, a celebrated Futurist in Italy has renewed the argument as to whether sleep is essential to human life. He maintains it is not, although there is no evidence that he does not indulge himself with it. In his opinion, real progressives of the future must fight all forms of rest and banish sleep. He declares that a sleepless life will ultimately be the only joyous one.

World's Fair for France

An industrial art exposition is to be held in France, probably in 1925. The site chosen is on a stretch from the Invalides to the Champs Elysees, and already buildings are rising in anticipation of the event. French cooking and French furniture making will have a very prominent place in the exposition.

Obliging Murderer

A young Japanese student, after killing Kimimatsu Nakagawa, principal of a large school, went to the latter's home and told his wife where she could find the body. He then disappeared. The slaying resulted from a dispute between the principal and the student over his conduct in school.

Invents Traffic Relief

To relieve traffic congestion in large cities, an inventor has devised cigar-shaped cars hung in pairs from a single overhead rail and capable of traveling 100 miles an hour.

Decline in Diphtheria

Between 1918 and 1923 the death rate in diphtheria declined 10.3 per cent. At this rate deaths from diphtheria will be negligible by 1930.

Jig Jog Jags

Fair, slim, graceful as a fawn, she dived into the swimming pool. She never came up. "But" said the optimist, "it was a good dive."

Phrenoligist— What is that strange looking bump on your head."

Gentleman being examined—Well you see, I had water on the brain and I guess it must have came to a boil.

The lowest man , I ever knew,
Borrowed my false teeth, then asked for a chew.

"Have you had your iron today?"
"Well, I've bitten my nails."

He—I wonder how long I could live without brains?

She— Time will tell.

We've got a guy in our town who thinks he's pretty smart—he can smoke a cigarette on either end and still never get burned."

The quickest man in the world—he can turn around so fast hec an see the back of his head in themirror.

"Say waiter, how did you get this hair into my honey?"

"Dunno. It must have came from the comb.' '

Doctor— Congratulations, Governor, you're the father of triplets.

Governor—I demand a recount.

Contrib— That's a pretty good joke, if I do say it myself.

Editor (wearily)—Yes, I always did like that one.

NOW YOU TELL ONE

Youth—In your walks out in the country did you ever see a snail?

Waiter— Yes sir(many a time.

Youth—Well, you may have met one, but its a cinch that you never passed one.

"You're lookin' bad, Wallie."

"Bye, I've been in the hospital, an' the doctors have taken awa' ma appendix."

"These doctors will take away any thin. It's a peety ye didna have it in yer wife's name.' '

She—I can't imagine Rudolph Valentino making love to a girl with abeard.

He— Neither can I. I detest bearded ladies.

Is it true that statistics show that women live to be older than men?"

"They ought to. Paint's a great preservative you know."

The laziest man in the world — Took the sulphuric acid bottle off the shelf by mistake, noted the error but drank it rather than reach again for the cough syrup.

Why is our traffic cop like a rainbow?

Because he turns a lot of different colors?

Wrong again. Because he never shows up until after the storm.

English Prof: Correct this sentence: "Before any damage could be done, the fire was put out by the volunteer fired eparament.

Frosh—"The fire was put out befor any damage could be done by the volunteer fire department.

Tha's That

Persnicck—I have been watching you now for several days—and I notice you don't seem very busy. You've spent at least three hours a day sitting on that soap box.

Whiskers—I guess that's about right.

Persnick—Aren't you ashamed to waste time that way? Time is valuable you know. Now if you were working at a common laboring wage you would have earned at least $9 in the time I have been watching you.

Whiskers— I guess that's about right.

Persnick— How long has this been going on?

Whiskers—Oh, say twenty or more years.

Persnick— Twenty years! Man. man, see that building over there? You could own that building today, with money earned in wasted time.

Whiskers— Do you own that building.

Persnick— No—

Whiskers— I do.

"So you want to join the army—fer how long?"

"Duration."

"But there ain't any war on."

"I know—I mean duration of peace."

Teacher—What word is the opposite of misery?

Class—Happiness.

Teacehr—What is the opposite of woe?

Bright Student.—Giddap.

Maid—M'm, I just accidently let the baby's blanket fall out of the window.

Mother— How awfully clumsy of you; now baby will catch cold.

Maid—Oh, no, he won't. He was inside of the blanket.

Father (to son)—Look through the keyhole into the parlor.

Son—I did.

"And what did you find out?"

"The lights."

Small boy at zoo looking at stork: Mother, I really believe he is trying to see if he can remember me.

"The time will come,' shouted the lecturer, "when women will get mens' wages."

"Yes," shouted a little man in the back seat, "nevt Saturday night."

THIS IS THE RIGHT PLACE

To buy your Cigars, Cigarettes, Smoking and Chewing Tobacco—our stock is always nice and fresh.

We carry a complete line of box and bulk fancy candy.

Refreshing soft drings.

And, why not step in and play a social game of pool while in town?

SMITH'S BILLARD HALL

..NOTICE—The board of directors of the Independent School District of Klemme, Hancock county, Iowa, will meet Tuesday, July 21, 1925 at 8:00 P. M. at the office of th eNorth ern Lumber Co. Taxpayers will be heard for or against the following estimate of expenditures at that time.

PAUL GRANGE, Secretary.

GENERAL FUND—
Expenditures estimated for 1926	$ 12,500.00
Income from other sources	3,255.00
Taxes to be raised	9,000.00
Expended in 1924-25	14,971.19
Expended in 1923	17,264.22
SCHOOL HOUSE FUND—
Expenditures estimated for 1926	$ 3,500.00
Income for other sources	None
Taxes to be raised	3,500.00
Expended in 1942-25	1,803.90
Expended in 1923	16,000.00
Total Taxes to be raised for all school purposes	$12,500.00
Estimated taxes Per $1000.00 of assessed value $9.00.

Hot Weather Supplies--

During the hot summer weather your wants turn to means of getting the most work done and at the same time enjoying as much comfort as possible.

The house-wife can find many warm weather conveniences here, and we list a few practical suggestions:

OIL STOVES—we carry a complete line in all sizes from 1 to 4 burner, either with or without oven in any size. Use an oil cook stove and keep your kitchen cooler. They are quick for cooking and baking.

THERMO JUGS—and Thermo Bottles are fine for keeping drinks cool during hot weather. Fine either in the home or field.

MORE SUGGESTIONS: Buy an electric iron, a handy ironing board and one of our Washing Machines for making wash-day a cool, pleasant task. An Ice Cream Freezer will give you some fine home made ice cold cream, sherbets, etc at a low cost. We sell 'em here.

And it is just the time to screen your porch—we carry all kinds of screen. Screen now and keep cool!

Jacobs & Son

Rarely in Want

People marvel at the contentment of the French Peasants. Yet in their simple way of living, they are rarely in want.

Anyone can have this same contentment if he cultivates thrift. A savings account is one sure way of providing for the future. We invite you to open one with us.

First National Bank,
KLEMME, IOWA.

THE KLEMME TIMES

enty-ninth Year—Number 45. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, JULY 16, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

LEMME "CARRIES ON" IN SPITE OF BIG BANK LOSS

ORGE E. SAUNDERS IS PERMANENT RECEIVER

w Receiver Sets. Aug 15 as Final Date for Filing of Claims

The following is clipped from the ason City Globe-Gazette dated—Klemme, July 13." and describes irly well the bank situation here.

"Carrying on in the face of a bank osing which has tied almost half million dollars, with the likelihood at something over half of that amount has left never to return was hard assignment of this town. Yet at is just what is being done.

Although the conservation in oups on the street invariably rifts to the crash of the State Savgs Bank, there is nothing of hopessness about the attitude of even ose who stand in a position to se most heavily.

"Maybe it's because we've sort of ot used to being 'hooked' by oil ock promoters and the like," one sident put it when discussing this gle of the situation.

Saunders is Receiver

The doors of the neat, little brick nk, which only a fortnight ago as regarded as one of the strongt institutions in the county are osed, with curtains drawn, but e lock is not on. George E. Saunrs, son of W. E. G. Saunders, formr banker and legislature from Spenr, is in charge of the closed initution as permanent receiver and ith one assistant, also from the ate banking department, he is exmining the books and business of e bank.

Paul Griesemer, president of the nk, who is accused of fraudulent anking, is called into conference most daily and is giving full inforation about the points in question. t the former cashier, Frank enck, is conspicuous by his abnce, the understanding being that is in Mason City. Mrs. Wenck is ith him and their commodious me two blocks from the bank is osed, with blinds drawn. Both riesemer and Wenck are at liberty bond of $10,000 awaiting their reliminary trial on July 25 before ustice H. L. Suckow here.

Brown and Ode Leave

Mr. Saunders, whose appointment the present position came from tate Banking Supt. Andrew as one his first official acts, succeeds P. Ode, who, with H. L. Brown, ame here in the latter part of June make the investigation which reulted in a finding of a shortage in e accounts which admittedly approaches a quarter of a million dolrs.

One of Mr. Saunders first anouncements concerning the affairs the bank was a notice that generl creditors of the institution have ntil Aug. 15 to file claims. Claims ot formally filed by that time will ot be honored.

"Depositors need not file claims," e explained when approached by a lobe-Gazette representative, "but I m going to ask them to call at the ank so that I can compare their cer ificates of deposit with our records.'

The purpose of this procedure, obiously, is to make sure that each epositor has been given credit on he books of the bank for the a mounts set forth on his certificate.

No Report in Near Future

Although the report was current hat the next few days would see statement setting out the exact ondition of the bank, Mr. Saunders declared he first statment of this kind which comes regularly in a case of this kind is the one submitted to the court, which probably would not be for two or three months. Any other procedure would have to be ordered by the state banking superintendent.

In any event, there is no possibility that the margin of assets in the bank between the shortage and the four hundred thousand dollars or so deposist will be available for distribution before fall at least.

To say that there is no evidence here of indignation over the turn of affairs in the bank would be untruthful. There are those, however, who still believe that Mr. Griesemer will be able to show extenuating circumstances in the enormously serious charges laid against him. His decision to remain here and "face the music," as his neighbors put it, has proved a point in his favor at any rate.

With Mrs. Griesemer, he still occupies the rather good-sized and comfortably appointed brown home in th esouth edge of town. When the Globe-Gazette representative called to obtain any statment he might have to make, he was met at the door by Mrs. Griesemer, a demure little woman whose worry over the plight of her husband was evident even to one who had not known her in the days when Paul Griesemer was looked upon as one of the town's foremost citizens.

There was an admission from her that she didn't believe her husband had been dealt with entirely fair by newspapers but there was no note of bitterness. Her husband had gone into the country, she explained, and he could not be reached. Within the home were several visitors, who Mrs. Griesemer explained, had come to express their sympathy and offer their assistance.

Called by telepehone later, Mr. Griesemer declared there was nothing he wished to say. He expressed the opinion that enough had been said about the case and that there was nothing to be gained by further publicity.

One of the points upon which the case may turn is the status of Wenck at the time of the closing. His contention is that his connection with the bank as cashier had been severed on January 1 of this year. But Saunders explained that "No resignation from Wenck is on file.' '

Although the details of the alleged irregularities in the case have not yet become fully known, even to the directors of the bank, it is no secret that the evidence already at hand will make the trial one of the most sensational in Hancock county court annals. Elements to figure in it will include charges of forgery and unchecked speculation and the claim of a "master mind' 'which has dominated and controlled the actions of a personallity of a lesser will.

ENGEL - BLANK WEDDING

A very quiet wedding took place at the home of Rev. J. Engel of Watertown, Wis. when his oldest daughter Tabea became of the happy bride of Mr. Fred Blank.

The bridal pair were attended by the bride's sister Alma, maiden of honor and her brother Alfons, best man. Only the immediate members of the family were present and at midnight a supper was served by the bride's parents and family. A very enjoyable evening was spent whereupon the brida pair left to enjoy a trip to the Pacific Coast and the Southern States.

After August 15, they will be at home to their friends at Morrison, Iowa where Mr. Blank holds a position, having charge of a railroad station there. Mr. Blank formerly was at Ward, Co. Dakota where he is very well known.

We wish the young couple much sucess and happiness.

Electrical developement in Iowa is going forward at a remarkable pace Before the close of this year the electrical generating capacity in this state will be increased at least 200,000 horse power through the erection of new generating plants in some of the principle cities. According to the latest figures available, there wrre 7,000 miles of high voltage transmission lines in Iowa in 1924, and a net work of dow voltage line. Many farmers are already provided with power and light from these lines. In addition to this, nearly 10,000 farm homes are equiped with individual lighting plants, many of which are electrical.

JARDINE GIVES FARM NEEDS

Believes Cooperation, Better Farm Management, Cutting Production Costs Paramount

The solution to thep roblem of Placing agriculture once on a pro&itable table and firm basis, commensurate with other industries, which Secretary of Agriculture. W. M. Jardine gave at Iowa State College, July 10, in his lone address to Iowans, combined a number of factors, including better organization and management of the farm business, co-operative marketing of the farm business, co-operative marketing, adjustment of freight rates.

First of all, the Secretary declared that he did not believe legislation could solve the farmer's problem. "There is no magic power in legislation,' he said "as a panacea for agricultural difficulties.| The many constructive acts now on our statute books have not solved the fundamental agriculture problems. They have been shock absorbers, a helping hand. I am one who firmly believes that the farmer can not be legislated out of his difficulties.

"The present difficulties of agriculture, in no small measure, have grown out of excessive production and and the loss of foreign markets, a situaton that was brought on by the World war. Surely then, one of our most important jobs must be to restore a proper between the prices of farm products and the prices of other commodities by a better adjustment of the volumne of production to the needs of the market. I believe also that it is possible to increase farm incomes materially thru more efficient organization and management of our farms."

Speaking of adjustment of freight rates, the secretary said. "High freight rates are one of the many causes that have contributed to the depression in farm prices. Lt has been my opinion that careful study should be made of the entire freight rate structure. On the basis of such a study it should be possible to made rate adjustments that take into account the market value of farm products as reflected over a reasonable period of years and likewise the influence of freight rates on the economic developement of regions and of the country as a whole. I realize that the cost to the carriers must bef ully reckoned with as a factor in rate making as railroads are indespensible to a pro fitable agriculture."

Of cooperative marketing, Secretary Jardine declared. "I know of no single factor that can be more useful than a well-managed cooperative association in helping the farmer to adjust his production to the demands of the market, improve the quality of his product and feed it to the market when and where it is needed."

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS

Many Transactions in Hancock Co. Real Estate During the Past Week

Margaret Schrader, Q. C. D. date, 6-29-25, $75.00 lot 1 and N½ of lot 6 blk. 2 Brown and Treganza add to Britt.

Gebke Helm hus et al to Davil H. Lloyd, W D date 6-16-25, $2700.00, lot 1 and N½ lot 6 blk 2, Brown & Treganza add Britt.

B. Borchers wf to Arthur Wellemeyer, W D date 12-119-25, $1.00 lots 5-6-7, blk 3, Mornigside, a subdiv. of S½ of out lot 3, and all of out lot 4, Klemme's 1st add to Klemme.

J. W. Griggs to Margaret Griggs Sherwood, W D date 7-7-25, $1.00, S½ NE¼ & NW¼ NE¼, 15-94-23.

Chas Boisen, wf to Henry Christensen et al, Q C D date 7-8-25, $1.00 E½ SW¼ 35-96-26.

Henry Christensen et al to Chas. Boisen, Q C D, date 7-8-25, $1.00, lots 5-6-7-8-9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16 blk 3 and lot 8 blk 4, village of Hutchins, Iowa and lots 2-3-4-5-6 ex. 4x10 rds in SW cor of ot 6 Fisk add to Britt.

Robt. L. Leach, Receiver to L. D. Buyers, Receivers Deed, date 6-10,-25, $5600.00 lot 4, blk 36, Garner.

Anna L. Wadlingham, hus to First National Bank, Klemme, W. D. date 7-2-25, $1.00 Und 1-7 int. in SE¼ 11-95-24.

E. P. Hanson, Shff to State Savings Bank, Woden, Sheriff's deed, date 7-2-25, $5362.22, lot 6, blk 6, Woden.

Ellsworth C. Peck wf to C. E. Barnes & N. E. Braer, Q. C. D. late 7-8-25, $100 lots 7-8, blk 35, Garner

Fred A. Freerkam, et al to H. Veldhouse, W. D. date 6-29-25, 5000.00 lot 15 & E 40 ft. lot 14 blk 10 Kanawha.

Henry Griesemer to Justina Griesemer W D date 7-6-25, $10000 W½ lots 7-8- blk 10, West Side Add Garner.

J. P. Larsen wf to Clarence A. Larsen W D date 7-6-25, $1.00 lots 1-2-3-4-5, blk 1 Klemmes add to Klemme & NE¼ NE¼ ex. W½ SW ¼ of NE¼ of NE¼ ex. a tract of 100 ft. wide E & W by 18 rods long N and S in SW corner of premises above described.

J. P. Larsen wf to Clarence A. Larsen W D date 7-6-25, $1.00 lots 6-7 blk 11, Klemme.

Klassy Kanners Klub

The Klassy Kanners Klub, of Avery township, met at the Fuller home Thursday. No business meeting could be held on account of the absence of quite a few members. The net meeting will be held at the home of Unis Wesenberg, July 16.

June Report of Hancock County No. 3 Cow Testing Association

The monthy report for the month of June of the Hancock County Cow Test Association Number 3, shows that the 298 cows on actual test produced an average of 730.97 pounds of milk and 26.8 pounds of butterfat. Twenty-two cows produced ove r 40 pounds of butterfat and seven cows produced over 50 pounds.

One very noticible loss is the loss through faulty separators. The loss in the association amounted to $50.76.

Fred Kothenbeutal, as in previous reports, stands at the head of the association, both with high cows and high herd production. His cow Whitechin" produced 73.6 lb fat from 1473 pounds milk and "Scarecrow' 'produced 61.7 pounds butter fat from 1287 lbs. milk. Mr. Kothenbeutal's herd consists of 12 fine Grade Guernseys.

The three high herds and other high averages follow:

Owner	No. and Breed	Milk	Fat
Fred Kothenbeautal	12 G. G.	831.25	40.9
Victor Hueneman	8 P. B. & G Sh.	964.87	36.8
John Bock	G & P. H.	961.36	35.8
Ben Goll	7 G Sh & G H	1006.7	35.7
B. H. Katter	6 P H H	1052.5	35.7
R. W. Elder	6 G H & S Sh.	922.45	32.4
E. G. Beiers	13 P B H.	928.69	32.4
M. W. Sprole	10 G. G.	688.16	29.1
Elling Bros.	13 G. H.	798.46	28.9
Harry Gibbs	15 G. J.

The ten high cows were:

Owner	Cow	Milk	Fat
Fred Kothenbeutal	"Whitechin"	1473	73.6
Fred Kothenbeutal	"Scarecrow"	1287	61.7
Fred Kothenbeutal	"Big Teater"	1506	55.6
Elling Bros.	"Nose"	1125	54.1
Victor Hueneman	"Pointer"	1239	52.0
B. H. Katter	"Queen"	1275	51.0
John Bock	"Molly"	1395	50.2
Wm. Haberkamp	"Little Star"	1188	49.8
Fred Kothenbeutal	"Dloly"	816	49.8
E. G. Beier	Fannie	1308	49.7

Joseph Stritar, Tester.

NEW CASES FILED IN THE DISTRICT COURT THIS TERM

Hancock County vs. Martin Larson et. al. Plff. asks judgment for $1,-706.68.

A. M. Cchanke, et al vs. Ned O'-Neil et al Plff. asks judgment for $12,000 on notes and $595.82 taxes etc. and foreclosure of mtg on SE¼ SE¼ 24 and E½ NE¼ 25-96-23.

Iowa Land and Livestock Ci., vs R. A. Dickson, Plff asks judgment for $500.00 due for rent and landlord's attachment.

E. V. Johnson vs Lincoln M. Boulds, et. al., Plff. asks judgment for $2,-attachment for services rendered.

First National Bank, Pomercy, Ia. vs. Chas W. Johnson and others, Plff asks judgment for $126. 00 for 126.00 for rent due.

W. R. Bloom, vs Peter Merkel et. al. Plff asks judgment for $28,804.-66 and foreclosure of mtg. on NE¼ & S½ SE¼ 53-95-23.

C. W. Erwin vs Drainage Dist. 116, et al, Appeal in Drainage Dist. No. 116.

J. W. Knadler vs P. M. Griesemer et. al. Plff asks judgmentf or $2,-000 and attachment.

L. A. Andrew, Supt. of Banking vs. State Savings Bank, Klemme, Petition asking that receiver be appointel for defenlant etc. etc.

L. A. Andrew, Supt. of Banking, vs. Paul Klein, Plff asks judgment on notes for $351.50 .

Henry Sporie vs. E. P. Hanson, Sheriff, Action in replevin of an automobile.

TO THE CREDITORS OF THE STATE SAVINGS BANK OF KLEMME, IOWA

You and each of you are hereby notified that the District Court of Hancock County, Iowa, did on the 7th day of July, A. D., 1925, make an order in the cause entitled L. A. Andrew, Superintendent of Banking of the State of Iowa, v. the State Savings Bank of Klemme, Iowa, ordering that all claims against the State Savings Bank of Klemme, Iowa, based on deposit, checking account deposits, savings deposits and deposits on time and demand certificates, except certificates issued for money borrowed for said bank, as shown by the books of the said State Savings Bank, be allowed as claims of depositors without further proof thereof and that all parties having claims ogainst said bank or any of the funds thereof, including claims for deposits not shown by the books of the bank as stated, shall in order to have such claims allowed as claims against said bank or to participate in the distribution of the assets thereof, file said claims with the examiner in charge of said bank at the bank building in Klemme, Iowa, or with the clerk of the District Court of Hancock County, Iowa, on or before the 15th day of August, 1925, and unless said claims be so filed on or before said date they shall be forever barred as claims against said bank or any of the assets thereof or against the said L. A. Andrew, Superintendent of Banking of Iowa, as receiver thereof.

(Singned) L. A. Andrew, Superintendent of Banking of Iowa, as receiver for the State Savings Bank of Klemme, Iowa.' '

A6

MORE TRADE NAMES

TRADE NAMES REGISTERED SINCE LAST WEEK

The Coliseum, Britt. owner, Frank A. Steinhoff.

The Princess Theatre, Britt, owner, F. R. Bandy.

Lewis Larson & Co., Corwith, owners, Lewis Larsen, Corwith, Iowa and Louis Wollenberg, Paulina, Ia.

Fell Land Company, owner, Marion A. Fell, Garner.

Peck Bros chonged to H. A. Peck as owner.

Wellemeyer Department Store, Klemme, owner, Arthur Wellemeyer

Cash Meat Market, Woden, Iowa, owner, Chas. Buns.

Pavey Stormizing Shop, Klemme, owner, W. F. Pavey.

Stille Implement Co., Klemme, owner, Paul Stille.

Soda Grill, Gorner, owner J. R. Stebleton.

Koerner Telephone Co., Klemme, owner A. G. Koerner.

Gardner Hotel, Crystal Lake, owner T. B. Gardner.

Gardner Filling Station, Crystal Lake, owner T. B. Gardner.

Garner Bakery, Garner, owner, Carl Ferguson.

Peck Bros. Garner, owners, Henry A. and Ellsworth C. Peck.

Garner Auto Company, Garner, owners, W. S. and Paul Pritchard.

Nelson & Pitkin, owners, Leonard Nelson and Truman Pitkin.

R. E. Nesbit & Co., owners R. E. Nesbit and F. M. Hanson

City Meat Market, Garner, owners, Leomn Twaites and F R. Perkins.

Lyric Theatre, Garner, owner F. S. Livermore.

Garner Leader, Garner, owner J. E. Tierney.

Garner Welding Co., owners J. J. Becker and F. L. Stockwell.

The Hawkeye Teachers Bureau, Britt, owner C. E. Cooper.

P. J. Elsmo & Co., Britt, owners, P. J. and Minnie D. Elsmo.

Johnson & Berhow Grain Co, Kanawho, owners J. K. Johnson and Thos. Berhow.

The Garner Signal, Garner, owner, Frank Clark.

Farmers Store, J. Yepson & Sons Kanawha, owners J and John B. Yepson.

Britt Oil Co., Britt, owner Chris Jacobson.

City Meat Market, Britt, owner, Jergerson.

Goodell Drug Co., Goodell, owners C. W. and C. M. Lamer.

The Economy Hardware, Corwith, owner, Chris Unger

Westrs-Williams, Goodell, owners, Eric Williams and Milford Westre.

Veldhouse Grain Co., Kanawha, owners N. H. and H. H. Veldhouse.

E. F Jacobs, Klemme, owners, E. F Jacobs

Crystal Poultry Co, Crystal Lake, owner Glen H. Powers.

Garner Meat Market, Garner, owner, Wm. Harbison.

M. P. Pfeffer, Corwith, owner J. W. Pfeffer.

The Bank of Hayfield, Hayfield, owners, Frank M. Hanson, John F. W. Vrba, H. M. Hoag and C. H. Lackore.

Britt News-Tribune, owners R. R. and L. G. Roberts.

Etchen Auto Co., Klemme, owners John and Albert Etchen.

G. W. Kluckhohn and Sons, owners Frank W. Kluckhohn, Fred Kluckhohn and Clarence E. Kluckhohn.

Drake Bros. Crystal Lake, owners A. J. and R. C. Drake.

City Meat Market, Crystal Lake, owner, O S. Mathison.

Way & Healy Drug Co., Woden, owner, C. L. Cunningham.

Bank of Woden ,Woden ,owner J. H. Bode.

H. Lau Sons, Klemme, owners, George Wesley and Erwin Lau.

Clear ammonia will remove grass stains from white goods. Stains from colored materials may be removed by saturating with kerosene and in washing in the usual manner.

A Birthday Party

Franklin Kluckhohn had a birthday Saturday and he decided the best way of celebrating would be to have a party, so he had his mother prepare a fine lunch to serve his friends who had assembled at his home in the afternoon. After playing games and having lots of fun the boys and girls enjoyed the fine lunch prepared by Mrs. Kluckhohn. Franklin received many nice presents from his friends. All report having had a good time.

A sure way to keep a job is to get things so mixed up on your first day that they can't afford to fire you.

Those who flunked out their examinations should remember that after all, zero is nothing!

SEES LARGE CORN YIELD FOR 1925

Washington Predicts 3,095,000,000 Bu.—Fruit Hard Hit.

Washington.—Indications of an enormous corn crop, probably the third largest ever grown, slight improvement in prospects for wheat, prediction of the smallest potato production since 1919, and unfavorable fruit forecasts were set forth in the July report issued by the Department of Agriculture.

With a higher condition than the ten-year average and an acreage 1.5 per cent larger than last year's, corn production was forecast at 3,095,000,000 bushels, or 650,000,000 bushels more than last year.

Among the causes listed for the large increase were the high price of corn and a tendency to increase feed crops for live stock.

Wheat prospects increased 19,000,000 bushels during June, a forecast of 680,000,000 bushels now being made for this season. Winter wheat lost 3,000,000 bushels during the month, but spring wheat prospects increased 22,000,000 bushels.

Production of wheat in eleven countries of the northern hemisphere, including the United States, which produce normally 59 per cent of the northern hemisphere crop and 52 per cent of the world crop outside Russia and China, was estimated, on the basis of latest advices to the department at 1,568,000,000 bushels, or 124,000,000 bushels less than last year.

Indicated production of potatoes was 350,000,000 bushels, which would be 105,000,000 less than the large crop of last year.

The season has been unfavorable for fruit production throughout most of the country, except on the Pacific coast.

The total apple crop was forecast at 157,000,000 bushels or 22,000,000 less than last year.

Production of barley, rice, sweet potatoes,, tobacco and peanuts promised to be larger than last year, but smaller crops of oats, rye, flaxseed and hay were indicated.

Coolidge Has Narrow Escape While at Fort

Swampscott, Mass.—Richard Jervis, chief of the White House secret service, leading the President into repair shops at Fort Andrews, fell into an elevator shaft in the darkened building just in time to call attention of the President, closely following him, to the danger. He dropped five feet. The President jumped back, and probably saved himself from a similar fall.

Mr. Jervis escaped with slight bruises, although he is suffering severely from the shock.

After the accident President Coolidge said: "This is an act of carelessness."

He probably will order an investigation.

E. B. Brossard Is Named on Tariff Commission

Swampscott, Mass.—With the appointment of Edgar Bernard Brossard as a member of the tariff commission which has been divided over questions of policy, President Coolidge fills the last vacancy and seems assured of an organization in sympathy with his views. Mr. Brossard has been economist with the commission since 1923, was born in Idaho, educated in Utah, and holds degrees from the University of Minnesota.

Dodge Suit to Divide Disputed 13 Million

Detroit, Mich.—Friendly suit to determine eventual disposition of $13,068,424, part of the estate of Horace E. Dodge, was filed in Circuit court by John Ballantyne against Mrs. Anna Thomson Dodge, the widow, and seven other heirs. Ballantyne and Mrs. Dodge are co-trustees of the Horace E. Dodge estate. Other heirs mentioned in the litigation are Delphine Dodge Cromwell, James H. Cromwell, Christian Cromwell, Horace E. Dodge, Jr., L. Lois K. Dodge, Horace Elgin Dodge III, and Delphine Ione Dodge.

Rodeo Will Be Held at Chicago August 15-23

Chicago.—The world's most famous broncho-busters, lariat-throwers, steer-wrestlers and stunt-riders—both cowboys and cowgirls—will assemble in Chicago from August 15 to 23. They are entering the varied contests in the world's greatest rodeo, which is fathered by the Chicago Association of Commerce. The rodeo will be held in the great stadium in Grant park, on the lake front, and hundreds of thousands of spectators are expected.

Riffians Halted by French

Fez.—Most of the enemy tribesmen who recently made an assault on the Riffin front near Taza, on the Uergha river, have been forced back, according to official dispatches received here on Friday.

Food Prices Advance

Washington.—General increase in retail food prices in the month ending June 15 in 23 cities, is indicated in reports compiled by the Labor department and made public here.

MRS. JOHANNA GREGG

Mrs. Johanna Gregg, a member of the Chicago school board, has announced her candidacy for the Republican nomination for mayor.

RIFFIANS BOMBED BY FRENCH FLYERS

800 Killed and Wounded During Raid on Market.

Paris.—In a bombing raid against an open market along the Ouergha river, where 2,000 Riffians were buying and selling provisions and animals, a French air squadron with 3,000 pounds of bombs killed and wounded 800 Riffians.

France and Spain signed an agreement at Madrid to conduct a combined land blockade of the Moroccan rebel zone. The agreement supplements the sea blockade accord signed recently.

Louis Malvy, head of the French delegation, announced that a third accord, providing for French and Spanish political co-operation in Morocco, and considered the most important of the entire conference, would be signed.

Spanish forces, assisted by aerial squadrons, have stormed the heights of Beni Ambran, dislodging the tribesmen from this strategic point of vantage. Following their success the Spaniards returned to their base after establishing the new positions on the heights.

On attaining the heights the Spaniards found four rebel dead, but they believe many more were killed and fell into the deep ravines.

Another Chicago Rum Gang Leader Is Shot to Death

Chicago.—Death by violence—bullets—was the fate of another of the Genna brothers, contraband alcohol magnates, the third to be killed in two months.

This time it was Tony Genna. A few weeks ago it was Mike Genna. Angelo Genna's life of violence terminated suddenly on May 26.

Tony's death left only three of the brothers alive, Sam, Peter, and Jim. Sam was fearful of his own life and asked and obtained a police escort. Jim is supposed to be in Europe. Peter is in hiding.

As motives for the crime, the police had their choice of two theories:

1. That the makers, dealers and distributors of alcohol had rebelled against the rule of the Gennas, and, in deciding to do business for themselves, had decided that the Gennas should die.

2. That the shooting was another act of reprisal for the murder of Dean O'Banion eight months ago, which was done by Italians.

Two months ago the Genna brothers were the undisputed bosses of both the supply and demand of alcohol.

Girl Shoots Married Man and Then Ends Own Life

New York.—A married man and a young woman, friendly for some months, died in a suicide pact in an automobile on a road in Rumson, N. J. The young woman shot her friend and then killed herself. Both died instantly. The man was Detective Sergeant Henry D. Walling of Long Branch. The young woman was Miss Mary A. Linzmayer of Atlantic Highlands.

$26,000,000 Grain Firm to Quit Business July 28

Chicago.—Inability to comply with the provisions of the Capper-Volstead act, under which it was incorporated, was responsible for the decision to dissolve the $20,000,000 Grain Marketing Company, Inc., said a statement issued here by representatives of the four companies merged in the project. Dissolution will take place July 28.

Wreck Survivors in Port

New York.—The steamship George Washington arrived here with Capt. Curtis Hilton and eleven members of the crew of the fishing smack J. M. Hilton, which the George Washington ran down in a fog.

Andrews to San Antonio

Washington. — Maj. Frank M. Andrews, U. S. army air service, has been detailed as assistant commandant of the air service advanced flying school at San Antonio, Texas.

FARMER JURY TO FIX SCOPES' FATE

Baptists, Methodists and a Member of Disciples' Church Hear Case.

Dayton, Tenn.—John Thomas Scopes is to be tried by a jury made up chiefly of Baptists and southern Methodist farmers of middle age who have extremely hazy ideas about evolution, but very firm beliefs as to the validity of the Bible in all things.

The following is the jury that will try John T. Scopes on the charge of teaching the theory of evolution:

W. F. Robinson, farmer, Baptist.
J. W. Dagley, farmer, Methodist.
Jim Riley, farmer, Baptist. Says he cannot read.
W. G. Taylor, farmer, Methodist.
R. L. Gentry, farmer and school teacher, Baptist.
J. R. Thompson, fruit grower and former United States marshal, Methodist.
Jesse Goodrich, shipping clerk, member of the Disciples' church.
J. H. Bowman, farmer, Baptist.
B. W. Day, farmer, Baptist.
R. L. West, farmer, Baptist.
J. S. Wright, farmer, Baptist.
W. D. Smith, farmer, Baptist.

All of the twelve said they could give a man a fair trial, but the general sentiment among them was that the Bible was good enough for them, and their ideas of evolution were vague.

"It is as we expected," said Clarence Darrow, after the jury had been chosen in a three-hour court session before Judge John T. Raulston.

"We are satisfied," said William Jennings Bryan, who sat in court all day without uttering a word for the public.

There is one man on the jury who cannot read or write. The state accepted him without a quiver. The defense exercised its three peremptory challenges.

It took a reconvened grand jury only one hour to make a new investigation of the Scopes case and indict him again for having taught that theory of evolution to his high-school pupils which is said to be in conflict with the biblical story of creation, which is against the peace and dignity of the state of Tennessee and a criminal matter termed by the court a "high misdemeanor."

The efforts of a minister who does not believe in evolution to get on the jury to try Scopes furnished one of the most amusing incidents of the day. The crowd broke out in applause.

Everybody seemed to want to get on the jury. There was only one man of those summoned who said that he had a fixed opinion. All the rest said in effect that they did not understand evolution, had only heard of it by rumor and believed strongly in the Bible as an inspired, scientific, and all other kinds of a document, but still they were willing to give Scopes a fair trial.

Mr. Darrow, who was given the title of "colonel" by his honor, the judge, was given a new lesson in jury selection. Instead of twelve men being called to sit in a row, one man was called at a time from a list kept in the sheriff's old black hat on the judge's desk.

The prospective juror had to stand before the great crowd and the eyes of 150 reporters and the cameras of the world and tell what he thought of God and evolution and the Bible, shifting uneasily from one foot to the other, hat in hand.

The courtroom was a study in suspenders and hickory shirts. One man only of the jurors wore a costume that would excite no comment in the North. He is a white-coated southerner of the old type, a former United States marshal, a plantation owner.

The scope of the trial came in question somewhat when the state attorneys made it clear that they would not permit any evidence from scientists and theologians along the lines outlined by the defense, that the theory of evolution does not conflict with the Bible.

Two Men Held in Plot to Kill King Alfonso

Madrid.—The capital police are said to have information regarding a plot hatched in Paris to assassinate King Alfonso and Gen. Primo de Rivera. Two arrests have been made in Guipuzcoa, northern Spain. They are Spanish Syndicalists affiliated with the Communist internationale.

Lincoln Ellsworth to Get Medal for Heroism

Oslo, Norway.—The gold medal "for a heroic deed" is to be presented to Lincoln Ellsworth, the American who accompanied Capt. Roald Amundsen on the attempted airplane flight to the North pole.

Noted Archeologist Is Dead

Rome.—Prof. Giacomo Boni, eminent archeologist and director of the excavations at the forum, died here. He suffered an apoplectic stroke. King Victor Emanuel sent condolences to Prof. Boni's family.

Canada Debt Cut $11,000,000

Ottawa.—The total net debt of Canada during the last year was cut $11,000,000, a statement of the finance department issued here shows. The present debt is $2,373,000,000.

BERNARD M. BARUCH

Barnard M. Baruch, former chairman of the war industries board, has given $250,000 to finance a three-year investigation into the possibility of preventing war by taking the profit out of it. The work will be carried on Johns Hopkins and foreign universities.

MARKET QUOTATIONS BY U. S. GOVERNMENT

Washington.—For the week ending July 9.—FRUITS AND VEGETABLES—On the Chicago carlot market sacked Missouri and Kansas cobbler potatoes sold at $3.35@3.50 per 100 pounds. Imperial valley salmon tint cantaloupes, $3.50@4.00 per standard 45's in the East and $3.00@3.50 in midwestern cities. Elberta peaches, $2.50@3.50 in city markets. Tom Watson watermelons of 24-30-pound . verage, from Georgia and Florida, sold on the New York auction at $375.00@575.00 bulk per car, with growers at Valdosta receiving $130.00@350.00.

HAY—Quoted July 9: No. 1 timothy: Chicago, $23.00. No. 1 alfalfa: Kansas City, $18.25. No. 1 prairie: St. Louis, $15.50; Minneapolis, $16.50.

DAIRY PRODUCTS—Closing prices on 92-score butter: New York, 42c; Chicago, 42c. Wholesale prices on Wisconsin primary cheese markets July 8: Single daisies, 21½c; double daisies, 21¼c; longhorns, 21¾c; square prints, 22½c.

GRAIN—Quoted July 9: No. 1 dark northern wheat: Minneapolis, $1.53@1.70. No. 2 red winter wheat: $1.56@1.60. No. 2 hard winter wheat: Chicago, $1.52¼; Kansas City, $1.53. No. 2 mixed corn: Kansas City, $1.02. No. 3 mixed corn: Chicago, $1.06. No. 1 yellow corn: Kansas City, $1.10. No. 2 yellow corn: Chicago, $1.10; St. Louis, $1.10. No. 3 yellow corn: Chicago, $1.09; Minneapolis, $1.04¼. No. 3 mixed corn: Minneapolis, 99¾c. No. 2 white corn: Chicago, $1.08½; St. Louis, 1.09; Kansas City, $1.04. No. 3 white oats: Chicago, 47½c; St. Louis, 48½c; Kansas City, 49c; Minneapolis, 43c.

LIVE STOCK—Chicago hog prices closed at $13.95 for top, $13.10@13.85 for bulk. Medium and good beef steers, $8.25@12.50; butcher cows and heifers, $3.75@12.25; feeder steers, $6.00@8.25. Light and medium weight veal calves, $11.00@13.00. Fat lambs, $13.25@15.50; yearlings, $9.50@13.25; fat ewes, $4.50@8.25.

John D. Sells Homes to His Son for $3,000,000

New York.—John D. Rockefeller announced the sale of his four homes to his son, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., for more than $3,000,000. He reserved the right to occupy them until his death.

The four residences are the 2,300-acre country estate at Pocantico Hills, Weschester county; the town house at 4 West Fifty-fourth street, with garage at 125 West Fifty-fifth street; country estate at Lakewood, N. J., and winter home at Ormond Beach, Fla.

Although the sale of his residences does not reduce the size of the elder Rockefeller's estate, it eliminates the care of administering and maintaining four properties of such large extent.

Ex-Convict Seized After Threats to Mrs. Obenchain

Los Angeles, Cal.—Deputy sheriffs, hastily summoned to the bungalow of Madelyn Obenchain, arrested Paul Roman, who was in the Los Angeles county jail at the time Madelyn was prisoner there.

Mrs. Obenchain, formerly of Evanston, Ill., was tried three times for the death of J. Belton Kennedy, also of Evanston.

Roman met Mrs. Obenchain when she was in prison. The ex-convict is alleged to have said:

"I am going to see her. If you hear any shooting out there, you will know what's going on."

Mellon and Herrick to Stay, Declares Coolidge

Swampscott, Mass.—So far as President Coolidge knows neither Secretary Mellon nor Ambassador Herrick are contemplating submitting their resignations. Taking cognizance of rumors that both would retire shortly, the President said he had no such intimation from either, and expected that both would continue in their present capacities.

States Suffer From Heat

Kansas City, Mo.—A furious sun sent the temperature in many places in Kansas and Missouri above the 100 mark. Wichita, Kan., reported 106 degrees, Salina and Pittsburg 103 and Kansas City 100.

Road to Cost 15 Millions

Denver, Colo.—The Moffat railroad tunnel under the Continental divide through James peak will cost over $15,000,000, a county grand jury declared in a report issued here.

.. Hawkeye .. State News

Interesting Items Gathered From all Parts of Iowa

Storm Lake completes the first six months of 1925 with total building permits of $176,980 issued by the City Clerk.

Wages paid to workers in Iowa factories during 1923 totaled $94,206,205, an increase of more than $9,000,000 over the wages paid in 1919.

Iowa's credit union law, providing credit, opportunity for saving in small amounts and investment, for people of limited finances is now in effect.

Figures show that Scott county farms were the most profitable during 1924 showing an income of $23.18 per acre. The average of all the counties was $16.80.

Burke park, east and north of the University avenue bridge in Des Moines, is the site for the memorial to the Polk county men who gave their lives in the world war.

A $225,000 church is to be erected on its property adjoining the campus of Iowa State college at Ames by the Wesley Foundation of Iowa of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Iowa leads the nation in the production of oats as well as corn. Iowa's output of oats last year was 248,282,000 bushels. The estimated output this year is 196,072,000 bushels.

The Reinbeck Farmers Creamery is now paying out over $3,000 weekly to the farmers for their cream and turning out over 5,000 pounds of butter and a quantity of ice cream.

The speed limit will be increased from 20 miles an hour to 25 miles on Des Moines boulevards, if the city council approves the proposal to be made by the safety commissioner.

Railroad traffic at Council Bluffs where eight trunk lines converge, generally regarded as an index to trade conditions in Iowa and the country generally, is reported much improved.

The board of directors of the school district at Keokuk voted to spend $83,000 in remodeling the Junior High school and constructing an addition for the assembly room and gymnasium.

Butter production in the seventh district, which includes the states of Iowa, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin, showed a seasonal increase of 48.5 per cent over the preceding month.

Articles of incorporation for a new state bank at Rockford have been filed with Secretary of State Ramsay. The bank will operate under the name of the First State bank with a capital of $40,000.

New furniture to be used in the schools of Sioux City next year is being manufactured in the manual training department at Central High school this summer at a saving of $4,000 to taxpayers.

The present state levy is 11.4 mills, of which amount 1.4 mills is for the soldiers bonus. According to the figures given out at the time the legislature fixed its appropriation the levy for the next two years will not be raised.

Since the assessment was made two years ago the legislature has added to the exemptions all swine and sheep under nine months of age. This has meant a considerable reduction in the amount of live stock to be assessed.

Visitors at the Iowa State Fair this year are promised a valuable lesson in hog raising. Tama County Farm Bureau, Iowa State College and the United States Department of Agriculture are cooperating in putting on an exhibit in the use of clean grounds and clean quarters for rearing pigs.

The state curator has been supervising the excavating of the skeleton of a mastodon which was discovered in a gravel pit near Greene. The big skeleton was uncovered when a ten pound, foot long tooth was found. Further search disclosed a jawbone fourteen inches thick.

According to observers, unless unusually unfavorable weather conditions take place, Iowa will have a bumper corn crop, at least 20,000,000 bushels larger than last year. It is estimated that the 1925 Iowa corn crop will amount to 325,000,000 bushels. Last year's crop was 304,752,000 bushels.

Fred Randau, story county farmer, has sold part of his alfalfa crop in the field for $25 an acre. The buyer cuts the crop and performs all labor in connection with putting it up. The only expense Randau has is taxes and interest on his land. Figuring taxes at $2 per acre, Randau gets an income aboue equivalent to six per cent interest on land valued at $400, or valuing the land at $200 an acre, he gets about 12 per cent interest on his investment.

The total receipts of cigaret taxes in the State for the year ending June 30, amounted to $777,358.99. Last year the total was $700,012.

Complete plans for the Iowa National guard encampment Aug 2 to 16, inclusive, were made previous to the adjournment of the annual school for officers last week. More than 400 officers attended the school.

The Iowa Packing company with a record of 6,000 hogs killed in a week, is well on the way toward the goal of 12,000 killings a week set for next fall. The 6,000 is an increase of 2,000 killings over a month ago.

Big Legal Fees

Among the large legal fees on record are those reported to have been paid Samuel Untermyer for his services in the merger of the Boston Consolidated and Utah Copper companies, $775,000; to William Nelson Cromwell for reorganizing Decker, Howell & Company, $260,000; to counsel in the reorganization of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad, $750,000, and that given Stanchfield & Levy and Elihu Root of $600,000 for settling the Marshall Field estate. Max D. Steuer is credited with getting $1,000 a day every time he goes to court.

Early Broadcasting

As early as 1896 the capital of Hungary, Budapest, had an organization called "Telefon Hirmondo," which broadcast music, news and whole operas by telephone.

You can't be polite these days without somebody selling you something before you know it.

ECZEMA

After Others Fail

PETERSON'S OINTMENT

Big Box 60 Cents

The mighty healing power of Peterson's Ointment when eczema or terrible itching of skin and scalp tortures you is known to tens of thousands of people the country over. Often the itching goes overnight.

For pimples, acne, rough and red skin, old sores, ulcers, piles, chafing, sunburn, burning feet and all blemishes and eruptions it is supremely efficient as any broad-minded druggist will tell you. Peterson Ointment Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

It's Different in Japan

Mrs. Yumiko Ikeda, beautiful wife of a young engineer, tried the new freedom theory for women and failed. She left home in Tokyo to obtain work as an "extra" in a movie studio. Almost overnight, because of her ability and beauty, she became a star.

But then her troubles began. Her friends and relatives, instead of congratulating her, sent her threatening letters and said she had disgraced her husband. After two weeks as a star she returned to her home.

For Bargain Hunters

"Halloa! Why are you rushing about like this?"

"I'm trying to get something for my husband."

"Had any offers?"

Energy has a continuous fight against avoirdupois.

Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN

Say "Bayer Aspirin"

INSIST! Unless you see the "Bayer Cross" on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for 24 years.

Safe — Accept only a Bayer package

which contains proven directions

Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets
Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

RESINOL

Soothing and Healing
For Sunburn and Insect Bites

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Removes Dandruff-Stops Hair Falling
Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Wks., Patchogue, N. Y.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c by mail or at Druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

War Memorial of Newfoundland

This memorial was unveiled in Paris by Marshal Foch and Field Marshal Douglas Haig. It was erected to commemorate the part Newfoundland played in the World war.

Is Mixing But Not Melting Pot

Shanghai, China, Is Most Cosmopolitan City in the World.

Washington.—"Activities of Chinese agitators in Shanghai, which is, with the possible exception of Cairo, the most cosmopolitan city in the world, direct attention to the picturesque setting of this exotic hybrid of East and West," says a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Approaching the city from Woosung, its port on the Yangtze river, the villages, graveyards and anchored ships of all kinds become more numerous as one nears the wharves. The hum and roar of factories and cotton mills belie the real atmosphere of this metropolis of central China. It is not until the heavy, half-sickening smell of bean-oil, incense, opium smoke and of human beings penetrates the nostrils that the true Asiatic flavor of the city is revealed.

"Although the quaint Kiangsu junks are rapidly disappearing, the cargo junks, sampans, and speedy slipper boats still vie with the motor launches of huge steel and wooden vessels from every port on the globe.

"Shanghai, like Venice, is a city built largely upon piles sunk far into the soft black sand and saturated clay upon which the city rests along the banks of the Hwang-p'u river. Huge reinforced concrete rafts are buried in this clay, and the foundations of the buildings are laid on them.

"The foreign settlements are delightfully modern, with plenty of space, light and air, and are as clean and orderly as occidental cities. The French maintain their own concession under a government separate from that of the other 20 powers, with their own language and the 'rues,' 'quais' and other signs typical of the homeland.

The Old and New Shanghais.

"In striking contrast is the old Shanghai, where most of the Chinese live. Going through the gates of the native city one passes into another century. Old temples, cramped courtyards, where flowering peonies and chrysanthemums can be glimpsed in passing, and an endless succession of narrow streets, hung with rococo banners of Chinese characters, and filthy and reeking with a thousand odors, differentiate it at once from its smaller modern cousins but a short distance away.

"A tea-house set in the middle of a stagnant pond is one of the breathing places of the old city, where sellers of jade and cheap jewelry, letter writers, fortune tellers, cobblers, menders, peddlers, jugglers and others of Shanghai's polyglot population gather over teacups or chatter endlessly in high pitched voices. The Chinese theater is another native oddity. The want of scenery, the din of the orchestra and the piercing intonations and gaudy costumes of the actors furnish a spectacle, which, while not always pleasing to Western tastes, is always colorful and unusual.

"Shanghai's sobriquet, 'The Paris of the East,' refers more to the gayety of its social life, than to any external resemblance to the French capital. It is not nearly so picturesque as Hongkong, or that queen of Oriental beauty, Foochow. Shanghai cannot set out a thousand lanterns on a dozen hills 1,800 feet up into the night, as Hongkong can, but her more intimate house and garden decorations are famous. There are lanterns everywhere, certain types are used as shop signs, and with their non-sputtering cold tallow candles they shed a perfect light.

"Bubbling Well road is the Riverside drive, the Champs Elysees, or the Ring-strasse, of the foreign settlements. Along this winding modern thoroughfare a panorama of the city's life passes in review. Once the resort of closed broughams and fine cars of foreign dignitaries, it now rattles with anything that can go on wheels, and the rickshaws and wheel-barrows of the natives, darting in and out among the carriages, taxis and limousines, furnish a gay and motley spectacle all day long.

Foreign Quarters Attract Chinese.

"Although the 'settlements' were first laid out for foreigners alone, the Chinese have come over to them in great numbers to enjoy the protection and advantages of foreign rule. Rich Chinese often retire to the new sections to enjoy their wealth in safety, or to spend it in reckless dissipation. In the foreign settlements are white man's sports of all kinds, racing, golf, tennis, shooting, house boating, swimming etc. Good libraries, magnificent clubs, theaters, hotels of all nations, and a spirit of co-operation between the foreign nations represented have made Shanghai one of the pleasantest places to live in the Orient.

"Many of the railroads leading into the central part of the country have their terminals here. Shanghai is the Chicago of China in this respect. The first railroad in China was a 12-mile stretch connecting the city with its port, Woosung. Although the tracks were torn up by reactionaries soon after they were laid, the seed was well planted, as the many lines of steel throughout the country today bear witness.

"Shanghai is not only a great commercial emporium, handling nearly half the foreign trade of China, but it has also become, in recent years, one of the greatest Chinese industrial centers, with a large laboring population. Cotton and silk cocoon winding mills employ thousands of workers. In addition there are a large number of smaller factories, manufacturing matches, paper, cigarettes, fireworks, wood carvings, jewelry, etc.

"Much of the occidentalization that has come to China in the past half century has filtered through Shanghai, especially through the great printing establishment there which has turned out excellent translations, into Chinese, of the literature and ideas of the West. Shanghai also possesses several daily newspapers, printed in both foreign and native languages."

QUEER CHICKEN

Unique is this fowl, hatched in Louisiana, which has every feather "inside out," with the glossy side next to the skin and the curl turning out instead of in.

Kentucky Boy, 11, Wins National Spelling Prize

Washington.—Frank Neuhauser, an eleven-year-old schoolboy of Louisville, Ky., is the national juvenile spelling champion, because he was able to spell "gladiolus" after Edna Stover, eleven, of Trenton, N. J., had spelled it with a "y" instead of an "i."

Young Neuhauser won the title here in the finals of a national contest sponsored by newspapers.

The $500 he received, along with a gold medal, will be used for a college education, he said. About 2,000,000 school children were entered in sectional contests.

The nine finalists laughed at the easy words pronounced for them during the first half-hour of the spelling bee the other night. At the end of that time all were taking the hurdles easily, and then Almeda Pennington, Houston, Texas, fell out on the word "skittish." "Cosmos" proved the undoing of Mary Coddens of South Bend, Ind., and Loren Mackey, Oklahoma state champion, failed on "propeller."

Ten-year-old Patrick Kelly, orphan of New Haven, Conn., stumbled on "blackguard" and "statistician" baffled Dorothy Karrick of Detroit. Then Mary Daniel and Helen Fischer tripped on "valuing" and "moribund," respectively, and the contest was between the first and second prize winners.

British Boat 124 Years Old Still in Service

Southampton, England.—The little ketch Bee, built 124 years ago and still in service between Southampton and Newport, on the Isle of Wight, completed its thirty-eighth thousandth crossing of the Solent channel.

The Bee began its sea duty in 1801 and is one of the very few ships remaining from whose decks men witnessed a British naval victory at sea with Nelson on board. During one period of its career it was commanded for 48 years by the same captain.

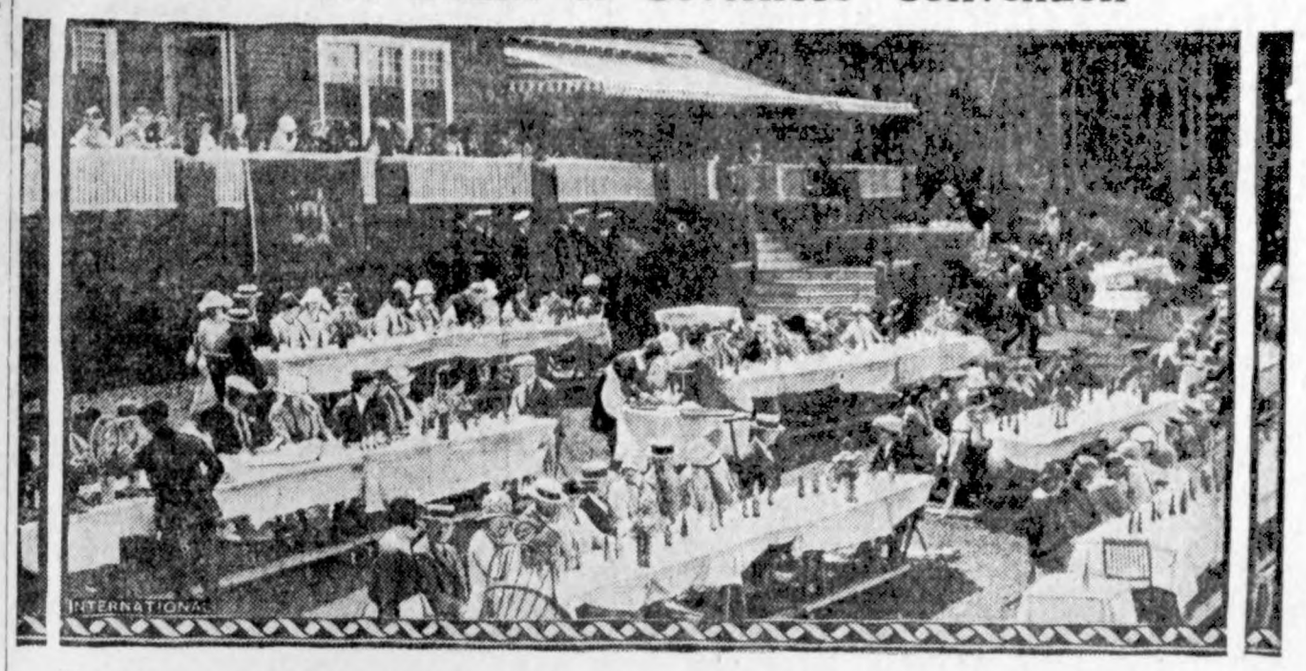
The Bee has been on the Isle of Wight run virtually all of its existence up to the present time and, according to members of its loyal crew, it is good for many years yet to come. The little craft has carried more than 500,000 tons of cargo between the mainland and the Isle of Wight, covering something like 500,000 miles, although the distance between Newport and Southampton is only 18 miles.

Three younger sister ships of the Bee have been plying the same route for approximately 50 years.

Hunt Old Coin

Santa Barbara, Cal.—A hunt is on for Spanish treasure in this section following the discovery of a Spanish silver coin minted in 1601. Prof. D. T. Rogers, in charge of Indian mound excavations, has the coin.

Al Fresco Dinner of Governors' Convention



The governors of the various states have been having a good time at their convention in Bar Harbor, Maine. They were entertained at the John D. Rockefeller home, and are here seen enjoying their Pot and Kettle club dinner in the open air.

Chicago Bathing Girls Learn Physical Culture

Russell Delaney, director of Clarendon Municipal beach, at Chicago, has started a free class in physical culture. Any young lady who is a devotee of swimming and health may have the entire course in daily instruction free of cost. She needs only the desire and a bathing suit. Photograph shows one of Mr. Delaney's classes working on the beach.

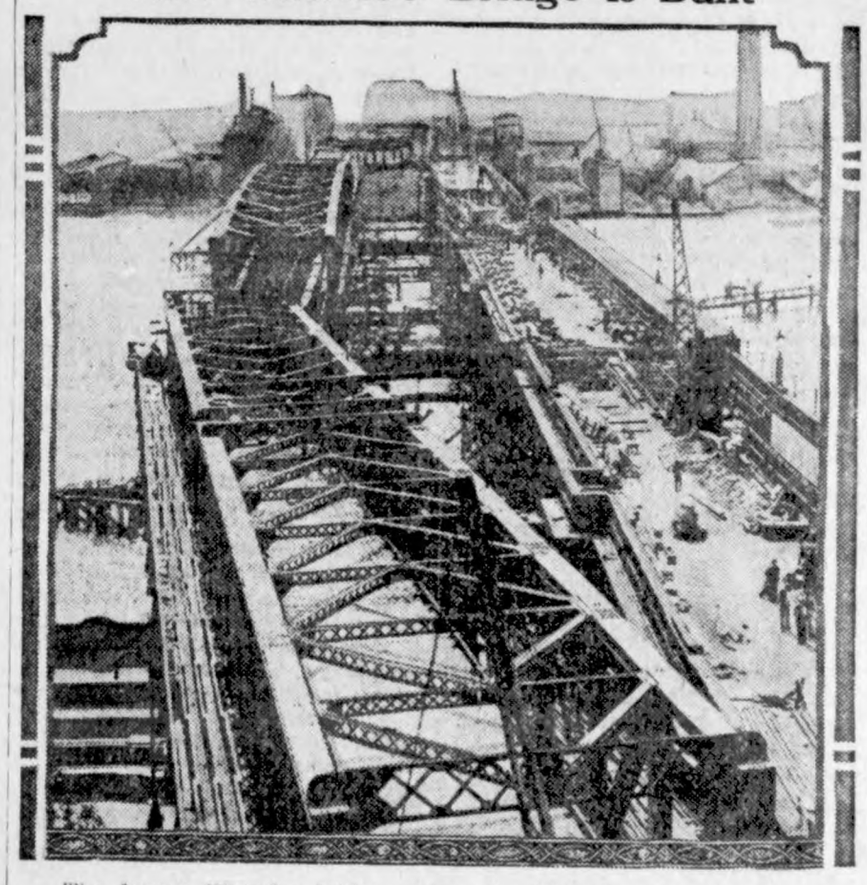
COLONEL AT U. OF I.

Miss Marion McCarthy, who was named by Col. William T. Merry, commandant of the University R. O. T. C., as honorary woman student colonel at the University of Illinois. Her duties include the appointing of 64 sorority sponsors for the various organizations of the R. O. T. C. She will lead the military parade and balls.

BILL'S A LUCKY LAD

Bill Hays of St. Louis, Mo., nineteen years old, will inherit from $15,000 to $20,000 under his late employer's will, though his employment as an office boy had lasted only four months when Charles Herboth, founder and owner of the Herboth Mercantile company, died. "The first thing I'll do with that money," said young Hays, "is to put it in a bank and then buy a home for mother. That will please her, and we won't have to worry any more about a home."

New Waterloo Bridge Is Built



The famous Waterloo bridge across the Thames at London is being replaced with a new structure. The photograph shows the central span, weighing 600 tons, being placed in position from the old bridge, on which it was assembled.

Montana Quake Made Big Fissures

Huge fissures, several feet deep, appeared in the earth's surface near Three Forks, Mont., opened by the severe earthquakes. The crevice shown here was 100 feet long, 2 to 5 feet wide and 2 to 8 feet deep.

FAMOUS GOTHAM FISH OVER ONE HUNDRED YEARS OLD

Fulton Market Continues to Be Greatest Crossroads From Fishing Smack to Dinner Table.

New York.—Gov. Alfred E. Smith, son of New York's East side, once was asked if he had a college degree. According to a favorite story of the town. He replied gravely that he had one, when asked what it was, said: "F. F. M."

This he translated with a broad smile: "Fulton Fish Market." The governor had worked there as a fish packer in his youth.

Fulton Fish market, now in its second century, continues to be the country's greatest crossroads from fishing smack to dinner table.

Located in the lee of Brooklyn bridge, its annual business is estimated at $30,000,000. It handles from 350,000,000 to 400,000,000 pounds of seafood year in and year out, which it receives all the way from the Atlantic to the Pacific, Great Lakes to the Gulf, Bering sea to the Grand Banks, the fishmongers say.

The market sends this tremendous poundage forth again over a much shorter radius, however. So dense is the population in the eastern area which Fulton market supplies that the bulk of the shipments scarcely gets more than 10 miles from East river before it has been absorbed, it is said.

When Fulton market was opened in 1822 its 340 original stands were taken largely by butchers. But early defaults on saw and cleaver leases, together with growing business among the hustling fishermen and oystermen caused the city authorities that October to set aside the east, or Beekman street, wing "for use of sellers of fish."

Wholesale activity developed, and six years later the fish industry moved to a shed of its own across South street, opposite the main market, on the water. Ice, then, was unknown commercially, and fish were kept in floating "cars" which were suspended in the slip below, bobbing against the hulls of the smacks. Today ice is used in thousands of tons. Save for the period from 1843 to 1869, the same site, with different roofs, has housed the wholesalers to this day.

Much of the deep-sea tang of Fulton Fish market is felt to be lost with the passing of the old-time fishing boats. Craft like the old Gloucester smacks have largely disappeared. Power engineering with blasts of gas and smoke carried away the rigging that endured a hundred storms. Magneto and carburetor, throttle and firebox, have routed the old sinewy heaves on jib and sheet, topsail and staysail. Fleets still follow bluefish from Hatteras to Montauk, mackerel from Cape May to Nova Scotia, and haddock and cod off the Banks. But Fulton market itself admits they are different fleets.

Many railroads in Spain are being electrified.

STOP WASTING--OR FACE PAUPERISM

By WILLIAM E. KNOX
President, American Bankers Association

The American standard of living, the highest in the world, came easily in the past from the abundance of our natural wealth, but it can be maintained in the future only by drastic national economy in the use of that wealth. We have grown up to our resources. We can not afford to waste them any longer. Industrially we have got to stop wasting, but even more so have we got to stop the wastefulness of our personal habits.

William E. Knox

The paramount challenge to education in America today calls for the effective teaching of personal economics—for education in the management of personal incomes so that they will give every individual a good living during his productive years and provide certain security for the nonproductive years of his old age.

Forty-four million people, two-fifths of our population, are gainfully employed in the United States, earning more than $60,000,000,000 annually. The management of the expenditure of this $60,000,000,000 annual pay check is the biggest and most important business in America. It has been estimated that upwards of $10,000,000,000 of this personal income is wasted annually. More than a billion, it is estimated, disappears in foolish speculation in fake schemes.

The spirit of waste in America is a heritage of the past, but today the country has more than one hundred and fourteen million people to support and no nation's resources can withstand extravagance indefinitely. An increase in population will mean a reduced average of personal wealth unless intelligent management maintains a progressively more economic utilization of the national income.

To teach our people this is the task of education and it can not begin to meet the task a moment too soon. The advance of civilization makes man's existence a more and more serious business. Human responsibilities and duties increase each year. If progress has made life more abundant it has also made it more expensive. It is impossible for most men to increase their real wages. Therefore they must meet their added responsibilities out of more economic employment of what they get.

The schools must teach our young people so to manage their own personal affairs as to insure that they will lead lives that have an economic worth to society and to themselves. Business must provide plans for its workers to enable them not only to earn but also to save so that the teaching of the schools will not prove an illusion in practice. Do these things and we will have no pauperism in America. Neglect to do them and we will ultimately develop pauperism,—a nation's worst social crime.

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

ON HAVING MONEY ON HAND

"Aunty, why is it such a good thing to have cash in the bank?" asked Jane of Aunt Emmy. "Mr. Wilkins was talking to father yesterday and he said that every one ought to have a certain amount of cash on hand."

"He meant that if you keep some of your money in the bank where it can be had any time you might be able to use it to excellent advantage," said Aunt Emmy. "Every now and then a good opportunity presents itself to make a nice profit in some business deal if you only have the cash on hand so you can act quickly. Don't you remember about that quarrel the Brown brothers had over their inheritance and to settle it sold that house in Center Street? Old Peter Haskins bought it in for $3,000 and the next week sold it for $4,200. If he hadn't had the cash on hand he never could have made that handsome profit."

"Yes, Aunty, that's all right for Mr. Haskins, but I'm never likely to have $3,000 or $4,000 on hand."

"Well there are other little ways to make a profit," said Aunt Emmy. "For instance, you can always benefit by cash discounts. That is, if some one asks you to pay, say $100 for a thing, you can usually get it for less, sometimes ten per cent less, if you pay at once in cash. You always should have some of your money in cash so that you can take advantage of golden opportunities and cash discounts."—A. B. Aymes.

BANKERS HELP

DEATH TAXES AS BUSINESS KILLERS

Assistant Treasury Secretary Tells Fable of Fate of Two Successful Men.

Men cannot be expected to continue to work, day after day, increasing the productiveness of this country and benefiting others, if they know that on death the major portion of their earnings will be dissipated in Federal estate and state inheritance taxes, declares Charles S. Dewey, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, in the American Bankers Association Journal. He says:

"I am going to relate a fable in terms of modern business conditions. John Henry and Walter Brown were aggressive, hard-working men, and each had started business for himself.

"At the time this history opens, John Henry had just died, leaving his entire estate to his son, John Henry, Jr., and had appointed his old friend, Walter Brown, as executor. Prior to his death John Henry had moved to California, leaving his business in the hands of his son under whom it had continued to make excellent headway. The father had been doing a little speculating in oil. This venture had not proved successful and he was in debted in the sum of $500,000.

"Executor Walter Brown, on examination of the estate, found the following situation:

Capital stock of Henry & Co., Inc., a Michigan Corpn.	$5,000,000
Personal debts due banks	500,000

"Walter Brown soon made the unpleasant discovery that in addition to the personal indebtedness of $500,000, and administration expenses of $250,000, the following death duties must be paid:

Federal estate tax	$497,500
California inheritance tax	585,700
Michigan inheritance tax	122,000
Total	$1,205,200

"Added to the personal debt and administration expenses, this made a grand total liability of $1,955,200. The year was 1920. Money was tight. Other manufacturing companies in the same line which might have been interested in a purchase had no money for extensions nor were the banks in a position to handle a loan of this type. Here was a most successful business, built up from small beginnings by one man and carried on to further successes by his son, about to be placed under the hammer.

"Is there any justice in taxation that may force a man and his family to lose the fruits of his entire life's labor, and permit others to benefit? As a last resort, Henry, Jr., was forced into a bond issue. A loan, to settle the debts, administration expenses and death duties, of $2,250,000 was negotiated, upon the following basis:

"The capital stock of the company was left at $5,000,000 represented by 50,000 shares. First mortgage 8 per cent bonds were offered the public with a bonus of two shares of stock with each $1,000 bond. The banker, to protect his bond customers, kept 30,000 shares to assure control of management, and John Henry, Jr., received the balance of 15,500 shares. John now has a good job as general manager of his father's old company, but they do not pay him very much.

"Now we must return to Walter Brown, executor of John Henry, Sr. Walter had always kept close to his own manufacturing business. The more he considered his own situation, the more closely it seemed to him to resemble that of his old friend.

"He therefore called a lawyer and made a complete schedule of his assets, requesting that an estimate of administration expenses and death duties be made. The schedule of assets was as follows:

Capital stock, Walter Brown Co., Mich. Corp.	$4,000,000
California real estate	1,000,000
Tax-exempt bonds, Minn., Mont. and Colo.	500,000
Total	$5,500,000

"Within a few days Mr. Brown's lawyer made the following report:

Debts and admin. expenses		$500,000
Fed. estate tax	$710,625
Cal. inheritance tax	443,194
Mich. inheritance tax	260,409
Minn. inheritance tax	4,289
Mont. inheritance tax	4,486
Colo. inheritance tax	2,700
Total death duties		1,425,703
Total expenses		$1,925,703

"On this basis the estate suffered a reduction from $5,500,000 to approximately $3,574,000, thus wiping out all assets except the corporate stock and placing a heavy loan on that. Mr Brown had one son and, as he thought of John Henry, Jr., toiling away with little hope of opportunity he determined that he would not subject his own son to the same tribulations.

"Boom times having come, there was no difficulty obtaining a purchaser for Walter Brown & Co., and the California real estate was sold at a good price. The whole was invested in tax-exempt bonds which yielded a very safe return of about 4½ per cent. Walter Brown then moved his legal residence to the more friendly climate of Florida, where state inheritance and income taxes are forbidden.

The country suffers by the loss of ort which Walter Brown might have ntinued to expend under a more inligent system of taxation. We must form the tax system in such a way at business and industry shall not hampered. We must make sure at American citizens shall not be eprived of the incentive to work and ccumulate and that this country shall ot cease to be a land of opportunity . tax system which discourages ini iative cannot be the right system for America."

Riches Garnered From Great Chilean Desert

Chile has many thousands of square miles of land capable of cultivation, yet its most valuable asset is a desert where the rainfall is seldom more than half an inch per annum. It does not grow a single tree, or even a blade of grass, except where patches of imported soil have been laid. This is the nitrate country, which employs 50,000 people directly and indirectly five times as many, and in which something approaching $200,000,000 is invested.

There are over one hundred and seventy separate workings, each of which is the center of a busy population. Yet every ounce of food, every yard of clothing, every cog and shaft of its huge machinery, every pint of water even, has to be brought from a distance. For many miles around the country produces nothing but nitrate of soda.

It is an amazing fact that the most valuable fertilizer of commerce comes from a region where nothing will grow, but it is a case of all fertilizer and no soil and no rain. In earlier days water was so valuable that it was a saying that it was cheaper to drink champagne, but now water is carried by pipes from far-off sources, some of which are 200 miles distant.

Father Picked Moral From Youngster's Joke

A prominent Los Angeles attorney told the following story in a recent address to the graduates of a grammar school. He said that his son, a high-school graduate, came home one day and asked him if he were a good mathematician.

"Yes, my boy, I think I'm pretty good," the father replied.

"Well, then, I have a problem I'd like to have you solve. There were three frogs sitting on a log—a bullfrog, a tree frog and a toad frog. The bullfrog decided to jump off. How many were there left?"

The father smiled. "Why, that's an easy one. Two frogs were left."

"And that's where you are all wrong!" exclaimed the boy, grinning. "Three frogs were left, because the bullfrog only decided to jump off. He didn't jump."

Then the lawyer impressed upon his audience that a person who would win success must act promptly on his decisions.

Primitive Water Clocks

In the Malayan peninsula travelers recently found the natives using a most primitive method for measuring time, which has probably been in vogue for 5,000 years. It is called the water clock and is simply a small dish or round bowl with a small hole in the bottom. When this is placed in a tub of water it gradually becomes full and sinks, which always happens in the same period of time. On the Malay junks it is a common thing to see a coconut shell floating in a bowl of water to tell off the time away from the home port. The ancient Egyptians used the water clock. The sand glass or water glass has two uses all its own at the present time—for boiling eggs, and in the English house of commons to time the bells that ring to notify members that a division is at hand.

Forecasts and bulletins have been prepared and issued daily for several years by the weather bureau for the benefit of aviators, especially those in the services of the army and navy. When the transcontinental air-mail service was extended across the continent in the summer of 1924, arrangements were made at the request of the Post Office department for special weather forecasts.

These forecasts are issued from Chicago. One covers the route from Bryan, Ohio, to Omaha, Nebr., and the other the route from Omaha to Rock Springs, Wyo. In formulating the forecasts the bureau has in mind conditions at the surface and at 5,000 feet aloft. The predictions are prepared each morning and are made available to both eastbound and westbound flyers at the air-mail field at Omaha. An additional forecast is given in the evening, whenever, in the judgment of the forecaster, decided changes are near.

Chinese Justice Unique

Chinese justice in modern times is as odd as in the days of Confucius. Recently, a large number of prisoners, including murderers, robbers and those convicted of arson, were freed because the prisons in which they had been detained, were found insanitary and overcrowded. Another instance was instructions to a troop of soldiers to apprehend four bandit soldiers, failure of which on the part of the soldiers thus detailed, was to mean execution of the troop's commander.

Must Discard Clothing

Europeans and Americans who want to travel or study in the tropics must get over the bashfulness of going without clothes, according to Prof. P. F. Fyson of Berhampore, Bengal. The tropics will never be colonized by Americans or Europeans until they decide to live with the native dress. Clothing, he maintains, interferes with the natural regulating action of the skin and makes it impossible for the northerners to stand the climate.

Hammer Drives Screws

Hammer-driven screws are the latest time-savers for work in hard metal and composition materials. A hole of the correct size is drilled in the material. Into this the top of the new type screw is inserted. As it is hammered, the screw cuts and twists into the material. The extreme hardness of the screw and the angle of its threads make it turn as it is driven.—Popular Science Monthly.

Cost of Revolution

Final accounts submitted to the Hungarian national assembly show that Count Michael Karolyi's revolution and governorship and the subsequent bolshevist regime cost Hungary no less than 8,525,000,000 crowns in the currency of 1919, or over $500,000,000.

Electricity From Glacier

The melting waters of Grasshopper glacier, in Montana, are to be conducted through a 1,000-foot tunnel and a 9,000-foot wooden conduit to waterwheel turbines, turning electric generators which will produce 15,000 horse power for cities and towns in the lowlands. The glacier gets its name from the millions of prehistoric grass hoppers buried in the blue ice.

THE OLD WEST IN ACTION

(Photo of cowboy copyright by Doubleday.)

All highways and byways this year lead enticingly to the Chicago Roundup and World's Championship Rodeo, which is to be held for nine days, beginning August 15. By cut rate train, boat or automobile, with parties of friends made up to share the trip, thousands of tourists are expected to be transplanted into the atmosphere of the real West.

Chicago's new $5,000,000 stadium on Lake Michigan is to become the capitol of American sport through the efforts of the domestic and foreign commerce committee of the Association of Commerce.

The story of the roundup and the rodeo is the story of romance of the real West. Into the nine days of the Chicago event will be packed more daring feats and dynamic action than is the privilege of many to witness in a lifetime. Tex Austin, producer of the most successful cowboy contests, will organize and manage the Chicago spectacle. Cowboys, cowgirls and bulldoggers, champions all, and bronchos and longhorn steers which have scorned mastery, will fight out the battle royal for supremacy.

From the "brush" of the Southwest to the ranges of Canada, the challenge has passed among the buckaroos who have fought out old rivalries at the famous cowboy events in Cheyenne and Pendleton. Not only seeking the glory of victory, they also will compete for more than $30,000 in cash prizes put up by the Chicago association. This is the largest amount given anywhere this year for cowboy contests. "Outlaw" horses, called the worst on the ranges, already are under contract with Tex Austin. They can't be ridden, is the promise of their owners. Carloads of steers, conditioned through the summer into their greatest strength, will defy the wits of the "bulldoggers."

The stadium itself is the world's wonder work of architecture. Its massive colonnades look down upon a huge arena and tiers of seats for 75,000 persons. It is set in the ring of boulevards and parks and on the lake front, which have won for Chicago the title of the "vacation city."

The roundup and rodeo will solve your vacation problems, so tell Mother and Sister and the Kid Brother to quit fretting over the summer's plans and get ready for the thrills of their lives.

Get your IOWA GATES at the Northern Lbr. Co. 1tc

Carlyle Gauger returned Saturday from his visit on a farm near Rudd, where he spent a couple of week's.

We have been having real hot weather for the past week. Ninety in the shade is now considered cool.

The Iowa Lutheran Hospital at Des Moines, under the jurisdiction of the Swedish Lutheran denomination, has a contract with the government for taking care of disabled world war veterans in this territory who need hospital attention. The contract which has recently been renewed for another five year period demands accomodations for 20 men. nine being the number now in its care. The hospital management recently erected a 60 foot flag pole and Hallard Hollingsworth, who has been an inmate for over two years and who moves about by means of a wheel chair, asked the privelidge of donating a 24-foot flag and the request was granted. When the time arrived for the dedication of the flag pole and the flag, Argonne post, American Legion, had charge of the exercises and as the Post band played the Star Spangled Banner, Hollingsworth, from his invalid chair, slowly pulled the rope and that hoisted the flag to the top of the pole. Appropriate dedicatory services were held and the scene was a most impressive one. A great crowd witnessed the exercises.

STANDARDIZATION OF RURAL SCHOOLS POPULAR

Members of the staffs of several State departments of education believe that standardizing small rural schools results in better physical conditions, better qualified teachers, more regular school attendance; and best of all, stimulates pupils, patrons and school officers to want better schools. About three-fourths of the States are now standardizing rural schools either by statutory provisions or by regulations established by the chief school authorities, according to Rural School Leaflet No. 31, "The Improvement of Rural Schools' which has recently been published by the department of Interior, Bureau of education. The requirements are usually set out in such a manner as to form a score card or scale. A standard school is one that scores a designated number of points on the scale. Some states provide for superior schools as well as the standard schools. For example a standard school in Vermont must score 80 to 89 points on a scale of 100 and a superior school 90 or more. It is common to find these score cards posted in school rooms. The effect is stimulating. They serve as measuring rods whereby pupils and patrons may see the merits and demerits of their schools. Schools are usually scored by county superintendents and representatives of State departments of education. Those which meet the requirements are generally awarded in one or more ways, such as name plates and certificates. In some states the list of standard and superior schools is published in reports issued by State departments of education. Eleven States offer a monetary reward. The amounts granted to small rural schools vary from $50 to $500 a year.

No. 6659 Reserve District No. 7
Report of the Condition of

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK

At Klemme, in the state of Iowa
At the close of business on June 30, 1925.

RESOURCES

Loans and discounts		309,511.[illegible]
Overdrafts, unsecured		393.[illegible]
U. S. Government securities owned, deposited to secure circulation (U. S. bonds par value)		25,000.[illegible]
All other United States Government securities		138,500.[illegible]
Other bonds, stocks, securities, etc.		14,709.[illegible]
Banking house, 8,000.00 Furniture and fixtures, 2,700.00		10,700.[illegible]
Real estate owned other than banking house		3,426.[illegible]
Lawful reserve with Federal Reserve Bank		28,562.[illegible]
Cash in vault and amount due from national banks		83,899.[illegible]
Amount due from State banks, bankers, and trust companies in the United States		21,104.[illegible]
Checks on other banks in the same city as reporting bank		1,724.[illegible]
Checks and drafts (including Federal Reserve Bank) located outside of city or town of reporting bank		169.[illegible]
Miscellaneous cash items		111.[illegible]
Redemption fund with U. S. Treasurer and due from U. S. Treasurer		1,250.[illegible]
TOTAL		$614,054.[illegible]

LIABILITIES

Capital stock paid in	$ 25,000.[illegible]
Surplus fund	15,000.[illegible]
Undivided profits
19,161.90
Less current expenses, interest, and taxes paid
15,164.57	3,997.[illegible]
Circulating notes outstanding	24,995.[illegible]
Demand deposits subject to Reserve.
Individual deposits subject to check	133,502.[illegible]
Certificates of deposit due in less than 30 days	50,600.[illegible]
Time Deposits subject to Reserve.
Certificates of deposit	360,567.[illegible]
Liabilities other than those above stated	392.[illegible]
TOTAL	$614,054.[illegible]

State of Iowa
County of Hancock, ss.

I, F. A. Arnold, Pres. of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

F. A. ARNOLD, Pres.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 14 day of July, 1925.

W. C. Keraus, Notary Public.
(SEAL)

Correct—Attest:
FRED GREIMANN
E. J. ARNOLD
PETER JOSTEN, Director.

Threshing Coal

We have coming on the road a carload of genuine

Brazil Block Steam Coal

This is a high grade coal and best for threshing. Give us your order now.

Hard Coal

We are now filling our list for those who want hard coal. Put in your order now, as we are ordering only enough to supply our list. This is a good chestnut size coal priced right.

Klemme Co-Op. Grain Co

Pop & Malt

BUY IT BY THE CASE

Buy your Malt and Pop by the Case. We have a full assortment here and we can give you a mixed case at the same price.

Smith's

BILLIARD HALL

A FEW CAUSES OF

Oil Pumping

AND COMPRESSION LEAKAGE

1. Worn or out or round cylinders.
2. Scored cylinders or pistons.
3. Warped or worn ring grooves.
4. Poorly fitted pistons and rings.
5. Piston pin hole out of round.
6. Poorly aligned rod on piston assembly.
7. Sprung connecting rods.
8. Crank shaft warped or out of true.
9. Worn Bearings.
10. Warped or sticky valves.
11. Improper timing.
12. Leaky cylinder head gaskets.

All this cas be repaired at—

PAVEY'S
STORMIZING SHOP
Use Quaker State Oil and Ever-ready Gasoline

YOU WANT A HAIR TONIC THAT

(1) Holds the hair in place.
(2) Removes Dandruff.
(3) Keeps the scalp clean.
(4) Is non-greasy.

These are the four features of

NYAL HIRSUTONE

A liquid hair dressing.
Start using it today.

Large Bottle One Dollar.

WILSON'S PHARMACY
Klemme. Iowa

Dr. R. W. Specht
—Dentist—

Office Over Whitehead's Store

Office Phone No. 106

Garner Iowa

Smoked Meats!

Armou 's Star Skinned Hams 35c
Armours Bacon Nuggets 30c
Sugar Cured Bacon 35c

Cold Meats

Our supply of cold meats is always fresh. A full line on hand. Try our Summer Sausage.

Full line of Heinz 57

Klemme Meat Market

News of Klemme and Vicinity

Mrs. Josten came from Garner Saturday for an over Sunday visit with her daughter, Mrs. Gauger.

40 acres of tame hay land for rent. Inquire of Geo. W. Griggs, Goodell, Iowa. 1tc

Wm. Smith and family and J. N. Day and family, of Klemme, D. D. Ross family, of Garner, and Mr. and Laman Johnson, of Manhattan, Ill., enjoyed a picnic on the shores of Clear Lake Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson are visiting at the Ross home for a few days.

Dr. and Mrs. Spooner, of LuVerne and Mrs. Schaefer, of Forest City, were visiting old Klemme friends Tuesday.

Mrs. Howard Doyle and son of Clear Lake came last Thursday for several days visit at the Tom Roths home.

Charles Gibbs was visiting with his mother, Mrs. Emma Gibbs Sunday and Monday. He is night operator at Dysart.

Mr. and Mrs. Laman Johnson, of Manhattan, Illinois, came Thursday of last week for a visit at the J. N. Day and Wm. Smith homes.

Gus Baack and family drove in from Sheboygan, Wisconsin, Sunday for a week's visit with Klemme relatives and friends.

John Day was able to shake a leg again the latter part of the week. John was laid up several days with an attack of rheumatism.

Rev. and Mrs. A. H. Meyer, of Edgewood, Iowa, visited with Klemme friends last week until Saturday when they went to Dows for a visit.

KLEMME MARKETS

July 15, 1925

Wheat	1.45
Oats	.36
Shelled Corn	.90
Ear Corn	.85
Rye	.85
Barley	.75
Hogs	12.00—12.50
Eggs (cash)	.27
Eggs (trade)	.28
Heavy Hens	.18
Light Hens	.15
Standard Springs	.25
Leghorn No. 2 Springs	.20
Ducks	.10
Old Roosters	.08
Geese	.08
Butter (creamery)	.44
Butterfat	.44

Dr. D. P. Anderson was a business caller at Garner Tuesday. The boys here are wondering what business he transacted at the County Clerk's office.

Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Barr and little niece, La Von Ann, drove to Spencer the latter part of the week for a visit with Mrs. Barr's mother. They also were at Spirit Lake Sunday.

Crops are looking fine in this country. Some fields of corn near Klemme are beginning to tassel. The farmers are busy these days putting up hay and cutting oats.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kahl and family, and Miss Lena Keever drove to Minneapolis Friday for an over Sunday visit with relatives, returning to Klemme Sunday evening.

Dr. Anderson, of this city, accompanied by Dr. Wesson, of Garner, drove to Minneapolis yesterday morning to attend a vet's convention of some kind.

40 acres of tame hay land for rent. Inquire of Geo. W. Griggs, Goodell, Iowa. 1tc

Mrs. P. M. Wilson and daughter, Miss Gladys, who are visiting friends at Vinton, had their tonsils removed the first of the week and reports are that they are getting along fine and expect to be home next week.

Lester Stille has been off duty the past week and was not able to look after his oil business. He was suffering from an infected jaw. He was able to be about Tuesday and was feeling and looking much better.

A joint installation of officers of the Odd Fellow and Rebeccah lodges was held Tuesday evening. Quite a number from Garner came over to assist with the work. Light refreshments were served after the work was finished.

Mr. and Mrs. Lew Sampson came home from Fort Atkinson, Wis., last week. They have been there all winter visiting their daughter, Florence and keeping house for her. She is working in a store there.

Get your IOWA GATES at the Northern Lbr. Co. 1tc

Frank Kluckhohn and family, C. G. Waterman and family, J. J. Poort and family, R. A. Jorgenson and family and Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Keraus had a surprise supper on Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Keraus Sunday evening to celebrate their twelfth wedding anniversay.

Dr. Missman and family of Klemme and Dr. Parsons and family, of Belmond, left Monday in their cars for Wisconsin for an outing at the Missman Cottage on one of the lakes there. The two doctors will return in a week and later will go back to spend a few weeks with their families.

The band boys went out to Sam Hammond's home Friday evening and furnished the entertainment for the farm bureau meeting. Sam is a good scout and appreciated the part the boys took and he enriched the band fund with a liberal contribution for which the boys want to thank him.

The Ben Coobs family, W. F. Pavey family and Verner Lewis family, all spent Sunday at Clear Lake for a picnic. Mr. and Mrs. Herman Coobs, Sr. came up from McGregor on an excusion picnic and thus had an opportunity to spend Sunday with their daughters and son and their families from here.

Mr. Joe Weinbrenner, of California, who is visiting at the Lew Lewis home this summer, was 85 years old Monday, and in honor of the event Mr. and Mrs. Lewis planned a birthday surprise supper for him, and invited Verner Lewis and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lewis. Mr. Weinbrenner and Mr. Lewis were buddies in the army during the Civil War. Mr. Lewis will celebrate his 80th birthday on August 8th.

Sumner Trumbell, manager of the Idle Hour Theatre states that they will not show any pictures until September 1st, when they will again open the theatre. They are closing on account of the warm weather. However, they will have a show on August 5th, which will be announced later.

Fred Wilkin passed away suddenly at his home at Garner, Sunday afternoon; the cause of his death being heart trouble. The family lived near Klemme a few years ago.

Mrs. Beek is visiting at Ventura a few days this week.

Birthday Party

La Rayne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Stille celebrated his fourth birthday, Thursday, July 9th, by inviting a number of his little friends to spend the afternoon with him at his grandmother's home west of town. The boys and girls had a fine time playing games after which a delightful lunch was served. The four year old gentleman received a large number of fine gifts from his little friends.

The Avery threshing ring has purchased a new Russell separator. The Poverty Hill threshing ring had a meeting Monday noon to look over the best method of invading the oat fields this year. It was practically decided that Chas. Gibbs will pilot the outfit as engineer; and Ralph Elder will ride the separator deck; while Albert White has nailed down the water monkey job. The gang is ready to go!

TIMES EDITOR DE-TOURS IN MISSOURI

It was not much of a trip but we always find something of interest on our trips that some of our subscribers enjoy reading and so we will tell about some of the things we saw on our recent trip.

To begin with we might mention that we made the trip of 387 miles to Kansas City, Mo., in fourteen hours on the road, covering 310 miles in ten hours at which time we stopped at Cameron. Mo., for dinner.

Of special interest to our farmer readers would be a report on the crops. Corn looks fine all the way to Kansas City, and at which place it was then tasseling out. From Des Moines and south practically all the small grain had been cut and near Kansas City a large percent of it had been threshed. Anumber of farmers were having straw bailed there. Hay land and pastures were good ll the way down and they have had plenty of rain in Missouri this year.

On our trip down we followed the Jefferson Highway from Des Moines and found it in fine shape in Iowa. From the Iowa line south the road is all torn up and under construction and so that part of the trip was all de-touring instead of touring. The detour took us over country roads and were very hilly and full of short turns and so we lost some time on the finish.

What struck us funny is the fact that there are very few wind-mills on Missouri farms. The farms evidently do not have much stock and so most of the water is pumped by hand. Most farmers dam up the draws between two hills and thus form a pond and we saw many such watering places. At one place t was a windmill right in the middle of the road. Several places we would find a large tree right in the middle of the road. Evidently the roads follow the line of least resistance.

At Kansas City we took in all the parks an amusement places. There are three large amusement parks in the city and many other parks for picnics. The amusement parks were the main attracting for our son Buster as he thought it was great stuff. Everything imaginable is found in these parks from merry-go rounds to roller coasters a good half mile long, and there are hundreds of different things to ride on for kids as well as big kids. There are swimming pools all over the city and that about the only way to keep cool.

On our return trip we came home by way of Excellsior Springs, Chillicothe, Trenton, etc. We drove to Excelsior Springs Sunday to see the sights of that famous health resort. There are over a dozen mineral springs there and several thousand people are trying their best to drink all the water that flows out of the ground ond rocks. We had a drink of some of the water. Some springs taste fine, others not so good. The city has a large swimming pool near town which is fed from the overflow of the springs and is ont of the cleanest and healthiest pools in the country. They also have a little lake at the resort, but no fishing is alowed. The fish are so tame that by throwing a handful of popcorn in the water the fish will come up by the dozens to eat the corn. There are bull heads, bass and so forth in the lake.

We found the return trip home was the best road, with the exception of perhaps twenty-five or thirty miles of mud after we left Excelsior Springs. There are no gravel roads in northern Missouri, all clay roads which are fine in dry weather but very sticky when it rains.

We might drop the Klemme girls a hint as to the latest in flapper fashions. Rolled hose is too tame in Kansas City. Bare knees are no long er the latest dope for the flapper. Instead of "rolling their own" down thre, they wear no hose at all. Just slippers over their bare feet and the legs can take care of the hosiery proposition. Most of the men are wearing smoked glasses in Kansas City—the sun is so bright.

..BICYCLE FOR SALE

Made by one of the foremost bicycle manufacturers in the United States; good as new, complete with cyclometer, luggage carrier, special Brampton chain, and coaster brake. Prices right. Inquire at the Times Office at once.

WIND GENERATES ELECTRICITY

There is a possibility that the windmill will eventuallly be used as a source of power for generating electricity on Iowa farms, in the opinion of workers at the Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station. A wind mill is being used for demonstrational purposes at Ames furnished 100 kilowatt hours during June and this is about four times the amount which it has been found the average farm uses. June this year, however was more than normally windy.

The 65 farms in the rural electrification project at Garner, Iowa, which is being supervised by the Iowa Station, have used an aveage of 25 kilowatt hours each month. The amount used has depended greatly on the use made of the electricity.

As many as 200 kilowatt hours have been generated in a month by the Ames windmill. This amount of electricity was manufactured during March and at Ames city prices would be valued at about $18.

Whether or not the windmill will prove to be a practical means of generating electricity on the farm depends on the velocity and distribution of the wind, says Fred C. Fenton, who is in charge of thewind mill experiment. He says the data so far gathered indicates that probably through the months of July and August there would not be sufficient wind to keep the storage battery charged. The usual farm size battery will carry about enough electricity for 8 or 10 days use.

The windmill being used by the station is a 100 foot steel tower. The generator is attached directly to the head at the top of the tower. The present head is a two-bldaed, propeller type, weighing about 300 lbs. The wheel formerly used had 24 blades and the head weighed about 1500 pounds. The two bladed type is giving excellent results so far and because of the greatly reduced weight it may have some advantages over the old type, in upkeep, length of life and cheapness.

TO BE HEALTHY READ THE COMICS

Washington, D. C., July 8.— The lowly newspaper comic strip, looked ed down upon by the elite and scored by the highbrows, is a good thing from a hygenic standpoint, according to Dr. Frederick W. Steward, neurologist ,who did not hesitate to say so in a recent address. The comic strip soothes the nerves and puts us into a better temper according to Dr. Steward.

"People whose ire is easily aroused ,who fly into rage on the slightest provocation arec andidates for nerve exhaustion and brain fag." Dr. Steward said. "A calm, even temperament is an invaluable health asset.

"I advise neurasthenics to look for the funny side of life. The liberal sprinkling of our newspapers with comic strips is a decidedly beneficial thing from a health standpoint."

The Advantage of Using

Gallon Fruits--

We have just received another large shipment of GALLON FRUITS of all kinds, which we are selling at a price that is a real bargain.

This Fruit is packed in one gallon cans which are "full packed" and filled to the very top with choice ripe-packed fruit.

The advantage of buying gallon fruit is that you can re-can it in your own fruit jars from fruit that was ripe when put in the original cans. Many Klemme housewives now prefere to buy fruit this way for canning.

The Fruit used for gallon canning is packed right from the western orchards and this method gives you choice, ripe, plump fruit with all the ripeness and flavor retained, packed from fresh fruit.

Our stock of gallon fruit is complete in all kinds of fruit and berries. Try a can and be conviced.

G.W. Kluckhohn & Sons

The Cash Store

MID-SUMMER is here and School will soon start, so now is the time to do your FALL SEWING. You will find we have on hand a splendid line of Ginghams, Peter Pan, Sun Tubs, Indian Head, Suitigs and Percales to select from and our prices are reasonable. Come in and let us show you our Goods.

Saturday Special

A NICE LINE OF LADIES HOUSE DRESSES and APRONS for the hot weather, $1.50 to $2.25 values going at..... 89c
Don't miss this! .....

"PAY CASH and PAY LESS"

Jno. N. Day's Cash Store

Nameless River

By VINGIE E. ROE

Copyright by the McCall Company WNU Service.

RUSTLERS

SYNOPSIS.—Kate Cathrew, "Cattle Kate," owner of the Sky Line ranch, on her way to McKane's store at Cordova, seemingly infuriated by the sight of a girl plowing in a valley below, places a rifle bullet near the horses' feet. The girl takes no notice. Kate goes on to town, where her presence brings on a fight between McKane, the trader, and Sheriff Selwood. Nance Allison, the girl on whom Kate Cathrew had vented her spite, is with her widowed mother and crippled brother Bud farming land taken up by her father, killed a short time before in a mysterious accident. Bud is the victim of a deliberate scheme to maim or kill him. Kate Cathrew wants the farm for pasture land, and is trying to frighten the Allisons into leaving. Big Basford, Sky Line rider, desperately in love with Kate, picks a quarrel with a fellow rider, Rod Stone. Kate, to part them, lashes Basford across the face with a quirt. Nance discovers in a cave a fine collie dog, evidently guarding a child. She goes home mystified. Next day Nance returns to the cave with food and makes friends with the dog and the small boy, Sonny. He tells her "Brand takes care of him and Dirk," the collie. Selwood is certain Kate Cathrew is the head of a "cattle rustling" gang, with Lawrence Arnold, her partner, who rarely visits the ranch. Minnie Pine, halfbreed at the Sky Line ranch, is in love with Rod Stone.

CHAPTER VII

—6—

The Shadows Thicken.

Old man Conlan was, as McKane had said, half crazy with the loss of his cattle. They were not so many, only a matter of some twenty-two head, but they meant a lot to him. He owned no patented land. He was merely a squatter in the lower fringes of the Upper country around at the western end of Mystery ridge where Rainbow cliff stopped spectacularly. He lived with his wife in a disreputable old cabin and worked beyond his years and strength in the white fire of an ambition—a laudable ambition, for he had a crippled son back East in college. He ran cattle in the hills and he knew every head of his brand to the last wobbly calf, an easy matter, since they were few.

At the store in Cordova he told his woes to the countryside, and he had an attentive audience, for his issue was theirs, and in a broader way.

On a pleasant day in late June, the old man reiterated his grievance, pulling his long gray beard and flailing his gaunt arms in eloquent gesture.

"Whoever they be that lifted my steers," he said grimly, "I d—n their souls to h—l! I'd d—n their bodies, too, believe me, men, if I knowed 'em an' could throw my gun on 'em. Shuriff, here, might take me to jail next minute an' I'd go happy."

Selwood, sitting at a table desultorily playing cards, pushed back his hat and smiled.

"Nobody's going to take you to jail for killing a rustler, Jake," he said, "we'd give you a reward instead. I'd give a lot to have the chance myself."

"Why don't ye hunt fer it, then?" demanded Conlan testily, "ef I was shuriff—"

"Yes?" said Selwood, laying his cards flat on the table for a moment and facing him, "what would you do if you were sheriff?"

"I'd try, anyway," said the old man, with a touch of scorn, "to find a trace of somethin'. I'd not stay on my ranch an' let th' world go hang! I'd ride th' hills, 'tenny rate."

A slow paleness crept into Selwood's face, giving it an ashen hue, like a candle. He laid down his hand definitely and looked round at the ten or twelve men lounging in the room.

Among them were Bossick and one or two others who had suffered at the hands of the mysterious thieves of Nameless.

"I know that Jake here voices the feeling which has been growing against me for some time," he said evenly, "and this is as good a time as any to speak about it."

"You're our sheriff, Price, an' a d—d good one," spoke up Bossick loyally, "an' I for one have nothing to say against you. I know—no one better—what you're up against. I trailed my own stuff into that river with you, an' I know that they simply vanished. I've done my own darndest to onravel th' mystery, an' I can't see what more any man'd do, sheriff or not!"

Selwood smiled at him.

"Thanks, John," he said, "I'll not forget that. But I hate to have my friends think I'm laying down on the job. I haven't said anything about what I've been doing, preferring to wait until I had something to show, but that time seems far off still. This is the smoothest work I ever saw, baffling—. It don't stand to simple reason. We know beef cattle don't fly—and yet that seems the only way they could have got out of the country. They go—and they leave no trail. I know, for I've ridden the hills, Jake, notwithstanding, in dragnet fashion. Ask my wife how many nights I've slept at home since the last raid. Take a look at my horse out there. He's hard as iron and lean as a rail. And there's another at home that looks just like him. If I haven't found anything It's not because I haven't traveled."

Several men stirred and one spoke.

"I don't think many of us blame you, Price," he said, "but it does gall a feller to lose stock an' have to stand helpless."

"And how do you think it galls me to fail to catch the lifters?" asked Selwood quietly. "It's my job—my—my honor."

He picked up his cards again and turned to the table.

"But no matter what is said, or thought about me," he finished, "every day of my further hold on office will be given over to the same hunt—until I find what I'm after, or give up as a failure."

Hink Helsey, the bearded man who had sat on the store porch that day of the fight between Selwood and McKane, now dropped the forward legs of his chair to the floor and sat up, doubling his knife and putting it away in a pocket.

"Sheriff," he said, "I'm stackin' on you, along with Bossick. I think you'll ketch yer game—an' I think you're already on th' right trail."

McKane looked at him as if he could kill him and his tongue itched to flail both men, the speaker and Selwood, for he knew that they meant the same thing.

There was one listener, however, who said nothing and whose sharp eyes scanned each face in the room with painstaking thoroughness. This was Sud Provine, a rider from Sky Line who had come down for the mail.

The Sky Line men never stayed long at Cordova, except as they came now and again for a night at play.

When the talk had changed from the all-absorbing topic of the stolen cattle, this worthy rose, took his sack and departed.

Several pairs of eyes followed him, but no one spoke of him.

There was something about the Sky Line riders which seemed to preclude discussion in the open.

* * * * * * * *

Price Selwood had told the truth. There was not a night of the long warming weeks of spring which had not seen him, a shadow in the shadows, riding the slopes and flats of Nameless. Sometimes he sat for hours high on some shoulder of the hills watching the bowl beneath with the moonlight sifting down in a silver flood. Again, when the nights were dark, he rode up under the very lip of Rainbow cliff and watched and listened, his every sense as acute as a panther's. There were times when he sat for half a night within hailing distance of Kate Cathrew's stronghold, and once her dogs, winding him, yammered excitedly. This brought out a stealthy listener, whose only betrayal was the different note in the dogs' voices.

But someone was there in the darkness of the veranda, and Selwood outstayed him, whoever he was—outstayed the animals' excitement, their curiosity, and left with the hint of coming dawn to drop back down the slants and sleep the day away at home.

Night again saw him traveling, and always his one obsession traveled with him—the hard-and-fast presentiment that Kate Cathrew was the tangible element in the smoke-screen of mystery which rode the country.

"Whoever They Be That Lifted My Steers," He Said Grimly, "I D—n Their Souls to H—ll!"

It was not long after the talk at the store, perhaps a week or such a matter, when he got the first faint inkling of a clue. It was scarcely more, yet it served to sharpen his wits to a razor edge. It was not moonlight, neither was it clear dark of the moon, but that vague time in between when a pale sickle sailed the vault and shed its half-light to make shadows ghostly and substance illusive.

Selwood had ridden all the lower reaches of Nameless that week, had skirted the western end of Mystery, and even trailed far into the Deep Hearts themselves in an effort to find something, anything, which might tell him he was at least on the right track.

He hardly knew what it was for which he searched—perhaps an old trail, perhaps a secret branding fire. But he had found nothing. So he fell back on his night riding again, and as always this led him instinctively into the region of Sky Line ranch. He had crossed the river near the head of Nance Allison's tilled land, and had sat a moment peering down the length of the brown stretch where the rows of young corn were springing bravely.

It pleased the sheriff to see this promise of a fair crop, for he knew the girl, and had known her father for an honest, straightforward man. The hard effort of the family to get along was known to all the ranchers and earned its meed of admiration in a land where work was regarded almost as a religion.

Nameless could condone wrong, but not shiftlessness.

And this girl was not shiftless.

Instead, her sharp management and her heavy labor were matters of note. So the sheriff took special cognizance of the look of her big field of corn and nodded in pleased satisfaction.

Then he moved on up into the blue-brush that clothed the slants by the river and made for the heights.

Three hours later he was sitting sidewise in his saddle beside the well-worn trail which led up to Sky Line. He was not too close, being ensconced in a little thicket of maple about fifty yards back and above. He had spent many an hour here before.

It afforded a good view of the trail, and better still, a splendid chance to hear.

Twice in the last month he had heard and seen a bunch of Kate's riders coming home from Cordova where they had gone to gamble. But this fact had been unproductive of anything sinister.

They had ridden boldly, as behooves innocent men, their horses climbing slowly with rattle of spur and bit-chain, the squeak and whine of saddles.

Selwood had reached a hand to his horse's nose to preclude its neighing, and had seen them pass on up and disappear.

Next day he had unostentatiously made sure that these men had played at McKane's—in both instances.

And now he waited again, seemingly in a foolish quest.

He knew it would seem so to an observer. It seemed so to him when he regarded it with reason. But reason was not actuating him. It was instinct—hunch.

So Sheriff Price Selwood—whom Kate Cathrew quite frankly hated—sat in the darkness and watched and listened beside her trail, a lost little thread on the vast expanse of the wooded slopes.

A long hour passed, filled with the soundful silence of the wilderness. He heard an owl call and call in mournful quaver from far below, another answer. He knew that some hunting animal was abroad in the manzanita to his right, for he caught a thud and rustle, the pitiful, shrill scream of a rabit. A night bird gave out a sweet, alert note from time to time and an insect drummed in a pine tree.

And then he heard, or thought he did, another sound.

It was so far off and faint that he could not be sure, and for a time he fancied he might have been mistaken. Then it came again—the crack of hoofs on stone, and once more silence.

He held his breath, listening.

Once again he heard that cracking of hoofs—and this time he knew them for cloven hoofs. A cattle-brute was coming up the trail toward him. There was nothing in that fact to cause undue excitement—except one thing.

Under ordinary conditions that steer would be lying in some snug glade chewing its cud. In no natural case would it be coming up a trail at a smart pace—with a horse behind it!

Selwood leaned forward, gripping his own mount's nose, and strained his eyes in the illusive half-light. Presently he saw what he knew he would see—a rider, driving one lone steer up the trail to Sky Line.

It was too dark to see anything else—who the man was, or what manner of steer he drove, or what horse he rode.

And though he waited till the cooler breath of the night warned him of coming day he saw nothing more.

He spent the next day at Cordova, listening, but though several cattlemen came in, there was nothing said of a loss among them.

But the day after old man Conlan was in and fit for durance.

He threw his ragged hat on McKane's floor and jumped on it, reviling the law and all it stood for.

"Two more!" he bellowed with a break of tears in his old voice. "By ——! ef this ain't th' limit! I only had sixteen left an' th' two best out th' lot come up missin' this mornin'! Ain't no trail agin. They's tracks all over, sure—but th' other stock is on th' slope an' this time there just ain't nothin'!"

Barman, from up on Nameless, was at the store and he and McKane tried to calm the old man down, though the cattleman's own blood was roiled.

"It is a d—d dirty shame!" he said indignantly, "have you told Selwood?"

"Him?" grunted Conlan. "H—l!"

"He's here now," said McKane, "just getting down."

Price Selwood entered in time to hear the last of the old man's tirade, to catch the drift of what had happened ,and his eyes glowed for a second.

He laid a hand on Conlan's arm.

"Jake," he said, "hold in a little longer."

"Hold h—l!" said the other shaking off the hand, "I'll be ready for the county house in Bement in another three months!"

"I don't think so, Jake," said the sheriff quietly, "tell me—were those two steers branded?"

"Course. Plain as day. J.C. on right hip, swaller-fork in left ear. One was roan an' tother a bay-spot."

Selwood turned without a word, left the store, mounted and rode away.

"Jest like him!" said Conlan bitterly, "goes a'ridin' off all secret-like an' snappy—'s if he knowed somethin' or wanted us to think he did."

"Mebby he does," said Barman.

* * * * * * *

Sheriff Selwood rode straight up to Sky Line ranch. It took him a good three hours, going fast, and it was far after noon when he pulled rein at Kate Cathrew's corral gate and called for her.

She came, frowning and inhospitable.

"What do you want of me?" she asked coldy.

"Nothing," said Selwood, "except to tell you I'm going to take a look around your place."

"Look and be d—d!" she flared. "What do you think you'll find?"

"Well—" he drawled, smiling, "I might find a couple of steers branded with J. C. on the right hip."

For one fraction of a second the black eyes burning somberly on his flickered, lost their direct steadiness.

Selwood laughed, though he was alert in every nerve and his right hand was on his thigh near to the butt of his gun that hung there. Caldwell and several other riders stood close, their eyes on him. He thought of John Allison, found dead at the foot of Rainbow cliff, to all intents the victim of accident.

"Think I Need Escort, Caldwell?" He Asked Sarcastically.

"What's the matter, Kate?" he asked pointedly. "Suffering from nerves? Didn't think you had any."

And he turned to ride over toward the corral.

Kate's flaming orbs sought the face of her foreman.

"Go with him," they telegraphed, and Caldwell went.

Selwood covered every foot of the home place of Sky Line in a grim silence, looking for anything. He looked into corral and stable, brush pasture and branding pen, but found no sign of the stolen steers.

When at last he rode away it was straight down along the face of Rainbow cliff toward the west. He did not know why he skirted the rockface, since it was hard going. The earth at the foot of the great precipice was slanting and covered with the loose stone that was forever falling from the weathered wall. It was rough on the horse's feet, but he held him to it—and he was surprised to find that Caldwell was still with him, and riding inside next to the cliff.

"Think I need escort, Caldwell?" he asked sarcastically.

"Mebby as much as we need spyin' on," returned the other and rode along.

Three miles further on the sheriff turned down the mountain and the foreman reined up, sitting in silence to watch him out of sight.

"Wings is right," said Selwood to himself, "those steers must have them—but that woman's eyes were guilty, or I'm a liar."

At the same moment Caldwell was heaving a long breath of relief as he pulled his horse around and headed home.

"This here sheriff is gettin' a little bit inquisitive," he thought, then grinned sardonically.

"But if he never gets any wiser than he is now he won't set anything on fire. In fifteen feet of th' Flange an' never saw a thing! Holy smoke! Some sheriff! An' yet—can't blame him—the Flange'd fool th' devil himself."

Here's certainly a double mystery. Who rustles the cattle? and what becomes of them? Is it Kate?

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Have Faith in Time

Tennyson once wrote this wise line: "Wait: my faith is large in time." Well might it be. If we work faithfully, time will bring good results. If we have sinned and repented, time will remove the consequences of our sin. If some great sorrow has come to us, time will heal the wound. If we are misunderstood, time will show of what sort we are. Time is the great healer. Time brings results. Time has done so much that it may be trusted to do much more. Have faith in time.

The AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

VETERANS' BUREAU WILL AID LEGION

Rapid strides are being made by the American Legion in its program of arrangements for caring for the orphaned and dependent children of World war veterans, it was announced at national headquarters of the Legion. Numerous significant developments have taken place recently.

Detailed plans are being worked out for co-operation of the United States Veterans' bureau with the Legion in this work. Maj. Davis G. Arnold, newly appointed national guardianship officer in the bureau, at a meeting of the national children's welfare committee of the Legion, the Auxiliary and the Forty and Eight recently, endorsed the work being done.

Major Arnold told of an investigation being made by his division into the care of minor children wards of the bureau. He stated that a complete list of children of veterans who are in hospitals is being assembled and assistance will be given through the Post Office department in locating veterans' children who cannot be found at their last known addresses.

A board of nine directors to have executive direction of the child welfare work has been appointed, three by National Commander James A. Drain; three by Mrs. O. D. Oliphant, national president of the Auxiliary; and three by George Dobson, chef de chemin de fer of the Forty and Eight. The members are: Fred D. McCarthy, Minnesota; George A. Withers, Kansas; Mark T. McKee, Michigan, chairman; Mrs. S. E. Hudson, Texas; Mrs. A. H. Hoffman, Iowa, secretary; Mrs. Ray Callihan, Kansas; George Dobson, New Jersey; George F. Plant, Wisconsin, vice chairman; Herb E. Michaels, Ohio.

The fourth cottage at the regional children's billet at Otter Lake, Michigan, was opened recently. The cornerstone for a new hospital-administration unit, to cost $35,000, has been laid. Eighty-six children can now be cared for at Otter Lake.

The billet at Clarksboro, N. J., has been opened. Twenty-six children can be accommodated there. The billet is in charge of a board headed by Eugene Pattison, commander of the New Jersey department. Other members are Dr. Iredell J. Wyckoff, Pennsylvania; Jay M. Holmes, Delaware; H. Findley French, Maryland; Nigel Cholmeley-Jones, New York; Mrs. E. B. Garrison, New York.

Construction work is now under way at the billet at Legionville, near Independence, Kan. The work is under the direction of a board recently appointed. The members are: National Vice Commander Frank H. McFarland, Kansas, chairman; Mrs. Ray Callihan, Kansas; Charles S. Hoffman, Kansas; Jay Scovel, Kansas; W. J. Johnson, Texas; J. Ed C. Fischer, Nebraska; Morton David, Colorado; Frank T. Douglas, Oklahoma; Ralph Lloyd Jones, Iowa; Carl R. Mandigo, Missouri, and Dr. W. R. Brooksher, Jr., Arkansas.

Miss Emily Puschner, formerly agent for the board of children's guardians at St. Louis, Mo., is now a case worker in the child welfare division.

Indiana War Memorial Turned Over to Legion

With representatives of every state present, the first unit of Indiana's $10,000,000 war memorial project was recently dedicated and turned over to the American Legion as a national headquarters building.

The ceremonies attendant on the dedication were simple and impressive. A parade which included the massed colors of each state department of the Legion began the program. National Commander James A. Drain led the way with Gov. Ed Jackson of Indiana. The national executive committee from each department followed.

In brief addresses, Governor Jackson proffered the building and Commander Drain accepted. The program was radiocast.

The building is a four-story affair with Grecian simplicity of line and declared to be one of the most beautiful structures in Indiana. It has been thoroughly furnished in keeping with the tone. Each department including those abroad have special desks with the state seal. Special permission was obtained from the French government for the use of the French seal on the desk to be used by the committeeman from France.

Hanging in the executive lobby is the famous war picture, "America," by Reni-Mel, painter for the ministry of war in France in 1918.

Elaborate Decorations

Street decorations during the American Legion national convention to be held at Omaha, Neb., in October will be the most elaborate the convention has ever been greeted with, according to plans under way by the decoration committee. The feature of the decoration scheme as planned will be the jeweled "Legion Arch," in the center of the city. Uniform decorations by business houses and in the residence districts are being planned, while down-town streets will be a maze of color and multi-colored lights.

MRS. FULLER MADE STRONG

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped where Other Medicines Failed

Walpole, N. H.—"I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and find it has improved my health wonderfully. For months and months I was not regular and had terrible pains. They used to affect my side so I could not work. I read of others being helped by the Vegetable Compound, so I thought it might help me. I am very much better now, strong enough to do my own housework, and have two dear babies to care for besides. I tried other medicines before taking the Vegetable Compound, but I was never treated for my troubles. I speak highly of the Vegetable Compound to my friends and recommend it to any woman for run-down and nervous condition."—Mrs. T. H. FULLER, Walpole, New Hampshire.

Over 200,000 women have so far replied to our question, "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

98 out of every 100 of the replies say, "Yes" and because the Vegetable Compound has been helping other women it should help you. For sale by druggists everywhere.

THOUGHT AND SAID

Mixing pleasure with business is seldom good for the business.

Man is made of dust, but in his slow way is trying to be an angel.

Chief abode of the "unwritten law" is the household.

Virtue, born of necessity, answers very well.

Sometimes it is quite a trial to be audibly and continually thankful.

Silence is the better part of discretion, but silence is so unsatisfying.

Before he makes a name for himself many a young man has to unmake the one he has already made.

Men can become civilized in their relations with each other much more rapidly than nations.

If one "just naturally dislikes" some one, it is to be feared not much can be done for it.

"Those good old days" are the days when you were young and had no money and lots of chums.

There is a kernel of disbelief in the man who repents and prays, but also hires a lawyer.

In a small town everybody helps run a man's business, but always with good intentions.

If men like to loaf and fish, why should they excuse it on any other ground?

Natural leadership comes to the front in a mob; but it is not the best leadership.

We would never have heard of some men if it wasn't for the enemies they make.

Canada is standardizing its crops. In 1907 over 100 varieties of wheat were cultivated; last year the number had been reduced to six.

At the age of fifteen a boy usually quits running errands. He does not begin again until after he is married.

Wireless Torpedo

To counteract the pilotless airplane an aerial torpedo has been invented. It is claimed that the torpedo can be made to pursue and destroy the pilotless airplane through wireless control.

Sure Relief FOR INDIGESTION

6 BELL-ANS Hot water Sure Relief

BELL-ANS

25¢ AND 75¢ PACKAGES EVERYWHERE

Retain the Charm Of Girlhood A Clear Sweet Skin Cuticura Will Help You

Use Cuticura Soap Every Day

Boschee's Syrup for Coughs and Lung Trouble

Successful for 69 years

30c and 90c bottles

ALL DRUGGISTS

Dr. Isaac Thompson's EYEWATER HELPFUL EYE WASH

1150 River, Troy, N. Y. Booklet

STRAIGHT LINES CAPITULATE; THE LAST HATS OF SUMMER

WITH much unanimity master designers decided to attack the straightline silhouette this spring—acting on the theory that we can have too much of even a very good thing. Although the attack comes from all quarters it was not a marked success in the ranks of street and sports clothes. So far from disappearing, the straightline vogue has not even grown less—not so that you can notice it, for throngs on the street, or promenades on athletic fields, pass in review.

But among gay and light-minded afternoon frocks, there was much wavering—the attack has proved successful. In more or less informal afternoon gowns, women are inclined to after strange gods and to encourage new ideas. The flared skirt, tiered dresses and tunic dresses all found themselves made welcome and all have appeared in many graceful versions. The higher waistlines were occasionally entertained and the long sleeve succeeded in establishing a place for itself. Among these innovations, the most successful is the flared skirt. By all means it has made itself a success and is going to last.

Introducing the Flared Skirt.

One of the most charming ways of introducing a flare in the straightline dress appears in the model shown here, where long godets join forces to overcome the severity of a plain crepe satin frock. There is no sacrifice of the much-admired simplicity that

To the lighter shades fashion has added rich purples in pansy and fuchsia tones. Many of these hair braids are flower trimmed, with blossoms in shades of the same color as the hats. Roses, with stems long and large, chrysanthemums and water lilies are in great demand for them, but there are many models trimmed with silk or velvet, with printed chiffon or applique figures of velvet.

Leaving these leading items out because every one is familiar with them, the group of hats pictured includes new developments of established styles—the last of the summer hats in which designers embody the season's most successful ideas. At the top of the group a hat of hair and straw braid and godets plaited at the top but loose at the bottom, are other means of insinuating fullness into afternoon and evening frocks.

Varying Modes in Summer Hats.

Of certain kinds of hats it is not necessary to say anything—there are so many of them—they speak for themselves. The little felt hat, in pastel colors and white, for instance, is everywhere. It has been reinforced by similar hats of white kid and combinations of white and black in kid. Following immediately upon the heels of the kid hat came the hat of black patent leather, combined with white kid, in facings and decorations.

In dressier hats the wide-brimmed pastel-colored, hair-braid shapes have outdistanced all rivals for midsummer.

stitched row on row reveals a crown trim of ribbon and flowers and a facing of light crepe. Below it a hair braid with drooping brim offers lines of gold thread run in the crown by way of variation, and trailing stems as well as roses, posed on the crown. Below it a small shape of straw braid is trimmed with a ribbon collar and veiled with printed chiffon. A novel and handsome fabric hat covered by rows of narrow braid is shown with a series of upward-turning points that form the brim and a flat rosette of small flowers and ribbon at the front. Stems play an important part in the daring trimming on the last hat in the group. If it were not for the cluster of roses at one side they might be taken for a small family of tiny snakes wriggling over the crown and brim.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Community Building

Entrances Into Town Should Be Attractive

It is a fact that there is no lack of beauty along the railroad lines in England, France, Germany and other places. Liberal planting of grass and shrubs, either by the railroad or the various muncipalities, has transformed these railroad lines into lanes of beauty.

The aim of American civic authorities should be to make the railed highways of the country as attractive as any of those in the old countries. Particular attention will be given to the approaches to towns. The idea is spreading rapidly. The American Railways Development association has passed resolutions recently to further the aims of the real estate men by co-operating with them in this important work.

Committees have been organized in New Orleans, Milwaukee, Duluth, Atlanta; Erie and Lancaster, Pa.; South Bend, Dayton, Des Moines; Trenton, N. J.; Providence, R. I.; Lockport, N. Y.; Dade City, Fla.; Warren, Ohio; Mishawaka, Ind.; Kankakee, Ill.; Madison, Wis.; Little Rock, Ark.; Arkansas City; Ogden, Utah; Casper, Wyo.; Albany, Ore., and Pasadena, Venice and Riverside, Cal.

They will urge upon the manufacturer located along the railroads the advantages to him, his business and the town of keeping his factory yard as clean and attractive as it is economically possible.

The plan calls for new station signs prominently placed. Besides the name of the town, it will give the total population, real estate and business wealth, and the town's chief industry.

Painters Have Much to Do With City's Safety

The house painter is as vital a member of a city's public safety forces as the fireman according to J. P. Rising, president of the Illinois Master House Painters' and Decorators' association.

"His position is unofficial," he said, "but he protects the citizens from destruction more devastating than fire and from losses far greater than they might suffer at the hands of the most unscrupulous burglar."

The painter, according to Mr. Rising, saves life and property by means of his commodity, paint. Rot and rust attack unprotected surfaces. Disease germs flourish in the decaying parts of wood and on all rough, damp surfaces. Rot and rust are more insidious than fire, but their action, an oxidation of wood and metal, is a "slow-motion picture," as Mr. Rising termed it, of the more spectacular flames.

"The difference is," he added, "that whereas fires are occasional occurrences, rot and rust are at work continually. A house must be always protected against them."

Home and City Synonymous

Home is more than the house, it is more than the grounds, it is deeper than any designation of physical boundary and more rich than anything made with hands. It is the dwelling place of the spirit—if the liberal thinkers will admit that each of us has such a thing—as well as of the body, which they seem to admit that we do possess. The house is the center of home, but it is no distortion of the truth to say that the city of one's abiding place is his home also. It is the wider home, but it is his. As a man labors to provide for his house, as a woman gives of the best of her strength and forethought to make goodly the house that is her own, so ought they both, proportionately, to do their best to make their larger home, which is their city, a prosperous place.—Connersville (Ind.) News.

Garden Adornment

Garden architecture must echo and reflect and be consistent with the architecture of the house itself. Pergolas of classic design cannot unbend to a rambling, careless little bungalow, nor can a rustic pergola rise to the dignity of a Georgian mansion. Naturally, if there is architectural adornment in the garden, it should be interrelated with that of the house. The use of a pergola is to support vines and to provide a pleasant, shady walk. But there is no reason for its existence if there is no vine for it to support, no destination to lead to.—The Designer Magazine.

Within Reach of All

A little town can't attract much favorable attention with posters and painted signs, but it can be talked about throughout the country, if it has ten acres of flower gardens along its streets. And that's something that's within the reach of the little town.

Changeable

"The man who marries her will get plenty of variety at any rate."

"Why so?"

"She experiments with every new face paint that comes along."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

High Replacement Cost

Hired Girl—Shall I dust off the bricky-brac in the drawing room, ma'am?

Mistress—Not today, Nora. I don't think we can afford it.

Scraps of Humor

TRIP TRAP

"I knew," he declared, "that we were meant for each other the moment I saw you."

"I knew it long before that," she replied.

"You did?"

"Yes. I may tell you now in confidence, since we're engaged, that mamma had been mapping out our accidental meeting for three months."—Boston Transcript.

Too Suggestive

Kriss—So you felt uncanny while courting that little widow?"

Kross—You bet! She kept the ashes of her late husband right on the piano.

Kriss—Oh, that isn't so terrible.

Kross—Maybe not. I didn't like the looks of the extra urn.—Legion Weekly.

DIFFICULT BREATHING

Reggie (awaiting luncheon)—I'm so empty, Miss Sharpe, I cawn't breathe, doncher know.

Miss Sharpe—It is always difficult breathing in a vacuum, Mr. Sapp.

Where It Rains

The rain it raineth every day
Upon the Just and Unjust Fellow,
But chiefly on the Just because
The Unjust has the Just's umbrella.

Censorship

"What kind of letters do you get from your sweetheart?

"Very tame!"

"Why is that?"

"They have to be read by her mother and her sister and her two aunts before they are sent to me."—Dorbarbier.

Granted

Judge—You have been found guilty of knocking this man's eye out. Remember, before I pass sentence, "an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth."

Prisoner—Couldn't you make it a tooth for an eye, judge? I can spare the tooth easier than I can the eye.

These Times

Mrs. Wren was lecturing her neighbor, Mrs. Early-Robin.

"You ought to be teaching your little ones to fly," declared Mrs. Wren.

"Aw, let 'em watch the airplanes," said Mrs. Early-Robin.

Had Again

Funny Man (in street car)—Has anyone dropped a wad of notes with an elastic band around them?

Chorus of Voices—Yes, I have.

"Well, I've just picked up the elastic band."

Makes Her Tired

He—But does not my devotion arouse some sort of feeling in you?

She—Oh, yes; the sort of feeling one takes a tonic for in the spring.

FOREIGN ENTANGLEMENT

Mr. Pester—What are you fussing over so intently?

His Wife—I'm trying to fit this Irish lace to a Dutch yoke.

Mr. Pester—Better give it up. That's a job for the League of Nations.

Red

There once was a boy named Moses
Who went out to pick some red roses;
He slipped on his toes and fell on his nose,
And red as a rose now his nose is.

Mournful Meters

Co.—What did Longfellow mean when he wrote, "Tell me not in mournful numbers"?

Ed.—He must have been riding in a taxi.—De Pauw Yellow Crab.

Home From College

Son (nervously)—After all, dad, the real thing in college is the social atmosphere. The real values lie in the social opportunities—

Dad (taking out check book)—What did you flunk in this time?—Brown Jug.

A Start

"My father thinks I should do some physical labor."

"And what do you propose to do?"

"Shave myself in the future!"

Yeast Foam

Home bread-makers everywhere prefer it

The best way to learn to cook—begin making bread.

Send for free booklet ("The Art of Baking Bread"

Northwestern Yeast Co.
1730 N. Ashland Ave., Chicago

Gold Tooth Little Aid as Clew to Her Barber

Mrs. X——, a young and comely North side matron, is the possessor of a good-looking shingle which is the envy of some of her friends and she has had frequent inquiries as to the identity of the barber. She directed inquiries to a North side shop, and while she was unable to give the name of the barber who had accomplished such wonders with her hair, she identified him by saying that he had a gold tooth in front.

Two of the women thus informed chanced to arrive at the shop about the same time, and each identified a barber by a gold tooth in front, and each recognized the other after getting in the chair. They compared notes later and found that neither of them had been under the ministrations of Mrs. X——'s barber. Further investigation showed that each of the three barbers in the shop wore a gold tooth in front.—Indianapolis News.

The Largest Steam Boiler

What is said to be the largest steam boiler in the world is now being installed in Pittsburgh, Pa., by a company which supplies heating service in the down-town business district. There are six miles of four-inch tubing in the heating and condensing tubes of this apparatus, with a heating surface of 32,750 square feet, about three-fourths of an acre. The boiler is rated at 3,000-horsepower by the ordinary system of rating, but is capable of operating continuously at three times this capacity and for short periods at four times this rate. When at full speed it evaporates 200 tons of water per hour.

At the Literary

"During the literary exercises at the Toad Rock schoolhouse tuther night, Dodd Yammer and the rest of his quartette riz and began to sing," in the cross-roads store, related Lum Dumm of Slippery Slap.

"How did it take with the crowd?" asked an acquaintance.

"Well, 'peared like they didn't keer much for it. 'Tennyrate, when they broke and ran, four, five children were knocked down and tromped on in the rush."—Kansas City Star.

Cuticura Soothes Itching Scalp.
On retiring gently rub spots of dandruff and itching with Cuticura Ointment. Next morning shampoo with Cuticura Soap and hot water. Make them your everyday toilet preparations and have a clear skin and soft, white hands.—Advertisement.

Deserved Rebuke

"Why did you throw the dictionary at your husband?"

"I was trying to solve a cross-word puzzle and asked him several times to tell me a word of five letters meaning domestic happiness and he couldn't do it."

Not Realistic

She—What a gorgeous sunset!

He—Not natural. Much too ornate.—Passing Show, London.

Many a man who is not at all henpecked likes his wife to appear to boss him in public.

Poets own automobiles; why don't they write poems about them?

Lights for Caverns

The Shenandoah caverns in Virginia and the Tunpanogas caves in Utah are both being wired for electric light. Electric lamps of from 100 to 300 watts are to be used, and when these underground places have their electric illuminating equipment in order the sightseer will be able to see their beauties in safety and comfort.

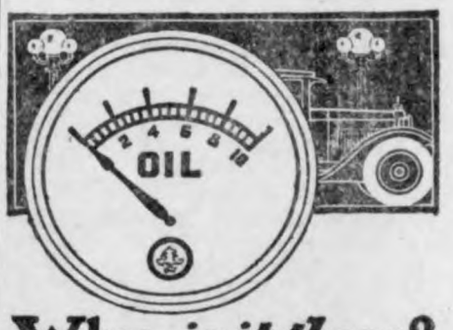
If You're Hard On Shoes Try USKIDE SOLES

The Wonder Sole for Wear—Wears twice as long as best leather!
—and for a Better Heel
"U.S." SPRING-STEP Heels
United States Rubber Company

Runs On and On

Mother—How that little one of ours does chatter, chatter.

Father—I half-suspect, my dear, that the doctor must have vaccinated her with a gramophone needle.—Boston Transcript.



Why—is it there?

The oil gauge is on your car because automobile manufacturers know that lubrication is one of the most important factors in motor service.

Watch your oil gauge. See how fast the oil you are using thins out after 3 or 4 hundred miles. Then try MonaMotor Oil and see the difference. This oil gauge test alone will show you the marked supremacy of MonaMotor Oil.

Monarch Manufacturing Co.
Council Bluffs, Iowa Toledo, Ohio

MonaMotor
Oils & Greases

W. N. U., DES MOINES, NO. 29--1925.

Well Educated

"How can you possibly go to sleep sitting in a chair?" "You forget I spent four years in college."

Children Cry for

Fletcher's CASTORIA

MOTHER:— Fletcher's Castoria is especially prepared to relieve Infants in arms and Children all ages of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and, by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Absolutely Harmless—No Opiates. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

Wanted a Witness

Dora's aunt gloomed at her severely over the breakfast table. "As I glanced into the drawing-room last evening, I saw you with a young man's arm around your waist."

"Yes, auntie," said Dora brightly, "I was waiting for you to pass the door and see us. You see, young men are so very slippery nowadays, one can't have too many witnesses!"

Traveling Libraries

More than 500,000 books were circulated last year in Saskatchewan by the traveling libraries that reach the settlers and the smaller municipalities. There are more than 1,000 of these libraries. It is said that each book is read by 17 families in the course of the year.

Considered It Expiated

"I hear you were playing cards all day Saturday and Sunday, Mosey," said Ikey. "You shouldn't do it. It's wrong. One of the worst sins you could commit, in fact."

"Believe me, or believe me not," replied Mosey, "I paid for my sin."

Largest Dog

The largest dog at the London bench show was a St. Bernard weighing 187 pounds, and the smallest was a Papilion that tipped the scales at two and one-half pounds.

Crowds in Yellowstone

More than 60,000 visitors camped out, with their own equipment, in Yellowstone National park during the last year.

Came So Suddenly

Very few barbers have yet learned to talk entertainingly about embroidery.—San Francisco Chronicle.

AS THEY SAY

Be kind, but not bossy.

Veracity is the heart of morality.

A true friend is forever a friend.

All is but lip-wisdom which wants experience.

Often the homeliest man has the most friends.

Whatever enlarges hope will also exalt courage.

The great end of life is not knowledge but action.

The poet is the nearest borderer upon the orator.

Honors achieved far exceed those that are created.

Genius does what it must, talent does what it can.

Elijah had a chariot of fire. That was the first airplane.

What a lot of sin we are spared from because it's dangerous.

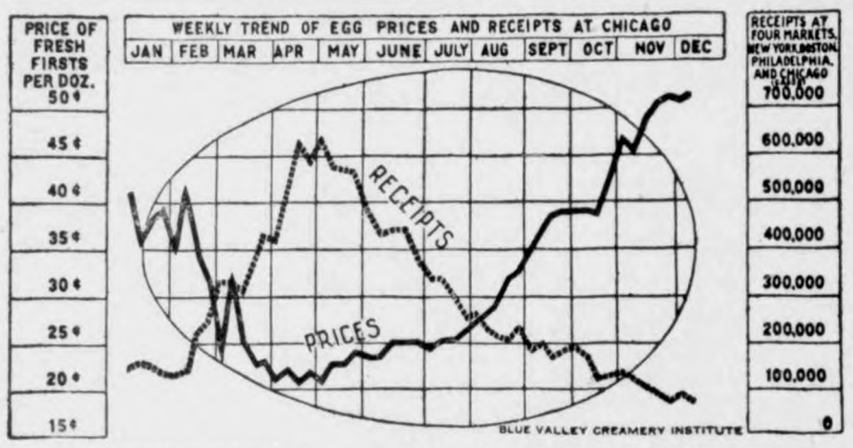
We don't care if a tradition is a "lie" if it is a pleasant tradition.

Whole years of unjustifiable dislike may follow a careless thing one has said.

Hawaii Gets "Cool" Wave

When the thermometer in Hawaii dropped to 60 degrees above zero recently it was the coldest there in 14 years, normal winter temperature being 70 degrees above.

Fewer Eggs for "Ham and"

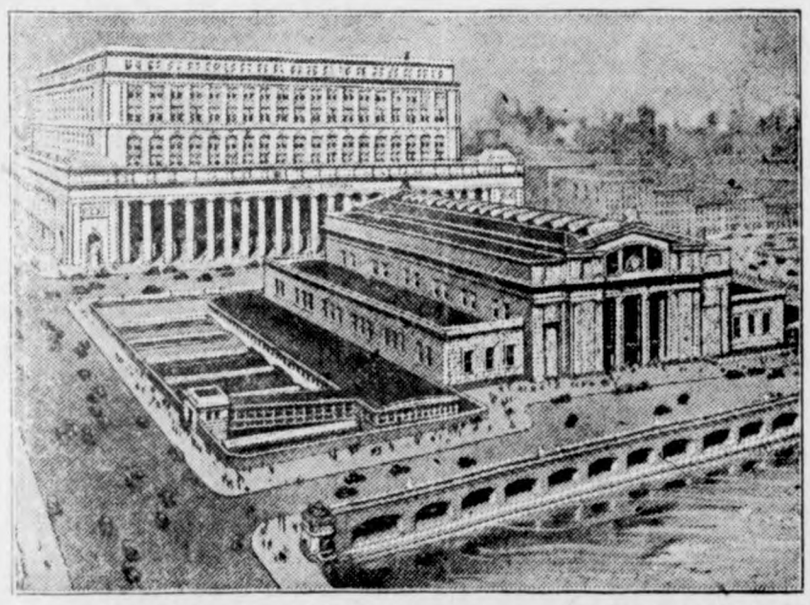


EGG production did not live up to its early promises during 1924, according to a review just completed by the Blue Valley Creamery institute. A survey shows that on January 1, 1924, more chickens were counted on farms throughout the country than ever before. Diversification, which has become a part of the program for poultry as well as dairy and hog products, stimulated a rapid increase in the size of poultry flocks and put the mark at 474,000,000 on the first day of the year. This was an increase of 32 per cent since 1920.

In consequence, the eggs were counted far in advance, and a record production was forecast. Prices held very low, for storage men were reluctant to buy since storage holdings had lost money during the past two years. The entire country was ready for an onslaught of eggs and prices were ready to meet the oversupply.

But the oversupply never arrived. Receipts for the year were 14,644,583 cases as against the receipts of 15,837,529 cases in 1923. This is the first decrease in receipts for the past four years.

Latest Triumph in Railroading



THE completion of the new Chicago Union Station marks a noteworthy accomplishment in the history of important engineering undertakings, from which travelers from all parts of the United States will derive pleasure and benefit.

The station is without doubt one of the finest and most efficiently designed railroad terminals in the world. It forms a vital link in the realization of the "Chicago City Beautiful Plan." Simplicity, accessibility and convenience for the traveling public are the essential virtues of the new terminal. Rest and recreation rooms, ticket offices, barber shop, dining rooms, stores of various kinds, and almost every convenience known to travelers, are to be found on the one level, no steps to climb.

The main station is a low monumental type of building with a row of massive columns of classic design along the entire east front. Once inside, the traveler finds himself in a gigantic waiting room more than 100 feet high and brilliantly lighted through skylights in the great arch ceiling. Colonnades inclose the room, the walls of which are patterned after the architecture of ancient Rome. Bordering this room are the ultra-complete passenger terminal facilities. An innovation in railway terminal design is a conference room accommodating 125 persons, which is available, without charge, to patrons of the Union Station lines for conferences and other meetings.

To give some idea of the immensity of the new station, it may be stated that the main building covers an area of about three acres with a concourse covering 60,000 square feet. The entire terminal facilities cover more than 35 acres and will expedite the prompt and satisfactory handling of 50,000 passengers, 400 tons of baggage and 300 trains daily with room for future expansion. Fifteen acres of glass were used in the various coverings over the train sheds, which extend more than 1,200 feet beyond the main structure. A total of 17,000 tons of structural steel, 175,000 cubic feet of Indiana limestone and 10,000 cubic feet of granite were used in the station building and concourse. The foundation consists of 449 cylindrical concrete piers from four to ten feet in diameter, reaching to a depth of more than 60 feet below the level of the Chicago river.

Those who have had the privilege of inspecting the new station pronounce it a marvel in terminal construction and are urging their friends to see it on their next visit to Chicago.

The station is used jointly by the Pennsylvania Railroad; Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Ry.; Chicago, Burlington & Quincy R. R., and the Chicago & Alton R. R.

MAKING MONEY FIT BUSINESS

When Times Are Active the Supply Increases—Contraction Follows Seasonal and Periodic Slackening.

New York. — Demonstration that complete elasticity has been imparted to the currency in the United States by the Federal Reserve System despite assertions to the contrary is given in the American Bankers Association Journal by W. Randolph Burgess, assistant agent at the New York Federal Reserve Bank.

"Of all the money in circulation in the United States, Federal Reserve notes now make up almost one-half," he says in part. "In 1920 they were 70 per cent. The increase in currency which the war and high world prices made necessary was provided almost wholly by Federal Reserve notes. Just as the increase was wholly through Federal Reserve notes, so again the decrease was altogether in Federal Reserve notes. Reserve notes in circulation decreased from $3,300,000,000 in November, 1920, to $1,700,000,000 in March, 1925. Between the same dates other currency increased from $1,500,000,000 to $2,300,000,000, due to an increase in gold certificates.

"There are still some few who produce theoretical arguments to show that for some reason the Federal Reserve note is not elastic. These various arguments raise interesting questions, but they make little headway against the facts, for the facts show that the Federal Reserve note has been elastic.

How Currency Changes Volume

"The amount of currency the country requires reflects changing prices, wage levels, employment and volume of trade. As an example, retail trade at Christmas time is always larger than at other times. This results in a considerable increase in the need for hand to hand currency. Currency withdrawals and receipts at the Federal Reserve Banks illustrate the way this special demand was met. Prior to Christmas there was paid out about $300,000,000 of currency, all of which was returned to the bank within the two or three weeks following Christmas.

"The mechanism is that when Federal Reserve member banks need currency for their customers they draw it from the Reserve Bank. Member banks can secure additional currency by borrowing at the Reserve Bank. Conversely, whenever currency in circulation becomes larger than is required by business it begins to return to the banks and they immediately utilize it to pay off indebtedness at the Reserve Banks, on which they are paying interest.

"The Federal Reserve System has made all types of currency, except national bank notes, elastic because all except those notes can be issued in amounts required and they all tend to flow back to the Reserve Bank when they are not required. There is another phase of currency elasticity. A $100 Federal Reserve note may represent only $40 in gold, because a gold reserve of only 40 per cent is required against Federal Reserve notes. On the other hand, a $100 gold certificate must represent $100 in gold. Thus the Federal Reserve Banks can issue, in response to commercial demand, two and one-half times as many Federal Reserve notes as gold certificates before the reserve ratio reaches the legal minimum.

Secondary Stretch

"This secondary elasticity was illustrated during the war, when in response to war demands Federal Reserve notes were issued to the amount of $3,405,000,000. The Federal Reserve System could have issued more than $800,000,000 additional without lowering the reserve against notes below 40 per cent, or the reserve against deposits below 35 per cent. In any emergency the power to issue these notes increases by 150 per cent the amount of cash which might be supplied to the country.

"Federal Reserve currency has proved itself flexible in war expansion and in post-war reductions. Since the establishment of the System the currency has been responsive to the seasonal and emergency needs of business. The Federal Reserve Act obtained currency elasticity by placing the country's reserve cash in institutions not organized for profit, from which currency might be withdrawn or to which it might be returned in response to the country's needs. While the existence of the Reserve System gives flexibility to almost all forms of currency, the Federal Reserve notes, secured in part by commercial paper, provides a possible secondary expansion in readiness for an emergency."

SUPPLYING THE NATION'S CHANGE

Supplying the wealthiest nation in the world with change is a job of tremendous proportions. During 1924 the United States mints struck off 89,394,000 one cent pieces and 28,315,000 nickels. The small change of the nation was enlarged by 37,940,000 dimes and 16,892,000 quarters. While a drive was started to popularize the silver dollar, only 13,539,000 of the "silver cartwheels" were coined. Singularly, the half-dollar is the most unpopular coin that the United States makes. During 1925 there were just 142,080 half-dollars struck off, and all of these were the commemorative Huguenot-Walloon coins. The mints coined 19,300,500 double eagles.

Jig Jog Jags

"!Stop! there is a principal at stake!" shouted the cowboy, as he rushed upon the Indians about to burn up a school teacher.

Who got up the idea that because the farmer is back on his feet he can't kick?

Travelor— Was your queen well liked when she came to rule you?

Native—She took the country by storm.

Travelor—I see, sort of reigned all over it.

"Burglaries are getting frequent around here, dearie. I'm going to get a revolver and keep it in my room."

"You shouldn't. You might commit suicide, and be sorry for it afterwards.' '

"Your father looks very nice with his gray hair."

"Yes, dear old chap! I gave him those."

"Why does that man have such a bored expression?."

"That's a wooden Indian."

Famous last word—I'll call you up some time."

NO INTEREST IN IT

"Say, my wife wants to know what you do in the bank?"

"Teller."

"They say that in Chicago there's a murder committed every hour."

"Yes, isn't that killing?"

At Bazaar: One dollar a kiss.

Shrewd Bargainer—Give me fifty cents worth.

"Have you the right time?' '

"Yes, What are you going to use it for?"

"Bait.' '

"Bait ' '

"Yeh, I 'm going to catch a train."

They sat together on the sofa and admired the new engagement ring. She looked at the diamond set and whispered:

"My John, isn't it clear?' '

"Only two more payments, dear," he replied.

"The farmer gets his living from the soil."

"And so does the washwoman, my dear sir!"

Lots of people are glad that HenryFord wasn't elected President. He might turn the White house into a garage. It's an oil-trading station as it is.

Dum: Congratulations, I hear that you've invented an auto that will run without any engine.

Dummer— Yeh, I almost ready to patent it."

Dum: How are you going to make it run?

Dummer— That's what I'm stuck on.

Corporal: Hey you! Why haven't you shaved?

Private— There were six others using the mirror and I think Ishaved somebody else!

He—I wish I had a nickel for every girl I've kissed.

She: What would you do. Buy yourself a package of gum.

"What is your name?' '

"Jacob Abraham Levinsky, and I don't like it.

"How come?'

"I was in court the other day and the judge said "Are you a Jew?" and I said 'no', and he put me in jail for perjury."

Womans voice (to a garage man on the phone.) Will you please send someone out here to fix my car? I think the radiator's flooded.

The cafe works from sun to sun, Buts its doggone steaks are never done.

"What does your girl know about the Puritans?"

"Nothing. She thinks the Mayflower compact is a face pawder."

St. Peter (to applicant) —Where are you from?

Applicant: California.

St. Peter: Come on in, but I don't think you'll like it.

English Prof: What could be more sad than a mon without a country.

Stude— A country without a man

Haircuts in Chicago have gone up to 75 cents. Some more of that overhead expense.

GOODELL NEWS

Mrs. Ina Tracey and Wanda of Lake Mills is spending a few days with her mother Mrs. A. Christie.

Miss Wilmar Trumbell of Belmond is spending a few days at the Jay Griggs home.

David Heent and family of Sporta Missouri is visiting at the L. H. Wilson home.

The Catholic Ladies of Goodell gave an Iice Cream supper and an old time dance Saturday.

Mrs. Walter Newberger of Ventura was visiting relatives at Goodell Saturday.

Mrs. George Johnson of Iowa Falls came Tuesday for a short visit at the W. L. Sherwood home. She returned home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J Cook were visiting relatives in Iowa Falls Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Presley Griggs of Fertile spent Sunday at the George Griggs home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Lamer were visiting at the Kahrs home in Ventura Sunday.

The Catholic Ladies realized over $40 from their ice cream social Sat. evening.

Mrs. F. R. Chase of Garner was a Goodell caller Wednesday.

Miss Leona Cashman is spending her vacation with her mother.

Misse Mayme McNulty of Chicago who has been visiting her parents here will return to her work Monday

Mr. Smith of Cedar Falls visited several days at the home of Miss Johnson.

CAN YOU FIGURE IT?

The college town of Grinell was recently aroused over a mathematical problem presented by a street fakir, selling some kind of remedy for human ills. Here it is:: "A certain man had three sons, Ed, Bill and Henry, or Hen for short, because he was always laying around. He told the boys he was going to divide his estate. Ed was to gethalf, Bill a third and Henry a ninth. When he died the estate was found toconsist of seventeen mules. Ed couldn't get a half, Bill couldn't get a third and Hen couldn't get a ninth, out of seventeen. A neighbor who came along during the argument said 'Well I've got on old no count mule down at my place and I'll drive him up so you can divide.' He did as he said and that made eighteen. Ed took a half, and that was nine, Bill took a third and that was six, Hen took a ninth and that was two. Nine and six and two made seventeen and the neighbor drove the best mule back home."

Pat: What is it that runs across the floor without any legs,

Fritz: I'll bite, What is it?

Pat: Water.

Soph.—But I don't believe I do.

Prof.: Neither do I, but it is the lowest mark we are allowed to give.

The sacrifice you are glad to make is seldom a sacrifice.

Smile and the world giggles with you. Scowl and you are just grouch

Threshing Supplies --

We carry a full line of Threshers Supplies and have everything needed around the threshing rig. heCck up your needs now anl come in and get your supplies:

VALVES—Globe valves, check valves and angle valves: a large assortment.

BELTING—we have a good stock of all sizes Rubber and Alfalfa Belts, also some leather belts.

BELT LACING—of all kinds.

PACKING—all kinds such as hemp, spiral, asbestos, candle wicking, rubber and asbestos, graphite, etc. Pump leather.

GREASE & OIL—full line of every kind of oil and grease and bulk hard oil.

SUPPLIES—all kinds of accessories such as pump hose, pipe fittings, glasses, etl.

Large stock of 3-tine forks for threshing. We have everything you need in threshing supplies and the prices are right.

E. F. Jacobs

(Formerly Jacobs & Son)

Going Faster Than It Came

What means of protection have you at home for your money or valuables? The hidden jar, the tin box, even the office safe is as nothing to robbers and safe breakers.

Of what value is a secret hiding place? Burglars are usually desperate characters. With them it's your money or your life. Life is pecious, so you come across.

The safe way is to put your money in a bank, either on checking account or interest, and rent a Safety Deposit Box for your valuables.

First National Bank,

KLEMME. IOWA.

THE KLEMME TIMES

Twenty-ninth Year—Number 46. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, JULY 23, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

TRADE NAMES REGISTERED SINCE LAST WEEK

Dirksen Cash Store, Woden, owners W W and B. H. Dirksen.

Hotel Klemme, Klemme, owner C. L. Blumer.

Klemme Meat Market, Klemme, owner Clarence A. Larsen.

Roe's Cash Grocery, Garner, owner Carl O. Roe.

Garner Chemical Co., Garner, owners D. A. Smith and Chas. T. Owens.

Greimann Motor Co, Klemme, owner Aaron Greimann.

Hatterscheid Bros., Corwith, owners Max and Lawrence Hatetrscheid.

A. Y. P. Service stateion, owner, Bruce Orr.

Star Theatre, Goodell, Owner Frank McNulty.

Standard Service Station, Klemme, owner W. M. Kirkwood.

Corwith Hustler, Corwith, owner, S. L. Thompson.

Idle Hour Theatre, Klemme, owners, Jno. N. Day, Sumner Trumbell, and D. P. Anderson.

Wilson's Pharmacy, Klemme, owner, P. M. Wilson.

Crystal Cafe or Quandt's Cafe, owner Conrad Quandt.

UNITED STATES RICH WITHOUT EXPLOITATION

The United States has become incomparably the richest nation in the world according to the July number of the National Republic, and this has come about not through exploitation or injury to other nations but by reasons ofAmerican resources energy, enterprise and industry. Continuing the article says:

"Statistics collected from official sources by the National Industrial Conference board show that the United States has, as compared with the entire world:

6.2 per cent of its population;
5.7 per cent of its area;
37.9 per cent of its installed water power.
57.9 per cent of its telephone and telegraph wire in use;
33.9 of its railway mileage;
82.7 of its automobiles and motor trucks;
43.5 of its coal production;
71.9 of its petroleum production;
52.7 of its copper smelter production;
46.1 of its lead smelter production
21.3 of its cereal production other than wheat;
52 percent of its cotton production;
52.6 of its lumber production;
60.2 of its pig iron production;
59.8 per cent of its steel ingot and casting production;
70,999 of its rubber consumption.

The complaint that the United States prospers at the expense of the rest of the world is made in ignorance. It prospers because it produces all out of proportion to population and area. Other portions of the world of equal area are almost as rich in resources. America has prospered because she produces, earns. Her production is based on the highest labor costs in the world. Most of it is consumed within the borders of the United States."

MORE CORN; LESS HOGS

Des Moines, Iowa; July 23:—Corn acreage has increased 2 per-ent over last year in Iowa due al owance being made for abandonment caused by floods, hail, insects, tc., up to July 1, according to the eport released July 9 by the Iowa nd Federal Crop Reporting Service. he indicated yield per acre on July was 42.3 bushels, and the indicat-d total yield, 469,377,000 bushels; hich is 164,585,000 bushels more han last year. An increase in production is indicated in all of the principal corn states. Texas, Oklaoma and Kansas show a decrease. The United States crop is estimted at 3,095,176,000 compared with 2,-436,513,000 bushels last year. The ecent excessively hot weather in owa has not been good for the corn nd has slightly lowered the total stimates.

The European slogan toUncle Sam nowadays seems to be, "forgive us our debts and lend us more mon ey:"

FRANKLIN BOYS WIN WORLD DAIRY HONORS

Iowans Win Over Boys From Other Countries in Big London Show

HAMPTON, July 20.— To three Hampton boys has come the unequaled honor of being adjudged the champion junior dairy judges of the world. The most recent honor was accorded them at London in connection with the English Royal show With their coach, V. B. Hamilton, county agent of Franklin county, and Mrs. Hamilton they were sent to England by the state of Iowa after having won the highest distinction in this country, state and national. Accompanying them also is Prof. Earl Weaver, head of the dairy husbandry department at Ames.

The boys left here some two months ago and before entering the competition at London, they visited Holland, Friesland, Germany, Scotland, Belgium, Jersey Island, England, France, Switzerland, Guernsey Island, Norway and Denmark, visiting the leading dairies in each country.

Monahan Individual Champ

In addition to the team honors won by the Franklin boys Raymond Monahan was adjudged the best individual junior dairy judge in the world. He was in competition with boys from countries throughout the world and the distinction in the highest that can be won by a boy in the dairying industry.

Won in Four Contests

The Franklin judges won the right to compete at London by winning four victories in this country. Their first victory was at the North Iowa Fair, at Mason City, the second was at the Iowa State fair, Des Moines; the third was at the Waterloo dairy congress, Waterloo, and the fourth at the national dairy show Milwaukee.

The team is composed of Raymond Monahan, age 19, of Geneva, Lester Olson, age 17 of Alexander, and Harlan Leonard, age 19 of Iowa Falls. Coach V. B. Hamilton is o graduate of Iowa State college is animal, and Prof. Weaver is one of the world's best dairy cattle experts.

Plans for a homecoming celebration which will eclipse the welcome received by the boys when they returned triumphant from Milwaukee, or the send-off given them when they left for Europe are under way, business men and Farm Bureau members co-operating.

—Mason City Globe-Gazette.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

June 1, 1925.

Regular meeting of Town Council held at the Mayor's office. All members present.

Motion made and seconded that the following bills be allowed:

H. S. Swartz; Hauling 110 loads Gravel	$99.35
Central States Electric Co.; May Street light	37.10
M. C. Oil and Grease Co., 50 lons Gas	10.25
Standard Oil Co., 25 gallons Gas	4.63
Geo. M. Bechtel and Co., Int. Coupons	15.00
Leighton Supply Co, Supplies	6.90
Klemme Times; Pub. Statement and proceedings	26.95

Bills allowed.

Motion made and seconded that an additional pressure tank be installed to our present water system. Motion carried.

Meeting adjourned.

A. J. Kudje, Clerk.

June 15, 1925

Regular meeting of Town Council. All members present.

Mayor appointed F. A. Arnold as secretary pro tem.

Motion made and seconded to build an 18 foot by 30 foot addition to west end of town hall, same to be built by day labor.

Upon motion the proposal of W. J. Peck, of Belmond to install additional tank and necessary fittings in water works for the sum of $1.-635.00 was accepted.

Meeting adjourned.

F. A. Arnold, Sec. Pro Tem.

TO THE CREDITORS OF THE STATE SAVINGS BANK OF KLEMME, IOWA

You and each of you are hereby notified that the District Court of Hancock County, Iowa, did on the 7th day of July, A. D., 1925, make an order in the cause entitled L. A. Andrew, Superintendent of Banking of the State of Iowa, v. the State Savings Bank of Klemme, Iowa, ordering that all claims against the State Savings Bank of Klemme, Iowa, based on deposit, checking account deposits, savings deposits and deposits on time and demand certificates, except certificates issued for money borrowed for said bank, as shown by the books of the said State Savings Bank, be allowed as claims of depositors without further proof thereof and that all parties having claims ogainst said bank or any of the funds thereof, including claims for deposits not shown by the books of the bank as stated, shall in order to have such claims allowed as claims against said bank or to participate in the distribution of the assets thereof, file said claims with the examiner in charge of said bank at the bank building in Klemme, Iowa, or with the clerk of the District Court of Hancock County, Iowa, on or before the 15th day of August, 1925, and unless said claims be so filed on or before said date they shall be forever barred as claims against said bank or any of the assets thereof or against the said L. A.Andrew, Superintendent of Banking of Iowa, as receiver thereof.

(Signed) L. A. Andrew, Superintendent of Banking of Iowa, as receiver for the State Savings Bank of Klemme, Iowa.''

A6

TO THE HOLDERS OF CERTIFICATES OF DEPOSIT OF THE STATE SAVINGS BANK, KLEMME, IOWA:

Holders of certificates of deposit are requested to present them at the bank or notify the examiner in charge, by mail the amounts of such certificates so that they may be verified with the records of the bank. If found correct no further claim will be required.

L. A. Andrew, Superintendent of Banking of Iowa, Receiver.

Brief Lessons in Evolution

Lesson 1.

This lesson deals with the common cow and how it came to pass that they chew their cud.

ancient times away back in the antediluvian age, many millions of years ago, when the great bear was a mere cub, cows had but one stomach, the same as a hen or a horse. In those far off days, the life of a cow was not as pleasant and serene as it is today. They were beset by many enemies, the worse of which was the terrible man eating hypotenuse, that took great delight in devouring a nice, juicy cow when ever opportunity offered, which was frequent and plenty.

In order to avoid extermination, it became necessary for the cows to hide themeslves among the crags and rugged cliffs of a nearby range of snow capped mountains, where the hypotenuses dared not follow, owing to the prevalence of the deadly chilblain.

As there was nothing to eat among the sterile rocks but atmosphere, and it being very rare, the cows were wont to sally forth into the fertile valley, gulp down a stomach full of food and then retreat to their retreat. Eating food in this manner, without properly masticating it, caused them to suffer from indigestion. Realizing that something must be done, they took the bull by the horns and developed another stomach, in which they could store their food and later, chew it at their leisure.

And so we have the evolutionary theory of how come cows chew cuds. —T. Pipe in Mason City Globe-Gazette.

Forty members of a back to nature cult were arrested at Berne, Switzerland, for going without clothes. Doubtless some of the advanced European thinkers will blame this on to the clothing trust.

LU VERNE SMITH SOLD OUT TO NEWTON MAN

LuVerne Smith closed a deal the latter part of the week whereby he sold his pool hall interests to Mr. Gus Ables, of near Newton, Iowa. Mr. Ables taking possession of the business Monday.

Mr. Smith will remain here for a time but has not definitely decided what he will do in the future. LuVerne said, "Tell 'em I'm going fishing for awhile."

The new proprietor is a married man, and retired farmer. His wife and son will move here about the first of the year as his son is running the farm and will have a sale this fall when they will move here.

NEW SOYBEAN BULLETIN OUT

Gives Results of 15 Years Experimental Work With Varieties and Cultural Methods

A new bulletin reporting 15 years work in soybean culture and varieties has just been published by the Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station and is now available to Iowa farmers. It is number 228 and there are two editions, an abridged, containing 16 pages, and a complete with 64 pages. Copies may be secured free by writing to the Bulletin Section, Ames Iowa.

Soybeans are becoming an important crop and the acreage has been doubling annually for several years, the bulletin says. The crop may be used for hay, or it may be cut for seed and the seed sold for cash, or used for feed. Soybeans contain a large amount of protein and tests at the experiment station have shown that cracked soy beans or soybean oilmeal are equal in feeding value to linseed oilmeal for dairy cows.

Soybeans may be handled like other crops when cut for hay. They should be cut when the pods are about half filled and the lower leaves are beginning to turn yellow. There is a period of about two or three weeks during which the beans can be cut with good results in yield and quality.

Soybeans may be cut for seed with a grain binder and handled much the same as small grain. The bundles may be shocked in long shocks or the bundles may be left on the ground to dry and hauled direct to the threshing machine. In case of rain, they should be shocked up. The time for cutting is when most of the pods are nearly ripe, at which time about 95 percent of the leaves will have fallen. They may be threshed with an ordinary grain separator by feeding them in slowly and by running the machine at half the regular rate of speed.

THORNBURG URGES FARM TAX CUT

Des Moines, Iowa, July 23.—"Iowa farms are bearing too large a share of the taxes of the state." is the conclusion of M. G. Thornburg, Secretary of Agriculture, after studying over the results of investigations which have been conducted for the Iowa Department of Agriculture. "The reason for this is that farm lands are valued higher for taxation purposes than city property in proportion to the sale value of the respective properties."

"Our investigation shows that the reported valuation of farm lands is approximately in proportion to the sale value of the respective properties. These figures were obtained from the records of farm and city properties which had been sold, the sale value being compared with the assessed value. This was done in several counties in different parts of the state. In every county ,farm lands were valued higher than city property, the difference running from 5 to 28 per cent."

"Undoubtedly, one of the big reasons for this discrepancy in valuations as compared to the actual sale value, is on account of the rapid decrease in the value of farm lands that has occurred in the last five years. "Records which the department have secured from 97 of the 99 counties of the state show that land values have dropped $69.97 per acre in the last five years. The value at the present time averages but $11.65 higher than in 1915."

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS

Wm. H. R. Johnson to Harm Raskamp, Q C D date 7-6-25, $1.00, lot 6 & S 8 ft. of lot 5 blk 10, Kanawha.

J. W. Griggs to Geo. W. Griggs, W. D. date 7-7-25, $1.00 N½ SE¼ and SE¼ SE¼ 15-94-23.

J. W. Griggs to Nellie Griggs Cooper, W. D. date 7-7-25, $1.00 N½ NW¼ and SW¼ NW¼ 15-94-23.

Oren H. Johnson wf to Etta Fuller, W. D. date 7-8-25, $—, lot 5, Thampson's Sub-Div. blk 4 Kanawha

A. W. Erwin wf to Anna T. Holm, W. D. date 10-9-24, $1.00 W½ NW ¼ 15-96-25

Anna T. Holm hus to Donald A Holm, W. D. date 7-11-25, $1.00 W ½ NW¼ 15-96-25.

Mc. J. Thompson, wf to W. K. Whipple, Q. C. D. date 7-10-25, $6.-000 NE¼ 16-94-24

C. N. Anderson to Edward B. Sheldahn, W. D. date 7-1-25, $350., a tract of land in blk 3 Kanawha.

E. P. Hanson, Shff. to Henry Griewe, Sheriff's certificate of sale, date 6-13-25, $1095.60, lots 2-3 blk 14, Klemmes add to Klemme.

J. W. Griggs to Jay T. Griggs, W. D. date 7-7-25, $1.00, N½ SW¼ and SE¼ SW¼ 15-94-23.

H. Griesemer wf to L. A. Andrew, Supt. of banking, W. D. date 7-13-25 $1.00 E½ of N½ Outlot No 3 in Klemmes add to Klemme.

POTATO LEAFHOPPER AT WORK

Can Still Save Crop by Prompt Use of Bordeaux Spray

Potato leaf hoppers have been at work in southern Iowa recently, says F. D. Butcher, extension entomologist, who recently inspected fields in Lucas, Monroe, Marion, Warren and Polk counties. He stated that in a number of fields, two-thirds of the leaves have turned brown.

Butcher says there is still time to save many of these fields if a 4-4-50 bordeaux spray is applied immediately. The spray should be applied to the undersides of the leaves as this is where the leafhoppers do their work.

The 4-4-50 bordeau spray is made by dissolving 4 pounds of copper sulfate (also called blue vitrol) in 25 gallons of water. The copper sulfate shoud not be placed in metal vessels because it will corrode them. Dissolve 4 pounds of lump lime in 25 gallons of water in a separate vessel and then pour the two solutions together in the spray tank.

Hot dry weather is favorable for potato leaf hoppers and the injury they cause during such weather is more severe than in cold weather.

SPRAY FRUIT; IT PAYS

Des Moines, Iowa, July 23.—"Thorough spraying insures quality fruit,' says the Iowa State Horticultural Society in a report to the State Department of Agriculture.

The regular fourth orchard spray of July 20th for the control of the second brood coddling moth worms and sooty blotch fungus which will soon appear in unsprayed orchards.

Iowa's fruit crop is around 40 percent of normal in quanitiy, but by thorough spraying, careful picking, and packing, the quantity can be off set to a certain extent by quality. Use one pound of arsenate of lead with 3-3-30 Bordeaux mixture or its equivalent of commercial Bordeaux or one gallon of liquid limes ulfur or 3 pounds of dry lime sulfur to 50 gallons of water. All fall and winter varieties should receive this spray. Plan on spraying with one pound arsenate of lead to 50 gallons of water ogain about the 15th of August, for he control of the late second brood of coddling moths.

Fire blight is reported doing considerable damage, especially on young trees over the state of Iowa. The only satisfactory control is to cut out all blight making the cut considerably below where the bacterial disease is showing up on the outside bark. Make all cuts as close as possible to either a bud or another branch. Avoid stubs and shoulders. All pruning tools and large wounds should be disinfected with one part of corrosive sublimate to 1000 parts of water.

There is one good thing to be said about the Tennessee trial. It doesn't seem to have any effect on the stock markets.

GRIESEMER AND WENCK WAIVE PRELIMINARY HEARING

Hearing Was To Have Been Held In Justice Suckow's Court Saturday

Through their attorneys, Boomhower and Williams, of Mason City, P. M. Griesemer and F. J. Wenck waived preliminary hearing before Justice H. L. Suckow, which hearing was to have been held Saturday, July 25th. Papers were served to the above effect Tuesday.

This proceedure throws the case before the grand jury which is to meet just before the September term of court.

Griesemer and Wenck are till held on the original bonds of $10,-000.

CHURCH—WARD

Miss Adna Church, of Klemme, and Mr. Henry Ward, of Britt, were hnited in marriage at Albert Lea, Minn., on Sunday, July 12th. Miss Octave Church, sister of the bride, and Mr. Anderson, accompanied the couple and were witnesses at the marriage.

This item of good news is somewhat late but the young couple stole a march on their friends and we did not learn of it sooner.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Church of near Klemme. She is a fine young lady and stands high in the community as a young lady of sterling qualities.

Mr. Ward comes one of the best families of Britt and what we hear of him he is considered a fine young gentleman.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward will reside at Britt where they will soon "be at home" to their friends.

The Times joins with their many friends in extending congratulations and best wishes.

CLEAN HOG GROUNDS PAY

Farmer Raises More and Better Pigs By Moving Quarters

Murray Moffit, farmer of Montour Tama county, Iowa, proved to his entire satisfaction last year that it pays to raise pigs on clean grounds which have not previously been used for hog raising. He put 14 of his sows on new grounds and left two in old lots to serve as a check. The result was that he raised an average of seven pigs from each of the 14 sows on the new ground and only three and a half pigs each from the two sows on old ground.

When Moffit marketed his hogs in January, those raised on the clean ground averaged 230 pounds each and those in the old lots weighed from 150 to 170 pounds. They were fed alike, were of the same breeding and were handled exactly the same except that on bunch was raised on the clean grounds and the others on the old hog lots that were infested with diseases and worms.

This year Moffit is repeating the experiment in order to provide material for an exhibit at the Iowa State Fair. He is going to be on hand to explain how the hogs were handled. The state fair board has set aside a piece of ground 80x80 feet which will be used for demonstrating the different methods of swine raising

FARMERS SPEND A MILLION FOR TANKAGE

Iowa farmers spend a million dollars or more for tankage each year, according to estimates of the Iowa Department of Agriculture Tankage usually contains 60 percent of protein and if it costs $60 per ton, this is one dollar per unit of protein.

If a carload of tankage only tests 55 percent of protein instead of 60 percent, the farmers would be defrauded five dollars per ton or $200 per car.

In order to protect purchasers, a total of 187 samples of tankage were analyzed last year by the department of Agriculture. These results of these analyses are published in Bulletin No. 32 which may be obtained free upon application to the department. The bulletin also contains other valuable information which every feeder should have.

NAMELESS RIVER

By VINGIE E. ROE

Copyright by the McCall Company

WNU Service.

BRAND FAIR

SYNOPSIS. — Kate Cathrew, "Cattle Kate," owner of the Sky Line ranch, on her way to McKane's store at Cordova, seemingly infuriated by the sight of a girl plowing in the valley below, places a rifle bullet near the horses' feet. The girl takes no notice. Kate goes on to town, where her presence brings on a fight between McKane, the trader, and Sheriff Selwood. Nance Allison, the girl on whom Kate Cathrew had vented her spite, is with her widowed mother and crippled brother Bud farming land taken up by her father, killed a short time before in a mysterious accident. Bud is the victim of a deliberate scheme to maim or kill him. Kate Cathrew wants the farm for pasture land, and is trying to frighten the Allisons into leaving. Big Basford, Sky Line rider, desperately in love with Kate, picks a quarrel with a fellow rider, Rod Stone. Kate, to part them lashes Basford across the face with a quirt. Nance discovers in a cave a fine collie dog, evidently guarding a child. She goes home mystified. Next day Nance returns to the cave with food and makes friends with the dog and the small boy, Sonny. He tells her "Brand" takes care of him and "Dirk," the collie. Selwood is certain Kate Cathrew is the head of a "cattle rustling" gang, with Lawrence Arnold, her partner, who rarely visits the ranch. Minnie Pine, halfbreed at the Sky Line ranch, is in love with Rod Stone. Ranchers complain of cattle-stealing and criticize Sheriff Selwood for his seeming inactivity.

CHAPTER VIII

—7—

Brand Fair.

Nance Allison went back to Blue Stone canyon. It was as inevitable as the recurrent sun that she should do so. Her whole nature was stirred to the depths by what she had found in the lonely gorge.

The mystery of the thing lured her, set her young mind hunting for its solution. And the little ragged boy with his weazened face and bright brown eyes tugged at her tender heart irresistibly.

He was a beautiful, small creature despite his thinness and his poverty. There was intelligence in the broad forehead under the long, loose, unkempt, dark curls, capacity for affection in the mobile lips and a terrible hunger for love in the whole little face.

For four days, "hand-running" as her mother said, the girl went to the canyon. The friendship ripened with tropical speed, so that she need not search for her quarry now, but found it coming to meet her, peering around this boulder, watching from that vantage point.

When she held out her arms to the child these last two times he had come leaping into them to cling to her neck in delirious gladness, while the sedate collie, fast friend by this time and traitor to his sacred charge, fawned on her knee.

But on the fifth golden day trouble was in the atmosphere.

Sonny came with drooping head and a pucker of sorrow in his small brows.

"Why, what's the matter with my little man?" said the girl, kneeling and holding him off to scan him searchingly. "Tell Nance, Sonny. What is it?"

And Sonny, dissolved in tears upon the instant, hiding his face in Nance's neck.

"I—I ha—" he hiccoughed, "to—to tell—Brand—a a—lie. A nawful lie! And Brand, he—hates a liar!"

"He found your horse's tracks down the canyon and—he asked me if I saw—any—any one strange," wept the child.

Nance sat down and took the boy in her lap.

The thing was coming to a climax. She was meddling with someone's private business, of that she was sure, both from her own reasoning and her mother's warning, and maybe she had no right to do so, but her sweet mouth set itself into stubborn lines as she fell to smoothing the little head, damp with the ardors of its owner's remorse.

"Stop crying, honey," she wheedled softly, "and let Nance rock you like this."

She tucked her heels under her thighs and, holding the child in the comfortable lap thus formed, began to sway her body back and forth for all the world as if she sat in a cushioned rocker.

What is there about a rocking woman with a child's head on her breast to soothe the sorrows of the world?

The swaying motion soon checked Sonny's sobs and she fell to singing to him, adding her voice to the mysterious voices of the canyon in the lilt and fall of an old camp-meeting hymn brought forth from her memories of Missouri. And presently, when its spell had soothed the tumult, she raised him up and fed him cookies made for the occasion, a sugary bribe if ever there was one.

Dirk, too, was not averse to this shameful seduction, his pale eyes glowing with desire.

"Tell me, Sonny," said Nance, "does Brand cook for you?"

"Sure," said the child, "sure he does but he's gone all day and we get awful hungry 'fore he comes at night."

"I should think so!" thought Nance grimly, "two meals a day! When a little child should eat whenever it's hungry, to grow! This precious Brand is about due for an investigation."

Aloud she said:

"Sonny, I'm going to stay with you all day—and I'm going to wait and see Brand."

The boy was almost aghast at this statement, and it was plain from the distress he showed that it was unprecedented.

"If you do," he said miserably, "maybe Brand will take me away again and—and I'll never see you any more."

But Nance had other plans and she shook her head.

That was a lovely day. It was warmer than usual, since summer was stepping down the slopes of the lonely hills, and the strangely assorted trio in Blue Stone canyon enjoyed it to the full.

They explored far up the narrow defile, the child holding to the girl's hand and skipping happily, the collie pacing beside them, a step to the left, two steps to the rear.

They watched the trout waving in the sunlit pools at noon, and waded in a riffle to find barnacles under rocks that Nance might show Sonny the tiny creatures which built such a wonderful little house of infinitesimal sticks and mortar.

But as the sun dropped over toward the west and the shadows deepened in the great gorge, Nance began to feel the loneliness, the cold silence, the oppression of the unpeopled wilderness.

The voices seemed to raise their tones, to become menacing. More and more she realized what it must mean to a child left alone in the canyon, and a deep and rising indignation swelled within her.

This Brand fellow, now—he must be cold-blooded as they made them, cruel—no, Sonny loved him. He could not be exactly that.

But what sort of man could he be?

She held the child close in her warm arms as she rocked again and pondered the problem. She did not know what she intended to say to him, once she faced him, but of one thing she was certain—he would know, in no uncertain terms, indeed, what a monstrous thing it was to leave a child alone in Blue Stone canyon—alone, to listen to its mysterious voices, to feel its chill and its menace of shadows!

The Newcomer Did Not Speak, but Stood Holding the Bit of a Handsome, Huge Black Horse.

Why, it was a wonder the little mind did not crack with strain, the small heart break with fear!

Unconsciously she hugged Sonny tighter, making of her body, as it were, a bulwark between him and all harm, seeming to challenge the world for his possession. It was astonishing how the child had crept into her heart in these few short days—how hungrily her arms had closed about him. She had made his cause her own high-handedly—perhaps without reason.

She was thinking of these things when the collie barked sharply and leaped away in welcome. Nance flung a startled glance over her shoulder—and got to her feet, sliding the boy down beside her, an arm still about his ragged shoulders.

A man stood at the corner of the jut of stone beyond the pool.

He was tall, somewhere around six feet, a horseman born by his build, narrow of hip and flat of thigh. He was clad in garments almost as much the worse for wear as Sonny's—a blue flannel shirt and corduroy tucked into boots. But Nance saw in that first swift glance that these habiliments were different from those of their like which McKane sold in Cordova, that seemed made for the man who wore them, so perfectly had they fitted him once.

Under a peaked sombrero with a chin-strap run in a bone slide, a pair of dark eyes bored into Nance's unsmiling. A very dark face, almost Indian in clean-cut feature and contour, with repressed lips and thin nostrils, completed the picture.

The newcomer did not speak, but stood holding the bit of a handsome, huge, black horse.

"Brand!" called the boy, "Oh, Brand!"

At that name Nance Allison found her tongue.

"I've been waiting for you," she said calmly, "I'm glad you've come."

"Yes?" he said in a singularly deep, sweet voice.

That voice disconcerted Nance upon the instant, stole some of her fire, so to speak. She had been ready to tackle him on the issue at once, to fight, if necessary, with a flood of reasons and protests against his treatment of Sonny.

Now, suddenly, she felt a vague sense of having intruded, of meddling with another's affairs. But she was not one to back down from any righteous stand—and Sonny's cause was righeous in every sense, it seemed to her.

So she gazed steadily into the direct dark eyes and nodded decidedly.

"Yes—I am," she repeated, "I—want to talk to you."

The man dropped the rein over the black's head and came forward a step or two.

"Quite a rare experience," he said, smiling, as he removed his hat and ran his brown fingers through the thick black hair that stood up from his sweated forehead, "it's been a long time since any woman has wanted to talk to us—eh, Sonny?"

"But—Oh, she talks sweet, Brand!" cried the child eagerly, "and she—holds me on her lap!"

At the profound awe in the small voice the man's face grew quickly grave.

"We must be pretty far gone as vagabonds!" he said, "that makes me think what a woman's love must mean to a child. You have been a gift of God, dropped out of the blue to Sonny, Miss Allison, and I ought to thank you."

"Why—you—you know who I am?" cried the girl, astounded.

"Certainly. And I know how long you've been coming here to the canyon. I know where you live, too—down on the flats by the river."

His slow, amused smile at her evident discomfiture was engaging. It disarmed Nance, made her feel more than ever an intruder.

"I know what lost waifs you must think us—and you are partly right. We are. I've watched you and Sonny twice, and I have not removed our camp—if such it could be called—because I didn't think you'd talk."

"I haven't," said Nance, "except to my own family."

"Since you have found us out," he went on, "I shall tell you that Sonny is not the neglected little cast-off that you must naturally think him. I have hidden him for a purpose. We have a purpose, the boy and I, and we have traveled many miles in its pursuit. We do seem mysterious—but we're not so greatly so, after all. I try to care for him as best I may when I must be so much away from him. If it wasn't for Dirk I couldn't leave him as I do."

"He's well protected," said Nance, "I used Sonny himself to betray the dog. I couldn't do otherwise."

"I know something of it—Sonny didn't tell me, but I saw the signs of your scuffle. It was printed plain in the sand and shale."

"No—Sonny didn't tell," said Nance regretfully, "and I made him a liar—when I didn't mean to. I asked him not to tell you that I'd been here. I was afraid you'd take him away. I didn't think you'd ask him point blank."

"I've taught the boy not to talk," said the man—"it's a vital necessity to us."

"He doesn't. I couldn't find out a thing, for all I wheedled shamelessly, except that you were Brand, and that you two ride always on Diamond there."

"My name is Fair, Miss Allison—Brand Fair, and that is Sonny's name also. But we don't tell it to strangers."

He smiled at her again, a slow creasing of the lines about his lips, a pleasant narrowing of his eyes.

"Then I—" there was an elemental quality of gladness in Nance's voice, though she was utterly unconscious of it, "am not a stranger?"

"You are Sonny's friend," he replied, "and we give you our trust."

The girl swallowed once and tightened her hold on the child's thin shoulders. There was something infinitely pathetic, infinitely intriguing in this situation, and it gripped her strongly.

"I—thank you," she said awkwardly, "I'll not betray it."

"I'm sure you won't," said Brand Fair, "and for the present, if you'll accept us at our face value, we'll be mighty glad—eh, Sonny?"

"I've been glad all the time," said Sonny fervently, "and so's Dirk."

"Ingrates!" laughed the man. "Here I've shared my poor substance with you two for—a very long time—and at the first bribe of meat and kisses you turn me down cold!"

"Oh!" cried Nance, flushing, "you know all about us!"

"It's my business to know all about one who invades my solitude, isn't it?"

But here Sonny could stand Brand's badinage no longer and pulling away from Nance he ran to him, and clinging about his knees, begged forgiveness for the lie whose memory troubled his clear little soul.

The man touched the unkempt small head with a tender hand. "Sure, old-timer," he said gently; "that's all right. A gentleman must lie when a lady commands—he couldn't do anything else."

"You make me feel like a sinner!" said Nance, "I hope you'll forgive me, too."

The man took Sonny's hand as she made ready to leave and turned down the canyon with her.

"We'll form a guard-of-honor in token of that," he said, "and in seeing you off we'll invite you back again. Sonny would miss you now, you know. But just remember always, Miss Allison, please—that in a way we're keeping out of sight—until—until some time in an uncertain future. Consider us a secret, will you not?"

Nance Allison rode home to Nameless with her head in a whirl. Life, that had seemed to pass her by in her plodding labor and her patient bearing of trouble, had suddenly touched her with flaming finger.

She had found mystery and affection in the silence of Blue Stone canyon—and now there was something else, a strange vibrant element, thin as ether and intangible as wind, a sense of elation, of excitement. She felt a surge within her of some nameless fire, an uplift, a peculiar gladness.

"Mammy," she said straightly when she stepped in at the cabin door, "I've found the man!"

"Whew! Some statement, Sis!" cried Bud as he shambled across the sill behind her. "What's he like?"

"Why—I don't just know. He's tall—and he wears clothes that have once been fine—and he has the straightest eyes I ever saw. His name's Fair—Brand Fair—and he's some relation to Sonny, for that is his name, too."

"I hope you gave him that piece of your mind you laid out to?" pursued Bud.

"Why, no—no," said Nance wonderingly, looking at him with half-seeing eyes, "I don't—believe—I did!"

Mrs. Allison looked up from her work of getting supper at the stove.

"I mind me," she said, "of the first time I ever set eyes on your pappy. I was goin' to frail him good because he'd run his saddle horse a-past th' cart I was drivin', kickin' a terrible dust all over my Sunday dress—it was camp-meetin' at Sharfell's corners—an' then—he laughed an' talked to me—an' I forgot my mad spell. His eyes jest coaxed th' wrath out of my heart—then an' ever after."

"Why, Mammy," said Nance, "that's just what happened here! This man talked to me and I forgot my mad spell! I never said a thing I'd stayed to say! And I promised to keep the secret of him and Sonny in the canyon."

"H'm!" said Bud as he sidled into his chair and smoothed his bronze hair, wet from his ablutions at the well, "H'm—Mammy, why'd you tell her that? I wish you hadn't."

"Why?" said Nance, but her brother shook his head.

Well, this Brand Fair seems to be a pretty decent sort of man—but who is he and what's he doing under cover?

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Scotch Sailor Made Immortal by Defoe

Alexander Selkirk was a Scottish sailor whose adventures furnished Defoe the basis for his immortal story of "Robinson Crusoe." Selkirk, having quarreled with his captain on one of his voyages, was left on the island of Juan Fernandez in 1704, with only his gun and ammunition, and a few other necessaries of life. There he remained for more than four years, living on game, and clothing himself with the skins of goats. In 1709 he was rescued by Capt. Woodes Rogers, and became his mate. He afterwards attained the rank of lieutenant in the British navy. Defoe has often been charged with having surreptitiously taken the story of "Robinson Crusoe" from the papers of Alexander Selkirk, but the experiences of the real hero and those of the fictitious one have so little in common that Defoe seems indebted for little more than the suggestion.—Kansas City Times.

Strive for Justice

As to be perfectly just is an attribute to the divine nature, to be so to the utmost of our abilities is the glory of man.—Addison.

WOOL FABRICS SPONSORED IN STYLES FOR TRAVEL WEAR

TO AMERICANS journeys in vacation time are as much a matter of course as three meals a day. Means for getting somewhere else and back are more and more convenient and practical and nearly every one travels. The most experienced travelers—the globe trotters—have learned to travel light; that is, they go unencumbered by any unnecessary luggage. Blithely now the up-to-date nomad takes her suitcase in hand, throws her coat over her arm and starts to Europe or around the world and always manages to look well dressed.

The foundation of her wardrobe is found to be a plain tailored suit, a practical cloth dress, a smart, cozy and serviceable coat and a more or less simple street hat, chosen according to the length of her journey. Her suit is likely to be of tweed, her dress of jersey or twill or kasha and her coat of twill or a pile fabric. A black satin and a white crepe de chine skirt and several pretty blouses tell the story of her dressier clothes, and such is the light and filmy character of these and her underthings that they take up little room. "Luggage" and "tuckaway" hats that can be flattened out when not on duty and carried in a suitcase afford a change of headwear. They are made of silk or other fabrics and are shapely when adjusted to the head. Even the umbrella and small camera are stowed away with other belongings. As for accessories—the fewer the better unless they are "built in" the dress or blouse as in the frock shown at the left of the picture. This is a straight-line affair, with collar and cuffs of embroidered crepe de chine and a jabot and sleeve frills of plaited crepe like the frock in color. But there are any number of designs in frocks of this kind that are easy to get off and on with simple fastenings. These are points to be considered by the traveler. Once on and fastened they are complete in themselves—and good looking.

The coat at the right has the same commendable features—it is practical and attractive and roomy enough to be worn over a suit if needed for warmth. Twill is very practical for traveling coats and so are the various soft suede-finished or pile fabrics.

A short journey may require less shaving down of one's belongings, but if it is to be a sight-seeing trip much luggage is a bother. Besides if the worst comes to the worst and no porter is at hand the lighter the baggage the better.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Pretty Things That are made at Home

IN THE matter of dress accessories, there is no doubt that costume flowers and neckwear hold the center of the stage in current styles and that the management of color is the most important factor in their success. In scarfs, midsummer has brought with it some new features—the ensemble idea is discernible everywhere, and is reflected in scarfs of chiffon with hand-painted borders that repeat the decorative design in the dress they accompany. Crepe de chine scarfs take their cue from felt or fabric sports hats to match, painted sometimes with little landscapes or water views. Hand painting in cubist or flowered patterns, in vivid or pastel colors, flourishes on gowns, hats and scarfs and invites the amateur artist to try her skill. The scarfs have picot edges.

Next to the scarf the jabot and collar and sleeve sets are important. These are made of lace or net and lace combinations and the jabot is attached to either round or high collar along the edge of a length of insertion or tucked net. A collar and sleeve set of tucked net and lace is shown in the picture. Narrow lace and a heavy beading are used—the beading carrying baby ribbon in black. With the vogue for long sleeves these new under sleeves prove very useful, worn under three-quarter length sleeves in the frock, because they can be easily kept clean.

Costume flowers employ both ribbons and millinery flowers—mostly the latter—and are used on the majority of afternoon dresses and practically all evening dresses. Nothing flourishes with equal exuberance except the boutonniere. Everybody wears a flower of some sort, pinned somewhere, about the neck or on the coat lapel. Gardenias, chrysanthemums, roses, pansies, and many other blossoms finish the summer costume.

Even palm leaf and other plain fans come in for a colorful finishing touch in the hands of beauty-loving women. A palm-leaf fan is shown in the picture with a floral pattern sketched on it with bright silk floss and a small heart-shaped bamboo fan is painted with flowers and a bright-winged bird.

But the small palm-leaf fan is at its prettiest when it is trimmed with narrow satin ribbon and finished with ribbon or millinery flowers. Ribbon about an inch and a half, or two inches wide, in any desired color is used for winding the handle and making a finishing bow at the top of the handle. Here a cluster of flowers or a little nosegay is posed. The binding is usually shirred on and the fans may be painted, but are pretty anyway.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1926, Western Newspaper Union.)

The American Legion

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

WHY THURSTON IS HONORED BY IOWA

Lloyd Thurston of Osceola, Iowa, is the first veteran of the Spanish-American or World wars to be elected from Iowa to the house of representatives. Congressman Thurston is a veteran of both these great conflicts and is an enthusiastic member of the American Legion. He was elected to his present position in 1924 by the greatest majority ever received by a congressional candidate in his district.

Lloyd Thurston.

Following his World war service, Mr. Thurston was elected to the Iowa state senate. He was especially active in the interest of soldier relief legislation. Iowa has many measures of this type on her statute books. Captain Thurston is responsible for the greater part of them.

He is the author of the soldiers' preference law, which gives thousands of former service men jobs which otherwise would go to others. His soldiers' tax exemption measure grants tax exemption of certain amounts to all veterans of the Civil, Spanish-American and World wars.

Another measure exempts all property belonging to service organizations from all taxes. Yet another grants to former nurses all the relief privileges given to former soldiers, sailors and marines.

Mr. Thurston is a charter member of Isaac Davis Post, No. 60, of the Legion. At the beginning of the Spanish-American war he enlisted at the age of eighteen as a private in the Fifty-first Iowa Volunteer infantry. He saw service with his regiment in the Philippines. At the beginning of the World war he was commissioned a captain. He served throughout the war.

Born at Osceola, the congressman has made his home there all his life. He graduated from the law school of the State University of Iowa and served two terms as county attorney.

Big Saving in Fees to World War Veterans

The saving in attorney's fees of nearly $2,000 to incompetent World war veterans in Livingston county, New York, is the effect of a decision handed down by Adolph J. Rodenbeck, justice of the Supreme court in the county.

The decision marked the first victory of the Livingston County American Legion committee in action taken to establish lower attorney's fees in the cases of 16 incompetent veterans. The veterans had been defrauded of more than $50,000 by their guardian, George W. Scott, former attorney, who is now serving a 20-year term for embezzlement.

Litigation involving the surety company which bonded Scott followed with the attorneys for the company asking the court to sanction a fee of $300 in each of the 16 cases. The Legion went to the bat for the veterans in court, holding that the fees were exorbitant, and their contention was sustained by Justice Rodenbeck's decision.

Omaha Is Planning for Greatest Legion Meet

Plans for accommodating a hundred thousand visitors who will attend the national convention of the American Legion to be held in Omaha, Neb., October 5 to 9, are being made, according to announcement by A. H. Richardson, general chairman of the 1925 national convention committee. Mr. Richardson said: "Omaha will be the mecca for Legionnaires and visitors from all parts of the world during the national convention. Plans are being completed that will make a "bunk" available to every veteran and visitor who wanders into the city, for what promises to be the greatest gathering of war veterans. Thirty-five hotels, five clubs with dormitories and 50,000 homes will be thrown open to the visitors. Railroads entering Omaha are setting aside adequate storage where the pullmans that carry the boys can be parked during the meeting."

Says Women Owe Debt to Immortal Writer

Shakespeare was a great student and admirer of women, said George Gorden Merton, professor of English literature at Oxford university.

In the history plays women had a hard time, and had to fight principally with their tongues. They sometimes threatened to scratch, but as a rule it would have been unnecessary to use their "ten commandments."

In the comedies young men were splendid fellows, but were better at talking than doing. When any real business had to be done or when any difficult arrangements had to be made it was the young women who acted. Shakespeare was so consistent about this that he must have meant it, and Mr. Gordon believed that in private life it was pretty near the truth.

Shakespeare appeared to have believed that it was one of the paradoxes and one of the puzzles of the feminine character that love as a rule made women not less but more practical.

Considering what Shakespeare had done for women, Professor Gordon thought it was singular that women had done so little for Shakespeare in the way of interpreting him and studying his character.

Shakespeare had done women more honor than any other dramatist, except possibly Moliere, and yet hardly any women had applied to his works those powers of analysis peculiar to their sex, which they exercised daily in all the drawing rooms of Europe on the characters of their friends.

Shakespeare paid women the high compliment of supposing that they might have knowledge, shrewdness, wit, and courage, without ceasing to be wholly feminine.—London Telegraph.

Delicate Instrument

A newly mounted radiometer is to be used in an expedition about to be made half way around the earth to take daily measurements of the heat of the sun in the interest of long-range weather forecasting. The radiometer is so sensitive that the ray of a candle situated 7,000 feet away and focused upon it is sufficient to turn its vanes through several hundred scale divisions. Even the face of an observer, when placed in the position previously occupied by the candle, will produce a deflection of twenty-five scale divisions. It has been suggested by a humorist that with this instrument one might almost note the approach of a friend, while still some miles distant, merely by the glow of his countenance. It might even detect the sun in an English summer.

Little Need for Muscle

Two thousand years from now man may have hoofs, says Prof. Conrad Tharaldsen of the zoology department of Northwestern university. He will probably have a huge dome of a head, a spindling body, dumpy legs and feet something like those of a horse. As a result of inaction and little need of muscular strength man's arms and legs are already beginning to dwindle in size, says the professor. Mechanical inventions are rapidly doing away with the need for muscle, he says, and lack of use is causing the muscular portions of the body to degenerate. But man's ever-growing brain will need more room. As a consequence his skull will get bigger and bigger until it resembles a dome.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Suspicious Resignation

Governor Silzer said at a dinner in Trenton:

"When a man is resigned to a corrupt government, mistrust him. He is likely to be profiting from the corruption.

"Hoskins, clad in deepest black, said resignedly as he drained a large vanilla soda:

"'The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away. Blessed be the name of the Lord.'

"'Hoskins,' whispered a bystander, 'has evidently suffered a bereavement.'

"'Yes,' said another bystander. 'He buried his mother-in-law this morning.'"

Remarkable Memories

Germans believe that a member of the staff of the Prussian State library has the finest memory in the world. He has specialized in weather reports and from memory he can describe the weather of any day from 1881 up to the present time. His wonderful memory recently was tested by the Berlin Meteorological society and he came through with flying colors. Colonel Charratie of England once memorized the entire issue of a newspaper on a wager; a stoker memorized Haydn's "Dictionary of Dates," and Lord Randolph Churchill, also of England, was able to repeat a page of print after a single reading.

Old Custom Revived

Great Britain's return to the gold standard has revived an ancient custom at the Bank of England At four o'clock each afternoon one of the old employees emerges from his sanctum, walks with dignity to the courtyard and there posts upon a bulletin board a list of the bank's sales and purchases of bar gold during the day. At the same hour messengers from the principal private banks, clad in their shiniest silk "toppers," arrive in the courtyard and, after copying the figures on the board, depart in all haste. It is one of the happiest signals of a return to gold currency after a lapse of ten years.

Community Building

Zoning Idea Spreads in American Cities

Zoning has been adopted by 320 cities in the United States, separating their territory into areas, for exclusive use as business, residence, industrial and unrestricted zones, the United States Department of Commerce reports.

In 1924 the most marked progress was made by the zoning idea, 62 municipalities adopting the system.

"In adopting zoning ordinances," the department's statement says, "these cities, towns and villages have sought to protect home owners and other land owners in the reasonable use of their property. Zoning seeks so to regulate the use to which buildings may be put, the area of the lot which they may cover, and their height in different sections of the city that the land in each district may be used for the purpose to which it is best suited."

New Jersey still leads in the number of zoned municipalities, having 72, New York has 56, California 38, Illinois 36, Massachusetts 24, Ohio 21, Wisconsin 14, Michigan 9, Indiana 5, Kansas, Missouri, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Virginia, 4 each; Florida, Minnesota, Oklahoma and Washington, 2 each, and Alabama, Arkansas, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, District of Columbia, Georgia, Iowa, Maryland, Nebraska, Nevada, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oregon, South Carolina, Tessessee and Utah, 1 each.

Clean Community Pays Dividends to Citizens

City cleaning is given the aspect of a national enterprise by the civic development department of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, which reports that 1925 will see new records established in this field of civic activity. Chambers of commerce all over the country as taking the iniative in community housecleaning.

For their guidance and the guidance of cities embarking upon anti-litter campaigns the department has issued, in response to many requests for suggestions, a resume of the methods successfully followed in many of the larger cities where annual cleaning has become an established community practice.

Millions are being expended annually for the beautification of American cities, it says in a foreword, and then, with careless and thoughtless abandon, people scatter litter where they will and streets and parks bear mute testimony to their negligence.

Cleaning up a city and keeping it clean, the department holds, is not merely an esthetic undertaking, but sound business. Ample dividends are paid in the form of stable property values, improved health conditions and decreased fire losses.

Suburbs Grow Rapidly

Thousands of people continue to move into the cities each year from the farms, and thousands, after residing in the city for a few years, come to the conclusion that life there isn't worth living and move out to the suburbs. Thus the cities continue to grow; but the suburbs are growing faster in proportion. Now that people are discovering that cities are not particularly good places in which to live, industry seems to be discovering that cities may not always be particularly good places in which to establish industrial projects.

Zoning Legislation

Legislation to control the use, height and area of buildings in various districts in their communities, and in consequence zoning laws, have been enacted or are being considered by nearly every state in the Union.

The legislatures of 34 states meet during 1925. In most of them zoning legislation is receiving more than passing attention due to the widespread interest in the subject shown by the public at large.

Architects' Archievements

Architects in the last five years have made two definite achievements. First, they have made home more livable and homes that run themselves almost automatically. Second, they have brought homes down to a cost that meets the pocketbook of the average middle-class family. People are demanding better homes in these days because they understand the effect of better homes on their happiness.

Des Moines on Top

In 1920, for cities of 100,000 or more population, Des Moines, Iowa, had the greatest number of people who owned their homes. Out of a population of 126,468, 51.1 per cent were members of families owning their own homes.

Landscaping Pays

Appropriate landscape development is a very real insurance against deterioration of the home property. Lawns, shrubbery and gardens, intelligently planned, will materially enhance the value of the property.

Idea Shows Advancement

Philadelphia is to have a child-guidance clinic supervised by the division on prevention of delinquency of the national committee for mental hygiene.—Chicago Daily News.

Wit and Humor

NEEDED A BETTER EXCUSE

A jury was being qualified. A salesman from Plunk Center spoke up.

"Your honor, I don't think I'm fitten fer to be a juryman."

"Why not?"

"I ain't read all the laws of this kentry."

"Neither have I," said the judge "You'll do."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Same Old Thing

Doolittle was unquestionably the kindest hearted man in town; also the laziest.

"Dearie," he told his wife, "when I pass away I shall leave everything to you."

"That's what you've been doing ever since we married," she snapped back. —Rehoboth Sunday Herald.

Had Enough of Those

The landlord had at last agreed to repaper several of the rooms. "What kind of paper would you like?" he inquired; "something with large figures?"

"Decidedly not," answered the tenant. "They would be a constant reminder of the rent I have to pay."

That Was That

"John, it is bad form to court a girl on a park bench. Why don't you court the young lady in her home?"

"No chance. There are eight daughters in her family."

PISCATORIAL ARITHMETIC

"When the boys got home from their trip last week I suppose they divided the fish?"

"They did—and multiplied 'em, too."

Cow Called Zephyr

A farmer's best cow was called Zephyr;
She seemed a real amiable hephyr;
Yet when he drew near she would kick off his ear,
Which made the old farmer much dephyr.

Didn't Understand

"My electric curling tongs turned out so well I think I will buy a washing machine."

"All right, Maria. But won't it give the kids a shock if you wash 'em with electricity?

Too Tough

Wife (with sudden inspiration)—Dear, how would you like to have mother for lunch?

Husband—No, thanks. My digestion isn't what it used to be.

Those Whiskers

She—Gee, your whiskers scratch worse than John's.

He—Yes, that's what Mary told me last night.—Denver Parrakeet.

AMERICAN AS SPOKE

Britisher—What do Americans mean by "giving a man the air"?

American—Tying a can to him, putting the skids under him, giving him the gate. Get it?

Britisher—I hear you, old top. But please explain your batty explanation.

Made-Up Giddy Girlie

I know a giddy girlie
Who dresses like a whizz,
And though her mind's not oft made up,
The rest of her sure is.

Telephone in Australia

"That's old Dogsbody just come out of the telephone box—he's turned 92."

"Lord! How old was he when he went in?"—Sydney Bulletin.

A Surprise

Suitor—I hope my proposal for the hand of your daughter hasn't taken you by surprise, sir.

Father—Well, to tell the truth, it has. You've been so jolly slow in getting around to it that I thought it wasn't coming at all.

Her Interpretation

Mrs. White—Why don't you try cooking with electricity?

Mrs. Green—My husband says we must keep down current expenses.

Saving a Life

Melba Miller, age three, of Letts, Ind., found a baby bird. She took it into the house and said: "Mother, may I keep him as a pet?"

With mother's consent, she carried it around a while, and said to her: "Do you think it will die?"

"I expect so," mother replied.

Melba stepped out in the yard. She returned a moment later without the bird.

"Where's your bird?" asked mother.

"I gave him to the cat."

"Why?"

"I was afraid it would die," solemnly answered the child.—Indianapolis News.

To Have a Clear, Sweet Skin

Touch pimples, redness, roughness or itching, if any, with Cuticura Ointment, then bathe with Cuticura Soap and hot water. Rinse, dry gently and dust on a little Cuticura Talcum to leave a fascinating fragrance on skin. Everywhere 25c each.—Advertisement.

Dead Failure

Senator Cameron was analyzing at a luncheon the mercantile marine situation. He concluded:

"So the business men who are trying to build up our mercantile marine for us will soon be in the position of the medico if they don't watch out.

"The medico was dashing along at a good pace when his horse pulled up short before a certain house. The medico frowned as black as a thunder cloud and gave the horse an angry cut with the whip.

"'Go on,' he hissed. 'Go on, you fool. He's dead.'"

Are You This Man?

I want to hear from the man who wants not only to sell honest merchandise, but render REAL service to the Farmer. Hundreds of men are now engaged with me in this work.

Many of these men are farm men. They came to us without selling experience and we trained them to sell.

We are the makers of the famous Colt Lighting and Cooking System—the largest firm of its kind.

Write me if you are really interested in learning our selling plan, drive your own car and are over 25 years of age.

H. F. Reiss, Vice-President, 30 East Forty-second St., New York.—Adv.

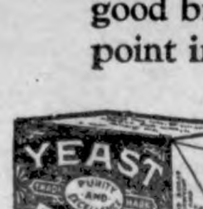
English Replanting Trees

In an effort to replace English forests depleted during the war, the forestry commission has planted 30,000,000 trees, which cover 16,000 acres. This number will be doubled next year, and the work continued afterward.

Good counsels observed are claims of grace.—Thomas Fuller.

ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE

For Tired Feet It Can't Be Beat



At night when your feet are tired, sore and swollen from much walking or dancing, sprinkle two ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE powders in the foot-bath, gently rub the sore and inflamed parts and relief is like magic. Shake Allen's Foot-Ease into your shoes in the morning and walk in comfort. It takes the friction from the shoe. Sold everywhere. For FREE Sample and Foot-Ease Walking Doll address, ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE, Le Roy, N. Y.

Difficult Task

George—If you want a thing done well, do it yourself.

John—How about a hair cut?

WOMAN'S BACK STOPPED ACHING

I Suffered Three Years. Relieved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

St. Paul, Minn.—"I have a little girl three years old and ever since her birth I have suffered with my back as if it were breaking in two and I have felt as if something were falling out all the time. I also had dizzy spells and was sick at my stomach every month. I had read several letters of women in the newspapers and the druggist recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to my husband for me. As a result of taking it my back has stopped aching and the awful bearing-down feeling is gone. I feel stronger and do all of my housework and tend to my little girl. I have also taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills for constipation. I have recommended these medicines to some of my friends and you may use this letter as a testimonial if you wish. I will be pleased to answer letters of other women if I can help them by telling them what this medicine has done for me."—Mrs. PRICE, 147 W. Summit Avenue, St. Paul, Minnesota.

No matter how severe or deep seated the skin trouble may be, it usually responds to the comforting, healing touch of Resinol

Green's August Flower

for Constipation, Indigestion and Torpid Liver

Successful for 59 years. 30c and 90c bottles—ALL DRUGGISTS

Boys, Girls, Men, Women

We want you to work for us; good pay. Write for catalog and particulars. Toilet preparations and all kinds premium goods.

ROGERS FAMILY PRODUCTS CO.
Des Moines, Ia.

FRECKLES!

Quickly disappear when Dr. C. H. Berry's Freckle Ointment is used. One jar of this fragrant snow-white cream is usually sufficient to remove the most stubborn freckles. Easily applied. Keeps skin clear and soft. Price 65c and $1.25. Send for free Beauty Booklet. Agents wanted.
DR. C. H. BERRY CO., 2975 Michigan Ave., CHICAGO

THICK, SWOLLEN GLANDS

that make a horse Wheeze, Roar, have Thick Wind or Choke-down can be reduced with also other Bunches or Swellings. No blister, no hair gone, and horse kept at work. Economical—only a few drops required at an application. $2.50 per bottle delivered. Book 3 A free.

ABSORBINE

W. F. Young, Inc., 510 Lyman St., Springfield, Mass.

DAISY FLY KILLER PLACED ANYWHERE ATTRACTS AND KILLS ALL FLIES. Neat, clean, ornamental, convenient, cheap. Lasts all season. Made of metal, can't spill or tip over; will not soil or injure anything. Guaranteed effective. Sold by dealers, or 5 by EXPRESS, prepaid, $1.25.

HAROLD SOMERS, 150 De Kalb Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

INFLAMED EYES

Use Dr. Thompson's Eyewater. Buy at your druggist's or 1161 River, Troy, N. Y. Booklet.

W. N. U., DES MOINES, NO. 30--1925.

The Woman's Way

"How does a woman ever manage to get a pencil sharpened?" "With a smile bestowed on some man."

Be sure of good bread; use Yeast Foam

Every girl should learn how to make good bread; it should be the starting point in her home cookery training.

Send for free booklet "The Art of Baking Bread"

Northwestern Yeast Co.
1730 North Ashland Ave.
Chicago, Ill.

Famous Americans Born in Month of February

Children born in February have all the odds of obtaining greatness in their favor. Figures compiled by Dr. Robert Underwood Johnson, director of the Hall of Fame, show that more men and women enrolled in the hall were born during February than in any other month. Twelve of the sixty-three persons who have niches in the hall had their birthdays that month.

They were Mark Hopkins, February 4; William Tecumseh Sherman, February 8; Daniel Boone, February 11; Peter Cooper, February 12; Abraham Lincoln, February 12; George Peabody, February 18; Alice Freeman Palmer, February 21; George Washington, February 22; James Russell Lowell, February 22; Emma Willard, February 23; Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, February 27, and Mary Lyon, February 28.

Doctor Johnson's list showed that April was second with eight Hall of Fame members. June was last with only two.

Author at Last Takes Rank Above Bullfighter

Senor Blasco Ibanez, the author of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" and "Blood and Sand," has been a good deal in the public eye of late, owing to some outspoken comments on affairs in his native country and his spectacular challenge to King Alfonso.

This gifted novelist is, by the way, one of the few writers of today who can practically name his own price for a story. Rather a novelty this, for Spain, where only a very lucky writer indeed can earn as much as a famous bullfighter, observes London Answers.

In this connection a good story is told of Ibanez. Returning from a successful lecturing tour in the Argentine, he met one of the idols of the bull ring. This hero told the author that he received 10,000 pesetas for each appearance he made.

"And I received 14,500 pesetas for one lecture at Buenos Aires," said Ibanez. "Now at last a Spanish writer receives more in an afternoon than a bullfighter."

SHORT SMILES

Staggering Thought

"What would a nation be without women?"

"A stagnation, I guess."—Mercury.

Appropriate

She—It's very good of you to ask me to dance." He—"Don't mention it. It's a charity ball."—Jack o' Lantern.

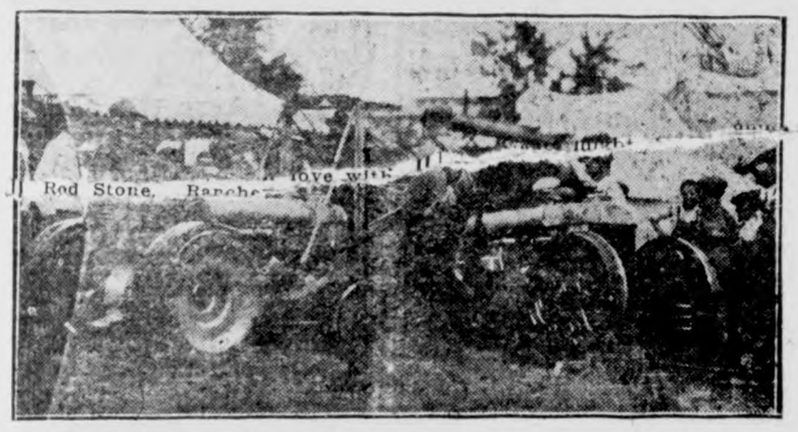
When You Owe a Visit

"Time is money, but it isn't legal tender." "It is when you're paying a call."

Twisted a Bit

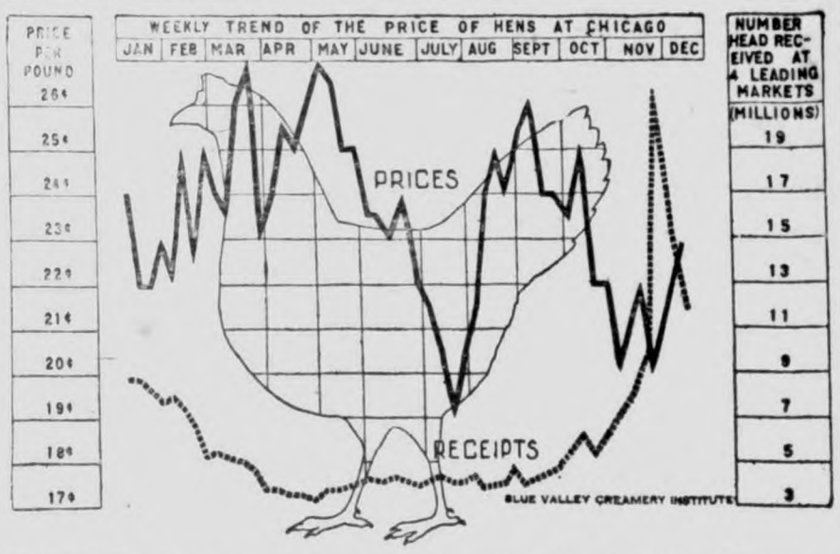
Maggie—How old are you?
Selme—I've just turned twenty-four.
Maggie—Oh, I see; forty-two.

40 ACRES OF MACHINERY



So many advances have been made in the development of new types of farm machinery and home conveniences that more than 40 acres is to be set aside for displays of such inventions and improved devices at the coming Iowa State Fair, Aug. 26-Sept. 4, in Des Moines. Everything from tractors to plows, from bathroom fixtures to radios will be embraced in the displays. The picture here shows a group studying one of the new machines exhibited at last year's state fair.

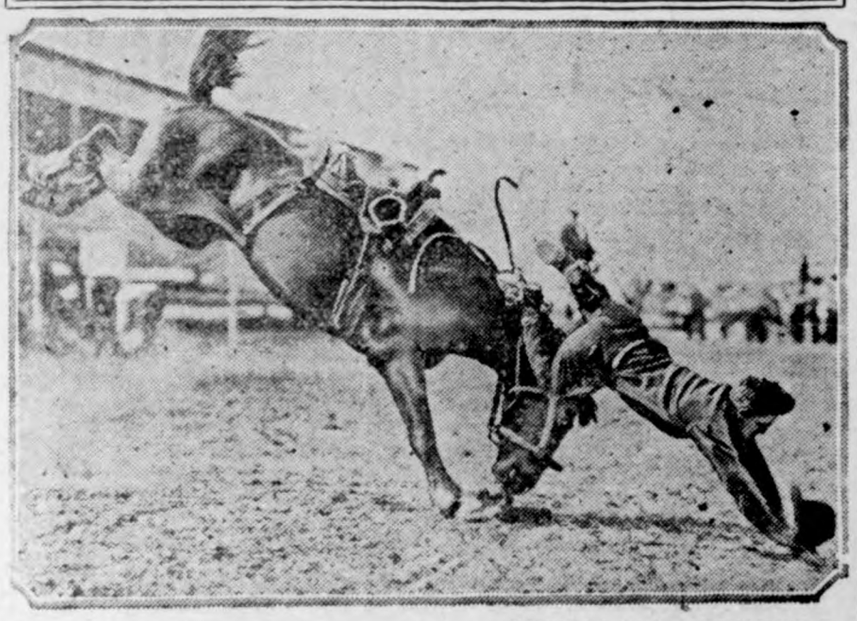
474,000,000 Chickens in U. S.



POULTRY failed to put in a record appearance for the year 1924, says a Blue Valley Creamery Institute survey just issued. The annual estimate of the United States Department of Agriculture, which placed the farm chicken population at 474,000,000 head on January 1, 1924, flooded the nation with predictions of an oversupply. This estimate was an increase of 12 per cent over 1923 and a gain of 32 per cent since the beginning of 1920.

The unfavorable spring, together with attractive prices for poultry which led to close selling, conspired to play a trick on the market and the anticipated flood of poultry and poultry products never reached the large terminals. Receipts of dressed poultry were very light during the summer, but on December 1, 1924, 16,000,000 pounds more dressed poultry were on hand than on the same day a year ago.

NO DAYLIGHT SAVING HERE



(Copyright by R. H. Doubleday.)

Many are the tricks resorted to by the "outlaw" horse to throw his rider. Pitching, bucking every second of the time he is in the arena, the broncho struggles fiercely to win the decision. No buckaroo must "show daylight" between himself and his saddle, or he is disqualified.

The sport of sports is the real cowboy contest, and titles for the leadership in riding, "bulldogging" and roping will go to the buckaroos and cowgirls who compete in the Chicago Roundup and World's Championship Rodeo, which will bring nine days of frontier life to the metropolis beginning August 15. Tex Austin, famous for successful rodeos he has held, will direct the events

BIG MOTOR SHOW AT STATE

Des Moines, July 23, Special.—The largest mid-season motor show to staged in the west this year is to be held at the coming Iowa State Fair and National Livestock Show here, August 26, Sept. 4, in co-operation with leaders of the passenger car, truck and tractor industry.

More than 100 of the new 1926 models, many of them fresh from the eastern factories, will be shipped here for advance showings of what will be desirable in both pleasure and utility cars during the coming season. Everything from roadsters to limousines, with all the latest auxilliary equipment, will be embraced in the show.

In addition, scores of trucks and tractors of a wide variety of makes are to be shown in a separate section of the exposition. Many of these will be seen in action, hitched to plows, loading equipment and other equipment.

The Ford Motor Company has engaged Power Hall 55x275 feet and a full block of ground in the open field which will be used to exhibit a complete line of implements used with their tractors, and a continuous programs to interest the farmers, business men and motorists in progress each day of the fair.

Forty acres of farm equipment and machinery will also be embraced in another display in an adjoining section of the fair.

HONOR FARM USED BY TEN MURDERS TO ESCAPE

CHICAGO, July 22.— Incensed over the escape of Robert (Teddy) Webb bandit and murderer, from the honor farm near Joliet yesterday, Chief of Dectectives Shoemaker delved into the records of his department today and discovered that 10 murderers, nine of whom were sent to prison for life, have escaped from this farm in the last nine months.

BOILING PREVENTS BOTULISM

Ripe Olives and and Spinach Most Likely to Contain Botulinus

Botulism, a fatal disease causesd by food poisoning, may be cantracted from eating canned vegetables, fruits, fish, or meats which have spoiled and have botulism bacteria present, says Ione Hemingway of the home economics department, Ia. State College. Ripe olives and spinach are most likely sources of botulism.

Prevention of botulism is possible through careful inspection of all canned foods. If a can appears swollen or shows signs of leaking, it should be destroyed. To properly safeguard in case of doubt heat the food to the boiling point before using. Any foods which are not normal in color, odor and appearance should be discarded and only clean, fresh, sound food used.

When food infected with botulius organisms is taken into the body, the bacteria secrete toxins which prove fatal. Death is caused by failure of the respiratory organs to function. Symptoms of the diseose are: fatigue, headache, dizziness, weakness, and in some cases, blindness. Symptoms may develope from two to eight days after eating the contaminated food.

THE REDS ARE BUSY IN U. S. AND IN CHINA

The National Republic devotes much space to exposing the activities of the revolutionary radicals. In a current unmber of this Washington periodical points to the evidences of "red" activities in the United States and throughout the world. It says:

"The Moscow government is waging war on all non-communist governments wherever an opportunity offers to undermine or overthrow existing institutions. It is a relentless in its warfare against government which recognized Russia as against those which have not. Soviet agitation has much to do with the wars waged against Spain and France in northern Africa. Soviet ambassador to China is active in trying to convert theChinese aggressions into a general Eastern uprising against not only European and Japanese aggressions into a general Eastern rising against not only Europe but America, which has always been China's best friend and has indulged in none of the practices which have rendered European powers in China. What Russia seeks in china is of course not the welfare of China but to use China as a pawn in the world wide communist game of destroying civilization. Soviet sympathizers in the United States are active in denouncing the attitude of America toward China and alleging that the United States has imperialistic designs in the Orient. These statements are used by soviet representatives in China as admission on behalf of this country that America is playing the European game in the Orient. The purpose of this team work between the Moscow dictators and their sympathizers in this country is to make serious trouble for the United States not only in China but in the Philippines."

Formal action against the Iowa state fair board changing the official name of the fair to the "Iowa State Fair and National Livestock Show has been announced by A. R. Corey, secretary to the board. More than 7,000 head of pure bred livestock from famous breeding farms in all parts of thec ountry, valued at more than $2,500,000 will be exhibited here August 26, to Sept. 4 he stated. Cash premiums at this year's fair total $127,000.

Threshing Coal

We have coming on the road a carload of genuine

Brazil Block Steam Coal

This is a high grade coal and best for threshing. Give us your order now.

Hard Coal

We are now filling our list for those who want hard coal. Put in your order now, as we are ordering only enough to supply our list. This is a good chestnut size coal priced right.

Klemme Co-Op. Grain Co

CRASH!

The entire stock of the Chas. Abraham & Sons Store in Garner BEING SACRIFICED IN A GREAT

HARVEST CLEARANCE SALE

ENDS SATURDAY NIGHT, JULY 25th

It is our plan to sell every dollar's worth of summer merchandise in our store during this sale, so hurry as goods are moving fast and only a few days are left to get your share of the great bargains--It's your opportunity to save!

This Harvest Clearance includes real bargains in every department of brand new merchandise which must be sold to make room for fall goods. You must see these bargains---then act quick as the sale positively closes Saturday night.

Unheard of Bargains in--

Dry Goods of all kinds Ladies, Misses and Childrens Apparel
Mens and Boys Clothing and Furnishings
Shoes for every member of the family Groceries

Chas. Abraham & Sons

GARNER, IOWA

News of Klemme and Vicinity

red Ridder and wife were visit- at Mason City Friday.

Buy "Jacobs 20c Special" cotton k gloves. E. F. Jacobs. 1tc

Chris Gram was a business caller Mason City, Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Irving enjoyed mpany from Floyd last week.

All kinds of threshing supplies, and greases at E. F. Jacobs. 1t

Mrs. Emma Gibbs and son, Frank, re Mason City visitors Wednes- afternoon.

Fred Griewe and family drove to nawha Tuesday for a short visit d from there they will drive home.

R. A. Jorgenson and family were Mason City Friday on matters of siness.

Miss Maurine Hake, of Belmond, visiting Klemme friends Sun-

Henry Freie enjoyed a week end t from three of his grand-child- ren.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Jorgenson, of Garner, spent Sunday at the R. A. Jorgenson home.

Mrs. Mabel Cullinan, of Belmond, was visiting with her mother, Mrs. Mary Waterman, Sunday.

SPECIAL PRICE on Mens, Ladies and Childrens Oxfords, Sandals and Ties. 10 per cent off. F. Gruetzmacher. tfc

Will Ridder and family, of Waterloo drove up last week for a few days visit with Klemme relatives and friends.

Mrs. P. M. Wilson and daughter, Gladys returned Wednesday evening from their visit of a couple of weeks with friends at Vinton, Iowa.

Mr. P. M. Wilson enjoyed a visit Sunday evening from his sister Miss Margaret, and two brothers, J. R. and Frank, of Clarion.

John Henschen left Monday on his return trip to Los Angeles, after a visit of about three weeks here. He went back by way of Vancouver.

Miss Opal Griewe who is visiting here with relatives, spent a few days last week at Ames visiting, returning to Klemme Friday.

Rev. Gauger is expected home Friday from his vacation and church services will be held as usual Sunday.

John Woods and family drove up morning for a few days visit with Klemme relatives and friends.

"Bill" Kirkwood drove to Minnesota Monday with a truck to bring from Watkins, Iowa, Wednesday their household goods to Klemme. Mrs. Kirkwood run the filling station during her husband's absence.

Miss Nina Johnson returned Tuesday from Cedar Falls where she had been for a visit with her sister, Miss Pearl, who is attending summer school there.

Dr. Thomas and family, of Cedar Rapids and Harry Bonwell and family of Renwick, were visiting Klemme friends Saturday.

Clarence Elder and sister, Reva, drove to Ames Saturday. Clarence was looking over the prospects of entering the college this fall where he may study journalism.

Mr. Joe Weinbrenner, who has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis for some time, left last Thursday for Dakota to look after his farm before returning to California. Mr. Lewis and Mr. Weinbrenner are Civil War buddies.

As conditions are now it will be impossible for me to go back to school this fall, therefore I would like to start a class of pupils in Violin or Piano. See or call me, Mildred Johnson, Phone 6509. 1twc

Mrs. Lena Schroeder and daughter, Adella, returned Wednesday morning from Chicago, where they visited at the Henry Schroeder home for a couple of weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Day and son, Dorance, expect to leave tomorow morning in their car for Sioux City, for a few days visit with Mr. and Mrs. Donald Nissen.

Dr. Missman returned Tuesday from Wisconsin, where he spent a week with his family at their cottage at one of the lakes. The doctor will return to Wisconsin later for a vacation.

La Von and Arthur Larsen entertained about forty five of their little friends at a party Wednesday afternoon from 2 until 5 o'clock. At the appointed time their mother, Mrs. C. A. Larsen served a delightful lunch. All report having had a fine time.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Huenamann are the proud parents of a fine baby girl born to them July 13th. We extend congratulations, and we just want to drop Vic a hint that our supply of smokes is getting low!

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Keraus entertained Mr. and Mrs. Patton, of Pasadena, Cal., and Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Keraus, of Klemme at a dinner Monday evening.

NOTICE TO CUT WEEDS

All weeds must be cut or otherwise destroyed around your property before August 1st. Weeds not cut by that date will be cut ond the expense charged against the lot. F. Gruetzmacher, Mayor. 2w

Rev. Gauger and a party of friends are enjoying a ten days outing in Minnesota at the various lakes putting in the time fishing. We expect to hear some real fish stories from Rev. Gauger, but we doubt if even a preacher can tell a fish story exactly straight.

The Wednesday night crowds are getting to be a regular thing in our city every week. Farmers find it convenient to come in and shop and talk with the neighbors. We notice quite a number of out-of-town people here every Wednesday night who come to enjoy the band concert.

Echard Zeidler received word the other day that his sister in Kansas was dead. She has been attending the University and as no explanation was given as to the cause of her death Echrd thought she was perhaps killed in an auto accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Patton, of Pasadena, California, arrived Saturday for a visit of about ten days at the C. F. Keraus home and with other relatives and friends in this vicinity. They are on their way to Kalamazoo, Mich., to attend a typeagraphical convention to which Mr. Patton is a delegate.

Although the Klemme barbers raised the price of a hair cut an extra nickel did not seem to have any effect on ladies bobs for we noticed quite a number of ladies had their locks shorn the past week. Klemme will soon be a 100 per cent bobbed hair town!

The Griewe fmily had a picnic at Clear Lake Monday evening at which the following families were present: Rev. Ortmeyer and family of Kanawha; Fred Griewe and family of Center Point; Mr. and Mrs. H. Griewe and the Albert Yahnke and Arthur Wellemeyer families of this place. A fine time was enjoyed by the tribe.

Mrs. R. A. McConn is visiting with friends at Clear Lake this week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Keraus entertained quite a gathering of relatives Sunday, the following: Mr. and Mrs. Harry Patton, of Pasadena, California; Elmer Prochaska, of Blue Earth Minn., a brother of Mrs. Keraus; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Horecka, of Garner, her sister; Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Mitchell, of Swea City; and the W. C. Keraus and C. G. Waterman families of this place.

Klemme people are always glad to see former Klemme school teachers who come here for a visit. Last week Wednesday, Miss Bertha Flessner, of Des Moines, arrived in this city for a visit with the Rev. Schmid family north of town, and to see her many Klemme friends. Miss Flessner is studying to be a trained nurse and has put in nearly a year of training in the Congregational hospital, Des Moines. She sasy she enjoys her new work.

HOLD REUNION AFTER 15 YEAR SEPARATION

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bachman of Klemme entertained a group of more than 60 members of the Bachman and Chistie families at a reunion Sunday. Many members of the group had not met for 15 years and the day was spent in renewing old acquaintances and enjoying the feast served on the lawn.

Among those from out of town were Mr. ad Mrs. M. McClearen and twin daughters, Eva and Iva, of Codagan, Alberta, Canada; Henry Bachma of Kankakee Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. James Cas well of Eagle Lake, Minn.

Thec hildren o the family sang, "Blest Be the Tie that Binds," and plans were made to hold an annual reunion in order to maintain the friendships which were renewed or begun at this gathering.

WILL CERTIFY CLOVER SEED

If Interested Write to Robinson for Instructions

Farmers who are producing red clover or sweet clover for seed for sale of sufficiently high quality may get it certified this year, according to Joe. L. Robinson, secrary of the Iowa Agricultural Experiment a l Association.

There is no charge for getting seed certified. Those who desire the service should write at one to Joe L. Robinson, Ames, Iowa, and he will furnish instiuction blanks. A sample of the seed will be analized for germinating power, freedom from weeds and other foreign material, and for the percent of hard seeds.

In order to be certified, clover seed must be free from all noxious weeds, 98 percent pure by weight, must have a viability of not less than 95 percent and not over 10 per cent of hard seed.

FARMERS TO GET COOLIDGE'S ATTENTION

Washington, D. C., July 23.— It is reported here that President Coolidge during his stay in Massachusetts this summer, intends to devote considerable time to the problems of agriculture. Among those with whom he has conferred or is expected to confer on the subject in the near future are Secretary Jardine, Frank M. Mondell, Senator Curtis, of Kansas, Republican leader in the senate and D. W. Mulvane, national committeeman from Kansas who is in close touch with agricultural conditions in the West.

Supporters of the administration are pointing with satisfaction to the fact that already the fortunes of the farmers in most sections of the country are on the mend. The farmer. due to the good crops in the West last year, has already taken long strides toward prosperity, and the bumper crops and good prices which are predicted for the coming year will put him in even better condition. In many states the majority of the farmers have already succeeded in paying off old debts and expect to greatly increase their buying power during the coming year.

In spite of the strides which have been made, however, it is said that the president intends to keep in close touch, through his advisors to suggest such legislation and give such supplemental assistonce as is regarded as feasible by those who have been studying the situation.

An observer reports to the United States Department of Agriculture that cutworms attacked pastures n Licking county, Ohio, in some instances leaving hardly a spear of grass, and that in one place the worms advanced in solid front about 25 feet a day, during a period of four days, eating everything before them. Counts showed as many as 172 worms to the square foot.

Hammill Nabbed on Speed Charge

Des Moines,— Gov. Hammill is slated to appear in traffic court here and explain why the automobile in which he was traveling to Ames Wednesday was "doing 50" as the charge reads. The chief executive was nabbed by Polk county traffic officers.

"Everybody looks alike when they violate the law," the officer who halt halted the governor's car told him, upon learning the idenity of the catch.

The machine was driven by Frank Wallace but the governor took responsibility for the infraction of the law, explaining that he feared he would be late for a 5 o'clock engagment at Ames.

A big monkey, five feet tall is missing from Coney Island, occording to reports. Probably it has gone down to Dayton, Tenn., to quality as an expert witness.

KLEMME MARKETS

Thursday, July 23, 1925

Wheat	1.45
Oats	.36
Shelled Corn	.90
Ear Corn	.85
Rye	.85
Barley	.75
Hogs	(top) 14.25
Eggs (cash)	.29
Eggs (trade)	.30
Heavy Hens	.18
Light Hens	.15
Standard Springs	.23
Leghorn No. 2 Springs	.18
Ducks	.10
Old Roosters	.08
Geese	.08
Butter (creamery)	.44
Butterfat	.45

A FEW CAUSES OF

Oil Pumping

AND COMPRESSION LEAKAGE

- Worn or out or round cylinders.
- Scored cylinders or pistons.
- Warped or worn ring grooves.
- Poorly fitted pistons and rings.
- Piston pin hole out of round.
- Poorly aligned rod on piston assembly.
- Sprung connecting rods.
- Crank shaft warped or out of true.
- Worn Bearings.
- Warped or sticky valves.
- Improper timing.
- Leaky cylinder head gaskets.

All this cas be repaired at—

PAVEY'S

STORMIZING SHOP

Use Quaker State Oil and Ever-ready Gasoline

Dr. R. W. Specht

—Dentist—

Office Over Whitehead's Store

Office Phone No. 106

Garner Iowa

For Harvest Dinners--lunches

We are well prepared to take care of your needs during the busy season of Harvest and Threshing and when planning your dinners and lunches you can feel assured that you will find we carry a full supply of meats especially suited for large dinners:—

Roasts

During harvest we will have plenty of nice tender roasts at all times—Beef Roasts, Pork Roasts and Veal Roasts.

Fine Cheese

A complete line of fresh cheese on hand for lunches:—PIMENTO, 2 kinds of American CREAM, 2 kinds Meadowgrove BRICK, and LIMBLRGER.

OTHER ITEMS for your lunch—Pickles, Olives, Ketchup, etc.

Klemme Meat Market

COAL

On Track this Week---

Car Stove size Hard Coal	$18.50
Car Chestnut Hard Coal	$18.50
Car Blue Ribbon Kentucky	$9.50
Car Virginia Splint	$9.50

All threshing coal guaranteed not to Clinker

Hard Coal Strike Coming

Order Now!

W. F. Lau

Kitchen Supplies For Threshing---

We have a large stock of Kitchen Utensils of all descriptions, which is especially in demand at this time to take care of the needs of the busy housewife during the Harvest and Threshing Season.

It's easier to prepare those big dinners with a kitchen full of our Aluminum and Enamelware. We suggest the following:

ROASTERS, LARGE KETTLES

BAKING DISHES, POTS, PANS.

CONSERVO COOKERS—Be sure to ask us to show you this wonderful time saver for cooking and canning.

PRESURE COOKERS—and also a full line of accessories for canning and cold pack.

A RANGE or OIL STOVE

OIL STOVE OVENS—if you have an oil stove you should have an oven.

EVERYTHING in the line of hardware for the kitchen is found here and the price is always right at—

E. F. Jacobs

The Cash Store

MID-SUMMER is here and School will soon start, so now is the time to do your FALL SEWING. You will find we have on hand a splendid line of Ginghams, Peter Pan, Sun Tubs, Indian Head, Suitigs and Percales to select from and our prices are reasonable. Come in and let us show you our Goods.

Saturday Special

One Pound Can

CALUMET Baking Powder 23c

"PAY CASH and PAY LESS"

Jno. N. Day's Cash Store

BRYAN SCORES MONKEY ORIGIN

Pleads for Bible's Account of Creation at Scopes Trial.

Dayton, Tenn.—Dayton heard William Jennings Bryan plead for revealed religion, for salvation, for the Bible's account of creation. He "scourged the scoffers" and there was mighty applause.

Then Dudley Field Malone, Scopes lawyer, arose and stated the case for science—as not being in conflict with real religion. He pleaded for the individual's right to search for the truth. And, an amazing thing, he won even greater cheers than Bryan.

Bryan had spoken. He had thrown all his prepared arrows at Darrow. He had singled out the Leopold-Loeb case as the one example of corrupted youth, poisoned by the philosophy of the modern schools, the students of Nietzsche.

This was only one step from evolution, Mr. Bryan had argued. He had offered to call a million witnesses who rejected evolution because it conflicted with the Bible. He drew a picture of the family tree of the evolutionists, tracing it back to monkey and a "lonely cell in the bottom of the sea," and described how it took faith and morality and God away from the children and made scoffers of them.

He spoke of the "revealed religion" of the Bible, the beautiful story of Christ, the Virgin birth, the atonement, the resurrection, all the Christian faith with its consolations for mankind, claiming that this was eliminated, destroyed, by science and their hypothesis of evolution. He ridiculed the majority of scientists as unbelievers, the Christian evolutionists as having a vague, far-away God that they could not feel. He spoke for immortality, for salvation, for all the religious doctrine that forms the foundation of the faith of the American nation.

But the strange part of it was the other side was with him. They, too, accepted this consolation and this hope and this salvation. But they insisted on their own freedom of interpretation, that the Bible must not be used as a textbook of science, not taught as a course of science in the schools, not used in that way at all. It was a book for the private conscience.

William Jennings Bryan outlined the state's fight against expert witnesses on the theory of evolution in a stirring plea as follows:

"A Christian believes that man comes from above, but the evolutionists believe that man comes from below.

"Man is shown as a mammal, scattered around somewhere inside a circle with 3,499 other mammals, including elephants.

"A great game in public schools now is trying to find man. You can't find him.

"Now here we have our glorious pedigree and each child is expected to take it home to his family to be substituted for the Bible family tree.

"I do not think evolution deserves to be called a theory, it is a hypothesis.

"Every theory has failed and today there is not a scientist who has traced one species to another, and yet they call us ignoramuses and bigots because we don't throw away our Bible.

"This doctrine of evolution disputes the very thought of the virgin birth, eliminates the resurrection and the atonement. Evolutionists leave no room for miracles and the Bible teems with miracles. They deny by logic every truth of the Christan religion.

"Experts cannot be permitted to come into this court and testify that evolution is not a bad doctrine.

"If they had half the affection for Tennessee, indicated by their presence here, they would have appeared before the legislature."

Dudley Field Malone of counsel for Scopes, defending the right to introduce expert testimony, pictured William Jennings Bryan in a dangerous role. He said:

"Whether Mr. Bryan likes it or not, he is a mammal; he is an animal; he is a man.

"Since listening to the prosecution, I know of no clearer reason why science should be taught and the people given a chance to be open-minded.

"This trial has developed two things: The difference between the theological and the scientific frame of mind. Theology is ancient and literal. It is accustomed to being closed to the mind. Science is modern and progressive, and is constantly open to the mind.

"Admit this scientific testimony and the minds of the prosecution will be improved and their souls purified.

"We are not afraid of the truth. The prosecution is excluding the jury from hearing these scientific witnesses because of their fear."

Woman Farm Writer Dies

Burlington, Iowa.—Mrs. George Keppur, who under the pen name of "Faith Felgar," was a widely known farm journal writer, died at a hospital here. She had been ill for a week.

Gas Tank Explodes; Two Die

Ruston, La. — Mrs. C. Glos, thirty, and her seven-months-old baby were burned to death when the gasoline tank of a wrecked automobile exploded as her husband struck a match to find where she lay under the machine.

B. M. PARMENTER

Burtice Marvin Parmenter has recently been appointed an assistant attorney general.

U. S. TO ACT IF COAL STRIKE IS ORDERED

Swampscott, Mass.—While hoping that a strike in the anthracite fields will be averted, President Coolidge and Secretary Davis determined upon a program to be pursued in case of an emergency.

Secretary Davis called at White Court to confer with the Executive on pending development of labor problems prior to a visit to Europe. The conversation centered on the anthracite coal field wage agreement now pending.

Mr. Davis declared that though two representatives of the Department of Labor were taking part in the negotiations, if a strike developed the government was ready to take a hand. What part the government would play in the possible strike was not disclosed.

The secretary made it known, however, that he would return to this country on August 25, six days before the present wage agreement between the anthracite coal operators and the miners expired.

Wire Confession Saves Scott From the Gallows

Chicago.—With death on the gallows awaiting him at sunrise Friday, Russell Scott at midnight was granted a reprieve. It was for one week.

Gov. Len Small saved Scott, for the time being, from hanging for the murder of Joseph Maurer, druggist's clerk, after Scott had been two days in the death cell and after all hope for him had been abandoned.

Twenty-two words, flashed over telegraph wires to the executive mansion at Springfield, accomplished what all else had failed to do.

"Delay the hanging of my brother, Russell Scott," this mystery message read. "I am the man who shot Joseph Maurer.

(Signed) ROBERT SCOTT."

Those were the 22 words. The message may have been faked by some one in Detroit, from where it was sent.

Commercial Failures Show Increase, Dun Reports

New York.—Failures in the United States were somewhat more numerous for week ending July 18, reports to R. G. Dun & Co. for the week placing the total at 406. This is in excess of preceding weeks, 371 for the preceding week and 388 for the corresponding week of last year. Of this week's defaults 236 had liabilities of $5,000 or more in each instance, against 217 the corresponding week last year. The increase in number is in the South, the West and on the Pacific coast.

Crude Rubber Sets New High of $1.20

New York.—The rubber market was again extremely strong and for the third successive day rubber prices advanced to new high marks.

Crude was up four cents at $1.20 and other leading grades put on from one cent to five cents.

Washington.—A committee representing American rubber interests laid before Secretary Kellogg a resume of their difficulties as a result of the unprecedented rise in the price of crude rubber.

Chinese Civil War Breaks Out Anew

Peking.—Civil war has broken out in the province of Szechuan, where the government General Yang Sen is attacking rival generals near Chungking. Honan forces have entered the province of Shensi and are advancing on Sianfu.

Noted Phone Chief Dead

San Francisco.—George E. McFarland, sixty-two, chairman of the board of directors and former president of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company died here. He was one of the best known telephone executive in the United States.

U. S. Army Flyer Killed

Honolulu.—Lieut. Landon C. Catlett, Jr., of the United States army air service, was killed in an airplane crash near Fort Kamehameha.

SHEPHERD LOSES IN FIRST FIGHT

Judge Refuses to Admit McClintock $1,000,000 Will to Probate.

Chicago. — Probate Judge Henry Horner ruled, in effect, that William Darling Shepherd is not heir to the $1,000,000 estate of William Nelson McClintock.

The court refused to admit the will to probate. The judge ruled that the will—which figured in the trial of Shepherd on a charge of having killed McClintock with typhoid germs—was presumed to have been obtained by the use of "undue influence" on Shepherd's part. Or, more specifically, that the charge of undue influence had not been disproved. This ruling, barring reversal in higher courts, makes the cousins of McClintock heirs to the $1,000,000.

Attorney Weymouth Kirkland, representing Shepherd, asked an appeal, which was allowed and which will be heard in the Circuit court. The proceedings there will be an attempt on Shepherd's part to convince the court he did not use undue influence in having McClintock sign a will two days after his twenty-first birthday.

If the Circuit court decision affirms Judge Horner's finding, Shepherd will appeal undoubtedly. If the Circuit court decides the will must be admitted to probate, Orville J. Taylor, attorney for the cousins, will appeal, he said. If the Supreme court then rules as Judge Horner did, Shepherd will have no further recourse.

If, on the other hand, the Supreme court decides the will shall be probated, McClintock's cousins will have the opportunity to start new and, perhaps, prolonged litigation.

Even if Shepherd ultimately defeats the cousins he then must face the contest by Miss Isabelle Pope, who was McClintock's fiancee. Attorney John J. Healy addressed the court in her behalf. He referred to her as the "equitable widow." Her claim is for the portion of the estate which would have become hers if Shepherd had not prevented her marriage to McClintock.

Mr. Healy said Miss Pope and the contesting heirs had joined forces against Shepherd.

It was pointed out that the federal and state taxes on the estate will amount to $400,000, leaving only $600,000 for whoever wins in the courts.

Rich Church Deacon Must Pay $10,000 for Slander

Chicago.—Albert R. Leland won a verdict and $10,000 damages when a jury in Judge Hugo Pam's court, after deliberating three hours and five minutes, found Ernest L. Hartig, wealthy deacon of the First Baptist church of Oak Park, guilty of having told Curtis L. Culver these three slanderous statements about his employee:

1. That Leland had once practiced medicine without a license.
2. That he had defrauded a man in Michigan City out of $2,000.
3. That he was the father of an illegitimate child.

Hartig made the statements when working in behalf of Dr. Carl D. Case, his pastor, whom Leland named corespondent in his divorce suit.

Tennessee Judge Bars Experts in Scopes Trial

Dayton, Tenn.—Tennessee has closed the door against science. Fundamentalism has won. There will be appeals to higher courts, but so far as the decision here is concerned the matter is to all intent and purpose settled now.

Tennessee's legislature has decided that evolution and the Bible conflict, and that settles the question, Judge John T. Raulston ruled in barring expert witnesses from the trial of John T. Scopes. However, the scientists are writing their views for presentation to the Appellate court.

No light of science or theology is needed, he declared, where the policy of the state has been clearly stated by the legislature.

Rev. Culp Missing Again; Sister-in-Law Also Gone

South Bend, Ind.—Rev. W. W. Culp, pulpitless preacher, has disappeared again. This time his destination, his deserted family reports, is Mexico, if his $90 holds out. The $90 represents the Culp family funds.

Culp left on the latest of his flights from his wife and nine children on July 8. His departure came the day after Mrs. Cleo Culp of Nappanee, his brother's wife, with whom he eloped to Chicago last spring, visited their home here. Mrs. Culp's whereabouts are not known. She is not here, nor is she in Nappanee.

Woolen Mills to Cut Wages

Lawrence, Mass.—A 10 per cent wage cut will become effective July 27 in the mills of the American Woolen company, employees were informed. The company has four mills in this city and one in Shawsheen village. Similar notice was posted in Arlington mills.

Planes Crash; Three Die

Chalon Sor Saone, France.—Three aviators were killed in a midair collision of two training planes at an aviation school here.

LORD STONEHAVEN

Lord Stonehaven, Sir John Baird of Urie, who has been named governor general of Australia. He was recently raised to the peerage and chose the name of Stonehaven after the seaport town and capital of Kincardine in which his ancestral manor of Urie is situated.

MARKET QUOTATIONS BY U. S. GOVERNMENT

Washington.—For the week ending July 10.—DAIRY PRODUCTS—Closing prices on 92 score butter: New York, 42c; Chicago 42c. Wholesale prices on Wisconsin primary cheese markets July 9: Twins 21; single daisies 21½; double daisies 21¼; young Americas 22⅝; longhorns 21¾; square prints 22½.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES—Virginia Irish cobbler potatoes closed at $5.75@6.50 per barrel; top of $7.25 on the Chicago carlot market. Imperial valley salmon tint canteloupes, $3.00@4.00 per standard 45's. Tom Watson watermelons of 22-30-pound average, from Georgia and Florida, $300.00@600.00 bulk per car. Georgia Hileys and Belles peaches, $2.00@2.50 per six-basket carrier and bushel basket. Elbertas, $2.00@3.25 in city markets.

GRAIN—Quoted July 10: No. 1 dark northern wheat: Minneapolis, $1.50½@1.67½. No. 1 red winter wheat, Chicago, $1.61½. No. 2 red winter wheat, St. Louis, $1.55@1.59; Kansas City, $1.54. No. 2 hard winter wheat: St. Louis, $1.50; Kansas City, $1.51 @ 1.53. No. 1 hard winter wheat: Chicago, $1.53½. No. 2 mixed corn, Chicago, $1.06½; Kansas City, $1.03. No. 3 mixed corn, Minneapolis, $1.00@1.02. No. 2 yellow corn, Chicago, $1.10@1.11; St. Louis, $1.10; Kansas City, $1.09½@1.11. No. 3 yellow corn, Chicago, $1.09@1.10; Minneapolis, $1.05@1.06. No. 2 white corn, Chicago, $1.08; Kansas City, $1.05. No. 3 white oats: Chicago, 44¼@48c; Minneapolis, 41¾@42¼c; St. Louis, 48@49c; Kansas City, 49c.

HAY—Quoted July 10: No. 1 timothy: Chicago, $23.50. No. 1 alfalfa: Kansas City, $18.25. No. 1 prairie: Chicago, $17.00.

LIVE STOCK—Chicago hog prices closed at $14.20 for top, $13.40@14.10 for bulk. Medium and good beef steers, $8.25@12.50; butcher cows and heifers, $3.85@12.25; feeder steers, $6.00@8.25; light and medium weight veal calves, $11.00@13.00; fat lambs, $13.50@15.75; yearlings, $9.50@@13.50; fat ewes, steady, at $4.50@8.25.

Rainbow Division Gets Chow at Chicago Reunion

Chicago.—Having transacted the business of selecting a new president for the coming year and of choosing the next place of reunion at the morning session, the Rainbow division paid a visit to the stockyards, where there came the surprise of the three-day meeting.

When the "gang" was ushered into one of the big cafeterias in the stockyards the veterans caught one look, and then in a mighty chorus came the single word, "Chow."

There they were served with regular army fare—bully beef hash, mashed spuds, coffee, soup and dessert.

Judging from the acclaim given him, the selection of the new president was one of the most popular in the history of the organization.

For they named Rev. Francis P. Duffy, the "Fighting Priest" from New York.

And they chose his home town as the next meeting place.

"We will get a chance to see that town without being A. W. O. L.," some one shouted when the result was announced.

Pleas of Guilty Bring Fines of $431,000

Chicago.—When four more chair manufacturers entered pleas of guilty before Federal Judge Cliffe, total fines in the so-called "furniture trust" amounted to $431,000. The total fines in the so-called "trust" is the largest amount ever assessed at one time under the Sherman act.

Gen. Pershing Off to Attend Tacna-Arica Conference

Washington.—General Pershing left Washington for South America to attend the first meeting of the Tacna-Arica plebiscite commission, of which he is head.

Chiefs to Meet in Chicago

Indianapolis.—The International Association of Police Chiefs will hold its next convention at Chicago, it was decided at the session here. S. J. Dickson of Toronto, Can., was elected president of the organization.

Files Claim for War Damages

Mexico City.—A claim amounting to $140,650 for damages suffered during the American occupation of Vera Cruz has been filed by the British-owned Vera Cruz Terminal company.

.. Hawkeye .. State News

Interesting Items Gathered From all Parts of Iowa

There are 200,785 motor cars owned by the farmers in Iowa.

Construction work valued at $490,000 has been begun in Indianola since the first of January.

The Newton Y. M. C. A. will send several hundred boys and girls to the "Y" camp at LeGrande this summer.

One hundred twenty acres of land, with practically no improvements, a mile north of Carroll, sold recently at $265 per acre.

Plans have been accepted for a beautiful Masonic temple at Indianola which, it is expected will be completed during the current year.

Construction of a new $75,000 brick school building at Mitchellville to replace the wooden schoolhouse formerly in use, will begin immediately.

Construction projects in Guthrie county are progressing rapidly. Two of the twelve bridges and culverts to be built this year have been completed.

The gasoline tax for the month of July is expected to total approximately $500,000 in view of the total collections in May amounting to 420,216.

An increase of $60,000,000 in valuation of Des Moines real estate in the last ten years is shown in the figures on real estate values in assessor's reports.

Capacity and salary total of the Iowa Packing company plant at Des Moines will be doubled this fall due to remodeling work and new equipment now being installed.

Iowa leads the nation in the production of oats as well as corn. Iowa's output of oats last year was 248,282,000 bushels. The estimated output this year is 196,072,000 bushels.

The Reinbeck Farmers Creamery is now paying out over $3,000 weekly to the farmers for their cream and turning out over 5,000 pounds of butter and a quantity of ice cream.

The speed limit will be increased from 20 miles an hour to 25 miles on Des Moines boulevards, if the city council approves the proposal to be made by the safety commissioner.

Iowa horticulturists say they believe the state should stand forth as one of the greatest fruit-producing sections of the country, and not rest on her laurels as the "land of the tall corn."

Postal receipts in the Des Moines office for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1925, were the largest ever received here and amounted to $2,874,780.42, according to figures just released.

The state department of agriculture believes that Iowa buttermakers stand a good chance of winning the third consecutive banner as national champions in the creamery butter contest.

The farmers of Warren county have organized a vigilance committee for a better police supervision and protection. The new organization is known as the White Oak Protection association.

Prisoners in the Muscatine county jail will be put to labor on the county's roads and public grounds, the board of supervisors has decided. They will be under the supervision of the sheriff.

Twenty-four bloodhound puppies to be trained for running down prisoners who try to escape have arrived at Fort Madison bringing the total number of these dogs at the state prisen up to forty-two.

A national Dog Show, under the sponsorship of the American Kennel Club is to be held in Des Moines Aug. 31st to Sept. 2nd, in conjunction with the Iowa State Fair and National Livestock Show.

A street car strike was avoided at Cedar Rapids when the men accepted the companies offer of a salary increase of 2½ cents an hour effective July 1st. They had asked for 5 cents but compromised.

The meat packing industry is Iowa's leading factory industry, ranked according to value of products turned out. Butter and other food preparations follow, after which come steam railroad car repairs.

Plans for a large swimming pool, costing approximately $40,000, to be constructed in Ashworth park, the tract presented to Des Moines by Charles H. Ashworth, have been presented to the Ashworth park committee for discussion.

Sweet clover continues to be a boon to those fortunate to have it in for pasture. Some farmers report having pastured as high as three or four head per acre all spring. Timothy is short and thin. Most of the alfalfa fields are shorter than usual but fields that have been started for hay will produce a ton or more to the acre. The second crop will be much larger.

Show cattle of all the state hospitals of Iowa have been assembled at Woodward in one herd preparatory to making the annual fall exhibition tour. Formerly a partial exhibit had been prepared at eac hinstitution. A better herd is the object of the new plan

An extensive program of vocational training for the boys at the state industrial school at Eldora is being planned for this fall by the state board of control. Printing, carpentry, shoe making, harness making, tailoring, an/ farming are now being taught.

Frequently She Doesn't

"I am another man since I married." "And does your wife know that other man?"

Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN

Say "Bayer"-Insist

For Colds Headache
Pain Lumbago
Neuralgia Rheumatism

Safe — Accept only Bayer package

which contains proven directions
Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets
Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists
Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

Teacher for Eighty Years

Mrs. Anne Slade of Hastings, England, taught in Sunday school 80 years and at one hundred and two believes she is the oldest living Congregationalist.

Tired, Lame, Achy?

Are you dragging around with a constant backache? Feel weak, worn and achy; so miserable you can't enjoy a moment's comfort? How about your kidneys? Well kidneys filter off body poisons. But when the kidneys slow up, poisons accumulate and upset the system. Backache is apt to follow, with sharp pains, dizziness and annoying kidney irregularities. Don't delay! If you suspect faulty kidney action, use Doan's Pills. Doan's have helped thousands—are recommended the world over. Ask your neighbor!

An Iowa Case

Mrs. John Anderson, 513 3rd Ave., N. E., Independence, Iowa, says: "My kidneys were weak and I had attacks of backache. My work tired me mornings. Headaches were frequent and I felt dizzy and my kidneys acted too often. I used Doan's Pills and my back was soon strengthened and my kidneys didn't trouble me."

DOAN'S PILLS 60c

STIMULANT DIURETIC TO THE KIDNEYS
Foster-Milburn Co., Mfg. Chem., Buffalo, N. Y.

Once there was a song called "Always in the Way." It ought to be applied to a cane.

Sure Relief FOR INDIGESTION

It is as difficult to get a man to admit that he snores as it is to get a woman to admit her age.

Quick Safe Relief

CORNS

In one minute—or less—the pain ends. Dr. Scholl's Zino-pad is the safe, sure, healing treatment for corns At drug and shoe stores

Dr Scholl's Zino-pads

Put one on - the pain is gone

Cuticura Talcum Is Soothing For Baby's Skin

Soap, Ointment, Talcum sold everywhere.

How World Takes Its Vacations

t Age-Old Trail Followed for Centuries in All Climes.

Washington. — When millions of ericans leave for three days, three ks, or three months at the beach The lakes, on the farm or in the ntains, they are hitting an age-old l, says a bulletin of the National ographic society, from its headquar- at Washington.

Lapps of Lapland and the Bakhtiari West Persia take the vacation trail n cool summer climate and it is ed a migration because they have go. The Athenian gentleman went Olympia and called his recreation erval the Olympic games. In China India popular thought satisfies the ation impulse by religious pilgrim- s. Japan and Germany are not yet irely accustomed to pleasure for sure's sake so their sons and daugh- go to health springs, 'bads,' or s, but it is a vacation nevertheless. The Occident alone is intellectly honest in rewarding the human ire for a change of scenes, a change climate and relief from duty.

Ancient Olympic Games.

Olympic games of ancient Greece e probably the first vacation excurs. Before their organization, 800 rs before the birth of Christ, travg was risky. The mountains might ite in summer, but if a man loved e he stayed in his own little kingm though he cooked and boiled and ked in the sun. In Greece, for one nth following the first full moon er June 21, every four years, a genl peace proclamation went out ough the states of Greece permitg contestants and hordes of excurnists to go safely to the beautiful e of Olympia. The Assyrian kings around the vacation problem without leaving Babylon; they built the fas hanging gardens which supplied charms of cool, moist air under rdant foliage.

Rome marked its conquests not th lead plates or flagpoles, but bathuses. Many of the innumerable lth springs of Europe, gathering ces for multitudes to cure disease d to enjoy rest or sport, boast of man origin at the hands of the 'amblan legionnaires.' The site of th in England attracted one of the gest Roman settlements by its fas springs. 'Bad' in German means lth spring and towns with 'bad' be- or after the names are almost as quent as 'Main streets' in America. There is Baden, Austria, the noted watering place of the Viennese—rich and poor. There is Baden, Switzerland, and the principality of Baden, Germany. The latter alone contains the health spring towns, Badenweiler, Antogast, Griesbach, Friersbach, culminating in Baden Baden, thus named in an effort to distinguish it from the other 'bads.' The word 'spa,' for health spring resort has its origin in the Belgium town Spa, once the most famous in Europe.

"The Prince of Wales goes in for outdoor life on a Canadian ranch, and the king of Spain summers at San Sebastian, the Spanish counterpart to Biarritz, whereas Peter the Great of Russia and monarchs of Austria and Sweden soaked in and drank chemically scented water in Spa. King George of England goes to the Riviera for a vacation, but his ancestral namesakes went to the pumphouse of Bath.

"In the hills west of Peking are the ruins of one of the most beautiful summer resorts the world has seen, the summer palace of Manchu emperors. The Jade Fountain, a fine large spring, has been the site of summer palaces for Chinese sovereigns since the Tenth century. But the most beautiful was that built by the poet emperor in 1661. Jesuit priests described to him the beauties of Versailles palace and he wove some of the designs into his own plans. A Jesuit supervised the development of the palace enclosure. Here the emperor took his ease on a royal barge floating on a sapphire lake in the midst of which rose an artificial mountain girded with marble bastions.

Japanese Climb Fuji.

"In reprisal for the torture of captives, the British troops sacked the summer palace, in 1860, burned its buildings to the ground and leveled the pagodas. Today the grass buries broken fragments of grandeur and only some fine bridges and a bronze temple remain as reminders of 'the palace that lost its soul.' Near by the dowager empress later built herself a summer home with $50,000,000 which should have paid for a navy to defend China from Japan. The only boat that China got was the marble barge on the sapphire lake which has a hideous wooden cabin where tourists may now buy lukewarm beer.

"Climbing Fujiyama is the cherished Japanese idea of a vacation. Although the numerous hot springs of the nation attract thousands annually, Mount Fuji is their mecca. Every true Japanese expects to climb it once in his life time. It is sacred to both Shinto and Buddhist believers; to the former it is the beautiful goddess 'causing flowers to bloom brightly,' to the latter it is the folded bud of the sacred Lotus.

Expenses Paid by Lottery.

"The desire to climb the perfect snow-white cone of Fuji has given rise to vacation lotteries throughout Japan. The lucky ticket gives its holder sufficient funds to ascend the supreme altar and salute the sun as it turns the sea of cotton, as the Japanese call the cloud roof, into a fleece of gold. All summer thousands of pilgrims, staves in hand, gowned in heavy clothing for the low temperatures, and wearing straw hats shaped like the cone of Fuji itself, toil up the trail marked yellow against the black volcanic sand by discarded sandals.

"Whether by accident or plan, the most holy time to journey to Mecca coincides with the most delightful season in the desert. Spring in the Arabian desert comes after the winter rains in January and February. Then the waste of sand and rock is cool green for a brief time. Dusty shrubs bearing all appearances of having been years dead, suddenly burst into new green. Brilliant desert flowers blossom into tinted meadows. The wells are full with water that must last another long, dry year. Camels once more acquire fat humps. This is the time when thousands of pilgrims take the long road to Mecca to satisfy religious duty, and though they may not admit it, to satisfy the wanderlust and the human desire to see new beauty.

Salt Water Bathing Lures All.

"Each nation has its Atlantic City. Peruvians go down to Barranca on the Pacific, the French in Algeria go to Tlemcen in the hills back from the Mediterranean, Athens listens to French operettas in Phaleron on the bay where galleys of ancient Athens were sheltered. Egyptians desert the muddy Nile for Ramleh a few miles from Alexandria and on the edge of the delta's fan. Outcast religious sects used to find refuge in the heights of Lebanon mountains of north Palestine. Now the remaining cedar groves offer retreat for vacationists from the hot plains. In India the British annually move their capital to Simla in the hills. The Lido, an island near Venice, is the famous ocean resort of Italy; and the east shore of the Baltic is one vast bathing beach during the brief summer. Mount Omeishan, a sacred peak of China rising high above the Yangtze in Szechewan, yearly attracts thousands of pilgrims and now has an annual summer colony of American missionaries."

Coast Town Opens Novel Mountain Amphitheater

San Bernardino, Cal.—A capacious and probably unique natural amphitheater, distinctive in its setting 7,000 feet above sea level in the wooded heart of the San Bernardino mountains, was opened recently with a musical program novel in itself.

This huge outdoor theater can accommodate 50,000 persons.

Instead of one stage there are many. They are composed of platforms of table-shaped rocks artistically placed by the hand of nature about the large amphitheater. On one, hundreds of feet above the audience, a violinist, standing in the shafts of colored lights blended with the moonbeams through the branches of great trees on the mountainside above him, rendered music from the masters. From another, across a ravine on a precipitous mountainside, a string quartette played softly while choruses sang from half-hidden caverns.

Varicolored lights played about the amphitheater created a queer effect.

Blind Men Skillful at Warning of Air Raids

London.—Interesting details as to how blind men were called in at one phase of the great war to assist in the defense of London were made public recently.

In the early days of the war the only sound locater was, of course, the human ear. Commander Rawlinson, royal navy, then in charge of the scanty air defenses of the city, found the ordinary man's sense of direction by hearing too inaccurate. One day he astonished the unimaginative officers and officials of Whitehall by asking that several detachments of blind men from the various institutions be sent to his headquarters. Their keenness of hearing, it was shown, was of great assistance in locating Zeppelins on their way to London.

Enjoy Winter Sport in Summer

These pretty girls are having a fine time tobogganing, although it is mmer time. They are in Paradise valley, Rainier National park, Washington, here thousands spend delightful vacations.

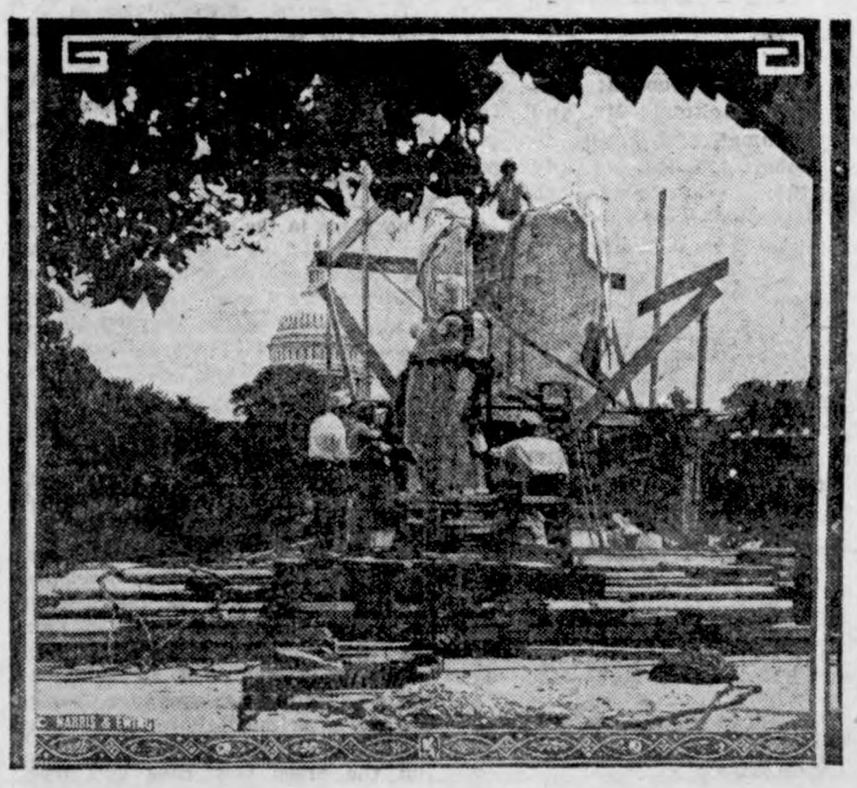
Ready to Combat More Shanghai Rioting

Commander J. P. Olding, United States navy, inspecting a machine gun nest high above Nanking road at Shanghai, China, during the recent rioting of students. One sailor is ready for action with an automatic rifle.

Monkeys Are Favorite Pets of Dayton Girls

A group of society girls of Dayton, Tenn., with the pet monkeys they all carry. Of course, the monkeys are not the real thing, but they are the ruling fad in the town of the evolution case.

Meade Memorial Being Completed



The memorial to Gen. George Gordon Meade, hero of Gettysburg, which has stood 40 per cent completed in the Botanical gardens in Washington for near two years, is being completed. The memorial is being erected by the state of Pennsylvania, but has stood incomplete for lack of funds. Now the state has allowed the $250,000 necessary, and work has again started.

REAL AMERICAN BEAUTY

Miss Floating Cloud of Canada, authentic Indian princess of the Iroquois tribe, who will participate in the national beauty contest for "Miss America, 1925" at the Atlantic City pageant in September. Miss Floating Cloud, though a full-blood Indian maid, is a modern, up-to-date young lady. Her tresses are now bobbed.

TO MARRY RALPH INCE

Lucilla Mendez, dancing beauty and screen actress, who is soon to marry Ralph Ince, screen director. Ince was recently divorced from Lucille Lee Stewart and, when the decree becomes final, will wed Miss Mendez, who is a daughter of the late President Cipriano Castro of Venezuela.

If He Can Smile, So Can You

C. F. McGennegal of Grand Forks, N. D., finds life sweet, though he has no arms. His artificial limbs do the work, as shown above. He was disabled during the World war, and has received many decorations for his gallantry in action.

NDIAN BONES, 1,500 YEARS OLD, FOUND IN NEW YORK mportant Discovery of Algonkian Remains Made by Head of Indian Museum.

Auburn, N. Y.—What is believed to e one of the most important discovries of Algonkian remains ever made n New York state was announced by onald A. Cadzow of the Museum of he American Indian, Heye foundation, ew York city, who has been working n the Finger lakes region for the past wo years.

On Frontenac island, the only island n Kayuga lake, Mr. Cadzow has disovered and quietly explored an Alonkian burial ground 116 feet long by feet wide. The island lies off the illage of Union Springs, Cayuga ounty.

"From a scientific standpoint it ay rival any discovery ever made in he search for Algonkian remains," Mr. Cadzow said. "I roughly estimate the skeletons I found there to be 1,500 years old and of the first period. We found 14 skeletons, all being prone instead of flexed or bent as the Algonkians and Iroquois of later periods. Evidence that the early Algonkians were cannibals is found in the fact that we found broken and burned human bones mixed in a singular way with those of animals."

Mr. Cadzow has been associated with the Heye foundation for a number of years in archeological survey in this region. All of the bones and relics found have been shipped to the museum in New York city.

The finds include, besides many skeletons, stone implements, some of them not identified, one large perforated winged bannerstone made of white limestone, the first to be found in place with a burial site in the middle Atlantic; carved stone objects resembling deer heads; beef incisors, a small notched flint arrow point, several antler flakers, bone arrow points and the bones of swans and other birds.

"In one grave," said Mr. Cadzow, "we found a skeleton in the phalanges of the right hand of which rested a small bone spoon, three inches from which, resting on bedrock were three small beaver teeth, an imperfect barbed bone harpoon point and an antler flaker. Under the left hand was the small perforated, winged bannerstone. Touching the right fibula lay the crushed skull of another adult person, face downward, but no other bones traceable to this individual were found."

The authorities of the village of Union Springs have placed guards on the island and it has been posted against trespassers.

Bertram L. Field of Rutland Vt., owns the egg of an auk, a bird long since extince, which is valued at $1,200. There is said to bi only one other auk's egg in the United States.

SCHOOL COSTS AND LARGER UNITS OF SUPPORT

Schools for rural as well as city children, cost money if they are efficient. The cost is increasing. The increase is not due to extragavence but to better standards, an increasing number of pupils toeducate, and to increased offerings, that is, the introduction of additional subjects into school courses. New responsibilities, formerly assumed by other agencies, are constantly being turned over to the schools. City people generally are better able to meet the cost than are farmers, but good schools are just as necessary for children as for city children. Therefore a way to meet them must be found. One way is that the State itself from State moneys shal l become a larger contributor to schools within its borders, especially to those districts which are too poor in tax valuation to meet increasing costs. In the past ten years as many as 25 states have made some sort of provision of aid from State funds to provide better schools for country children The United States is apparently not he only country which finds it necessary to pool interests on a large scale for the beenfits of the children. Recent reports from Manitoba. Canada, state hat special "provincial grants" are made for the following purposes: 1. Adding to the salary of qualified teachers who continue teaching more than one year in the same one teacher school. 2. Encourage school consolidation. This is done by direct aid to transporting children to consolidated schools. 3. Promoting secondary education for country children by payment of tuition charges from provincial and other public funds. Such payment is allowed for the education of children living in school districts which do not maintain high schools. All of the foregoing have been and are being used in a number of our own states.

ALL ON THE GO

It would be a difficult matter to note the movements of people at the present time, and underake to print their coming and going. Sunday, from early morning until late at night. after midnight, cars were on the go—and the people were on the go; to all points in all directions. Sunday is hardly classed as a "day of rest" with the average owner of an automobile. Some of the wayfarers who were out Sunday "for a bit of recreation," are frank to confess that they would have felt better, had more comfort and genuine pleasure, to have remained under their own shady trees at home," The speed- maniacs, reckless drivers, road hogs and dust makers, take much of the attractiveness away from pleasure going by automobile.

LINCOLN'S ADVICE

Abraham Lincoln's advice on how to live was quite simple. It was: "Do not worry. Eat three square meals a day. Say your prayers. Be courteous to your creditors. Keep your digestion good. Exercise. Go slow and easy."

GOODELL AND VICINITY

Mr. Henry Bachman of Chicago, has been visiting relatives here the past week.

Iris Sherwood went to Iowa Falls Saturday for a short visit with relatives.

Geo. Grosz met with a serious accident while working on a binder, when a piece of steel struck him across the eyeball and made a very serious cut.

Mrs. Allie's sister of Rowan is visiting here this week.

Miss Evelyn Chelsvig who has been working in Des Moines returned home last week.

Fernon Griggs visited at the Clarence Newberger home Sunday.

Mr. Wesenberg and family are enjoying a visite from Mr. and Mrs. Wesenberg of California.

Mrs. Clifford Chase and Miss Eliza Cashman went to Belmond Sunday.

Mrs. Francis Quigley is enjoying a visit from her counsin of Bode.

Maxine Smith of Minnesota is visiting at the Burgess home.

Miss Mary Nolan returned to her home Tuesday.

Arthur Lions is working for J. J. Cook.

Mrs. M. J. Kearney and children and Martin Kearney were Garner callers Friday.

L. W. Wesenberg delivered a binder to George Grosz of Meservey this week.

Eunice Wesenberg is visiting at Dows this week.

The canning clubs will have an all day meeting with Viola andEdna Rust Wednesday.

Dr. and Mrs. George Snearly and Amos and Selman Hanson returned from their Fishing trip this week.

Ava and Billy Sandry of Klemme are staying with their grandfather, Mr. Boose.

Miss Ruth Rust is still in the Hampton Hospital.

The Bachman families and relatives had a family reunion Sunday at the old Bachman homestead; where Fred Bachman now lives. The families present were: Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Griggs and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Bachman, Mr. and Mrs. Lew Remer, of Goodell; Mr. and Mrs. John Bachman, Mr. and Mrs. Mart Bachman and family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rhodes, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rhodes, of Klemme; Mr. and Mrs. Edd Bachman and family of Garner, Mr. Henry Bachman of Chicago and Mr. and Mrs Presley Griggs of Fertile.

Shoes will last longer if kept shined. The oil is removed from the leather by getting the shoes wet and this causes them to dry and crack.

Fine Collection of Books on Far East

On a high hill on the very edge of Tokyo stands the world's finest library on the Far East in languages other than Chinese, Japanese and their kindred tongues. The library building is fireproof, soundless, severe and scientifically arranged, but sadly out of sympathy with the unique and marvelous collection of volumes made by Dr. George Morrison over a period of many years and supplemented now by the purchases of Baron Iwasaki, who offered the institution to students of all climes.

Baron Iwasaki not only placed the library at the disposal of those interestetd in the Far East, building and equipping a home for it at a cost of 1,500,000 yen, or $750,000, but he endowed the institution with 2,000,000 yen, the interest on which is to maintain the library, assist in the promotion of research work on oriental subjects, and purchase additions from time to time. The whole is placed under the control of a board of trustees.

Doctor Morrison's collection includes works on China, Tibet, Mongolia, Manchuria, Kashgaria, Siberia, Korea, Formosa, Japan and the neighbors of China, and a comprehensive set of works on central Asia and the rivalry between Great Britain and Russia on the western frontiers of China. There are books on the subject in more than twenty languages.

Petrified Wood Has Beauty Akin to Gems

The petrified national forest, one of the 29 national monuments established by Presidential proclamation, is the only region of hundreds of places in the Southwest in which silicified wood occurs in such abundance as to deserve the name of a petrified forest. It is located in northern Arizona south of the town of Adamana on the Santa Fe railroad and was designated as a national monument in 1906.

There are three principal groups or forests in which trees or blocks of the petrified wood lie scattered about in profusion. Many tree trunks exceed 100 feet in length and cross sections reveal the fact that these trees, which are cedars, did not grow there, but probably beside an inland sea, and upon falling became water-logged on the bottom at this point. During decomposition the cell structure of the wood was entirely replaced by silica derived from sandstone in the surrounding land.

The state of mineralization in which much of the wood exists almost places it with gems or precious stones. Not only are chalcedony, opals and agates found, but many trees approach the condition of jasper and onyx.

Coach Properly Defined

Now that the coach has become a large factor in motordom, the question is raised as to what is meant by the term. The Society of Automotive Engineers defines it:

"An inclosed single-compartment body, similar in general appearance to the sedan, with two close-coupled cross seats for four passengers. There is a luggage compartment or space for a trunk at the back of the body. There is no glass in the rear quarters. The conventional type has two doors only, the forward seats being divided and the right-hand seat tipping forward to give access to the rear cross-seat. Some models have two doors on the right-hand seat, there being two fixed cross-seats."

American Bulldog

The American bulldog—or pit bulldog, because of the old sport of fighting them in pits—is one of the few breeds of dogs of distinctly American origin, and one of the first developed in this country. It is the product of a crossing of the English bulldog with the bull terrier, the subsequent introduction of an additional strain of English bulldog ancestry giving the American bull its weight and its shorter muzzle and larger head. But the breed now runs very true, and has for many years, and there is not much experimenting with it.

Chance for Experiment

It was between dances. They were sitting in a dim corner.

"You have wonderful eyes," he murmured.

"Yes?" she inquired expectantly.

"They are like stars," he went on.

Her lips brushed his as he murmured: "They are so bright."

His hand fumbled in his pocket and he drew forth a glittering object: "They are so very bright," he repeated. He thrust his watch before her. "See if you can see the time in the dark."

Value of Self-Control

No man whose appetites are his masters can perform his duties with strictness and regularity. He that would be superior to external influences must first become superior to his own passions. When the Roman general, sitting at supper with a plate of turnips before him, was solicited by a large promise to betray his trust, he asked the messengers whether he that could sup on turnips was a man likely to sell his country.

Superstition

"Why did you discontinue your auto trip so soon?"

"Well, you see, my wife is superstitious; and after we had run over 13 people she thought we had better turn back, as it might mean bad luck."

Jig Jog Jags

She— What makes this car go so slow. It just barely moves.

He— Well you see I was speeding around the corner yesterday, and the darned thing turned turtle."

I'll sing a song of a Jewish bootlegger.
The words to it are few.
He-brew, he-brew, he-brew,
He-brew, he-brew, he-brew.

History Prof. What can you tell of the age of Elizabeth

Brown (sleepily)— Shell be nineteen next week.

I did'nt raise my check to be a convict.

"When I get a new book, I always read the appendix first.' '

"Curiosity?"

"No, to get it out of my system."

"You say you were at your last place five years?"

"Yes."

"Why did you leave?' '

"I broke out."

"Say, bo, what's the difference between a pitchfork and a toothpick?'

"Haven't an idea.' '

"Well, I'd hate to have you pick my teeth."

THE MAN WHO CAME BACK—The Prodigal Son.

My dog's so fast that when he runs around a haystack, he has to jump over himself every third lap.

"Hey, waitress, what's the idea I asked for bacon and eggs, and you brought me beans and eggs."

"Ah, that's the cook's fault. She says the beans are bakin'."

I'll crack him on the crown;
I'll crack him on thec rown;
On the phone he calls me up,
And then he calls me down.

HONESTY FIRST

"I think, George." said Mrs. Jones to her husband, "I'll ask the new people next door to have dinner with us to-night."

"Why?" asked the husband.

"Well, the butcher left their meat here by mistake, and it seems only fair."

AND HARRY PAID

George: "Why did Helen break here engagement with Harry?' '

Jack—"He ordered roses sent on her birthday—one for each year; the florist put in ten extra for good measure."

Just why can you call a girl—
A chicken, but not a hen,
A terror but not a fright,
A kitten but not a cat,
A vision but not a sight?

A KINDLY WARNING

They were entertaining a few friends at dinner.

"What do you think of prohibition?" asked one of the men, turning to his host.

"John," warned his wife, who knew his views, "remember there are ladies present."

UNCERTAIN

Mrs. Grobber: Captain, is this ship going up or down?

Captain—Weel, she's a leaky old tub, so I wouldn't be surprised if she'd go down, but her boilers ain't none too good, so she might go up.

"Marry me, I can't live without you!"

"But I refused you only a week ago!"

"Oh, was that you?"

HIS ALIAS

"Well, we fooled the cops all right that time."

"I'll say we did. When they came in, I did like you said."

"Great. You didn't give your own nome, eh?"'

"Not on your life. I gave 'em yours.' '

PREMATURE MORTIFICATION.

A man in a helpless inebriated condition was picked up on a city street recently. It was at the time of a wood alcohol scare, and he was rushed at once to a hospital. A young intern who watched them unloading him from the ambulance suddenly became very excited and dashed away after the house physician. "My God, doctor," he creied "that man is dying. Look, he's black in the face!"

"Of course he is, you infernal fool," said the doctor, "he's a negro."

REASON FOR IT

Father: 'Early in life, my son, adopt the 'early bird' policy and you will suceed.

Sonny— I don't think I better dad. Only yesterday Betty called me a poor worm."

JOLLYING JESS

After Jessie had been at the boarding school a few weeks she began signing here letters home "Jessica." Brother Tom thought he would give her a little dig about it, so he wrote: Dear Jessica, Daddica and Momica have gone to visit Aut Lizzicia. Uncle Samica is talking of buying a new machinica, but doesn't know whether to get a Fordica or a Chevica. The old cowica has had a calfica. I was going to call it Nellicia, but I changed it to Jimica because it was a bullica. Your affectionate brother Tomicia."—Boston Transcript.

ANSWER PLEASE

She— It is the women who pay, and pay; and pay; you know.

He: Then tell me: Why is it that the men are always broke?"

Help During the Busy Season

Frequently one receives checks duirng the busy season which he would like to have placed on his account.

Circumstances may prevent you from calling in person. Simply endorse the checks and mail them to us for deposit. A credit card will be mailed to you promptly.

First National Bank,
KLEMME, IOWA.

The Advantage of Using

Gallon Fruits--

We have just received another large shipment of GALLON FRUITS of all kinds, which we are selling at a price that is a real bargain.

This Fruit is packed in one gallon cans which are "full packed" and filled to the very top with choice ripe-packed fruit.

The advantage of buying gallon fruit is that you can re-can it in your own fruit jars from fruit that was ripe when put in the original cans. Many Klemme housewives now prefere to buy fruit this way for canning.

The Fruit used for gallon canning is packed right from the western orchards and this method gives you choice, ripe, plump fruit with all the ripeness and flavor retained, packed from fresh fruit.

Our stock of gallon fruit is complete in all kinds of fruit and berries. Try a can and be conviced.

G.W. Kluckhohn & Sons

Buy Your Lumber In Klemme

The name NORTHERN has come to insure a standard of quality material, genuine service and strict economy in everything that has to do with building costruction.

Our Service to the Builder

During the past year we have supplied material for many buildings and feel proud that we have had a part in the building our our community. Our desire has been to supply only the material that is best suited for the job. We know by doing that we have helped many to build permanently. Our plans and our suggestions are always available for prospective builders.

It will pay you, in buying anything you may need within the range of building material service, to see us.

Please consider that we are at all times ready and willing to discuss your problems with you without obligating you in the least.

FULL STOCK OF "RED TOP" STEEL POSTS AND IOWA GATES ON HAND

Northern Lumber Co.
"EVERYTHING TO BUILD ANYTHING"

THE KLEMME TIMES

Twenty-ninth Year—Number 47. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, JULY 30. 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

COUNTY ATTORNEY TO HAVE ASSISTANCE OF TWO GOOD LAWYERS IN BANK CASE

Depositors Petition Judge For Special Grand Jury Session to Indict Griesemer and Wenck

As we stated last week Griesemer and Wenck, through their attorneys, waived preliminary hearing, which was set for July 25th before Justice H. L. Suckow. This action on the part of Griesemer and Wenck failed to strike a sympathetic chord in the hearts of heavy losers and other depositors of the State Savings Bank, now closed. The action stirred up a demand for some speedy action to bring the men to justice.

A group of men interested in the case met with the Board of Supervisors to ask their assistance in procuring legal talent to assist County Attorney Grau with the prosecution. The Board were willing to render what assistance they could in the matter and imediately a sum of money was subscribed to start the battle and to aid the county in bearing the expense.

A a result of that meeting two excellent lawyers are secured to aid our county attorney; a petition was signed asking the Judge to call a special session of the Grand Jury to indict Griesemer and Wenck and have them put on trial at the September term of court.

As to the condition of the bank, no statement has been given out. It will perhaps be some time before the Examiner can prepare an accurate statement of the closed bank.

TO THE CREDITORS OF THE STATE SAVINGS BANK OF KLEMME, IOWA

You and each of you are hereby notified that the District Court of Hancock County, Iowa, did on the 7th day of July, A. D., 1925, make an order in the cause entitled L. A. Andrew, Superintendent of Banking of the State of Iowa, v. the State Savings Bank of Klemme, Iowa, ordering that all claims against the State Savings Bank of Klemme, Iowa, based on deposit, checking account deposits, savings deposits and deposits on time and demand certificates, except certificates issued for money borrowed for said bank, as shown by the books of the said State Savings Bank, be allowed as claims of depositors without further proof thereof and that all parties having claims ogainst said bank or any of the funds thereof, including claims for deposits not shown by the books of the bank as stated, shall in order to have such claims allowed as claims against said bank or to participate in the distribution of the assets thereof, file said claims with the examiner in charge of said bank at the bank building in Klemme, Iowa, or with the clerk of the District Court of Hancock County, Iowa, on or before the 15th day of August, 1925, and unless said claims be so filed on or before said date they shall be forever barred as claims against said bank or any of the assets thereof or against the said L. A. Andrew, Superintendent of Banking of Iowa, as receiver thereof.

(Signed) L. A. Andrew, Superintendent of Banking of Iowa, as receiver for the State Savings Bank of Klemme, Iowa.' '

TO THE HOLDERS OF CERTIFICATES OF DEPOSIT OF THE STATE SAVINGS BANK, KLEMME, IOWA:

Holders of certificates of deposit are requested to present them at the bank or notify the examiner in charge, by mail the amounts of such certificates so that they may be verified with the records of the bank. If found correct no further claim will be required.

L. A. Andrew, Superintendent of Banking of Iowa, Receiver.

SHOULD SEED ALFALFA EARLY

Four Days Earlier Seeding Made Difference of One-Half Ton in First Cutting Yield

It pays to seed alfalfa as early in August as the soil and moisture conditions will permit. This has been the experience of those who have secured the greatest success with fall seeding of the crop, according to the findings of W. H. Warner of Iowa State College.

On two fields which Mr. Warner observed, there wsa a difference in yield of one-half ton in the first cutting, tho these fields were the same in soil, were handled in exactly the same manner except that one of them was seeded four days earlier than the other. It was the earlier seeding that gave the high yield.

Altho there was actually only four days difference in the growing period of the two crops, the earlier seeded field had the advantage because it got the benefit of a rain almost immediately after planting while the other field didn't get the rain. As a result the earlier seeded field stood four to five inches taller last fall and was in much better condition to go thru the winter than the later seeding.

The two fields referred to were identical in soils, each limed and each had an application of manure. The only difference ws that one was seeded four days earlier than the other.

In northern Iowa ,Mr. Warner has found that spring seeding of alfalfa is usually most successful. The general practice is to sow with oats. If summer seeding is done it should be in late July or not later than August 1. In central Iowa the latest date for fall seeding is August 10 to 15, Mr. Warner says. In souhern Ioda, alfalfa may be sown any time up to about August 20, with fairly good assurance of success.

Proper preparation of the seedbed for August seeding requires that the ground be plowed four or five inches deep two or three weeks previous to sowing and then thoroly worked down with a disc and harrow. If the ground in lumpy it may be put in shape by a roller or planker. Getting the ground in proper condition may mean the difference between success and failure with the crop, says C. S. Dorchester, crop specialist of Iowa State College.

The seedbed should be solid and free from weeds. The holding of moisture is one of the important points in August seeding of alfalfa.

The crop may be sown broadcast and disced lightly and harrowed in. The seeds should not be covered over three-fourths to on inch deep. About 12 pounds of the Grim or Cas sack seed are required per acre, while 15 to 18 pouds of the South Dakota 12 or common alfalfa shuold be sown to insure a satisfactory stand.

FROM THE HANCOCK DAILY RECORD

Real Estate Transfers

Paul M. Bartin wf t Geo. L. Graslewic. W. D. date 7-20-25, $750.00 lots 4-29-9-36-37, Sunset View to Garner.

E. J. Griggs wf to John N. Omstead, W. D. date 7-21-25, SE¼ 18-97-25.

Trade Names

Veldhouse Grain Co., Kanawha, owner Heiko H. Veldhouse.

Young's Tourist Park Store & Market, Garner, Owner C. E. Young

GARNER BAND TO PLAY HERE NEXT WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Next Wednesday night, Aug. 5th, the Garner Band will play a concert on the streets of Klemme.

Last year the Klemme and Garner bands exchanged concerts and the venture proved a novelty and a treat.

Garner has an excellent band this year and their appearance here will be a treat. Mr. J. J. Poort is their leader.

At a later date the Klemme band will play a return concert at Garner.

When it is all sifted down we will probably find that those Chinese riots were caused by some white man who tried to introduce chop suey into the country.

A FAMILY RE-UNION

Thirty-five Guests At The Panhoff Home Last Sunday

A family re-union was held at the home of Dick Panhoff Sunday, July 26th in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Gerling, of Ireton, Iowa. Of the thirty five guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hess and family, of Waverly, Iowa; Miss Mable Fisher, Britt, Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. John Osterkamp, Klemme; Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Panhoff, Klemme; and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Mickesh, Klemme. After a day of old time reminiscences a delightful luncheon was served. All present voted the day replete of a good time. Mrs. Gerling, Mr. Osterkamp and Mrs. Panhoff are brother and sisters.—Contributed.

IOWA HOG CHOLERA LOSSES IN YEAR $50,000,000

Hog cholera robbed Iowa farmers of 322,488 hogs in the year ending May 1, according to the Blue Valley Creamery Institute. This means that 36 out of each thousand hogs on the farms of this state were sacrificed to this disease, and, at $15, the head, took $4,837,320 out of the pockets of their owners.

Compared to the year before, how ever, the losses from this dreaded disease are considered lower. The number of hogs claimed by this malady for 1923 was 566,900, or at the rate of 58.6 hogs out of each thousand. But with the better show ing this year Iowa has to make progress to catch up with the aver age of the United States which is 30.8 out of the thousand hogs or a total of 1,674,746 for the country. This is a new low record touched last year compared to 40 to 50 per thousand that was considered usual before. In the epidemic of 1914 the death rate reached 106 per thousand with the industry practically wiped out in sections. The total loss sustained the country last year was somewhat about $20,000,000 as com pared to $65,000,000 in one previous single year and the average annual loss for the past forty years of not less thn $30,000,000.

Despite the excellent record of last year Iowa farmers are urged by the institute to take all possible precautions and to be constantly on thealert to prevent infection of their hogs. Greater precaution at the yard and the wide use of serums will tend toward improvement in the future as they were effective last year. Once the disease is discovered in a herd serum treatments should be immediately applied, and the hogs kept on a light diet in sanitary quarters with plentiful supply of pure drinking water on hand. Hogs having a temperature of 104 in ordinary weather should be given an increased dose of the serum. Too, the premises should be rid of all piles. litter and rubbish, wallow holes, old straw stacks out of the reach of the hogs walls, floors and all surfaces should be sprayed with disinfectant and where possible the interior of hog houses exposed to the sunlight. Hogs that do not fully recover should be destroyed for they may be carriers of the infection.

AIR MAIL IS COSTLY

Here's the best one ever put over at the Rockwell City postoffice, according to clerks of many years experience on the local job.

A local man, whose identity is not revealed by the postal clerks, appeared at the parcel post window with n automobile casing, all pumped on the rim and everything. He wanted to mail it by parcel post.

"How much to send this?" asked the man with the tire.

"So much an ounce. Have to weigh it first," replied th elcerk, as he reached for the casing.

"Here,—, wait a minute," yelled the customer. "I've got 65 pounds of air in that tire, and I'm not going to pay postage on all that."

He took the tire to corner of the lobby, let out the air and returned with the deflated casing to the window.

"There, now how much?" he asked, learned the amount, paid the postage and left. well satisfied that he had saved himself some real money.—Rockwell City Advocate.

NO BUS LINE THROUGH KLEMME

Interurban Withdraws Petition for Line to Mason City

The secretary of the board of railroad commissioners has sent out notice that the application of the Fort Dodge-Des Moines and Southern railway for a permit to operate a bus line between Fort Dodge and Mason City has been withdrawn.

The line would have run through Eagle Grove, Goldfield, Clarion, Belmond, Klemme and north to Garner and then to Mason City. There was to have been a hearing before the board of railroad commissioners at Fort Dodge last week but since the application has been withdrawn the hearing has been canceled.

No information is available as to the reasons assigned for the withdrawal of the application. The Great Western railroad and the merchants in the towns through which the proposed line would have run, had secured a large number of pettions against the granting of a permit.—Eagle Grove Times.

BEGIN WORK ON DAM AT IOWA FALLS

Iowa Falls, Iowa, July 16. —Work will start next week on the biggest single improvement made in Iowa Falls in many years, controcts havbeen let for the construction of the hydro-electric plant to be built on the Iowa river here by the Central States Electric Company. The contractors are Price and Company, Dayton Ohio, and Weldon Brothers Construction Company of this city.

The big dam will be constructed a short distance up the river from the Illinois Central bridge and will be of the multiple arch design. It will be about 1,700 cubic yards.

The Price Company will start, on the north bank where the power plant which will be 40x60 feet, will be located. The Weldon Company will start on the south bank. It is understood that the dam is to be completed December 1, of this year. The dam will be 20 feet high and will back water nearly to the C and N W Railroad bridge between Iowa Falls and Alden.

Preparatory to this work, the Central Electric Company has been clearing the land that will be overflowed. At present the Weldon Company is building a new cement bridge over Elk run, a branch of the Iowa, and a new road has been graded to take the place of a portion of the old road which will be overflowed.

It is figured the backwater will create a fine water course several miles in length as well as a lake in the west part of the city. The Electric Company will use whatever power the new dam will produce as an auxiliary to the company's large steam plant below the dam.

CHICKEN THIEVES PAY FOR ONE NIGHTS WORK

Probably one of the most unusual incidents in the history of petty thievery around here, happened last Friday night at the Cloyd farm, near Blakesburg, relates the Monroe County News.

Saturday morning when Mrs. Cloyd went out to feed her chickens she found that she had had visitors the night before and when they left they took her whole chicken family with them. Upon entering the chicken house, plenty of feathers were in evidence but not a chick was to be found. As she was walking about she stumbled over something which turned out to be two pocket books, evidently lost by the thieves in their flight. One contained seven hundred dollars and the other three hundred all in currency.

Later that day two men drove up an asked for bailing wire to fix a fender, and when she started to the brn to get some. they went with her as far as the chicken coop and said they would look for some in there. After rummaging excitedly through the chicken house, they jumped in their car and left.

The younger generation seems to have changed the old song to read: "Be it ever so humble there's no place at home."

DISCARD 161 COWS IN JUNE

More Than 16.000 Were Tested for Milk and Butterfat in 53 Asso. ociations Last Month

The process of sorting profitable dairy cows from unprofitable ones proceeded in June in 53 cow testing associations with the result that 161 cows were culled and sold by associations members for beef. A total of 16,350 cows were tested for milk and butterfat in Iowa in the testing associations the past month. They were two associations which did not furnish reports and there are four more associations which are organized and will start within the next two months.

In addition to the cows sold for beef, 99 were sold for dairy purposes the monthly report issued by the Iowa State College extension service shows. There were 1,878 cows that produced more than 40 pounds of butterfat during the month and 589 cows that exceeded 50 pounds. Cream separators owned by association members lost their owners a total of 662.37 because of inefficient operation, the report says. Separators in one association alone lost $59.

The Marshall-Grundy association again led the state for average butterfat production per cow. This ssociation stood at the top in May. The June average for the winning association was 36.4 pounds butterfat for 291 cows. The West Branch association was second in June with an average production of 33.8 lbs. butterfat. Benton county No. 1 and Colesburg were third and fourth, res pectively, with averages of 33.8 and 32.6.

Virgil Cook of the Thornton association had high herd in June. His nine grade and purebred Holsteins produced 1,537 pounds of milk and 52.9 pounds of butterfat each. A. Rowher of the Marshall-Gruny association who had high herd in May was in second place in June. His June herd average was 51 pounds of butterfat and 1.477 pounds of milk. The third and fourth high butterfat herds were owned respectively, by Alagold Farms of McGregor association and Lloyd Brown of the Tama county assocition.

The four highest producing cows in the state each milked more than twice daily. Top cow, owner Chas. Newcomber of the Grinnel-Newton association, a grade Holstein, produced 95,3 pounds butterfat and 2,508 pounds of milk. Roy Appleton of the Strawberry Point association had second high cow, the Cherokee State Hospital, third cow and E. M. Skillen of Butler county association fourth. Production of the three latter in butterfat were 89.5, 85.7 and 85.4.

CULL LIARS FROM LAYERS

Twenty-five percent of the hens on Hancock county farms are not paying their board and should not be carried over for next year's layers This conclusion by the Blue Valley Creamery Institute is based on a summary of reports of hen-culling campal gns in areas where poultry conditions are similar to those prevailing in this county.

It is easier to detect a slacker hen than a poor producing cow , according to the Institute .The poultryman needs but step into the poultry house at night andby feeling of the hen's pelvic bones, convince himself absolutely whether that particular hen is a layer or liar. In an undeveloped pullet these bones are very close together but as she approaches the laying period they gradually spread further apart to permit the egg to pass between the pelvic bones in leaving the body. When laying stops the bones tend to draw closer together. Since an egg measures two to two and one half fingers in width, it is readily seen that the hen with the bones not spread the width of an egg is not laying while those with bones extended are producers. It will be also noticed that the vent of the layer is moist and expanded while the non-layer's vent is small and dry.

This is the best time of year to start going through one's flock to cull out the non-layers and early-molting hens, the Institute states. Hens that stop laying in July and August are generally the poorest layers and it is a mistake to assume that they will lay more eggs this winter because they ceased laying early.

INTERESTING BITS OF LATE NEWS NOTES GATHERED FROM ALL OVER THE STATE

Items We Have Clipped, Stolen And Heard In Our Daily Quest For News Of General Interest

Iowa has two counties with double county seats, Pottawattamie and Lee. In the former, Council Bluffs and Avoca are the seats of justice and in the latter Keokuk and Fort Madison serve the same purpose. Iowa also has two counties with court houses. The former had a court house until a few years ago when it was condemned and torn down. An election has been held twice to vote bonds for a new structure but was defeated both times. Years ago a private party erected a building at Anamosa, Jones county, to be used by the county until such time as the county saw fit to erect a creditabe court house, but failure has resulted both times.

One of the new state laws which became effective this month provides that an automobile driver after passing a car going in the same direction must be at least thirty feet ahead of the other car before taking a position directly in front of it. This law is intended to correct one of the major evils ofcarless driving. Many fatal accidents have been caused by drivers who persist in "cutting in" only a few inches from the car that has been passed Much good will be done if this new law is given sufficient publicity to bring it to the attention of all drivers. But the driver of the car in the rear should not conclude that all the responsibility rests with the other fellow.

Iowa will make a vigorous effort to secure the national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic next year. The last general ossembly appropriates 15000 as the states part of the expense in giving proper entertainment. The bill making the the appropriation does mention Des Moines from which it is to be in ferred that probably Cedar Rapids, or Sioux City might try to prevent Des Moines from drawing the prize. Des Moines will send a strong delegation of over 100 from the Grand Grand Rapids, Michigan, in August where the encampment is to be held this year in the hope of securing the big even for next year. It is understood that Philadephit is a strong contender for the 1926 meeting. That city, being the place of the Sesquni-centennial exposition feels it will be timely to entertain the old veterans at that time.

A perplexing problem has been solved in Des Moines. Automoblies used in funeral processions hereafter will run with headlights turned on, according to an arrangement completed representatives of Des Moines undertaking establishments and Police Inspector Hubbard, in charge of the traffic squad. Funeral directors have complained of motorists cutting through funeral procession, a violation of a city ordinance. In most cases drivers have said they did not know it was a funeral procession With headlights ablaze even throu it be daylight it will be possible to keep a funeral procession intact.

Iowa, the state that is first in per capita wealth, has more telephones for each one hundred of its population than any other state in the union. January 1, 1925, the total number of telephones in the state was over 566,000, an increase of over 300 percent since 1902, and now, with one telephone for every 4.5 persons, it boasts a telephone development more than twice as great as that of any foreign country. There are, in fact, more telephones in Iowa than there are on the entire continents of South America and Africa combined.

Farm is Sold at $200 Per Acre

Lloyd McCuen, who has been farming near Lake City, has purchased the Mrs. M. E. Chapman of 80 acres four miles southwest of Rockwell City. The consideration was $200 an acre, cash, for March settlement The deal was closed by W. T. Thompson & Son.

NAMELESS RIVER

By VINGIE E. ROE

Copyright by the McCall Company
WNU Service.

"CATHREW?"

SYNOPSIS. — Kate Cathrew, "Cattle Kate," owner of the Sky Line ranch, on her way to McKane's store at Cordova, seemingly infuriated by the sight of a girl plowing in the valley below, places a rifle bullet near the horses' feet. The girl takes no notice. Kate goes on to town, where her presence brings on a fight between McKane, the trader, and Sheriff Selwood. Nance Allison, the girl on whom Kate Cathrew had vented her spite, is with her widowed mother and crippled brother Bud farming land taken up by her father, killed a short time before in a mysterious accident. Bud is the victim of a deliberate scheme to maim or kill him. Kate Cathrew wants the farm for pasture land, and is trying to frighten the Allisons into leaving. Big Basford, Sky Line rider, desperately in love with Kate, picks a quarrel with a fellow rider, Rod Stone. Kate, to part them lashes Basford across the face with a quirt. Nance discovers in a cave a fine collie dog, evidently guarding a child. She goes home mystified. Next day Nance returns to the cave with food and makes friends with the dog and the small boy, Sonny. He tells her "Brand" takes care of him and "Dirk," the collie. Selwood is certain Kate Cathrew is the head of a "cattle rustling" gang, with Lawrence Arnold, her partner, who rarely visits the ranch. Minnie Pine, halfbreed at the Sky Line ranch, is in love with Rod Stone. Ranchers complain of cattle-stealing and criticize Sheriff Selwood for his seeming inactivity. Nance, visiting Sonny and Dirk in the cave, meets Brand Fair, Sonny's protector, and promises to keep their secret.

CHAPTER IX

—8—

Golden Magic.

Something had happened to Nance Allison. For the first time in her healthy young life sleep refused to visit her. Even her terrible grief at the death of her father had given way to sleep at last and she had forgotten her tragedy for a blessed time.

But on the night following her interview with the strange man of the canyon she was wide awake till dawn.

She was not uncomfortable. She did not think she was ill. But an odd inner warmth surged all through her, a pleasant fire ran in her veins. She lay in her bed with her hands beneath her head and thought over and over each phase of the day she had spent with Sonny, each incident that had led up to the appearance of Brand Fair. Then, with a peculiar delight, she went over his every word, every movement. She remembered the look of his brown hand on the black horse's bit, the tilt of his hat, the way the chin-strap lay along his lean, dark cheek. She recalled the direct glance of his eyes, the slow smile that creased his lips' corners.

He was like no other man she had ever seen.

There was a sweetness in the tones of his deep voice, a sense of restfulness and strength about him. He seemed to fit in with her dreams of the best things to be had in life—like lace curtains and the rag carpet which was slowly growing in her Mammy's hands.

His name, too—Brand Fair. She liked the sound of it.

And it was Sonny's name. Suddenly she sat bolt upright, staring at the darkness. Fair—Sonny Fair! Could it be that Brand was Sonny's father? For some inexplicable reason a cold hand seemed to clutch her heart, a feeling of disaster to encompass her.

"Now, why," she asked herself slowly, "should that make any difference? Wouldn't he be just as nice—just as pleasant to talk to?"

She sat a long time holding her two braids in her hands, twirling the ends around her fingers, thinking.

Why was she so pleased with this stranger, she wondered?

She had seen many men in her life—there were the cowboys from the Upper country whom she saw at Cordova, nearly every time she went there, there was McKane, and Sheriff Price Selwood.

She liked the sheriff. He was a kindly man under his stern exterior she knew. His eyes were direct, like Fair's somewhat, and he had the same seeming of quiet strength. He had been at the cabin quite a few times after her father's death, asking all sorts of questions about his manner of life, his experience in the hills, and so forth. Yes—Fair was a little like the sheriff, only more so—oh, very much more so—quiet, steady, one whose word you would take without question.

He was different, that was all—different.

He had not always lived in the hills, that was certain. She lay down and tried to sleep, but her eyes would not obey her will. They came open each time she closed them to see this man standing at the jut of stone, his hand on the black's bit—at the pool by the cave below where he bade her good-by—still there when she looked back from far down the canyon.

She heard Old John, the big Plymouth Rock rooster, crow for midnight from his perch in the rafters of the stable—and again at false-dawn a little while before daylight.

"Well, I'd like to know what ails me," she thought to herself as she got up with the first gray shafts above Mystery ridge, "I never stayed awake all night in my life before."

It was indicative of the great good health and strength there was in her that she felt no ill effects from the unusual experience. She brushed her hair and pinned it neatly around her head in a shining coronet, put on a clean denim dress from the clothes-press in the corner, laced up the heavy shoes she had to wear about her man's work, and went softly out to light the kitchen fire, to draw a fresh pail of water and to stand lost in rapt adoration of the pageant of coming day. She washed her face and hands in the basin and came blooming from the cold water, content with her lot, happy to be alive—and to know that Brand and Sonny Fair were in Blue Stone canyon, and that they called themselves her friends.

She had never had a special friend before—not since those far-back little-girl days in Missouri.

"Mammy," she said at breakfast, "I never slept a wink last night. I kept thinking about Sonny and Brand all the time—wondering why they're hiding, and what relation they are, and why they live so hard and poor like. It seems dreadful, don't it?"

"Seems funny, if you ask me," said Bud shortly, "maybe this Brand feller knows something of all this rustling that's been going on up and down Nameless."

Nance laid down her knife and fork and looked at him.

"Of all things, Bud!" she said, "it's not like you to cast the first stone. And you've never seen this man's face, or you wouldn't say that."

"Well, I'm not so sure of it," returned the boy, "I hate to see you take up so with a stranger."

"I trust your feelin' for him, Nance," said Mrs. Allison, "somehow there's somethin' in a woman's heart when she looks into a man's eyes, most times, which sets th' stamp on him for good or bad. Seems like it's seventh sense which th' Almighty gives us woman-kind for a safeguard. I trust it."

"I guess I do, too, Mammy," said Nance, "leastways I felt to trust Brand Fair the first minute I laid eyes on him. He's different."

Mrs. Allison said no more, but she was thinking back over the long years to that camp-meeting time when she had meant to "frail" the stronger, young John Allison, and how his smiling eyes coaxed her angry heart to peace—a peace which stayed with her always, through hardship and poverty, through many western moves, and which softened now the sorrow of his absence. John Allison had seemed to her "different" also.

For some subconscious reason Nance stayed away from the canyon for several days. She busied herself with odd jobs about the place. She mended the wire fence around the big flat where the wild hay was waving thick, its green floor flowing with sheets of silver where the light winds swept, and gave the harness a thorough oiling.

As she sat in the barn door running the straps back and forth through her hands she cast smiling eyes out at her field of corn.

"It's going to be a big crop, Bud," she said, "there'll be three ears on every stalk and they're mighty strong. We'll pull the suckers next week and cultivate it again in ten days more—and you just watch it grow and wave its green banners."

"It's already waving them," said Bud working beside her, "it sure looks fine."

There was the pride of possession in the two young faces, the quiet joy of satisfaction in simple work well done and its reward.

"I hope," said the girl dreamily, "I hope, Bud, that there'll be enough left over after we pay McKane to get the carpet woven. Mammy's got nearly enough balls already, and we can take it in to Bement in the early fall and go back after it about two weeks later."

Bud's eyes sparkled.

"Gee! But that would be good," he said wistfully, "a regular holiday. I'd like to see a town again."

"One trip I'd go with you and the next we'd make Mammy go. It'd set her up, give her something to think about all winter," planned Nance, "She don't get out like we do."

So they looked ahead to the meager joys of their poor life and were happy.

Two days later Nance again rode Buckskin to the canyon, and this time she went in the afternoon.

The eager gladness of the child, the vociferous welcome of the collie, gave her a feeling of guilt that she had stayed away so long, and she made glowing holiday with her cookies, her songs and her laughter, so that the hours flew on magic wings—and Brand came home before they were even beginning to look for him.

He came upon them silently, as he had done before, and Nance sprang up in confusion.

"How do you always get here so quietly?" she asked, "I never heard a sound."

"Look at Diamond," he replied smilingly, "we always follow the water." A stream leaves no tell-tale tracks. Even Sonny can swim like a fish."

Nance sobered quickly.

A disturbing thought of Bud's remark about rustlers came into her mind—and she thought of those 90 steers of Bossick's driven into Nameless and whisked out of the country. Of course 90 head of cattle couldn't go down the big river indefinitely—but she didn't like the suggestion.

"No," she said, "it don't. That's what the rustlers seem to think."

She looked him square in the eyes, and was satisfied.

There was no consciousness in those smiling depths, not the faintest flicker of a shadow. Whatever mystery might attach to him, this man felt nothing personal in her speech.

And so she sat down again with Sonny in her lap and Brand sat down opposite, and they fell to talking there in the whispering silence, while the late sun gilded the high blade of the rimrock and the cool shadows deepened in the gorge. It was strange fairy-land to Nance, and all the inner country of her spirit shone and sparkled under a fire of stars. She had never felt so before—never known the half-tremulous excitement which filled her now.

When this man spoke she listened avidly, her blue eyes on his face. He seemed the visible embodiment of all she had missed in life, the cities, the open seas, the distant lands and the pleasures. As he sat before her in his worn garments which might have denoted a poverty as great as hers, he seemed rich beyond compare, a potentate of the world. He smoked small brown cigarettes which he made from a little old leather pouch and rolled with the dexterity of long usage, and he buried each stub carefully in the sand.

He was a marvelous person, indeed, and Nance regarded him in a sort of awe.

"I've been in to Cordova a time or two," he said casually, "and have met the sheriff and several others. To them I'm a prospector. There seems to be a lot of unrest in the country."

"It's the rustlers," said Nance, "a lot of cattle have disappeared, and some folks blame the sheriff. I don't. I think he does all he can. It's a great

"Cathrew?" He Said, "Who's She?"

mystery. We lost some ourselves. I've ridden myself down looking for them, and so has my brother, Bud, and we've never found a hoof-mark."

"Strange. Isn't there any one you might suspect in these hills?"

"I've heard that Sheriff Selwood is watching Kate Cathrew, but the others laugh at him."

Fair's eyes narrowed just a fraction of an inch.

"Cathrew?" he said. "Who's she?"

"The woman who owns Sky Line ranch," returned Nance grimly, "and my enemy."

"What? Your enemy? How's that?"

"Simple as two and two. She's a cattle queen—they call her Cattle Kate Cathrew—and she runs her stock on the slopes of Mystery. She's rich—lives in a wonderful house up under the edge of Rainbow cliff, and rides a beautiful horse. Her saddle alone is worth my team and harness—my new harness that I had to buy to take the place of the one that somebody cut to pieces in the night. She wants our land—our great fine flats on Nameless that'd feed her cattle through. She's always wanted it. She tried to scare my father off, and since he was found dead at the foot of Rainbow she's tried to scare us off—Bud and Mammy and I. But we don't scare," she finished bitterly, "not worth a cent."

Brand Fair leaned forward, and this time his eyes had lost their pleasant smile, and had narrowed to slits. The fingers that held his cigarette were tense.

"Tell me," he said, "what does this woman look like? I've heard of her a little, but I've never been able—I've never seen her."

"She's handsome," said Nance frankly, "not large, but pretty-made as you find them. She has black hair and black eyes and a mouth as red as a flower, and she is always frowning. She's a good shot—so good that I'm not much scared when she sends a ball whining over my head as I plow my field."

"Good G—d!" shot out Fair, "does she do that?"

Nance nodded.

"She's done so twice. She's my enemy, I tell you. And so are all her riders. Strange things have happened to us—bitter things. There was the rope in the trail that threw Bud down the gulch—he's never walked straight since. There was the fire that took my last year's hay—and there was the harness. It seems I can't forgive that harness—it set us back in debt to McKane at the store. Bud—Bud—he's out of it. There could be no thought of forgiveness in that. If I was a man—just an ordinary man—"

The girl leaned forward with a doubled fist striking the canyon's floor.

"If I were a man and knew who stretched that rope—I'm deadly afraid I'd kill him."

Fair nodded in understanding.

"I fear that in me," Nance went on earnestly, "that thing which seems to flare and make me hot all over when I think of Bud. I pray against it every night of my life. Mammy says it's feud in my heart—and I say so, too."

For a long time the man studied her face.

"Yes," he said presently, "there's something in you that would fight—but it would take something terrible to break it loose from leash—some cataclysmic emergency."

"Danger," she said quickly, "that's what'd loose it, danger to some one I love, like Bud or Mammy. I know it, and am afraid."

"Why afraid?" asked Fair quietly, "if you had to do it, why fear the necessary issue?"

"Because," she answered solemnly, "the Bible says 'Thou shalt not kill.'"

A certain embarrassment seemed to overtake the man for a moment and he dropped his eyes to his cigarette, turning it over and over in his fingers.

"That's as you look at it, I suppose," he said, "to every person his limits and inhibitions."

"But let's not talk of feuds and killings," said Nance, laughing brightly as she hugged the child and rubbed his tousled head. "What do you think of our country—Nameless river and the Deep Heart hills?"

"Beautiful. Sonny and I have traveled over many a thousand miles in the last two years, and we have yet to see a place more lovely—or lonely."

"And can you hear the voices in the canyon? You have to be still a long time—and then, after a while, they get louder and louder, as if a great concourse of people were talking all at once."

"You have a strange and weird conception, Miss Allison," said Fair, "but I know what you mean. We hear them at night, Sonny and I."

"And that's what I want to speak about, Mr. Fair," said Nance hesitatingly, "I've thought at night about—Sonny—alone—hearing the voices. Have you thought what it might mean to a child?"

The man smoked awhile in silence.

"Yes," he said at last, "I have. But it seems unavoidable. I have no place else to leave him."

"Leave him with me!" she cried, stretching out a hand imploringly, "Oh, leave him with me—please! I'd take such good care of him."

But Brand Fair shook his head.

"It does not seem advisable, much as I appreciate your offer. I cannot tell you how much I do appreciate it—but—I don't want any one to know that I have Sonny—that he is in the country at all."

Nance gazed at him wonderingly.

"I don't understand it," she said slowly, "but you know best. Perhaps it is best that I don't understand."

"Perhaps," said Fair; "but I hope you'll come to see us often—maybe some day you'll take a ride with us up to the head of Blue Stone. I do quite a bit of exploring around and about. Will you come?"

Nance's face flushed with frank pleasure. "Why, I'd love it," she said. "We'll cut up through Little Blue and I'll show you Grey spring and the Circle. Bud and I named them. We found them three years ago."

"Then we'll consider ourselves engaged, eh, Sonny?" smiled Fair. "Engaged to Miss Allison for a long day's ride?"

"And will you bring some more cookies?" asked the boy, lifting eager eyes to his adored.

"Honey," said Nance, kneeling to kiss him good-by, since she was making ready to leave, "Nance'd bring you anything she's got or could get. She'll bring us all a whole big lunch."

"Old-timer," said Fair severely, "I'm ashamed of you. We'll furnish some fish ourselves."

He held out a hand and the girl laid her own in it.

For a little space they stood so, smiling into each other's eyes and neither knew that magic was working among the gathering shadows. They seemed to be old friends, as if they had known each other ages back, and the grip of their hands was a kindly thing, familiar.

Then a sudden confusion took the girl and she drew her fingers quickly away.

"I'll come," she said, "next week—on Tuesday morning—early."

"Good," said Fair, "we'll be all ready."

There's nothing more interesting than a girl who has fallen in love and doesn't know what ails her. What next?

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Sussex Has Rare Kernel

In a piece of pottery discovered in Sussex, England, and thought to date back at least to 700 B. C., there is a kernel of wheat still embedded and in a good state of preservation. The find seems to prove that agriculture was pursued in that part of England at that time and is therefore regarded as historically important.

Eclipses as far back as 1207 B. C. are recorded in ancient documents at Oxford university.

Community Building

Too Little Attention Paid to City Building

The wanton abuse of beauty by Americans in the upbuilding of their cities has created a condition which will take billions of dollars to improve and which cannot be entirely corrected short of razing many cities to the ground, said H. R. Ennis of Kansas City in an address before the general sessions of the National Association of Real Estate Boards in convention at Detroit.

Mr. Ennis last year traveled 50,000 miles about the country as president of the organization and has had an exceptional opportunity to observe conditions in hundreds of cities and towns.

"Go to almost any American city and you will find that beauty has been wantonly disregarded and the rights of property owners, children and citizens generally disregarded. The mind of America has been too much turned to money making and the material side of life; it has ignored the demands of the esthetic.

"Little by little the demands of beauty are making themselves felt and in obedience to them one can, in many cities, see luxurious stores, stately office buildings and residence districts with distinction and charm. But the effect of these improvements is marred by glaring billboards, overhead signs, dirty vacant lots, filthy alleys and dilapidated old shacks.

"No man has a moral right to let idle property be used as a dump for garbage or a hothouse for weeds; no man has a moral right to mar the appearance of a residential district by erecting a house which is entirely out of harmony with all others there; no man has a moral right to make an eyesore of the business district by allowing a prehistoric old firetrap to stand between a dignified bank and a stately office building.

"To those who have viewed America first and then Europe comes the certain knowledge of the necessity of better and wiser city growth, city planning and steady city housekeeping in America. When all our citizens are convinced of these needs we shall have our great art galleries, cathedrals and mellow loveliness which make the American envious of Europe."

Statesman Sees Value of Home Ownership

Encouragement of the extension of private home ownership is a central feature of the housing policy of the present British government, according to an announcement of that policy made recently by Stanley Baldwin, prime minister.

"We want the people to own their homes," the premier said, "and we shall devise every fair means we can to extend the class of occupying owners. We want to see more and not less of private property. We want it more spread.

"It is impossible to exaggerate the value to the citizen, therefore to the state, of a good home. There is nothing so intimate, nothing which so completely reveals the personality. The philosophers themselves, I am advised, justify private property because it is something in the external world which is a material representation of human personality."

Beautify Grounds

Beautifying the home grounds is a problem not unworthy the finest art of the most expert landscape designer. Small places everywhere are becoming more and more charming as the landscape designers meet the demands for better arranged and more pleasing grounds.

The small place, more than the large one, must depend for its individual effectiveness and setting upon the general beauty of its neighborhood, and for that reason, communities should enlist the co-operation of its citizens in planning to beautify all the grounds rather than an individual his own grounds as in the case of large estates.

Grounds Are Important

The interior of the home is subjected to the customary housecleaning and its appearance is a matter depending solely on the taste and neatness of the occupants. The exterior of the house and the maintenance of a well-kept lawn, free from rubbish and unsightly articles of various kinds, and beautified by shrubs and flowers, become a matter of interest to the entire neighborhood, and thus a small but important factor in the general appearance of the entire city. With each square registering 100 per cent in maintaining the appearance of the yards, the city would thus achieve a national reputation as another "Spotless Town."

Birds Faster Than Trains

Wild birds are capable of attaining great speed in flight. There is on record a swallow that traveled at the rate of 106 miles an hour, and a homing pigeon commonly will go more than 60 miles an hour, it is said. Even a pelican has been known to make 50 miles an hour and a wild duck has been credited with 59 miles an hour.

The United States now produces about 96 per cent of the dyes used in this country.

WOMAN SO ILL WASHED DISHES SITTING DOWN

Mrs. Ashcroft's Remarkable Recovery After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Covington, Ky.—"I was so weak and nervous I could hardly do my housework as I could not stand because of the bearing-down pains in my back and abdomen. I sat down most of the time and did what I could do in that way—as washing dishes, etc. One day a book describing Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines was put in my mail-box. I saw how the Vegetable Compound had helped others so I gave it a trial. I had to take about a dozen bottles before I gained my strength but I certainly praise this medicine. Then I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood medicine for poor blood. I was cold all the time. I would be so cold I could hardly sit still and in the palms of my hands there would be drops of sweat. I also used the Sanative Wash and I recommend it also. You may publish this letter and I will gladly answer letters from women and advise my neighbors about these medicines."—Mrs. HARRY ASHCROFT, 632 Beech Avenue, Covington, Kentucky.

ECZEMA

After Others Fail

PETERSON'S OINTMENT

Big Box 60 Cents

The mighty healing power of Peterson's Ointment when eczema or terrible itching of skin and scalp tortures you is known to tens of thousands of people the country over. Often the itching goes overnight.

For pimples, acne, rough and red skin, old sores, ulcers, piles, chafing, sunburn, burning feet and all blemishes and eruptions it is supremely efficient, as any broad-minded druggist will tell you. Peterson Ointment Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Gallant Rebuff

Benny, aged seven, was always mixed up in fist fights with other youngsters of his town. His mother made several futile attempts to get him to stop. Finally, she told him that whenever he felt an inclination to fight it was the devil tempting him, and that he should say: "Get thee behind me, Satan."

A few days later the little boy rushed into the house and said breathlessly: "Mamma, them boys down there tried to get me to fight, but I just said: 'Get from behind me, Satan,' and then ran home to you."—Indianapolis News.

We believe we'd rather a man would say "No" outright than be lukewarm.

Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN

Say "Bayer Aspirin"

INSIST! Unless you see the "Bayer Cross" on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for 24 years.

Safe — Accept only a Bayer package

which contains proven directions

Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets
Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

Elastic Glass

Two Austrian chemists have succeeded after years of patient experimenting in producing elastic glass. It is made of carbomide and formaldehyde, and has all the properties of glass except its hardness. Its inventors call their material "Pollopas."

Sure Relief FOR INDIGESTION

6 BELL-ANS Hot water Sure Relief

BELL-ANS

25¢ AND 75¢ PACKAGES EVERYWHERE

Banish Pimples By Using Cuticura

Soap to Cleanse
Ointment to Heal

Try our new Shaving Stick.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

RADIO FUND IS IN HANDS OF LEGION

Administration of the Roxy-Sun radio fund for disabled veterans of the World war is now in the hands of the American Legion, it was announced at national headquarters of the Legion in Indianapolis. The fund was recently transferred to the Legion by Maurice Judd, representing the New York Sun. It amounts to something over $100,000.

The fund is used to provide radio sets for hospitalized veterans in all parts of the United States. It will, it is hoped, be the nucleus for a permanent endowment, which eventually will make a set available to every veteran in a hospital.

The fund was started by S. L. Rothafel, known to radio fans as "Roxy," of broadcasting fame. While attending a radio show at Washington, D. C., in May, 1924, Mr. Rothakel visited veterans at Walter Reed hospital. He saw an opportunity to bring happiness to them by means of the radio. He enlisted the interest of Mr. Judd in the project.

Returning to New York, Mr. Rothafel interested the Sun in the plan. A fund was started. Other newspapers joined in. Nearly $200,000 was raised. Nearly $125,000 was expended in purchasing equipment. It was finally decided to turn the fund over for further administration to the Legion. A check for the amount was presented to National Adjutant Russell Creviston of the Legion recently.

The fund will be administered through a board of trustees. National Commander James A. Drain of the Legion and National Treasurer Robert H. Tyndall are members of the board. Capt. John H. Craige, aide to the commandant of the United States marine corps, who has taken a very active interest in the fund, is a member. John Oliver Lagorce, editor of the National Geographic Magazine, and the Munsey trust company of Washington are included.

Robert F. Smith, managing editor of the American Legion Weekly, and Marquis James of the staff of the weekly are members of the board. The American Legion Weekly will have a large part in the active control and management of the fund.

DIVA AIDS FUND

"MOTHER" ERNESTINE SCHUMANN-HEINK, world-famous opera singer, has raised her voice in behalf of the American Legion's $5,000,000 endowment fund for the disabled veterans and orphans of the world war. Schumann-Heink is the mother of four sons who served with the American army in the World war and of another son who went down with his U-boat in a German uniform.

While on tour at Philadelphia the great World war mother made a contribution of $500 to the fund.

"I love America," she said, while writing her $500 contribution. "America took me into its arms and gave me everything. I was poor when I came. America was good to me—so good to me. When the war broke out I saw my duty, my opportunity to pay back a little for the goodness America had been to me."

Cussed King Albert and Got Medal for It

Henry Himpe's comrades in the American Legion at Omaha, Neb., refer to him as "the only man who cussed a king and got a medal for it." During the fighting in the trenches the early days of the war, some one tugged at Himpe's shoulder. Not knowing who his mud-bespattered companion was, Himpe peremptorily told him to "get the h—l out of here or I'll shoot you." It was King Albert of Belgium.

A few days later Himpe was called to headquarters and reprimanded for not being more polite to his comrades. That was the first he knew of the man he threatened to shoot was his own king.

King Al later came to look on the incident as a joke and after the war introduced Himpe to the court as "the man who threatened to kill me."

Himpe recently received notice that he was awarded the Belgian war cross with one palm. He is a chauffeur at Omaha.

Idaho City Beautiful

That Idaho Falls, Idaho, may wear the title "The City Beautiful" the local American Legion post recently offered prizes to boys and girls to make the prettiest and best garden. The mayor and council have agreed to donate $50 toward the prizes and to furnish the water for irrigating the lots which are to be planted to trees and flowers by the city's young gardeners.

BOTH PRETTY AND PRACTICAL; FINE KID SHOES IN STYLE

A LITTLE journey in quest of new lingerie is a delight—it is a little journey in quest of new finery and discloses how far underthings and negligees have come in the direction of colorfulness and daintiness. They have reached the end of the trail; for the sheerest of materials and the daintiest of adornments are used in many of these intimate garments. In all of them style and color have become as important as materials and durability and—whatever materials may be—two styles are shown, either tailored or lace-trimmed garments.

One of the New Models.

In silk fabrics crepe de chine maintains its lead, followed by radium, crepe-back satin, silk muslin, fancy weaves and georgette or chiffon—in which the pinnacle of daintiness is reached. The list of cottons is long, beginning with soft, fine batiste and including nainsook, mercerized and fancy weaves, broadcloth, pajama cloth, cotton crepe and fine voile, which last is a worthy rival of chiffon or georgette. As for colors, all pastel shades are represented, but peach, pink, maize and orchid are the favorites. In voile undergarments, two-color combinations are popular and these colors are used with blue or green in light shades. Recently, for sports wear, women have been calling for cotton athletic suits in white, but that is another story.

The main demand is for garments that are both practical and pretty and a candidate for consideration among pajama suits is shown here. It is made of cotton crepe, finished with frills of net, has a slip-on jacket and much pretty style. It is recommended to the traveler or tourist, as crepe is the easiest of fabrics to launder and does not have to be ironed. Cotton broadcloth is another good choice for the pajama suit. Some of the attractive new models are in plain color bordered with a striped pattern, or are made with striped slip-on jackets and plain trousers finished with striped cuffs.

"In silk attire my lady goes"—if she can get it—all around the world. At any rate she will have the sheen of silk, and she can get that in many beautiful fabrics that owe small thanks to the silkworm. This industrious little artisan might work overtime and build himself a cocoon of twice the usual size without keeping up with the demand for his product—for women everywhere have made up their minds to wear silken things—and are wearing them from top to toe and from inside out.

Once upon a time, they say, women were expected to acquire a pair of silk stockings for their wedding and to treasure these ever after—for their funerals. But every one has forgotten that time and now there is none so poor as to go silk stockingless. Shoes must answer the requirements of a taste grown most fastidious and they have done more than keep apace with the trend of styles—they have helped set the pace and are as carefully selected and as important as headwear. Current styles in them are endlessly varied, sufficiently conservative and above all, they are also flattering to the feet.

Clad in a satin-striped crepe or perhaps a rayon material that outrivals the silk fabric, the pretty model pictured here regards her foot covering with deep satisfaction. She is wearing black kid shoes piped in white kid and designed with a new diagonal instep strap. She might have chosen with equal success, the handsome one-strap slippers of black kid, trimmed with white kid, as pictured in the inset, or a plain white kid slipper. But for sheer becomingness, fine style and ease, she has made a good selection which may be worn with any afternoon frock.

There never were more attractive styles within the memory of the oldest fashion reporter than those that will go on record as popular in 1925. This is particularly true of footwear which may be selected to play up to any sort of toilette for any sort of wear. Special shoes are made for sports wear, for street, afternoon and evening, but it is nevertheless not necessary to be extravagant in buying. Styles are not freakish, but conservative, and women of limited incomes are safe in buying graceful, soft-kid pumps in plain designs for general wear.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Newest in Footwear.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

"Why give a thought to that which has been done?
No triumph can from out the past be won;
But in the future there is not a height
Where we from life cannot win delight."

SIMPLE DESSERTS

A dinner is not complete without some form of dessert. For the busy housewife who has all the planning and work to do, the simpler the food served, if wholesomeness is considered, the better. Two or three stuffed dates, stuffed with a marshmallow or a few nuts, rolled in sugar, will make a most acceptable finish to a dinner. They may be prepared and kept in readiness for any emergency.

For the sultry days of midsummer frozen dishes are the most favored. When one has plenty of ice and a good freezer, the process of making a few quarts of ice cream or sherbet is no more exacting than many pies or puddings. A custard pie is a favorite one for the hot weather; made and cooled on ice it is especially delicious.

Coconut Pie.—Line a deep pie plate with pastry and let stand in the ice chest for an hour to become thoroughly chilled. Beat four eggs (three will do), add one-half cupful of sugar, the grated rind of a lemon, two cupfuls of milk, mix well and stir in two cupfuls of coconut, sprinkling well over the top. Bake in a moderate oven one hour.

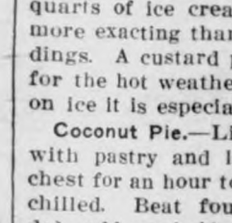
Date Crumbles.—Beat two eggs, add one cupful of sugar, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one tablespoonful of flour, one cupful each of chopped walnuts and dates. Mix all together and spread on two greased pie tins. Bake in a slow oven three-quarters of an hour. Crumble and serve in tall glasses with whipped cream. Sweeten and flavor the cream and stir in the crumbles.

Fruit Cream.—Beat one egg white, one-half glass of jelly and two tablespoonfuls of cream until stiff enough to stand. Serve in sherbet cups with a custard sauce or with cream, whipped or plain.

A layer cake put together with sweetened and flavored whipped cream, the top well covered, is a dessert that most people enjoy.

Salads and Things.

A simple salad which is easily prepared and as well liked, is fresh pineapple cut into fine pieces sprinkled over head lettuce. Serve with a rich mayonnaise.



Apple and Blackberry Jelly.—To a peck of red astrakhan apples add three pints of blackberries. Cook the fruit with as little water as possible. Drain but do not squeeze. Use two-thirds as much sugar as juice and cook until it jells. Cook the juice ten minutes before adding the sugar. If carefully made it will be a beautiful red.

Hot Southern Slaw.—Melt, but do not brown, one tablespoonful of butter, one tablespoonful of lard, and work in two tablespoonfuls of flour, then add chopped or shredded cabbage, salt to taste and one-half to one cupful of cold water. Stir and cook. When the cabbage is cooked, pour over the following dressing: One-half cupful of sour cream, one teaspoonful of sugar and two tablespoonfuls of vinegar; beat until thick, pour over the cabbage and let it just come to the boiling point. Stir and take up immediately.

Peach Marmalade. — Boil twelve pounds of peaches until reduced to a pulp, adding a small amount of water, then put them through a sieve and add a pound of sugar to each pound of fruit. Boil, stirring constantly until thick. Put away in glasses for winter.

Spanish Salad.—To two cupfuls of diced chicken add one cupful of diced cucumber, one cupful of walnut meats, and a cupful of cooked peas. Mix with a boiled dressing and serve on lettuce.

Peas, pickles, green olives, peanuts and a little celery make a good salad combination.

Cherry Pudding.—Take one tablespoonful of butter, one-half cupful of sugar, one beaten egg, two cupfuls each of sour milk and flour, one-half teaspoonful of soda, mix and beat well, then stir in a quart of cherries, pitted; bake for three-quarters of an hour.

Preserved Cherries.—To every pound of Morello cherries allow one pound of sugar. Stone the cherries, cover with the sugar and let stand in a cool place over night. In the morning put over the fire in a preserving kettle and cook slowly without stirring until the fruit is soft and the sirup clear. Skim carefully and put into jars.

Pepper Relish.—Take one dozen each of green and red peppers, fourteen medium-sized onions, one cupful of sugar, two cupfuls of vinegar, one tablespoonful of salt; boil fifteen minutes and can whole hot.

An inventory of all household goods, furnishings, linen, silver, china, canned goods as well as clothing, is invaluable. Keep a list in the safety deposit box; in case of fire it will be found useful.

Nellie Maxwell

The secret of good bread: Yeast Foam

Are your children sturdy?

If your child is delicate, irritable, backward in school, look carefully to the food eaten. Have plenty of good home-made bread. It's wholesome and children love its flavor.

Send for free booklet "The Art of Baking Bread"

Northwestern Yeast Co.
1730 North Ashland Ave.
Chicago, Ill.

Butcher by No Means the Only Profiteer

"Talk about food profiteers!" growled the butcher, as he charged up a two-pound rumpsteak at 60 cents a pound. "Why, I know people whose profit has been from time immemorial 6,000 per cent, and more. Yet you don't jump on them. Why, then, jump on me?

"Take Junck's liver pills, for instance. I know Otto Junck's bookkeeper, and the man tells me that this Junck pill sells wholesale at exactly 6,000 per cent profit.

"Take mineral water—plain soda. You can make and sell plain soda at a profit of 40,000 per cent. And, mind you, no kicks.

"Take false teeth. They used to make false teeth out of ivory, and in those days it was right to charge $100 a set for them. But now false teeth are made of porcelain. They cost 10 cents apiece. Dentist's profit, 76,000 per cent.

"So I could go on. And you ask me if my conscience isn't sore about this 60-cent rumpsteak. Oh!"—Exchange.

Bernhardt's Popularity

In Sarah Bernhardt's "The Art of the Theater," she tells of a farewell performance in New York. "I was 25 minutes getting to the stage door," she writes. "Hundreds of people shook my hand, begging me to return. One lady removed her brooch and fastened it to my mantle. At each step I took I was detained. One lady had the idea of producing her pocketbook and asking me to write my name. The idea spread like lightning. Very young people made me write my name on their cuffs. I was completely exhausted. My arms were loaded with small bouquets. I felt some one behind me pulling my hat. I turned around quickly. A lady with a pair of scissors in her hand was trying to cut a lock of my hair, but she only succeeded in cutting my feather. Detectives had to liberate me."

Air Turbine

In New Jersey meadow tract there is a windmill that rotates on a vertical axis and is known as an air turbine. The blades or sails, made of heavy canvas and brought about automatically, come up to the wind edgewise to the sheet.

The sheets are held to the outside of the frame by metal clips that straighten out and release the sheets in an excessive wind. This allows the sheets to rip or blow away entirely, thus leaving the metal frame intact in every part.

Each tier of blades is termed a unit and is calculated to generate five or six horse-power per unit in a 25-mile wind. A system of automatic brakes is installed to regulate the speed of the machinery.

Rare Showing of Pearls

In a shop in Regent street, London, is being shown a remarkable collection of pearls gathered from fisheries all over the world. There are white Austrian pearls with their silvery sheen, very beautiful, but cold in color, that can be worn triumphantly by the pale blond. The warm magnolia-tinted pearls from Ceylon or the golden and brown pearls found in the depths of the Red sea are ideal for darker women, as are the rare black pearls found only in the Gulf of Mexico by pearl fishers searching for black mother-of pearl.

Worthy Twopence

Amateur Gardener (reading from seedsman's catalogue)—This magnificent plant from a single seed bursts into an avalanche of glorious bloom in June, giving the garden the splendor of a billowy surf-swept coast of miles of great snowdrift emblazoned by the setting sun.

His Wife—Oh, dearest, do let us have a twopenny packet of that!—Edinburgh Weekly Scotsman.

Quintessence of Punctuality

Joseph Taylor, head of the stores department of the Middlesex hospital, London, has been on duty at 5:30 o'clock every morning for 37 years without being tardy, and has worked from 100 to 112 hours a week during that time.

Up to Them

"Do you think they will be any happier now that they are divorced?" asked Jones.

"They will be if they don't marry again," replied Henry Peck.

School Costs Grow

The average per capita of current expenses in city schools where the population is 200,000 or more for the year 1923-24 was greater by $7.28 than that of 1921-22, according to Statistical Circular No. 4, just issued by the Department of the Interior, bureau of education. In cities with a population of from 30,000 to 100,000 an increase of $2.75 in the same item was reported. In cities of from 10,000 to 30,000 the increase was only $0.18.

MONARCH COCOA
QUALITY for 70 years

REID, MURDOCH & Co.
Established 1853
CHICAGO - BOSTON - PITTSBURGH - NEW YORK

Police Autos

Mounted police in outlying parts of St. Louis are going to be replaced by auto police. The city has ordered seven speedy machines, each of which will have two policemen and will replace for four horses and their riders.

An egotist is a man who thinks that the world thinks as much of him as he does himself.

When you greased your car~ was it a hard job? Poor grease clogs the passages. It oxidizes, hardens, and fails to lubricate.

Grease that does not oxidize and harden—Grease that does not cake and clog the passage—Grease that lubricates properly—is MonaMotor Grease.

Stop at the MonaMotor sign and get MonaMotor Grease for the next time. It'll pay you!

Monarch Manufacturing Co.
Council Bluffs, Iowa Toledo, Ohio

MonaMotor
Oils & Greases

Boschee's Syrup for Coughs and Lung Troubles
Successful for 59 years.
30c and 90c bottles—
ALL DRUGGISTS

RESINOL
Soothing and Healing
Aids Poor Complexions

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Removes Dandruff-Stops Hair Falling
Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Wks., Patchogue, N.Y.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c by mail or at Druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

CASH FOR DENTAL GOLD
Platinum, Silver, Diamonds, Magneto Points, False Teeth, Jewelry. Cash by return mail.
HOKE S. & R. CO., OTSEGO, MICH.

LEARN TO PLAY
guitar, mandolin, banjo or ukulele in ten minutes, by our new method. W. D. BOIES, 851 North State Street, CHICAGO, ILL.

BATHE YOUR EYES
Use Dr. Thompson's Eyewater. Buy at your druggist's or 1163 River, Troy, N. Y. Booklet.

GAS SELLING FOR 17½ CENTS IN DES MOINES PRICE WAR

DES MOINES, July 24. — Gasoline in Des Moines was selling at 17½ cents at three of the cut rate srrvice states which larger companies had set their hearts in breaking in a gasoline war which startde Wednesday. One of these stations had reduced its price to the new figure yesterday.

Other cut rate stations are maintaining the price of 18½ cents at which they sold gasoline before the Standard Oil Company announced its two cent reduction.

It is said that the Standard and other of the largest oil companies expect to make another cut within a few days.

The BULL'S EYE

Editor and General Manager
WILL ROGERS

Another "Bull" Durham advertisement by Will Rogers, Ziegfeld Follies and screen star, and leading American humorist. More coming. Watch for them.

The Hero of the War

Ever since the War was over Nations have been arguing over "Who won it." And if the discussion is not stopped we may have to have another War just to decide who won the last one. If we ever do go into another War, have it understood there is to be a Referee, and at the finish he is to announce "Who Won and how much." In the last War we paid Transportation both ways and rental on the grounds, and now all England and France say is, "We didn't get there soon enough." Germany dont seem to ever have uttered any complaint on the lateness of our arrival, so that just shows you, you cant please everybody, even for Humanitys sake. I must bring the word "Bull" Durham in this even if I have to drag it in by the horns. It just struck me, and after careful examination of complaints and statistics, I find that "Bull" Durham was the only thing connected with America during the War that France and England havent been able to criticise. It must be good.

Will Rogers

P.S. There is going to be another piece in this paper soon. Look for it.

SIXTY-FIVE YEARS AGO!

In 1860 a blend of tobacco was born—"Bull" Durham. On quality alone it has won recognition wherever tobacco is known. It still offers the public this—more flavor, more enjoyment and a lot more money left at the end of a week's smoking.

TWO BAGS for 15 cents
100 cigarettes for 5 cents

"BULL" DURHAM

Guaranteed by
The American Tobacco Co.
INCORPORATED
111 Fifth Avenue, New York City

THE ANIMAL IN MAN

We admit frankly that we are not greatly exercised over the proceedings down in Dayton ,Tenn. Not because we are not interested in the origin of man as well as his ultimate destimation, but because the Capital feels that the monkey in the aver ge man is of small consequence compared with his other animal traits.

For instance. there is the individual with an oversupply of mule in his makeup. He obstinately holds his owns views in spite of the overwhelming evidence that he is wrong; he too, is usually an inveterate kicker. Then there is the wolfish creature who attacks his fellow men under the cover of ananymity; cowardly and underhanded when operating alone, but aggressive when surrounded by the pack. One of the most despicable beings of all is the swinish man who always looks out for No. 1 and is pround of it. The various hinds of "hogs" are too well known to need description here. They consider their own welfare par amount to that of the remainder of the world, and they care little that they trample on the rights of others while achieving their own ends. Even in the home "reversion to type" plays havoc. Bearish husbands and catty wives wreck family life and fill the divorce courts.

The Capital firmly believes that when the people who are so industriously attempting to prove that they have no monkey blood in their veins, begin to demonstrate by their daily conduct that they have had past relationship with certain other members of the animal kingdom, the world will take them at their word and will glady accept their contention that their ancestors were creat ed directly by the hand of God.—Des Moines Capital.

Former Klemme Man in Business At Garner

Garner Leader— Adorning the front of the J. J. Becker, there is a new sign which reads: "The Garner Welding Co." F. L. Stockwell is the man in charge and comes to our city from Hutchins. In company with J. J. Becker he will operate the place. Mr. Stockwell is an experienced welder, blacksmith and wood worker, and invited the general public to call upon him. The family of Mr Stockwell, a wife and four children, are domicilied in the Scheusner home across the Milwaukee tracks.

Many Names Bestowed on Species of Duck

A study of the local names of American birds leads one to believe that our citizens delight to invent names for the species in which they take interest. In almost any region names for certain birds can be found that are not used elsewhere. Hence it is possible to collect rather long lists of names for birds that attract popular attention. For instance, 92 local names are known for a single species of wild duck, the ruddy. In this case, as in others, some of the names have a touch of humor or local color that renders their study a pleasure.

The ruddy duck, for instance, gets such appellations as booby, dumb bird and sleepy head, because it is slow to take alarm; and others like hard head, leather breeches and shot pouch, because so often it safely emerges from a perfect rain of shot. It has various derogatory nicknames, among the mildest of which are dinky, blatherskite and fool duck, says Forest and Stream.

Snail's Pace?

"He moves at a snail's pace," is a remark frequently heard, especially when the subject is a youngster going to school or an office-boy who has been sent on an errand.

But even of the slowest of the younger generation the statement is, to say the least, slightly exaggerated. A recent experiment proved that a snail progresses at the rate of one mile in a fortnight.

If you place a snail on a sheet of glass and watch the underside, you will see a series of ripples along the animal's foot. This foot is a network of muscles, and the rippling is produced by these muscles lengthening the foot in front and shortening it behind, which is the snail's mode of progression.

A NEW SIGN FOR FORDS

A driver of an automobile, while trailing a small coupe, noticed very small letters on the spare tire cover. Anxious to know what was being advertised, he drove close enough to read the inscription, which said: 'If you can read this you are too blooming close."

For the first time in her young life Alice saw a cat carrying her kitten by the nape of the neck.

"You ain't fit to be a mother," she cried, "you ain't hardly fit to be a father."

WAYS TO SAY IOWA—WAYS TO SPELL IT

"Ayouvai," Aiaouez," Ayoouias," Aiauway," Aiowias," Aiauez!' These were once the orthodox ways of spelling Iowa; ways that came from the denomination of the Indian tribe who were responsible for naming "Beautiful Land.'

In an article in the July number of "The Iowa Journal of History and Politics." published by the State Historical Society, Frank Luther Mott discusses the pronunciation of the word Iowa. The author made an exhaustive study of dictionary markings of the words from 1845 until the present time, supplemented by a study of the pronunciation of the word by individuals from every section of the state. He discovered that six different pronunciations of the word Iowa have had from time to time more or less acceptance in popular usage. They are: (1). I-oway, (accent in the first syllable) (2) Io-wah, (accent on the second) (3) I-ower, (accent on the first) (4 I-owuh, (accent on first) and (6) I-uhwah (accent on first).

Number one, I-oway. is reasonably close to the pronunciation of the word from which the modern word, Iowa, is derived, and was the prevailing pronunciation during the pioneer period. If the final "y had not been dropped in spelling, there would probably have been no change in pronunciation. Number two, Io-wah, (accent on the second), and number 3 I-ower, (accent of first) had had little currency within the state, but the former is frequently heard in the south and east, while the latter represents the application of a New England dialecal peculariity to the word.

The fourth pronunciation to the word, I-owah (accent of first) declares the author, is the results of purists to correct what seemed to them the false pronunciation I-oway (accent on first). The difference between number five, Iowuh, and number six, Iuhwah, is so slight as to be scarcely noticeable. A study of the pronunciation of the word by fifty students of the University of Iowa hailing from different parts of the state, resulted in 46 uses of I-uhwuh and only four of I-wuh. I-uhwuh is the pronunciation listed as standard in Krapp's "Pronunciation of Standard English in America," and is believed to be the prevailing pronunciation of the word in Iowa today.

HERE'S A NEW ONE IN CAMPING LORE

A tourist passing through Webster City yesterday and who camped over night at Nokomis park, attracted considerable attention with an oven he had built on his engine under the hood of his car. It heats from the exhaust and may be turned on and off in the same manner as a heater. In the party were three—father, mother and child. When they start off, they fill the compartments with meat, vegetables, etc., turn the stove on at the proper time and when meal time arrives, all they have to do is to take the meal out of the oven. They have even baked corn bread in it.

The oven is "timed"' by mileagle, not time. It takes, for instance, 30 files of slow driving to cook a steak. Twenty miles of fast driving will do it. Mr. and Mrs. Daily, of Davenport, and their child composed the party. The oven is Mr. Daily's own invention.—Freeman Journal.

FIELD OF 590 ACRES OF CORN IN KOSSUTH COUNTY

One of the largest corn fields in the state of Iowa, this season worthy of mention, is growing southwest of Wesley. on a farm owned by Julius Kunz, local banker, farmer and real estate man.

This field consists of 580 acres of corn in one tract, and the present outlook for this field is a bumper crop, since it is all tassled out, and is on a tract of level tiled land that two or three years was in virgin prairie.

Mr. Kunz believes that Iowa land is the best investment. He is the owner of many farms in the corn belt, and at this time is still holding from last year over 40000 bushels of corn in good cribs located on hos well improved farms, mostly in Hancock and Kossuth counties.

CHANGES MADE IN AUTOMOBILE LICENSES FOR 1926

The license on one and one and one-half ton trucks has been increased. A 1½ ton truck which requires a license fee of $22.50 now, will be $25 after Dec. 1. Two ton trucks will be $40.00 December 1st, instead of $30.00.

Next year, when the license fee is computed and there is a fraction over, a certain number of dollars the fraction of dollar will not be computed in arriving at the fee.

EMMETSBURG DISASTER FAILS TO MATERIALIZE

That people are still inclined to be supersitious is said to have been proved at Emmetsburg last week. According to stories appearing in Saturday's and also Monday's daily papers, Madam Gracia of Wasihngton D. C., the lady who is supposed to have predicted the late President Harding's nomination, election and death, recently made the prediction that in last Friday night the town of Emmetsburg would be wiped off the map. Editor Branagan, of the Emmesburg Democrat, printed the story, and according to Newspaper reports the town suffeed a loss of business on both Friday and Saturday and quite a number of families saw fit to take their vacations at that time. However, the town is still on the man and nothing out of the ordinary happened there. Following is a part of the story printed by the Democrat last week.

"We might all close our homes and offices next Friday and go to Ringsted to take in the big American Legion celebration so that the loss of life may not be so great as the loss of property. However, if we must stay at home and face the fearful destruction that is in store for us, we should send a day letter or a night message to Madam Gracia asking her to attend our funeral Some one should become our mourner and, since she claims to be divinely favored in foretelling the disaster that is to come to our community she shuld lead in he procession of the obsequies."

"I asked you to send me young lettuce."

"Yes, ma'am. Wasn't it young?

"Young? It's almost old enough to wash and dry itself."

LAND SELLING HIGH

Ireton, Iowa, —Land conditions through this section and in the county are showing up very strong in regard to the renting for the coming season with great demand for the farms to rent.

Many strangers have been in this town the last few days in search of farms to rent, and during that time five quarter sections were rented for $1,500 per quarter for three years each.

Some land in the county is reported to be rented for the next season at $14 per acre.

Grundy Center, Iowa.— Dick Arends has sold his eighty-acre farm northeast of Fern to Pete Arends, whose land adjoins, for $237, cash, per acre. The improvements on this tract are small.

Sac City , Iowa, That Sac county land is on the upward trend is shown by the sale of the Schulte estate near Breda in which an improved farm sold for $310 and two unimproved pieces sold for $295 and $233 respectively. The land lies 2½ miles north of Breda in Sac and Viola townships. William Schulte purchased the improved 121 acres for $310. The improvements were only fair. Max Kutten purchased 40 acres for $285, while John Schulte paid $233 for 20 acres of land that was not entirely tiled uot.

The sale of the J. W. Clancy farm four miles east of Fonda is reported to have been made to P. S. Pfeiffer for $250 per acre. The deal was cash involving $30,000 for the 120 acres.

Threshing Coal

We have coming on the road a carload of genuine

Brazil Block Steam Coal

This is a high grade coal and best for threshing. Give us your order now.

Hard Coal

We are now filling our list for those who want hard coal. Put in your order now, as we are ordering only enough to supply our list. This is a good chestnut size coal priced right.

Klemme Co-Op. Grain Co

We thank you!

Our Harvest Sale Went "Over The Top!"

We want to thank all of our customers and friends for their liberal patronage during our big HARVEST SALE which has just closed. The sale "Went Over The Top" and exceeded our expectations in the volume of business we did during the sale week. We were glad to give our customers the benefit of extremely low prices and we are glad you took advantage of the many bargains offered.

Bargains Every Day

But you do not have to wait for a special sale at this big store to find bargains. Our policy is always to sell Quality Merchandise at the very lowest possible margin of profit so that EVERY DAY IS BARGAIN DAY AT ABRAHAM'S STORE.

Fresh Merchandise

We always have New, Fresh Merchandise on our shelves. When you trade here you can feel assured that what you buy is absolutely NEW. You will find a complete line of fresh, new merchandise in Dry Goods, Men's Women's and Children's Ready To Wear, Shoes for the entire family, and always a nice fresh line of Groceries and Fruit on hand.

BRING YOUR EGGS HERE FOR TOP PRICES

Abraham & Sons

GARNER, IOWA

EMME MARKETS

Thursday, July 30, 1925

	1.45
	.34
ed Corn	.90
Corn	.85
	.85
	.70
ey	(top) 14.25
(cash)	.29
(trade)	.30
y Hens	.18
t Hens	.15
dard Springs	.20
orn No. 2 Springs	.15
	.10
Roosters	.08
	.08
er (creamery)	.45
erfat	.44

Emil Barz and son, Max, returned Saturday from their Dakota trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Al White were at Mason City on business Friday.

R. A. Jorgenson and family were Garner visitors Sunday.

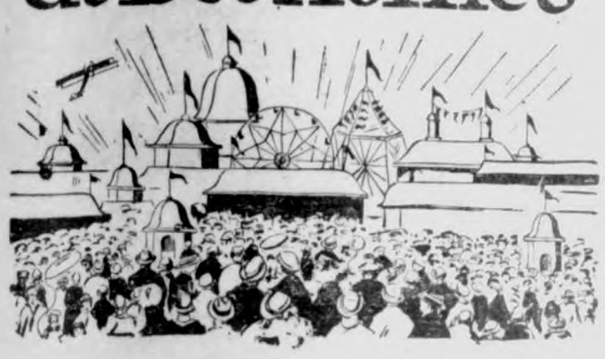
Just recieved a large supply of Motor Oil. E. F. Jacobs. 1tc

Fred Gates, a former Klemme farmer, drove down from Wisconsin last week on matters of business.

Arthur Wellemeyer was at Chicago on business the fore part of the week.

Mrs. T. H. Christensen came from Ringsted Sunday for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Einar Salling.

A World's Fair at Des Moines



Within just a few hours' ride of your own front door this summer will be held the most mammoth live stock and agricultural exposition ever held anywhere in the world.

People are coming clear across the continent to see it. Nearly 40 states will be represented in the multitude of exhibits and displays, in its contests and demonstrations. Will you stay at home and hear others tell about it—or will you see this magnificent exposition for yourself, gather the inspiration it will give you, revel in the pleasures of its brilliant amusements.

Over 500 carloads of exhibits, 7,000 head of purebred livestock, acres upon acres of farm produce, mid-season motor show, 40 acres of farm equipment, continuous programs and demonstrations for women, exhibits by 1,000 junior farmers, world's greatest baby beef show, national team pulling contests, state horseshoe tournament, American Kennel Club dog show, 80 acre Free camp.

Horse races, auto races, six bands, fireworks spectacles, circus and hippodrome thrillers, a dazzling midway, society horse shows, grand opera—continuous amusements day and night.

Come and see this record-breaking show of shows. It will be the biggest and best outing you have ever enjoyed.

Iowa State Fair
and
National Live Stock Show
Aug. 26—Sept. 4

For Threshing Dinners--lunches

We are well prepared to take care of your needs during the busy season of Harvest and Threshing and when planning your dinners and lunches you can feel assured that you will find we carry a full supply of meats especially suited for large dinners:—

Roasts

During harvest we will have plenty of nice tender roasts at all times—Beef Roasts, Pork Roasts and Veal Roasts.

Fine Cheese

A complete line of fresh cheese on hand for lunches:—PIMENTO, 2 kinds of American CREAM, 2 kinds Meadowgrove BRICK, and LIMBLRGER.

OTHER ITEMS for your lunch—Pickles, Olives, Ketchup, etc.

Klemme Meat Market

News of Klemme and Vicinity

The North Iowa Fair begins at Mason City August 14th and ends on the 21st.

Charles Gibbs came from Monticello, Minn., Monday and will work on one of the threshing rings.

Mr. Henry Gauger and daughters, of Floyd, visited with Rev. Gauger and family Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. R. W. Elder is hostess to the Missionary Society this afternoon at her home southeast of town.

Mr. and Mrs. Einar Salling drove to Foyette Sunday for a visit with their son, Adolph. The round trip covered a distance of 280 miles.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ridder and Wes Schuldt and family drove to Fairmont, Minn., Saturday and enjoyed a camping trip over Sunday at Interlaken Park.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Poort enjoyed a Saturday and Sunday visit from her cousin and family of Minneapolis, Minn.

Dr. Bushnell, district superintendent preached the evening sermon at the Methodist church Sunday evening.

Miss Reva Elder went to Clear Lake last week Wednesday and remained until Sunday visiting at the Elmer Fuller home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Waterman entertained Mr. and Mrs. Patton, of Pasadena, Cal., and Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Keraus, Friday evening.

Klemme was well represented at Clear Lake and Bayside Sunday. The round-up and rodeo at the park attracted quite a few.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Jorgenson and son, Buster, and Mrs. Frank Kluckhohn and daughter, Carmen, were Mason City visitors, Friday.

Sad news kids! Only one month left of your summer vacation—gee ain't that the berries tho

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Gerling, of Ireton, Iowa, returned home Tuesday after a visit at the Dick Panhoff home and with other Klemme relatives and friends.

Use Dr. Hess Fly Chaser for spraying Dairy Cows, Horses and all farm stock. Drives away flies and mosquitoes. Full line of sprayers. Wilson's Pharmacy, Klemme, Iowa. 1t

SPECIAL PRICE on Mens, Ladies and Childrens Oxfords, Sandals and Ties. 10 per cent off. F. Gruetzmacher. tfc

Mr. and Mrs. Worthy Usher came Friday from Palo, Iowa, for a few days visit with Mrs. Usher's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Blank, and other Klemme relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Patton, of Pasadena, Cal., who have been visiting Klemme relatives, left Monday for Wisconsin. Sunday the Keraus "tribe" had a farewell picnic for them at East Park, Mason City.

Rev. A. W. Gauger returned Friday from his vacation and fishing trip in Minnesota. He said the fish didn't bite any too fast to suit him. But he reports having had a fine vacation.

About seventy-five Klemme folks took in the moving picture, "The Ten Commandments," at Garner last Friday evening. There were also a large number who saw the show on Thursday evening. It was a picture worth going many miles to see.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lau and two daughters, and Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Johnson and baby, spent Sunday near Britt visiting old friends who formerly lived at Paxton, Illinois, which is Mr. Johnson's and Mrs. Lau's former residence.

Monday Herman Miller began work for the Hostler Coal & Coke Co., of Chicago, as their salesman for twenty-two counties in northwest Iowa. Herman should be a good man as he has had lots of experience in the coal business.

Mrs. Emma Gibbs, and sons Donald and Frank, and Miss Gladys Wilson drove to Charles City Sunday. Mrs. Gibbs and sons attended a family re-union, and Miss Wilson visited with Photographer Wilson and family.

Use Dr. Hess Fly Chaser for spraying Dairy Cows, Horses and all farm stock. Drives away flies and mosquitoes. Full line of sprayers. Wilson's Pharmacy, Klemme, Iowa. 1t

Threshing is in full swing in this vicinity and most of the threshing rings are well started at this time. Oats is fairly good this year and will run close to forty bushels to the acre in most fields. Some, of course will not be that heavy, while a few may go much better.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Day and son, Dorance, drove to Sioux City last Friday morning for an over Sunday visit with Mr. and Mrs. Donald Nissen. They report having had a fine trip. John says the crops need rain in the western part of the state and that the corn looks much better in this vicinity.

NOTICE TO CUT WEEDS

All weeds must be cut or otherwise destroyed around your property before August 1st. Weeds not cut by that date will be cut ond the expense charged against the lot. F. Gruetzmacher, Mayor. 2w

Milvern Barz enjoyed a birthday party Saturday afternoon and a number of his little boy and girl friends came to his home to help celebrate his sixth birthday. After having a good time playing all were served nice refreshments. Milvern received some fine presents from his little friends.

Mrs. Ed. G. Ell and daughter, Miss Arlene, and Mrs. Nick Rhodes, of Mankato, and Mr. M. Palmby, of Vernon Center, Minn., came Friday in their car for an over Sunday visit with Klemme relatives and friends. All returned to their homes Monday, except Arlene, who remained for a longer visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Trumbell and Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Jacobs drove to Conrad, Iowa, Sunday for a visit with Dr. an Mrs. J. L. Hesselhuus. They report that these former Klemme people like their new location fine and that Dr. Hesselhuus has a good dental practice there.

A. D. Gimer and family drove to Abbott Saturday for an over Sunday visit with relatives. They were accompanied by Grandpa Gimer and Grandma Fouts. The former will stay at Abbott, and Grandma Fouts went to Eldora. Miss Blanche Gimer remained at Abbott for a longer visit.

MAY PUT ON GAS CARS

It is rumored that the Northwestern will serve the Fox Lake branch with the new gasoline propelled cars that have been tried out on other branches of the road and that they will make two trips a day between Fox Lake and Burt. If they do this the Fox Lake line will have the best service that has ever been given on this line. Good connections would be given at Burt with th regulor passenger trains runing from Elmore south and north.

CONTROLLING BARN DANCES

Barn dances and platform dances in rural communities in many sections of Iowa have become so undesirable as to prompt concerted action on the part of rural authorities. In Blackhawk county 40 township trustees met with the sheriff and county attorney in Waterloo and adopted the following rules: All dances outside of any incorporated town or city must be operated under permits calling for a license fee. The trustees of each township are to fix the amount of the fee. They are authorzed to refuse to issue permits if they feel circumstances so warrant, and managers of dances who fail to secure permits are subject to a fine of $25. The following resolutions were adopted: "That the said dances will be carried in in a lawful manner no immoral or illegal conduct will be permitted on the premises. That no automobile or car will be permited to park upon the highway, but will be required to be within the premises. That the license will maintain at least two reputable persons, one man and woman, to police the grounds at the pavilion at his expense. That no dancing or other amusements will be permitted upon the Sabboth. That the trustees reserve the right to inspect the ground and premises at any time they may see fit, either in person or by a delegated agent to make such inspection by the trustees. That no dancing or other amusements will be had upon the grounds after 1 a. m.

GOODELL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Griggs and family were to Mason City to visit Mrs. Griggs' brother, Geo. Grosz, who is at the Mercy Hospital, Thursday. He is somewhat better at this writing.

The W. L. Sherwood and J. J. Cook families and Mr. Griggs enjoyed a picnic dinner at East Lake Sunday.

Elsie Knoll and Jake Dorenkamp visited at the Griggs home Sunday.

The Avery Township Farm Bureau meeting met at the Avery Center school house. Monday night. A good program was given and ice cream and cake were served.

The Canning clubs of Twin Lake and Avery townships will meet with Lela Griggs Thursday.

Celia and Margaret Rumblefinger of Applington visited at the home of their cousin Mrs. M. P. Kearney, Wednesday.

Henry Bachman, Mrs. Geo. Griggs and children took dinner at Ventura Thursday.

Fernon and Mae Griggs and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Newberger visited in Mason City, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Allie are the parents of a baby boy born last Monday.

Henry Bachman returned to his home in Chicago Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bachman and daughter Mary returned home with him.

Mr. and Mrs. Len Wilson and family and Earl and Norva Finn enjoyed a picnic at Clear Lake Sunday.

Newton McCall and daughter Carolyn and Grandfather McCall were visiting at the Jay Griggs home Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Prelipp and family of Meservey visited at the Paul Kemp home Sunday.

The Misses Dorothy Lackore, Edoth Halfpop and Ester Harberts spent the week end at their respective home. Mrs. Orr of Cedar Falls spent the week-end at the Lackore home.

Martin Kearney returned from Williams Sunday where he has been visiting for some time.

The All Day club meeting at the Rust home was well attended. A demonstrator from Ames was present at the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs Joe Houghton and Junior of Kanawha visited at the Houghton home in Goodell this week

Georgine Gosnold of Fort Dodge is staying with her grandparents Lamers this week.

Dr. Bemis of Garner was a professional caller in our city one day the past week.

Dr. R. W. Specht
—Dentist—

Office Over Whitehead's Store

Office Phone No. 106

Garner Iowa

A FEW CAUSES OF

Oil Pumping
AND COMPRESSION LEAKAGE

1. Worn or out or round cylinders.
2. Scored cylinders or pistons.
3. Warped or worn ring grooves.
4. Poorly fitted pistons and rings.
5. Piston pin hole out of round.
6. Poorly aligned rod on piston assembly.
7. Sprung connecting rods.
8. Crank shaft warped or out of true.
9. Worn Bearings.
10. Warped or sticky valves.
11. Improper timing.
12. Leaky cylinder head gaskets.

All this cas be repaired at—

PAVEY'S
STORMIZING SHOP

Use Quaker State Oil and Ever-ready Gasoline

Canning Supplies---

This is canning time and we have put in a large, complete stock of everything you may need for Canning and Cold Packing:—

OIL STOVES—If you haven't an Oil Cook Stove now would be a good time to buy one for canning. A full stock on hand in all sizes and styles.

TOLEDO COOKERS—the new and quick way for better canning. Cost less and cans more. Ask us to show you the Toledo Cooker.

.....There are a number of ladies in this community who have been using a Toledo Cooker for several years, and they recommend it highly for canning, cooking, etc.

ACCESSORIES—we have a full line of Large Kettles in enamel or aluminum; Boilers; Fruit Jar cold pack Racks; Fruit Jar Lifters; Jar Tightners; Winchester Stainless Paring Knives; Colenders, Strainers, Fruit Jar Fillers; Stiring Spoons, Ladles; Pans; Food Choppers, Etc.

E. F. Jacobs

The Cash Store

We are prepared to meet your every need during the threshing season. You will find we have on hand a full line of Fresh Groceries and are well supplied with our favorite brand of G. W. C. canned goods, which are sure to please. Try a can of fruit or vegetables for the threshing dinner. You will find the gallon cans of fruits and Berries convenient for Pies.

Saturday Special

FREE A NECKTIE will be give free with every dress shirt purchased at our store Saturday.

Jno. N. Day's Cash Store

"PAY CASH and PAY LESS"

PRESIDENT WILL UPHOLD ANDREWS

Issues Edict That Head of Dry Forces Must Not Be Molested.

Swampscott, Mass.—President Coolidge has given Lincoln C. Andrews, assistant secretary of the treasury, a free hand to organize his prohibition-enforcement forces without political interference and to enforce the Volstead act to the limit of federal jurisdiction.

The President has instructed him to proceed in his own way with the construction of the new enforcement machinery and has informed him that the executive will entertain no appeals from his decisions.

Mr. Coolidge gave the impression that he desires senators, representatives and other politicians to take notice of his attitude. For several weeks he has been pestered with calls, letters, telegrams and telephone messages from Republican leaders, big and little, whose purpose was interference with General Andrews.

Some of these politicians are seeking to save from displacement state prohibition directors and other enforcement officers, including a number whom the Department of Justice has branded as grafters. Others are urging the appointment of certain candidates to the newly created offices of regional administrator ahd are objecting to the selections for these places which General Andrews is reported to have made.

The President has refused to listen to any of these appeals and has made it clear that he holds General Andrews responsible for enforcement of the prohibition law and therefore will tolerate no interference with his measures.

Still Hope to Avert Coal Strike in Britain

London.—Although the Miners' federation had announced a strike of collieries on July 31, the situation appeared more hopeful for a bridging of the chasm of dissension between the miners and the coal mine owners.

Mediation in the situation by W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the admiralty, has been so effective that he persuaded the disputants to meet in conference in an endeavor to smooth out their troubles. In addition Prime Minister Baldwin has agreed to meet a special committee of the Trade Union congress, which has been given full command of the miners' case in the impending struggle.

Georgia Solons Discuss Antilynching Measure

Atlanta, Ga.—An antilynching bill was introduced in the Georgia house of representatives.

The measure provides that any officer found guilty of negligence in a "riot, riotous assembly or mob violence" shall be removed from office and the sheriff of the county involved be subjected to a suit for $5,000 for each homicide by the mob and "for the full value of the property injured or destroyed."

After fees are deducted, the balance of the money would be turned over to the heirs of the victim or victims.

Coal Conference Sure to Be Lengthy One

Atlantic City, N. J.—It has become apparent that conversations between coal miners and operators looking to a new agreement to replace the one expiring August 31 will not end until late in August.

Miners and operators say they are hopeful of reaching an agreement, but impartial observers are of the opinion that the negotiations are pursuing a course similar to the conferences two years ago, when digging of coal was suspended for three weeks before a new contract was arranged.

Textile Workers on Strike in England

London.—On the heels of an order by the miners' executives calling for a strike of the pit men July 31, a textile strike of wide proportions became effective.

One hundred thirty thousand operatives in the woolen industry at Bradford, Huddersfield, Leeds and other Yorkshire towns walked out in protest against wage reductions. A representative of the ministry of labor vainly tried to effect a compromise.

Harry Greb Easily Wins Decision Over Britton

Columbus, Kan.—Harry Greb, middleweight champion, won the decision over Billy Britton of Columbus in their ten-round main bout on a boxing card held here. Greb won by a good margin, outspeeding Britton and scoring the cleaner punches.

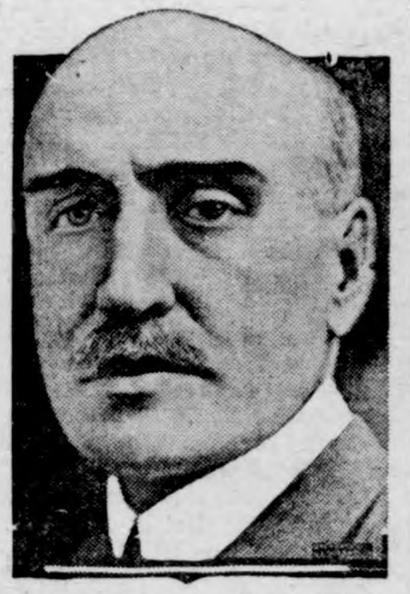
Russian Grain Crops Big

Washington.—Advices received by the Department of Agriculture from the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome say the condition of the grain crops in Russia is better than the average.

Hibernians Elect Officers

Atlantic City, N. J.—Michael J. Delaney of Chicago was elected secretary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians. Michael J. Donohue was elected president.

JOSE SERRATI



Jose Serrati is President of the republic of Uruguay.

JURY FINDS SCOPES GUILTY AS CHARGED

Fined for Violating Tennessee Antievolution Law.

Dayton, Tenn.—Thomas Scopes was found guilty of violating the Tennessee antievolution law. He was fined $100, the minimum possible. His counsel appealed to the Tennessee Supreme court. Its decision will come within 60 days.

Judge Raulston struck from the record the testimony of William J. Bryan. He also refused to permit Bryan to put Clarence Darrow on the stand.

"The issue is so large that individuals and localities are relatively unimportant," Mr. Bryan declared in a statement given out after the verdict. "It dwarfs all other issues now under consideration by the people of the United States and of the world."

The defenders of John Thomas Scopes made expenditures of approximately $25,000.

The actual court costs are estimated at well over $300. The cost of bringing expert witnesses, who were not allowed to testify, from different parts of the country was estimated to approximate between $20,000 and $25,000.

Attorneys on both sides bore their own expenses and served without fees.

Compelled to Give Up Effort to Save Miners

Rockwood, Tenn.—Following a conference between officials of the company, state and federal mine inspectors and the heroic leaders of the rescue parties who had risked their lives repeatedly in the effort to save their mates, it was decided to close Rodgers entry and leave the eight entombed miners to their fate. The fire was spreading rapidly.

Nicaraguans Oppose American Missionaries

Washington.—The lives of three American missionaries, representatives of the Central American mission at Granada, Nicaragua, have been threatened, their residence has been stoned and the mission bombed. The mission, a Protestant institution, only recently opened headquarters in Granada.

Farmers No Longer in Shadow of Bankruptcy

Washington.—Secretary Jardine announced that his eight weeks' western tour had convinced him that farmers are getting out of the "shadow of bankruptcy," and there is a return of confidence.

Secretary Jardine went on to say that it was his belief that there would not be any great demand for farm legislation, as many farmers had told him that things were well enough right now and that it was best to leave well enough alone.

French Have Moroccan Situation Well in Hand

Fez, Morocco.—Information reaching the general staff here states that, having abandoned the rebel tribes to their fate, Abd-el Krim's regulars are in full flight toward the north.

It is asserted that the French concentration of troops, evidently in preparation for a powerful offensive, appears to have alarmed the Riffian shock troops, and that the tribesmen who, under duress, joined the "Red" sultan's colors are prepared to make their submission to the French.

Higher Wage Not Equal to Present Living Cost

Atlantic City, N. J.—That wages granted them during the past years, particularly since 1923, have been substantially exceeded by the cost of living, was a point made here by representatives of the anthracite miners attending the joint wage scale conference with the operators.

American Cigarettes Barred

London.—By invoking an old law forbidding the use of sugar in the preparation of tobacco, Great Britain has effectually barred the use of popular brands of imported American cigarettes.

Pershing Goes to Arica

Panama, Canal Zone.—General Pershing sailed for Arica from here. All the members of the Tacna-Arica plebiscite commission, eleven, sailed with the general.

STILL ANOTHER EVOLUTION SUIT

Whole Question May Go at Once Into Federal Courts.

Washington.—An action which may throw the whole evolution question into the federal courts for judicial determination as to whether the teaching of this scientific theory inculcates disrespect for the Holy Bible was begun here by Loren H. Wittner, a government employee.

The vehicle employed is a rider to the 1925 District of Columbia appropriation bill which provides that "no part of this sum (for the public schools) shall be available for the salary of any superintendent who permits the teaching of or any teacher who teaches disrespect for the Holy Bible."

Immediately on the filing of the proceedings Justice Siddons of the District of Columbia Supreme court ordered the two district officials, Daniel J. Donovan and James R. Lusby, and Mr. White to apear July 28 to show cause why an injunction should not issue against them.

Explaining that the case here differs from that tried at Dayton, Tenn., Attorney B. H. Dolby for Wittner, said the local courts will be asked to interpret the words "disrespect for the Holy Bible," and that this should allow an infinite amount of evidence from scientists, religious liberals, fundamentalists, clergymen and educational leaders.

Shipping Board Wants Law Point Unraveled

Washington. — Doubt has arisen among members of the shipping board as to whether the board may sell for scrapping ships found not to be obsolete or damaged. To remove that doubt, President Coolidge was asked to have the attorney general construe the merchant marine act of 1920, with reference to the sale of ships for scrapping.

Pending receipt of this opinion, the board will defer action on the recommendation of President Palmer of the Fleet corporation, that the board accept the bid of $1,700,000 for 200 ships submitted by the Ford Motor company.

Debt Negotiations to be Begun on August 3

Washington.—Secretary Mellon, chairman of the debt funding commission, will return to Washington August 3 to open negotiations with Belgium. Conferences will be held during August and September with representatives of France, Italy, Czechoslovakia and other nations.

Condemned Man Given Stay of Execution

Chicago.—Judge Joseph B. David of the Superior bench granted an indefinite stay of execution for Russell Scott, condemned to hang for the murder of Joseph Maurer, drug clerk. The jurist granted the stay on the ground that the doomed man had become insane since he was sentenced.

American Citizen Slain by Brigands in China

Harbin, Manchuria.—While assisting the inhabitants of a village near his ranch on the Sungari river to repulse an attack of brigands on July 29, Morgan Palmer, a native of the state of New York, but long a resident of the Far East, was killed.

Prohibition Director Named in True Bill?

Chicago.—Maj. Percy Owen, federal prohibition director, and several of the members of his staff, was reported named in a true bill voted by the federal grand jury that has been investigating the $1,000,000 sacramental wine scandal.

More Eastern Mills to Cut Wage Scales

Lawrence, Mass.—The International Worsted mills, the Selden Worsted mills and the Dove Manufacturing company will reduce wages 10 per cent, following the lead of the American Woolen company, it was announced here.

Miners Will Not Bind Themselves to Peace

Atlantic City, N. J.—Proposals by the anthracite mine operators that the miners bind themselves not to strike if an agreement is not reached during the wage scale conference, pending decision by arbitration upon matters in dispute, was rejected by the miners here during the conference meeting.

Forest Fire Losses Heavy

Washington.—According to reports made public here, forest fires in the United States last year swept over 29,000,000 acres of land and caused a monetary damage estimated at $38,000,000.

Gives Million to Charity

Denver.—Mrs. Verner Z. Reed of Denver has given $1,000,000 to charity in the name of her daughter, Margery Reed Mayo, who died recently, Mrs. Reed's lawyers announced.

MISS HELEN MAYS

Miss Helen Mays of Henderson, Texas, a graduate of Teachers' college, Columbia, has gone to teach children in Armenia how to play. Her task, which will carry her to Alexandropol, Armenia, will be to bring back smiles to the faces of orphan wards of the Near East Relief and to help them get ready to play the game of life.

U. S. GOVERNMENT MARKET QUOTATIONS

Washington.—For the week ending July 17.—FRUITS AND VEGETABLES—Kansas and Missouri cobbler potatoes, $2.50@2.75 sacked per 100 pounds on the Chicago carlot market. Peach prices irregular. Georgia Elbertas mostly $2.25@2.75 per bushel basket and six-basket carrier in consuming centers. Imperial valley salmon tint cantaloupes sold at a general range of $2.25@2.75 per standard 45's; Arizona stock, $2.50@3.25; North Carolina green meats, $1.50@2.00. Georgia Tom Watson watermelons, 22-30-pound average, sold at a range of $300.00@$550.00 bulk per car in terminal markets, top of $675.00 for 30-pound stock in Chicago.

DAIRY PRODUCTS—Closing prices on 92-score butter: New York, 43½c; Chicago, 42½c. Wholesale prices on Wisconsin primary markets July 16: Twins, 21c; single daisies, 21½c; double daisies, 21½c; young Americas, 22½c; longhorns, 22c; square prints, 22¼c.

LIVE STOCK—Chicago hog prices closed at $14.40 for top, $13.10@14.25 for bulk. Medium and good beef steers, $8.00@13.25; butcher cows and heifers, $3.75@12.50; feeder steers, $5.75@8.25. Light and medium weight veal calves, $10.00@12.50. Fat lambs, $13.00@15.25; feeding lambs, $13.00@14.75; yearlings, $10.00@13.50; fat ewes, $5.00@9.00.

GRAIN—Quoted July 17: No. 1 dark northern wheat: Minneapolis, $1.67½@1.84½. No. 2 red winter wheat: Chicago, $1.62¼@1.64; St. Louis, $1.62@1.67; Kansas City, $1.65@1.66. No. 2 hard winter wheat: Chicago, $1.58¼@1.60½; St. Louis, $1.55@1.56½; Kansas City, $1.57@1.63. No. 2 mixed corn: Chicago, $1.08¼; Kansas City, $1.07@1.08. No. 2 yellow corn: Chicago, $1.12½; St. Louis, $1.13; Kansas City, $1.15. No. 3 yellow corn: Chicago, $1.10½@1.11¼. No. 2 white corn: St. Louis, $1.10@1.11; Kansas City, $1.08. No. 3 white corn: Chicago, $1.08. No. 3 white oats: Chicago, 45¾@48c; St. Louis, 47¾c. No. 2 white oats: Kansas City, 49c.

HAY—Quoted July 17: No. 1 timothy: Chicago, $24.00. No. 1 alfalfa: Kansas City, $18.50. No. 1 prairie: Kansas City, $12.25; Chicago, $18.00.

Mellon Still Fights Tax List Publication

Washington.—repeal of publicity provisions of the revenue law will be urged by Secretary Mellon, it is announced.

Notwithstanding compliance with the requirement of the Supreme court authorizing newspaper publication of tax lists, Secretary Mellon, it was stated, has not changed his original opposition to publicity and will do what he can to cause congress to repeal the objectionable provision.

Garment Union Split to Be Nation-Wide

New York.—The fight of three locals of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union against the union's joint board will be carried by the insurgents to Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston meetings. They will attempt to enlist the support of workers of other cities. The expulsion of 77 officers of locals for "Communistic activity" started the internal warfare.

Destructive Flood Follows Cloudburst

Trinidad, Colo.—Trinidad was divided by the roaring waters of the Picket Wire river. Hundreds of lowland homes were flooded, bridges wrecked, railroad tracks washed out and heavy property damage done following a cloudburst here.

France Names Expert for Debt Commission

Paris.—The French government appointed Deputy Henri Franklin-Bouillon chairman of the debt funding commission which will go to Washington.

Joseph Caillaux, finance minister, also intends to go to Washington unless something unforeseen happens.

Brookhart Gains in Count

Washington.—Senator Brookhart of Iowa gained about 300 votes as the net result of the recount in the Steck-Brookhart senatorial contest. In the recount of paper ballots 270 precincts have been disposed of.

Nears Arctic Circle

Washington.—The Bowdoin of the MacMillan Arctic expedition was within an hour's run of the Arctic circle on July 22, a delayed dispatch reaching here stated.

.. Hawkeye .. State News

Interesting Items Gathered From all Parts of Iowa

Construction work amounting to $500,000 is being done in Iowa City by the Bell Telephone company.

The new $50,000 community memorial building at Malvern will be dedicated sometime in September.

Carroll has a population of 4,403, an increase of 149 over the 1920 census, according to recent census takers.

A swimming pool in the summer and a skating rink in the winter is being planned by Indianola American Legion post.

Sheriff Percy Lainson holds warrants for the arrest of thirteen men, who are wanted at Council Bluffs on charges of wife desertion.

Improvement of the channel of the Mississippi river below the Keokuk and Hamilton bridge has been started by the federal government.

A report from the state department of agriculture shows that 166,762 inspections have been made by the department during the year ending June 30th.

A name for the new state park west of Valley Junction will be selected Aug. 14th, when the state board of conservation meets with the state executive council.

A new bulletin reporting 15 years work in soybean culture and varieties has just been published by the Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station and is now available to Iowa farmers.

An ordinance granting the Dubuque Electric company permission to operate motor busses on Dubuque streets to supplement street car service, has been passed by the city council.

Polk county will be asked to raise about $25,000 of the $225,000 quota for the child welfare fund assigned to Iowa. Headquarters for the state have been establish at room 219, Liberty building.

The Attorney General has given an opinion to the state highway commission that the commission has the right to locate, construct, alter or improve a bridge or culvert on a township road.

Two new records have been set by the inspection service of the state department of agriculture, the cost per inspection being decreased and the total number of inspections increased last year.

An oil well, sunk near Hamburg, brings to the surface the first oil ever discovered in this state. Reports from the southwestern section of the state are that great enthusiasm follows the discovery.

Reports from 573 Iowa farmers indicate that the average farm in the state has 64 acres devoted to the raising of corn. These figures have been compiled by the United States department of agriculture.

George E. Hamilton, who wrote the original "Iowa Corn Song" in 1912, has been asked by the curator of the State Historical society, to write the history of the song which has become famous all over the country.

The state board of conservation will make improvements at Oak Grove park near Hawarden, at Storm lake, Wall lake and at Pine lake park, which will give better roads for reaching the parks and more convenient facilities for parking automobiles.

State parks of Iowa furnish $16,000,000 worth of recreation to the people of this state every year, counting the fun in terms of movie tickets," declares Dr. L. H. Pammel of Iowa State college, who has been re-elected chairman of the state board of conservation.

Black Hawk county milk and cream is now going in quantities to the national capital, according to local dealers. An average of twelve cars of sweet cream are shipped monthly to eastern markets from northeastern Iowa.

Frames about pictures of Iowa supreme court judges and others prominent in Iowa's legal history have been constructed from scraps of walnut saved when the old stone capitol, the commonwalth's first state house, was remodeled.

The addition of three sanitary engineers to the staff of the Iowa state department of health to take up the work of investigating sanitary conditions of bathing beaches throughout the state was authorized at the first formal meeting of the new state board of health.

Seventy-five per cent of the harvest hands are traveling by auto this year, according to the field director of harvest labor at Sioux City under the federal employment service. This accounts, he declared, for the fact that workers nowadays do not congregate in the larger towns.

During the college year of 1924-1925, 6,535 students were enrolled at Iowa State Teachers college. Of this number, 5,234 registered at Cedar Falls, while 1,281 were enrolled in the six twelve weeks' extension summer schools conducted by the college at several points in Iowa.

A decrease in the number of arrests for intoxication, gambling, violation of traffic laws and bootlegging and an increase in the number of people killed and injured by automobiles and summons cards issued, is shown in the report of police department of Des Moines for June.

The Home Yeast Contest

The Home Yeast word contest in Iowa has been a great success as to the number and as to the quality of answers received. The office of the Home Yeast Company in Chicago was literally swamped with contest letters. The problem was to find out how many English words could be formed from the letters in Home Yeast. The Company's own record of 82 words was smashed all to pieces. All the winners of the cash prizes had from 139 words and upward. The winner of first prize sent in more than 700 words; but the Company could only recognize 220 of them as real English words in good standing. The winners and the prizes were as follows:

$25—Leila S. Olmstead, Parkersburg.

$15—Rosa Yearian, Tilton.

$5—Mrs. Candace Packard, Bedwick; Janet Tidrick, Mt. Ayr; Mrs. James S. Harris, Avoca; Walter Mcroy, Winterset; Myrtle Abernathy, Kirkville.

$1—Helen Brooker, Winterset; Mrs. D. T. Kosht, Yale; Mrs. Laura Greenam, Bloomfield; Mrs. H. E. Coffin, Adel; Mrs. W. H. Scott, Birmingham; Mrs. R. P. Tool, Monroe; Mrs. Adolph Erickson, Spencer; Mrs. Mae C. McCollam, East Newton; Mrs. B. H. Van Fossen, Adel; Mrs. Elmer Appenzeller, Bouton; Mrs. Clarence L. Seitz, Oskaloosa; Mrs. P. M. Watt, Irvington; Mrs. Ross Smith, Griswold; Miss Edith Murray, Monroe; Laurence Koob, Remsen; Mrs. Alfred P. Shaw, Hastings; Mrs. Will Boren, Knoxville; Mrs. G. J. Struthers, West Bend; Mrs. Frank Schlessen, Maurice; Mrs. Agnes Bloom, Milo; Florence Kinnee, Milo; Mrs. A. R. Desch, Spencer; Mrs. M. J. Donovan, Perry; Mrs. Gus Schurr, Stroban; Mrs. Ora Wert, New Market.

$25 went to Richard Mulder, Parkersburg, as the grocer of the winner of first prize.

$15 went to L. S. Starkey, Spencer, as the grocer who was mentioned by the highest number of answers.

Home Yeast is recognized as the most powerful and the fastest raising dry yeast on the market. Our booklet of recipes tells how to bake bread with Home Yeast in less than three hours from start to finish and avoid souring of dough in summer time. We shall gladly send the booklet and a free sample of Home Yeast to any housewife who writes to us and gives her grocer's name.

Dealers are invited to write for our amazingly interesting proposition for the next three months. Home Yeast Company, 2712 Montrose Avenue, Chicago, Ill.—Advertisement.

Reverted to Old Breakfast Standby

Three cattlemen from near Dodge City, Kan., each shipped a car of cattle to the Kansas City market by the same freight.

Arriving safely and unloading at the stock yard, they bet on the weight of the cattle, the loser being elected to set up a $5 apiece breakfast.

They registered at the Blossom house, this episode occurring in the days when that hostelry was in its prime.

The next morning, the breakfast hour arriving, the trio duly assembled.

The loser of the bet signaled for each man to give his order. The meal being consulted, after some deliberation each winner said: "You do the ordering." More menu consultation. More discussion brought them no nearer a final decision than at first. In desperation the host turned to the waitress, saying, "Miss, please bring these gentlemen $5 worth of ham and eggs apiece."—Judge.

Comfort Dictated Choice

The naming of Portsmouth, N. H., by President Roosevelt as the place where the conference between envoys of Russia and Japan for the framing of a peace treaty should take place was on account of the climatic conditions. The conference took place in the summer and it was judged that less hardship would be entailed through hot weather at this place than some others, which were named.

Clasping Hands in Prayer

Holding out the hands is an attitude naturally and instictively assumed by a weak person begging a favor of a superior. It seems to be one of the primitive instincts of the human race. Clasping the hands in prayer is merely a conventional form of this natural attitude.

A Lady of Distinction

Is recognized by the delicate, fascinating influence of the perfume she uses. A bath with Cuticura Soap and hot water to thoroughly cleanse the pores, followed by a dusting with Cuticura Talcum powder usually means a clear, sweet, healthy skin.—Advertisement.

Quite True

Mrs. Roberts—Don't you know that it is bad form to accept expensive gifts from strange men?

Marjorie—Gracious, mother; there could be nothing strange about a man who would give me an expensive gift.

Persian Phone Lines

Telephone linemen may erect lines along any road, on any roof or in the yard of any house, according to government decree in Persia.

From 1880 to the end of 1923, Alaska's mineral production amounted to $517,627,000, of which about $341,000,000 was in gold.

ill for Waste in the Millions ual Loss in Industry Fig- ed at $30,000,000,000 by Federal Expert.

York.—America is a nation of rs. Zeros charge in phalanxes, he statistical army attacks with foot, guns, all at once—air- too—and when less than half en items have been added up, stands an estimated cost of na- waste sufficient to make even weather conscience examine it-thin a few days the experts in s sorts of waste have been hurl- gures a hundred million at a fist- and the totals debited against ica in these random items alone $42,000,000,000 a year. That for waste in industry, and the of colds in the head, and funds icans are said to carry abroad be- they can't get decent cocktails at and the value of things which up though they needn't, and a 's estimate of the social dead the earnings of the gainfully ed.

one called on other experts, the s, quite likely, would go on roll- up indefinitely, till America d out to be owing itself money. are some who figure the loss in smoke that goes up chim- and some the cost of sending freight cars back and forth, and who make long calculations on Dr. Charles W. Eliot's dis- that school children spend six going through books which they read in 46 hours.

How Big Is This Sum?

$42,000,000,000 is ample for the nt, however. An imposing figure what does it mean? Adopt the ical method; thus translated, w of digits and ciphers stands re- as ten times the United States t, or twice the national debt, or one and a half times the in- dness in all America's federal, and municipal obligations. All ctories in the country turn out worth only half as much again r. This partial waste bill repre- an eighth of the country's en- ealth—land, goods in stock, ma- y, everything. We throw away ely these five items half as much as we had altogether a quar- a century ago; they equal the gate national wealth of Italy, the rlands, Switzerland and Peru.

dabbler in indolent wastefulness his head at such a showing. One he sighs, can do so little. Or ly he questions the facts. There to be little hope for him there, er. Take them up, item by item: ustrial wastes cause an annual of $30,000,000,000 in raw mate- nd man power, according to Wil- A. Gately of the Department of erce. He told a business con- on the other day that a survey of industries showed an average of 50 per cent in raw materials an power.

ds in the head cost the country ,000,000 a year in lost working That is the estimate of Dr. n Douglas of New York, given the annual convention of the gological, Rhinological and Oto- l society at Atlantic City. He s 100,000,000 colds annually, each g an average loss of three days, average wage value of $5 a day. n there is the avoidable fire loss. It $400,000,000. The National of Fire Underwriters estimates tal at more than half a billion says three-fourths of it is un- sary.

To Europe for a Drink.

ther $100,000,000 is set down by Association Against the Prohibi- mendment to the dry law. Amer- going abroad for vacations spend 00,000, says the association, and f them go to get a drink. Other ates of the foreign vacation bill run more than twice as high. On ther hand, reasonable vacation diture cannot be called waste, t this item roams outside the of conservative statistics. But s of no great moment; such a amount could easily be replaced y of several others, if one were bound to make up a total of so many billions. Poor ventilation, for instance, is accused of a loss running into millions.

The dry debit seems no more than a worn cent beside the $10,000,000,000 set forth by William E. Knox, president of the American Bankers' association, as waste. That, he says, is the waste of the gainfully employed, and it represents a sixth of their total earnings. The single item of foolish speculation, according to this authority, accounts for a billion dollars.

One could go on, tabulating the cost of financial crime; the more or less theoretical loss in shipping coal instead of turning it into superpower at the mine. A billion here and a billion there might be piled up, but they are not needed as emphasis to the cautions uttered by two of those contributing to the present tabulation.

The cost of living will rise if waste isn't reduced, says Mr. Gately, and Mr. Knox declares the continuation of things as they are can only lower the American living standard.

All this pertains to the social side of waste. It is waste in mass production. Looked at in terms of man power, for instance, it is the sort of thing which makes the community spend $1,000 breaking in a new hand on various jobs while his earnings in the same period are less than that sum.

Is Jay Walking Thrift?

Besides, there are various ways of estimating waste. Leisure has been defined as the non-productive consumption of time. Is waiting for the traffic signal, advising pedestrians they may cross the avenue, leisure? Or is it waste? Is the jay walker a benefactor of the community, even deducting the net loss occasioned by his rate of mortality while in action? Apply the statistical method to the pedestrian and one finds it costs New York $75,000,000 a year to wait at the curbstone for the "go" whistle. This is simple arithmetic. Take New York's adult males, and a tenth of the adult females. Each loses, say 12 minutes a day waiting for the chance to get across streets. Reduce this to aggregate working hours, charge up the lost time at the same rate that colds in the head are charged, and the result is $250,000 a day. Is 12 minutes too high, or do not all the males try to cross the street? Add in, then, the time waiting for subway trains and skyscraper elevators; the total remains safe.

Massed figures make long columns, but the insidiousness of waste lies in the little things. There also lies its appeal, which is like a charm. That is what makes crusading against waste such an uphill job. It belongs to the Old Nick who continues to lurk in a fairly large proportion of mankind, despite the teachings of efficiency. The man with an instinct against waste is as rare as the ascetic. As for the rest, they will spend their money to be told how to spend more money, but won't be able to see a 40-foot billboard giving them the contrary advice.

Perhaps the explanation of these readily observed phenomena lies in this: That the waster measures his wealth not by what he keeps but what he wastes. Was Adam aware of his riches before he threw away the garden?

Open and Secret.

This is not the same thing as the doctrine of conspicuous waste set forth by Professor Veblen to account for social institutions. Waste devoted conspicuously to gawds may prove to the world that the waster is rich enough to pay for usefulness but the commoner satisfaction in waste is a delight enjoyed in secret.

It is not the glee of the small boy smashing things, but a tranquil disregard, unconscious as good digestion. This indulgence is not the waste problem of industry, all riddled with problems of efficiency and management and morale. It is something commoner, though doubtless with a much smaller aggregate cost. Perhaps it comes close to the $10,000,000,000 problem set forth by the banker, through those individuals who try to buy $3,000 worth of automobiles and radios and phonographs on a $3,000 income. It stands for luxury as against bare necessity.

Thus it may become not merely dregs but leaven; conspicuous or hidden, it may become a margin of richness for the individual even while in another form it drives factory executives to sanitariums and baldness. It is like the pleasures of idleness. The American has never admitted those pleasures; possibly that is why he has, in compensation, earned the name of waster. To him, Robert Louis Stevenson, when he extols idleness, has seemed only a trifler, and Walt Whitman, loafing and inviting his soul, has been an anomaly.

The habit of activity was contrived by nature and history when they called for the tilling of a whole new continent, imposing the need of incessant work, or at least the tradition of such a need. But they have shown no bias against waste, and so have brought forth a nation which, always having had material to spare, marvels at the organized frugality of the stockyards—while listening for the uncanned squeal of the pig—but has no respect for the thrift of the French peasant. The American worships magnitude, even in waste. He may seek for iron in street dust and find uses for discarded corncobs; that these are casual attributes to one with the open-handedness of a rollicking sailor is indicated by such things as the present warnings and the earlier call for the conservation of resources.

Prodigality of Nature.

Nature herself has not seemed to care, so far. She does not create the spring blossoms on a plan of efficiency, and as for economy of means, consider the million eggs laid to bring forth a single fish. There is no need to go so far afield: April 15, say, brings two flies, and by September 30 nature has expended on the matter in hand energy sufficient to multiply those two flies to 335,923,200,000,000—enough to reach from earth to sun, 20 abreast, if the greater part had not been sacrificed, unborn, to waste.

Besides, waste is largely relative, as far as the individual is concerned. America is wasting a capital value of seven thousand billion dollars a year through not still further extending the span of life. Fifteen years have been added to the average life, and the present aim is ten more by 1930. But meanwhile the waste goes on by the thousand billion, estimating only the capital needed to produce the average worker's income during the years he might have lived had the span been longer. The individual, however, is apt to give little thought to all these billions. Even if he did, he might say: "Well, better a short life and waste the odd years if I can live the sort of life I like."

For the most part, of course, he can't, like the rest of the world. He is as wasteful of life as of material. But once he has got past writing "Willful waste makes woeful want" in his copy book, he can show his true feeling by giving glamorous names to the spendthrift and piling up hard words for the other sort—such as skinflint, cheeseparer and curmudgeon. If he carries the attitude further in America than men do in other lands the cause may be that for him this habit of mind takes the place of the cult of indolence to be found in older countries.—New York Times.

Burn Equipment in School Used by Lepers

New York.—Teachers and pupils of the Avon avenue public school in Newark clustered around the fiery opening of a furnace in the basement.

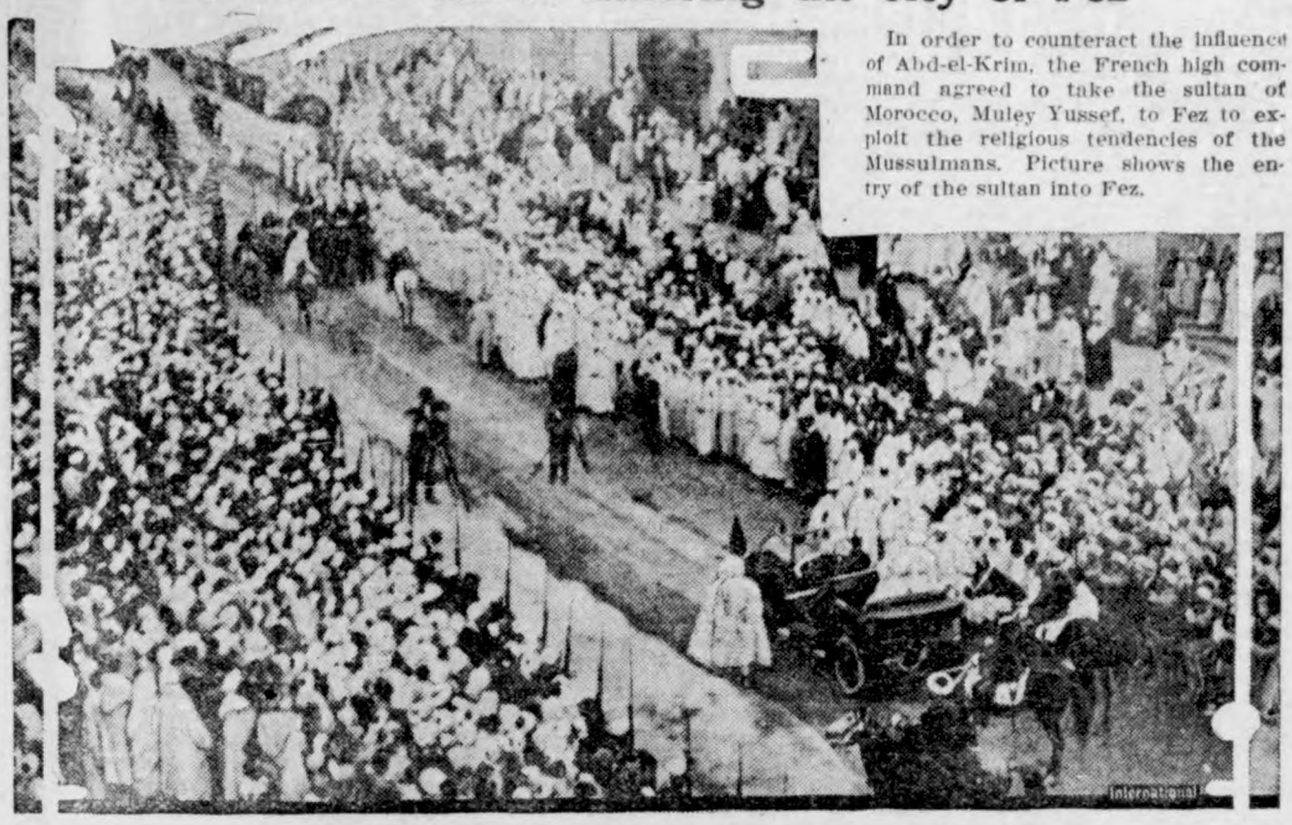
All the books, papers, pens, pencils, erasers and manual training equipment in the school were consigned to the flames.

It was a pyre kindled by the fears of eight teachers and many parents that articles brought near to Hale and Frank George, student lepers, might be infected with the dread tropical disease. The bonfire cost the taxpayers of Newark more than $2,000, as books are furnished free.

Meantime, the George lads, thirteen and eleven years old, were receiving expert treatment at the Essex County isolation hospital. Chaulmoogra oil, the specific for leprosy, was being administered regularly and the boys, in good spirits, were receiving visits from their parents.

A portable X-ray outfit has been invented which will show the location of pipe lines and beams inside the walls of buildings.

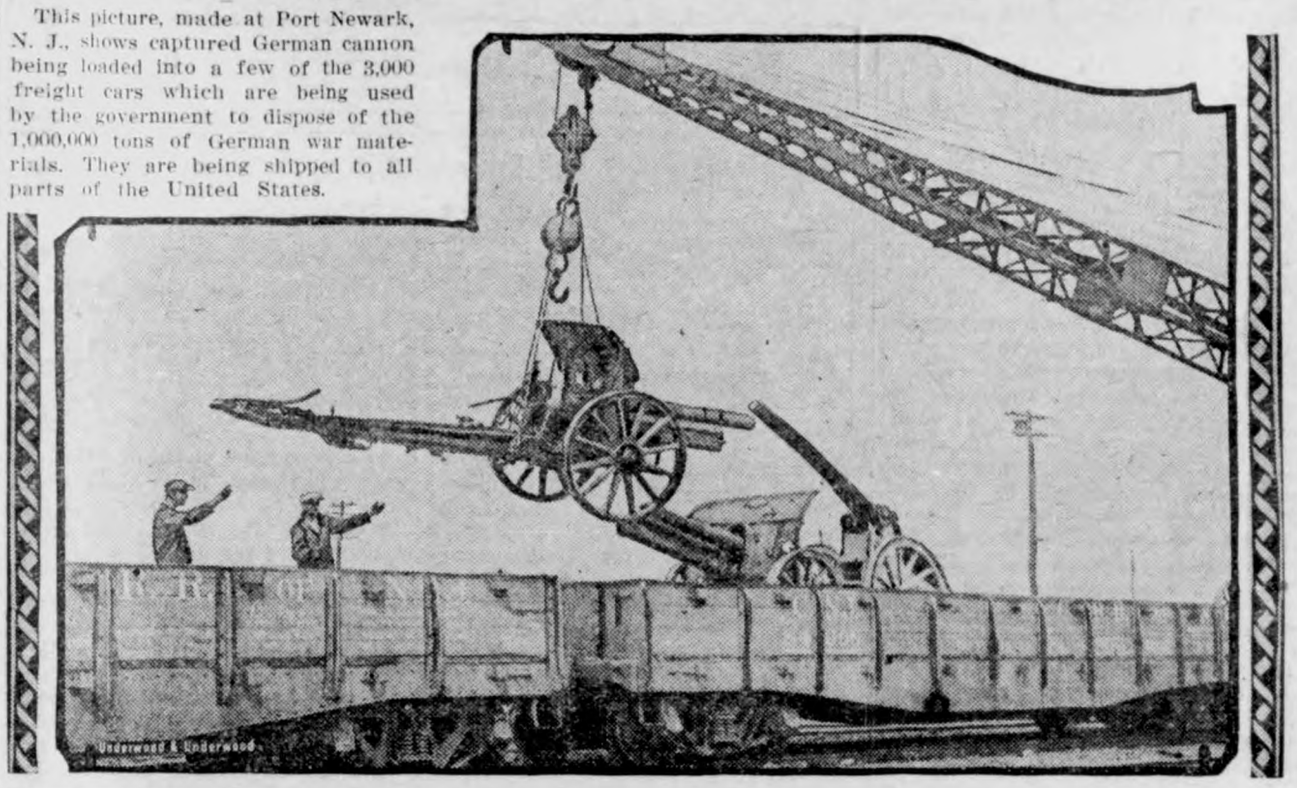
Sultan of Morocco Entering the City of Fez



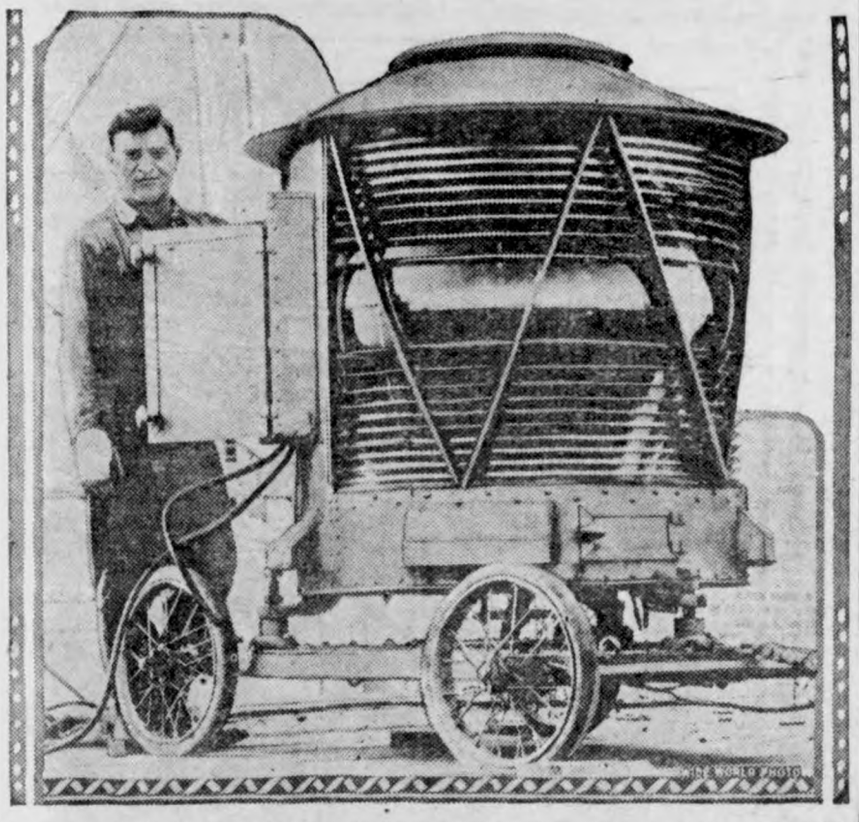
In order to counteract the influence of Abd-el-Krim, the French high command agreed to take the sultan of Morocco, Muley Yussef, to Fez to exploit the religious tendencies of the Mussulmans. Picture shows the entry of the sultan into Fez.

War Trophies Being Sent All Over Country

This picture, made at Port Newark, N. J., shows captured German cannon being loaded into a few of the 3,000 freight cars which are being used by the government to dispose of the 1,000,000 tons of German war materials. They are being shipped to all parts of the United States.



Flood Light for Night Air Mail



One of the huge B. B. T. field flood lights with which the air mail fields from New York to San Francisco are equipped. The projected light covers an area of approximately one half a mile. The intensity is such that a book or newspaper may be read within a distance of two to three miles from the light. It is visible from the air for a distance of from sixty to seventy-five miles.

HIGH POST FOR MILNE

Gen. Sir George Milne has been designated by King George to be chief of the grand general staff of the British army. He succeeds the earl of Cavan at the end of the year. He is known among the soldiers as "Uncle George," and, though something of a martinet, he is very popular.

Canada Woman Slays Bank Bandit

Here are Mrs. Lillian Rodger, her daughter, and William Ross Rodger, her husband. Mrs. Rodger shot and killed Matthew Kolidee, bank bandit, when he attacked her husband, the manager of the Imperial bank at St. David's, Ontario.

ENTERS RIFF WAR

Capt. Reginald Weller, daring young American flyer and World war hero, is one of a score of American soldiers of fortune who will fly for the sultan of Morocco, France's ally in the Riffian war.

LLIONAIRE LEAVES $4,000 BONDS TO CAT IN HIS WILL ton.—Bitter resentment treas- in his heart for more than forty because a fascinating young n to whom he gave a musical tion abroad married against his s is believed to be the motive strange will, disposing of an of about $1,000,000, left by Wood.

ording to one of Mr. Wood's intimate associates, the aged ler bought four San Salvador 8 nt bonds last year, pinned a note m stating the income was to be by his housekeeper in providing Henry with the best of care, and ed his intention of making ap- ate provision for this in his will will, filed in Probate court, does ention John Henry's name, but Alice W. Blackburn, the house- , said she saw the bonds Mr. bought for the cat, saw him the note stating their purpose, and that he told her to take care of both the bonds and the cat after his death.

John Henry, five years old, and said to be the biggest and heaviest pet cat in Boston, is now living in state at the Wood apartment.

China and Japan Exchange Boy Scouts

Tokyo.—Fifty boy scouts from Japan will go to China this summer to pass several weeks in camps there. At the same time two dozen Chinese boy scouts will come to Japan for a visit.

The plan of exchanging boy scouts with various countries has aroused considerable enthusiasm among the scout leaders here.

It was stated that the boy scout organization of Hungary has begun negotiations with the Japanese organization with the view of exchanging visits. The Hungarian scout officials propose to send fifty boy scouts to Japan next year if a return visit of Japanese scouts can be arranged for the following year.

Blue Roses Bloom

Roscoe, Cal.—Unless it be black tulips, nothing in the floral line is as rare as blue roses, yet some of the latter are in full bloom at the ranch of Alma Johnston, in Orange Cove, in this vicinity. The bush produced several blossoms last year of indifferent shade and color.

Gets Aged Lock

Piqua, Ohio.—A handmade lock, more than 113 years old, has been presented to the Schmidlapp Library museum by F. E. Campbell, furniture merchant. John Riddle had the lock placed upon a log cabin he built near here on government land in 1812.

In Norway, Sweden and Finland, women are frequently employed as sailors, and do their work excellently.

GREATER FAIR IS PLANNED FOR IOWA

Des Moines, Special:

Final preparations have now been completed here for the largest exposition of its kind ever held in North America when the Iowa State Fair and National Livestock Show opens its gates to the public on Aug. 26, continuing through Sept. 4.

Every feature of the fair this summer is gigantic in size. The National Livestock Show to be held in conjunction with the fair will embrace more than 7,000 head of purebred stock. This is more than will be gathered at any other fair in the country this year. Approximately 240 acres are to be devoted to exhibits of all kinds, both agricultural and industrial. Educational and amusement programs will be continuous, day and night, for eight days.

All told the fair will represent a total of more than five million dollars worth of exhibit and entertainment features. In scope it will be really more like a world fair than a state fair. Cash premiums total more than $127,000. Among the headline attractions will be 40 acres of farm machinery, an auto show, a radio show, draft team pulling contests, a state horshoe tournament, state-wide prize grain competitions, a fruit and flower show, state band contest, old fiddlers' contest, continuous programs and demonstrations for women, over 500 baby beeves exhibited by boy and girl farmers, nearly 100 boy and girl club teams in daily contests, an 80-acre free camp.

Five days of horse racing with purses over $17,900, two days of auto races, six famous bands and orchestras, a mammoth fireworks spectacle, "Rome Under Nero' 'every night, fifteen circus and hippodrome attractions, Mendelssohn's great oratorio "Elijah" with chorus of 300 voices and noted opera stars, a midway of 35 different shows and attractions.

All railroads have granted reduced rates of fare and one-third for round trip to the Iowa State Fair this summer. As in past years general admission to the fair will be 50 cents.

It is already estimated that the attendance this season will shatter all previous high records.

His Two Objects

E. H. Simmons, the new president of the New York stock exchange, was defending the American business man. Mr. Simmons, the late nephew of E. H. Harriman, said:

"Our highbrows accuse the American business man of having only one object in life—namely, the resolve to be a millionaire at thirty-five. This is false, utterly false. The American business man has two objects in life.

"His first object, admittedly, is the resolve to be a millionaire at thirty-five. His second and far more aspiring object is the resolve to be a multimillionaire at forty."

Secret of Long Life

Seventy years old, looks about fifty and feels even younger, is an apt description of Elmer Gray, assistant county attorney of Hennepin county, Minn. He says it is all because for more than 35 years he has gone without eating noon lunch. By not eating the 13,000 meals he conservatively estimates that he has saved $3,250, but wishes some one to tell him where it is.

Composition of Yeast

Yeast, strictly speaking, is a substance consisting of the cells of certain minute fungi. It appears as a surface froth or as a sediment in fruit juices and other saccharine liquids in which it induces alcoholic fermentation. Yeast is made of millions of minute, simple plants. What is popularly called yeast is a culture of such fungi or plants. Manufacturers cannot "make" yeast in the sense that they can mix chemicals and produce it. Yeast increases only by the multiplication of the fungi cells. In other words, you must have seed yeast to start with. Ordinary cake yeast sold on the market is composed of yeast cultures in other substances pressed into cakes.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Tracing Use of Gas

Natural gas was used in a practical way by the Chinese shortly after the opening of the Christian era for such purposes as the evaporation of salt from brine. It is said that certain houses in Peking were heated—if not lighted—with the gas.

In Europe the first use of gas for commercial purposes dates back to the experiments made by Murdock, who lighted his home with it in 1792, and to the work carried to a more practical conclusion by Winsor. In the United States the first gas plant was established in Baltimore in 1816, which was followed by one in Boston in 1823 and one in New York in 1825.

Annular Eclipse

If the sun is very near the moon's node when our satellite becomes new, clearly the moon must then pass almost exactly between earth and sun. If at the same time she is in apogee, her apparent size is a little less than that of the sun. Then her conical shadow does not quite reach the surface of the earth, and a ring of sunlight is left, surrounding the dark moon completely. This is called an annular eclipse, because of the annulus, or bright ring of sunlight still left shining.

Complex and Varied Is the Human Soul!

I never cease to admire the indelibility of human nature. It does not wear off. Whatever they may do, men are and remain what they are. They may deceive themselves; they may deceive others, especially the short-sighted ones, those who cannot look from the proper distance. Thus the surface of the sea seems quite dark when you are very near to it, but if you climb into the crow's nest you will see how clear the water is, and the higher you go the deeper you see, George Sarton writes, as quoted from "Transparency," in Scribner's Magazine.

If you have learned to contemplate life in its true perspective, how transparent, how beautiful it becomes. This transparency is, indeed, the very spice of life. Among the many splendors of nature, what could be more impressive, more delightful than the infinite variety of the men and women who pass, mix and play before our eyes? Birds are pretty enough, and there seems to be no end to the beauty and fantasy of their plumage, but what of women! what of men! Can there be anything under the sun more complex, more varied, more full of problems and enigmas of all kinds than the soul of man? The mystery seems bottomless, for even if we were to understand each soul in itself, we would still but be at its threshold. For we would not yet know how each of these souls would react upon the others. Each possible combination, each pair of souls opens a new vista of endless secrecy.

CIRCUS STARS ARE COMING

Des Moines, Special:

Fifteen of the greatest hippodrome acts in the world will be free attractions at the Iowa State Fair this year, an array surpassing anything ever offered in the midwest.

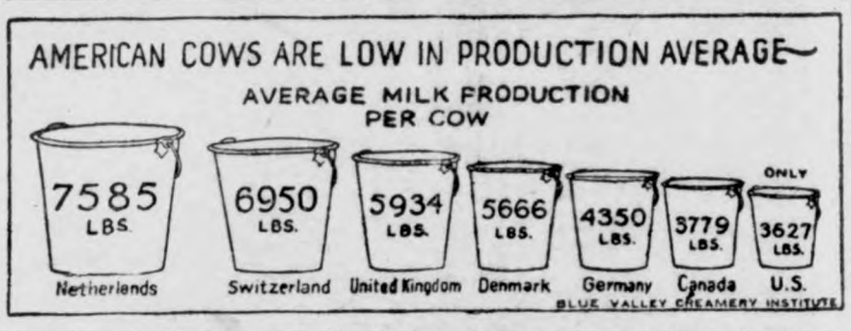
Favorites of the circus world will do their death-defying tricks suspended high in the air; clowns will cut their mirth-provoking capers and educated animals will perform in special rings. Included in the group will be trapeze performers, gymnasts, jugglers and numerous other world famous entertainers. Topping the list will be a 100-foot dive into a tank of burning gasoline by Capt. "Dare Devil" Payne. These acts will be one of the added attractions staged in front of the amphitheater every afternoon and evening of the fair.

Des Moines, Special:

Over forty acres is to be filled with the latest inventions in farm machinery and home conveniences of all kinds in a special industrial exposition that will feature the Iowa State Fair here Aug. 26-Sept. 4.

The show will include everything from hog houses to tractors, from plumbing equipment to electric lighting plants. The latest products of the largest manufacturers in the country have been shipped here for this big show. Officials declare that it will provide an ideal opportunity to the thousands of Iowans who are thinking of buying new equipment of one kind or another this fall and who want to study everything in the various lines before deciding.

European Cows Yield More Milk



AFTER all the dairyman's big job is to keep production ahead of consumption, according to the Blue Valley Creamery Institute. In 1920 there were 23,722,000 cows, according to figures prepared by the bureau of dairying of the United States Department of Agriculture, while on January 1, 1924, there were only 24,675,000 cows—an increase of less than 4 per cent.

In spite of the small increase in the dairy herds, production has not lagged behind consumption, due to the fact that by better feeding and breeding more pounds of milk have been produced. However, as the chart shows, the average American cow would have to double her milk yield to equal the production of cows of some of the European nations. It is estimated that the average production per cow in the United States is 3,627 pounds, although many pure bred animals give six and seven times this amount. During the last quarter of a century the United States has increased her production of milk per person about 60 pounds a year, approximately 8 per cent. This increase has been sufficient to a little more than supply the same amount of milk per person that was available in 1900.

Jig Jog Jags

ROUND ABOUT

Nip—The old bird offered me a job turning the grindstone."

Tuck—Wasn't yer shocked?"

"Shocked! I didn't know which way to turn."

First Radio Bug—I understand you've gotten rid of your loud speaker."

Second Radio Bug (recently divorced): "No, I'm still paying her alimony."

"You seem well posted on the Spanish War "

"Yep, been going to the doctor lately and reading the magazines he had piled up in his office."

A WASTED EVENING

In a small western town where vaudeville but seldom came, a group of cowpunchers were watching a knife-throwing act in the only theatre in town.

In stony silence they sat and watched the expert throw knife after knife, slowly, but surely pinning the beautiful young lady between two rows of gleaming blades, sometimes the knives mised her beautiful body only by a hair's breath.

Suddenly a voice in the rear of the room was heard to say disgustedly:

"Aw, c'mon, Bill, le's go home! Th' durn fool has gone an' missed her agin!"

IN A FLAT

"Oh, isn't the music divine?"

"De vine, cutie? Why, little one, that jazz is more than de vine—its the berries."

Zip: What is it that's crazier than a mosquito?"

Zap—Dunno?

Zip: A looney tick.

"Oh, doctor, you surely don't think I am going to die?"

"Well, I won't say that, but I wouldn't advise you to start any continued stories."

Why are we so late, conductor

"Well, sir, the train in front was behind and this train was behind before besides."

Williehad a little mouse,
He took the mouse to school,
And Willie's Britches and his act
Were both against the rule.

One thing about the language you learn playing golf is that it also comes in handy while changing tires

"Hello, Mr. Stone, how are Mrs. Stone and all the little pebbles? "

"Fine. How are Mrs. Wood and all the little splinters?"

The difference between Henry Ford and Jack Dempsey is that Henry makes money hand over fist, and Jack makes his fist hand over money.

No wonder a sheik's line puts flapper to sleep. It's all bunk.

YES, AN OLD ONE

"Will you give me a little money for a shopping trip, hubby?"

"Certainly, dear. Would you rather have an old $5 bill or a new one?"

"A new one, of course."

"Well, here's your new one—and I'm $4 to the good."

Lecturer—"Now, when two bodies in motion come together, is heat generated?"

Voice from Rear—"No, sir, I hit a guy yesterday and he knocked me cold."

The Gateway

The gateway from the wage earner to the owner is through a bank. A Savings Account started now can make you independent later on. It is not how much you earn, but what you save that will determine your future prosperity. Let us help you get started.

First National Bank
KLEMME, IOWA.

BUY ON CREDIT

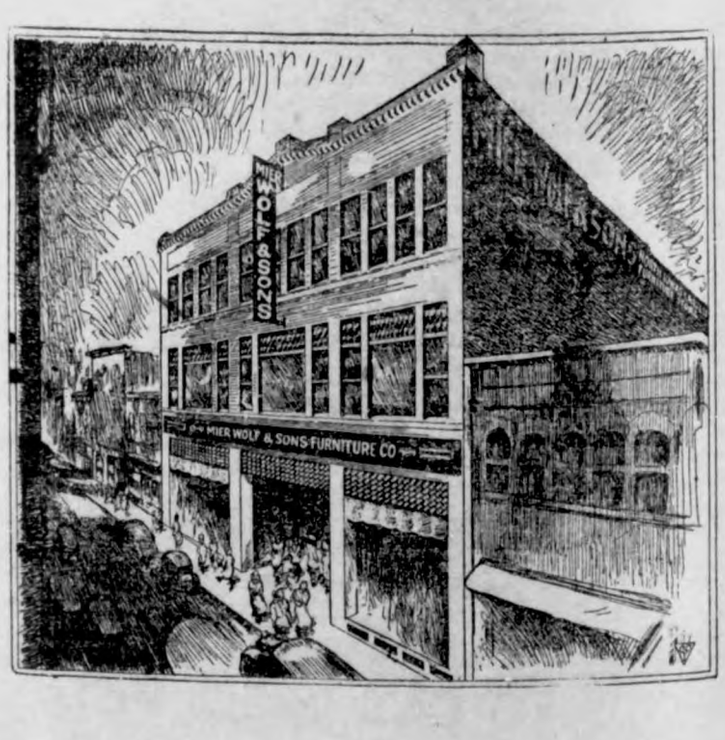
Now in Progress — OUR GREATEST AUGUST SALE!

BUY NOW

SUCH OPPORTUNITIES ARE UNUSUAL

Sweeping Reductions Bring Furniture Prices Down to Their Lowest Ebb

Selling is more than telling—people like to be shown. People want to be convinced that their purchases and the house they deal with are sterling in quality.



This a Good Store to Know—to Patronize—to Appreciate

CREDIT? WHY CERTAINLY! — MOST LIBERAL CREDIT IN MASON CITY

FURNITURE HELD FREE For FUTURE DELIVERY

Mier Wolf & Sons Furniture Co.
NORTH IOWA'S LARGEST FURNITURE STORE

WATCH MASON CITY GLOBE-GAZETTE FOR EXTRA SPECIALS EACH WEEK

309-11-13 FEDERAL AVE. SOUTH

MASON CITY, IOWA

THE KLEMME TIMES

enty-ninth Year—Number 48. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 6, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

RESHING SEASON WELL ADVANCED AROUND KLEMME

s Yield Much Better Than Was Expected

e threshing season is now well anced around Klemme. Several the crews will finish work this k and nearly all of them will done by the latter part of next. k.

Oats in general, have been very d and very much better than s expected in the early part of season. The general average is ween 35 and 50 bushel to the ac- We have heard of several fields ing much more. The oats are of y good quality in all cases and erweigh several pounds to the bu- l reports the local elevators.

Barley, wherever it has been rais- has been an unusually good crop s year.

The prevailing dry season, which becoming hazardous to other crops s been ideal threshing weather. A od many of the fields have not en rained on since before the grain s cut.

Some Britt Citizens

What is to become of our Britt tizens? Only the other night Prof. ndrew Jackson Lilly went over to lemme and played "The Devil and e Deep Blue Sea" and the next ing we read was that Governor hn Hammill had been arrested for eeding through Joen Stebbleton's d home town, Ankeney. Well, any ay, they are both helping to keep ritt on the map.—Britt News-Tribune.

O THE CREDITORS OF THE STATE SAVINGS BANK OF KLEMME, IOWA

You and each of you are hereby otified that the District Court of ancock County, Iowa, did on the th day of July, A. D., 1925, make n order in the cause entitled L. A. ndrew, Superintendent of Banking f the State of Iowa, v. the State avings Bank of Klemme, Iowa, ordering that all claims against the tate Savings Bank of Klemme, owa, based on deposit, checking account deposits, savings deposits and eposits on time and demand certiicates, except certificates issued for oney borrowed for said bank, as hown by the books of the said State avings Bank, be allowed as claims f depositors without further proof hereof and that all parties having laims against said bank or any of he funds thereof, including claims or deposits not shown by the ooks of the bank as stated, shall in order to have uch claims allowed as claims against said bank or to participate in he distribution of the assets thereof, file said claims with the examiner in charge of said bank at the ank building in Klemme, Iowa, or with the clerk of the District Court f Hancock County, Iowa, on or before the 15th day of August, 1925, nd unless said claims be so filed n or before said date they shall be orever barred as claims against aid bank or any of the assets thereof or against the said L. A. Andrew, uperintendent of Banking of Iowa, s receiver thereof.

(Signed) L. A. Andrew, Superintendent of Banking of Iowa, as receiver for the State Savings Bank of Klemme, Iowa.''

A6

TO THE HOLDERS OF CERTIFICATES OF DEPOSIT OF THE STATE SAVINGS BANK, KLEMME, IOWA:

Holders of certificates of deposit are requested to present them at the bank or notify the examiner in charge, by mail the amounts of such certificates so that they may be verified with the records of the bank. If found correct no further claim will be required.

L. A. Andrew, Superintendent of Banking of Iowa, Receiver.

HANCOCK FARMS USE ELECTRICITY

Great Strides Made in Electrification of Rural Area About Garner

The farming industry in the vicinity of Garner is well diversified and the farmers have made great strides toward electrification of the farms through their own efforts. Time is well managed and energy conserved by the use of modern labor saving equipment. The farms range in size from 120 to 300 acres

Louis Quintus is perhaps the largest user of electricity of the group. This isprobably due to his having more equipment on his farm than any of the other farmers. His farm of 145 acres is devoted mainly to cattle feeding and livestock raising His equipment consists of a 5 horse power motor, a 1 horse power motor sft water system, electric range, electric iron, electric washer, table stove, vacuum cleaner and electric incubator. The 5 horse power motor is used in elevating grain, grinding feed ,shelling corn, and hoisting hay into the barn. The 1 horse power motor is belted to a line shaft and drives the cream separator and the pump for all drinking water. Hatchis done each spring with the lectric incubator. On 1923, 1600 kilowatt hours were used by incubators totaling 1200 egg capacity. This year 50 eggs were electrically hatched utilizing 140 kilowatt hours of energy.

The average total monthy consumption for the last three years has been: 1922, 52 kilowatt hours;, 1923 194, kilowatt hours and 1924 61 kilowatt hours. Some improvement in hay hoisting, separator and pump drives will probably be made while various appliances will be tried in the home.

Louis Weaver operates a 160 acre farm and considers dairying as his largest field of work, 19 cows being milked on his farm. The separating is profitably done with electricity. A meter showed a consumption of 1 kilowatt hour of energy for every 14 days time, separating 20 t 30 minutes morning and evening. This saved around 2 hours man labor turning the separator by hand. Mr. Weaver has a splendid homemade jack driven by a 5 horse power motor. All of the larger belt work about the farm is done with this utility equipment. In the home besides lights, Mrs. Weaver has an electric iron and an washing machine and other uses of thec urrent are to be made.

The average monthly consumption on the 63 farms under examintaion during 1924 was 30 kilowatt hours. by Franklin J. Zink, Ass't Engineer, Iowa State College.

Hunting Was Over; These two Wanted Marriage License

Denison, Ia., July 27. — J. A. Schroeden of Arcadia and Miss Stella Muenchow of Chicago drove to Denison today and went to the county recorder's office. They asked deputy recorder Glenn C. Scott, for the necessary blanks, asking their age, height, weight, color of eyes and hair, and then shoved the applications across the counter for their signature. The young lady blushingly asked what the application was for and was told that it was a hunting license. She said, "The hunting is over, we want a marriage license." Deputy Scott directed them across the hall to the clerk's office ,where their wants were supplied.

PITY THE PREACHER

A Texas paper comments as follows: "The preacher has a great time. If his hair is gray, he is too old. If he is a young man, he hasn't had experience. If he has ten children, he has too many; if he has none, he isn't setting a good example. If his wife sings in the chior, she is presuming, if she doesn't, she isn't interested in her husband's work. If a preacher reads from notes, he is a bore; if he speaks extemporaneously, he isn't deep enough. If he stays at home in his study, he doesn't mix enough; if he is seen around the streets, he ought to be at home getting up a good sermon. If he calls on some poor family, he is playing from the grandstand; if he calls at the home of the wealthy, he is an aristocrat. Whatever he does, some one could have told him to do better.''

BILLY SCHOBER AND FRED ANDERSON TO MEET ON MAT HERE

Arrangements have been made, by local men to stage a wrestling match here Saturday night, between Billy Schober, claimant of the World's Middleweight Championship, and Fred Anderson, holder of the Danish Championship.

Both of these men are well known by wrestling fans around Klemme. Schober has appeared numerous times at matches in Klemme and has always put up a fast snappy match. Anderson has been very active on the mat recently and has defeated some real topnotchers. He has a long stringof victories chalked for him and is out to get Schobers title now.

This match is being staged by local men and should draw a large crowd. Good preliminaries have been arranged for.

PLANTS DRIEST IN AFTERNOON

Is Important Point to Consider in Cutting Hay

It makes a vast difference in the time required for curing hay whether it is cut in the morning or afternoon. Dr. A. L. Bakke, plant physiologist of the Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station, Ames, says that there may be a difference of 40 percent in the moisture content of plants between 10:03 in the morning and 1:30 in the afternoon.

Dr. Bakke has done some work in measuring the content of water in plants at various hours of the day and has found that plants contain least water about 1:30 in the afternoon. They contain most water from early morning until about 10:30 because the leaf pores are practically closed during the night while the roots are taking up moisture. As a result, the cells are filled with water in the early morning Soon after sunrise, the leaf pores open up and start to throw off the moisture.

As soon as plants are cut off, the leaf pores (called stomata) close, Dr. Bakke says, and if plants are cut when containing the most water, the curing is bound to be less rapid.

The time of day for cutting hay seems important in view of Dr. Bakke's findings, especially with kinds such as alfalfa and sweet clover.

REFUSES $450 FOR HEN

Biddy Lays Fancy Eggs, But They Sell as Common

Slayton, Minn., —Hundreds of people have visited the farm of John Muck 12 miles northwest of here the past few days to view four eggs fiirst of the of the pecular eggs was laid about two weeks ago and contained the outline of a woman's face. layed by a hen on that farm. The Later a similar egg was laid and Wednesday and Thursday of last week, the hen laid an egg each day with the well defined picture of a woman's face. On thursday the hen went into the back screen porch of the house and laid an egg with the usual woman's picture on one side and on the other side, the words, "good luck" outlined. The hen was shut in an is now with the eggs on exhibition. Before this the family did not know just which one was laying the eggs. Since being shut up on Thursday the hen has not laid any eggs. Mrs. Muck was offered $450 for the hen and four eggs but refused to accept. Many people who went to see the eggs were doubtful but came away thoroughly convinced that the eggs are the real thing and no fake.

TEN BANKS RE-OPENED IN IOWA THIS YEAR

Ten closed Iowa banks have been opened since the first of this year, according to a report made this week by L. A. Andrew, state superintendent of banking.

Iowa had about 100 closed banks January 1, 1925, and many of those still closed willbereorganizedwithin the coming months, he declared Liquidation will proceed as rapidly as possible in cases where reorganization is impossible, he reported.

MISS MARIE MERKEL AND MR. VERNON HALVERSON MARRIED

On Wednesday July 29, at 4:00 p m. Miss Marie Merkel became the bride of Mr. Vernon Halverson. The ceremony was preformed by Rev. Boyce at the Methodist parsonage of Mason City. They were attended by Miss Anna Merkel, a sister of the bride as bridesmaid and Mr. Edward Christians as best man.

The bride wore a lovely pale blue georgette dress and the groom was attired in a light gray suit.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Merkel, residing four miles east of Klemme. She has been one of the most popular young people of her set and has a great host of friends. She will make an ideal helpmate and homemaker for her husband.

Of Mr. Halverson, we know little. he has been farming north of Ventura and is very well spoken of by those who know him.

The couple will spend several weeks with Mr. Halverson's mother, and then will start house-keeping on a farm northwest of Ventura where they will be at home to their many friends.

The Times joins in congratulations to the young people, and wish them a long and happy wedded life.

LIME BEFORE SOWING ALFALFA

First Step is to Get Soil Tested for Acidity

One of the most important points in the successful production of alfalfa is to see that the soil is well supplied with lime. For bestresults, the limestone should be applied before the alfalfa is seeded and disced into the soil. It should never be plowed under.

H. W. Warner, soil extension specialist, Iowa State College, says that 95 percent of the soils in two-thirds of the counties of Iowa are acid and need applications of limestone before they can produce alfalfa successfuliy.

The first step in starting alfalfa or sweet clover is to have the soil tested for acidity, Mr. Warner says. The county agent or the soils section of the Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station, will run these tests free. The tests will show how much lime is required per acre and as much should be applied as the test requirement shows.

Those who plan to seed alfalfa next spring should get the limestone on the ground this fall so that the moisture and the freezing and thawing will dissolve the material and make it ready for the plants to use next spring.

Farmers who have used limestone most are paying attention to the fine ness and quality of the stone. Samples of limestone may be sent to the soils section, Ames, for testing to determine its value. Many samples are sent in each week.

NEW STATE PARK NEAR STORM LAKE

A tract of twenty acres to the east of Storm Lake is to be purchased for a state park. The state executive council has approved a plan submitted by the Storm Lake boosters and the purchase will be made by the state board of conservation Work on the tract will be begun at once, and a group of convicts from Fort Madison will be sent to clear off the newly acquired land. With this purchase the state is adding another one to its parks, which are being made the scenic spots of Iowa.

DO YOU HAVE TROUBLE WITH ANTS?

Many housewifes are troubles every summer with scores of ants which swarm the kitchen and pantry. The Sioux City Journal gives the following suggestion for getting rid of them. "Procure some boric acid and mix with boiling water and a small quantity of sugar. Put some of the liquid in saucers and set where the ants can reach it. The ants will feed on the mixture because it is sweet. It will not only kill them, but they will carry it back to thenests and in time the entire colony will be destroyed.

OUST POOR EGG PRODUCERS

This is Excellent Time to Overhaul The Farm Flock

August is an excellent time to overhaul the farm poultry flock and get rid of poor producing hens. Among those which should be eliminated at this time are the coarse, beefy hens and overfat, baggy hens.

The points to distinguish the laying from the non-laying hens are given by H. A. Bittenebender, of Iowa State College, as follows:

Combs—of laying hens are bright red, fine textured and pliable; on non-laying hens, dull colored and faded; sometimes covered with whitish scales.

Pelvic bones—far apart, thin and pliable in laying hens; in non-laying hens , narrow between bones, bones are thick.

Skin on abdomen—on laying hens soft, loose and pliable; on non-laying hens, may be tight and rubbery.

Habits laying hens, are energetic in search of food and consume large quantities of it if available, are the first to leave the roost in the morning and the last to go on at night, go to roost with full crops if it is possible to get the food; non-laying hens, may be listless and lazy, are early to bed and late to rise, eat less than laying hens and crops are partly filled at night.

Coarse, beefy hens may be distinguished by their heavy, overhanging eyebrows, less prominent and sunken eyes with many wrinkles and puffiness around the yes. The heads of such hens are usually coarse and this coarseness is carried thruout.

OBITUARY OF STEPHEN KLEINMAIER

On June 22, 1925, the Angel of Death entered the Kleinmaier home calling the husband and father. At 1:15 A. M. he sank peacefully into eternal rest.

Until his last illness, which is dated from early summer he was a man of unusual health and phsique. Mr. Kleinmaier was born in Glatt, Germany on Dec. 26, 1863. He came to America in 177, a boy of fourteen to make his way in a strange land.

On December 1, 1892, he was united in marriage to Mattie Avery and has since resided in Errienna township. He was honest and industrious, of a quiet and reserved nature, content to live for the family, who will saddly miss him.

He leaves to mourn his death, his wife(fiev daughters and four sons, one grandchild, one brother and two sisters.

Funeral services were conducted at 2:00 o'clock Friday afternoon at the M. E. church in Seneca Rev. Midkiff, officiating and burial was made in the Mt. Hope, Seneca ,Illinois.

The Seneca Chois sang, "Lead Kindly Light" and "Haven of Rest". Mr. John Zimmerman sang "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere."

Those who attended the services from a distance were Mrs. Amelia Eiserman of So. Dakota, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Kleinmaier and family of Monroe, Wisconsin, Mrs. E. A. Helps, and Mrs. A. E. Dutheridge and Jane of Klemme, Iowa, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Amery of Hebron, Ind., Mrs. G. Geiger Mrs. R. Geiger, Mrs. S. Burkhart of Rock Island, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kiner of Miami Fla.

Mr. Kleinmaier is well known in this town and vicinity as he has tran sacted business here for many years. He was the father of Mrs. Earnest Helps, and Mrs. Ted Dutheridge, both of Klemme.

HANCOCK COUNTY REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS FOR THE POST WEEK

Nels Matson to Albert Matsen, W. D. date 7-8-25, $1.00, NW¼ of NE¼ & E½ NE¼ of NW¼ 22 & SW¼ & S½ NW¼ & NW¼ of NW ¼ of NW¼ & S½ SE¼ 27-97-25.

Nels Matson to Alberta Matson, W. D. date 7-8-25, $1.00 N½ SW¼ & SE¼ SW¼, 4-96-25.

Melvin Brown. wf to Tom .O'-Rourke, W. D. date 8-1-25, $1.000 S 8 rds of lot 8 Stubbins 2nd add to Britt.

Walter E. Neugert to Harold F. O'Brient & Kathleen Lattimer W. D. date 6-24-25, $1.00 lots 1-2-3, blk. 7 Park add to Garner.

Albert D. White to Mary Emaline White W. D. date 10-1-23, $700.00 lots 1-2-3-4, blk 1, Goodell.

WALLACE THINKS CITY PEOPLE SHOULD PAY HIGHER TAXES

Editor Talks for Rural Iowa Before State Tax Experts

That city property should be taxed at a higher rate than country property was the recommendation made to the state executive council last Wednesday by H. A. Wallace, editor of the Wallace's farmer.

Mr. Wallace, speaking at the final public tax hearing before the council met to fix tax valuations based his recommendation on the fact that city property is not as tangible as farmer's property and that a large share of it escapes the assessor when he makes up his rolls.

"This year' 'he said, "but $600,000,000 in moneys and credits was reported for taxation purposes when we know that the bank deposits of the state are $950,000,000 and mortgages on farm property held in this state alone total over $400,000,000." He said that farmers of the state are paying 3.8 times as much toward state goevrnment as city people while the net income of the average farmer is $100 and the average net income of the city dweller is probably somewhere between $400 and $500. Charles E Hearst, president of the Iowa Farm Bureau federation, pointed out that figures on 8,000 acres in Dallas county showed that in 1913 the acerage income was $5.61 per acre, when the value of the land was put at $74.10 for taxation purposes and in 1921 the income had dropped to $5.10 per acre while the assessed value of the land had been raised to $84.15 an acre.

A group of farm bureau representatives appeared before the council this morning. Their principal asking was that farm land values be reduces 10 per cent. Included in the party were J. G. Mitchell and Ray E. Gribben, attorney and secretary respectively, of the Iowa Farm Bureau; Senator M. D. Bowman, Waterloo, Charles D. Reed of the Iowa weather and crop reporting service and Lacey F. Rickey of the satisticians office of the crop reporting service.

PUBLISH FARM HAND BOOK

Contains Vast Amount of Farm and General Information; Is Being Distributed Free.

Seventy-two pages chuck full of formation of interest and value to farmers is contained in a new farm book issued by Iowa State College. The booklet is pocket size, four by seven inches, and is bound with pasteboard cover. It is being distributed free to those who write to the Bulletin Section, Ames.

There is a complete index in the book so that any information sought can be readily found. It contains in addition to pointers on planting, culture, varieties and uses of various crops and the average price of crops by months.

The livestock information includes suggestions on feeding and management, marketing and gives the average market prices by months. All classes of livestock are included. One portion deals with animal diseases and laws.

There is one section on farm business, including a discussion of leases and contracts, cooperative marketing, hints on legal difficulties and sources and procedure of borrowing money.

The farm engineering department of the hand book tells about ventilation of farm buildings, handy rules for figuring dimensions and capacities of bins, silos and containers, suggestions on concrete mixtures, paints and whitewash and many others.

One discussion deals with and explains tax subjects. The Iowa weed law is explained and there are data on rainfall and climate in Iowa by months.

Those who have received the first copies of the farm hand book praise it highly. Only a limited edition of the book has been published. It is hoped to prepare a similar book each year, bringing it up to date.

Man is never more put out then when he thinks he has been taken in.

NAMELESS RIVER

VINGIE E. ROE

COPYRIGHT BY THE McCALL COMPANY

WNU Service.

HOME

SYNOPSIS. — Kate Cathrew, "Cattle Kate," owner of the Sky Line ranch, on her way to McKane's store at Cordova, seemingly infuriated by the sight of a girl plowing in the valley below, places a rifle bullet near the horses' feet. The girl takes no notice. Kate goes on to town, where her presence brings on a fight between McKane, the trader, and Sheriff Selwood. Nance Allison, the girl on whom Kate Cathrew had vented her spite, is with her widowed mother and crippled brother Bud farming land taken up by her father, killed a short time before in a mysterious accident. Bud is the victim of a deliberate scheme to maim or kill him. Kate Cathrew wants the farm for pasture land, and is trying to frighten the Allisons into leaving. Big Basford, Sky Line rider, desperately in love with Kate, picks a quarrel with a fellow rider, Rod Stone. Kate, to part them, lashes Basford across the face with a quirt. Nance discovers in a cave a fine collie dog, evidently guarding a child. She goes home mystified. Next day Nance returns to the cave with food and makes friends with the dog and the small boy, Sonny. He tells her "Brand" takes care of him and "Dirk," the collie. Selwood is certain Kate Cathrew is the head of a "cattle rustling" gang, with Lawrence Arnold, her partner, who rarely visits the ranch. Minnie Pine, halfbreed at the Sky Line ranch, is in love with Rod Stone. Ranchers complain of cattle-stealing and criticize Sheriff Selwood for his seeming inactivity. Nance, visiting Sonny and Dirk in the cave, meets Brand Fair, Sonny's protector, and promises to keep their secret. Nance becomes keenly interested in Brand Fair. The girl is relying on a field of corn to pay off debts she owes McKane.

CHAPTER X

—9—

The Seventh Sense.

They were as good as their word, and when Nance rode up the narrow defile on the day and hour appointed, they were waiting, fresh and neat as abundant water and their worn garments would permit.

Sonny wore denim overalls a shade less ragged and a little shirt with sleeves. His face shone like the rising sun from behind Fair's shoulder as they sat decorously mounted on Diamond.

"The out-riders wait the princess," said Fair, "good morning, Miss Allison."

"Did you bring cookies?" queried the boy eagerly, "we've got the fish!"

"Good morning," answered Nance, "sure I did, Sonny. And other things, too. We'll be good and hungry by noontime."

The sun was two hours high outside, but here between the towering walls the shadows were still blue and cold. The murmur of the stream seemed louder than usual, heard thus in the stillness of the early day. The mystery of the great cut was accentuated, its charm intensified a thousandfold to Nance. There was a strange excitement in everything, a sense of holiday and impending joy. Her face broke into smiles as helplessly as running water dimples, and when the two riding ahead turned from time to time to look back she was fair as "a garden of the Lord," her bronze head shining bare in the blue light, her eyes as wide and clear as Sonny's own.

This was adventure to Nance—the first she had ever known, and its heady wine was stirring in her veins.

She did not know why the tumbling stream sang a different song, or why the glow of light creeping down from the rimrock along the western wall seemed more golden than before.

She only knew that where her heart had lain in her breast calm and content with her labor and her majestic environment of hills and river, there was now a strange surge and thrill which made her think of the stars that sang together at the morning of creation. Surely her treasured Book had something for each phase of human life—comfort for its sorrows, divine approval for its happiness.

So she rode, smiling, her hands folded on her pommel, listening to Brand Fair's easy speech, watching his shoulders moving lithely under the blue flannel shirt, comparing him to the men she knew and wondering again why he was not like them.

They followed the stream sometimes, and again trotted across flat, hard, sandy spaces where the floor of the canyon widened, and passed now and again the mouths of smaller cuts diverging from the main one.

"About two miles from here," she told Fair, "we leave Blue Stone and take up Little Blue to the left. At its head lie Grey spring and the Circle. We'll make it about noon."

The sun was well down in the great gorge when they reached the opening of Little Blue, and in this smaller canyon which diverged sharply at right angles, its golden light flooded to the dry bottom.

"Little Blue has no water to speak of," said Nance, "only holes here and there—but they are funny places, deep and full, and they seem to come up from the bottom and go down somewhere under the sand. They have current, for if you throw anything in them it will drift about, slow, and finally go down and never come up."

"Subterranean flow," said Fair; "I've seen other evidence of it in this country. Must have been volcanic some time."

The gorge lifted and widened and presently they passed several of these strange pools, set mysteriously in the shelving floor.

The towering walls fell away and they had the feeling of coming up into another world. Soil began to appear in place of the abundant blue sand, and trees and grass clothed the floor in ever increasing beauty.

Fair drew Diamond up and waited until Nance rode alongside and they went forward into a tiny country set in the ridging rock of the shallow canyon to where Grey spring whispered at the edge of the Circle.

"See!" cried Nance, waving a hand about at the smiling scene, "it is a magic place—no less!"

The spring itself was a narrow trickle above sands as gray as cloth, a never-ceasing flow of water, clear and icy cold, and beyond it was a round little flat, thick with green grass beneath spreading mush-oaks, a spot for fairy conclaves.

"Yes," nodded the man, "it is magic—the true magic of Nature in gracious perfection, unmarred by the hand of man."

"Are we going to have the cookies now?" came the anxious pipe of the boy, and Fair laughed.

"Can't get away from the deadly commonplace, Miss Allison, with Sonny on the job. Poor little kid—he's about fed up on untrammeled nature. I'm afraid I owe him a big debt for what I've done to him—and yet—I am trying to pay a bigger one which someone else owes him. Let's camp."

They dropped the reins and turned the horses loose to graze, and Fair built a little fire of dry wood which sent up a straight column of smoke like a signal.

Nance untied her bundle from the saddle thongs and Fair unrolled a dozen trout, firm and cool in their sheath of leaves. He hung them deftly to the flames on a bent green twig and Romance danced attendance on the hour. He was expert from long experience of cooking in the open, and when he finally announced them done they would have delighted an epicure. Nance laid out a clean white cloth and spread upon it such plain and wholesome things as cold corned beef, white bread and golden butter, homemade cucumber pickles and sugared cookies.

They were poor folk all, the nomad man, and boy, the girl who knew so little beyond the grind of work, but they were richer than Solomon in all his glory, for they had health and youth, and that most priceless thing of all—a clear conscience and the eager expectation of the good the next day holds.

They sat cross-legged about their sylvan board and forgot such things as work and hardship and the bitterness of threatened feud, and—mayhap—vengeance.

They talked of many things and all the time Nance's wonder grew at Fair's wide knowledge of the outside world, at his gentle manners, his quiet reticence in some ways, his general freedom in others.

He told her of the cities and the sea, spoke of Mexico, and this and that far place, but mostly he brought her pictures of her own land—the rivers of the Rockies, the Arizona mesas—and the girl, starved for the unknown, listened open-lipped.

They cleared away the cloth and Nance took Sonny in her lap, while Fair stretched out at length smoking in contentment.

The child slept, the sun dropped down the cloud-flecked vault, and it was Fair himself who finally put an end to the enchanted hour, rising and catching up the horses.

"You have far to go, Miss Allison," he said as he stood beside her smiling down into her face, "and Sonny and I must be careful not to work a hardship on you, or you might not come again."

The ride back down Little Blue was quiet. A thousand impressions were moiling happily in Nance's mind. Her eyes felt drowsy, a little smile kept pulling at her lips' corners, and yet, so wholly inexperienced was she, she did not know what magic had been at work in the green silence of the Circle and Grey spring.

It was only when Fair pulled his horse so sharply up that Buckskin nearly stumbled on his heels that she came out of her abstraction. He sat rigid in his saddle, one hand extended in warning, gazing straight ahead to where Little Blue opened into Blue Stone. She looked ahead and understood.

A horseman was just coming into sight at the right edge of the opening, a big red steer was just vanishing at the left—and the man was Kate Cathrew's rider, Sud Provine.

He rode straight across and did not glance up the cut, and the watchers in the shadow knew they were unobserved.

For a long time they sat in tense silence after he had passed, waiting, listening, but nothing followed and presently Fair turned and looked at her.

His lips were tightly set and his face was grave.

"Miss Allison," he said regretfully, "that's the first human I've seen in Blue Stone canyon beside yourself, and it means something to me. It means that Sonny and I must move—at once."

He sat thinking a moment, then raised his eyes to hers again.

"I believe—if you will trust us a little longer—if you can keep him hidden—that I will take you up. I'll give you Sonny for a while. I feel guilty in doing so, for I know how heavily burdened you are already, but some day I shall make it right with you—as handsomely right as possible. Will he be too much trouble?"

"Trouble?" cried Nance, her face radiant, "give him to me this minute!" and she held out her arms.

Brand turned and looked down at the boy, smiling again.

"How about that, kid?" he asked. "Cookies and Miss Allison's lap instead of the cold canyon and lonesomeness—why—why, old-timer—what's the matter?"

He pulled the child around a bit to scan him more closely.

The little face was milk-white, the brown eyes wide.

"You—going to—to give me away, Brand?" said Sonny with that curious seeming of maturity which sometimes fell upon him.

"I should say not!" he said reassuringly, "I'm only going to let you stay awhile with Miss Allison—so our enemies won't find you when I'm gone."

Nance leaned forward.

"Enemies?" she said sharply. "Enemies, you say?"

"A figure of speech," smiled Fair, "but just the same we don't want any one beside yourself to know about us. And by the way, my name is Smith at Cordova—and Sonny doesn't exist."

A Horseman Was Just Coming Into Sight at the Right Edge of the Opening. A Big Red Steer Was Just Vanishing at the Left.

"I see," said the girl slowly, "or rather I don't see—but as I said before, it doesn't matter."

"You're a wonderful woman. Not one in a million would accept us as you have done—lost waifs, ragged, hiding, mysterious. I didn't think your kind lived. You're old-fashioned—blessedly old-fashioned. Why did you accept us?"

"My Mammy says there's something in a woman's heart that sets the stamp on a man for good or bad, a seventh sense. I know there is. A woman feels to trust—or not to trust."

Fair nodded.

"That's it," he said, "instinct—but maybe, some day, you may come to feel it has betrayed you—in our case—my case—I mean. What then?"

Nance shook her head.

"It won't, Mr. Fair," she replied.

The man sighed and frowned.

"God knows," he said, "I hope not. But let's get on—it's getting pretty late."

Fair rode to the cave by the pool in silence. There he dismounted and brought from the blankets such poor bits of garments as belonged to the child, rolled them in a bundle and fastened them on Nance's saddle.

"I'm sorry they are so ragged," he apologized.

"It doesn't matter," said Nance, "Mammy has stuff that can be made over. We'll fix him up."

Fair mounted again and rode with her to the mouth of Blue Stone. There he halted and lifted Sonny to Buckskin's rump.

The little fellow whimpered a bit and clung to his neck, while the man patted his bony little shoulder.

"There—there, kid," he said, "don't you love Miss Allison?"

"Yes," wailed Sonny at last; "but—but—I just love you, Brand!"

"I've put in two pretty strenuous years for Sonny's sake," he said softly, "but they've been worth while, Miss Allison."

"The service of love is always worth while," said Nance, "it's the biggest thing in this world."

"And now," said Fair, "if you'll buck up and be a man, Sonny, I'll promise to come right down to the homestead some night soon and see you—if Miss Allison will let me?"

Something surged in the girl's breast like a sunlit tide.

"If you don't, we'll come hunting you," she said.

Then Fair kissed the boy, mounted Diamond and sat with hands crossed on his pommel while Buckskin carried his double burden across the little flat and through the belly-deep flood of Nameless whispering on its riffle.

On the other side Nance and Sonny turned to wave a hand and went forward into a new life.

* * * * * * *

At the cabin door Bud stared with open mouth when they rode up, but Mrs. Allison, who had been watching them come along the flat far down, and who had vaguely understood, came forward with uplifted arms.

"I figured it wouldn't be so long before you brought him home," she said, "a child is what we do need in this here cabin. What a fine little man! An' supper's all hot an' waitin'."

"I knew you'd understand, Mammy," said the girl gratefully, "you've got the seventh sense, all right, and one or two more. No wonder our pappy loved you all his life."

And so it was that Sonny Fair came into the warmth and comfort of fire and lamp-light, of chairs and tables, and beds with deep shuck-ticks, and to the loving arms of womankind, after two years of riding on the big black's rump, of sleeping on the earth beside a campfire, and the long lonely days of waiting.

And, faithful as his shadow, Dirk, the collie, sat on the stone that formed the doorstep and refused to budge until both Nance and Sonny convinced him that all was well, and that this was home.

When Nance sat to her gracious hour with the Scriptures that night it seemed a very fitting coincidence that the Book should fall open at the Master's tender words, "Suffer little children to come unto Me, for of such is the kingdom of Heaven."

CHAPTER XI

The Ashes of Hope.

It was dark of the moon and Sheriff Price Selwood sat on his horse a little distance from McKane's store at Cordova, his hat pulled over his brows, his hands on his saddle horn.

Inside the lighted store four tables were going.

A bunch of cattlemen from the Upper country were in and most of the Cathrew men were down from Sky Line.

The nine or ten bona-fide citizens of Cordova were present also, and McKane was in high fettle. The few houses of the town were dark, for it was fairly late. All these things the sheriff noted in the quarter hour he sat patiently watching.

When he was satisfied that all the families were represented inside, that the dogs of the place were settled to inaction, and that no one was likely to leave the store for several hours at least, he did a peculiar thing.

He tied his horse to a tree near where it stood and went forward quietly on foot, stopping at the rack where the Cathrew horses stood in a row. They were good stock. Cattle Kate would have nothing else at Sky Line.

Selwood took plenty of time, patting a shoulder here, stroking a nose there, and finally stopped in between a big brown mare and the rangy gray gelding which Sud Provine always rode. He fondled the animal for a few moments, then ran his hand down the left foreleg and picked up the hoof. It was shod, saddle-horse fashion. He placed the foot between his knees, very much after the manner of a blacksmith, and taking a small coarse file from his pocket, proceeded to file a small notch in the shoe.

Then he put the file away, gave the gray a last friendly slap, got his own horse and rode away.

He intended to have a good night's sleep.

* * * * * * *

Several days later Kate Cathrew came down to Cordova and held a short private conversation with McKane.

"McKane," she said, "who gives you the heaviest trade in this man's country?"

"You do," said McKane promptly, "far and away."

Evidently Sheriff Selwood will know the tracks of Sud Provine's gray when he sees them next. When and where?

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Fight Decided Name

In 1803 the community now known as Barre, Vt., was undecided as to the new name for the town, the original name of which was Wilbesburgh. A change was decided on in 1793. Eventually the prospective names narrowed down to two, Holden, sponsored by Capt. Joseph Thompson, and Barre, offered by Jonathan Sherman, both names being after Massachusetts towns. The controversy developed into a fist fight, Sherman winning. The city fathers and the legislature honored the victor by naming the town Barre.

The Kitchen Cabinet

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

To insure health, cultivate a free use of milk, eggs, vegetables and such cereal products and breadstuffs as contain at least part of the outer layers as well as the inner portions of the grains.

SEASONABLE RECIPES

While the melons are plentiful the following frozen dish will be enjoyed:

Melon Ice in Melon Shells.—Freeze until mushy one quart of water in which two cupfuls of sugar has been boiled and allowed to cool, now add the juice of three lemons While freezing, scrape out the centers from four small shapely melons, press through a colander, and sprinkle with one-half cupful of sugar; let stand a while, then add to the almost frozen mixture and complete the freezing. A little spinach juice may be added for coloring. Fill the scraped-out shells and decorate with flowers or a small melon leaf, if at hand.

Orange and Raspberry Nectar.—Squeeze the juice from six oranges, and mix with the pressed out juice from a pint of canned raspberries. Add one cupful of sugar, and dissolve in the juices, applying heat very carefully, not allowing the mixture to get too hot. Grate the yellow rind of one-half of the orange skins and cook in a pint of water, allowing it to boil a few minutes. Strain, cool and add the liquid to the fruit juices. When cold set in refrigerator until needed, then dilute with an equal volume of ice water, filling tall glasses half full; add ginger ale to complete the serving, garnish with a few fresh berries or with a sprig of mint. Serve with straws.

Pears in Grape Juice.—Boil together two quarts of grape juice and two pounds of sugar until thick and sirupy—the mixture will be reduced about one-half—add enough fine ripe pears, cored, peeled and cut in quarters to fill the kettle until they are barely covered by the sirup. Continue cooking until the pears are perfectly soft and the whole quantity is reduced in bulk. Pour into sterile jars, put the lids on without clamping, set on layers of paper in a baking pan and set into a hot oven. Allow the fruit to remain in the oven until the fire is out and the oven cool. Then clamp the jars and store for winter.

A Few Choice Dishes.

The following recipe using spinach is one worth cherishing:

Florentine Spinach Soup.—Shred very fine two quarts of well washed spinach and one head of lettuce. Put the vegetables into a saucepan with three-fourths of a cupful of butter, and one pint of shelled peas. Cook slowly, adding a sprig of parsley and thyme; moisten with three quarts of good stock and simmer until the vegetables are cooked. Add six beaten egg yolks and one cupful of cream; season to taste and serve with grated cheese and croutons of bread.

Sweetbread Cream Soup.—Parboil one pair of sweetbreads, remove the skin and cut into quarter-inch cubes, fry in two tablespoonfuls of butter, sprinkle with two tablespoonfuls of flour; stir and mix well, then add two quarts of veal broth. Simmer 30 minutes; season with salt and nutmeg; before serving add one cupful of cream and the beaten yolks of four eggs.

Gooseberry Chutney.—Prepare two quarts of green gooseberries and cook to boiling in one quart of vinegar. Allow to cool and add two cupfuls of sugar boiled to a sirup with two cupfuls of vinegar, two cupfuls of salt, half a pound of onions and three-fourths pound of garlic chopped fine, one pound of powdered ginger, one-half pound of red peppers, chopped, one pound each of raisins and mustard seed, crushed. Add enough vinegar to make of the right consistency, stir until well mixed, then put away in large-mouthed bottles, sealed.

Nellie Maxwell

Eggplant With Bacon Is Quite Easily Prepared

This is one of the easiest ways of preparing egg plant. The strips of bacon laid over the eggplant give flavor and add fat to it, so that it is unnecessary to use butter for seasoning. The United States Department of Agriculture gives the following directions:

Wash, trim off stem and blossom, cut into halves lengthwise, lay in baking dish or on heavy plate. Gash pulp deeply with knife in checkerboard form, so that the seasonings may enter the flesh; then sprinkle with salt and pepper and lay thin slices of raw bacon across each half, about one inch apart. Bake in moderately hot oven until tender, or about 25 to 40 minutes according to size of vegetable. Before serving, the cooked bacon strips may be cut finely and crisped in a frying pan (if not already crisp), then powdered and spread over the surface of the eggplant, or mixed with the pulp.

SICK 3 YEARS WITHOUT RELIEF

Finally Found Health by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Columbia, S. C.—"Your medicine has done me so much good that I feel like I owe my life to it. For three years I was sick and was treated by physicians, but they didn't seem to help me any. Then I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got strong enough to do my housework, when before I was hardly able to be up. I have also taken the Vegetable Compound during the Change of Life and it has left me in good health. I recommend it as the best medicine for women in the Change of Life and you can use these facts as a testimonial." Mrs. S. A. HOLLEY, R. F. D. No. 4, Columbia, South Carolina.

Why suffer for years with backache, nervousness, painful times and other ailments common to women from early life to middle age, when Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will bring relief? Take it when annoying symptoms first appear and avoid years of suffering.

In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over 200,000 replies were received, and 98 out of every 100 reported they were benefited by its use.

Map Long in Making

The immense topographical map of the United States that has been under preparation and construction for 26 years, will not be complete until 1945.

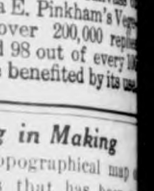
Handy Handicap

Willesden Wife—My husband is very deaf, so they've given him a job on the golf links.—London Tit-Bits.

Back Giving Out?

Weak, tired—utterly miserable these summer days? Morning, noon, night, that throbbing backache; those stabbing pains? Feel years older than you are? Too often sluggish kidneys are to blame. Once they fall behind in filtering off impurities, blood and nerves are upset. It's little wonder, then, you have constant backache, dizziness, rheumatic pains. Don't risk neglect. If your kidneys are sluggish, use Doan's Pills. Doan's have helped thousands—are used the world over. Ask your neighbor!

An Iowa Case



Jack N. Smith, baker, 1119 E. Fifth St., Vinton, Iowa, says: "My back was so lame I had to stop work. I had a steady, dull ache across my kidneys and when I stooped, sharp catches went through my back. My kidneys acted too often. I used Doan's Pills and was soon able to go back to work and my back was strong."

DOAN'S PILLS 60c

STIMULANT DIURETIC TO THE KIDNEYS

Foster-Milburn Co., Mfg. Chem., Buffalo, N.Y.

Olive Oil Shortage

So important a factor in Tunis is olive oil that the short crops of the last three years has caused a financial setback there.

Safety in Delay

He—When do you think I'd better speak to your father?

She—After we're married.

Always

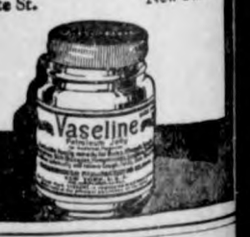
A safe and soothing remedy for cuts, burns, or skin troubles. Protects, relieves and heals. Take internally for coughs and sore throats.

Vaseline

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

PETROLEUM JELLY

Chesebrough Mfg. Co., Cons'd. State St. New York



Proved

"You must believe what you see with your own eyes." "Not at all; I see you, but I don't believe you."

The more a man has the more he wants—with the possible exception of the father of twins.

Sure Relief FOR INDIGESTION

6 BELL-ANS Hot water Sure Relief

BELL-ANS

25¢ AND 75¢ PACKAGES EVERYWHERE

Community Building

Small Town Likely to Supplant Large City

About the most important thing that has happened to the United States—and, for that matter, to all other civilized countries—during the past quarter century or so has been the growth of cities. In 1900 only 40 out of every 100 Americans lived in communities of more than 2,500 population; now the number is 52, at least.

While Greater New York was taking in nearly 3,000,000 new citizens, or about the total population of the 13 colonies before the Revolutionary war, 21 other New York communities of 25,000 or more gained about 1,000,000, and the population of all the rest of the state stood practically still.

A similar process has given Greater London more than 7,500,000 people, and Tokyo, in the land of cherry blossoms, more than 5,000,000. Such populations scare some people, who predict that the whole United States will soon be one huge, many-storied metropolis.

Big cities are certainly a new thing in history. Babylon, the metropolis of antiquity, is supposed to have had a poor million in her days of splendor; Rome something less than a million; Athens, which gave the world so much imperishable beauty and wisdom, only 200,000. London was a famous capital in the Fifteenth century, with 40,000; Nuremberg and Strassburg were centers of art and commerce with no more than 20,000 apiece. One wouldn't look for a good hotel in such towns nowadays.

But the monster human hives may not have everything their own way forever. Cities grow because people think it worth while, in dollars and cents, to live in them. They will stop growing when it no longer pays. According to some shrewd observers, the time of smaller cities is about here. With electric power, which can be set down in a little town as cheaply as in a big one, there is no reason why this should not be so. When a factory gets too big its overhead may eat up its profits. The same thing is sometimes true of cities.

Perhaps the future lies with smaller groupings of population—big enough to be sociable and amusing, small enough to let everyone have sufficient fresh air, sunlight and room to stretch. Perhaps tomorrow belongs to Athens, not to Babylon.—Collier's Magazine.

Rose Trellis Adds to Appearance of Garden

An alluring little rose trellis is a fascinating adjunct to any country or suburban home. Even the amateur carpenter can easily construct one, since it is little more than an arch over a seat. The arch is made of latticework, so that the climbing vine may find a hold for its tendrils. A back of open woodwork for the seat is in keeping with the airy nature of the trellis. The whole should be painted either white or green; but white is the more effective as a background for the greenery of the vines and the bright color of the pink or red roses. A comparatively small yard will have space for this charming bower.

Water Systems on Farms

The development of water systems has lifted a heavy burden from the shoulders of every one on the farm. It means freedom from back-tiring drudgery for the housewife, to have running water in the house for every need. Outdoors it means better live stock and greater profits, with less time spent in monotonous chores. Of great importance, too, is the real fire protection it brings.

A good water system can be purchased and installed for about the price of an ordinary automobile. The upkeep is much less. It is, indeed, a long stride from water carried in jars and skins to running water on the farm, piped into every building and every room if desired. Modern manufacturing efficiency has made it possible at a cost surprisingly low.

Home Owner Wants Comfort

Home must be a thing of beauty, a birthplace for better ideas, for higher goals, and for a more liberal education. America is reading; its children are coming in contact more and more with the beautiful things of life, and as they know them so they will in turn create. The very start of beauty in life must come in the home, and the man who owns his home can take up the task of beautifying as no renter can hope to do. The man who owns his own home is not satisfied with what, as a renter, he will put up with. He wants better heating, better lighting and finer gardens. He wants them and, truly wanting them, he gets them.

Cautious Somnambulist

Blinks had a way of walking in his sleep—a failing of which he was greatly ashamed. Early one morning, after a long absence, he returned, with a pair of trousers rolled up and tucked under his arm.

"Where in the world have you been?" his wife demanded sternly.

"Down to the office."

"But why the trousers under your arm?"

"Oh—I—I thought I might meet some one."—American Legion Weekly.

IN FILMY ENSEMBLE SUITS; COIN DOTS NOW THE RAGE

FASHION dictates delicate and filmy fabrics for tiny girls' dress-up frocks, and if the little fairies in our homes had gossamer wings, they would match up well with these fragile stuffs. But our wingless fairies have sturdy and active legs, and fabrics, however filmy, must be sturdy too, or soon perish. Fine cotton voile is filmy enough and sturdy enough, and stands at the head of the class as a medium for little tots' dresses.

Little Tot's Ensemble Suit.

It is shown in all the flower-like, pastel colors and in higher shades that are chosen for the youngest fashionables.

These important young people are adorable in miniature ensemble suits, like the one shown here. Voile in any pretty color—in this case tomato red—makes the dress and eyelet embroidery in white linen contributes the coat, but eyelet embroidery in thin batiste would be as good a choice. The sleeveless coat is bordered with voile like the dress and adorned with three fancy buttons on each side. Except for a pocket, this frock appears to be entirely plain, but usually a very small, floral embroidered motif is placed on the pocket or near the neck.

This ensemble idea for little tots is quite new, but we are seeing only the beginning of its career. New printed flannels and plain, pastel-colored flannels are sure to intrigue designers into ensemble suits and frocks that will make their small wearers highly decorative in the scenery. Coat frocks for girls of six or more are already shown in these prints with round collars and narrow turn-back cuffs, in white or colored linen, that are detachable and washable. Plain flannel in cheerful colors is in demand for girls of all ages and simple dresses made of it, for the smaller girls, are very effectively finished with yarn stitchery or a gayly colored flower done in yarn embroidery. Detachable collars and cuffs of linen may be taken for granted on most of them. Beside their neatness, they educate little ladies in the art of being tidy.

From morning until night, from parlor to kitchen, from ocean to ocean coin dots are in circulation. They are the outstanding success among the infinitely varied designs on printed silks and cottons used for summer frocks. Many curious patterns are discovered to be made of them, and although this currency is turned out as fast as the mills can print, fashion stands back of it, and it shows no sign of depreciating in value.

Just about the simplest arrangement of the coin dot designs now current, has been used for making the pretty day-frock pictured here. And the frock itself is as simple as the printed pattern. The picture tells the story of both, except for color, and two guesses at that will prove one or the other correct at least nine times out of ten—therefore we may take it for granted that the frock is either red and white or black and white. It is made with an inverted plait at each side, bordered with plain silk to match the dot in color and wears its color on the shoulder in loops of narrow ribbon fastened with a small ornament. In all the white and color combinations this will make a crisp looking gown. But the coin-dot prints are shown in two-color combinations and in two or three shades of one color and appear in both silk and chiffon afternoon frocks.

Simple Arrangement of Coin-Dot Design.

In these more intricate afternoon dresses plaits are introduced in many ways—oftenest in plaited skirts set onto long bodices. The coin dots play strange pranks when the fabric is plaited—forming curious figures and combination, thus taking on a new interest—the variations are exhaustless.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Adrift With Humor

APPARENTLY

College Man—Would you object if I kissed you?

Co-Ed—(No answer.)

"Would you care if I kissed you?"

(No answer.)

"Would you mind if I kissed you?"

(No answer.)

"Say, are you deaf?"

"No; are you dumb?"—Princeton Tiger.

His Real Rating

As Falconer Hill, the Broadway lawyer, emerged from the golf house at the Westchester-Biltmore the other afternoon, he turned to his partner in the foursome that had just been fixed up.

"What's your handicap?" asked Hill.

"My wife," replied his companion.—New York World.

Her Own Medicine

First Collegian—Hurrah, I have a date tonight!

Second Collegian—Then you aren't coming to our stag?

First Collegian—Sure I am. In a few minutes I'll call and break my date. This girl "ditched" me four times.

TO KEEP HIS HAND IN

"The good golf liar is out of a job these days, with everything frozen in."

"He might have himself called to testify before one of the investigating committees in Washington—just to keep his hand in, you know."

Casus Belli

All men want people to be free.
All men dishonor flout.
If there "another war" should be,
What would we fight about?

How It Happened

Judge—When you work what do you do?

Hobo—I'm an organist.

Judge—Why, a man with such talent should never be out of a job. What's the trouble?

Hobo—My monkey died.—New York Central Times Magazine.

Animal Talk

The new seal had arrived at the zoo. All the inhabitants thereof crowded around the newcomer and gazed on him in wonder.

"Did they send you in a baggage car?" ventured the stuck-up porcupine.

"No, no," was the answer. "I'm a box car seal."

Too Difficult

Waiter—How many lumps, madam?

Mrs. Parvenue—Aw, gee! I never was any good at these guessing games.—California Pelican.

ABBREVIATED THOUGHT

"What do you think she could have been thinking of when she cut off her hair?"

"Why, of cutting off a few years from her age, I suspect."

One Believer Best

Hope, the bright deceiver,
Still each life controls;
Better one believer
Than a million doubtin' souls.

Out of Date

His Aunt—What, you mean to say you didn't like that young lady?

Her Nephew—No; she was—ah—well, a little too effeminate.

It May Glitter, but—

Midas was crowing over the gift that enabled him to turn everything he touched into gold.

"But think of me," grumbled Mrs. M., "having to keep all this stuff polished."—American Legion Weekly.

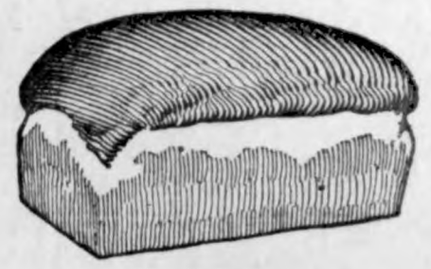
The Opportunist

Hub—That new partner of mine is never satisfied. He wants everything he sees.

Wife—You must hurry and introduce him to our daughter.

Be sure of a light sweet dough: use Yeast Foam

Such flavor!



No wonder people eat twice as much bread when it's made from Yeast Foam

Send for free booklet "The Art of Baking Bread"

Northwestern Yeast Co.
1730 North Ashland Ave.
Chicago, Ill.

But Do Mothers Ever Get Periods of Rest?

In one of Indianapolis' largest department stores, there is employed, as housekeeper, a little woman—the mother of four children. The father, now dead, was a Spanish war veteran and the three smaller children have been in school at Knightstown.

All the children are musical—the two oldest boys play cornets, the third boy a trombone, and the youngest, a girl, is learning to play the piano. It being vacation time the four were practicing together and the mother said, "Goodness me! An orchestra right in my own family! But what shall I play?"

The oldest boy spoke up with—"When we come to the 'rest period,' mother, you can play that."—Indianapolis News.

Shave With Cuticura Soap

And double your razor efficiency as well as promote skin purity, skin comfort and skin health. No mug, no slimy soap, no germs, no waste, no irritation even when shaved twice daily. One soap for all uses—shaving, bathing and shampooing.—Advertisement.

Decoration

The detail of a single weedy bank laughs the carving of ages to scorn. Every leaf and stalk has a design and tracery upon it—every knot of grass an intricacy of shade which the labor of years could never imitate, and which, if such labor could follow it out even to the last fibers of the leaflets, would yet be falsely represented, for, as in all other cases brought forward, it is not clearly seen, but confusedly and mysteriously. That which is nearness for the bank, is distance for its details, and however near it may be, the greater part of those details are still a beautiful incomprehensibility.—Ruskin.

Tokyo's Great Subway

The cost of constructing Tokyo's new subway system will be somewhere in the neighborhood of 187,000,000 yen, according to the plan drawn up by the municipal authorities. There will be about 40 miles of the subway. It is expected that the surveying of routes will be started shortly and actual construction work begun toward the end of the year or early next spring.

See Need for Canal

Much discussion has been revived concerning the making of the Tiber river navigable from the Mediterranean as far as Rome, at least, for freight barges and small tugs. Proponents of the plan argue that the growing population of the capital is beginning to tax the railroads beyond their capacity to bring food and other supplies.

Salvationists' Good Work

After a separation of 30 years, and attempts through all his days of manhood to find her, an English soldier, now in Egypt, has been brought in touch with his mother, now in Canada. The Salvation army in Canada accomplished in a few weeks a task that has baffled the soldier for the greater part of the 30 years.

Mohammedan Empire

Few people realize the wide extent of the Mohammedan world as it exists today. It covers a territory three times as large as that of the United States, extending from Western Siberia southward into India and westward across Africa to the Atlantic.

Cheerfulness Wins

Be cheerful! The worst disease with which a man can be afflicted is that of being a continual knocker or grouch. It gives one a sickening feeling to meet on a pleasant day men who are continually finding fault with everything and everybody.—Grit.

One Thing More

Wife (starting on the vacation)—Now, John, is there anything we've forgotten?

John (sarcastically)—There's the piano, my dear.

Awful

Speed—"That woman can speak three languages." Spud—"Sort of a triple threat, huh."—Penn State Froth.

There are many things harder to endure than starvation.

Disgrace to Profession

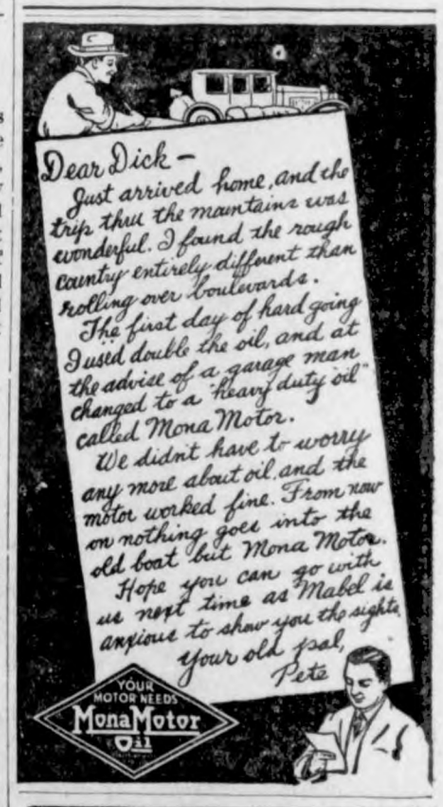
A chorus girl who had just returned from a tour with a road company dropped into the dressing room of some of her friends to learn the latest.

"Where's Gwendolyn, girls?" she asked. "Did she finally promise to love, honor and obey?"

"Not only that!" snorted one of the others disgustedly. "Why, the little sap's actually doing it!"—American Legion Weekly.

Invisible Wire

The finest wire ever made, so slender that it cannot be seen with the naked eye, was manufactured recently by a physicist in the United States Department of Agriculture. Wire of this kind is not only a novelty but a practical commodity. Among those who use extremely fine wire are surgeons and dentists.



For prompt and lasting relief from eczema doctors prescribe Resinol
It soothes as it heals
Resinol

Kill All Flies! THEY SPREAD DISEASE
Placed anywhere, DAISY FLY KILLER attracts and kills all flies. Neat, clean, ornamental, convenient and cheap. Lasts all season. Made of metal, can't spill or tip over; will not soil or injure anything. Guaranteed.

DAISY FLY KILLER at your dealer or 5 by EXPRESS, prepaid, $1.25.
HAROLD SOMERS, 150 De Kalb Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Green's August Flower
for Constipation, Indigestion and Torpid Liver
Successful for 59 years.
30c and 90c bottles—
ALL DRUGGISTS

RUB YOUR EYES?
Use Dr. Thompson's Eyewater. Buy at your druggist's or 1165 River, Troy, N. Y. Booklet.

Overhaul the Barn Dance

The American barn dance is a popular institution, but there are times when it seems to be in need of a general over hauling at so much per haul, Howard Rann writes in the Manchester Press. "When an addle-headed mother permits a 15 year old girl to stay out at a dance until 4 a. m. three nights a week, and come home smelling of hootch, hair oil and Red Crown gasoline, she needn't be surprised to find that the nearest maternity home is more thickly populated than an ant hill. The wise mother is that good old bird who insists that daughter gets home at a reasonable hour and in event of failure to do so it starts out for the scene of activities with a determined look and a tug strap. It is better to raise a few blisters on the anatomy of the beloved offspring than to let some bull-necked yokel disgrace her and her family in the bargain. There are too many fathers and mothers in this country who are sound asleep at the very hour when their children are in the greatest danger of their lives. And we dont mean maybe."

The Fairmont newspapers are having a lot of fun with a Fairmont lady who recently purchased an aluminum cooking utensil from a peddlar at a cost of $4 and then went down town and saw the same article priced at $2.75. Later when the article arrived by mail C. O. D., the charges boosted the cost to $5.40. Fairmont is also the place where peddlars bought hams at the local meat town at an increase of dollar or two markets and peddled them around and easily sold them. If housewives would keep posted on the current price of merchandise thru the adds in their local newspapers they would not be so apt to bite on the bait offered by peddlars. However, remember, no peddlar is chasing around from house to house for his health. He expects and receives a profit several times a merchant would ask you and you are financially better off to buy of your own home merchant. Ringsted Dispatch.

FRIENDS

Among the good gifts
That kind Heaven sends
We always count precious
The blessing of friends.

One may lack many things—
Lands, houses and gold,
But if he has friends,
He is rich many fold.

The self-centered life
Where no friendships meet
Is narrow indeed
And is incomplete.

He who dwells apart,
Has no cheer to give,
Ne'er tastes of real joy,
Has not learned to live.

The language of friendship
We all understand.
'Tis the wecloming smile
And the clasp of a hand.

The bright sparkling eye,
Words that gladden and please,
The union of hearts
Which lies deeper than these.

There are numerous friends
When successes are high,
When adversity comes
Who will stand by?

How good to have friends
Whose faith does not fail
When slander or falsehood
Or evil assail.

Who by shining dollars
Are not led away
Who for paltry honors
Will not leave or betray,

An anchor, a stay
On which to depend,
In true, a constant,
Unwavering friend.
—H. L. Tenney Plymoth, Iowa.

Never get discouraged,
Do not let your valor fade,
When you get a lemon,
Just make some lemon ade.

Some guys are so ignorant that they thing Crimea is the name of a talcum powder used in Sing Sing.

Ever hear of the fellow who was so dumb that he looked for eggs in the cuckoo clock.

The absentminded inventor perfected a parachute device. He was taken up in a balloon to make a test of the apparatus. Arriving at a height of a thousand feet, he climbed over the basket and dropped out. He had fallen two hundred yards when he remarked to himself in a tone of deep regret:

"Dear me! I ve gone and forgotten the parachute."

Inoculation for Different Crops

Value of Having the Entire Farm Treated Gradually Becoming Apparent.

That New Jersey growers are firm believers in the value of legume inoculants is apparent from the flood of inquiries recently coming in to the experiment station, at New Brunswick, asking for inoculation material. This is probably due to a recent article in one of the farm papers which erroneously stated that legume inoculants could be obtained from the station.

Available Inoculants.

Since no appropriations are made for the distribution of inoculants by the experiment station or college of agriculture, these inquirers are necessarily referred either to the various commercial sources or to the United States Department of Agriculture. Good inoculants are now available from several commercial sources at prices ranging from 50 cents to $1 an acre, depending on the quantity desired and the kind of material ordered.

To a limited extent, inoculation material may be obtained free from the United States Department of Agriculture on request of the county agent. Names and addresses of commercial firms selling inoculants may be obtained from the county agent, or from the college of agriculture at New Brunswick.

Inoculate Entire Farm.

The value of having the entire farm inoculated for all of the legumes commonly grown on it is becoming increasingly apparent, and many farmers have thoroughly inoculated all fields which grow crops needing inoculation. Whether this is done by commercial culture or soil from other inoculated ground makes little difference—the important thing is to inoculate. Those interested in the methods of applying the material will find descriptions in Extension Bulletin 32, "How to Inoculate Legumes," copies of which may be obtained free by addressing the Mailing Clerk, New Jersey State College of Agriculture, New Brunswick, N. J.

High Grade Fertilizers Are Cheaper for Farmer

The high analysis fertilizers are nearly always cheaper than the low analysis goods, says E. L. Worthen of the state college of agriculture of Ithaca. The new concentrated mixtures, however, do not offer any savings over those containing a total of 18 to 20 per cent of plant food.

In mixing and marketing fertilizers at the factory there are certain expenses which depend on the volume rather than on the concentration of the product. It costs as much to make bags, print the guarantee on the bags, mix, handle, analyze, load, and ship a low grade fertilizer as it does a high grade product.

Freight costs just as much for 4-8-4 fertilizer as for 5-10-5, but it is not as much bother to the farmer to handle, and it really is cheaper on an actual cost basis.

The 5-10-5 costs $6.50 a ton more than the 4-8-4. For this $6.50 one gets in each ton of 5-10-5 an additional 500 pounds equivalent to the 4-8-4. In other words, the extra plant food secured in the 5-10-5 costs at the rate of $26.00 a ton for the 4-8-4 mixtures. And the retail prices of these two grades this season are $49.30 and $42.80 respectively.

Buttermilk in Silo to Start the Fermentation

New use for buttermilk is suggested by Prof. O. Erf of the Ohio State university, who has used this by-product of the creamery to start the right kind of fermentation in silos. About three gallons of buttermilk is used to a ton of silage.

There are two kinds of acids formed in silage, he points out, namely, acetic (which is found in vinegar) and lactic acid (which causes the souring of milk). The purpose of the buttermilk is to act as a "starter" the same as in churning, so that lactic acid will be developed in the silage instead of acetic.

Experiments carried on at the Ohio experiment station showed increased milk production and improved physical condition of the cows fed lime on top of the silage, from one to two ounces per cow daily. Calcium lactate, formed chemically by the lime uniting with lactic acid in silage, can be assimilated by the cow, while calcium acetate will not be.

Do Not Sow Clover and Sudan Grass Together

Do not sow sweet clover and sudan grass together. You will get a very poor stand of sweet clover and if the season continues dry there will be practically no sweet clover. From 20 to 25 pounds of sudan grass seed is required per acre. Sweet clover may be sown alone at any time during the summer up until the middle of August if a good, moist seed bed is provided. It may also be sown in corn at the last cultivation or with soy beans but the chances of getting a good stand by seeding with these crops are greatly reduced depending upon the weather during the remainder of the season. If there should be plenty of rain the sweet clover may make a good stand but if it should be unusually dry the stand is sure to be poor.

Prepare Early for Filling the Silo

Arrange for Help, Power and Cutting Equipment.

Plan early for the important work of filling the silo. Arrange for your help, power and cutting equipment. Make measurements for placing cutter and power. Plan to have a clear road to the cutter and also one leaving, so that the loads of fodder can easily be brought to the machine and leave without requiring backing or difficulties in getting away. Select a good foundation for the cutter and set up blower pipe as nearly vertical as possible so as to avoid friction and unnecessary length of pipe. The machine should be set level and securely fastened by stakes and by sinking grooves for wheels. In putting up blower pipe or carrier, care should be taken to securely fasten top at entrance to roof. In building your silo it is well to construct a ladder reaching from top door to outside opening at roof so that it will be easy for a man to go to the top of an empty silo and open the roof door to lower rope or pulley for elevating pipe or carrier.

Corn should be fairly well matured, for at this time the plant contains its greatest amount of food material. This stage may be determined by observing the denting of the corn, the drying of the bottom leaves or some of the outside husks.

The early dent stage is that period when the corn is best matured for putting in shocks. If the corn be sowed thick in drills or broadcast, its maturity can be determined by tassel and silk. With cane, kaffir corn or milo maize the same rule will hold true as to maturity. If the corn is overmatured it will be necessary to add water which can best be done by using a hose and putting the water in at the blower, using from one-half to one barrel per load according to the dryness of the fodder. Where the silage is to be used for fattening, rather than milk production, it is important that the corn be mature, and for this purpose it is best to plant an early variety in those sections where a later one will not mature.

Renovating Strawberry Bed Soon After Harvest

The strawberry patch which has borne one crop should be renovated soon after harvest. This is done by plowing out the plants on either one or both sides of the row, leaving a strip only about four inches wide. The soil of the plowed land is thoroughly cultivated and if a spike-toothed harrow is used, cross-cultivation may be practiced so that a good bed is made for the new runner plants. Under good soil conditions these will start to row within a short time and will make a row of new plants 12 to 16 inches wide by early fall. The new plants are confined to the proper width by continuing cultivation until they cease to grow.

Usually it does not pay to renovate a commercial strawberry patch that has already produced two crops, although a home patch, under very favorable conditions, may be allowed to yield three and sometimes four crops.

"Hard Luck" With Pigs Result of Wrong Feeds

A great deal of so-called "hard luck" with young pigs soon after farrowing can be traced directly to improper feeding and in most cases to overfeeding of the sows. Just because a sow seems hungry just after farrowing is no index that she should receive feed.

A liberal supply of water should always be available. This will usually satisfy and quiet the sow. She should receive very little feed for at least 24 hours after farrowing. The first few feeds of grain should be light and fed in the form of thick slop. She should not be on full feed for from six to ten days after farrowing.

FARM FACTS

Few things give more and cost less than a woodlot.

* * *

Watch the garden for unwelcome insect visitors. A bug in time saves nine—and the garden sass.

* * *

Alfalfa is not only a soil enricher of outstanding merit; it is the best of all forage crops for dairy cattle.

* * *

Lots of loose talk about the poor class of help on the farms made one farmer inquire if better living quarters wouldn't attract a better grade of men.

* * *

During hot weather it is very necessary that the buckets from which calves are fed be kept clean and sterilized, since dirty buckets are a common cause of calf scours. Bacteria develop rapidly at this time of year and an unwashed bucket soon becomes very unsanitary.

* * *

Window glass filters out certain valuable sun rays. On a test at the New Jersey experiment station 1,000 chicks kept behind glass averaged one-fourth pound each at the end of 12 weeks. Two hundred chicks of the same age and fed the same ration, but kept outdoors, weighed 1½ pounds.

Boy Had Good Idea of Penalty of Lying

"You know where people go who tell lies?" said a court official at Newcastle, England, to a small girl in the witness box recently. "Yes, but I don't believe it," was the reply.

This incident has suggested to an English commentator an instance where the converse of the Newcastle episode occurred in the court of Judge Maule a few years ago: A small boy was placed in the witness box and was asked the same question, "Do you know where people go who tell lies?" on which Maule commented: "If he knows that, it's a good deal more than I do." However, the boy did know, for he was taken through a catalogue of offenses from telling lies to stealing apples, and replied "Hell-fire" to all of them. Counsel suggested that he was not competent. The judge demurred. "He thinks that for every willful fault he will go to hell-fire; and he is very likely, while he believes that doctrine, to be most strict in his observance of the truth. If you and I believed that such would be the penalty for every offense we committed, we should be better men than we are. Swear him." —San Francisco Argonaut.

Traditions Tell of Many Sunken Cities

Traditions of sunken cities are always interesting. Both Killarney and Lough Neagh are reputed to have once been the sites of famous Irish cities, drowned as a punishment for the wickedness of their inhabitants. Holland boasts of several ruined towns sunk at the bottom of the Zuyder zee, while off the cost of Holstein lies buried the legendary city of Vineta, whence (so fishermen say) the tolling of the bells in the church spires comes up faintly through the waters on quiet days. Most famous of all is Ys, said to have stood where now is the Bay of Douarnency, a little west of Quimper, in Brittany. Ys was a magnificent city, built below the level of the sea, and it owed its destruction to a certain wicked princess named Dahut, who, to gratify an idle whim, opened the sluice-gates and herself perished in the ruin which she brought upon the city.

Bear as Photographer!

A student of forestry was camping with two friends in the wildest part of Allegheny park. Taking his camera, he rambled off alone to look for picturesque subjects.

He had placed his camera on a fallen tree, and had gone some little distance to get a viewpoint, when he saw a black bear browsing amongst some berry bushes. He was scared, and, forgetting his camera, sped back to his camp and companions. With them he returned to the spot, but, in the meantime, the bear had disappeared.

The camera was still on the log, but a plate had been exposed. When it was developed it showed the frightened young man in rapid flight down the trail. The bear, investigating the camera, had touched the trigger with its nose.

Sadler's Well

A question as to the identity of a person named Sadler has been suggested by a recent appeal, sponsored by leading men, for the restoration to the nation of the historic theater known as Sadler's Well. Sadler lived in the time of the Stuarts, and was a road surveyor and a property owner. One day some workmen, while digging for gravel on a piece of land belonging to him in Clerkenwell, came on an ancient well—one of the medicinal springs to which pilgrimages were formerly made. The site at once became a popular resort. Sadler built round it a pleasure house, set in pretty gardens and groves of trees. He provided music and other entertainments, and in a short time the existence of the waters was almost totally forgotten.—Family Herald.

Excellence

Excellence may be considered an axiom, or a proposition which becomes self-evident just in proportion to the clearness or precision with which it is put. If it fairly exists, in this sense, it requires no further elucidation. To point out too particularly the beauties of a work is to admit tacitly that these beauties are not wholly admirable. Regarding, then, excellence as that which is capable of self-manifestation, it but remains for the critic to show when, where and how it fails in becoming manifest.—Poe.

Vision of Animals

Men and monkeys have far better eyesight than any other animals, except birds. It has been found that most birds have powers of vision about one hundred times as great as that of normal man. Some birds can see a worm at a distance of 300 feet. The eyes of birds are especially adapted to see moving objects at great distances, so that the approach of an enemy is observed by them long before the human eye could detect it.

At Any College

Homecoming day is the time when alumni come back to the old alma mater, criticize the furniture, freshmen and architecture of the house, reorganize the football team, weep mildly at the ivy, declare things weren't that way when they were in college, and express great wonder as to where the younger generation is going. Then it rains.—Colorado Dodo.

REALLY?

Out of curiosity, a farmer had grown a crop of flax and had a tablecloth made of linen. Some time later he remarked to a visitor at dinner, "I grew this tablecloth myself."

"Did you, really?" she exclaimed. "How did you manage it?' '

It was plain she had no idea of how tablecloths came into being, so the farmer lowered his voice mysteriously as he replied, "if you promise not to give the secret away, I'll tell you."

The guest promised.

"Well,' proceeded the farmer, "I planted a napkin.'

GETTING EVEN

Youngster—Five cents' worth of castor oil, please.' '

Chemist—The tasteless kind, I presume.' '

Youngster—No, sir, Its for father.' '

SHARING HIS POSSESSIONS

Neighbor: "O I say, Ginks, may I borrow your lawn mower?' '

Ginks: "Why, Smith took it back to Jones this morning because he promised Dayle he would return it to Olson's neighbor by Monday, provided Cohen got through Sunday."

SQUELCHED

She: "Can you drive with one hand?'

He: You bet I can.

She: Then have an apple.

Dr. R. W. Specht
—Dentist—
Office Over Whitehead's Store
Office Phone No. 106
Garner Iowa

A FEW CAUSES OF Oil Pumping
AND COMPRESSION LEAKAGE

1. Worn or out or round cylinders.
2. Scored cylinders or pistons.
3. Warped or worn ring grooves.
4. Poorly fitted pistons and rings.
5. Piston pin hole out of round.
6. Poorly aligned rod on piston assembly.
7. Sprung connecting rods.
8. Crank shaft warped or out of true.
9. Worn Bearings.
10. Warped or sticky valves.
11. Improper timing.
12. Leaky cylinder head gaskets.

All this cas be repaired at—

PAVEY'S
STORMIZING SHOP
Use Quaker State Oil and Ever-ready Gasoline

The Cash Store

We are prepared to meet your every need during the threshing season. You will find we have on hand a full line of Fresh Groceries and are well supplied with our favorite brand of G. W. C. canned goods, which are sure to please. Try a can of fruit or vegetables for the threshing dinner. You will find the gallon cans of fruits and Berries convenient for Pies.

Saturday Special
2 Cans Green Peas 27c

Jno. N. Day's Cash Store
"PAY CASH and PAY LESS"

Buy Your
Flour Now!

We advise you to lay in your supply of FLOUR RIGHT NOW, as we still have a good supply of "Old" Flour on hand. The flour from new wheat will now be on the market, but as long as we have a supply of old wheat flour on hand we urge you to buy it as it is always better.

Maple Sota, Per sack $2.50
White Royal, " " $2.40

We recommend Maple Sota as one of the best brands of Flour on the market. Those who have used it say they like it best.

CARLOAD
Mixed Mill Feed

We have a car load of mixed Mill Feeds coming, due to arrive any day. Let us know what you want.

Klemme Co-Op. Grain Co

Miss Blanche Gimer is visiting friends at Abott this week.

Howard Doyle was a Klemme caller Monday.

Miss Luella Fiero spent Sunday at Mason City.

WANTED—Plain sewing. Phone 1

Miss Ida Rose Christenson is visiting at the Herb Bailey home this week.

Mrs. Arvela Levea has been visiting in Klemme a few days this week.

KLEMME MARKETS

August 5, 1925

Wheat	1.50
Oats	.33
Shelled Corn	.90
Ear Corn	.85
Rye	.85
Barley	.65
Hogs (top)	14.30
Eggs (cash)	.29
Eggs (trade)	.30
Heavy Hens	.18
Light Hens	.15
Standard Springs	.20
Leghorn No. 2 Springs	.15
Ducks	.10
Old Roosters	.08
Geese	.08
Butter (creamery)	.45
Butterfat	.44

WANTED — Milk customers Phone 4314, Klemme.

The Misses Susan and Mary White of Esterville spent the week-end visiting the Granges.

Earl Josten spent a few days last week at the Epworth League Institute at Clear Lake.

Do you want a good position? We have placed thousands of young people in good paying positions and can place you. Address The Hamilton University of Mason City, Iowa.

Miss Pearl Johnson and Miss Edith Haupt spent the week-end with home folks.

SPECIAL PRICE on Mens, Ladies and Childrens Oxfords, Sandals and Ties, 10 per cent off. F. Gruetzmacher. tfc

THE CHERRY ESTATE:

OFFER their 300 acre farm in Avery township, for sale. Good land with fair improvements; near school and market. Will give good terms. Price $135.00 per acre. Marion A. Fell & Co., Sales Agents, Garner, Iowa.

There will be no services in the Reformed church Sunday, August 9. Rev. Depping is out of town.

We are the agents for the Klassy Kleeners, Mason City, G. W. Kluckhohn and Sons. It

News of Klemme and Vicinity

Mrs. R. W. Elder and daughter Reva, and Arlene Ell drove to Belmond Monday. Arlene remained at Belmond for a few days visit at the Wm. Trafford home.

Fred Haupt brought in a stalk of corn last week which measured 12 feet from root to tip of the tassel. The corn was raised on his farm near Klemme.

Mrs. Ernest Helps and Mrs Ted Dutheridge and daughter Jane, returned last week from Morris, Ill. where they attended the funeral of their father Stephen Kleimaier.

The Ladies Aid Society meet this afternoon at the Parish House with Mrs. Sumner Trumbell and Mrs. A. H. Yahnke as hostesses, Worthy Usher of Palo, Iowa spent the week-end visiting Klemme Relatives. Mrs. Usher who has been visiting here for some time, and Miss Graska Quandt returned home with him Monday morning.

Be a stenographer or a private secretary. You can learn the work in a short time. Positions for all graduates. The Hamilton University of Mason City, Iowa.

Sig Ludwig is back in Klemme, working at the C. A. Bachman barber shop. He has been working at Forest City for a couple of months.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Blank spent a few days of the past week visiting at the home of his parents. They left Tuesday for Morrison, Iowa, where Mr. Blank will have a position as railroad agent

R. A. Jorgenson and family visited with Mrs. Jorgensons sister, Mrs. Lyle Liebendorfer and son Robert at Clarion Friday afternoon. Mrs. P. M. Wilson accompanied them and visited with friends and relatives.

Grandpa Phillip Ell and Leslie Ell of Mason City were Klemme callers Friday. Arlene Ell who has been visiting in Klemme returned to Mason City with them for a few days visit there.

William Leach and family of Dows spent Sunday visiting Klemme friends and relatives, who all gathered at the Ben Katter home for a picnic dinner and a good time.

Mrs. Walter Lau and Miss Geneva Schultz had their tonsils removed at the Mercy Hospital at Mason City last Wednesday. They are getting along nicely and are able to be around now.

MOVING YOUR FUTURE FORWARD is an unusually interesting book. Would you like a copy? Address Box 73, Mason City, Iowa, and a copy will be mailed to you free of charge, postagle paid.

Next Tuesday is Garner's big day. Each year the Legion stages a big celebration there and big plans have been made to show the people a big time this year.

Leave your articles to be cleaned at G. W. Kluckhohn's. We are agents for the Klassy Kleeners Mason City.

Rev. Gedye and daughter Ursula spent Saturday and Sunday visiting with Klemme friends. Sunday morning Rev. Gedye preached at Belmond filling the pulpit for Reverend. Conner, who was ill.

A good many from Klemme attended the Rodeo at Bayside last week. It was reported quite good. Round-Ups and Rodeos are becoming quite a thing this year. A good many towns are staging them and they seem to be taking well. Eagle Grove is making big preparations for a Round-Up to be held September 4, and continuing four days.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Keraus, C. G. Waterman and family and R. A. Jorgenson and family left Sunday morning for the Black Hills. They will come back by way of Minnesota and will stop for a few days fishing.

Mrs. R. W. Elder entertained the W. F. M. S. last Thursday afternoon.

The Bailey family intend to leave this week for the Methodist Camp Meeting at Okoboji.

Ed. Jacobs was a business caller at Mason City, Wednesday morning.

Mrs. W. F. Pavey and children are visiting at the home of her folks at McGregor this week.

Rev. Gauger and family spent Sunday afternoon visiting relatives at Rudd.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. White were Mason City callers Wednesday.

Mrs. R. A. McConn was over from Clear Lake Friday calling on Klemme friends. She has resigned her position at the Wellemeyer store and has accepted a position at Clear Lake as the assistant to the Superintendent of Schools. The community will greatly miss Mrs. McConn at the store, but wish her much success in her new work.

LEGION MEETING

All American Legion men, their mothers, wives and sisters are urged to be present at a meeting at the American Legion rooms on Tuesday, August 11th, for the purpose of organizing an American Legion Auxiliary.

The Fire Company was called out Saturday noon, when it was reported that Chris Gram's house was on fire. Smoke was pouring out of the doors and windows, and the fire, when found was in a couch in the living room. The couch was carried outside and the fire extinguished. No other damage was done.

Last week Belmond celebrated their annual "Homecoming Day" As a special feature The Belmond Independent printed a special 32 page historical edition. The paper contained the history of the town from its early settlement with accounts of the interesting people and many pictures of pioneer and modern Belmond. The paper is very interesting and the editor is to be complimented.

NEWS OF GOODELL AND VICINITY

Geogre Luick's are enjoying a visit from relatives.

Mrs. Walter Newberger visited at the Geo. Griggs home Saturday.

Mrs. Allie's sister of Rowan is very ill at the Allie home.

Mr. and Mr. George Gosnold of Fort Dodge spent Tuesday evening in Godell.

Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson and family of Iowa Falls visited at the L. W. Sherwood home Sunday.

Everyone enjoyed the U. B. S. S. picnic at West Lake Wednesday. About 150 people were present.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Cook and families enpoyed a picnic at Bayside, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lamer enjoyed a visit from a nephew and family of Clear Lake Saturday. They were enroute to Fort Dodge.

"Speck" Houghton drove to Cedar Rapids Sunday. His mother returned with him, after spending a week with her brother.

Lela Griggs went to Mason City with her grandparents to visit her uncle in the Mercy Hospital .

The U. B. Ladies Aid held an Ice Cream social and food sale Saturday evening. They realized quite a large sum of money.

Rev. D. W. Thompson was able to preach a good sermon at the U. B. church Sunday after a long illness.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Peters returned home Monday from Iowa City where Mr. Peters was taking a summer course.

Threshing is on "full swing" now and seems to be getting along fine.

Lew Wilson who is working in Mason City spent Sunday with home folks.

"Did my new baby brother come from heaven, mamma?"

"Yes, dear."

"And dressed just like he is now?"

"Yes, dear."

"No wonder they put him out."

BAN PUT ON STREET DANCING

Thec ity council of Clear Lake recently published a decree prohibiting street dancing. The notice came one evening a short time ago when a large crowd had gathered to enjoy the sport, and great indignation was manifested by the business men of the city at the new ordinance as well as the disappointed young folks.

At night after the evening meal is the "Wright hour". Then read aloud to the family latest and best story, "A Son of His Father". Several hundred thousand families are doing this within a week after publication. Be one of them. $2.00 a copy at all booksellers. D. Appleton & Company, Publishers, 35 West 32nd Street, New York.

Harold Bell Wright's

RUPTURE

EXPERT HERE

F. H. Seeley, of Chicago and Philadephia the noted truss expert will will personally be at the Hanford Hotel and will remain in Mason City. This Friday only Aug. 14. Mr. Seeley says: "The Spermatic Shield will not only retain the rupture perfectly but contracts the opening i n10 days on the average case Being a vast advancement over all former methods— exemflifying instantaneous effects immediately appreciable and withstanding any strain or position no matter the size or location. Large or difficult cases or Inicssional ruptures (following operations) specially solicited. This instrument received the only award in England and Spain producing results without surgery injections medical treatments or prescriptions. Warning— all cases should be cautioned against the use of any elastic or web truss with understraps as same rest where the lump is and not where the opening is producing complications necessitating surgical operations. Mr. Seeley has documents from the United States Government Washington, D. C. for inspection. He will be glad to demonstrate without charge or fit them if desired. Business demand prevents stopping at any other place in this section.

P. S.— Every statement in this notice has been verified before the Federal and State Courts.: F. H. Seeley. Home office 117 N. Dearborn St. Chicago.

Are You Losing Money?

A new Cream Separator is an Investment that soon pays for itself

How about your old separator? Is it costing you more than the price of a new one to operate it? It takes a very small percentage of butterfat in the skimmilk, day in and day out, to make a vast loss in your cream checks. The money you would save, through clean skimming, with a new separator would pay for the new machine in a short time.

DE LAVAL AND MELOTTE CREAM SEPARATORS

We handle two very good makes of separators, the De-Laval and the Melotte. Both are noted for their clean skimming and ease of running. You can get either make in several different sizes. See them on our floor. We will be glad to show them to you and tell you of their many good points. INCREASE YOUR CREAM CHECKS THROUGH INCREASED EFFICIENCY.

MILK UTENSILS AND SEPARATOR OIL

We carry of full line of Milk Cans and Milk Pails, Strainers etc. Different sizes and prices.

We sell DE LAVAL CLARIFIED SEPARATOR OIL, a high grade oil for any make separator.

E. F. Jacobs

For Threshing Dinners--lunches

We are well prepared to take care of your needs during the busy season of Harvest and Threshing and when planning your dinners and lunches you can feel assured that you will find we carry a full supply of meats especially suited for large dinners:—

Roasts

During harvest we will have plenty of nice tender roasts at all times—Beef Roasts, Pork Roasts and Veal Roasts.

Fine Cheese

A complete line of fresh cheese on hand for lunches:—PIMENTO, 2 kinds of American CREAM, 2 kinds Meadowgrove BRICK, and LIMBLRGER.

OTHER ITEMS for your lunch—Pickles, Olives, Ketchup, etc.

Klemme Meat Market

5000 People

At GARNER

TUESDAY, AUGUST 11th

Follow The Crowd to the Annual American Legion

Celebration

Don't Miss It

SEE DARE DEVIL REYNOLDS IN TWO BALOON ASCENSIONS; 5 PARA CHUTE DROPS

THE BABE LANEAL CO. (Four People in Free Street Acts.)

BALL GAME— HANCOCK- WINNEBAGO LEAGUE TEAMS: GARNES - WODEN.

FREE LEMONADE AND COFFEE AT NOON.

BIG PAVEMENT DANCE IN EVENING— MUSIC BY DUNCAN BAND.

MERRY-GO-ROUND.

GRAND LEGION DANCE IN OPERA HOUSE WILL CLOSE THE DAY.

Come---Spend the Day in Garner

Plenty of fun and amusement going on all the time. Bring the family and a picnic dinner and we will do our best to entertain you and treat you right.

BRYAN AT REST IN ARLINGTON

Country Pays Final Honors to Distinguished Citizen.

Washington.—Order of funeral services for William Jennings Bryan in the New York Avenue Presbyterian church:

"Lead, Kindly Light," mixed quartet.

"One Sweetly Solemn Thought," quartet.

Reading Presbyterian services for dead by Rev. Dr. John R. Sizoo, pastor New York Avenue Presbyterian church.

Twenty-third Psalm, read by Doctor Sizoo.

Invocation by pastor; Lord's Prayer, congregation.

Ninetieth Psalm, by Doctor Sizoo.

Reading of Fourteenth chapter of the Gospel of St. John.

Pastoral prayer.

Hymn, "Faith of Our Fathers."

Funeral address, Doctor Sizoo.

Benediction.

Chopin's Funeral March.

At Arlington National cemetery:

Funeral train met by military escort, band of Third cavalry, dismounted, and Batteries A, B and C, Sixteenth Field artillery, dismounted, which led way to grave.

Reading from the Presbyterian burial service, Doctor Sizoo.

Benediction.

"Taps."

Soft Rain Falls on Grave.

Washington.—Through a soft rain, under significantly gray skies, the body of a crusader, not for war but for peace, was taken from the church on New York avenue here to Arlington National cemetery, and simply, tenderly returned to its native earth.

He was buried as he had lived, plainly, unostentatiously. And those who mourned him, those who followed him to the grave, were of the masses that had followed him throughout his career and given to him a fealty and a love seldom bestowed upon an American leader.

When the funeral train which had borne him from Dayton, Tenn., where he died, reached the Union station it found a reverent throng in waiting.

The bronze casket was taken from the station to an undertaker's parlors, but later it was removed to the New York Avenue Presbyterian church where the body lay in state until shortly before the funeral services.

An hour before the scheduled arrival of the funeral party crowds began to gather in silent tribute at the station, as they had in every hamlet and city throughout the long route of the train through Tennessee and Virginia.

At the church here the bronze casket, the lower half covered by an American flag, was placed upon a slightly raised platform in front of the pulpit, where thousands passed to view his body.

The funeral services at the church were conducted by Rev. Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, the pastor, who returned here from his vacation in New York state.

It was estimated that 2,000 persons an hour passed the casket during the afternoon, but this number was greatly augmented when the government offices disgorged their thousands of employees after 4:30 o'clock.

Down the right aisle the people passed. Up the left aisle they went out, some dabbing handkerchiefs to eyes, others slipping into rear seats now and then to bow in prayer.

In front of the lectern and in the choir loft at the rear were the microphones through which the nation heard the eulogy and sermon of Rev. Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, pastor of the church, the only one who spoke.

The doors of the church were swung open again at nine o'clock in the morning, and the body lay in state to the public from that hour until noon, when the doors closed again and the church made ready for the services, which began at three o'clock.

When the service was over, the body was placed in a hearse instead of a military caisson, and the procession started for Arlington. Mrs. Bryan objected to a full military funeral, and the use of a caisson would have necessitated a detail from Fort Myer. An escort of noncommissioned officers from the regular army accompanied the casket from the gate to the graveside.

No volley was fired over the grave, but the service at the cemetery concluded with a soldier's farewell, in the blowing of taps by an army bugler. Because of his leadership of a Nebraska volunteer regiment at the time of the Spanish-American war, the great Commoner was entitled to full regimental burial honors, but Mrs. Bryan would agree only to a semi-military service in the cemetery.

The active pallbearers were former Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels, Senator Duncan U. Fletcher of Florida, Col. P. H. Callahan of Louisville, Charles A. Lord of Lincoln, Neb.; M. F. Dunlap of Jacksonville, Ill., and State Senator Charles E. Hull of Salem, Ill.

Report Lyautey Will Quit

Paris.—The government newspaper, the Paris Soir, announces that Marshal Lyautey, high commissioner in Morocco, will be succeeded by Albert Sarraut, who is now ambassador to Turkey.

Four States Shaken

Kansas City, Mo.—Earth tremors of low intensity were felt in Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico. It is not thought any great damage was done.

PATRICK HOLDS JOB

Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick is to remain as chief of the army air service for another four years, according to the decision of the War department.

DEBT DISCUSSION BROUGHT TO END

French and British Are Unable to Agree.

Paris.—The French debt funding negotiations with London were broken off after four days of discussion.

The British asked the French government to make a temporary agreement for three or four years under which France would pay £5,000,000 ($25.000,000) annually until the French capacity to pay is known, but Joseph Caillaux flatly refused.

The breakdown in the negotiations certainly will have some effect on the funding negotiations in Washington, which are based on the London agreement.

The negotiations with London may not be resumed until next year.

Nation May Acquire New Warfare Weapon

Washington.—The Navy department has afforded facilities to Dr. Edwin R. Scott of San Francisco for carrying out experiments with an arrangement reported as promising a new method for warfare.

The department indicated the experimenting involved the use of ultra-violet rays.

Doctor Scott was quoted as saying: "It will set fire to dead trees, burn holes through two inches of steel a mile distant, and there is no doubt at all but that this stroke could be sent in any desired direction for 20 miles."

Sensational Raid on Leading Chicago Hotel

Chicago.—Frank Blair Rodkey, a clerk in the Drake hotel, was killed, two bandits were shot dead, a third was captured, two others escaped, $10,000 was seized, and a throng of bystanders were thrown into panic when a robber crew, masked and bristling with shotguns and pistols, perpetrated an amazing daylight assault on the Drake hotel.

New Canadian Grain Law Now Effective

Montreal, Que.—A proclamation issued in the Canada Gazette brings into force the new Canadian grain act. There are numerous changes in regard to the operation of elevators and in grading and weighing of grain, the government being given power to put all the terminal elevators under one commission.

American Miners Will Stand by Britishers

London.—In reply to an appeal telegraphed to the American mine workers by Frank Hodges, secretary of the British Miners' union, the American miners cabled their promise of solidarity in the threatened strike of British miners and promised to carry out any action which the International federation desired.

Shipping Board Can Sell Vessels to Ford

Washington.—The shipping board was advised by Attorney General Sargent that it has authority to sell 200 vessels for scrapping to Henry Ford as recommended by President Palmer of the Fleet corporation.

Mr. Ford has offered $1,706,000 for the lot.

No Truth in Rumor Mellon Will Resign

New York. — Secretary Mellon, spending the summer at Southampton, L. I., announced through his private secretary that there was no truth in the published report that he was contemplating resigning his post in the cabinet.

Greb Knocks Out Bryant

Tulsa, Okla.—Harry Greb of Pittsburgh, world's middleweight champion, disposed of Otis Bryant of Chicago in the third round of a scehuled ten-round bout here.

Klan Pays Honor to Bryan

Dayton, Ohio.—Members of the Ku Klux klan of this and surrounding cities held a memorial service and cross-burning for William Jennings Bryan near here. All attending klansmen were robed.

TAX SLASH OF MANY MILLIONS

Congressman Madden Tells of Reductions to Be Made.

Swampscott.—That finances of the government are in condition to permit the next congress to effect a tax slash of at least $350,000,000 was the assurance given the country by Representative Madden of Illinois, chairman of the appropriations committee, following a long conference with President Coolidge.

The program backed by Madden includes:

Cutting of maximum surtax to 20 per cent.

Abolishing of inheritance and gift taxes.

Reduction of all the lower brackets, possibly to as low as 1 per cent on incomes of $5,000.

Abolishing the nuisance taxes, including theater and movie taxes and club dues.

Madden said he has figures showing that the treasury surplus will be at least $373,000,000. If the government's receipts continue to grow, and governmental economy is practiced wherever posssible, the tax slash will exceed $350,000,000, he said.

"All the foreign nations can afford to pay their debts," Mr. Madden added, "and we expect them to pay.

"My observations abroad convinced me that England, which is already paying her debt, is in worse shape than any of the other allied nations. Her coal exports have fallen off 75 per cent. She has 1,500,000 people idle. She is buying from France the fabrics she formerly sold to France. And her tax rate is the highest.

"France is busy. Belgium is able to pay and will pay. All the countries could pay without difficulty if they would abolish their wasteful expenditures."

Mr. Madden said the $169,000,000 war debt payment being made to this country annually by England, and the war payments to come from other countries, should be applied to decrease the national debts. He added that the government's surplus from current income each year should be applied to tax reduction.

No Plans Being Made to Seize Coal Mines

Swampscott, Mass.—President Coolidge knows of no plans worked out by the bureau of mines or any other government agency contemplating seizure of anthracite mines in event that operators and miners fail to agree on a wage scale and operations in the hard coal fields are suspended on September 1.

It is the opinion of President Coolidge that there is no authority on the part of the government to seize mines except the extreme authority of protecting the government and the public.

Last of French Troops Leave German Territory

Berlin.—The excavation of the Ruhr by the French was completed. After two years of occupation, the last French soldier left the industrial heart of Germany and the official occupation came to an end. A parade of troops at Essen was the last official act.

When the last tri-color over French headquarters came down, the symbol that French rule was ended, the population went wild with joy.

Thousands of Germans Expelled From Poland

Schneidemuhl, Germany. — Heart-rending scenes were witnessed here in the great camp established to receive the thousands of Germans Poland has ordered to cross her borders back into their homeland, because in the Upper Silesian plebiscite of 1920 they favored retention of the territory by Germany.

It is said that at least 50,000 Germans have been deported.

British Labor Party Loses Fight in House

London.—Unemployment insurance was passed by the house of commons after a Labor motion to reject the bill was defeated by a vote of 263 to 98. The Labor party strongly opposed amendment and declared it would deprived 70,000 unemployed persons of benefits they would otherwise receive.

Agreement Reached in British Coal Crisis

London.—British coal miners called off their general strike. The walkout was averted when Premier Stanley Baldwin promised "subvention" to the mines, thereby enabling the owners to continue their existing wage agreements for another nine months.

Do Fancy Shooting

New York.—Thirteen hits out of one hundred rounds were recorded by the three-inch antiaircraft guns in the test at Fort Tilden, N. J. Brig. Gen. Johnson Hatgood described the result as excellent.

Mission Again Raided

New York.—According to dispatches, another raid has been perpetrated on an American mission at Granada, Nicaragua, the second within two weeks.

CUBAN ATTACHE

Gustavo M. Torroella, new naval attache of the Cuban embassy at Washington.

U. S. GOVERNMENT MARKET QUOTATIONS

Washington.—For the week ending July 24.—FRUITS AND VEGETABLES—Kansas and Missouri sacked cobbler potatoes, $2.25@2.50 per 100 pounds. Iowa yellow onions ranged $4.50@5.50 in the Middle West. Imperial valley (California) salmon tint cantaloupes, $1.25@2.00; er standard 45's in consuming centers. Georgia Elberta peaches, $2.00@3.00 per bushel basket.

GRAIN—Quoted July 24: No. 1 dark northern wheat: Minneapolis, $1.57@1.77. No. 2 red winter wheat: Chicago, $1.55½@1.57; St. Louis, $1.60@1.62; Kansas City, $1.60@1.62. No. 2 hard winter wheat: Chicago, $1.50@1.55; St. Louis, $1.52½@1.55; Kansas City, $1.54@1.60. No. 2 mixed corn: Chicago, $1.05@1.07½; Kansas City, $1.04. No. 2 yellow corn: Chicago, $1.10; St. Louis, $1.10½; Kansas City, $1.10½. No. 2 white corn: Chicago, $1.05½@1.07½; St. Louis, $1.08. No. 3 white oats: Chicago, 42½@44½c; St. Louis, 45½c. No. 2 white oats: Kansas City, 46c.

HAY—Quoted July 24: No. 1 timothy: Chicago, $25.00; St. Louis, $25.50; Kansas City, $15.50. No. 1 alfalfa: Kansas City, $18.50; Omaha, $16.75. No. 1 prairie: Kansas City, $11.50; Omaha, $12.25; Chicago, $18.00; St. Louis, 16.50; Minneapolis, 16.00.

DAIRY PRODUCTS—Closing prices on 92-score butter: New York, 44c; Chicago, 43c. Wholesale prices on Wisconsin primary cheese markets July 23: Twins, 21½c; single daisies, 22c; double daisies, 21¾c; longhorns, 22¼c.

LIVE STOCK—Chicago hog prices closed at $14.50 for top, $13.00@14.20 for bulk. Medium and good beef steers, $8.00@13.75; butcher cows and heifers, $3.75@13.25; feeder steers, $5.50@8.25; light and medium weight veal calves, $9.25@12.00. Fat lambs, $13.50@15.65; feeding lambs, $13.25@14.75; yearlings, $10.00@13.50; fat ewes, $4.75@8.50.

To End Smuggling of Liquor Over Borders

Washinton.—In pursuance of the new policy of the administration in killing off liquor as an industry, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lincoln C. Andrews is devoting most of his attention just now to strengthening the barriers at the northern and southern borders of the country.

It is the plan of the federal authorities to build up a working patrol of prohibition forces at the borders to co-operate with agents working in the interior so that any shipments that slip through may be traced to their destination.

Arrangements Made to Ratify Chinese Treaty

Washington.—Arrangements are being made at the State department for the formal exchange of ratifications of the nine-power treaty relating to China, which was signed at the time of the Washington arms conference.

The treaty provides for a commission to revise Chinese customs to provide a 5 per cent ad valorem duty on imports.

Klan Abandons Idea of Parade at Washington

Washington.—The much advertised Ku Klux klan parade, which was expected to attract thousands of klansmen to Washington on August 8, will not be held. Factional fights within the organization are responsible for the change.

LaFollette Candidate to Succeed His Father

Madison, Wis.—Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., thirty years old, son of the late senior senator from Wisconsin, definitely entered the race to succeed his father with the simple announcement: "I am a candidate for United States senator. In a short time I shall issue a complete statement."

Doctors Lose Licenses

New Haven, Conn.—Revocation of the practice certificates of 68 eclectic physicians by the state board of health at the instance of a special grand jury was upheld by the Supreme Court of Errors.

Canada to Pay Big Sum

Toronto.—Canada will pay $20,000,000 of obligations totaling $90,000,000 that mature in New York in September, it was announced. The balance will be taken care of by refinancing.

.. Hawkeye .. State News

Interesting Items Gathered From all Parts of Iowa

Enlargements costing $8,000 are planned for the college for blind at Vinton.

After a lapse of twelve to fifteen years Conrad again is in the list of creamery towns.

A $200,000 church edifice is contemplated by St. Paul's English Lutheran church of Davenport.

A total of 1,800 resident fishing licenses have been taken out by Dickinson county people since July 1st.

The Fort Dodge Transportation company has incorporated for $50,000 to establish city wide bus transportation.

War has been declared on the ground hogs of Lucas county by the county farm bureau and board of supervisors.

Ten banks in Iowa which were closed last year have been reopened since Jan. 1st, by report of L. A. Andrews, state superintendent of banking.

Des Moines Sunday school institute will hold its fifteenth annual session for the training of church school teachers Sept. 22, for two semesters of twelve weeks each.

Interurban railways of the state are seeking reductions in tax valuations on the grounds that they have sustained heavy losses in income due to bus and private automobile competition.

Storm Lake voters decisively defeated the proposition of the Service Star Legion for the issuance of $7,500 bonds for a memorial monument for the Gold Star boys of Buena Vista county.

Statistics show that Iowa folk are spending each year $400,000,000 on motor car expenses while the corn crop of the state is valued only at $270,000,000, leaving a deficit of $130,000,000.

Des Moines ranks well up with cities of similar size in building operations. For the three year period, 1922 to 1924, the city had 6,831 building projects with a total valuation of $30,918,285.

Reports on the gasoline tax collected show that motorists in the state are spending $1,000,000 a week for gasoline. They show that Iowa is traveling 410,000,000 miles a week 90 per cent of which is over dirt.

Six delegates from Iowa to the National Recreation congress, under the auspices of the Playground and Recreation association of America, Oct. 5 to 10, in Asheville, N. C. have been appointed by Gov. John Hammill.

Seven twenty-one-passenger sedan motor busses have been shipped for use of the Fort Dodge, Des Moines & Southern Transportation company between Des Moines and Boone and between Boone and Webster City.

The Iowa Good roads association advocates that 53 per cent of the primary roads be paved. This would give a mileage of 152,452,896 miles of hard surfaced roads. The remaining 47 per cent of the system should be graveled.

An increase in the number of residences and a decrease of one in the number of non-residential structures built, is shown in the 1,218 building permits issued in Des Moines during the first six months of this year. The permits represent $4,007,025 in expenditures.

A general reduction of property valuations in Iowa for taxation purposes probably will be made by the state executive council, affecting alike all classes of property. This is the forecast of those who have been in close touch with the valuation hearings conducted by the council.

A survey of Iowa streams preliminary to an anti-pollution campaign has been started by the state board of health. Three sanitary engineers with field test equipment have been assigned to the work the Iowa and Cedar river watershed territory being the first to engage their attention.

The Iowa bonus board has about three month's work yet ahead before they will be able to reach a decision regarding the use of the surplus funds for disabled veterans. There are still 1,443 claims to be adjusted. The board has paid 102,104 claims, disapproved 2,887 and 204 have been cancelled.

Iowa farm women saved $263,678.25 in 1924 as a result of home economics extention projects, figures collected from county agents and home demonstration agents show. The amounts saved in the various projects are: Canned meats, fruits and vegetables, $9,204.25; making dress forms, $34,164; dresses and coats, $179,296; undergarments, $8,354; hats, $25,750; fireless cookers, $2,950, and rugs, $3,960.

The much-mooted question as to whether or not school board can prohibit from attending schools pupils who have not complied with an order requiring vaccination, will be before the Iowa supreme court this fall on appeal from Worth county.

Sixteen per cent of the farm homes in Iowa have radio receiving sets, according to the results of a special inquiry made by the combined federal and state weather and crop reporting bureaus. The report shows an estimated total of 33,597 farm-owned radio sets in the state as of May 1, this year.

The AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

LEADS IN MAKING GOOD AMERICANS

Although Frank Clay Cross, new director of the national Americanism commission of the American Legion, has spent much of his life, as he says, "above the clouds," far up the sides of Colorado mountains just at the timber line, he measures up to a family tradition of grasping the facts of life as they are and fighting to mold them into something better.

It is the pioneer spirit, a spirit that goes out into the wilderness and hews from dense forests homes and cities and states, a spirit that conquers plains and mountains and, the physical side subdued, moves on to wrestle mightily with the finer, the spiritual things.

Frank Cross's family has been a family of fighting pioneers for generations, always on the frontier of civilization. His forebears came to America before the Revolution. His great-grandfather was a pioneer settler in Marion county, Indiana, where national headquarters of the Legion is located. The family trekked across country with the covered wagon. From Indiana they moved into Iowa when that state was opening up. Then to Kansas and to Colorado, while the buffalo were still on the plains and Indian bands roamed the country. "In coming to Indianapolis," he says, "I am the first of the tribe to back track and hit the trail for the East."

He had laid a precedent in some sort for that, when he hit the trail for overseas and the battlefields of France when there was work that needed much to be done over there. Ancestors of his had fought in every one of the nation's wars. His entire family—his father, two brothers and himself—volunteered in '17. A younger brother, Charles, lost his life in France.

Frank Cross put in 13 months in France. He was on detached service with the British north of Calais, looking after American troops who came across the channel from England. Then he was sent down to Tours with the French, where he handled all shipments out of that city. He was discharged in Wyoming in July, 1919.

Frank Clay Cross.

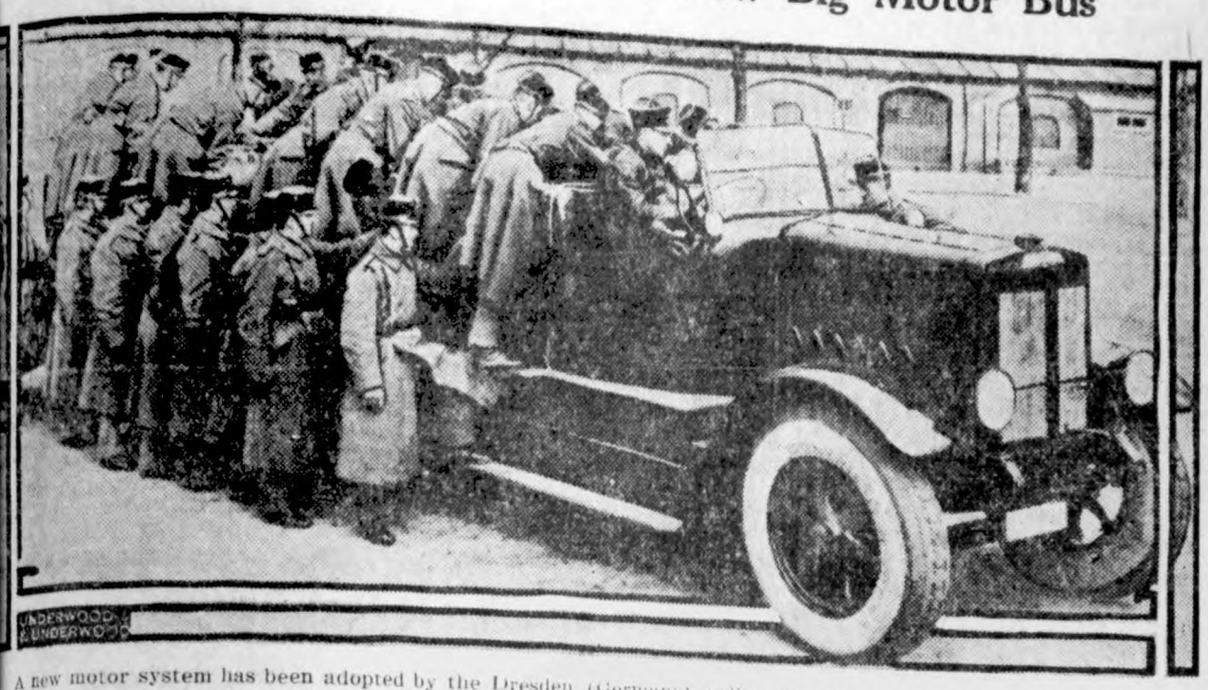
He became assistant chemist with an oil company for about a year. In the interval he married Miss Helen M. Fry, a former schoolmate at the University of Denver. She was of a family of teachers and Cross' thoughts turned to that profession. He went back for more schooling—economics, sociology and political science—and then became superintendent of a consolidated school. In 1923 he became head of the department of economics at the Colorado School of Mines.

He also became a lecturer at the Denver "opportunity school." That was a turning point for him, the thing which led directly to his appointment as director of the Americanism commission. He gave lectures of advice, inspiration, information. He touched on anything which would be generally helpful to the foreign-born seeking to become American citizens and to play their part as such. He had two thoughts in mind. One was to give all the information necessary to pass the naturalization examination. The other was to give them an understanding and appreciation of America, what the country stands for, of its history, its institutions, its customs, its ideals, its aspirations—and to inspire them to live good American citizens. "Just better citizenship" is the way he sums it up.

Helping to make out the questions for teacher examinations in the Colorado schools, the new director found out that many of the teachers, especially in outlying districts, knew "no more than a kid ought to know" about the fundamentals of Americanism. So he organized an Americanism section in the State Education association. He also formed the Allied Council for Americanism Committees, embracing the various patriotic societies of the state.

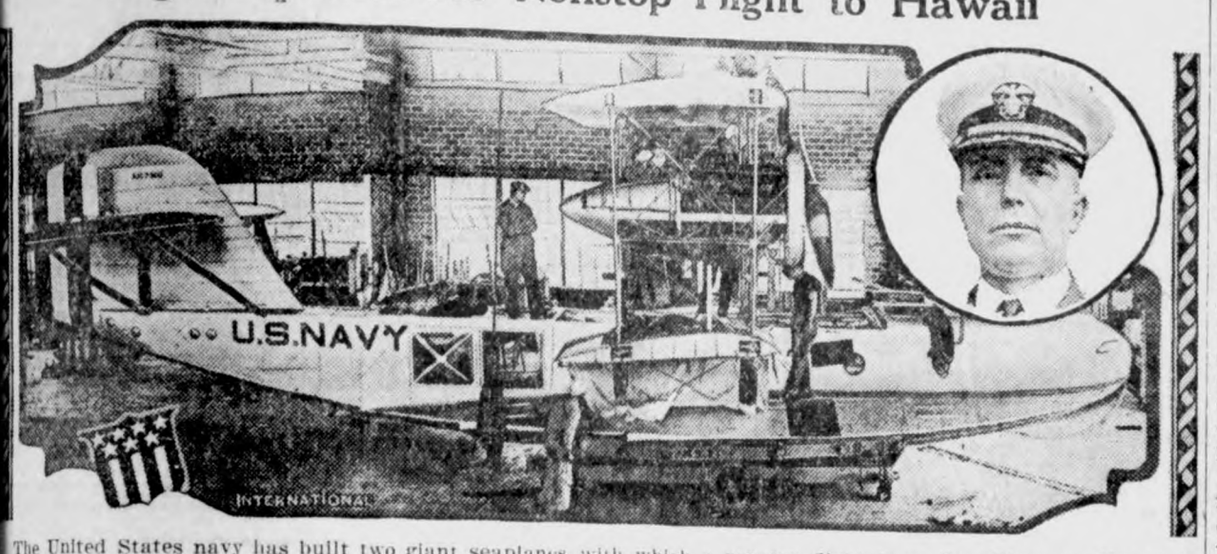
Meantime John C. Vivian, commander of the Colorado department of the Legion, had seen his work and invited him to become chairman of the state Americanism committee. From this position he was advanced by the national executive committee to the directorship of the National Americanism commission, where he goes on pioneering (as his fathers had done for years before him), not with dreams and velleities but with a practicality that goes to the heart of the problem, for a better America.

Dresden Police Now Have a New Big Motor Bus



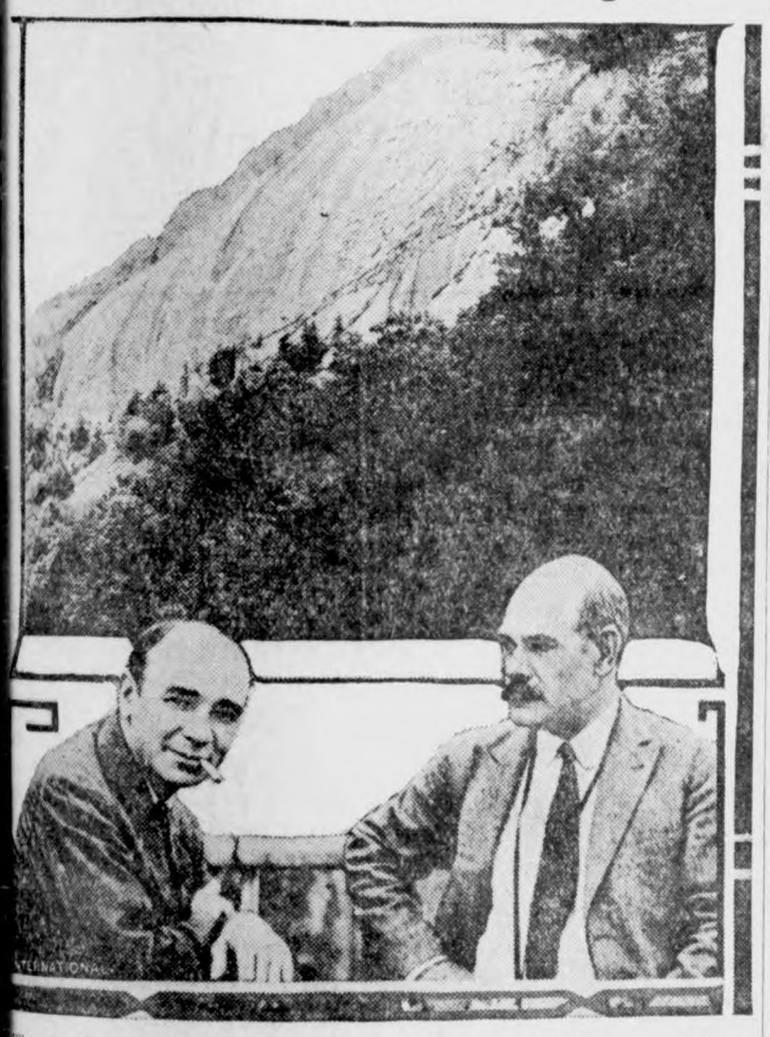
A new motor system has been adopted by the Dresden (Germany) police department to assist in speeding the officers to scenes of disturbances. A bus capable of carrying 32 men is used. It has six wheels instead of the usual four, a powerful motor, balloon tires and a four-wheel drive.

Big Seaplanes for Nonstop Flight to Hawaii



The United States navy has built two giant seaplanes with which a nonstop flight from San Diego to Honolulu will be made in 24 hours if expectations are realized. Each plane with crew of four and supply of oil weighs 19,000 pounds. The illustration shows workmen putting the wings on one of the seaplanes, and Commander John Rodgers, in charge of the flight.

New Memorial Site for Borglum



The great granite cliff overlooking Chimney Rock gorge, near Raleigh, on which Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor, proposes to carve a memorial to the Confederacy for the state of North Carolina. Below are Mr. Borglum and Ugo Villa (left), one of his associates, looking over the site.

Syracuse and Los Angeles Beauties

Seated is Miss Fern Jackson, who has been selected as "Miss Syracuse" for Atlantic City beauty pageant. Standing is Miss Adrienne Dore, chosen to represent Los Angeles in the national contest.

FORGOT WHO HE WAS

John H. Neubert of Flint, Mich., who has just regained his identity after five years. He suffered a stroke of epilepsy five years ago, and went to the University hospital at Ann Arbor, Mich., for treatment. After partly recovering he came to New York, having suffered a lapse of memory. He registered at the Seamen's Christian Association home in West street and lived there for a long time until finally he asked the police to find out who he was.

TOLD KIDNAPING TALE

Mrs. Virginia Lee Cookson, photographed at Calexico, Cal., soon after she had told a weird story of her experience at the hands of supposed kidnapers. She disappeared from Los Angeles and was thought to have been murdered, but she says she was kidnaped and taken into the underground world below the Mexican border.

ROAD BUILDING

BETTER HIGHWAYS AID TO BUSINESS

The business value of getting people into their stores is appreciated by all merchants. That is the purpose for which they advertise. Once a prospective customer is inside a store there is opportunity for a sale. A merchant may have a good line of merchandise, his prices may be reasonable, and his display may be attractive; but the people must be provided with a good road to his store or they will not come there. The residents of a city will not make the fullest use of their streets if they are muddy or dusty, and the merchants will not enjoy the trade they should have if their prospective customers cannot find good roads to their stores.

Any street in any community can be made attractive by the simple expedient of paving it properly, and it is to the advantage of every taxpayer to help highway officials or the town council put through improved highway and street improvement programs. People who own business or residence property are learning every day that civic improvements that call for the proper paving of streets are the best kind of investments—investments that pay sure dividends.

The well-paved street is worth money to every merchant on it, as well as being highly convenient for shoppers. A well-paved business street will impel customers to the door, with consequent increase in business as the opportunity is offered customers to make their purchases without the inconvenience of muddy, dirty, dusty pavements.

Clean, pleasant, healthful surroundings are most desirable in any residence district. This condition is provided in a well-paved street, besides making it safer for children as well as for the motorist. Property values go up where a well-paved street replaces a rutted, impassable thoroughfare. Cities are judged very largely by the attractiveness of their streets. Strangers looking about for locations are quick to judge the business and social standards of the community by its thoroughfares, particularly the residence streets. Visitors in a well-paved city will instantly sense the progressive spirit of the place, they will long remember the orderly influence of business and residence sections, and they will carry the story of its clean, charming streets back to their homes.

Public improvements of any kind cost less in the long run where they are made as nearly permanent as possible. The first cost of permanent paving is no more than inefficient types, and their maintenance is either minimized, or entirely eliminated. Consequently the type that pays dividends to any community is the permanent, durable, sanitary, fire-safe type.

Other advantages of paved streets are found in fire and health protection. Good paving on streets and alleys is one of the prime essentials to fire protection. Fire hazard is greatly reduced if even, clean, skid-proof thoroughfares are in every section of the town so that any point can be reached quickly and easily by the fire department. Health is a by-product of cleanliness. Health officers insist that sanitation as reflected in the conditions of the streets and alleys has a direct bearing upon the general health of the city's inhabitants. Hence, a street that is well paved will be easily cleaned, and will be free from ruts and holes that breed filth.

Roadway Will Run to Old French Fort Toulouse

Plans are under way for the building of a highway to the old French Fort Toulouse, which was an Indian town nearly 400 years ago.

Fort Toulouse is in Elmore county, near Montgomery, Ala., a short distance from one of the principal highways leading into the city, and it is the intention of historical experts to make this point available to tourists.

The plan was launched by Peter A. Brannon, curator of the Alabama Department of Archives and History. It was only recently that a marker was placed at old Pole Cat Springs, 30 miles from Montgomery, where Lafayette spent the night on his way to Montgomery.

Fort Toulouse is rich in history. A granite shaft has been placed there to commemorate the old French outpost of 1714, which is a miniature replica of the shaft erected to General Montgomery on the plains of Abraham, at Quebec. The old French cemetery is at Fort Toulouse, and here some of Jackson's men were buried, the place becoming known as Fort Jackson. The treaty of 1814 by which the Indians ceded all their lands south of Fort Jackson to the United States was signed there.

New Jersey Roads

With the completion of its construction program for this year, the New Jersey state highway commission will have added 100 miles of improved roads to the state's system. The board has now under contract 66 miles to be paved this summer and awards of work to be made shortly will increase this total to 100.

New Jersey now has 840 miles of state highway routes and 494 of these miles have been completed with a hard-surfaced pavement.

Possible to Have Too Many "Irons in Fire"

If this ever comes to the knowledge of your young friend in the outer office, he probably will urge that I pay more attention to my own business and less to his. And, in a general way, he will be right. No one ever lost money, time or public esteem by letting the other fellow run his own works. But I like the young friend. And he is toting too big a stick, "J. P." writes in the Kansas City Star.

"How's your pep?" I asked. And he said impatiently that his pep was all right.

"It's gotta be all right," he said. "I've got too many irons in the fire to let down."

As long as I have known the young friend he has had an armful of irons in the fire, and half the time the fire wasn't very hot and he had to spend his spare hours blowing it. He began as an amateur champion in one of the walloping classes. Had a kick in each mit, his little playmates said, and might by this time have been fighting for stakes beyond the dreams of his youthful avarice if he had been content to become a professional man. But no. He must go into business.

"He'll get there, too," his friends say.

Very likely he will, if his wagon does not break down. As long as I've known him he has been the wheelhorse in his office. He was the one who did important tricks on Sundays and holidays, when the rest of the force could not be found by bloodhounds. He was always willing to stay up and get up. If any one had a job too much the young friend took it over. By and by he began to branch out and run businesses on the side—

Of course, he also has indigestion and his color is not what it should be—

There are lots of arguments favoring a modified and conservative laziness. One has a better time and probably lives longer. Of course, the granite tombstone will not be so tall as it would be if one had consistently overloaded all his life.

Earth Fires Cause Alarm

Villagers are alarmed at Pouremue, France, by a natural phenomenon occurring in a ravine close to the railroad of Beziers, where the ground has become so hot that it burns the feet of anybody trying to stand still. Clouds of heavy black smoke are rising from fissures in the rocks, while in some spots a thick, oily substance oozes from cracks in the ground and evaporates as soon as it gets in contact with the air, leaving everything covered with a shiny black, hard coating. The geological formation of the Aveyron district is volcanic in origin, but this appears to be the first sign of subterranean activity since prehistoric times. Scientists are proceeding to the spot to investigate. Pending a report, it is suggested that a stratum of lignite which exists in many parts of Aveyron may have become incandescent.—Family Herald.

Building Smaller Houses

Dwellings planned during the first three months of this year are not as large as those projected during the first quarter of 1924. The difference in size is almost as much as a good-sized living room. Comparison shows that the average area of the first group of 1925 houses is 371 square feet smaller than the dwellings planned during January, February and March of 1924. The conclusions are that more one-family dwellings have been planned during the current year than were planned during the first quarter of last year.

More residential projects have been filed through the country this year than were filed last year. This supports the opinion that the individual house rather than the larger unit is now engaging the attention of the builder.

Poultry Industry Big

Scattered about the farms of the country are about half a billion chickens, or five for every man, woman and child in the land. In the last year there has been an increase of about 10 per cent. The annual egg output of the country is valued at about $600,000,000. The chickens grown for eating are worth annually nearly half a billion dollars. The farms of the country at present are stocked with poultry of all kinds, valued at about $400,000,000. The ambition of the French king to make his country so prosperous that every peasant might have a chicken in the pot once a week has been more than realized in America, says the New York Times.

Caught Eagle in Hands

A story comes from Appleton, Maine, to the effect that when Elden Maddocks and his family, of that town, were on their way to visit friends in Center Montville, Mr. Maddocks caught an eagle with his hands. The eagle was flying very slowly and Mr. Maddocks stopped his car and caught him very easily, as he seemed nearly helpless, for some reason. The eagle's spread was 6 feet 2 inches. He did not appear to be injured externally. Mr. Maddocks took him home to try to bring the bird back to his full strength.—Indianapolis News.

Limit of Hard Luck

The birds sang sweetly, the sun shone brightly, and all was peace. "Hey!" suddenly called the man who paused on the bridge above the little stream, "How's fishing?" The fisherman on the bank sighed and looked up. "Rotten, my friend," he replied. "Do you know what? They aren't even getting away!"

PE-RU-NA FOR STOMACH CATARRH

Few, if any, remedies can equal the value of Pe-ru-na for catarrh of the stomach.

At this season it is estimated that every third person is more or less troubled with this form of catarrh

BE READY

Have the Proper Medicine in the House.

—

Sold Everywhere

Tablets or Liquid

Looks Like Joke on Bernard Shaw

Bernard Shaw is among the celebrities of today who are "hopeless" from the autograph hunter's point of view, who know that it is useless to bring out their little books and ask for his signature. Here, however, is the story of how Lady Swathling's children scored off him when they were young.

Keen autograph hunters, the young Montagus realized that to write to G. B. S. in the ordinary way was hopeless. So they composed a letter, in which they stated that they wished to call their new guinea pig "Bernard Shaw," but they did not like to do so without his permission, for fear he might object. By the next post came a postcard bearing the words: "I object most strongly," and the signature of George Bernard Shaw.—London Daily Chronicle.

Inexplicable

Why do women spend so much money getting just the right curl put in their hair—and then wear these short dresses?—Wesleyan Wasp.

Tactlessly Put

"John, the doctor says I must take a trip." "Go as far as you like, my dear."—Boston Transcript.

Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN

Say "Bayer"-Insist!

For Colds, Headache, Pain, Lumbago, Neuralgia, Rheumatism

Safe — Accept only a Bayer package which contains proven directions

Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets
Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

Mad at Somebody

"So Madam Ruff sings with feeling?" "Oh, yes! Hard feelings, I should say."

Reason Enough

"Why isn't the ocean red?"

"Because in 1492 Columbus sailed the ocean blue."

No man should ask for a friend's candid opinion unless he is prepared for a shock.

Quick Safe Relief CORNS

In one minute—or less—the pain ends. Dr. Scholl's Zino-pad is the safe, sure, healing treatment for corns. At drug and shoe stores.

Dr Scholl's Zino-pads

Put one on - the pain is gone

Cuticura Toilet Trio

Send for Samples

To Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. M, Malden, Mass.

CHOOSE IOWA'S BEST

Des Moines, Special:

Iowa's healthiest babies will be selected at this year's Iowa State Fair from among 700 or more that will be entered in the contest for the $500 in cups and prizes to be awarded. Babies from every part of Iowa will be entered in the contest.

All the babies in the state between 1 and 3 years old are eligible to compete for the prizes. Entries must be made in writing to Secretary A. R. Corey at Des Moines by Aug. 12.

SCHOOL BANDS COMPETE

Des Moines, Special:

Seven hundred dollars in cash prizes has been offered in a state-wide school band contest, to choose the finest school band in Iowa, which will be held at the State Fair here on Friday, August 28th.

A dozen or more of the best musical organizations in the state have been entered in this contest and competition for the championship honors is expected to be unusually keen. The contest will be open to spectators, free of charge.

Three hundred chosen singers, Metropolitan Opera stars as soloists, will stage Mendelssohn's famous religious oratorio "Elijah" as the headline Sunday evening feature at the Iowa State Fair Aug. 30.

A mammoth stage 100 feet long and 60 feet wide, in front of the ampitheater will be used for the production. Wonderful scenic, electrical and costuming effects have been prepared for the oratorio, which will be the greatest musical event ever put on in Iowa. A battery of adiophones will throw the music to all parts of the grandstand.

George Whitehill, star of the Metropolitan and Chicago Opera companies and one of the greatest baritones in the world, will sing the title role of "Elijah". Other famous singers have also been engaged. Thavius' band will play the accompaniment.

Stranger Guessed Well

A captious traveler in northern Arkansas stopped by a fence to criticize a near cornfield, which met his disapproval. "Mighty small corn you have there!" he shouted to the man who was "superintending the growth" from a shady corner.

"Yes," said the Arkansan. "Planted the small kind."

"Looks mighty yellow to me for this time of year."

"Yes. Planted the yellow kind."

"Well," said the traveler, severely, "I can't understand your method of farming. You won't get over half a crop there."

"No," said the Arkansan, cheerfully. "You are shore a good guesser, stranger. Half a crop exactly, that's mine. I planted this on shares."—Kansas City Star.

On Their Behalf

The minister in a little church that used natural gas for illumination announced his text in solemn tones—"Yea, the light of the wicked shall be put out!"

Immediately the church was plunged in total darkness, due to a failure in the supply.

"Brethren," said the minister, with scarcely a moment's pause, "in view of the sudden and startling fulfillment of this prophecy, we will spend a few minutes in silent prayer for the gas company."

Plain Gold Ring

The wedding ring of plain gold, which is a survival of Saxon times, has outlived several attempts at change of fashion.

For instance, at the marriage of Queen Mary of England to Philip of Spain the English statesmen debated the question of the ring and wished to have it jeweled, but Mary herself intervened by declaring that she would not have it set with gems, for she chose to be wedded with a plain hoop of gold like other maidens.—Detroit Free Press.

Jig Jog Jags

AS SPOKE

Only in a certain part of Pennsylvania would one hear the dictionary makers so openly defied as they were when a girl came to the open door of a house and called:

"Katy, you Katy, come on in and eat yourself again still. Ma's on der table now an' pa's half et already yet. Come quick again already!"—Country Gentleman.

PASSING THE BUCK

A Sunday school teacher, after conducted a lesson on the story of "Jacob's Ladder," concluded by saying. "Now is there any little boy or girl who would like to ask a question about the lesson?" Little Susie looked puzzled for a moment and then raised her hand. "A question, Susie " asked the teacher. "I would like to know,' said Susie, "if the angels have wings, why did they have to climb the ladder?" The teacher thought for some moments, and then, looking about the class, asked, "Is there any little boy who would like to answer Susie's question?"—Argonaunt.

SLAVE TO HABIT

"How's that ex-horse doctor who enlisted last week?" asked the artillery captain.

"He's dead sir," answered the top kicker.

"Dead! What did he die of? Heart disease?"

"No, sir. He was out on the target range and couldn't resist the temptation to look into the mouth of a 75 to see how old it was.

METAPHYSICAL EXPLANATION.

He (having just kissed her)—"Ah, That was indeed a triumph of mind over matter!"

She: "Yes, I didn't mind, because you didn't matter."

MODEST

"So you're flirting with young Scrawler Scribbs, the novelist, are you?' said the first pretty girl. "I don't see how you can stand him—such a conceited duffer as he is."

" 'Conceited' " said the other pretty girl. "Conceited your grandmother! Scrawler Scribbs is as modest as a woodland violet. Why, I asked him the other night who was the greatest living novelist in America, and he blushed, and bit his lip and murmured confusedly that it wasn't for him to say."

EASY TO READ

Sam: "Does yo'-all say you' goin' sebenty-fi' miles an hour, man? Huccum yo' knows yo' was goin' dat fas?

George: "Kase when Ah comes to, dar was de speedometer wropped 'round mah neck.' "

AND COLLAR BUTTON

Wife: "Are you the fellah that rescued him?"

"Yes—but that's all right, ma'am.

"All right! Where's his necktie?'

A SHORT CUT TO HEALTH

Doctor—Now take a deep breath and say ninety-nine three times."

The Hustler: Two hundred and ninety-seven.' "

CAN'T BE BOTHERED

'I' suppose," queried the finicky city boarder, "that you hatch all these chickens yourself?' "

"Nope," retorted Farmer Penlid," we keep hens to look after them details."

"How did you get that cut on your forehead?"

"Hic,— musta hic bit myself.

'Gwan. How could you bit your self up there?' '

"Hic—must stood on a chair."

Times Have Changed

Man in primitive days lived so simply that his wants were easily supplied. He did not need to plan ahead and save for the future as does the man of to-day.

Times have changed. If one expects the present day comforts—he must save. No plan is more successful than to have a Savings Account. The First National invites you to open one with them.

First National Bank.
KLEMME. IOWA.

SHOW PRIZE HORSES

The largest and finest showing of pure-bred draft horses ever assembled at any one place in America will be seen at the Iowa State Fair in Des Moines beginning Aug. 26th, according to tabulations just prepared by exposition authorities. Revival of interest in horses for draft purposes has brought a great increase in entries, officials say. The Belgian stallion above, owned by Hazard & Stout of David, Ia., was one of the winners at the Iowa State Fair last summer.

THREE REAL CHAMPIONS

(Copyright by R. R. Doubleday.)

"Expert and daring" leaders in the great sport to which they have brought fame, are the cowgirls from the western ranges who will compete in the Chicago Roundup and World's Championship Rodeo, to be held for nine days beginning August 15. Champions past and present, as well as new seekers after fame, will add thrills to the cowboy contests which will be presented in the new $5,000,000 stadium under the auspices of the Chicago Association of Commerce. A group of these cowgirls startled the staid Britisher when they appeared in the International Championship held by Tex Austin at Wembley, England, recently, and the same champions will compete in the Chicago spectacle. Austin is organizing the Chicago roundup and will manage it, and the $30,000 in prizes is the largest amount offered for any contest this year.

Satisfaction Assured If It Comes From

Mier Wolf & Sons Furniture Co.
NORTH IOWA'S LARGEST FURNITURE STORE

309-11-13 FEDERAL, AVE., SOUTH. MASON CITY, IOWA

August Furniture Sale
ELIMINATES EVERY THOUGHT OF HIGH PRICES--

The Royal Road to Economy---Our August Furniture Sal

LIVING ROOM SUITES AT AUGUST SALE PRICES

BED ROOM SUITES AT AUGUST SALE PRICES

DINING ROOM SUITES AT AUGUST SALE PRICES

BED DAVENPORTS AT AUGUST SALE PRICES

SANICO
The RUST-PROOF PORCELAIN RANGE

25 YEAR GUARANTEE AT AUGUST SALE PRICES

here are Values!

Phone 526

NO ONE CAN DISPUTE FACTS WHEN SALE PRICES ARE AS LOW AS THESE YOU HAVE

The Key to Thrift

SAVE

10% to 50% ON YOUR PURCHASE

TERMS? DISCOUNTS?

WE ARE NOT SELLING TERMS OR DISCOUNTS — BUT WE ARE OFFERING YOU QUALITY FURNITURE AT A LOW PRICE.

Credit If You Want It

THIS IS A GOOD STORE TO KNOW—TO PATRONIZE APPRECIATE

THE KLEMME TIMES

Twenty-ninth Year—Number 49. KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 13, 1925. $1.50 In Advance—$2.00 Outside of County

ONLY TWO MORE WEEKS UNTIL SCHOOL STARTS

KLEMME SCHOOLS TO OPEN ON AUGUST 31, FOR FALL TERM

Board Has Hired a Fine Staff of Teachers

Only two more weeks vacation for pupils of the Klemme Schools! Students now enjoying their third month of summer vacation, will be called back for the opening of another busy school year on Monday, August 31, according to an announcement made by A. D. Gimer, president of the school board.

Everything is being put in readiness for the opening of a very successful year. The school building is now being put in order ond a few necessary repairs being made. The board feel that they have hired a very efficient staff of teachers who will do all in their power to make the school year a sucess.

Following is the teaching staff:

Superintendent— M. F. Penrod, A. B., Latimer, Iowa. Graduate of University of Iowa.

Principal— Pauline Stoner, A. B. South English, Iowa. She has been English teacher at Cornell college.

Domestic Science— Louise Abel, Des Moines, Iowa.

Music— Earl G. Gary, Cushing, Ia., Graduate of University of Iowa.

Seventh and Eighth Grades— Lawson Hockey, Barnes City, He will be the Boy's coach. Has had two years college training.

Fifth and Sixth Grades—Mabel Thompson.

Third and Fourth Grades— Neva Lovrein.

First and Second Grades—Glades Buchan.

Miss Buchann taught here two years ago and was very well liked.

A large number of tuition pupils from the territory around Klemme are expected to enroll in the high school department this year.

Many parents in rural communities have been debating all summer whether they should send their boys and girls, who completed the courses in the small district schools last spring to a high school this fall. One question they ask is, "Will it pay in dollars and cents."

The United States department of agriculture and the various state agricultural colleges have made a number of investigations of the differences between the incomes of educated and uneducated farmers. All these studies show that in the major ity of cass the better trained farmers receive the better incomes.

In three representative areas in Indiana, Illinois, and Iowa tenant farmrs with a high school education receive on average annual labor income of $526 more than the man with the common school education. A college education adds to this overage $453 a year, making the income of a college graduate $ more a year than the labor earnings of the men with only a common school education.

Cornell university has estimated that a high school education is worth as much to a farmer as $6,000 worth of bonds bearing 5 per cent interest, and that a college education is worth twice that amount.

NOTIVE OF THE APPOINTMENT OF ADMINISTRATOR WITH WILL ANNEXED

State of Iowa, Hancock County, ss.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That the undersigned has been duly appointed and qualified as Administrator of the estate of Jacob Blumer deceased, late of Hancock County. All persons indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment; and those having claims against the same will present them, duly authenticated to the undersigned for allowance and file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court.

A. E. Katter.

Ramsay & Blackstone, Attorney.
Dated August 8, 1925. A 27

MONTHLY REPORT OF THE COW TESTING ASSOCIATION

B. H. Katter Has High Producer This Month

The 293 cows on test in the Hancock County No. 3 Cowtesting associotin, during July, produced an aver age of 654.27 pounds milk and 24.8 pounds butterfat. Eleven cows produced over 40 pounds butterfat and five cows produced over 50 pounds. Four cows were found to be unprofitable and were sold for beef. Separatois lost $36.53 to the association.

The two high cows this month were owned by B. H. Katter and Fred Kothenbeutal. "Sunnyside", a purebred holstein, owned by Mr. Katter took high honors by producing 76.1 pounds butterfat from 1,690.3 pounds milk. "Witechin", a grade Guernsey owned by Mr. Kothenbeutal, which has been high cow for some time, took second place, with an average of 59.1 pounds fat from 1230.7 pounlds milk.

Ben Katters seven Purebred Holsteins had the highest average of the association. They produced an 42.1 butterfat and 110.1 74 pounds milk. John Bock had high herd average; eight cows being necessary before herd honor can be given them The following are the three high herds:

John Bock's 11 Grade and Pure Bred Holsteins . Grade Shorthorns and Guernseys produced 858. lbs milk, 33.0 lbs butterfat.

Twelve Grade Guernseys, owned by Fred Kothenbeutal produced, 642.73 pounds milk and 31.86 lbs. fat.

Nine Pure Bred Holsteins and and Grade Shorthorns owned by Victor Huenaman produced 840.44 lbs. milk and 31.55 lbs. fat.

Other High Averages

M. W. Sprole, 10 G. G. produced 750.5 milk; 31.1 fat.

Ben Goll, 7 G. H. & S. Sh. produced 818.84 milk; 30.6 fat

R. W. Elder, 6 G H. & G. Sh. 808. 51 milk, 29.8 fat.

Wm Bell, 13 G. H., G. G., & G. Sh., 735.89 milk and 29.7 fat

L F. Weaver, 7 G. H., 789.9 milk, 29.5, fat.

Verner Haberkamp, 9 G. H. G. G. & G. Sh. 783.25 milk and 28.5, fat

Ridder Bros, 8 G. & P. B. H. 816. 55, 28.1, fat.

E. G. Beier, 10 P. B. H., 830.80 milk, 26.9, fat.

Chas. Haes 7. G H., 785.63 milk 25.7 fat.

Wm. Haberkamp, 20 G. & P. B. H., 776.24, milk and 24. 8 fat.

High Cows

The following are the ten high cows with owner's name, cow's name, breed, pounds milk, and pounds butterfat.

B. H. Katter; "Sunnyside" P. B. H 1690.3; 76.1.

Fred Kothenbeutal. "Whitechin," G. G.; 1230.7 milk, 59.1 fat.

B. H. Katter, "Betty" P. B. H., 1295.8 milk; 53.1 fat.

Fred Kothenbeutal, "Scarecrow," G. G.; 1137.7; 52.3 fat.

John Bock, "Dutch" G. H., 1125.3 milk, 51.7 fat.

Wm. Bell, "Whitefoot" G. H. 1,292.7 milk; 49.1 fat.

Victor Huenamen "Lizzie"', G. Sh. 1243.1 milk; 48.5, fat.

Wm. Bell, "Babe" G. Sh. 716.1, 45. 8 fat.

Wm. Haberkamp, "Duchess" G. H., 1035.4 milk, 44.5 fat.

Verner Haberkamp, "Jersey" G. G. 883.5 milk; 44.1 fat.

Jos. Stritar, Tester.

RADIO A BUSINESS ASSET

Minnesota farmer discussing the radio recently said it made him 20c a hundred on the sale of his stock A stock buyer came to his place and offered him a certain price for his stock. The farmer had just gotten the stock market, over the radio and told the buyer he was 20c too low. He was given a rise of 20c in the price when the buyer saw he was up on market quotations.

KLEMME AND VICINITY HIT BY HAIL STORM SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Much Damage Done to Corn in Some Places

Hail did considerable damage to this community last Saturdoy afternoon. It hailed for several minutes and it was "honest-to-goodness" hail too. The stones were as large as English walnuts.

